Source: Jeffs building Temple at YFZ Ranch FLDS has never before built a temple

Sources close to Prophet Warren Jeffs of the Fundamentalist Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints tell the Success that the reclusive leader is planning to build a temple here in Schleicher County similar in size and scope to the one originally built by Mormon founder Joseph Smith in Nauvoo, Illinois.

"Warren has gone too far," one Utah man said on condition of anonymity. "He thinks he is God, so he has to have a temple."

Aerial photos of the YFZ Ranch show a massive foundation under construction just west of the already completed meeting hall. The footprint of the foundation roughly matches that of the original Nauvoo temple.

A recent round of rumors that Jeffs was forecasting the end of the world sometime near the end of December and therefore called a halt to construction at the ranch was debunked by the latest photos which show work progressing on a number of structures. (See Aerial Overview on Page 5)

Also clearly evident in the photos is a new fire truck and a large shipment of propane tanks, apparently intended for the various buildings on the ranch. A large stone quarry is evident, as well as a stone cutting area near the temple foundation where numbers of smoothly cut limestones can be seen near the huge stone saw.

Ben Bistline, long-time critic of the FLDS and author of The Polygamists: A History of Colorado City, Arizona tells the Success that the construction of a temple at Eldorado will bring a new dynamic to the FLDS story. "This will have serious repercussions," Bistline said. "Warren building a temple means this will be a bigger and more permanent move than I would have anticipated."

Author Jon Krakauer agrees. "This is a significant development," Krakauer told the Success on Tuesday. "The fundamentalists have never before built a temple. Warren Jeffs is proving to be a different kind of prophet."

Krakauer, who wrote Under the Ban- ner of Heaven, cited Mormon prophecy that "the destructions" will begin with the laying of the temple cornerstone. "I can't tell you exactly what this means for Eldorado," Krakauer added. "Just that it's very significant"

Editor's note: As has been the case since the YFZ Ranch story broke here in March, no one currently affiliated with the FLDS church is willing to comment on the record. The Success has repeatedly sought the comment of church leaders and continues to seek input from Prophet Warren Jeffs or any of his lieutenants.

stands ready at the YFZ Ranch to support the limestone building blocks of a new temple, currently planned by FLDS Prophet Warren Jeffs. Sources in Arizona and Utah tell the Success that Jeffs plan to build a temple signals a break with decades of fundamentalist Mormon tradition since none of the FLDS leaders before him went so far as to build a temple. Insiders tell the Success that the Mormon temple at Nauvoo, Illinois, pictured here after it was recently reconstructed by the mainline LDS church, is Warren Jeffs favorite temple. The footprint of the Nauvoo temple roughly approximates the foundation now complete on the YFZ Ranch.

The rock cutting area pictured above was built near a large foundation on the YFZ Ranch where confidential sources tell the Success FLDS Prophet Warren Jeffs intends to build a new Fundamentalist Mormon Temple.

Commissioners approve moving Dist. Courtroom to Memorial Bldg.

The Schleicher County Commissioners court met Monday, November 8, 2004, and, among other business, discussed using the Memorial Building to hold District Court. County Judge Johnny Griffin explained that Dist. Judge Barbara Walther is unhappy with the current court room, located on the 2nd floor of the courthouse. He noted that the lack of an elevator renders the room inaccessible to people with disabilities and the poor heating and lack of air conditioning makes the room uncomfortable most months of the year.

Griffin said that he had met with Walther and had agreed to relocate the court room to the Memorial Building. "I hope that's OK with y'all," Griffin said. "I told her we would do whatever she needed."

One concern was the need to renovate the women's rest room in the Memorial Building, especially replacing the door in order to make it handicap accessible. Griffin said that the doorway would need to be widened to accommodate wheelchairs and that a hallway would be constructed connecting the rest room to the Woman's Club Room, which would be used as a Jury Room.

County Clerk Peggy Williams explained that setting the building up for a court would take awhile but that it had been done before and that things had worked well then. Williams noted that she thought Judge Walther would transfer any long jury trials to San Angelo so that the could be held in her courtroom there.

The commissioners expressed no objection to the move.

