A. T. Smith Withdraws From Sheriff's Race

Tom Smith returned home Wednesday evening from a shearing trip which carried him into New Mexico and which has prevented him from canvassing the county in his behalf for Sheriff and also prevented him from getting his name legally placed on the ticket. Upon his arrival he announced that he would withdraw from the race and takes this means of notifying his friends and supporters.

He further wants to thank those that have assisted him in any way for their influence and favors. Mr. Smith has asked The Success to make this announcement.

R. A. Young Hurt In Car Wreck

While returning home from San Angelo Tuesday morning about four o'clock, R. A. Young lost control of his car, turning it over and hitting a telephone post, a few miles this side of Christoval. The accident rendered him unconscious. He was brought to Eldorado for treatment but later was taken to San Angelo. He was accompanied by Alton Hightower, of Sonora, who escaped unhurt.

The car was a Chevrolet Coupe and was very badly wrecked.

Rain This Week

Parts of Schleicher county received rain last Sunday and Monday, the sections were; May er, ten miles south of Eldorado received a two inch rain, the Dave DeLong ranch a good rain and the west part of the county.

MOTOR VEHICLE

TRANSPORTATION

Notwithstanding a competition keenly felt and openly admitted by railroads - motor vehicle transportation - the president and general counsel of the Santa Fe railroad has issued a pamphlet giving interesting bits of history concerning such form of transportation. Not one word is said in this pamphlet against the automobile or motor truck as an encroachment upon the railroads, and the work becomes all the more interesting because of any reference to that fact being conspicuous by its absence.

It is noted that Nicholas Joseph Cugnot in 1769 operated a coalburning three-wheeled steam wagon at the remarkable speed of two and one-half miles an hr. In 1845 England passed a law to preserve the highways for horse-drawn vehicles, in effect keeping self-propelled vehicles off all public roads; thereby causing the discouragement of for forty years.

The automobile industry in 1927 used 14% of the iron and steel produced in the United States; 63% of the plate glass; 60% of the leather upholstery; 82% of the rubber consumed; 13% of the hardwood lumber; 26% of the aluminum; 11.6% of the copper; 22% of the tin; 16.7% of the lead; 3.4% of the zinc; and 39% of the nickel, besides cloth, paint, varnish, hair, and padding and other raw materials.

The only figure surprisingly low in the above table is that of the amount of tin used.

MRS. J. L. DENSON DIES

Mrs. J. L. Denson, age about 75, formerly of Eldorado, died in a San Angelo Hospital, Tuesday, after being ill for some time. She made her home in Eldorado for many years. The funeral services were held at the Christian church Wednesday afternoon and interment made in the Eldorado cemetery, beside the grave of her husband.

Plank Adopted by the Boys

THE VALUE OF AN ORGANIZATION

One great value found in a properly organized and well functioning Chamber of Commerce or Lions Club is its democratic form of organization and its open membership.

Everybody who has the interest of his community at heart and is willing to pay the small membership may become a working unit in either of these organizations. The individual notions that citizens have may seek expression and become the program of the entire community. Selfish interests are, or should be forgotten when the welfare of the community is at stake. The organizations come as near being the only organizations thru which all creeds and confessions, all partisans and individuals can come together on a common meeting ground for the good of the whole.

A Chamber of Commerce can only be compared with the Lions Club, as their purposes are practically the same. Since everybody who is for the upbuilding of the community, can join, there is no excuse for anyone standing on the side-lines and saying, "Let them go ahead and do it, I don't belong and can't belong because I don't have the qualifications." On the other hand, these are the civic organizations to which he man attach his membership, his life and his sacred honor and really BELONG. He cannot be barred from membership so long as he has character and a few dollars for a membership.

Other organizations have their places in every community. Sometimes and indeed quite often, an exclusive and classified membership based upon past attainments, ethical standards, and in fact wealth, is far better able to carry out its purposes than by letting every body into its deliberations. Such an organization finds its strength in sticking closely to its original purposes and not departing from a straight line to its goal regardless of what the fellow on the street says about it. But when it comes to the larger projects of a public and general civic nature, there is no better mentioned clubs to bring about results.

They are like an individual booster. Development costs money; and the more they boost for development the more its going to trample on somebody's toes. But the records of successful cities show there were live organizations existing throughout their growth.

Rev. J. C. Young Fills Methodist Pulpit

AN APPRECIATION.

To the many friends who were so kind and thoughtful during the illness and death of our dear mother and grandmother, we wish to express our sincere and heartfelt thanks. We want to thank all those who were so kind and thoughtful during the past years when her physical suffering was so hard to bear. Especially do we want to thank Dr. Patton for his faithful, efficient attention to her during her long period of suffering.

