CANADA

Canada is becoming increasingly popular as a place for Americans to go on their vacation trips. That is not all on account of the ease with which one may get a drink across the border, compared with this side. Those interested in the quaint and historical and much to sate them in the old French settlements in Quebec and the historical coast of Nova Scotia. Fishermen, mountaineers and motorists as well as ordinary vacationists from the United States spent $289,000,000 in Canada last year, the Department of Commerce estimates, while Canadian tourists spent about $91,000,000 on this side of the border. Considering that Canada has less than 10 per cent as many people as we have, that is a pretty good showing for our northern neighbors.

FLYING

The flying season is just now at its height. Roger Q. Williams flew the 1,560 miles from New York to Bermuda and back without a stop, between daylight and dark, or in 17 hours. John and Kenneth Hunter, flying over Chicago, beat the endurance record for continuous flight 420 hours, on the same day.

Still comparatively few in America have ever been up in an airplane and fewer still proportionately, use planes for transportation. Just how rapidly we are becoming nationally "air-minded" nobody can tell exactly but not as rapidly as the aviation folk hoped when Lindbergh made his historic flight.

It takes a lot of time to change the habits and point of view of the human race.

FORD

I visited Henry Ford's great plant at Dearborn the other day. As I came out of one of the buildings I saw a rope stretched across the brick pathway.

"We'll have to walk on the grass," said my guide. "There's a filder's nest down that path. Mr. Ford saw it the other day and had us block off the path. The kidder you know will leave its nest and det its young ones die if it is disturbed."

I didn't know that fact of natural history, not having been brought up in the prairie country where the kiddeer flourishes, but as I looked down the path and saw the mother bird hovering over the nest in a low bush I felt that I had got a glimpse of another phase of Henry Ford's character.

METALS

The most precious of all metals is neither gold nor platinum, but the rare substance known as iridium, which is used chiefly to make points of fountain pens and to alloy with platinum to give it the necessary hardness.

Last year iridium prices ranged in the United States from $150 to $200 an ounce to $56 the drop being due to the large importations from Colombia whence we got over 45,000 ounces. Before the war Russia was the principal source of platinum, but only 6 ounces came from there last year. The United States produced only 516 ounces of this metal.

Palladium, worth about $40 an ounce, osmium about the same value as platinum, and ruthenium only a little less valuable, are other rare metals used by jewelers.

DAVIS

With the acceptance by the Congress of the United States of a statue of Jefferson Davis and its installation in Statuary Hall in the National Capitol in Washington, it would seem that the last vestige of animosity born of the war between the states must have passed away.

Sixty-nine years ago Davis became the titular head of the Confederate States of America. He had served as Secretary of War in President Buchanan's cabinet and on one of the abutments of Cabin John bridge in Washington, carrying the Washington Aqueduct a blank space appears where his name was chiselled out when the South seceded! That was a war gesture, as important the name as silly

Christoval Baptist Encampment Catalogue Completed This Week

Thirty-two Page Book Records Plans for Encampment

Christoval Baptist Encampment catalogue for the twentieth annual session has just been completed by The Enterprise printing department and plans are underway for the most successful encampment in history, according to G. E. Nicholson, president. Rev. W. T. Hamer, pastor of the First Baptist Church of this city, is vice-president and chairman of the program committee, and the two Winters men are largely instrumental in the success of the catalogue and encampment activities in general.

The catalogue of thirty-two pages is neat in appearance and contains announcements for the encampment which begins August 1st and continues through the 10th. Advertisements from Winters and Christoval merchants fill a portion of the book as do announcements from Howard Payne College, Sammons University, Baylor University, Waco, Baylor College for women, Belton and other Baptist institutions.

"The location and beautiful natural attractions of Christoval Baptist Encampment Grounds need but little advertisement to the people of West Texas," he introductory note in the catalogue says. "All who have ever been thrilled one time by the scenic blue Concho River which forms a lake for boating, fishing and swimming, then joyfully rushes on by leaps and bounds over the causeway to cheer others with its rurgling song, have gone home to describe the ecstasy of their experience to those who could not be present."

Dr. R. G. Lee of Memphis, Tennessee who is pastor of the Bellevue Baptist Church of that city will serve again this year as encampment preacher.

"Last year Dr. Lee so swept his audiences with his eloquence and so gripped them with his Gospel messages, that the committee at once arranged to have him for this year's engagement," the catalogue says. "Great numbers of the people who heard him last year are able today to quote his subjects. So vividly did he picture great spiritual truths that they are indelibly fixed in the minds of his hearers."

Dr. Elmer Ridgeway of San Angelo encampment pastor and Joe Trussell of Brownwood is director of music.

PARNELL AGAINST STATE INCOME TAX

AUSTIN—A State income tax is not wanted by a majority of the electorate, says J. D. Parnell, candidate for Lieutenant Governor, who is fighting "this proposal for an extra tax burden." Income tax evasions would be easy and frequent, the administration costly and inequitable, declared the former Senator.

He attributes his strong following to his fight on the income tax and his opposition to more legislation, E. E. Witt of Waco was a proponent of an income tax measure in the Legislature charges Senator Parnell.

Parnell wants more education and less regulation; demands anti-trust law enforcement to protect individual business freedom; and more lateral roads for home people!

Mrs. J. S. Loyd and daughter Miss Gladys returned Wednesday from Corsicana Texas, where they had been on a two weeks vacation. Miss Gladys reports that it is dry and hot every where she had been.

Mrs. George Kennedy, and son George Jr., of San Antonio are visiting Mrs. Kennedy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. White this week. George Jr. has come to keep his granddaddy in a good humor during the pleasant summer dry weather.

In perspective as our ban upon teaching German in the public schools, when we were at war a dozen years ago.

All the old bitterness may never die. There is still a considerable body of Jacobites in Canada who hold that the present King of England has no right to his throne and that an obscure European nobleman of the Stuart line is the rightful heir of James II. But nobody takes them seriously any more than anyone now takes seriously those who try to keep our old sectional unity alive.