The meeting was the first of the month for the commissioners and was called to order at 9:18 a.m. by Judge Griffin with commissioners Bill Clark, Johnny Mayo, Kirk Griffin and Matt Brown in attendance.

The men approved the minutes of the Oct. 25, 2004 meeting then met with County Agent Scott Edmonson regarding the search for a Family and Consumer Science agent to replace Nancy Lester, who retired last year. Also discussed was the annual Game Dinner which was held in the County CONTINUED ON PAGE 6

Game Dinner crowd fills new Civic Center

Hungry hunters joined a throng of local residents Saturday, November 6, 2004 at the annual Game Dinner sponsored by the Eldorado Game Association. More than 1,000 pounds of barbecue brisket, gallons of chili and 120 pounds of pinto beans were served to a crowd that EGA officials estimated in excess of 900 people. No one was disappointed, either.

But, even as the mouth-watering meal, prepared by Steve Nelson and Felipe Pina, whetted appetites, the crowd gathered in anticipation of winning one of the 50+ guns to be given away, along with a bevy other prizes.

This year's game dinner, held the past two years in a large tent on the courthouse square, moved inside the more spacious, and recently renovated Civic Center complex south of town. Even with the extra room, patrons spilled out into the parking lot as they enjoyed a glorious sunny day.

Emcee for this year's event was Schleicher County Judge Johnny Griffin who kept the audience entertained while awarding more 50 guns to the lucky winners of the door prize drawing. And, despite the delicious meal, it was the drawing that everyone came to see. Matt Lloyd of Eldorado won the Grand Prize "Raptor" 4-wheeler utility vehicle and Jimmy Gilstrap of Eldorado claimed the 1st Place Prize of a Pot Belly Deer Blind.

Gabriel Lozano of Whitehouse, Texas claimed the first gun awarded in the drawing, a 30-06 rifle. Other gun winners included: Rex Enochs of San Angelo (2 guns); Jerry Bass of Eldorado, Gary Adams of Burnett, Kary Gibson of Eldorado, B.J.'s Garage of Eldorado; and Christopher Barry of Sonora.

Also, Wilburn Hozire of San Angelo; Curtis Wilson of Eldorado; Stacy Jurecek of Eldorado; Billy Bryant of Navarro CO.; T. Cy Griffin of Eldorado; Dee Ann Rohmfeld of San Angelo; and Melvin Kiser of Odessa.

Also, Roney Testerman of Aubrey; Keven Stanford of Eldorado; James Powell of Troy; Walter Delcambre of Bridge City; Dennis Marshall of Houston; Ronnie Dunn of McKinney; Angela Robertson of San Angelo and Shelly Phillips of Eldorado.

Also, Dale Weber of San Angelo; Seburo Valencia of Mertzon; Charles Tunal of Midland; Peggy Nino of Eldorado; Paul English of San Angelo; Willie Isaacs of Christoval; Jimmy Agiular, Gus Hinojosa of Eldorado; Charles Robinson of San Angelo; Clint Jackson of Eldorado; Danny Porter of San Angelo; Joseph White of Laughlin AFB; and Steve Gould of Lubbock.

President Bush carried the state, of course. He got 61.14 percent of the vote statewide, compared to 38.24 percent for Kerry. Other than Travis County, Kerry did best in South Texas along the border, El Paso and the Beaumont area.

FLU SHOT UPDATE

Schleicher County Medical Center wants to keep the public informed about the "flu" vaccine situation in the community, and clarify concerns that have been voiced:

The influenza "flu" vaccine is not available to Schleicher County Medical Center at this time. We had hoped that the vaccine would be available the first of November, as we had been told by the Centers of Disease Control (CDC), which did not happen. If and when we receive the vaccine, it will be distributed according to the CDC guidelines.

Until that time, it is prudent to avoid as much hand contact as possible within the community. It is also prudent to wash your hands often especially after being around very young children (generally under the age of two) and elderly community members. If you have further questions or concerns, please call:

Beckie Silva MSN, GFNP, GCNS at 325.853.3137 Extension 143

Or Vicki Farmer BS, RN, DON at 325.853.2507 Extension 110

• We have free pamphlets with information about hand washing, and the CDC guidelines for distributing the flu vaccine if and when we receive it. Information is available in our Family Clinic waiting room.