We appreciate the many beautiful flowers that were given as an expression of your sympathy and friendship and we feel especially grateful to the many friends who came from a distance to be with us in those last trying hours. Since it would be practically impossible to see and thank each of you personally we hope that you will accept this public expression of our appreciation. When similar trying hours come to you as they will we pray that God's sustaining spirit may be with you to comfort and uphold you.

UTILITIES NOW TEACH

LIFE SAVING METHODS

Instructions in approved methods of resuscitating victims of electric shock, gas poisoning and drowning is being extended to the employees of electric light and power companies through the National Electric Light Association which recently issued in co-operation with the American Gas Association, another booklet on the Prone Pressure Method.

Eleven national organizations have given their approval to the resuscitation method adopted by these associations. The technic has been developed after years of study and has been decided upon as the most efficient means of preserving life in emergencies that have resulted in cessation of breathing.

Not only do power companies instruct their employees in this method, but many member companies of these associations send speakers and demonstrators to schools, industrial plants and groups of boy scouts and girl scouts. Summer camps use posters to keep their personnel informed on what should be done in case of accidents.

The attention given to life-saving by electric light companies has been amply rewarded by the number of remarkable rescues that are entered in the records of the National Electric Light Association. Medals are given to the rescuers in the most outstanding cases of resuscitation by the Prone Pressure Method.—Public News Service.

Catholics Once Composed Half of Irish Masonry

Dublin Ireland— "Never has Irish Masonry been in a healthier or more flourishing state," writes Col. Claude Cane, 33, degree, Deputy Grand Master of Ireland, and Lieutenant Grand Comander of the Supreme Council, Scottish Rite of Ireland, in a letter to the Trestle Board, published in San Francisco, California.

"It is true that we had our difficulties a few years back, during the birth-throes of the two new Irish States, but that is all over. Ireland may be divided politically into the Free State and Northern Ireland, but there is no Masonic division, nor is there the slightest prospect of any such thing. Belfast and Dublin have an equal share in the glorious heritage of their Grand Lodge and are equally proud of it. Dissension outside has only served to knit more closely the fabric of brotherly love.

"It is interesting to note," he said further, "that less than a century ago over 50 per cent of Irish Masons were members of the Roman Catholic Church. Protestant and Catholic parson and priest, sat side by side in our lodges and worked amicably together outside them. The Papal Bulls and Encyclicals were not held to apply to Irish Masonry, and prior to the great liberal measure of Catholic emancipation which, by the way, was mainly due to the Earl of Donoughmore, Grand Master of Ireland and ancestor of our present Grand Master, its broadmindedness with regard to religious belief commended itself to the church which was then the under dog. But with the removal of Catholic disabilities the change came and the Irish Hierarchy in 1838 decreed that the Papal condemnations of Masonry, which had been hitherto held to apply to continental Masonry only, should be enforced in Ireland, and that all Catholics should be ordered to leave the order under the usual pains and penalties. —Scottish Rite News Service.

QUALITY MERCHANDISE

Democracy's Tariff Change

Editor Star-Telegram: There are no substantial differences in the principles of our two political parties, as shown by their recent platforms. Both alike declare for the enforcement of the Eighteenth amendment, for a protective tariff, for restrictive immigration, for constructive farm legislation, for extensive internal improvements, and for the sovereignty of the State and against the centralization of power in the National Government.

It is true there are minor differences between them but substantially the two platforms declare for the same principles and policies. The Democratic platform proclaims that the party will make an "honest effort" to enforce the Eighteenth Amendment, and the Republican platform pledges the party to enforce it; the Democratic platform declares for a tariff that will protect legitimate business and a high standard of wages and that will cover the 'actual difference between the cost of production at home and abroad,' and the Republican platform for a tariff that will protect industry and wages of labor. These and other differences of verbiage are of minor consequence; both platforms are intended to convey and do convey the same meaning upon all of these subjects.

This represents some important changes in the principles of the Democratic party as set forth in many of its former platforms. It means that the party has abandoned the American "League of Nations" and again stands for the Monroe Doctrine, that it no longer advocates America as the "asylum of the oppressed" of other countries, that it now favors the vast internal improvements that the progress and development of our country demands, and that it has abandoned its shibboleth of the low cost of living with its low prices and wages and now demands a protective tariff with high prices and wages.

As fundamental and important as all these changes are, our "right about face" regarding the tariff is the most significant and important. While the party in the early years of its history was committed to a protective tariff this was prior to the formation of the present Republican party and so long ago that we have been taught to believe that the heresies of "free trade" "tariff for revenue only" and "the cheap cost of living" were sound economic principles and a part of the warp and woof of democracy.

The present tariff plank sounds like the platform declaration of 1832 upon which Andrew Jackson was elected in his second race for the presidency when the platform declared as follows, "Resolved: That an adequate protection to American industry is indispensable to the prosperity of the country; and that an abandonment of the policy at this period would be attended with consequences ruinous to the best interests of the Nation."

