Christian Endeavor Notes

On Sunday evening August 27th the Endeavorers gathered at the First Christian Church, where they were awaited by Mr. Creath, with his trumpet. When the president, Miss Mittie Owens said, "Let us go to Pool's dam and have our lesson in the open," every one responded by moving forward in that direction; some walking and some riding on the truck.

As they wended their way to the trusting place, their attention was called to a glorious sun which was just going to rest behind the western hills. One felt keenly the glory of God's handiwork when witnessing such a magnificent scene. When the dam was reached, the leader, Miss Stella Schubert, requested everyone to stand in a circle under the beautiful green willow trees. The program, the subject being, "God Manifest in Nature," was opened by a prayer thanking God for His great out of doors, led by Mr. Creath.

As the moon began to illuminate the heavens with its soft lustre of light and the golden stars began to flicker the glimmer in the firmament, a flock of birds was seen flying south, reminding the young people that "Indian Summer" is near at hand and the winter will soon follow after. God created the heaven and the earth, the depth of the sea, the height of the hills, the seasons of the year, yea, the fowls of the air created He them. "Who is man that he is mindful of him?"

"Day is Dying in the West," was sung, led by Miss Davies. Each member answered the roll call with a verse of scripture pertaining to nature. The leader, asked a number of questions on the subject "What Does Nature Reveal of God to Man." Miss Marian Purser read the scripture lesson. The meeting was concluded with the saying of the Misspah benediction.

The young people were about to repair to their homes when Miss Carmen Barclay said, "Let's eat." A lunch of good things was spread and everyone seemed to enjoy them from the way everything disappeared.

The guests of the C. E. were Mrs. Blanche Niedermier and daughter of Van Horn, and Miss Gertrude Davies, who is a past president of a Fort Worth C. E. Society.

Resolution

Whereas, during the three years of National Prohibition the newspapers have admitted to their columns a superabundance of jokes at the expense of the Prohibition law; cartoons ridiculing Prohibition and the Prohibition Amendment, Prohibition Enforcement officers and articles to destroy respect for the law; and

Whereas, the moving picture shows have all too often shown upon the screen slurs, jokes and innuendoes and positive statements designed to create disrespect for this law. And

Whereas, prohibition is written into the fundamental law of both State and Nation and must and will be respected by every loyal American. Therefore, be it Resolved, that the Anti-Saloon League call upon the loyal American publications to exclude from their columns any further jokes or articles calculated to break down respect for the Constitution of the United States.

Resolved, second, that we call upon these publications to cease to refer to the Federal officers charged with the responsibility of enforcing the prohibition laws as "Hooch Hounds," "Slouts" and other terms lacking in respect for the position of one thus commissioned by the Federal Government.

Resolved, third, that we respectfully request the moving picture shows and legitimate stage to exclude from their programs everything that is calculated to create disrespect for the law and the officers charged with the responsibility of enforcing it.

Resolved, fourth, that we call upon the citizens of Texas to manifest their loyalty to the Government by personally showing respect to the law, refusing to be a party to its violation and to render every assistance toward the enforcement of the law and create the highest respect for the officers commissioned to its enforcement.

Judge Wilkerson's Injunction

Most of the acts leaders of the striking shop crafts workers are forbidden to engage in by the injunction issued by Judge Wilkerson, at the instance of Attorney General Daugherty, are acts which would be violative of some penal statute. However, some of the acts which are put under the interdiction of that injunction are acts which, to the lay apprehension at least, are unquestionably lawful. Of several examples which may be found in the order of Judge Wilkerson, that of entreating the men on strike to remain on strike is an act which it has heretofore been thought every labor leader had a right to engage in. That this and other acts of supposed lawfulness have been put under the ban of Judge Wilkerson's order, must, to say the least, excite some doubt in the minds of many whether he kept within the bounds of his constitutional authority. There is one hypothesis which would enable one to conclude that he has, and only one, it seems to The News. It is that he and Mr. Daugherty have acted on the assumption that, by striking in the attempt to nullify the decision of that governmental body known as the Labor Board, the shop crafts workers engaged in an unlawful conspiracy. Given that predicate, it would be a necessary conclusion that every act intended to gain the end of that conspiracy is unlawful, and even acts which, per se, are not so. It is only by some such reasoning as this, it seems to The News, that any legal rationality can be given to several of the interdictions found in Judge Wilkerson's restraining order, which, in its amplitude, is probably without precedent.

Whether true or not that his order is implicit with the idea that to strike against a decision of the Labor Board is unlawful, it is manifest that if labor leaders can be put under such restraints as this order imposes, there is little left to the right to strike, considered as a practical method of compulsion. A strike might still be called; but the calling of it would be well-nigh a vanity if acts in themselves lawful could not be engaged in as a means of maintaining solidarity among those who respond to the call. If once they call a strike, organized labor leaders may be straitjacketed and silenced in the degree that the order of Judge Wilkerson attempts to straitjacket and silence Mr. Jewell and his associates, the strike, once called, is doomed to the fiasco that is the inevitable end of a leaderless movement.

It is only a temporary order that Judge Wilkerson has made. The motion to make it permanent will give the striking shop craft workers their opportunity to be heard in opposition to those particular citations which they are not without reason for thinking are an invasion of constitutional rights. Then, one may believe, the order will be revised and reformed. That, too, The News thinks, is the better hope. For, much as one may sympathize with an action which is meant to save the country from the accumulating losses that the strike assesses, one may find reason for the fear that it will be more aggravative than curative. Washington's adventures into the strike have in no instance been shrewdly directed, and its latest one may prove to be the climax of an ascending series of mistakes.—Dallas News.

