Jim McMahan, 88, Dies At Del Rio

We note from the press dispatches that Jim McMahan died at Del Rio last week at the age of 88 years.

When this scribe moved to Ben Ficklin in 1880 and the South Concho River, the McMahan family were living near where Christoval now stands. He and his brother Ben and our first school days were with the McMahan children. Mr. McMahan spent his early life in helping to develop West Texas, and was known for his success in trapping beaver. He, like all the real old timers of this section was filled to over flowing with western hospitality. The McMahan family helped to drive the Indians from this section of Texas and blazed the way for a more peaceful generation.

Quite a few old time Eldoradoans will remember Jim and Ben McMahan, when they resided on the Concho in the 80's. One event of note is that he passed through the Santa Helena Canyon on the Rio Grande River on one of his beaver trapping expeditions. This Canyon has attracted nation wide notice for its dangers. We know nothing of the late life of Jim McMahan but may his soul rest in eternity where all is peace to them that fear God.

Joe Burkett For Congressman-at-large

Joe Burkett, of San Antonio, has announced for Congressman-at-large. It will be remembered that Mr. Burkett ran for governor several years ago, and his views on public questions are well known. The Success did not favor him then and does not now, but that is no reason you should not vote for Mr. Burkett.

FERGUSONS NOT TO RUN FOR CONGRESS-AT-LARGE

Former Gov. Ferguson says they will not run for Congressman-at-large, but might run for Governor, either he or she. No doubt but there is something to this statement.

AN ANCIENT INTERVIEW

By J. T. Kerr

Noah's Ark had been drifting for several days when a raft was sighted and Noah was hailed by a newspaper reporter. As Noah was very busy about the Ark with his animals he motioned for the reporter to move on, as he had no time to spend with a reporter. The reporter insisted that Noah give him an interview concerning the Ark and animals.

Just as Noah was about to become drastic in his methods of disposing of the reporter his wife came on board and ask what all the trouble was. The reporter immediately informed the seemingly kind lady that he was only seeking an interview with her husband concerning the animals on board. Mrs. Noah turned to her husband and said a few words. Apparently they were convincing, for Noah turned to his unwelcome visitor and with a "Come on in", the two men went into the Ark.

Of course the big elephant was the first animal to be seen. The reporter immediately became inquisitive about the immense animal with the long nose and he ask Noah how it had happened that the animal's nose was so long. Noah told him that the "big boy" had stuck his snout in a knot hole one day trying to steal peanuts and had fastened it there. A mouse ran under the elephant and almost frightened him to death. Naturally the elephant stretched his nose by pulling so hard.

The next queer animal that the reporter caught sight of was the Giraffe. Noah told him how this animal had tried to escape the ark and had jumped from the window of the third story. He caught his head some way in the window and had to hang there all night.

Noah spent most of the morning telling strange tales of adventure with his animals. As the two men were about to leave the interior of the ark, the reporter noticed something he hadn't seen and exclaimed: "Mr. Noah! what a fine specimen of gorillas you have."

Noah turned and seeing what the reporter had reference to replied: "Why you shrimp! that's my son and his wife." He angrily grabbed the reporter by the collar, threw him over board and passed back into the ark singing: "I Get the Blues When It Rains."

Cotton Law Held Unconstitutional

The Cotton law, passed by the last Legislature, for the purpose of governing the planting of cotton, has been held by the courts to be unconstitutional.

Other states that have passed such laws have repealed them, and a former will be allowed to plant all the cotton he wants to. The case will probably be applauded.

Japan continues to make war on China and the fighting continues to grow worse. Although the Chinese have never declared war, they have been trying to defend their people and country against their foe. Japan armed with modern warfare, did not have much resistance in Manchuria, and China proper has no preparation for war. But they are putting up the best resistance they have. Twelve years ago, the Chinese bought 130 planes from Britian, they are now uncrating these planes and assembling them, but they will be inferior to the 1932 planes.

FEBRUARY 5, 1932

Texas is still developing. This week we received a copy of the Lubbock News, called its loyalty addition; printed on paper made from the pine timber of Texas, in fact the paper was made in Texas and found its way to the press ready to use and had never been out of Texas. Texas with its boundless resources should have many kinds of factories, make many kinds of merchandise and ship out the finished products instead of the raw material.

Well the depression has been depressed by war talk. Anyway, most any change was acceptable, wheat, cotton, corn, and meats all advancing while our armies are prancing.