Andrew Jackson was a protectionist and this platform declaration represented his well matured views after having served as President for four years. It is high time that some of our Representatives in Congress and candidate for Congress and candidate for Senate recognize this return to the ancient principles of the party and stand with Andrew Jackson, Thomas Jefferson, James Madison, James Monroe, and John H. Kirby upon this important issue. If a protective tariff was indispensable to the prosperity of the country and its abandonment would be ruinous to the best interest of the Nation in Jackson's time, it is so true today for there is now far greater disparity in the value of our money and in monies of foreign countries, and in the standard of our wages and the wages of all foreign countries.

The average wage for the German skilled worker in iron, steel, coal and other industries is $1.30 per day; and of the French and Belgian and other continental countries from 98c per day to $1.15 per day as against an average in this country of between $6 and $7 per day. The Continental Steel Cartel, which is composed of all France, Belgium, Luxemburg and Czecho-Slovakia can deliver steel in and duty paid, at $9.50 per ton, the freight alone from my plant to these ports is $8.60 per ton.

The steel plants and other industrial plants of Germany, France, Belgium and other continental countries have been practically rebuilt since the war and they are of the latest and most economical design. With their cheap labor and transportation costs they can, with profit, deliver to this country with duty paid at less than the cost of manufacture of the average American plant. The mere statement of these facts is a conclusive argument that the present wage scale and our present degree of prosperity (which is largely dependent upon it) can not be maintained without a higher protective tariff than we now have.

The chief differences between the two parties now is in their names and organizations, but there is a vast difference in their candidates. I had rather trust Hoover who believes in prohibition and that it can be enforced, to enforce it, than Smith who is opposed to it and believes it cannot be enforced; I had rather trust Hoover of American lineage to enforce the immigration law than Smith the son of an immigrant with his horde of foreign supporters; I had rather trust Hoover with his constructive mind and deep sympathy for the oppressed, to establish a plan of relief for the farmer, than Smith, the Tammany politician and sachem; I had rather trust Hoover and the Republican party who have always stood for tariff protection to revise the tariff, than Smith and the Democratic party who are new converts.

VOICE AND PICTURES NOW SYNCHRONIZE

New Apparatus Made Available for Schools, Churches and Motion Picture Theatres.

Engineers are now at work on simplified photophone device suitable for use in the home, which will make it possible, it is stated, to reproduce "talking movies" in the home very much as to ordinary radio broadcast program are now being received in more than eight million homes. This announcement was made by General James G. Harbord, President of the Radio Corporation of America, at the formation of a new company to be known as "R. C. A. Photophone, Incorporated."

In discussing the formation of the new company, General Harbord pointed out that although the Radio Corporation, General Electric and Westinghouse had been preparing for several years to market apparatus synchronizing voice and music with motion pictures, public introduction of the apparatus had been delayed until the engineers had achieved "complete practicability" so that it would be as simple to operate as a radio set, and, at the same time, highly perfected.

"The Photophone," said General Harbord, "is both simple and practical. The essential principle is the recording of pictures and sound on one film. While various methods have been devised for 'talking movies,' experience has shown that the most practical is that of recording pictures and sound on the same film. This is the method employed by the Photophone. It is now possible to photograph the President of the United States—voice as well as action—and to distribute films reproducing the event throughout the country.

Uses and Operation. "Easily operated reproducing apparatus for use in theatres, schools and churches will be nationally available. An entire opera, musical comedy or drama can be electrically recorded on the film, just as it is seen and heard, and then reproduced from the same film. Whatever can be seen or heard, whether it is a nightingale singing or an army in battle, can now be recorded and reproduced for both the eye and the ear. Moving picture dramas with complete orchestral accompaniment, or with music and speech, will be available for nation-wide use.

"Standard films without the sound can be used without any change in the machine. The only thing the operator has to do is to close one switch when he is projecting pictures with sound, and open it when he does not want the sound. Any type of 'talking film' can be used in the machine. The type of sound reproducer to be used will vary with the size of the room in which the pictures are to be shown. The reproducer embodies some remarkable new developments in acoustics.

"Sight and hearing have been the two avenues of approach to the human mind for education, religion and entertainment. Now one medium combines the appeal to sight and hearing simultaneously, with universal accessibility and availability. The complete practicability of the new art has already been demonstrated, and there remained only the need for an intelligent and serviceable system of manufacture and distribution.

"One can only guess at the many varied uses of this invention as an instrument for the spread of knowledge, for bringing the people of the world closer together, and for the advancement of civilization."

WALTER DAMROSCH TO DIRECT NEW MUSIC EDUCATION HOUR

Arrangements have been completed for a special series of 24 educational orchestral concerts to be broadcast next season, beginning in the fall. The new Music Education Hour sponsored by the Radio Corporation of America will be under the direction of Walter Damrosch, the dean of American musicians, who made the Hour of the past season one of the great accomplishments of radio-broadcasting.