Behind Barricades

A statesman of France—keen of observation—has written a book in which he warns his countrymen as follows:

"Dangerous as might be a control exercised by a group of cosmopolitan financiers over the whole globe, this would stand in the road of normal progress less than the blind national captives of industry, sitting firmly entrenched behind the lines of their set customs and practices, avid of the petty gains of today and tomorrow, deaf to the menace of the catastrophe of day after."

Could anything better describe the conditions today in the United States of America?

American railroad captains, American coal capitalists, captains of American industry sundry and various, sitting firmly entrenched behind their self-built barricades of practice and custom, grasping for the petty profits of today and tomorrow, heedless and

Missouri Lady Suffered Until She Tried Cardui.—Says "Result Was Surprising."—Got Along Fine, Became Normal and Healthy.

Springfield Mo.—"My back was so weak I could hardly stand up, and I would have bearing-down pains and was not well at any time," says Mrs. M. V. Williams, wife of a well-known farmer on Route 8, this place. "I kept getting headaches and having to go to bed," continues Mrs. Williams describing the troubles from which she obtained relief through the use of Cardui. "My husband, having heard of Cardui, proposed getting it for me. I saw after taking some Cardui . . . that I was improving. The result was surprising. I felt like a different person."

"Later I suffered from weakness and weak back, and felt all run-down. I did not rest well at night, I was so nervous and cross. My husband said he would get me some Cardui, which he did. It strengthened me . . . My doctor said I got along fine. I was in good healthy condition. I cannot say too much for it."

How Would a "Compleat" Car Work Out in Texas?

In Paris, France, when a street car is full, the driver hangs out a sign saying "Compleat," and the car does not stop for passengers. A time-honored joke on the green tourist is to tell him of the wonders of Compleat and direct him where he can get a car for the place. Of course, the tourist waits an exasperating time for a Compleat car to take him aboard. Then, doubtless, he sees the joke and would like to find the joker.

Co-Operation Means
"Cooperation" is almost as the farm journals and daily was the word "propaganda" the war. Every farmer ought what it means, but not all what they preach in connection with.

Co-operation means the sinking of individual interest for the general good of the community, or for the benefit of individuals organized for a specific purpose. If the movement is to succeed, it must be a broad, generous interest of the term. Co-operators loyal to each other and to the community. If their affairs are any chance, he mismanaged, should hold himself responsible, and if convinced that operation is correct, support the organization and avoid errors.

Co-operation, however, should be broader meaning than just some organization. Farmers co-operate with merchants and working to be helpful in making a community a desirable place to live; assisting in making the community prosperous in order themselves can prosper. Cooperation being a good neighbor, of education and an active

Literary Digest Poll Official poll can be taken as evidence, of course, but it should be regarded as val-

Officially and conscientiously made polls are the case with regard to the Literary Digest poll, it may well be regarded as representing a fair sample of public opinion in so far as it is reached and registered.
The element of apathy however keeps so many citizens away from the ballot box, deters a far larger number from answering questions even though they are given voluntarily.

Those who have registered a full expression of public opinion at an election in this country, and we probably will be much more difficult to register by post card.

At the same time, those who receive questions in any comprehensive represent an approximate sample of what often occurs that newspaper forecast election results with accuracy.

People who are not blinded by prejudice, and who would really know how the public feels on a candidate or issue, take part in national polls, especially when they are on a broad and honest basis and their informational

Literary Digest poll now according to the 1914, 478 votes on the prohibition, and 777,816 on the opposition.

question favor enforcement of the act as it now exists, 322, and like to see it modified, and do not believe in prohibition.
Those who would like to have the amendment repealed.

Those voting on the bonus question are in favor and 394,903 opposed.

Prohibition, if this poll signifies at all, it signifies that the majority of people with the constitutional amendment, while a majority, not so large, but still substantial.
The bonus, it looks like an easy sell.—Houston Chronicle.

West vs. East
In every community west of the Allegheites, hundreds of men and women have served on law and order committees, have given money to gather evidence against violators of the prohibition law, have spent their time and energy and funds to make prohibition a success. These men are not cranks, but business men, farmers, professional men, railroad officers, bankers—good middle-class folks. They acted as they did somewhat because they believed in prohibition, but largely because they believed in the Constitution and in a decent and orderly observance of law.
They were inspired by the oldest tradition of the Anglo-Saxon people.

They cannot be laughed out of their convictions, nor fooled by fine talk about light wines and beer. They feel deeply that light wines and beer means the return of the old-fashioned saloon and nothing less, and that if you cannot maintain absolute prohibition, you cannot enforce partial prohibition with a saloon where light wines and beer are sold as a rendezvous of the boot-legger of hard liquor! They fear that the same bootlegging agencies which tried to overthrow prohibition, the same agencies against which men and women in these western communities have been fighting from ten to forty years, will come back with light wines and beer.

And on the eastern seaboard this western position is regarded as utterly untenable. When it is taken by public men, it is assumed that it is the position of the demagogue. When it is reflected in the attitude of the commonwealth, it is regarded as a wave of emotionalism. So we have a clash.
We have here different populations with different standards of belief.
These differing beliefs are translated into different standards of morals.

Kansas and thirty states of her tradition and kind would no more lose their forty years' fight against slavery than they would lose their four years' fight against slavery. Yet state prohibition is practically impossible. For bootlegging across state lines tends to reduce the efficacy of all prohibitory laws.
The states that believe in prohibition feel just as bitterly when they read meetings in New York, sponsored by the rich and the great, demanding the repeal of the eighteenth amendment, as New York would feel at a meeting out in the cornfields demanding the repeal of a certain clause in the fourteenth amendment often used to protect the rich.—William Allen White in Collier's Weekly.

American Food Must Agree With Russia

Americans will be a little surprised to learn that soviet Russia is dancing around on the edge of Europe's new war crisis watching for a chance to jump in. The last word they had from that country the people were standing in line waiting for a bowl of American soup.

