Resigns Bentsen Treasury Post Washington, D.C.

U.S. Treasury Secretary Lloyd Bentsen announced Tuesday he will be leaving his post in the Clinton administration at the end of the month. Bentsen said his intentions were to return to Texas and go into business.

The 73 year old Bentsen spent 22 years in the U.S. Senate representing Texas before getting the nod from President Clinton to head the Treasury Department. Before that, he served in the U.S. House of Representatives. His resignation closes out a government career that began in the 1940's.

President Clinton immediately announced Robert Rubin as his choice to succeed Bentsen. Rubin is currently the director of President Clinton's National Economic Council.

injured last Saturday evening in a bizarre auto accident involving three vehicles. According to investigators at the scene, the incident began when a pickup driven by Cory Edmiston overturned approximately 4 miles north of Eldorado on Rudd Road, injuring Edmiston and two other occupants. The accident was reported it to the Schleicher County Sheriff's Department and emergency personnel were dispatched.

Before officer's reached the scene, however, Victor Belman, an EMT with the Schleicher County Ambulance Service arrived and began to render assistance to the injured parties. According to Belman, it was then that his pickup was struck by a car driven Seven Eldorado vouths were by Casey Triplett. Two occupants in Belman's truck were injured as were the two occupants of Triplett's vehicle.

> All the victims were transported to Schleicher County Medical Center for treatment. Most seriously injured in the accident was Jason Porter, son of Mike and Carolyn Porter. He was transferred via Medivac helicopter to Shannon Medical Center in San Angelo with head injuries and underwent surgery Sunday morning.

At last report, all the victims except Porter had been released and his condition had been upgraded from critical to good, according to Shannon Medical Center spokesperson Debbie Fly.

Schleicher County Medical Center Administrator, Jim Blum

spoke of the scene at the hospital Saturday night, "It looked like a war zone. Both Emergency Rooms were full and patients were on gurneys in the hall. Dr. Brame came down to help Dr. Sobredo and we called in all the staff. We even called people who are no longer employed at the hospital. Everyone came, no questions asked."

Jim Blum extended his thanks to all who came and helped saying, "Sheriff Richard Harris and his Deputies pitched in as did several EMT's. The Fire Department turned out to illuminate a landing zone for the Medivac helicopter and many many other people came down and helped. We appreciate all who showed up to assist."

"This town really pulls together when the chips are down," Blum added.

TxDOT Awards Additional Grant

The Texas Transportation Commission announced last week the awarding of a grant in the amount of $23,364 to Schleicher County/Chamber Pride Committee to be complete the landscaping project around the Schleicher County Courthouse and to complete the park on the old Elder Hotel lot directly on the corner of SW Main and E. Murchison Avenue. The project currently underway around the courthouse is being funded by the Texas Department of Transportation (TxDOT) as a be included in its transportation enhancement program. The commissioners authorized $42.5 million, or up to 80 percent of the total cost of the projects. Project sponsors are responsible for the remaining cost.

The projects were selected from more than 470 nominations from local and regional groups and are designed to enhance a broad range of transportation-related issues, including bicycle and pedestrian facilities, beautification, historic preservation and water quality protection.

lent demonstration of how local, state and federal governments can work together to deliver a popular product to the community.

Following the TxDOT announcement, the Chamber Pride Committee's Pat Sykes said. "We are just thrilled! This is a wonderful way for Eldorado to begin its Centennial year. And to think that we were awarded this grant from among the more than 450 who applied. Its a great day for Eldorado."

Current plans are to extend the

Gingrich Elected House Speaker

Washington D.C.

Newt Gingrich (R-Ga) was elected Speaker of the House for the upcoming 104th Congress this week by the incoming Republican legislators. Although not official until Congress convenes on January 4th, the vote marked the first time a Republican has been selected Speaker of the House in 40 years.

Also selected to leadership positions were Dick Armey (R-Tx) as House Majority Leader and Tom DeLay (R-Tx) as House Whip. Their election marked the first time in decades that two Texans have held positions of leadership in the Congress.

GATT Passes Senate Washington, D.C.