In response to the nation-wide demand for an educational hour of music for young people and children, next season's program will be given Friday mornings at 11 o'clock Eastern standard time, so that it can be heard in the schools. It is planned to use 28 stations of the National Broadcasting Company and associated stations, covering the entire country between the Atlantic Coast and the Rocky Mountains.

In making the announcement, David Sarnoff, Vice President and General Manager of the Radio Corporation of America, said:

"Since the first days of broadcasting we have confidently looked forward to the time when radio broadcasting and reception would be so perfected that it might be used for universal education as well as entertainment. Millions of dollars have been spent in the development of broadcasting, with the belief that this new means of universal communication would become of great public service, supplementing and augmenting other means of education.

"When Mr. Damrosch came to us some time ago with a plan for inculcating a better appreciation and understanding of good music, we were immediately impressed by its great possibilities. And the many thousands of letters recently received from teachers, parents and educational authorities, from all over the country, following our three experimental lecture-concerts, have confirmed our judgment.

"The time for music education over the air is opportune, because of the perfected state of radio broadcasting. The best music can now be entrusted to the microphone with the full assurance that it will issue forth from the loudspeaker in the school or the home with a true approximation of the original rendition."

Sees Wardlaw Victory

Editor Star-Telegram; Dan Moody has opened his campaign for re-election, but what has he got to offer the voters for their support? He makes a feeble effort to gain votes by crying "Fergusonism". Dan must be in a pretty bad fix to try to pull that old stuff on the people.

A question we hear asked every day is, "Why has Dan been such a disappointment?" In the first place, Dan was one of the most overrated men that has ever been Governor. How much taxes does Dan pay? I have been told he doesn't pay any, except that on his car.

Dan thought when he was elected that he had a four year piloting job and that he would run things to suit himself. He will soon see that he was wrong, for Wardlaw is going to beat him by 100,000 votes. Dan's the man we are going to can.

Another question often asked is, "How are we going to get economy in government?" Here is my answer: Don't vote the second time for a man that has not kept his promises to the people. Put him out after the first term, then the next one will try to give service.

Prais Moody's Course

Editor Star-Telegram; The Ferguson-Wardlaw bunch is having much to say about the actions of Governor Moody at the Houston convention. Some of these stories are absolutely false as I was at that convention—not as a delegate, however. Governor Moody stood firm for a dry platform and a dry candidate as long as there was any hope, and at the last he was left almost alone to fight the battle.

I was in the convention hall when Al Smith was nominated. When the great demonstration came, it looked as if the banners of all the States would be swept into the parade. I watched the Texas banner stand like a stone wall, with the Texas delegation around it, and heard our brave young Governor say, "Texas did not vote for Al Smith and the Texas banner cannot go in the Smith parade." I was proud of Texas and her fine young Governor.

A Statesman is a politician who became a candidate and got elected.

It used to be a disgrace to get arrested. But now it's a wonder if you haven't been.

There's no money in stockings any more. The cute things have turned into a roll of their own.

With a good book and a efficient fly swatter one can enjoy a pleasant afternoon on the front porch.

An advertisement says, "Did you ever fall in love with words?" Certain ones like "Enclosed find check."

Ain't life awful. What your physician and life insurance company don't find out about you your banker and lawyer do.

The first thousand dollars may be the hardest to get, but the second thousand is the harder to keep. That is, we've understood it that way.

Hoover was married by a Catholic priest. To offset this, somebody, no doubt, will dig up the fact that Al Smith used to carry water for the elephant.

The real farm problem is how to make a dollar's worth of agricultural products buy a dollar's worth of manufactured articles that costs two dollars.

THE CODE OF CONVERSATION

This is the age of "Codes". Business has its code. Morality's code has evolved through recognized practices of clean living and right thinking. A code of ethics, containing the best philosophy of the ages has come down in unwritten, but no less certain, precepts to guide and admonish toward higher idealism. In recent years there has been another code adopted. It is the code of conversation. It seeks to protect and preserve the great natural resources of our country. It was born of necessity, adopted by an intelligent citizenry, and it now must be preserved and put into practice. The Izaak Walton League of America, with headquarters in Chicago, has sought earnestly to translate the idealism of conversation into the realism of protected and conserved resources. Many of the best brains of America are behind this great conversation program.

Naturally, and from a historical viewpoint, the uniformed rank and file of the organization has something to go with fishing. Its scope, however, is broader than fishing. Clean streams safeguard public health and propagate aquatic life is a strong tenet in its code of conversation. The code includes also the protection of our forests, drainage, flood control, protection of game and wild life and the development of Greater Opportunities for Outdoor Recreation. Which is an Essential Part of Character Building and the Physical and Spiritual Development of the people.