Of course, we don't begrudge 20 million dollars spent to feed a country too exhausted to work, but if we were feeding Russia out of a spoon all winter merely that she might put in the summer fighting, there seems some question as to whether we picked the right subject for charity. The soviet, it is now said, has new visions of conquest. It is debating whether to have a nice war with Poland or Rumania or both. It is expectantly watching the development of the crisis in Central and Southeastern Europe, confident that it will produce a fight of some kind and determined not to be cheated of a share in it. If Russia has to go to war again, may we ask if it expects us to hold the baby while it's gone?
And who's going to warm the milk for Austria's baby if she goes marching, too? The same wet nurse, we suppose.
No wonder Europe takes to war so joyfully. It has nothing but the fun of fighting while the United States supports its family. War no doubt is a gay pastime for countries that have no domestic responsibilities; Russia and the rest of them may be pushing a good thing too far. We don't want to be unkind, but if they're going to jump up from their breakfast of American groceries over there and rush off to war, it would serve them right if we requested them to take their interesting families right along with them.— Kansas City Times.

M. G. Story was here Tuesday from his home in Martin County. Mr. Story states that he has ninety acres of cotton that is looking fairly good. On account of having received some good showers in July his cotton is still growing and it will be two weeks before it begins to open.

Of all the excuses there are by which this old world is accused, this "haven't got time" is by far the poorest, the feeblest, the worst. A delusion it is and a snare; if the habit is yours you should shake it. If you wish well to do what is offered to you you'll find time to do it.—make it.

Injunction is Violation of Clayton Anti-Trust Act, Says Sam Gompers

Washington, Sept. 1.—That the injunction granted the Federal Government against the striking railway shop-men's unions is illegal, is the contention of Samuel Gompers.

Gompers declared the rail strike injunction a violation of Section 20 of the Clayton Anti-Trust Act, which provides the "no restraining order or injunction shall be granted by any court of the United States, or a Judge, or the Judges thereof, in any case between an employer and employes, or between employers and employes, or between employes, or between persons employed and persons seeking employment, involving, or growing out of a dispute concerning terms or conditions of employment, unless necessary to prevent irreparable injury to property, or to a property right, of the party making the application, for which injury there is no adequate remedy at law, and such property or property rights must be described with particularity in the applications, which must be in writing and sworn to by the applicant or by his agent of attorney."

"The Government has no property right," Gompers pointed out, "and much less has it any property in the railroads. Surely this most outrageous proceeding can not be justified. The only thing the injunction doesn't contain is an order to the men to return to work under penalty of imprisonment for contempt of court."

"The injunction is really a process of manufacturing radicalism and Bolshevism. It is quite strange that in our republic, founded on the principles of the recognition of the rights of man, that political party, which under Lincoln, abolished human slavery, is now engaged in a movement for the restitution of compulsory labor."

A. RUECKART. 49-41

This is the last day of the performance in the senate of the great tragico-comedy "Robbing the Consumer." The closing acts, while in harmony with the earlier ones, are properly stronger, more effective and cumulative. Only eight republican senators voted against duties on cutlery reaching from 118 to 225 per cent. The duties on knives will be felt in every house and in a multitude of shops. The duties on scissors and shears stretch from 103 to 445 per cent. Thus, as so many times before in the course of this extraordinary bill, most republican senators have forgotten what Tom Reed said about tariff rates that anger the women.
These excesses of protection will bring their own punishment. The makers of this tariff have been making Democratic votes every day. Shepherd Gooding is willing to vote for a 1,000 per cent duty; Shepherd Stanfield for a 4,000 per cent duty. These symptoms seem to be almost pathological, but they are welcome. From first to last, the Republicans have neglected nothing that could bring disaster on their party. They have deliberately and ostentatiously plundered the mass of the people. The people will return their thanks in November. How cheering it must be to Mr. McCumber and his fellow-sages to read Republican appreciations of their work such as this testimonial from the Boston Transcript, so long so close to the gra-tion bosom of Henry Cabot Lodge: "It would be hard for congress to draft a worse tariff than that to be sent to conference by the senate this week. It ought to be easy to purge the bill of some of its more flagrant schedules in the wake of the rebuke which we hope and believe the party in power will receive at the polls next November." What economic, what political genius must have been spent in the concoction of a tariff that stirs in Republicans a burning desire for Republican defeat!—New York Times.

Bill Offered to Curb Czarism
Washington.—Aiming at the federal injunction against striking shopmen, Representative Huddleston, Democrat, Alabama, has introduced a bill which would extend the malfeasance statutes to include any official of the government, who by means of his authority deprives or attempts to deprive any person of his lawful freedom of speech, press or of assembly. Huddleston contended in a statement that the Chicago injunction is illegal. He would have any government agent found guilty of illegally using such power in an industrial controversy committed to prison for a maximum of ten years or fined up to $10,000.

thousand men and women wanted in Texas immediate in heart, love sympathy will for the practice and of truth, temperance, virtue, kindness and religious fellow-ship the people and citizenship men and women who are by down all their religious prejudices and meet to wherever and whenever it is convenient and consecrate their lives, regardless of all former practices, for the glory and of Almighty God, our Creator and for the good of the people, and in Texas today.

men and women are now writing in expelling all hatred, and unwholesome differences from the minds and the hearts and substitute therefor, with a united spirit of brotherly good will and brotherly love among the people of this great country.

is wanted today in the State a million men and women to be free in the exercise and of their religious worship, in expressions, in their loyalty to set, not to any special of religion or manner of worship, to truth, to love, to and universal good will to all and for the moral uplift and development of the human race. See MRS. G. G. KNIGHT, in Dallas News.