MURPHY GETS LABOR'S O. K. Central Body in San Angelo Endorses Pat Murphy for Congress

The Candidacy of E. E. (Pat) Murphy of San Angelo for Congress from the Sixteenth Congressional District of Texas was endorsed in a resolution passed by the San Angelo Central Labor Union at its regular weekly session Thursday Evening, July 17, 1930.

The Central body is composed of our representatives from each of the Union Councils here. Earlier in the campaign Mr. Murphy was endorsed by the four railway brotherhoods in San Angelo. Murphy has always been fair to organized labor.

TO THE VOTERS OF SCHLEICHER COUNTY

As I have not made house to house canvass for County Judge for another term I will say I have tried to take care of your business with the cooperation of our Commissioners Court. I am sure we have made some mistakes, but so have others. We have reduced your county rate from 75 to 65 cents have tried to give you some roads, be your own judge if we have, and have $8,000.00 worth of machinery paid for on same tax rate as former years. This machinery should be good for numbers of years; have agreed to make appropriation for home demonstration which I think we owe to you ladies. Our books are open to public at any time so you can see where your money is spent. Our schools are in good shape and most of them have money to carry them into another year. I am asking for support if you can endorse my record and thank you one and all for any assistance you may give.

Yours to service

WILTON BLANTON SHOTS SELF ON JACKSON RANCH

Word reached Eldorado Monday morning that Wilton Blanton, an employee on the Pat Jackson ranch 22 miles northeast of Eldorado, shot and killed himself Monday morning about 12:30. Blanton was 26 years old and left a note directing that his father of O. N. Blanton, of Tulsa Oklahoma be notified also left a sealed letter to the father. Blanton had attended Sunday School on Sunday and visited a lady friend Sunday night, who says he left her in fine spirits late Sunday night. The body was found by J. Frank Roberts about 12:30 Sunday night.

Mrs. W. L. Isaacs and daughter Miss Isabelle were visiting and shopping in the city Wednesday.

Thomason Answers Murphy On War Record

"In several rather violent statements the past week, Pat Murphy of San Angelo has tried to imply that Mayor Thomason was a wartime slacker and to ascribe to himself all of the patriotism in this congressional race," Allen R. Grambling, campaign manager for R. E. Thomason in the 16th district campaign, said in answer to Murphy.

"Grambling himself is an ex-service man. 'I know many men, who failed to get into the army, who rendered, at home just as patriotic service as the men who donned uniforms,' he said. 'Mayor Thomason is one of them.' 'Other things being anything like equal, I believe in giving an ex-service man first consideration; Mayor Thomason himself has applied such a policy in selecting city employees. 'I don't believe in any man over-capacitating a service he owed to his country.'"

Grambling had this answer to Murphy's assertion that "my opponent, R. E. Thomason, told a lie when he said I had not been a resident of the state for eight years"; "Any man who lives in Washington can claim a residence anywhere he pleases, and nobody can dispute his claim. Mayor Thomason didn't say Murphy hasn't been a resident; he said he hasn't lived in the district for eight years and, during that time, up to the time he returned to run for Congress, hadn't even paid his Texas poll tax—a condition which, in most folks opinion, wouldn't exactly fit him to be a representative of the district."

Mayor Thomason declined to make a statement in answer to Murphy's attacks. "I have confined my campaign to records and issues which I regard as vital to this district," he said. "I have indulged in no personalities. The result is now up to the voters. I believe they are not interested solely in picking a congressman who is best qualified for the job and who can get best results when a fight is on." — El Paso Evening Post.

West Texas Exposition San Angelo Texas September 22-27

"The Mirror That Reflects West Texas Prosperity"

Another week of preparation has passed and two new features were added to the program for the West Texas Exposition that will make it bigger and better and maintain our 1930 standard of offering you the most varied program ever presented.

Contract was signed for the 1930 Winter Garden Revue for the last three nights of the Exposition. This year's Revue has 30 people and carries magnificent scenery, brilliant costumes and spectacular lighting effects. The Revue will be used Thursday night in connection with the gorgeous Style Show. Buyers from San Angelo stores. The good news of the securing of the Winter Garden Revue was sent them and they will select special reactions and hostesses for exhibition at the Style Show. And there will be special sets and features between the showing of costumes for every occasion.

Remember the Style Show Thursday Night September 25th.

And then Friday night the most scintillating and brilliant attraction of the 1930 Exposition will take place when the Queen of the West Texas Exposition will be crowned. The scenes for the coronation this year will be most elaborate and magnificent and the Royal Court will be entertained by the Winter Garden Revue. Several West Texas towns have already promised to send Duchesses and Maid of Honor. We are looking forward with eagerness to receive the name and photograph of the first representative to the Royal Court. The time is short. Appoint your Duchess and Maid of Honor and send us their names and photographs.

Coronation of the Queen, Friday Night, September 26th.

The Winter Garden Revue will give a complete performance before the Grandstand on Saturday night, September 27th. Advance publicity convinces us that this year's Winter Garden Revue is the best show of its kind and that's why we signed the contract—to present to West Texas the best entertainment possible of its nature. The acts are new and different the costumes beautiful and striking and the scenery and lighting effects are superb. Saturday night is the only time we offer a complete showing of the Winter Garden Revue.

Winter Garden Revue, Saturday Night, September 27th

Work starts this week on the chutes and corals for the first rodeo at the West Texas Exposition. We have already purchased steers and have the horses for the three big performances. Monday afternoon we present a complete Rodeo Program and

Four Accused In Brady Bank Shortage

$5,000.00 Bond Fixed For Two; Deficit Set At $92,000

BRADY, July 23.—After filing of complaints by District Attorney Walter early Wednesday afternoon, warrant have been issued charging embezzlement of funds of the Commercial National Bank of Brady against four persons in connection with a shortage said to be about $92,000.