An interesting and worthwhile accomplishment of the League a few years ago was the successful raising of an ambitious but unfortunate road-building program in the Superior National Forest, in Minnesota. The intent of the League was to preserve the area as a natural wilderness for lovers of wild life. No one is against good roads where roads should be, but to build roads into natural and mountainous areas which should be kept intact for the true sportsman is equivalent to spoiling the thrill of adventure, making recreation vulgar in its luxury, and opening appreciated places to the unappreciative.

The aims of the League are unselfish. Its educational program is large and important enough to solicit the support of all. Through its broadened influence people who support it tend toward national mindedness, an asset not to be discounted in the future development of the nation.

Back up every good movement but don't back down on it.

PRINT SHOP DAMAGED

AFTER ANTI-SMITH JOB

Yacuse, N. Y. —The printing of pamphlets attacking Gov. Alfred E. Smith is believed to have led to the wrecking of the printing plant of H. Edward Newton, according to the Associated Press. The plant was entered by forcing open a door. All the windows were shattered, type was thrown out in the street, printed matter was destroyed and a large number of the Anti-Smith pamphlets carried away.

Newton said, according to the dispatch, that he was given an order for the pamphlets and ran them off according to instructions. Sometime after he had received the job, five men entered his shop and told him they did not like his political views or his manner of arranging them. They ordered him to stop printing and distributing the pamphlets. The following night his shop was placarded with Smith-for-President signs. The two nights later his shop was entered and the destruction carried on.—Scottish Rite News Service

This Column Carries a Few Clippings from the Star-Telegram, Giving the Different Opinions of the people relative to the Election.

For Robinson and Wardlaw, Editor Star-Telegram; Several years ago the State Legislature passed a law placing millions of acres of school land on the market. The sale of this developed into schools, churches, cities and counties in our great State. We all were enjoying peace and happiness until several oil fields were brought in on this property. While Dan Moody was attorney General he sought to take the oil rights on this land from the people. For this reason alone, Judge Wardlaw should be the next Governor.

Who fought the battle for the people? J. T. Robinson, Land Commissioner. If the people will only realize what J. T. Robinson has done for them, he will be re-elected Land Commissioner by the largest vote ever given a man in the State of Texas. J. T. Robinson fought this case through the high courts and won it, over Moody and Pollard, for the people.

R. L. EWING,
Lubbock, Texas.

Favors Blanton

Editor Star-Telegram; I wish to say a few words about the Senatorial race. I am for Tom Blanton because he is the man that has the nerve to fight the grafters in the Senate. Blanton is the only candidate that is running on a record that merits election. Connally has much to say about the K. K. K. and Mayfield, Mayfield is citing his record, but it won't stand the test. Owsly is offering a lot of hot air to the voters.

Here's the way the candidates will run; Tom Blanton, first, with Mayfield or Connally in second place. Owsly will be in fourth place, though some think Mr. Cunningham will beat him. However I don't believe she will.

I challenge the Star-Telegram to print, as a news item, the Congressional records of Tom Blanton and Tom Connally, so that the people may see for themselves the service that each has rendered and the roll calls each has answered.

L. H. MOORE,
Brownwood, Texas.

Praises Mayfield

Editor Star-Telegram; The sands of farmers read your paper and their opinions are entitled to publicity, as well as those of others. There are several candidates trying to criticize and distort the McNary-Haugan bill so as to advance their political ambitions before the people. The great mass of farmers is for the bill. It is the only bill ever written which was calculated to help the farmer. It may not be perfect, but if passed and parts of it proved to be not feasible the portions could quickly be amended and it could be made a good bill.

The Jones Ship Bill, which gives hundreds of millions to the merchant marine, was constitutional; but the one designed to aid the farmers was unconstitutional. So said President Coolidge. It's just the same old game of giving the farmers nothing but promises.

Mr. Connally criticises Mr. Mayfield for supporting the Mc-

STRAIGHT TALKS WITH AUNT EMMY

ON-BUILDING AN INCOME

As Aunt Emmy came out of the savings bank, she met young George Oliver.

"Well, well," he said, "it's funny to see you coming out of a savings bank, Aunt Emmy. I thought only poor folks like me had money in savings banks—people like you just clip coupons!"

"Have you a savings bank account?" countered Aunt Emmy.

"Well, er—I suppose I haven't," he admitted. "You see, it's hard to save money when you're first married. Somehow there never seems to be enough money to go round—let alone to put in a savings bank."

"You never will have if you don't get started," interrupted Aunt Emmy. "You should make your weekly savings deposit, no matter how small, the first claim on your salary after paying your bills. I make my weekly deposit in this bank faithfully—I put away a certain sum regularly."

