Local lawmen join search for Prophet's child bride

Girl declines help from authorities

Sheriff David Doran and Chief Deputy George Arispe traveled to Colorado and Utah last week planning on meeting with law enforcement officials in the two Rocky Mountain states. Before the trip was over, however, they found themselves participating in a missing person investigation and searching for an alleged child bride of Prophet Warren Jeffs, self-appointed leader of the Fundamentalist Church of Latter Day Saints.

As Doran and Arispe met with Montezuma County Sheriff Joey Chavez in Cortez Colorado word reached them that a missing person report had been filed in Utah and Arizona by Suzanne Jessop Johnson, a Colorado City, Arizona woman who told officials that her sister, 17-year-old Janetta Jessop, had telephoned her asking for help in escaping from the FLDS. Johnson said that before she could arrange to meet with her sister, the girl disappeared.

Sheriff Doran and Deputy Arispe concluded their business in Colorado where they met with officers from multiple jurisdictions and traveled into the foothills of the San Juan Mountains to take a look at a recently discovered FLDS compound near the town of Mancos. The local lawmen were accompanied there by Lt. Steve Harmon, a detective with the Montezuma County Sheriff's Dept. and Deputy Tax Assessor Scott Davis.

It was Davis who first grew suspicious of the FLDS developments at Mancos when he was denied entry into buildings being erected on the property. Davis noted the property had been purchased by David Allred of Utah, who told officials there, just as he did here in Schleicher County, that he intended to build a corporate hunting retreat. When Davis did a "Google" search for Allred on the Internet, he discovered numerous Eldorado Success articles about the man and his connection with the YFZ Ranch near Eldorado. It was then that Davis contacted law enforcement officials in Cortez and the connection was made between Texas and Colorado law enforcement agencies.

As Doran and Arispe concluded their visit in Cortez, more developments in the Janetta Jessop missing person case reached them, giving the men their first indication that the case had a direct link to Schleicher County. The following day, they found themselves in Hildale/Colorado City, the FLDS stronghold that straddles the Utah/Arizona border. There they met and interviewed Suzanne Jessop Johnson seeking information about her missing sister.

While Doran declines to disclose details of his meeting with Johnson he tells the Success that he found her to be "very credible" and said that her statements to him were "in line" with reports she filed with Utah and Arizona law enforcement officials.

Private Investigator Sam Brower, who assisted Johnson in filing the missing person reports, met with Doran and Arispe and took them to an undisclosed location where they interviewed Johnson about her sister.

Brower tells the Success that Suzanne Johnson first became concerned for her sister in 2003 when, on her 16th birthday, she disappeared. "Her room was cleared out and there were no signs that she had ever lived there," Brower said. "Suzanne's parents wouldn't tell her where Janetta had gone. They would only say that she was fine."

A new twist in the story developed last week when Suzanne received a phone call from Janetta, Brower said.

"She told Suzanne that she had been living in Texas where her daily routine consisted of getting up early and feeding the chickens," Brower stated. "Then she told Suzanne, 'You know I'm married,' but refused to say who she was married to."

At that point Janetta Jessop reportedly told her sister she "couldn't stand it anymore" and asked for her help in escaping. "She said she was visiting family in Short Creek (C-City/Hildale) and asked if Suzanne would pick her up," Brower said. "Suzanne said 'tell me when and where' and Janetta told her she would call back as soon as she gathered her belongings. Then she asked Suzanne not to tell their parents."

Suzanne Johnson would not hear from her sister again for nearly a week. Instead, she received a phone call from her mother the next day saying that she should forget about what she and her sister discussed the day before. "Her mother told Suzanne that she couldn't see Janetta because she and Warren had to hide out now because he's trying to avoid being served a summons in a civil lawsuit," Brower stated. That was the first acknowledgement anyone had made that Janetta Jessop was married to FLDS Prophet Warren Jeffs, Brower said.