S. S. Graham, assistant cashier, has been charged in two cases involving embezzlement of $100 in each case, and Leo Campbell, bookkeeper, one case of $1,545.50. Two other cases, one $1,442.65 and the other $633, have been filed in which no arrests have been made as yet. Both men named are being held in bonds of $5,000 in each case to await action of the grand jury to be reconvened at a special term of District Court, which has been called for August 18.

The Commercial National Bank opened Wednesday as usual, the Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas having shipped $100,000.00 to it by airplane Tuesday afternoon to provide against any emergencies. Two other local banks also assured the fullest cooperation of the Federal Reserve Bank should any emergency arise. No excitement has followed announcement of the shortage.

The shortage is fully covered by bonds, totaling $70,000, and by a special dividend of $26,000, which may revert to the bank's funds.

The Commercial National Bank is the oldest and largest bank in Brady, having succeeded the Commercial Bank of Brady in 1907. Its last statement published of June 30, showed capital of $130,000, surplus of $70,000, undivided profits of $14,457.01 and deposits aggregating $497,054.54. It had no bills payable. With the additional funds placed at its disposal, the bank is now in the strongest financial condition it has been in for years.

OLD TREE FINALLY FALLS FOR IMPROVEMENT

An old cottonwood tree that has shaded many horses before the little town of Eldorado was very widely known and has been the noted spot for many arguments of hard times, election talks, gossip and practically every subject that could be mentioned has been heard under the shade of the limbs of this old tree, has finally given away to the gradual improvements of the little city. The old tree was grubbed out this week after the new theatre had been almost completed. This tree has stood on the north side of the main street for over twenty years and will be long remembered by some of the old timers who have swapped yarns and elected every thing from a constable to the president under the protection of its boughs. A vacant spot will be noticed but this vacancy will greatly help the appearance of the street and its place will be taken by a beautiful new Theatre Building.

ATTENTION VOTERS

Due to the fact that Judge J. F. Sutton of San Angelo was appointed to run for District Judge in the 51st Judicial District to late to get his name placed on the ticket in the coming election, his many friends in the district have asked that the voters write his name on the ticket in the election Saturday. Judge Sutton is well thought of in the district and has made many friends during his time serving the people as Judge.

THE 'LOWER' HOUSE

Most observers of public affairs will agree with Mr. Coolidge in his recent statement that in the Congress which adjourned the other day the House of Representatives profited itself the saner and more statesmanlike of the two houses and went far toward regaining its former prestige.

Certainly the performance of the United States Senate is nothing for the nation to be proud of. Instead of being the sedate, deliberate body which it was intended to be and was for many years, the Senate has become the forum for the wildest and most irresponsible demagoguery. This is a condition which cannot be entirely blamed, perhaps, upon the so-called "popular" election of Senators; but certainly a considerable number of Senators, whom we might name, could never have got into the Senate in the old days when State Legislatures chose the members of the so-called "Upper" House.

It was the House of Representatives which was responsible for practically all of the constructive legislation which the 71st Congress has enacted thus far. While Senators of both parties were posing for individual effect and taking every possible opportunity to give the President a slap in the face, the House of Representatives went about the public business in a business like way and stood firmly against the wildest and most impractical proposals of the Senate.

The attempt to assets the authority and dominance of the Senate and to reduce the Presidency to the status of an office-boy has had some curious manifestations, but has aroused the laughter and derision of the public more than its sympathies. The rejection of the President's first nominee for Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, Judge Davis, was much more an attempt to "put the President in his place" than because of any real objection to Judge Davis.

No wonder that President Hoover said, when informed of the birth of his latest granddaughter, "I'm glad she doesn't have to be confirmed by the Senate."

The Senate controls all important patronage, under the Constitutional clause requiring its "advice and consent" to major Presidential appointments. But in the last few weeks of the session it became apparent, even to Senators, that the country was resentful of the Senate's antics. The President wisely refrained from trying to crack the whip over them. Apparently he thought that if he gave the Senate enough rope it would hang itself; and that is what has happened, so far as the respect of the people is concerned.

TOO MUCH PITY

A MAN who has won high distinction in his chosen field of labor came into my office not long ago. He walks with a limp, for one of his legs is shorter than the other.

He told me that for years he went around on crutches. "I finally threw them away," he said, "and I'll tell you why. I got infernally tired of having people stop to ask me what had happened. I didn't want sympathy. It did me no good, and slowed up my operations. I'm lame. I'll never be any better. But I can stand the lameless better than I can stand being pitied."

There is a great waste of pity in the world.

I know, for example, a couple who seem to be curiously mismatched. The woman is ten years older than the man. She is argumentative. She is not a very good housekeeper.

At least a hundred times I have heard somebody say: "I'm so sorry for Joe. He might have picked out a lovely young girl, and see what he went and did."

Now, the simple fact is that the man and woman are exceedingly happy. I personally can't see what he finds attractive in her nor why she should have chosen him. But it is none of my business and I certainly am not going to waste sympathy on two folks who seem to like each other and to be perfectly satisfied.

I live a part of every year in the middle of Manhattan Island, and the rest of the time in a New England village. My Manhattan friends say: "What a terrible bore it must be to live in a little town. No theatres no art galleries no excitement. How I pity country people."

My village friends say: "I like to go to New York for a visit, but what a frightful place to live! Noise, and crime, and rush and expense! The poor folks who are crowded together in those big apartments just don't know what a real living is. How I pity them."

What an absurd situation. What an emotional waste!

This seems to me to be a pretty good idea—don't weaken your emotional nature by pouring out pity unless you intend to do something about it.

Pity the sick and relieve them. Pity the poor, and divide with them. Sympathize with the struggles of youth, and lend a helping hand.

But don't get into the foolish habit of being sorry for anybody who happens to be different from yourself. The chances are that he is spending an equal amount of his time being sorry for you.