"You can!" Nat commented. "It is more a habit than you would suppose," Aunt Emmy continued. "Any one can do it, who is willing to let other things wait. I began putting a little money in a savings bank years ago when it was no joke to save a few pennies. I remember what a wonderful thrill I got the first time I saw my interest entered in my bank book. There was money—that my money had earned all by itself. After that it was a sort of game with me to put a certain sum in the bank, even if I had to do without things I would have enjoyed having. Now I realize what it means to keep your money busy earning all the time so I continue to put a little in the savings bank regularly and, after it accumulates, I draw some out and invest in safe securities that pay a higher rate of interest than savings. All the time, you see, the money is working for me."

"Of course, when the sum is small, it earns little, but if you start young, as you and Molly are, it is almost like magic the way it mounts up after a few years—then when your savings get grown up into a real investment they earn a real income."

"I never thought of it in that light," said George. "Try it—and see for yourself how it works," urged Aunt Emmy. "Have you ever thought how nice it would be to have a few dollars ready for use in case of an emergency? Accidents and illnesses do happen. Or suppose you had an opportunity to buy something you knew you could sell at a profit and you had to let the opportunity slip for the lack of a few hundred dollars. You and Molly would never miss five dollars a week—and if you keep at it, it will work wonders!"

"You're right, it would!" exclaimed George. "I'll talk to Molly tonight, Aunt Emmy, and see if we can't revise our expenditures."

"There would be a whole lot less family trouble and worry over money matters if every young couple did the same thing early in life," Aunt Emmy said. "Start young, is the magic slogan."

Nary-Haugan Bill. What right has Connally to criticize Mayfield? Mayfield has made an effort to help, and the majority of Congress is with him; but Connally has been there 10 years and has never introduced a single bill to help the farmer or anyone else. Now he is very anxious to do something. Tom has sinned away his day of "oratory." Mayfield has done more to help the farmers and the labor people in one term than has been done by a senator in the last twenty years. The people are not going to forget him on election day. The Good Book says "Judge the tree by its fruits." In the name of high Heaven, what has either Connally or Blanton done?

Connally says Guinn Williams first introduced the resolution to investigate certain Reserve Banks. He is either willfully misrepresenting matters, or else he is ignorant of the fact that Mr. Mayfield introduced this resolution in the Senate several days before Guinn Williams introduced a similar one in the House.

Mr. Mayfield has thrown no mud at his opponents. He has followed in the footsteps of the great man whose place he took in the Senate—Senator Charles A. Culberson—and he will be returned to the Senate by a large majority. The people do a little thinking for them selves these days.

DRY SPEECH

"We must eliminate from our social order the drones called 'card sharps' who live on honest men's work. We must cultivate a public opinion which shall arraign at the bar of judgment all those who encourage the consumption of alcohol, since it atrophies mental faculties and morals and destroys all the foundations of an enlightened and progressive social order. Alcohol is a cancer. It is eating into the vitals of national well-being. We must destroy it or it will destroy us."

HENRY FORD ON PROHIBITION

Commenting on conditions in America, Henry Ford, the automobile magnate, while visiting abroad is reported to have spoken in high commendation of prohibition and to have predicted that it would become worldwide. Mr. Ford's views on the Eighteenth Amendment are fully expressed in an article by him in the March issue of the Forum, in which he says, among other things, "Prohibition was intended to save the country and generations yet to come. There are a million boys growing up in the United States who have never seen a saloon, and who will never know the handicap of liquor, either in themselves or their relatives, and this excellent condition will go on spreading itself over the country when the wet press and the paid propaganda of booze are forgotten. There should be no mistake about it. The abolition of the commercialized liquor trade in this country is as final as the abolition of slavery. These are the two great reforms to which moral America committed itself from the beginning of history."

DUNLOP'S $195,000,000

"WHAT OF IT?... Dunlop's resources may be $195,000,000. Does that put any money in my pocket?"

Yes... In this way... Dunlop's investment is so great, it must be safeguarded. The only sure protection is to give you greater value than you can buy in any other tires.

Then, too... the nine mammoth plants... the far-flung rubber plantations... the great spinning mills... such resources enable Dunlop to build extra value into your tires.

The 40 years of experience helps too. But the biggest meaning to you of Dunlop's $195,000,000 is this: Dunlop could never have grown so great; if Dunlop tires had not only won, but held a vast army of users.

26 million Dunlop tires are now running. That bare fact is eloquent proof that you will profit by putting Dunlops on your car.

AMERICA LEADING IN RADIO COMMUNICATION

The opening of a new, direct radio channel between New York and Lisbon, Portugal, for the transmission and reception of Radiograms was recently announced by the Radio Corporation of America. The inauguration of this radio circuit adds another spoke to the world-wide communication system which has New York as its hub and radiates directly to England, France, Germany, Italy, Holland, Belgium, Sweden, Norway, Poland, Turkey, Argentina, Brazil, Colombia, Venezuela, Porto Rico, the Dutch West Indies, and Dutch Guiana. From San Francisco other direct radio circuits join the United States to Hawaii, Japan, the Philippines, Hong Kong and Shanghai, China, the Dutch East Indies and French Indo China. To further insure the continued supremacy of the United States in transoceanic radio communication the RCA is planning additional circuits for the near future to countries as near as Canada and Cuba, and as distant as Spain, Czechoslovakia, Chile and Siberia.