By a vote of 76-24, the U.S. Senate meeting in lame-duck session overwhelmingly approved the General Agreement on Trade and Tariffs (GATT). The vote came two days after the House of Representatives had approved the accord and closed out a long and bitter debate over the trade pact. President Clinton praised the Congress for its bi-partisan spirit in promoting free trade and promised to sign the agreement.

ASC Reschedules Election

This year's election for positions on the Schleicher County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee, which were to be held in December, are being rescheduled to accommodate changes brought on with last month's enactment of the law to reorganize the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA).

According to Mabel Freitag, chairperson of the Schleicher County ASC Committee, the change in the election schedule is nationwide and is authorized under regulations issued by USDA Current members of ADC committees will continue in their posts until the new election is held next fall

The law, which reorganized USDA, created a new Agency--the Farm Service Agency--which encompasses all of the commodity support and basic conservation programs of the former Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS), all of the risk management programs of the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation (FCIC), and the farm lending activities of the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA).

AUSTIN---The growing number of needy Texans means the Legislature will have to find more money---about $2.2 billion in its 1995 budget session--- to pay for the state Medicaid program in 1990-97. Last week state Medicaid Director DeAnn Friedholm told the egislative health committee."The basic problem is that we have a disproportionate number of ow-income uninsured people who qualify for Medicaid aid." "This temand is coupled with medical inflation and higher reimbursement for institutions such as nursing homes and hospitals." she said. Cindy Hugeley a spokeswoman for Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock said "We are going to have to meet the request (for additional funds). It's going to be a tough budget year." The committee also heard a list of proposals that would shave an stimated $237 million from the Medicaid budget including the cutting of provider payments and services and restricting eligibility. But Friedholm said the cuts were not "palatable" and committee members agreed with her that carrying out the proposed cuts would only be a "BandAid" approach. Friedholm said the best way to save money would be through a federal waiver --- which would take 10 months to receive approval--allowing the state to restructure its Medicaid program The waiver if granted would require that the state form partnerships with Texas counties and consolidate local hospital districts and indigent care programs in order to receive matching dollars from the federal government.

But Bullock and House Speaker Pete Laney D-Hale Center have promised that there would be no tax increase in the upcoming biennium. Inauguration Committee

Over The Back Fence by Randy Mankin

This time of year, seems like everyone is swamped by catalogs. There are so many mail order brochures, discount store flyers and specialty catalogs stuffed in our mailboxes that there's almost no room left for really important stuff. I don't recall just when the huge growth in the mail order business occurred, but it's certainly been since my childhood. Back then, as I recall, there were offerings from Sears & Roebuck, Montgomery Wards & J.C. Penny's.

Editor's Page

The Sears catalog was a particular favorite of mine. By the time it had been at our house a week, I had committed most of the toy section to memory and I could tell you what was hot and what was not with the toymakers at the North Pole. I would spend hours soaking up every detail about each item before finally sitting down and writing my annual letter to Santa.

"Dear Santa," I would begin, "I have been a good boy this year (editorial license even then) and I would like for you to bring me a ... " The mail must not have been too dependable at the North Pole. Or, the little elves had a lot of stock on back order because Santa seldom got my order right. But, on Christmas morning, that didn't matter much. Whatever Santa happened to bring turned out to be just exactly what I really wanted all along

These days, there are so many catalogs that youngsters pay them little mind. And, Sears has gotten out of the business entirely. Nowadays, a child sees the toys up close and in person at toy stores or the huge discount centers that dot every American city

Never having experienced this method of toy shopping as a child, maybe I'm not qualified to comment on it. But, I think the little ones are missing a lot of fun. They miss out on the hours of day dreaming that the big catalogs could

Oh well, none of this really matters much. Kids will be kids. And, kids always enjoy Christmas. The hustle and bustle of the season seems to fit right in with their energetic spirits. While grown-ups grumble about the crowds at the mall or the hassle of finding a parking place, kids just seem to take it all in stride. They are perfectly willing to endure long lines, huge crowds and grumpy adults for a few moments on Santa's lap and an little candy cane.