Section 11. In order to enable the Legislature to perform the duties set forth in the foregoing section, it is hereby declared all lands and other property heretofore set apart and appropriated for the establishment and maintenance of the University of Texas, together with all the proceeds of sales of the same, heretofore made or hereafter to be made, and all grants, donations and appropriations that may hereafter be made by the State of Texas, or from any other source, shall constitute and become a permanent university fund. And the same as realized and received into the Treasury of the State (together with such sums belonging to the fund, as may now be in the Treasury), shall be invested in bonds of the United States, the State of Texas, or counties of said State, or in school bonds of municipalities, or in bonds of any city of this State, or in obligations and pledges issued by the Board of Regents of the University of Texas, or secured by such obligations and pledges, nor the construction of dormitories or other buildings for the use of the University of Texas, or in bonds issued under and by virtue of the Federal Farm Loan Act approved by the President of the United States, July 17, 1916, and amendments thereto; and the interest accruing thereon shall be subject to appropriation by the Legislature to accomplish the purpose declared in the foregoing section; provided, that the one-tenth of the alternate sections of the lands granted to railroads, reserved by the State, which were set apart and appropriated to the establishment of the University of Texas, by an Act of the Legislature of February 11, 1858, entitled, "An Act to establish the University of Texas," shall not be included in, or constitute a part of, the permanent university fund.

J. H. Walker Has Record Unique In History of Texas Government

Works Way Through Every Office Job to the Top

J. H. WALKER

BUT one man, according to the history of Texas, has worked his way through every desk from the bottom to the top of a major state department. That one man is J. H. Walker, who one year ago became Commissioner of the Land Office by appointment, succeeding the lamented J. T. Robison, under whom he served as Chief Clerk for twenty years.

J. H. Walker is a native of Johnson County but his legal home is Hill County. He entered the Land Office thirty-one years ago, but the last two years of Governor Sayers' administration he was Chief Clerk of the Comptroller's office, and during Governor Lanham's administration he was Assistant Financial Agent of the State Penitentiaries. His service in the Land Office covers twenty-five years.

For some years Mr. Walker lived in the Abilene country and has first-hand knowledge of the conditions in the West, as well as all other parts of the state.

He became Commissioner with an experience unparalleled in the history of this state, and with an unexcelled knowledge of original Spanish grants gained through his work as translator in the land office.

He is a candidate for election and the question before the people is whether the rule of promotion shall be sustained. His platform is administration of the law to the best interest of the state and with fairness to those dealing with it.

The Way of Life

by BRUCE BARTON

HAPPY DAYS

This is the season of the year when the small boy gets the most out of life.

Adolescent juveniles of today may go in for golf and tennis, for motorizing and more or less modest costumes, but the small boy who hasn't yet any "teen" in his age gets his summer fun in just about the way we did, and our fathers and grandfathers before us.

At least, if he doesn't he's missing something of real value in his life and education.

It is one thing for a boy to go to a carefully-supervised summer camp or to study scientific woodcraft under the tutelage of a scoutmaster. It is quite another thing for him to roam around the woods and pastures barefooted, accumulating sunburn and stonebruises and an immense amount of lore about the habits of mud-turtles and garter-snakes. Game laws mean nothing in his young life. He can get more thrill fishing for bullheads and sunfish in the old millpond than your fancy sportsman with his split bamboo rod and hand-tied flies ever experiences.

And when it comes to bathing, all the beaches in the world can't compare with the old swimmin' hole, where you never had to bother with a bathing suit, where girls were strictly banned, and where you didn't need a spring board to dive from. No man has ever truly lived who has not experienced the sensation of a "belly-flop" that pretty nearly knocked the wind out of him!

We do not learn about the world we live in through eyes and ears alone. We learn through our hands and our feet, the feel of sun and wind and rain on our bare bodies, the spash of mud between our toes, the heft of a hickory limb compared with a willow branch. Only such intimate contacts with nature can establish a background against which life can be viewed in later years in its true perspective.

Do boys still whistle whistles out of young willow shoots? You hammer the bark gently with the handle of your Barlow knife—only it's your Boy Scout knife in these days—and the bark peels off in a perfect cylinder which only needs to have the wood whittled to the proper shape and re-inserted, to make a whistle to which any good dog will respond. We had almost forgotten the dog. He is needed to make the picture complete.

A boy, a dog, a jack knife, in the country in the summer—that is the combination which provides the only perfect happiness most of us ever had or will have.

THE FAMILY DOCTOR WHISKY AND ALCOHOL

Neither of these drugs should be used as beverages, no matter when or what the dilution. No medicine should be handled flippantly, carelessly or impudently. For most medicines are deadly in overdose. It is the "beverage" item that has brought these two valuable medicines into disrespect and has divided our people socially and politically to a dimension equal to that of the slavery question preceding the Civil War!

Most rational thinking men and women will admit that whisky and alcohol are all right "in their place." Where that place is, the educated physician, it seems to me, would be the better judge.

Once for all, alcohol and whisky are valuable medicines. When that is said all is said. Capable physicians need pure alcohol in their offices daily. Great hospitals use it as a valuable adjunct in laboratory and nursing departments. It is little less than crime to deprive the wasting invalid of anything that can possibly aid in bringing about his comfort or recovery—so there!

Whisky is a valuable stimulant and aid to vital processes in "lingering" or wasting illness, especially in aged patients. Practical proofs have been well known for years. No chemical equation can do away with actual bedside experience. Drunkards are not made here; neither are monkey wrenches provided for political machinery in the sick room of the old and infirm.

Granted with our "dry" zealots, that we could do without alcohol and whisky; we could as a beverage; we could as a medicine; but you, dear reader, have no right to tell me what I shall or shall not give to my patient, in my efforts to restore him to health; if you assume that right, I shall ignore you. And, you ought beverages all you want to; I'm with you there. But, keep out of the way when I'm treating an invalid!

FEELS BETTER DAILY, SAYS LOCAL MATRON

Said Mrs. D. C. Wilson, of 126 Swiss St., San Antonio, Texas, to the local representative of the Argotane company:

"For about a year, I suffered from indigestion and gas formations on my stomach. Almost everything I ate disagreed with me and, consequently, I lost my appetite. At times, the gas formations were so bad that I would bloat and my heart would flutter. I didn't suffer much from sharp or severe pains, but my condition made me feel miserable most of the time. I had tried almost everything recommended to or prescribed for me, but it seemed that I could get nothing that would give me much relief. Then, after reading so much about the good Argotane had done other people, I decided to try it myself.