Over at Brady a few weeks ago a fellow who had made some money was arrested, but so far A. D. Wright and Harry Schwinker have not been charged with making any.

Japan is doing her utmost to assert her rights of control over the Asiatic country, as the United States have over the western Hemisphere or the American continent. Japan has seized upon a time to strike when every other Nation is talking and believing in Peace. She did not suffer any real ills of the past war and has continued to build her navy and army force in time of peace, making ready for the time when her aspirations could come to pass, and with out scarcely any provocation has plunged her people into war or rather has been making war on a defenseless Nation. In order to win a political victory at home and carry out a scheme hatched out in the minds of Japan rulers in time passed that Japan should control all Asiatic countries and the Isles of the Pacific.

She has broken every pledge made to other Nations and has informed the League of Nations that unless they see as Japan coincide with her views, she will resign from the League and stand alone in the strife. Japan has determined to have Manchuria and tell China who to buy from. Her existence depends upon the patronage of China, and China's boycott would have put them on starvation if it could hold out. War ships are headed from every direction to the scenes of action and it looks like war is impossible to avoid. The Japanese have already tried to insult the United States when she pulled down an American flag and trampled on it and fired on American property from one of her battle ships.

Uncle Sam may have been resting on war preparation and may not in be complete readiness to strike, but when the old man knocks on the door, and ask for a say, his voice will have a tone that somebody had better set up and take notice for something might happen.

The good book teaches that there will be war and rumours of war, and that the poor will be with us always, and evidence of that statement prevails today

Well, February 2, ground-hog day, was a cloudy day, and if Eil Smith of the San Saba News knows anything about this animals habits, we will have an early spring. He could not see his shadow in these parts of the land, so we can plant our garden and begin cultivating our early crops.

But remember The Success editor believes in preparation and keep some coal or wood, in the bin, as the weather might be like Japan, just get rough any old time.

THE HUMAN FACTOR

We are facing another World War. To those not misled by Utopian dreams, this was to be expected. Within the confines of a single nation, civilization has reached a stage of development wherein moral and social obligations are recognized. Men may commit crimes, but the social conscience condemns them and they are frequently brought to book. But this stage has not been reached in national relations. Nietzsche's philosophy "Might makes right" still holds good. The attitude of nations toward each other is that of beasts and birds of prey. It is not an accident that the emblem of every nation on earth is either a beast of prey or a bird of prey. The creatures of prey knows no law.

Thus Germany could treat her solemn obligations as "scraps of paper" without a qualm of conscience. Japan is doing the same. When she sees a fat helpless victim lying before her, "the nine power treaty" is but a scrap of paper. The lust for empire overcomes every scruple. The scent of the victim and the taste of blood allay every moral impulse and change the civilized man into a savage.

Every atrocity committed by the strong upon the weak is excused by the combat adage "This is war". Nationally, we are partly civilized, internationally, we are still savages or beasts.

There are many schemes put forward in these days to forestall war, but all of them fail because they leave out the human factor. Like the ultra social lists, they take it for granted that men will live right in relation to each other if they have a perfect scheme of government. But until men are perfect they will rebel when surrounded by a perfect environment, since it gives them no scope in which to gratify their passions. And there are uncounted millions who would find no zest in life were they deprived of these "personal liberties" become international liberties, then the world is plunged into war. In the statement of a problem, as long as one factor is wrong be it ever so small, to arrive at a correct solution is impossible. But when the main factor, man, is wrong, you cannot approximate the correct answer. But if we can get this main factor correct, the solution will be comparatively easy. So, instead of passing laws and arranging treaties and formulating schemes into which only angelic beings could fit, let us grow sensible and regulate the man first and the perfect man will spontaneously make the environment.

THIS AND THAT

By Jimminy

Education, which has spread like wildfire in the last few years, has entered new fields—the oil fields—if newspaper reports of the "Sterling-Wolters Martial Law" trial are accurate.

It seems the people in East Texas have been educated up to a point where they will allow 400,000 barrels of oil to flow from the wells in the great East Texas oil fields before they start blowing up the wells and rioting in general.

Federal Judge Hutcheson asked a witness if he thought the people could be educated up to 450,000 barrels. The witness replied, "No." Apparently the people of East Texas are in no mood to study "higher education."

Brig. Gen. Jadob Wolters, who takes great pride in his star-decorated uniform and polished boots, was a "participant" in the "Battle of Words," this time as a buck private in the rear ranks. "This is not my first experience with martial law," the general told Judge Hutcheson.