Maybe I'm just getting too old to appreciate Christmas the way a child does. And, the toys nowadays don't make much sense, either. For example, just what is a Mighty Morphin Power Ranger or a Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtle? When I was a boy, we had toys that made sense. Top of the Divide by Thomas Giovannitti Yesterday was the anniversary of the attack on Pearl Harbor, Hawaii. The United States might have entered the war without such an event but the attack merely hastened our entry.

At our last meeting of the American Legion a new Smithsonian (The National Historical museum in Washington, DC) exhibition on the final days of the war against Japan came up in discussion. The first script for this program which will feature the "Enola Gay", the B-29 that dropped the atomic bomb on Nagasaki and Hiroshima seemed to dwell on the horrors of atomic devastation to the point of making it appear to be a criminal act.

It did not take the national veterans organization with the American Legion in the forefront to actively campaign to have the display and it verbal content changed dramatically. Although the changes are for the better many of the leaders of these organizations still feel the presentation is not fair to the United States government and its armed forces. It is easy sometimes for historians and others from the position of hind sight to criticize the actions of leaders in times of war. The atomic bomb was indeed devastating, causing with one bomb more devastation to life and property than often many air raids with conventional ordinance could not accomplish. The problem in 1945 was that the entrenched militarists in Japan had already clearly indicated that they would fight to the last man if mainland Japan was invaded. The Pacific war had already taken a considerable toll of American, British, Canadian and Australian lives. The United States had supplied the majority of the ground forces who had to make numerous amphibious landings on heavily fortified islands. Any student of history should easily see that to President Truman and his advisors there really was no other choice to force surrender from the

Zachariah Toungate's 15-inch-long hair style may violate school policy but the 12-year-old Bastrop student is within his rights to wear it.

Visiting Judge Norman Lanford of Houston threw out a jury verdict when he ruled last week that Independent School Bastrop District's hair-length policy is unconstitutional, but he did not order school officials to abolish the policy.

Toungate began drawing national attention in 1990 when he was given in-school suspension for refusing to cut his hair in accordance with school policy which limits boys hair to collar length Toungate is currently being home-schooled.

MEDIA TOLERANCE

A newly revealed CNN policy may indicate why coverage of Angola's slaughter of U.S. allies last mouth was so ambiguous.

CNN reporters are not allowed to take "sides" in their foreign policy reporting. This makes it unlikely that you'll get a "clue" from the coverage who U.S. allies are, or who the aggressor is in a situation. It's a good bet that this is the Associated Press policy as well. Their reports on foreign affairs are literally indecipherable these days.

Bodie Gilstrap Will Undergo Surgery

Bodie Gilstrap

Eldorado's own, Bodie Gilstrap, a student at Texas A&M University is slated to undergo kidney surgery this week. His parents, Hymie and Carolyn Gilstrap will travel to College Station and go with Bodie to Texas Medical Center in Houston where the surgery will be performed.

On July 29, 1989, Bodie was severely injured when the pickup he was driving overturned. He was thrown from the vehicle which then rolled over him. He suffered spinal cord damage which left him paralyzed from the neck down. Despite the adversity, Bodie has continued to pursue his dreams and is now a sophomore at Texas A&M. He is proud to be an Aggie and looks forward to returning to College Station after recuperating from this procedure.

According to Richard Sterling, a Bodie Gilstrap Fund has been established at First National Bank of Eldorado. All contributions will help defray the costs associated with Bodie's hospitalization.

Donaldson Duo In California

On November 2-4, 1994, Chauncey and Sabrina Donaldson competed in the twenty-sixth World Junior Frisbee Championships in Anaheim, California. This was the first time that both competed together in the finals. Chauncey and Sabrina are the qrandchildren of Clara Mae Donaldson of Eldorado, Texas. They are the children of Kathy Donaldson of Arvada, Colorado.

Sabrina, age 13, placed third in disc golf, narrowly missing the second-place position. She took fourth in distance competition throwing for a total of 238 feet. Overall, Sabrina came in eighth place and won a $100 U.S. Savings Bond. She is looking forward to next year's event and promises to do much better.