The Best Way Out

To The Press: My idea of the best way out of the railroad strike and the best way to stay out is for the railroad labor board to reconsider its decision and give the striking shopmen a new hearing on account of the cost of living having gone up since it made its decision.

But in the meantime, let the men return to work at the same terms as before the strike until a settlement can be reached.

Further labor unrest could be prevented by arranging a profit-sharing plan whereby the railroad companies and the employes could both make a fair profit.

A commission of fact-finders representing the welfare of America, and not one side of the controversy, could be established to work in harmony with the IOC. This commission could give a complete audit of the railroad books and a fair average of the cost of living. Then allowing the employes a fair living wage, they could set freight and passenger rates in accordance so as to allow a fair return on the money invested.

The books should be audited each year, and after the earnings of the roads are determined, the employes should be allowed one-tenth of some fixed amount as their share of the profit.

In doing that every employe would be interested in how much the roads made and in determining the share of profit to the employes it should be so arranged that the more efficient the road the greater the profit to the employes.

I believe that by this or some similar plan the roads would be 100 per cent efficient and the men would become contented and prosperous home owners. When labor is allowed to prosper, the world prospers. — A READER, in Fort Worth Press.

Baptists to Raise $1,500,000

Baptists of Texas will undertake to raise $1,500,000 in cash between now and the meeting of the annual convention in Waco, about the middle of November.

Next week, September 12, a great rally of pastors, missionaries, and laymen will be held in Fort Worth, to which a rate of one and one-half fare for the round trip on the certificate plan has been granted by the railroads.

Following this meeting an All-State Motor Tour is being planned, during which more than 2400 churches will be visited within a single week, beginning September 25th.

The district associational meetings are now being held throughout the state, more than 120 in number, and these are discussing the big objective set by the Baptist State Executive Board to care for the program of state missions, schools, hospitals, orphanage and other enterprises fostered by Texas Baptists.

Three years ago the Baptists of the State pledged sixteen million dollars to be paid in five years and the amount now sought will apply as part payment on these pledges.

"MAN'S INHUMANITY TO MAN"

Immortal Line Composed by Robert Burns an Indication of Protest Against Worldly Inequality.

"Man's inhumanity to man makes countless thousands mourn."

Robert Burns (1739-1796), the famous Scottish poet, is the author of the line and the name of the poem is "Man Was Made to Mourn; A Dirge." According to Charles Kent, Burns caught the notion of the title from the refrain of an old song on "The Life and Age of Man," named by him in one of his letters to Mrs. Dunlop, a refrain running, "Ah, man was made to mourn." Mr. Kent says that "the wayfarer alluded to in the opening lines was a certain James Andrew, a miller of Mauchline. Immediately before their chance meeting the poet, in answer to the appeal of a half-distracted mother, had set forth, in the deepening twilight, along the banks of the river, in search of a lassie named Kate Kemp, who, as well as a cow which had been in her charge, had disappeared. As farmer and miller continued their quest together in the gloaming, the former, turning suddenly taciturn, composed the verses." J. G. Lockhart, in his "Life of Burns," remarks: "The indignation with which Burns through life contemplated the inequality of human condition, and particularly (and who shall say with absolute justice?) the contrast between his own felt intellectual strength and his worldly circumstances, were never more bitterly nor more loftily expressed than in some of these stanzas: "See, yonder, poor, o'er-labored wight, etc."

GOT SECRET OF "JOSS-STICK"

Two Adventurers Said to Have Discovered Carefully Guarded Method of Its Manufacture.

There is a huge consumption of so-called "joss-sticks" in all countries where Buddhist worship is celebrated. These ceremonial candles, whose use corresponds very nearly to that of the wax candles used in the ceremonies of the Catholic church, are lighted on similar occasions, ceremonies of festivity, or mourning, prayer or thanksgiving to divinities, etc. Joss-sticks are at once candles and incense, since, like the latter, they burn without apparent flame.

The preparation of joss-sticks is shrouded in some mystery, and the process is still practically unknown, those who carry it on being chosen from a special class and kept in rigorous seclusion. Decker and Hurrier, during a sojourn in Indo-China and China, succeeded, however, in discovering the essential points of manufacture.

A squared strip of bamboo of varying length and thickness, according to the size of the joss-stick that is to be made, is skillfully rolled on an inclined surface, in a mixture of odoriferous powders agglutinated by resin, made viscous by slight elevation of temperature. One of the ends is left as it is, to serve as a handle. In some cases the bamboo is replaced with a flexible rod which enables the joss-stick to be rolled in spiral form.

Wall-Paper Collecting.

The hobby of collecting wall paper had a distinguished pioneer in Sir Walter Scott, who in one of his letters narrates his delight in a gift which came to him when he was adorning Abbotsford. He was in a quandary as to an appropriate wall decoration for his "with-drawing room," which, with the library, was to be the most distinguished chamber in the mansion. Tapestry ran too great a price, and as for ordinary designed wall-papers, they were lacking in distinction. But a friend who had sojourned for long in the East, and had brought home a collection of oriental objects, found among them a number of rolls of gilt Chinese paper, adorned with dragons and other reptiles of the imagination. He offered the rolls to Sir Walter, who saw in the design the very thing that suited. The paper stands today almost as fresh as when it was put up in the "Wizard's" baronial hall.

"Once Won't Hurt You."

All the troubles of the would-be dieter aren't due to lack of will power. A woman playwright says friends are responsible for inducing one to disregard the doctor's orders, however friendly their motives may be. "I'm having the hardest time," she wailed, according to the New York Sun, "keeping to my diet. Well-meaning friends invite me to lunch and to dinner and then are offended if I don't sample everything on the menu. Just once won't hurt you," they argue—or, "well, I've planned this dinner for you and you've got to eat it." The result is you generally always do eat it—with subsequent regrets. The only remedy is to stay home for all meals—and that takes more will power than it does to diet."