"It's your first opportunity to make a speech about it," said the judge.

However, the general was given an opportunity to deny a tale going the rounds about his willingness to declare martial law any time, any place, any where. "Is it true that when the governor asked you if you thought there should be martial law in Corpus Christi you said: 'Yes. Where was that town you mentioned?'" asked an attorney for the plaintiffs.

"That's a lie," shouted the general. The question and answer were ruled out of order by the judge.

Judge Hutcheson ripped Gov. Sterling's martial law stand wide open, but meant no reflection on the governor in doing it. Said the judge:

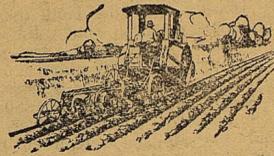

"Any feeling I have in this case is for the law. I mean no reflection on the governor. But we're considering great questions. I can't sit here and listen to arguments about men's liberties like I was out on the street watching a man eating an apple."

It may be true that free men have to submit to the oppressions of martial law. I'm just trying to find out. If so let's face it."

Human society can never be better than the people who compose it. Let us set about the task of improving the human factor and as rapidly as we accomplish this, all else will follow.

FUTURE OF THE FRESHMEN

Aletha Faught

Some of the Seniors and Juniors are feeling sorry for the Freshmen. Three more years in High School! Gee! But they needn't worry about us. They were once Freshmen and they progressed to the position of Seniors and so can we.

History is very interesting now. In our current events we are keeping up with the elections, wars and uprisings every where.

English is harder now than it was before Mid term. Literature is much easier than Grammar. Everyone seems to be getting along all right in Algebra.

GEORGE WASHINGTON BI-CENTENNIAL OBSERVED NEXT MONTH IN SCHOOL

Next month, in recognition of the Two-hundredth birth anniversary of George Washington, schools all over the nation will have programs which should be of interest to young and old alike. The local school plans for one program each day of the week beginning on February 22nd. Let us make this great man live again in the hearts of the young and fix his image there as the ideal American citizen.

The statement has often been made that in all history no other man has merited and received such universal homage as George Washington. He has practically escaped criticism and controversy in history. It is very fitting therefore that the United States Government, which he did more to establish than any other man, should promote a nationwide celebration in honor of him. The main thought behind the Celebration is to benefit the citizens of today by reviving in their minds and hearts a just appreciation of the part played by George Washington in beginning the American Nation and in inaugurating that spirit of independence which has spread throughout the world today.

TRIGONOMETRY CLASS

Hollis McCormick
The Trigonometry class is composed of eight Seniors, namely: Dixie Faught, Grace Ratliff, Albert McGinty, Hollis McCormick, Melba Jones, Carl Kerr, Gusta V. Graves, and Francis Ballew.

Trigonometry deals with measurement of angles that are used in surveying, engineering, mechanics, geology, and astronomy. It seems to be an interesting subject.

On entering college one must have had trigonometry in high school or must take it at college, where it is a great deal harder. If you don't believe it ask some of last year's seniors.

EAGLES DEFEAT BAILEY RANCH 29-11

Jack Ratliff
The Eagles journeyed to Bailey Ranch, Wednesday, January 27, to defeat the Cardinals Luther Parker, scoring ace of the Cardinals, was out of the game. Tommy Redford and some other men played. Junior Isaacs and Falls tied for scoring honors with 10 points each. The Bailey Ranch boys put up a much better fight at Bailey Ranch than they did at Eldorado.

SENIORS COP INTER-CLASS CONTEST

Jack Ratliff
The Seniors defeated the Juniors, Wednesday, to cop the contest. The Fish only won one game. They beat the Seniors. The Sophs and Juniors both finished with three triumphs and three losses each. If the Juniors had won, they would have been tied with the Seniors.

SPORT SLANTS

Jack Ratliff
Track is getting in earnest. Coach and Captain Raymond Smith is putting the track thru some real practice. There are more out than have ever been out before. Even Bill Sproul is coming out.

The Basketball squad is reliable to hand some one a surprise since they have had a little practice. They are in good shape for anybody, from anywhere. They might even beat Water Valley.

Coach Williamson has started a new kind of basketball. There are five teams that play everyday. The team that makes a goal first stays on. The other team gets off and another team comes on. The teams are evenly matched and the same team does not play every day.