"I can truthfully say that Argotane has given me more relief than anything I had previously tried, and in such a short time, too. Now I can eat food that I never dared touch before, and I do not suffer from indigestion

Financing Railroads

Despite the unusual timidity of the money market, there seems to be plenty of money available for building railroads in Texas. The Panhandle section is doing more railroad building than for a number past and will be building more if the Interstate Commerce Commission will permit the construction. The Santa Fe's line toward Presidio is another fine bit of railway enterprise that cries of hard times has not checked. It is reported that $5,000,000 is awaiting investment in the Gulf & West Texas Railway, when the promoters of that line and the towns along the line from San Angelo have complied with certain preliminary conditions. Railroads in Texas are expanding notwithstanding all the talk about the railroad business being crippled by highway truck transportation competition.

CHEVROLET Six-Cylinder Trucks

Bigger, Faster, Sturdier and more economical

In size, speed and durability, the Chevrolet Six-Cylinder Truck is superior to any haulage unit ever built by Chevrolet. Yet, for all these decided advantages, it shows (according to many prominent fleet users) a lower maintenance cost than any other low-priced truck of similar capacity!

These basic facts should be borne in mind by everyone considering the purchase of an inexpensive haulage unit—because capacity, speed, ruggedness and operating economy are the big points to consider in these days when business men are watching transportation costs.

Many important features of the Chevrolet Six-Cylinder Truck are given below. Study them carefully. Then use them as a basis of comparison—to prove quality—to prove modern design—to prove OUTSTANDING VALUE!

Miss Nobody from Nowhere

BY ELIZABETH JORDAN

TWELFTH INSTALLMENT

What Has Gone Before

Standing on a New York street corner, a young woman suddenly discovers that she does not know her own name nor how she got there. Everything in her past is a blank. She knows only that her name is "Eve." She meets a young man who lives at the hotel where she is registered as Eve Nobody from Nowhere, which she had written in French. Eric Hamilton calls in a nurse specialist, but Eve slips out of the hotel, goes to a little apartment house, where she meets a professional dancer who gets her a job in a cabaret.

As a cabaret hostess she meets many curious people. Then, one night, a man who claims to recognize her comes in. She is afraid of him and runs away, back to the hotel to Eric Hamilton. She has her hair dyed and changes her manner of dress, so that the stranger out of her old life will not recognize her. Then Hamilton persuades her to go through a marriage ceremony with him. As they return to the hotel the man she fears is waiting. Hamilton sends her up stairs and turns to the other man, who says his name is Samson Henderson, of Chicago.

Now Go On With The Story

"Thank you, Mr. Henderson. My name is Eric Hamilton, and I'm from Chicago, too. That ought to be a bond."

"Thanks. And now," Henderson added in a level tone, "I'd like to have you tell me what you meant by speaking of Miss Carrington as your wife."

Eric permitted himself a glance of surprise, while mentally he registered the name.

"I meant that the lady and I are married," he suavely informed the caller.

"Since when?"

"Oh, for some little time."

"The hotel people didn't seem to know anything about it. They called her Miss Parsons."

"One doesn't confide in lone affairs to the hotel people, you know," Hamilton mildly pointed out. "And I admit, we're Newly Weds. Still," he added, "we meant to tell them tonight."

"They call Miss Carrington, Miss Berson's uptown and 'Miss Parsons' at this hotel. I can't understand," Henderson went on as Hamilton took this in silence, "why she changed her name after skipping out the way she did. But why the devil should she have two names?"

"Four," Hamilton corrected: "Carrington, Parsons, Berson and Hamilton. But Hamilton is the real one. Berson is the result of a blunder. Some one uptown twisted Parsons into Berson and the habit spread."

"Damned queer, I call it," Henderson muttered. "And cutting me dead when I finally found her," he ended. "That's beyond belief."

As Hamilton made no comment on this outburst, Henderson added with an evident effort at self-control: "Wasn't this marriage of yours rather sudden?"

"I suppose you might call it so," Eric conceded. "But we've known each other more than a fortnight, and lots of couples don't wait that long. Strangers in the same town get better acquainted in a few weeks of vacation, you know, than they ordinarily would in a year," he bromidically pointed out.

"Vacation!" Henderson broke out, so loudly that his companion had to remind him of the time and place by an apprehensive look around the room. It worked. Henderson lowered his voice.

"Do you realize, young man, that this bride of yours skipped out, without warning, a week before she was billed to make her first American appearance at the most important musical event of the year—the big Chicago benefit for the food sufferers?"

And that isn't all she's done," he ended with a groan.

"No," Hamilton slowly admitted. "I didn't realize that. What else has she done?"

Henderson sent him a sudden peering look from his near-sighted eyes, but he was too full of his own troubles to be analytical.

"She's wrecked half a dozen October concert engagements, that's what she's done," he bitterly announced, "including one with the Chicago Orchestra. And another with the Philadelphia Orchestra. And she has knocked on the head the prettiest autumn recital ever planned for an artist. It was to come off early next month. That was bad enough; but of course we all made allowances for her because of the awful shock she'd had—"

"She hasn't said much about that shock," Eric confessed. "I wish you would tell me the whole story."

Henderson leaned nearer and peered into his face again, this time more closely.

"See here," he suddenly demanded. "Why should I talk over Miss Carrington's affairs with you? I don't know anything about you."

"We're fifty-fifty on that," Hamilton reminded him. "But I'm her husband."

"I've only your word for it."

"I can give you proof any time it's necessary. But first I want to know a whole lot more about you. Where do you come in on Eve's affairs?"

Henderson turned squarely and stared at him. He seemed unable to speak.

"Do you mean to say," he inquired at last, "that my name doesn't mean anything more than a name to you, and that Eve Carrington married you without telling you about me?"

"Not a thing. Not a word."