Chauncey. age 15, defended last year's champion title in the overall competition winning a $1000 U.S. Savings Bond. He threw 499'4" in distance leaving no one the chance to come close to his throw. Another first-place victory came when the MTA

(maximum time aloft) competition occurred. (MTA is when you throw a frisbee at an angle into the air and catching it with one hand.)

This was Chauncey's last year to compete as next year he will be over the age limit. However, Chauncey may return to help staff the event in the near future.

Both Chauncey and Sabrina had a wonderful time seeing friends from past events and making new friends from all over the United States. Part of the event was held at Knots Berry Farm in Buena Park. Free time to rome the theme park and ride the rides was given on Thursday and Saturday. According to Chauncey's coach. Geoff Hungerford, "they (Knotts Berry Farm) put Chauncey's name on a seat on one of the roller coaster rides because he kept getting back in line." Well, not really, but it would be kind of neat. Congratulations Chauncey and Sabrina for a job well done and wishing Sabrina good luck for next vear's event.

SCISD Weather Plans

This week, the Schleicher County Independent School District announced plans for dealing with bad weather situations in the upcoming winter months. The following television and radio stations will be alerted as soon as possible to notify parents of cancellations, or changes in the beginning of the school day: Radio KGKL 97.5 San Angelo, KIXY 94.7 San Angelo and KELI 98.7 San Angelo. TV will be KLST Channel 8, San Angelo.

School officials urge parents to be mindful of the weather and tune in to these broadcast stations when the weather is questionable. Also, parents shoul bear in mind that buses will run later than usual during bad weather. This can be true even at the end of the school day if there is a possibility of ice or snow on the road.

Perry Says, "Select a Texas Christmas Tree"

AUSTIN - 'Tis the season to choose and cut vour own Texas Christmas tree. You'll get a good buy and enjoy a family outing when you visit one of the nearly. 130 tree farms listed in the "1994 Texas Christmas Tree Growers' Directory." The directory is available free from the Texas Department of Agriculture and the Texas Christmas Tree Growers Association

Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry said about 300,000 trees. mainly Virginia and Afghan pines. are ready to be cut on tree farms across the state. Most farms open the Friday after Thanksgiving.

East Texas has the largest concentration, followed by Central and North Central Texas. A few are scattered in the Coastal Bend. South Texas and High Plains regions The majority are choose-and-cut operations. many offering activities such as havrides. picnicking grounds and gift shopping. A small percentage of the trees are sold on lots.

Perry said Texas trees usually cost less too. Last year a 5-1/2 to 6-foot tree averaged about $26. with prices at choose-and~cut farms starting at about $15.

Alan Dreesen of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service said Texas-grown Virginia pines have been known to hold up for three months if given proper care. He said Afghan pines will last about as long. Both varieties are grown to compete with popular Scotch pines and are similar in appearance. Small numbers of Leyland cypress and eastern red cedar are also raised.

To keep trees as fresh as possible. take yours home immediately after purchase. Make a fresh cut in the trunk at least one-half inch from the bottom to allow for water intake. Place the tree in a bucket of water and store it in the shade.

When setting the tree up, use a stand that holds water. Keep the tree away from heat vents, fireplaces or southern-exposure windows where it can dry out quickly. Check the water daily and refill as necessary to maintain freshness and fragrance.

Perry reminds consumers that fresh trees can be recycled into mulch and other products friendly to the environment He recommends calling your local parks and recreation department, nurseries or service organizations for information on the nearest tree-recycling program.

For a free copy of the "1994 Texas Christmas Tree Growers' Directory," write or call the Texas Department of Agriculture. Marketing and Agribusiness Development, P.O. Box 12847, Austin. ARE YOU HIS FRIEND?

I once heard a young Christian share in his testimony the verse found John 15:14- "Ye are my friends if ye do whatsoever I command you." He said although he had been taught about Jesus and how to observe the practices of his particular religion, he realized in reading this verse that he was not a friend of Jesus. He had the knowledge of Christ but no obedience was in operation in his life. Here at this crossroads, he decided to be a friend of Jesus and gave his heart and life to follow Christ's commands.

