Editor's Journal

TOP OF THE DIVIDE by Thomas Giovannitti

It was the night before Christmas and all through the house
Only one person was stirring so the sauce wouldn't burn,
The children were all gathered by the oven with care in hopes
That the ravioli would soon be prepared.
The tree was all pretty and covered with fake snow and

The presents were wrapped in unsaveable paper don't you know!
Mother in her gown and me in my apron, her tapping her foot
Nervously to see if we could go on.
She never liked cooking or waiting for me

She wanted to go dancing and let the fettucine be.
But I in my Italian Christmas cheer
Couldn't get the egg whites for meringue to come clear;
She told me to put down that spoon
And to get ready to dance under the moon.

So I set out the ravioli, sauce and meatballs
And left it all for the kids as we went off to the ball;
Then later that night as we sat by the fire I heard such A clatter, I sprang from the couch to see what was the matter;
There to my wondering eyes should appear eight tiny ravioli
And sauce, cheese and my wife in an apron who had dished it just for me!
Merry Christmas to you all and to all a good night!

Laugh and Live

Friend Louise Logan stopped by and brought us this little poem about being old. Louise is a person who will always be young at heart. As we celebrate Christmas and the New Year, I hope that we all may be thankful for "the good years."

There's a story that's been told
That growing old is pure hell
But my friends and I
Have a different story to tell
That's the simple truth and not a joke
We are so happy to be here
And haven't had a stroke
Some of us have little
And some have wealth
We are so very thankful
That we have good health
When we get together
It's 84 games we play
No chores to do, no children to watch
So we have ample time to stay
We laugh and play and tease
Trying so hard our partners to please
It's really a lot of fun
Because we aren't working from sun to sun
And if we make it snappy
We can help someone else to be happy
We go to Church on Sunday
And back to routine on Monday
Shopping in the Mall is so funny
If we aren't very careful
We'll spend all our money
Our children are our greatest pleasure
And we enjoy them beyond measure
Our grandchildren we really treasure
Those of us who have a daughter
Know she is so proud of what we bought her
And our sons though difficult to raise
Grow up to earn our greatest praise
When we get sick we phone or write a letter
And they will come to stay until we are feeling better
Most of us have had surgery for Cataracts
And have arthritis in our backs
So you see the cards are stacked
But we are still able to drive
And so happy to be alive
When we are ready to go to bed
Our prayers have been said
With glasses for our eyes
Our teeth in a cup
Hearing aids for our ears
We are so glad to get up
Thank God for so many good years