Utah authorities declined to join the investigation after Janetta Jessop's parents told them by phone that the girl was okay. Arizona officials, however continued to push forward their investigation even as Sheriff Doran and Chief Deputy Arispe returned to Texas intent on searching for Jessop here.

A break in the case came Tuesday, November 16, 2004, when private investigator Sam Brower spotted Janetta Jessop riding in a car with her mother. He notified Arizona investigators who quickly picked up the girl and took her to their newly opened Victim Assistance Center on the outskirts of Colorado City. Janetta Jessop refused to cooperate, however, declining to answer questions about her alleged plural marriage to Jeffs or her time here in Texas.

"It's very frustrating," Sheriff Doran told the Success Wednesday morning, "You work hard on one of these cases, and you know what's going on, then the victim refuses to cooperate. Now we're back to square one."

The newly discovered FLDS compound near Mancos, CO, caught the attention of authorities after Deputy Tax Assessor Scott Davis, pictured at far right, grew suspicious and checked the Internet for David Allred, the name of the man who purchased the property on behalf of the church. Davis soon discovered the Success website which lists numerous stories about the group and their compound near Eldorado. Davis took Schleicher County Sheriff David Doran (Left) and Montezuma County Colorado Detective Steve Harmon (Center) as they survey a portion of the Colorado property (Above.)

Sales tax rebates indicate economic growth

(Austin)--Texas Comptroller Carole Keeton Strayhorn said today that state sales tax collections rose in October by 8 percent compared to October 2003. The state's October sales tax revenue was $1.29 billion. Strayhorn today sent $417.8 million in November sales tax rebates to cities, counties, transit systems and special purpose taxing districts, up 6.2 percent compared to November 2003.

"Sales tax collections continue to grow as this economic bumper crop of a year enters the crucial fourth quarter for Texas businesses and the holiday shopping season," Strayhorn said.

But the Comptroller's Fall 2004 economic forecast calls for slower economic growth during the next three years. Texas' gross state product is expected to grow at an average annual rate of 3.3 percent during calendar years 2005, 2006 and 2007, down from the previous forecast of 4.2 percent average annual growth.

Strayhorn today sent Texas cities $286.2 million in sales tax allocations, up 5.5 percent compared to November 2003. So far this calendar year, city sales tax allocations are up 7.8 percent compared to the same time period last year. Texas counties received November sales tax allocations of $23.8 million, up 8.4 percent compared to one year ago. For the calendar year-to-date, county sales tax allocations are running 8.4 percent ahead of 2003. Eighty-six special purpose taxing districts around the state received $11.4 million in sales tax, up 9.3 percent compared to last November. Nine local transit systems received $96.4 million in November sales tax rebates, up 7.3 percent compared to a year ago.

October state sales tax collections and November sales tax allocations to local governments represent September sales reported to the Comptroller in October by monthly tax filers and July, August and September sales reported to the Comptroller in October by quarterly tax filers.

Locally, the numbers were even more impressive with the tax rebate for Schleicher County climbing to $11,588.08, up 58.47 percent over the same period one year ago. The Schleicher County Health Services Tax, which the county uses to fund the ambulance service, grew by 67.55 percent to $11,319.27. Meanwhile the City of Eldorado received $8,790.90, up 24.24 percent from the same period last year. (See chart below)

October state sales tax collections and November sales tax allocations to local governments represent September sales reported to the Comptroller in October by monthly tax filers and July, August and September sales reported to the Comptroller in October by quarterly tax filers.

For details of November sales tax payments to individual cities, counties, transit systems and special purpose districts, locate the Monthly Sales and Use Tax Allocation Comparison Summary Reports on the Comptroller's Web site at www.window.state.tx.us/taxinfo/alllocsum/compsum.html.

The Comptroller's next local sales tax allocation will be made on Friday, Dec. 10 and will be reported the following week in The Success.

Liberals vs. Conservatives... you can blame it all on the beer

The following article found its way into my email inbox this week. And, given my conservative nature, plus the fact that I have yet to gloat over the outcome of the national election, I include it here for your consideration.