Henderson hunched forward, eyes on the rug at his feet.

"Well," he muttered, "that certainly ties up the package . . . with a string! I thought no musician could surprise me, for the Lord knows emphasizing every word, 'I happen to be Eve's dead father's life long friend, they're a crazy lot. But this!'" He straightened and met Hamilton's sympathetic eyes.

"You see," he added deliberately, and her guardian, and her manager, and the man she was going to marry!"

Hamilton's breath caught under the blow, but he took it with outward calmness.

"Now that we understand each other, suppose you tell me about the shock my wife had before she left Chicago," he suggested. "She doesn't even mention it."

"That's easy, though I guess you've read most of the details. You know all about the drownings, of course."

"I don't even know what you mean," Henderson took out his handkerchief and wiped his moist face.

"It's very odd you don't know," he muttered. "Hasn't Eve told you anything at all?"

"I've admitted that she hasn't discussed the shock."

"I suppose that isn't strange, really. She was shot to pieces by it, poor girl."

Eric caught his arm.

"Mr. Henderson," he cried "I wish you'd stop beating about the bush and tell me that whole story from start to finish."

"All right," Henderson agreed. He went on with increasing seriousness: "I'll start at the beginning. Eve was pretty tired when she got back to America the first of July, after her European tour, and the year ahead of her here was going to be just as strenuous as the past year. She's a genius, you know . . . a wonder. Even now there isn't another American pianiste who can touch her. She'll head all the women players of the world in a few years more. You don't need to know anything about music, to realize she's a genius," Henderson was saying. "You have only to hear her play."

"I've never heard her play."

Hamilton spoke absently, irritated by the departure from the main theme. He immediately regretted his words, for Henderson was plainly amazed by them.

"What!" he gasped. "You've known Eve Carrington more than two weeks and haven't heard her play! Still," he now remembered, "she had turned from her music completely during that last week in Chicago—"

"You were talking about the Heckner drownings," Eric reminded him.

Henderson shook his gray head.

"It doesn't seem possible," he bro't out. "I can't imagine Eve away from a piano that long, even in the nervous state she was in. But I suppose it's no more impossible than the rest of this business."

"Eve went to Mackinac early in August, for a fortnight's rest. She was the guest of the Heckners, in their summer home there. She's an intimate friend of Mrs. Heckner, who is devoted to her and was doing everything she could to make Eve's first American season a big success."

"Eve is strong for boating and swimming and every sort of outdoor sport," Henderson went on, having replaced the spectacles. "Learned 'em when she was a kid, and keeps herself fit that way. The Heckner children (there were four of them) were crazy about her, and spent most of their time at her heels. They were just learning to row and swim, but of course they were never allowed to go off by themselves. However, they knew there was an old boat a mile or so up the beach, and they sneaked off alone one morning and got that boat into the water and pushed out in it. Their governess thought they had merely run away from her to play on the sand, but, just the same, she chased along the beach, looking for them, and on the way another child met her and told her what the youngsters had done. They were pretty far out by that time."

"Yes. Go on."

"It was early and the shore was almost deserted; but Eve had happened along with two women she walked with every morning. She and her friends had been standing for a few minutes watching the rowboat and wondering why the devil it was acting so queer. Suddenly they saw it capsize . . . and at the same time the Heckner governess came running toward them, off her head with terror and shrieking that all the children had been in that boat!"

Henderson stopped again.

"Eve took just time enough to kick off her shoes and started for the kids. She realized that it was all up to her, for most of the men were away that day, and the governess and the other two women couldn't swim a stroke. One of them had sense enough to rush back toward town for help, and the other raced around on the sand, yelling."

He stopped again, took the big cigar from his lips, and looked at it as if wondering how it got there.

"I knew those kids, myself," he explained. "I'd been at Mackinac over the previous week-end and I had taken the twins out rowing. Oh, well . . . He restored the cigar to his mouth, puffed at it fiercely for a moment, and resumed:

"Eve's a good swimmer, but it was a hard pull, for the boat when she got out to them, and when they saw her, the twin boys—ten, they were—began to laugh. They thought it was all over now but the fun of the rescue. They told her to take the girls first, which of course she'd have done anyway, so she took the youngest, little Nancy Heckner, who is only seven, and bro't her in all right. She flung Nancy to the woman on shore, to be looked after and she tore off her soaked skirt and went right out again for the next girl, Mary, who sn't quite nine. Mary was about ready to go under by this time, and the twins were trying their best to help her."

"There wasn't any smiling now, but the boys bucked up when their sister was taken off their hands, and promised Eve they'd hold on till she got back. But Herman said good-by as she started off, and she didn't like that indication or the way he had looked. It rattled her and she had an awful time getting Mary to shore, for the kid was in a panic. The newspaper men did a lot of fancy writing on that second rescue. She got Mary to shore, though, and started back a third time. The women tried to hold her then, for they saw she was about all on, but she went. She went," he repeated softly. "The twins sank before she reached them, so she started diving."

"Go on!" Hamilton begged again and the big man obeyed after a glance at him. It was clear to each of them now that the other loved the girl they were discussing.

"The woman that ran back to town had founds one men in a field," Henderson continued, "and they finally got a boat and reached Eve just in time to save her. It took almost an hour to bring her to consciousness after they got her to shore. They brought back one of the twins, Herman, with her, but he was dead when they got him to the surface. Henry's body wasn't recovered till that afternoon. It was a ghastly business. . . .

but Eve had saved the two little girls."

"By God! that was stunning!" Hamilton said on a choked breath.

"Of course it was stunning," Henderson agreed.

50 Years' Use of Black-Draught

"About 50 years ago," says Mr. Lewis G. O'Shields, of Portersville, Ala., "my mother gave me the first dose of Black-Draught, and I have taken it ever since, when I needed a medicine for constipation. I have used this remedy all my married life, in raising my children."

"I have used Black-Draught for heartburn, as I have had spells of this kind, off and on, for years. This follows indigestion, and indigestion comes close on constipation."