Then if I am to be his friend, what commands am I to do? Our answer on the name of his Son Jesus Christ, and love one another, as he gave us commandment: Believing is more than a head-knowledge of Him but a heart-knowledge. We have a lot of acquaintances in our lives and if we are truthful very few friends. Friends know more about each other than were their friends live and phone numbers. They feel what the other feels and share not only the joy of life but also the sorrows. So many who call themselves Christians are not His friends, for they never feel the heart of Christ. They also do not believe in Him with all their being. Neither do they long to "know Him" with all their hearts. The second part of His commands is to love one another. He does not say that there are any exclusions based on race, religion, sex, or positon in the community. Drunkard or clergy-Christ says to love them. Even our attempts to toalerate people are nto obvedience, only love fulfulls his commands. Are you His friend or just an acquaintance? Perhaps you have lost the desire to be his close friend. Maybe you have not met Him at all. Jesus is always there waiting to be your friend. His words to mankind are written in Revelation 3:20-"Behold, I stand at the door and knock: if any man hear my voice, and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him, and he with me." Open the door today and He will come in and share His heart with you. Jesus has spiritual manna from heaven to feed your hungry heart. He will teach you how to obey His commandments. Most importantly of all, He will be your greatest friend!

My movie for you this week is an inspiring love story. It is "When a Man Loves A Women" starring Andy Garcia and Meg Ryan. It is rated "R" due to adult subject matter.

When you love someone, it is through the good times, through the bad times. its for all times. Andy Garcia (The Godfather. Part II) and Meg Rvan (Sleepless in Seattle) prove this to be true as they portray a loving, passionate couple. Alice and Michael have a wonderful marriage, two beautiful girls, and a perfect life. But then, their stable marriage is rocked by Alice's increasing dependence on alcohol. Forced to go through all the steps of detox and AA meetings. Alice doesn't appreciate her helpful, understanding husband and Michael doesn't have a clue as to how to overcome the challenge of living with an alcoholic. Through this strife, they discover a renewed sense of love and commitment.

This is a story of fiery passion and the enduring power of love. In my opinion, Ryan and Garcia give Oscar-caliber performances. Check this film out and celebrate the strength of love, hope and the human'spirit.

"When a Man Loves a Woman" is available at Meyer's.

Until next week: Measure your life by loss instead of gain; not by the wine drunk, but in the wine poured forth, for love's strength stands in love's sacrifice: and who suffers most has most to give. Quoted from "Apples of Gold".

LEGALMATTERS BY TEXAS ATTORNEY GENERAL DAN MORALES

For many children, the holiday season means three things: toys, toys and more toys. However, holiday happiness can turn to tragedy if parents buy unsafe goods. While most toys are safe, too many children are injured each year as a result of playing with defective or unsafe toys.

WHAT THE LAW SAYS ABOUT SAFE TOYS

Under two federal statutes, the Hazardous Substance Act and the Consumer Product Safety Act, toy companies must manufacture their products to meet regulations set by the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission. The law bans small parts in new toys intended for children under 3. The ban includes removable small eyes and noses on stuffed toys and dolls, and small, removable squeakers on squeeze Manufacturers may be liable for accidents that occur because their products are unsafe or fail to carry needed warnings. Under the Texas Deceptive Trade Practices Act, our office has filed several lawsuits on behalf of consumers to obtain changes in unsafe products, or to force manufacturers to provide warnings on their products.

Last year, for example, our litigation succeeded in requiring all shopping-cart manufacturers in Texas to equip carts with seat belts for children. The change was necessary: statistics show that falls from shopping carts are the leading cause of head injuries among children. We obtained an agreement requiring warnings and modifications on baby walkers because children who use them near stairs and steps can be injured in falls.

CHOOSE WITH CARE

When making your purchases, read all labels for safety information, and heed all warnings. Sales representatives or store managers often can give you safety tips or steer you in the right direction.

Also, do not overlook the manufacturer's recommendations on ageappropriateness. Something perfectly harmless for an 8-year-old may not be safe in the hands of a toddler. Although sharing is a good quality, sometimes it may be necessary to teach older children to keep their things away from younger siblings

Babies are especially vulnerable because of their habit of putting things in their mouths. It's their way of exploring the world around them. Infant toys, rattles, squeeze toys, and teethers should be too big to swallow. Toy balloons are especially dangerous: more children have suffocated on uninflated balloons and pieces of broken balloons than on any other type of toy.