OVER THE BACK FENCE

by Randy Mankin

Once early man discovered how to make beer, he soon learned that it required large amounts of grain. That, in a nutshell, was the birth of agribusiness.

Since neither the glass bottle nor aluminum can had been invented yet, the discovery of beer also fueled the need for research and development. But mostly, our early forefathers sat around waiting for them to be invented. That kept them close to home, and the brewery, leading to the formation of the first small villages.

With the advent of the beer drinking society, some early men found themselves spending days upon end tracking & killing animals to barbecue while they were drinking their beer at night. This proved to be an important fork in the road of human, and therefore political evolution. With the first hunters came the emergence of the first true conservative movement.

Other men who were weaker and less skilled at hunting learned to live off the conservatives by showing up for the nightly barbecue and doing the sewing, fetching and grooming. This proved to be the beginnings of the Liberal movement.

Some noteworthy liberal achievements include the domestication of cats, the invention of group therapy and group hugs, and the seminal concept of democratic voting to decide how to divide the meat and beer that conservatives provided.

Over the years conservatives came to be symbolized by the largest, most powerful land animal on earth, the elephant. Liberals are symbolized by the jackass.

Modern liberals like imported beer (with lime added), but most prefer wine or imported bottled water. They eat raw fish but like their beef well done. Sushi, tofu, and French cuisine are standard liberal fare.

Most social workers, personal injury attorneys, media bigwigs, musicians and Hollywood dreamers are liberals.

Liberals invented the designated hitter rule because it wasn't "fair" to make the pitcher also bat.

Conservatives drink domestic beer. They eat red meat and still provide for their families.

Conservatives are big-game hunters, rodeo cowboys, lumberjacks, construction workers, medical doctors, police officers, corporate executives, soldiers, athletes and generally anyone who works productively outside government. Conservatives who own companies hire other conservatives who want to work for a living.

Liberals produce little or nothing. They like to "govern" the producers and decide what to do with the production. Liberals believe Europeans are more enlightened than Americans. That is why most of the liberals remained in Europe when conservatives were coming to America. They crept in after the Wild West was tame and created a business of trying to get something for nothing.

With that I will brace and await the inevitable liberal onslaught of finger pointing and name calling that always follows a conservative victory.

Mine eyes have seen the center stripe

A few weeks ago I was driving on the interstate and thought a slow car was ahead of me, so I pulled over into the passing lane. When I got up to where I thought the car should be, it turned out to be a dark repair patch on the highway. Right then I decided it's time to look into getting some eyeglasses.

I've never worn glasses except to read. Once I went to an optometrist who prescribed some for me, but I never wore them, thinking my eyes were plenty good without them. This time, though, I realized I needed them.

I went to see my friendly optometrist and he sat me down in the examining chair. He handed me something that resembled a big plastic spoon. "Cover your left eye, Tumbleweed," he said, "and read me the letters you see."

The entire chart was fuzzy. I couldn't even see the big E at the top.

He shut down the projector and turned on the light. "You've got cataracts," he said. "And you need to do something about them if you want to improve your

by Tumbleweed Smith

vision."

I certainly did. Not even knowing what cataracts were, I contacted an ophthalmologist and made an appointment. Before I saw the doctor, some aides came by, put drops in my eyes and took a pressure reading.

The doctor shined a very bright light into my eyes and told me I had cataracts in both eyes. They were more prevalent in my right eye, but I also had some in my left one. He asked me when could I come in for surgery. I told him the following Tuesday would be fine.

At the surgery center, I took off my shoes and shirt, put on one of those nifty hospital smocks open in back, covered my head with something that looks like a painter's beret and put some paper shoes over my feet.

I was awake the whole time.

The operation took about fifteen minutes.

The surgery took place about 9 o'clock in the morning. I was out by ten and was able to drive to a noon meeting. I went back to see him a few days later and he said I was doing fine, that eventually we should do the other eye. I said how about next week.