In Mexico

Husbands in Mexico do not carry latch keys. When they have been out late to the lodge they ring an electric bell or pound on a heavy wooden gate. This wakes up the wife or servants and all the neighbors, but no one kicks very hard, for it is an ancient custom. Mexican wives do not wait up for their husbands to come home, armed with rolling pins. The husband can't sneak upstairs with his shoes in his hand. He makes enough noise when he arrives to wake up people for many blocks, and then wifey gets up and attends to his case. —Brooklyn Standard-Union.

Artificial Lace

There is no weaving employed in the production of artificial lace. The manufacturing is done by a machine, which consists in its essential parts of a receptacle containing a cuproammoniacal solution of cellulose, a metallic cylinder upon which is engraved the negative of the design and a coagulation vat. A rotary motion is given the cylinder, over which flows the solution, which, entering the interstices of the engraved pattern, fixes itself immediately in the coagulative liquid, out of which emerges the texture ready to be dyed and dressed. Artificial lace is both beautiful and unalterable. It will wear well and is less combustible than ordinary lace and is waterproof.

Try This for Amusement

Here is a little problem to try when you are lonesome. It is more than odd and interesting. Set down these figures—1 2 3 4 5 6 7 9, leaving out 8. Choose one of these figures and multiply it by 9. Then multiply 12345679 by the result. To your surprise the final result will be made of nothing but the first figure chosen. For example, suppose you choose figure 5. Multiplying 5 by 9 gives 45. Multiplying 12345679 by 45 gives 555555555. And no matter which figure is chosen to begin with the final result will always contain 9 duplicates. —Pamphlet Magazine.

No Splinters

Little four-year-old Tommie, with his parents, was spending the weekend at the home of his aunt and uncle. The aunt, who is an excellent cook, had prepared a number of appetizing dishes, among them a delicious pudding flavored with coconut. When the Sunday evening lunch was being served, Tommie said in a low voice to his mother: "I don't want any more of that pudding with splinters in it."

Raising Broilers Part of Work of Poultryman

Raising broilers is a part of the work of every poultryman; whether undertaken as a necessary part of keeping up the supply of pullets or as a specialty. The New York state college of agriculture, at Ithaca, has issued a leaflet of interest in this connection with the title "Cost of Raising Broilers from Eight to Sixteen Weeks of Age and Their Market Value." Light and heavy breeds are both considered. Tables of weights, costs, market values and net returns at the various ages are given. One conclusion of the studies is that there is considerable doubt as to there being any profit in broiler raising as a separate enterprise and that, where broilers are to be sold as part of necessary methods of renewing the flock they are most profitably disposed of at from ten to fourteen weeks of age, depending upon when they are hatched and how fast they grow.

If we had things to do over again, we should probably do them worse. There are women who would rather dye than let others know they are

Leap Year Privilege

Has Been Legalized

Leap year was so named by the English because by the old Julian calendar every anniversary on that year leaped over one day in the week, but how long the name has been in existence is not recorded. Likewise the origin of "ladies' privilege" on this year is lost in antiquity, although legend has it that St. Patrick inaugurated the custom.

It is said that in 1288 the following law, legalizing leap year customs, was enacted in Scotland:

"It is statut and ordainit that during the rein of hir m. L. blisssit Mageste, for ilk yeare knowne as lepe yeare, ilk mayden ladye of bothe hiegh and lowe estait shall hae liberte to bespeke ye man she likes, altho he refuses to talk her to be his lawful wyfe, he shall be mulcted in ye sum ane pundis or less, as his estait may be; except and awis if he can make it appere that he is heirothir ane thir woman he than shall be free."

When the Illustrated Almanac quoted this statute in 1835, however, its authenticity was questioned. It was said no such law appeared on the statute books of Scotland, nor were there records of any such fines. France once had a law on behalf of the female leap year wooers, and the custom was legalized in Georgia and Florence in the Fifteenth century.—Detroit News

BANKER-FARMER MOVEMENT GROWS

Funds Supplied by Banking Organizations in Many States to Finance Studies and Contests.

The nationwide movement being conducted by county and state bankers' associations and the American Bankers Association in co-operation with the state agricultural colleges and county agents for the purpose of bringing about both local and national solutions for farm economic problems has shown notable results during the past year. A review of these activities in the Bulletin of the Agricultural Commission, American Bankers Association, summarizes some of the chief points as follows:

In Missouri a meeting was held at the College of Agriculture at which the bankers again appropriated $1,500 for boys' and girls' club work. Saline county bankers have raised $500 to stimulate beef calf clubs and report definite results obtained in getting farmers to lime their soil and grow alfalfa. County "key bankers" to promote banker support of farm betterment projects are being appointed and another Short Course in Agriculture for bankers is being planned.