Miss Lelia Parker has started tennis. There are several girls that are going to play tennis. Among those that are going to play are Artie Mae Wood, Evelyn Anderson, Inez Cobb, Margaret Bradley, Pauline Rape, Francis Ballew, and Melba Jones

Interclass baseball will start as soon as the basketball season is over. Every member of the class (boys) will have to play, in order to have enough players.

The all-stars are gradually forming into a real basketball team. They will go to the tournament at Christoval. It will be in this month. A cup will be given to the winner.

GRETA GARBO
DRAWS CROWD
TO RITZ THEATRE

Great Garba achieves the finest performance of her career as the heroine of "Susan Lenox, Her Fall and Rise," which was screened Wednesday and Thursday at the Ritz Theatre as a new Metro-Goldwyn offering. Some critics have expressed the opinion that Garbo's appearances in talkies have been marked by cumbersome vehicles with a tendency toward stilted action. Certainly, no such complaint can be made of the picturization of the David Graham Phillips novel, modernized and directed by Robert Z. Leonard with skillful treatment and artistic presentation.

The new Garbo picture, which further introduces the striking Clark Gable as a romantic hero, packs more action and visual entertainment than any other talking picture this reviewer has seen since the first musicals. It moves at a swift pace, sweeps forward at a rapid tempo with fast-changing transitions that keep the interest ever kindled with fresh expectations.

FIRST EDITION OF PAPER FOLLOWING DEATH OF GEORGE WASHINGTON

Lucile Oglesby
As the Bicentennial of George Washington's Birthday is close at hand, scarcely a person in the United States has not some thought of celebration in his mind in some way or another. It is a thing of much interest to the people today and even the death of such a leader is regretted in present time. Below is an extract of a paper printed in 1800, the year following Washington's death. It shows the mournful sentiment produced by people at the time of his departure. This paper was printed at Kingston, (Ulster County) by Samuel Freer and San, Saturday Jan. 4, 1800 and was loaned to the school by Rev. J. L. Ratliff, of this town.

TO THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES:

The Senate of the United States respectively takes leave, sir, to express to you their deep regrets for the loss their country has sustained in the death of General George Washington. This event, so distressing to all of our fellow citizens, must be peculiarly heavy to you, who have long been associated with him in deeds of patriotism. Permit us, sir, to mingle our tears with yours: of this occasion it is manly to weep. To lose such a man at such a crisis is no common calamity to the world: our country mourns her Father. The Almighty disposer of human events has taken from us our greatest Benefactor and ornament. It becomes us to submit with reverence to him, who "maketh darkness his Pavilion."

With Patriotic pride we review the life of our Washington and compare him with those of other countries, who have been pre-eminent in fame. Ancient and modern fames are diminished before him. Greatness and gift have too often been allied, but his fame is wider than that is brilliant. The destroyers of nations stood abashed at the majesty of his virtues. It reproved the temperance of their ambitions and darkened the splendor of victory, he has travelled on to the end of his journey and carried with him an increasing weight of honor: he has deposited it safely, where misfortune cannot tarnish it—where malice cannot blast it. Favored of Heaven, departed without exhibiting the weakness of humanity: magnanimous in debt, the darkness of the grave could not obscure his brightness.

Such was the man whom we deplore.—Thanks to God. His glory is consummated. Washington yet lives upon earth in his spotless example—his spirit is in heaven.
Let his country then consecrate the memory of the heroic General, the Patriotic Statesman, and the virtuous Sage: let them teach their children never to forget that the fruits of his labor, and his example are their inheritance.

John Adams, the President of that time made an answer of his expressions of regrets for the loss of the great country's leader.

TEXAS HISTORY CLASS

Elnora Andrews
The Texas history class is working very hard at the present. Mr. Holt, the teacher, had just about given up hope of getting enough pupils to take the subject, but finally they got more interested in the work and now they are having a fine time.

The ones that are taking history are: Morris Bricker, Berlice Bricker, Sammie Luedecke, Vance and Lawrence Morgan, Lawson Edmiston, Pauline Rape Oveeda Faught, Lucile Oglesby, Hassell Ratliff, and John E. Rodgers.

They have just received their texts and work books. That looks as if they meant work!! The class is trying to get affiliation in the subject.

FRESHMAN HISTORY

Aletha Faught
History is getting more interesting every day. We have been studying wars in our text book from the beginning of the year and now we seem to have one on hand to study.
Every one in class is supposed to have a current event each Monday and they are all supposed to be different. All the current events this week however are on war. It seems to take up nearly all the newspapers.