It is now a few hours after the second surgery. This one was not as easy as the first. It was a little painful and the doctor kept telling me I was not looking in the right direction, that my eyeball was bobbing up and down like a cork and my head was moving around like a balloon. I had some juice and coffee and began to feel better. Right now my left eye is closed with a patch over it. I'll take it off tomorrow.

I am expecting the result in the left eye to be the same as it was for the right one. With it, I can read the eye chart well (at least half a dozen lines down) and I am quite able to distinguish between highway pavement and a vehicle.

Texas secretary of state Connor steps down

AUSTIN — No one found the post-election cabinet shuffle in Washington particularly out of the ordinary, but back at the ranch in Texas, Secretary of State Geoff Connor announced his intention to step down at the end of the year.

Of course, secretary of state in Texas is vastly different from being U.S. secretary of state. In Texas, the office oversees a very important process — the election system.

Gov. Rick Perry is expected to name Weatherford businessman J. Roger Williams as Connor's replacement. Williams has been a major fund-raiser for President George W. Bush.

The appointment would mark the 105th secretary of state in Texas history.

Profiling begins...

With the next legislative session only two months away, lawmakers have begun profiling bills.

An early eye-catcher is Rep. Warren Chisum's (R-Pampa) bill proposing submission to Texas voters of a constitutional amendment defining marriage as a sanctioned relationship open only to male-female couples. That will assure Texas plenty of national media attention.

Other prefiled bills would create a school voucher system, allow law enforcement officers to set up DWI check points, install a business activity tax to replace the existing franchise tax, restore funding for low-cost children's health insurance (as well as those who are employed but poor) and require record votes in the House and Senate.

Supreme Court judge named...

Gov. Rick Perry has appointed Houstonian David Medina, his former legal counsel, to the Texas Supreme Court.

Medina will fill the vacancy created when Perry elevated Wallace Jefferson to chief justice to replace Tom Phillips, who retired earlier this year.

The 46-year-old Medina served as a district judge in Harris County from 1996 to 2000.

"This is a highly qualified jurist who has lived his life in a way that is admirable," Perry said after announcing Medina's appointment. "I let his record speak for itself."

Two years after he left the bench, Medina was charged with driving while intoxicated. His trial ended in a hung jury. Medina pleaded guilty to making an improper lane change, paid a fine and the original charge was dismissed, the Houston Chronicle reported.

Heflin-Vo race update...

Harris County election officials have declared Democrat Hubert Vo the winner in a close race against 11-term incumbent Rep. Talmadge Heflin, but Heflin is expected to request a recount or file a challenge.

Once absentee and provisional ballots had been reviewed, Harris County officials said that Vo led Heflin 20,693 to 20,662, a difference of only 31 votes.

The final outcome has implications well beyond Houston. Heflin is chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, one of the most powerful posts in the Legislature.

Changing retirement rules...

During the last legislative session, lawmakers passed a bill providing for a golden parachute for state employees willing to retire early. Those who qualified could leave with a one-time payment amounting to 25 percent of their annual salary.

Now the buzz is that something is being given to an opposite strategy: changing the Employee Retirement System's Rule of 80 (a state employee can retire if his age and years of service add up to 80) to a Rule of 85. Unless the change comes with a grandfather clause, that could postpone quite a few state employee retirements.

TxDOT keeps state's roadways open for business

Statewide, the Texas Department of Transportation (TxDOT) spends more of its budget on maintenance of roadways than any other category.

"We're perceived as a big road-building machine," Mike Behrens said, the executive director who oversees the state's transportation system. "The reality is that we spend more resources on making sure the roads, bridges and rest areas that we already have are kept in the best possible shape for the traveling public."

Texas' roads and bridges represent a $50 billion investment in the basics that keep people and goods moving safely throughout the state. During 2003, TxDOT resurfaced nearly 27,000 lane miles of highway, more than 14 percent of the state highway system; filled nearly 700,000 potholes; mowed 1.8 million acres of grass; picked up 450,000 cubic yards of litter; repaired 1.3 million linear feet of guard rail, and applied 260 million linear feet of highway striping and reflective beading.