Icy-Hot of Course.

Bert Acosta, the air champion, said at a banquet in Omaha: "It is so cold in an airplane when you reach great altitudes that if you try to describe the weather up there you feel like a liar. "Yes, you feel like the farm hand who said: "Yep, mighty cold day. But, 'tain't nothin' to what I seen to hum wunst in the Vermont mountains. Why, one day in pig-hikin' time it was so dum that we had a little of blin' snow on the ground, and when

Salvation Army to Attend Legion Meet

Doughboys, doughnuts and the doughnut girl will meet at the annual convention of the Texas department American Legion in Waco, Sept. 11 to 13. The reunion will bring vividly to mind memories of the days over there.

The Salvation Army will have a four-fold part in making the Convention period a happy time for the former service men, and in showing the Legionnaires that their welfare is as much the concern of the Salvation Army as it was in the days of the war.

Lieut-Col. George Wood of Dallas, Commander of the Salvation Army in the Southwestern Division, will address the Convention at the opening session on Sept. 11th, conveying to the war veterans the greetings of the Salvation Army and telling them of what the Army is doing and planning in their behalf.

The Salvation Army is cooperating with the housing committee in Waco and is preparing to provide accommodations for a number of their delegates and their friends.

It also is planned to throw open the downtown hall for a rest room, making it a replica of the old time Salvation Army war camp huts. Here the veterans will find a place to rest, to write Doughnuts and coffee will also be handed out by the lassies just as they were over in France. Every doughboy and those who accompany him to the convention will be eager to renew old friendships across the counter of the doughnut "dugouts."

A booth will be erected near the convention hall and another will be installed in the rest room, where the boys may have their doughnuts and coffee whenever they care for them. The lassies are prepared for a wild scramble, just as they were when the Salvation Army placed doughnut dugouts all over Kansas City last year for the National Legion Convention.

Col. Wood has ordered Salvation Army officers from adjacent cities to be in Waco during the convention and they will bend their energies toward making the reunion one of the most glorious the boys have had since they returned from France and the camps in this country.

Save Union Men

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 1.—The prayer for a temporary injunction pending hearing for permanent and perpetual restraining order, filed by Attorney General Daugherty today, discloses that the unions and members are sued individually and as representatives of their organizations.

It was charged that the defendants, professing to be dissatisfied with wage decision No. 1,098, handed down last June 5, by the Railroad Labor Board, "conspired, combined and confederated together and agreed with each other and among themselves, to repudiate, ignore, violate, disobey and refuse to accept or be bound by that decision, and to quit in a body and abandon the service and employment of the railway companies at one and the same time," and "an objection to or protest against Decision No. 1,098, and as a protest against and a contempt for the Railroad Labor Board, and as a protest against and a contempt for the United States and the Government thereof and as an attempt to deprive the railway companies of the power and facilities with which to discharge their functions and obligations to the public and also to coerce and compel the railway companies also to repudiate, ignore, violate and disobey and refuse to accept or be bound by Decision No. 1,098."

The petition then set forth that the strike call had been promulgated by the defendants to the members of the federated shop crafts on June 29, 1922, and that it became effective on July 1. A copy of the strike call was included in the petition. It was further set forth that B. M. Jewell, head of the railway employees' department of the American Federation of Labor, and one of the defendants, had in public statements said that approximately 90 per cent of railroad shop employees had quit work. As a result of the strike, the petition averred, railroad companies were compelled to abandon some passenger trains and freight trains with consequent inability to carry mails and food, fuel and other necessities in interstate and foreign commerce and supplies for the immediate needs of the public, especially in the large cities.

The suit sought to enjoin all railway employees, attorneys, servants, agents, associates and members and all persons acting in aid or in conjunction with them, primarily, until final hearing and permanently thereafter, from in any manner interfering with, hindering or obstructing railway companies, their agents, servants, or employees in the operation of their respective railroads and systems of transportation or the performance of their public duties and obligations in the transportation of passengers and property in interstate commerce and the carriage of the mails, and from in any manner interfering with, hindering or obstructing the agents, servants and employees of said railway companies or any of them, engaged in inspection, repair, operation and use of trains, locomotives, cars and other equipment of said railway companies or any of them, and from preventing or attempting to prevent any person or persons from freely entering into or from continuing in the employ of said railway companies for the purpose of inspection and repairing of locomotives and cars, or otherwise; or to injure, interfere, hinder any employ of the railroad companies in connection with the performance of their duties as such employes or while going to or returning from the premises of said railway companies in connection with their said employments, or at any time or place by displays of force or numbers, the making of threats, intimidations, acts of violence, opprobrious jeers, suggestions of danger, taunts, entreaties or other unlawful acts of conduct toward an employe or employer or officers of said railway companies or towards any persons desirous of or contemplating entering into such employment.

The petition continued as follows: "Loitering, or being unnecessarily in the vicinity of the points and places of ingress or egress of the employes of said railway companies, and from such premises in connection with their said employment or aiding, abetting, directing or encouraging any person or persons, organizations or associations by letters, telegrams, telephones, word of mouth, or otherwise to do any of the acts aforesaid; trespassing or entering or going upon the premises of the said railway companies or any of them to do any acts of the aforesaid or for any other purpose whatsoever at any place or in the vicinity of any place where the employes of said companies are engaged in inspecting, overhauling, inspecting or repairing locomotives, cars or other equipment, or where such employes customarily perform such duties or at any other place on the premises of said railway companies except where the public generally are invited to come to transact business with said railway companies as common carriers of passengers and property in interstate commerce.

"Inducing or attempting to induce by the use of threats, violent or abusive language, opprobrious epithets, physical violence or threats thereof, intimidation, display of numbers of force, jeers, entreaties, arguments, persuasions, rewards or otherwise any person or persons to abandon the employment of said railway corporation or any of them or to refrain from entering such employment.