In Kansas no less than fifteen counties are reported by the Extension Service as engaged in definite banker-farmer work. County key bankers attended four district conferences during the year.

The Louisiana bankers' agricultural committee met at the College of Agriculture in connection with a bankers' farm course. The bankers are thoroughly aroused to the wisdom of tick eradication and are co-operating to that end. County key bankers are being selected and county meetings with bankers throughout the state will be arranged.

Results Shown

In Kentucky key bankers have been appointed in each county with the result that the bankers of the state are co-operating with the College of Agriculture more specifically than any other group of business men. Some of the fruits of this co-operation is demonstrated by the fact that the number of dairy cattle in the state has increased seven per cent and the production per cow twelve per cent. Three counties in the state have eliminated all scrub bulls.

In North Carolina the outstanding accomplishments have been the honoring of "Class A Farmers," that is, those attaining a degree of proficiency in a well balanced and sound system of farming as indicated by a score card prepared by the College of Agriculture and the Bankers Short Course given there. Future plans provide for the continuation of the county key banker system and the arrangement of county banker-farmer tours.

In Virginia $15,000 has been raised by subscription for boys' and girls' club work, largely from bankers. A group meeting was held at the College of Agriculture with two hundred bankers in attendance. The Committee on Agriculture of the State Bankers Association voted to continue and check up on the county key banker work.

The reports from New York on the activities for the past year included the distribution of 20,000 short form farm credit statements prepared co-operatively by the agricultural college and bankers. The bankers' agricultural committee also arranged to send suggestions to the banks of the state to aid in financing purchase of dairy cattle to replace those lost by the tuberculosis test.

Bankers' Farm Schools

Bankers' Farm Schools or "Short Courses" continued popular during the year. Several colleges held such courses under the auspices of the state bankers' agricultural committees and are repeating them this year.

"Minimum of Talk, Maximum of Demonstration" was the character of program put on by the Kansas Agricultural College for the second Bankers' Farm School in April. Four representatives were invited from each of twenty counties, consisting of the county key banker, the county agent and the secretary of the county bankers' association, and the president of the farm bureau. Proper farm methods were brought out by demonstrations, then tours were made to farms whose owners had followed the practices and methods outlined by the college to illustrate the lessons. Emphasis was placed on the important part bankers can play in developing agriculture.

In South Dakota specific plans for the ensuing year are the appointment of county key bankers, co-operation in boys' and girls' club projects and group meetings of county agents and key bankers. In Minnesota the county key bankers system is to be continued with special emphasis on bringing the county agent and key banker into closer co-operation.

At a banker meeting at the North Dakota Agricultural College it was decided that the key banker organization would be completed and in order to acquaint the bankers with agricultural needs county bankers' meetings were planned during the year.

At a conference held at Montana State College it was reported that county key bankers had co-operated in arranging for a livestock special train which ran for seventeen days, made twenty-nine stops and came in contact with 22,000 people; that bankers had assisted in six district conferences that led to the formation of a state agricultural program, and that twenty-eight counties reported definite work under the leadership of the county key bankers such as assisting in the purchase of purebred livestock and loans to club members.

Other States in Line

Idaho College of Agriculture was the scene of a special meeting attended by thirty-five bankers and college representatives. The conference voted to join the key banker ranks.

In Oregon the first banker-farmer short course was held in January with a good attendance and marked enthusiasm. A meeting of the state bankers' Agricultural Committee held in conjunction with the course voted approval of the banker-farmer contest sponsored by Agricultural Commission, American Bankers Association, and appointed a committee to confer with college authorities on methods to prevent spread of contagion in dairy cattle.

California held twenty-two successful county tours during the year and as a result it is planned to extend the tours to every county in the state and also to arrange a state-wide tour. The county key bankers played a big part in pushing this work. At an Arizona College of Agriculture meeting of bankers county key bankers were appointed and plans made for community conferences of bankers, farmers and others where local agricultural needs will be discussed.

In New Mexico bankers and county agents met at Clovis as a step in the plan to acquaint bankers in different sections of the state with agricultural conditions and to bring about greater co-operation between them and the county agents. At the Colorado College of Agriculture plans were formulated to select county key bankers, to follow up work with key bankers and county agents and for chairman of the state bankers' committee to attend and address group meetings.

In Nebraska four "farm outlook" meetings were held, largely attended by bankers. Sixty-nine county key bankers were appointed during the year and follow-up work between them and county agents is to be pushed.

For Iowa effective co-operation is reported between bankers and the Extension Service of the state college in their farm bureau programs. Every third farmer in the state is a member of the bureau. The key banker system is to be continued and special emphasis is to be placed on team work between county agents and key bankers.

Director D. H. Otis of the Agricultural Commission American Bankers Association attended many of the meetings.