For daily maintenance of existing highways, TxDOT devotes 46 percent of the department's workforce to this job function. TxDOT also contracts highway construction companies for major projects such as roadway rehabilitation projects.

Last year a total of $5,287,407 was spent on maintenance expenses for the 3,253 centerline miles in the 15 counties in the San Angelo District, including $1,258,842 for roadway materials; $1,688,847 for highway maintenance such as equipment, supplies, fuel, training; and $2,339,718 for maintenance contracts involving highway rehabilitation, mowing, and picnic/rest area. From the overall amount dedicated to maintenance expenses, the total for Sutton and Schleicher Counties was $519,544.

Maintenance work in the San Angelo District is accomplished by 140 employees in a district of 288 employees that includes 15 maintenance crew members Sutton and Schleicher Counties.

The San Angelo District Engineer Walter McCullough explained that maintenance employees' responsibilities involve more than pothole and guard rail repair. He described these employees as the "unsung heroes in our state's transportation system because they respond to emergency situations 24 hours a day that can involve all kinds of weather conditions."

"In addition to daily maintenance repairs, our maintenance crews work beyond the normal work day when they assist in traffic control at wrecks or during floods or range fires," McCullough said. For example, on Oct. 11 a maintenance mechanic from the Leakey Maintenance Section was honored at the annual engineers' conference in College Station for his efforts in saving the lives of two Real County residents. Frank Munsinger was awarded the "prestigious" Extra Mile Award, according to the district engineer. This award recognizes the efforts of employees who place the lives of motorists above their own safety during crisis along the highway.

In April Munsinger rescued a Leakey business owner and her 13-year old daughter during a flood at the Frio River in Real County. Around 4 a.m. the mechanic was assisting other Leakey Maintenance crew members by setting barriers at low-water crossings when the mother and daughter's van stalled in the middle of the crossing in water that had reached the two-foot flood line. Munsinger moved his service truck to stop the van from floating down the river and helped the stranded motorists crawl out of their window to the service truck. While the mechanic backed his truck out of the crossing, he could feel the front wheels of his truck start to float.

"Our maintenance employees like Frank Munsinger are dedicated to providing the safest driving conditions for the residents and visitors to our 15 counties in the San Angelo District," McCullough said.

The maintenance personnel work at offices in Ballinger, Big Lake, Eden, Junction, Ozona, San Angelo, Sonora, Sterling City, Robert Lee, Rocksprings, and Leakey and sub stations in Menard, Eldorado, Mertzon, and Garden City.

Eldorado-Divide SWCD to hold meeting on environmental quality incentives program

The Eldorado-Divide Soil and Water Conservation District will hold a Program Development Group Meeting, concerning the 2004 Environmental Quality Incentives Program, on Tuesday, November 23, 2004 at 1:30 p.m. in the Civic Center in Eldorado. A Local Work Group meeting will immediately follow this meeting.

This purpose of the meeting is to get input from farmers, ranchers and other conservation minded individuals and agencies concerning natural resource priorities within Schleicher County. The group will also provide input on how they would like to see federal cost-share dollars spent within the county. Cost-share practices as well as cost-share rates will also be discussed.

This Program Development Group will provide information to the Local Conservation Work Group for consideration. The Local Work Group consists of the Soil and Water Conservation District Directors, FSA County Committeemen, County Extension Agent, Farm Service Agency and the Natural Resources Conservation Service. The input provided to the Local Work Group is valuable in determining the type of conservation program to be carried out in 2004.

Each Texas county will receive a base EQIP allocation of approximately $114,000. The Local Work Group and the Designated Conservationist will ultimately decide what the primary resource concern is for the Schleicher County and which conservation practices will be approved to address the concern. All farmers, ranchers and other agriculture, wildlife related entities and welcome to attend. Your input will be greatly appreciated.

