PORTUGAL

Travellers returning from the little known country of Portugal report that it is the most honest country in the world. In the hotels the key to your room is hung on a hook outside of your door and nobody bothers them or steals anything. You can leave your suitcase your camera or your overcoat on a railroad train or a station platform or in a parked car on the street, and nobody bothers them. The people are polite and hospitable as well as honest. If a sudden shower comes up, house doors open and the occupants ask passersby to step in for shelter until the rain stops.

That sounds like an earthly paradise. It would be perhaps, if Portugal had a stable government. In the past twenty six years there have been twenty six revolutions. Under the present President, General Carmona, the little nation is getting along nicely.

POPULATION

Early reports from the Census office indicate that the decline in the birthrate in the past ten years is greater than ever. It begins to look as if, in another ten years we will have come to an annual increase of only 500,000 or less than one half of one percent, in population. And that will have tremendous economic significance.

Cities will not grow so fast. Fewer new schools will be needed. Real estate values will not increase so rapidly. Fewer homes will be built. The proportion of elderly people to young will be larger, and old age pensions and retirement funds will become matters of prime importance.

Those are not considerations for the distant future. They are based upon facts which are here, now, and may affect economic conditions very soon.

SKYSCRAPERS

New York's newest skyscraper, to occupy an entire city block on the East River waterfront at the foot of Wall street will be 105 stories high. There is no economic limit to height except the congestion of traffic which comes from crowding so many people into a small area.

Cincinnati has a new solution for the skyscraper problem. A new building going up there will be 46 stories high and will be a combination of office buildings, hotel and parking garage, with two large department stores and numerous specialty shops on the lower floors.

In the old days busines men and their employees used to live "over the shop." We may be coming back to that in the big cities, with apartment houses in the upper floors to house the people who work in the stores and offices below.

INSECTS

The other day at my farm home we started to replace a worn door sill. When we took the old board off we found that black ants had eaten away the heavy timber which forms the sill of the house itself, for a distance of several feet. We took out more than two quarts of ants and about a pint of ant eggs, and then had the expensive job of fitting a new timber in place.

The war between man and insects is relentless and unceasing. Along the country roads near my home I frequently meet this Summer the U. S. Department of Agriculture "bug men" who are spraying trees in the effort to get rid of the Japanese beetle, our newest insect pest. I found a great colony of tent moths in an old pasture beyond my woodlot. A new pest is beginning to eat up oak and maple trees up our way; another is destroying the willows along the brook and river.

Most of these pests, like the gypsy moth which is killing the New England elms, and the chestnut blight, which has destroyed every chestnut tree in the East, are imported. The Government maintains a plant quarantine, but every now and then some new pest slips across the border.

What is the good of such experiments? Science doesn't know nor care. Science is content to discover new facts, leaving it to inventors to apply them to human uses.

Eldorado To Be Represented At West Texas Exposition

Eldorado will again be represented at the West Texas Exposition at San Angelo September 22-27. Miss Herma Lee Hooker has been chosen as Duchess to represent Eldorado at the show, by J. A. Whitten, member of the Executive Committee of Eldorado.

The Maid of Honor has not been named yet but the committee is working hard to secure one to accompany Miss Hooker.

Misses Jeanette Henderson and Mary Helen Jackson represented the town and county last year.

TEXAN GETS TRIAL ON INTERNATIONAL VARSITY POLO FOUR

NEW YORK, Aug. 5 (AP).—Earl A. S. Hopping, youthful candidate for the American international polo team, returns to action Wednesday in the sixth of the series of test matches after a layoff of two weeks, due to injuries suffered in a fall.

Hopping will ride at No. 2 with Capt. Tommy Hitchcock's "Whites," at the Piping Rock Club field, Locust Valley, Long Island. Eric Pedley, the Californian, will be at No. 1 in the varsity line-up for the fourth straight game with Hitchcock at No. 3. Cecil Smith, the Texan, who made an impressive debut Sunday, will replace Winston Guest at back for a tryout.

Guest will play back on the opposing team of "Reds," presumably for the purpose of testing the regular No. 1, Pedley. On Guest's side will ride H. W. (Rube) Williams at No. 3. A. P. Mills at No. 2, with Harold Talbot and Stephen (Laddie) Sanford splitting the assignment at No. 1. Each playing four chukkers.

