MAKING FARM RECORDS TALK

By D. H. OTIS Agricultural Director,

American Bankers Association. Any one who has driven an automoile in a new country knows the value of a good road map. Farm accounts, properly kept, are a reliable road map to aid the farmer in directing the business management of his farm.

In farming communities where records have been kept in considerable number it is not uncom mon to find differences in net income

D. H. Otis of $1,000 per farm between the average and the poores farms of the community. It is also requently found that there is a differ ence of over $1,000 between the average farm and a few of the better farms of the community. These differences of from $1,000 to $2,000 per 'arm in the net income are of vital concern to any farm in any commu-

Where to Get the Facts Farm records and inventories will reveal the reasons for these differences. The various colleges of agri culture and the United States Departnent of Agriculture have a collection of records and farm management sur eys from which they find it possible o construct standards or guides howing actual attainments under good systems of management. Fig res of this kind are available to ounty agents and farmers who desire use them. It is also possible to rganize farm accounting groups in a ommunity and with the help of the ollege of Agriculture to develop com nunity standards showing what the iverage and what the better farms re doing. These standards or examples of what the more successful farms are doing, when handled in such a way as not to divulge the iden ity of the owners, are a wonderful help in pointing out to the less suc essful farmers the weak spots in the business management of their farms How to Use the Facts

The farmer who keeps a careful record of the factors relating to the business management of his farm is n position to compare his farm with he average and with the best in the volume of business, as number of acres, total investment, number of cows, total receipts and total expenses. He can check on his diversity of income by comparing his income from sale of cows, sale of livestock, livestock products and sales from miscellaneous sources. His quality of business can be studied by comparing such items as income per cre or income per cow, etc. By such a process the farmer is in nim and point out the weak and the trong features in his farm operation There is no tax that we pay today that compares with the tax we pay for our ignorance. This is true on the farm as elsewhere. Farm records. ncluding inventories from which it is easy to form financial statements. vill do wonders in reducing the tax of ignorance and placing farm business on a business basis and inspire onfidence in the farmer, himself and with all those with whom he deals.

BANKERS HELP

Minnesota bankers played a con tructive part in boosting the attendnce at the Northwest Dairy Exposi ion held in connection with the State Fair in September. Five hundred nembers of the Minnesota Bankers association received letters from the hairman of the agricultural commitee, asking them to assist in forming elegations from their respective comnunities to attend the show.

The Atlanta, Ga., Clearing House ives the boll weevil no rest. In an ffort to effect a concerted and statevide poison war on the boll weevil, his institution sent letters recently o all the bankers in the state asking hat they assist in emphasizing the need for a wholesale war on the pest. according to a recent survey poisonng is being done on the larger farms, ut not to any appreciable extent on he small farms. According to reports by the Department of Agriculture, the holl weevil infestation is heavier this year than ever before, and if allowed to go unchallenged the crop will be destroyed. Immediate and extensive action is urged.

Over two hundred bankers in Iowa ecently made an arrangement to atend the Iowa State University for a wo-day period and study farming and arm problems. The bankers will sit s students under the professors in he agricultural department, and will ig right down to the bottom of the nany subjects which are of mutual oncern to themselves and the farm ers. This action on the part of the bankers of Iowa shows a real spirit of interest and a determined intention to understand.

Clark County (S. D.) Bankers, have appointed an agricultural committee of five to aid the county agent in put ting across the latter's program of work, with especial emphasis on a tenacre corn contest and eradication of suberculosis in the county.