"Engaging, directing or encouraging others to engage in the practice commonly known as picketing, that is to say assembling or causing to be assembled numbers of the members of said federated shop crafts or others in sympathy with them in proximity of said railroad companies or in the vicinity of where the employes thereof are required to work and perform their duties or acts, or near the places of ingress or egress thereto or therefrom and by threats, persuasion, jeers, violent or abusive language, violence or threats of violence, taunts, entreaties or arguments or in any other way attempt to prevent any of the employes of the said railway companies or any of them from entering upon or continuing in their duties as such employes, also attempts to prevent any person or persons from entering or continuing in the employment of said railway companies and from aiding, abetting, ordering, assisting, directing or encouraging in any way any person or persons in the commission of any of said acts.

"Congregating upon or directing, aiding or encouraging the congregation upon or maintaining at or near any of the yards, shops, depots, terminals, tracts, way lands, road beds or premises of said railway companies or any guards, pickets or persons to perform any act of guarding, picketing or patrolling any such yards, shops, depots, terminals or other premises of said railway companies, or in any manner threaten, intimidate by suggestion of danger of personal violence toward any servants or employe of said companies or any of them, or toward persons contemplating the entering of such employment, or aiding, encouraging or causing any other person or persons so to do.

"Doing or causing or in any manner conspiring, combining, directing, commanding or encouraging the doing or causing the doing by any person or persons of any injury or bodily harm to any of the servants, agents or employes of said railway companies or any of them, going single or collectively to the homes, abodes or places of residence of any employe of the said railway companies or any of them for the purpose of intimidating, threatening or coercing such employe or members of his family, or in any manner by violence or threats of violence or otherwise directed toward any said employe or member of his family to induce or attempt to induce such employe to refuse to perform his duties as an employe of said railway companies or any of them; from so attempting to prevent any person or persons from entering the employ of either of the said railway companies and from aiding, encouraging, directing, commanding or causing any such person or persons so to do.

"In any manner directly or indirectly hindering, obstructing or impeding the operation of any of the trains of said railway companies or any of them in the movement, transportation of passengers and property in interstate commerce or in the carriage of the mails, or in the performance of any other duty as common carriers and from aiding, abetting, causing, encouraging, causing or directing any person or persons, association or organization to do or cause to be done any of the matters of the things aforesaid.

"In any manner by letters, printed or other circulars, telegrams, telephone, word of mouth, oral persuasion or suggestion through interviews to be published in newspapers or otherwise in any manner whatsoever encourage, direct or command any person, whether a member or any of either of said labor organization or association, defendants herein, or otherwise, to abandon the employment of said railway companies or any of them to refrain from entering the service of said railway companies, or either of them.

Curious, Odd, and Strange Happenings of the Daily News

A woman patient in a Chicago hospital was treated with a tube of radium inserted in an incision in her body. When the surgeons went to remove it, it had disappeared. Rather than have the doctors suffer the loss of fourteen thousand dollars, she submitted to another operation to recover the tube which had burned through into another part of her body. The radium was found and the human radium mine recovered.

A Birmingham, Ala., man had the habit of sleep walking well developed. A coroner's jury decided, after he was found with a bullet in him, that he had committed suicide while asleep, a case unique in annals of both law and medicine.

Montreal, Canada, is filled with independent young women who do not propose to abide by the dictates of Dame Fashion, but who will wear the short skirt of today regardless of what dress designers of Paris, London, and New York say is the style. The "No Long Skirt League" already has hundreds of members pledged to wear skirts of present-day length.

A Honolulu man has applied for a divorce. His wife, he testifies, deserted him thirty-seven years ago. All these years he has been sure she would return to him, but has finally given up hope. He is awarded the prize, by his friends, of being the champion marital hopper in captivity.

A Muskegon, Mich., woman, in an endeavor to settle a family quarrel, left nearly two hundred thousand dollars to her daughter on condition that she apologized for her part in the quarrel to her brother. If she didn't, he was to receive the money. Readers have three guesses as to what she did.

Baptist Notes

On last Sunday we had some inspiring visitors with us in the different services of the day.

Mr. Yarbrough, one of the most efficient of the State Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. workers, made an enthusiastic talk in a special meeting of the teachers during the closing moments of the S. S., presenting the six point system of grading.

Rev. Mr. Strother of Waco, was a welcome visitor in the S. S. and had some fine things to say. He also led the Wednesday evening prayer meeting in a joyous way, reading the seventeenth chapter of John and pointing out some of the great teachings from this wonderful prayer of our Lord.

Our esteemed Y. M. C. A. director, Mr. Manuel, says he is not a preacher but he knows how to fill a pulpit so acceptably that most who heard him Sunday would have been entirely misled if he had not so stated. He read a part of the account of Ezekiel's vision and dwelt impressively on the importance of having a great vision rather than being visionary. Only those, he said, having and heeding a vision of real service can live to the best advantage. Many very fine thoughts were brought out and we felt thankful that the young men of our town are frequently under the influence of one of such high standards.

In the evening Rev. J. W. Langhan of Abilene, preached an evangelistic sermon. Mr. Langhan has held some very successful meetings this summer and although coming right from one of these, he preached with as much vigor as if he had been having a summer of rest. Both he and Mr. Strother are to attend the associational meeting at Stanton this week.

The ladies of the church had their regular monthly business meeting at the church last Monday. The election of officers resulted in the reelection of those already holding office and choice of Mrs. C. E. Holmes as corresponding secretary and treasurer. Some arrangements were made for attending the association at Stanton, and several of the ladies signified their intention to go.