AVOID POINTY BITS

Look for quality design and construction in all toys for all ages. Be sure that garments and other fabric products are flame retardant and resistant, and that they contain no toxic materials. Also, stuffed toys and dolls should be made of washable and hygienic materials.

Be wary of toys with sharp edges, small parts and sharp points. According to regulation, new toys intended for children under 8 should be free of sharp glass and metal edges. And do not forget that over time, toys may break, exposing sharp edges and leaving parts small enough to be swallowed or to become lodged in a child's windpipe, ears or nose.

For more information or to report a hazardous toy or product, call the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission hotline at (800) 638-2772. Be a smart consumer. Choose your children's toys carefully, and have a wonderful holiday.

The kindness of the American people is, so far as I know, something unique in the history of the world. -Alfred North Whitehead

PASS A HAT

Did you see Fidel Castro at the inauguration of the new president of Mexico last week? This is bound to be a tremendous hardship on the teetering Castro. For mouths we have heard from the national press about Castro's last stand. They say he's losing all his power, his country is failing, his people have to eat cats to survive. So it must be a tremendous financial burden for him to purchase airline tickets to attend his many celebrations.

After all, he's had to do a lot of around the last running vear---inaugural events in South Africa, Angola, Brazil, Mexico, and soon Mozambique (and who knows how many more!)

Besides being weak impotent and poverty-stricken, Castro must be exhausted! The book by Geyser entitled Guerrilla Prince explains what a back-breaking schedule he had in the 70's and 80's. Here's just one excerpt Without Fidel Castro, there would have been no Nicaragua Sandanistas, no invasion of Grenada, no guerrilla movements throughout El Salvador, Uruguay, Chile, no destruction of democracy in the Southern Cone, no Marxist Angola, Mozambique, or Ethiopia, no new balance of power in southern Africa, no "drug state" spread across Latin America, no extension of Latin America's reach within the U.S., no first and no second Marxist-Leninist state in the Western Hemisphere.

It must be a relief to Castro that he is no longer the symbol of imperialistic and brutal oppression. Now he can just relax and attend the inaugurations of his many allies. [Heck it will be like old home week for him in the WTO!]

AND FOR THE BAD NEWS... The child pornography industry was rejoicing in their victory last week---delivered by the United States Supreme Court Not that it was exactly unanimous. Justices Scalia and Clarence Thomas, the two conservatives on the bench, strenuously opposed the ruling rendered in U.S. vs X-Citement Video

Thomas and Scalia said, "laws should be interpreted to protect children rather than pornography distributors." Unfortunately they were outvoted by the rest of the Justices who went along with the Government's argument.

H. Robert Showers, former head of the Justice Dept's child exploitation div. said: . . the Justice Dept had a choice of two arguments---increasing protection for children; or argue in a manner that works best for pornographers. They chose the latter This is a sad commentary on the priorities of this Justice Dept and certainly does not provide the 'broadest possible protections' for children."

off a particular case if they are unwilling to carry out the orders of their boss. It happens all the time.

Words are cheap. If Reno failed to take action to ensure maximum effort to protect children, then she failed to fulfill the written requirements of her

The taxpayers' lawyers in the Justice Dept are never guaranteed victory when arguing for kids, but the very best they can do is try for it.

The weekly news magazines went ballistic over Jesse Helms' "commander-in-chief needs a bodyguard" comment;---despite the original reporter saying it was jest a joke. The same outraged journalists got a huge laugh a few years back when Democrat Bob Kerry said Vice President Quayle should be shot and killed if anything ever happened to Bush. [Proof once again---reporters think only liberals bleed when hit.]

While on Helms' case, the press once again called him a racist. Last month Jesse Helms "pitched a fit" about the Black people of Angola---our former allies---getting slaughtered like fish in a barrel. There was no exploration in the press of why a racist would care if defenseless black people are killed. AND.