$6.98 million in tax refund checks awaiting correct mailing addresses for Texas residents

DALLAS - How do you not miss a tax refund of $562,444? Well, apparently that has happened to a Fort Worth resident whose $562,441 check is waiting in U.S. Treasury coffers until the person corrects or updates their mailing address with the Internal Revenue Service.

The Fort Worth resident is not alone. Statewide, a total of 7,628 checks were returned to the IRS because of bad mailing addresses.

The largest unclaimed check from Texas returned to the government was $562,441. The smallest is check was written for $1.

"If we owe you money, we'd like to get it to you," said IRS Commissioner Mark W. Everson. "All you have to do is tell us where you are.

Our Web site makes it easy for taxpayers to track their undelivered refund checks."

"Where's My Refund?" on IRS.gov provides information about refunds and is available from the IRS home page. To use it, taxpayers enter information that includes their Social Security number, filing status (such as single or married filing jointly) and the refund amount shown on their 2003 tax return. When the information is submitted online, taxpayers see Web pages that show the status of their refund and, in some cases, instructions to resolve potential account issues.

"Where's My Refund?" was developed through the IRS Business Systems Modernization program and delivered in the summer of 2002. Taxpayers used the online tool nearly 24 million times to track their refunds in 2004.

The number of undeliverable checks from Texas decreased this year by 13, but the average check worth $916 was significantly more than last year's $756 average.

Taxpayers who have moved since filing their last tax return can ensure the IRS has their correct address by filing Form 8822, Change of Address, with the IRS. Download the form or request it by calling 1-800-TAX-FORM (1-800-829-3676).

Those without access to the Internet, who think they may be missing a refund, should first check their records or contact their tax preparer before calling the IRS toll-free assistance line at 1-800-829-1040 to update their address.

The Blotter is a summary of the previous week's activity by the Schleicher County Sheriff's Dept. For practical reasons of time and space, The Blotter does not include every call made to the Sheriff's office, nor does it include routine security checks, minor traffic stops or routine patrols. Incidents of major impact will be reported separately. Subjects reported to have been arrested are presumed innocent until proven guilty in a court of law.

2004 Nutcracker slated for city auditorium in San Angelo

The San Angelo Civic Ballet, led by Artistic Director Joy Xu McCarthy, is pleased to announce the production of Nutcracker 2004, returning to the San Angelo City Auditorium. Although this will be the ballet's nineteenth appearance in San Angelo, it has not resided in this lovely and historic venue since 1999.

The Nutcracker is a timeless Christmas tradition which allows the public to experience classical ballet through the familiar music of Tchaikovsky. But The Nutcracker is not just a ballet-it instead combines dance, theater, music and even farce, to provide the perfect holiday entertainment for everyone.

In the history of this San Angelo tradition, our Nutcracker has enjoyed a number of choreographers and literally hundreds of different performers. This year's cast, numbering over sixty, includes children and adults new to the stage, as well as our Nutcracker Prince who is enjoying his 12th year. An one local physician will be seen in a completely different light, than he has ever been before.

Our native Sugar Plum Fairy, Jesse Erlich, who has captured the city's imagination since she was a little girl, will be capping off her hometown career, before leaving us to pursue her dance theater goals. This past summer, while training at the Perry-Mansfield Performing Art Intensive, Jesse was able to study under numerous instructors from the famous Juilliard School in New York City.

Tickets go on sale November 15 at the San Angelo Cultural Affairs Council, 36 E. Twohig Ave., or San Angelo Civic Ballet Office, 15 W. Beauregard, Angelo Civic Theater. Tickets are $8-children, students, seniors and military, $12 adults; $20 premium seating. One weekend only-4 performances: Friday, December 3 at 8:00 p.m., Saturday, December 4 at 2:00 p.m. and 8:00 p.m. and Sunday, December 5 at 2:00 p.m. FMI call The San Angelo Civic Ballet at 325-653-8877.