Sunday school as usual next Sunday at 9:45. Preaching at 11 a. m. and 8 p. m. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening at 8. A cordial welcome for all.

Then and Now

Andrew Jackson was a great President of the United States. The chief issue in his time was the attempt of centralized financial power to control absolutely the common people of the country. Samuel Biddle, the Morgan of his day, boasted that he ruled the nation and presidents did as he wished. Jackson swore that, if elected president, he would break the power of the banker group. The cultured, man-couraged Biddle laughed to scorn the rough, Southern Indian fighter. The common people stuck to Jackson. Jackson kept the faith and when the smoke of battle and the worst panic in our history cleared away, Biddle was humbled; the centralized bank was dissolved; the genius of America, which is the spirit of common humanity, was triumphant; and Jackson was chief hero of the Nation till Lincoln took the torch.

Brother AMERICANS, that same fight is on again. The banker group which governs the present administration, and which controls the labor policy of the railroads through T. De Witt Cuyler, head of the railway executives association, started out soon after the roads were returned to the owners by the Government, to force a strike of shopmen and to follow up by a general effort to smash the railroad unions. This was to be in line with the nation-wide movement of capital after the war to crush unionism which had appeared as the only effective bulwark of the common people to prevent the complete domination of great wealth. The first step taken by the roads was to close down their shops and to let out their repair work to private "dummy" corporations operating without any restrictions. The chief figure in the banker group is Cuyler, who told the Labor Board that he was a banker and lawyer, and had no practical experience as a railroad operator.

When the labor committee of the executives association made a report favoring conferences with the unions to arrange agreements, there was but one member of the committee, W. W. Atterbury, opposed to that policy. He made a minority report against it. The association of executives adopted the minority report 60 to 41. The New York Central and the Pennsylvania cast 18 of the 60 votes. Cary Gray, head of the Union Pacific, was chairman of the labor committee. He, like Daniel Willard, head of the Baltimore and Ohio, is a practical railroad operator of long experience. Mr. Gray resigned as chairman of the labor committee, and Mr. Cuyler appointed Atterbury in his place. The banker group was in the saddle. Then came the fight.

Brother AMERICANS, in the time of our fathers, the cathedrals and the churches were the finest buildings of the community. Today the finest buildings are the banks. There is a reason. Money-storage is beginning as in Jackson's day to throttle humanity. The master iniquities of our time are connected with money-storage. Property was intended to secure freedom and self-development. But the acquisitive instinct, like the sex instinct, easily breaks bounds and becomes ravenous, yet unlike the sex instinct, there is no natural limit to money madness. Money Madness flouts the value of human life and treads hard on the neck of the lowly. The shopmen, who are one regiment of the common people, are at "death grips" with the money-mad banker group.

Prosperity Waiting to be Welcomed

Predictions of prosperity to come have been taking much space in the public press for the last year. Opinions of many men supposedly qualified to speak with authority have been sought and eagerly published. But here is not a prediction based on hope or "general conditions" but upon statistical facts. Some New York banks took the trouble to gather up the facts and present them as real evidence. According to these figures, bank clearings in 165 cities are 15.7 per cent higher than a year ago; industrial employment in New York State 11 per cent and throughout the county 15 per cent; pig iron production 177 per cent; zinc production 84 per cent; automobile 89 per cent; sugar millings 78 per cent; electric power production 21 per cent; building contracts 61 per cent, etc. These figures are the true index of what has happened and a firm foundation on which to build a tremendous prosperity for the immediate future.

Punchettes

When you face the world and try to do something for the benefit of mankind, you are confronted with serious problems. How to solve them, how to eradicate the evils, and how to succeed in the work of general betterment is, of course, a great task. The following problems, if solved, would bring America peace, happiness, and prosperity. Let us solve them.

SOME PROBLEMS

FIRST—Apathy. America's people love good humor. Feed them well and permit them to sleep and they will laugh through any storm and ride through any disaster. Immediately after the disasters of life have apparently passed, however, they settle down into a state of apathy. That condition is today settling upon us. During the war, we preached preparation, watchfulness, and the curbing of all radical forces. When peace was announced, we settled back into the habit of eating, sleeping, and laughing. The "red" forces didn't sleep; the powers antagonistic to good government didn't sleep. Apathy is the enemy of preparation. America has never been ready for any war, and unless we cure apathy, we will never be ready for any battle. Every boy in America should have at least three months of military training; every young man in America should take advantage of the Citizen's Training Camp every summer. SECOND—Broken family altars. Ninety-three per cent of the homes of America are without family altars, and ninety-nine per cent of the homes of the world are without family altars. You cannot rear a family in an un-Godly atmosphere and give to the world virtuous sons and daughters. Millions of our people have passed through the infamous divorce court because the family altar was not in the home to check the march toward domestic destruction.

THIRD—Sabbath desecration. Men cannot ignore the law of God which commands every man to stand still and rest on the first day of the week. The Sabbath desecration which is on the increase in this country is largely responsible for the confusion, the chaos, and the anarchy that is rampant in this land. Bring men back to the observance of the Holy Sabbath.

FOURTH—Neglected spiritual duties. It is the duty of every man to be in his church pew every Sunday morning, to give his child a spiritual education, to set before his family a spiritual example and to give some of his time to the spiritual work of the church. Men are neglecting their churches; they are forgetting their spiritual duties; they are omitting to pay their obligations to God.

America was intended to be a land of Christian people. You can't be Christian and neglect your spiritual obligations.