Last month, Jesse Helms warmly introduced Justice Clarence Thomas at a speaking engagement; expressing genuine admiration for the man's courage and integrity. There was no exploration in the weekly news mags. why a racist would have such respect for a Black person.

The national press has gotten away for many years with calling anyone a racist who happens to differ with their proposed remedies in society. Their moral superiority is beginning to show some wear.

Isn't it time to pose the question as to whether issues are so Black and White or perhaps... Left and Right?

WEAVING POINT

Last week the Turning Point news show on ABC did a close-up on drunk driving and how tragically lax the laws are. They focused on the death last Christmas-time of Officer Chick, a young family man who was assisting a disabled motorist when a 16-time drunk-driver ran him down and killed him.

Turning Point explained how the defense in this case tried to claim that the blood vial was contaminated and unreliable. What Turning Point didn't mention, is that this same defense is used in nearly every drunk driving case. The defense always says the chemical test is bad, whether breath, blood or urine Defense expert witnesses have a cutor's expert says the test is fine [the tests are good enough for life and death decisions in hospitals!] Each separate jury probably thinks they have the one-in-a-million case where the test is bad and each day you see juries decide one way on the other on the exact same argument

NOW, ISN'T THAT SPECIAL!

Spy Mag. this month reports [yes, clearly, we read everything!] that Fidel Castro calls this time in his government the "Special Period." [The U.S. media, of course, calls it "the End, it's Over ... he's Mr. Mainstream now."]

Spy reports that Fidel now allows U.S. advertisers to purchase time on his "socialist state's television programs." And, "The Great Dictator has... an idea that Capitalism can somehow save Socialism." Spy expands on this concept in the piece, [Castro] had found the key to saving his socialist system: capitalism." "Let's build an economy with more solid bases,' Fidel said at a meeting of the Cuban Communist Party. Although it will be open to foreign capital to get the country moving, it will maintain its socialist character."

The piece says Castro will "keep quoting Marx" in the state-run press. Spy's writer appeared to be disgusted with what he considered to be the betraval of socialist principles by Castro. The writer sardonically quotes the standard Cuban greeting to tourists "Socialism or Death," then he sums up bitterly, "Apparently, what Karl Marx really meant to say is that a socialist state must court bourgeois consumerism in order to industrialize, and that the ideal dictator must pose for fash-ion advertisements."[Poor disillie sioned American Boomer.]

But wait a second... isn't it ironic that those who believed everything Castro ever said, now disbelieve him when he claims this is only a temporary "special period" ?]

HOW N.O.W.

Guess what conservative babes! N.O.W. was then. And now there's a new women's group called the Women's Freedom Network. It was founded by Jeanne Kirkpatrick and Christina Hoff Summers (respectively, former Ambassador and professorturned-author of Who Stole Feminism?)

The new women's group is bound to be joined by several of the newly-elected women in Congress (11 in all---7 of them GOP). Although some of the Repub. Congresswomen are liberals, look at the "causes" that gave the others a successful campaign: Cabin (WY) and Chenowith (ID)---property rights; Kelly (NY)---non-government health care by Medical Savings Acc't proposal; Myrick (NC)---dump welfare and lower taxes; Waldholz (UT)---reform Congress; Smith (WA)---a proven tax reformer (she was a "miracle" candidate who won nomination by writein(!) and then beat a 3-termer).

Might we begin to see the death of the whiny, men-ruin-everything, all-women-are-victims mentality? [Well, only if we could vote on certain members of the national media!!]

Solemn Column Promise Our motto is "We' re not perfect but we' refixin' to be!" To clarify a couple of past goofs: Journalist Christopher, Hutchins is actually Hitchins. We said that a GATT-clone was rejected 50 years ago on "world government" ar-' guments---it was actually all WTO-clone that was rejected. A "baby"-GATT passed back then.

Although the press covered well for Reno (numerous reports of her "attempts" to change Days' mind) the final responsibility lays squarely at her feet.

Does not Janet Reno have the authority to reassign cases?---to transfer employees?---to step in and make the argument herself?! There is nothing unusual about attorneys "conflicting"