"I have found that the best way to head off trouble is to begin taking Black-Draught in time. It relieves me of dizziness, tightness in the chest and headache."

"By getting rid of impurities, Black-Draught helps to keep the system in good order. I always keep it in the home, and have recommended it to many people, in my time."

TEXAS AND TEXANS

Texas Exports Increase

While the low price of cotton caused export values at Texas ports to decrease in 1929, there was an increase in volume over 1928 and in values over 1927. This shows the growing importance of Texas export trade. Much of this increase is attributable to the opening of the port at Corpus Christi, and the business of that port is due to increase rapidly. The volume of the Texas export trade is largely the cause of the liberal appropriation for the deep water port at Point Isabel.

Texas can hardly boast, though, of its exports so long as it continues to export raw products rather than manufactured goods. The great need of the State is increased manufacturing. Industrial development is proceeding slowly and hardly in keeping with agricultural production. It has been checked somewhat lately by the tightened financial condition of the entire country, which has caused money to seek retirement which ordinarily would have gone into industry.

Del Rio Gets Gas

It is hard to think of so progressive a town as Del Rio, reasonably close to immense gas fields, being without natural gas until now, but it seems to be true that work is soon to be started on building the mains that will carry the gas into that city. Del Rio will then be wondering how it has ever managed to get along without this modern convenience.

Cotton Reduction Small

Last winter when cotton began to toboggan toward what appeared to be the bottom in prices there was much talk of acreage reduction and it was predicted by some that the decrease would be as much as 25 per cent. It is now announced that the reduction has been only 2.7 per cent with the Texas crop being reduced 4 per cent. Evidently there are farmers who would rather grow cotton at a loss than not to grow it at all. But for the speaking campaign that was made all over the South, though, the acreage would probably have been increased at least 15 per cent.

Politics and Agriculture

Comanche evidently believes in putting some business into its political meetings. When the candidates wanted to have a big political meeting it was decided to combine it with a fruit and truck show. Five thousand people attended, and when they didn't want to listen to the candidates or look at them they looked at the fresh and canned fruits and vegetables of the many varieties grown in Comanche county and exchanged experiences about growing and canning the products.

Florida and Texas

Florida has a population something less than 1,500,000. Texas has four times as many. Just think what Texas could accomplish if Texans talked as much and as boastfully as the Floridians do. Really Texas needs a little more of the boasting that Florida gets.

Point Isabel Improvements

It is announced that work on the construction of the Point Isabel causeway across Laguna Madre will be completed by January 1. A boulevard 100 feet wide is to be built connecting the causeway with the Gulf of Mexico across Padre Island. O. her improvements to make an attractive resort are planned. Interesting developments are underway at that interesting Southernmost point of Texas.

Building Work Increased

Contracts let for new building and engineering projects in Texas during June totaled $23,692,200 which was about twice that of the month of May and more than double that of June last year. The building awards in Texas for the first six months of 1930 were more than twelve million dollars in excess of those for the same period of 1929. Yet there are calamity howlers who are ready to tell you that times are getting harder instead of better.

Another evidence of increasing prosperity is that most of the post-office in Texas have reported increased postal receipts over those of like periods of last year.

Power Plant Purchases

The power company that is going to build the big dams along the Colorado river near Marble Falls is buying up the lands that will be submerged, as rapidly as satisfactory purchases can be made. The cash that is being paid for the land is in most cases being used to buy other lands close by. The power companies foresee great prosperity in Texas and we are not hesitating to put their money into the development of the sections in which they are operating.

Income Tax Receipts Grow

Substantial increase in income tax receipts in Southwest Texas is evidence to the San Antonio Express that business is improving, since people do not pay larger income taxes unless incomes are larger. There is less unemployment for those who are not too particular as to what they do to make a living.

May Straighten Rio Grande

The International Boundary Commission is taking the preliminary to straighten the Rio Grande River from El Paso southwest to Quitman Canyon. This will be made the basis for a treaty that will be negotiated between Mexico and the United States for definitely fixing a stable boundary between the two countries. Straightening the river will greatly shorten its length, though perhaps at the expense of its picturesqueness.

UNDER THE STERLING PLAN TAXES WILL BE REDUCED IN SCHLEICHER COUNTY

The taxpayers of Schleicher County, including the farmers, home-owners and business men are now assessed an average tax of approximately 15 cents on the $100.00 valuation to pay for the construction of State Highways, a tax that should be borne by the State.

UNDER THE STERLING TAX REDUCTION PLAN the State will assume this obligation and pay for it out of the gasoline tax.

The Sterling Tax Reduction Plan will place the burden of paying for the state roads your county has built on the traffic, where it belongs.

The Sterling Plan will provide the state with adequate funds to build a connected state system of hard surfaced, all-weather highways and for paving the gaps over the state without county aid and without increasing the gasoline tax one penny.

The Sterling Tax Reduction Plan provides that no property tax shall ever be levied to carry out its purposes.

ELDORADO

(By Jack Brown)

In the Lone Star State of Texas... Where the wild long horns grow... And the grass is green the year around

Because they never have no snow... There is a little western village That I've loved since long ago... It's a town called Eldorado— A place you all may know.

There's a welcome hand to greet you From everyone you meet, And there never was a man Who had to sleep out in the street... Now there's Pancho and there's August—

Two finer men you'll never meet. They just strike out to dinner And say "Come on boys, let's eat."

Now when I was down and out And didn't think I had a friend, They stayed right there beside me And they'll be there till the end No matter how you are treated Or no matter where you go They will always be right there, To see that you get a show.

I've been from Maine to California And from Canada to the Rio Grande, But I've never found its equal In this or any other land, And when you are down an odut And looking for a show, Just scratch your head and think Of grande old Eldorado.

Efforts of officials of the West Texas Exposition at San Angelo to make the 1930 exposition, Sept. 22 to 27 valuable to every county in the territory are being encouraged in Eldorado by Mr. L. T. Barber, Mr. L. E. Sumner and Mr. J. A. Whitten members of the West Texas Advisory board of the Exposition.