Poem by UNCLE JOHN

In summer evenin's, calm an' still, we used to hear the whippoorwill send forth his plaintive note; we heard the twitter of the frog—the baying of the old coon-dawg,—the gruntin' of the shot. The glory of the summer night, when cricket's chirp an' skeeter's bite, lent spirit to the hour,—delightful in its warp an' woof, the rain-drops on the clapboard roof, grew dreamers full of power. . . . But now, alas! The modern way commences when we hit the hay, an' scorns the midnight bell. . . . We hear the squawks from Timbuctoo—the dismal groans from Waterloo,—the frenzied shrieks from hell! We gather in all noise that's made,—the devilish rot of every grade—broadcasted through the air. . . . We tune our dingus up at night, and ketch the hymns of hate an' spite, that's let off—everywhere!

WIRELESS

I used to use a poultice hot, for all the innard pains I got—to draw 'em to the skin,—but I ain't got no keen desire fer rigs that draw without no wire, an' fetch hysterics in!

Yours truly,
Uncle John

HOMIE PHILOSOPHY for 1922

HALF of us don't begin to think before we're thirty-five. We just think we think. When we get to forty we're still fools but some of us know it. We have a right to expect twenty-three years of life. At forty-five we may expect to live twenty years, at fifty we can look forward to sixteen years and at fifty-five, thirteen years and the bell will ring if it don't ring before. Fancy a fellow having thirteen years to live taking time fault finding. He sleeps half the time. That cuts him down to six and a half years. Chop out holidays, Sundays, time for three a day and he's just got time to start what he hopes to finish. Come to think of it, some of us had better quit picking on the other fellow and get busy.

A "Truth in Politics" Law

Although Congress hesitates to pass the "Truth in Fabric" bill, perhaps the Texas Legislature will not be so slow in giving consideration to the demand for a "Truth in Politics" law. Certainly such a law is needed and the good people of the State are no doubt in a frame of mind to welcome such a measure. They have passed through two primary election campaigns, neither of which reflect credit upon the candidates or the State itself. The character of the contending candidates was discussed in lieu of issues. The lie was passed backward and forward regularly and indiscriminately. If 10 per cent of what was charged against candidates for nomination is true, then the law enforcement officers of the State have been lax in their duty.

It has become a custom of candidates, in sending out advance notices of addresses, to announce in bold type that they will answer in toto each and every charge made by his opponent in his last speech and in turn is prepared to pour some red-hot shot into the enemies' camp. His efforts on the occasion usually amount to a complete denial of the charges made against him, without submitting a scintilla of evidence, and in turn making equally as slanderous statements regarding the other men in the race.

Decent Texans have had their fill of what is known as "hot campaigns." They will welcome candidates for high as well as minor officials who will present their cause to them in a gentlemanly manner. What a relief it will be to hear a candidate discuss issues, if there be any, instead of the character of his opponent. Let us have a "Truth in Politics" law which will require every candidate to present, upon demand, and under oath, any evidence he may have, in proof of statements made upon the public platform, or in the public prints, regarding the character or official acts of other men in the race for office.—Farm and Ranch.

A Time For Everything

There are those who cry "Education, education!" believing that it is the panacea for all ills, the means of ending all evil.

There are those who vociferate "Religion, religion!" equally sure that in the pulpit and its teachings are the seeds of the millennium, and that we need but to "believe" to end all our troubles, and solve all our problems.

Finally, there are those who mix their demands and ask for "religion and education" or "education in religion." These are they who want the Bible taught in public schools; these are they who insist the pulpit is a forum for political, sectarian, scientific and sociological discussion.

They forget, these enthusiasts, that an absolute separation of church and state is an American fundamental. Exclusive of Sunday, there are 144 hours in the week. In the usual public schools 30 hours a week is devoted to education. Why take from the 30 hours time to speak of the Bible? Why not take from the 114 hours not devoted to education, for study of the Word? What is Sunday for? For what is a Sunday school?

Men go to church one, two, three hours in a week. Why use those precious three hours to discuss books, men, politics, wars, crime, sex . . . all the scare-head stuff the radical "preacher," as opposed to the sincere minister of God, uses to "attract" people to the church?

There is a time and a place for everything: a time and place for education, and for religious instruction. The school is no place to teach the Bible, or religion; the pulpit is no place to teach geography or politics. Leave education to the school, reintroduce religious training to the home, give the church a chance to do its work and the schools opportunity for theirs, and we will all be better off, better educated, and more honestly and sincerely religious.

Time to Get to Work

A healthy majority of the Democratic voters of Texas who went to the polls Saturday turned deaf ears to the plea of "Farmer Jim" Ferguson for "vindication."

Of candidates for state office who ran in opposition to the slate of the Ku Klux Klan, Ferguson alone went down in defeat.

Nomination of Earle B. Mayfield for the U. S. Senate stands out, in view of the results in the other races, as a repudiation of Ferguson's anti-prohibition and other reactionary views and as a refusal of the Lone Star Democracy to accept the impeached governor and American party organizer back into its good graces.

With pro-klan candidates for lieutenant governor, state treasurer and state school superintendent all biting the dust, Ferguson, who fought the klan to the bitter end, found his previous record hanging like a millstone around his neck.

The nomination of Mayfield indicates clearly that the Democratic majority in Texas is satisfied with prohibition.

It indicates clearly that Texas has no idea of backing up on this and many other progressive measures which Mayfield favored and Ferguson opposed.

It indicates that the majority considers Mayfield's progressivism, as opposed to Ferguson's reactionism, of more vital importance than any objection to Mayfield's reported affiliation with the klan.

The will of the majority is the will of the people.

"I shall consecrate my best efforts to the service of my state, and as your senator shall represent and serve all the people of Texas," Mayfield said when his nomination became certain.

Possibly that he will be deprived of an opportunity to make good his pledge will exist at least until after the general election in November, but the possibility is remote.

About two years ago we were all wrought up because the city's fire fighting apparatus was almost ready for the scrap pile, but we have not done a single thing to improve conditions. We certainly are an easy going, believer-in-luck sort of folks, but there is going to be a pay day one of these days.