The Eldorado members have just been advised by Preston Y. Chumley, assistant manager of the exposition, that their help will be appreciated in furthering interest in the exposition in this vicinity.

Selection of a duchess to represent Eldorado in the coronation ceremony which will surround the coronation of the Queen of the West Texas exposition before the grandstand at the exposition grounds on Friday evening Sept. 26, will be the local members' first step toward furthering the 1930 program. The duchess will select her maid of honor and they will be privileged to select their escorts, making 131.

a total of four persons to represent Eldorado in the coronation ceremony, it was explained in a letter received by the local members from the Exposition offices in San Angelo.

The local members will select the duchess at once. Immediate selection of the duchess and maid of honor to represent this community has been urged in order that widest possible publicity might be given our part in the exposition program, the local advisory board members explained.

Any resident of this community interested in becoming an exhibitor or in taking any part whatsoever in the West Texas Exposition is urged to communicate at once with the local members of the West Texas Advisory Board.

A feeder lamb show, agricultural show, horse show, official rabbit and cavy show, West Texas band contest, rodeo events, horse races, and a Terrapin Derby are features of the exposition program for 1930 about which the local members of the advisory board will be able to supply information to any local citizen.

John E. Davis of Mesquite, widely known Texas editor and legislator, now a candidate for state Treasurer, who has published the newspaper in his home town for the past thirty-one years, enjoys the distinction of having been elected to the Legislature more times than any other person in Texas history. He has represented Dallas County for the past eighteen years, being nominated for his ninth term by a majority of 14,186 over two opponents, which attests his character and standing among those who know him best. He has been chairman of the contingent expense fund of the House for ten years and is often referred to as the "watchdog of the contingent expense fund", because of his careful handling of the expense bills of the House. Born fifty-five years ago, Mr. Davis has spent the greater part of his life in Dallas County, where he has been an active and useful citizen, serving in many capacities without pay, including that of mayor of his town for four terms.

The opinion recently expressed by Speaker W. S. Barron that "John E. Davis has the honesty, ability, and industry needed in that office" is one that is shared by his friends in practically every community in Texas.

WITH OUR EXCHANGES

The Richland Springs Eye-Witness reports the marriage of Miss Mary Munsell, to Mr. Lowell Lewis. The bride is a daughter of Editor Munsell.

CAT ADOPTS SKUNK

That there exists a sympathy among the cat family may be proven by the fact that a cat in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Oliver adopted a tiny skunk when the latter was left a helpless orphan. The cats kittens did not survive and she readily adopted the foundling. Miss Elsie Oliver claims this unique pet and is perhaps the only young lady in Texas who has the distinction in owning a pet skunk. —San Saba Star.

Perhaps she doesn't need it but our advice is not to step on her pets toe.

The Daily Tribune of Boy City is out boosting John F. Grant for the Republican Governor. He has the wrong name, Gov. Grant wouldnt sound right.

Increasing Dairy Profits

The Bexar County Herd Improvement Association has increased the butter fat production per cow this year 5.1 pounds more than in June, 1928, and decreased the cost of producing butter fat 8-10 of a cent a pound through attention to the improvement of dairy herds. The herd increase in the county has been nearly 25 per cent within the last year. To compete with northern dairymen Texas must give closer attention than it has been giving to the elimination of "boarders" from their dairy herds.

WRIGHT'S PARAGRAPHS

Well this is our last shot at the finals in the election. You will have your last Saturday when your favorite loses, help me to elect Mayfield or Love as the case maybe.

Now since Lynch Davidson has accused Ross Sterling as running with the Ku Klux waht we want to know who it is that is left out besides Jim.

Our friend Russel Gunn, and his brother-in law Mr. McGill of San Angelo were in Eldorado Tuesday looking after business. Russel is living at Lawton Oklahoma now, he was well pleased with the crop prospects on the Gunn place and said the crop was the best he had seen.

The street paving began in Eldorado Monday and will be in progress about 90 days. Eldorado continues to grow in spite of the depressing times.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Rodgers left for Temple Tuesday where Mrs. Rodgers will undergo an operation for a gortre. We trust that they will soon return with Mrs. Rodgers health much improved.

Just a few more hours until the excursions up salt river will start, just who is going to join the jolly crowd for the salt river springs, is not yet known, but we predict if Jim Ferguson is on the boat, he announces for governor in 1932 before the journey is over.

After reading the prediction of the governor race in the Daily press we have come to the conclusion that Earl B. Mayfield and Tom Love will run neck and neck for first place.

We don't believe that Mayfield has ever polled less than 250,000 votes if he holds his old strength he will be lead man.

Our guess is that the lead man in the governors race will not exceed 200,000 votes.

Another thing that has been in favor of our county candidates this summer, it has been so dry, they couldn't "sling" any mud at each other.

W. H. Parker had the misfortune of losing his barn on the farm by fire Tuesday night. Some of the oil well watchers were returning from the Whitten oil well and discovered the blade they rushed out to the ranch and could not find anyone at home. The barn was entirely destroyed. Mr. Parker says those that have are the ones that lose.

I. T. Wilson, the chief yardner of the Edwards Plateau, was mnyling with friends in the city Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Isaacs were shopping and visiting in the city Wednesday.

Woman Heads Peran Growers Mrs. Ethna Klingerman, who has proven that she knows as much about the pecan business as any of the men, is now president of the Texas Pecan Growers' Association. She lives at New Braunfels, ha smade a success of the business and is entitled to the honor conferred upon her.

OZONA DEFEATS ELDORADO IN GAME WEDNESDAY

A team organized and prompted by Mike Couch of Ozona came to Eldorado Wednesday and wolloped it on the home club 8-4. The visiting club was a much strengthened club than the one that invaded the home lot last Sunday. Trotter who pitched a great game Sunday was unable to hold the hitters in the Wednesday affair, due to seven mis ques in one inning, which counted for seven runs. A team of all thumbs was the team that appeared on the field Wednesday, with practically every one on the club getting an error marked against him.