Change In Business

The Cash Service Station has discontinued the sale of Texaco Products. We have secured the Famous Sinclair Products so widely used through out the North and East.

The Sinclair Refining Company places a guarantee on their refined material that but few companies can give.

Although Sinclair is new in the State of Texas their products are "going over big" and I know you will not regret the change.

Sinclair products are used by much of the gas driven motor power to do heavy work all over the world, having the largest exports of any refining company in the United States. It is said to be the largest company in the United States at present, having recently bought out many of the other companies and now represents a capital of one billion and a half dollars. Big capital insures a guarantee that the smaller companies can not give.

Our stock will be shipped direct from the Houston Refinery at all times and we take no chances of getting stock from the smaller refineries over the country. This is one of the reasons that we are making the change at this time.

By installing new and modern equipment we will be better prepared to serve you. The latest electric pump accurate to the fraction of an ounce will protect both you and me from loss or cause for complaint.

I have ever made "Customers First" my motto and with a high grade of stock and new and modern equipment you will find us better prepared to serve you, intelligently, accurately, courteously.

We merely ask for a continuation of the pleasant business relations which we have mutually enjoyed in the past.

J. N. Davis, Prop.
Scientific curiosity. It has been produced by Professor P. W. Bridgman of Harvard University. All that is necessary to keep ice from melting under a flame is to subject it to a pressure of 290,000 pounds to the square inch.

Professor Bridgman's experiments with high pressures have given many surprising results. Many familiar substances change their characters under pressure much as human beings do. Thirty nine different metals become better conductors of electricity. Some of the changes persist after the pressure is removed.

What is the good of such experiments? Science doesn't know nor care. Science is content to discover new facts, leaving it to inventors to apply them to human uses.

To Shoot Whitten Well Friday

After striking salt water of a depth of 6,840 in the Phillips Petroleum No. 1, J. A. Whitten, the Phillips Petroleum Company decided to shoot the oil and gas showing, found at 6,840. Orders were given last week for the drillers to prepare to shoot the well Monday but the shooter failed to get here. After he arrived late Tuesday it was found that the shooting line was not long enough and another one had to be gotten from Tulsa Oklahoma. The line arrived Thursday and preparations were then made for the shooting. Investigations found that the well fiked about one hundred and fifty feet of cement and the work was postponed until Friday afternoon when the well will be shot, trying to make a commercial producer.

The oil found in this well is of the highest grade of any oil found in Texas and is making approximately twenty barrels daily at the present time. Almost every time that the tools are lowered in the hole the oil will spray over the derrick followed by several hundred thousand feet of gas.

J. E. Jones Passes Away

J. E. Jones for 31 years a resident of Schleicher County died Wednesday afternoon on his ranch seven miles west of Eldorado, and was buried in the Eldorado Cemetery Thursday morning.

Mr. Jones was sixty-one years of age having lived in West Texas all his life, he was married in January 1891 to Miss Alice Gober in Throckmartin county and to this union was born four daughters and one son, all of which survive him. Mrs. Alice Jones preceded him in death June, 27, 1909. He was again married to Miss Annie Beatty February 3, 1917, and she remains to mourn his departure.

Mr. Jones moved with his family to Schleicher county thirty-one years ago and has made his home on the ranch he first bought continuously since only for a short while he moved to Colorado and during his long stay among this people has proven a valuable citizen and neighbor and surrounded himself with many warm friends. If our entire citizenship was a man of his character Schleicher county would need no courts, for everything could be adjusted out side of courtroom.

Mr. Jones was a member of the Christian Church and the Rev. W. H. Kindred of San Angelo conducted the funeral services which was held at the First Baptist Church in Eldorado Thursday morning at ten thirty with Johnson Funeral Parlor directing.

All the children were present at his death except Mrs. V. S. Marett of Gonzales, who was unable to come, others that were present were Mrs. Taylor Stillman and Mrs. Joe Jackson of Ft. Stockton, Mrs. Wallace Dameron of Sutton county and Herman Jones of Ft. Stockton. Two brothers, John and Joe Jones and a sister Mrs. Tom Russell were present one brother Jim Jones not able to come.

Mr. Jones has been in failing health for several weeks went to Temple but found no relief but was only confined to his home about eight days, he suffered from a stomach trouble, and in his passing a true husband is gone, a loving father will be missed and a splendid citizen gone from the community life.

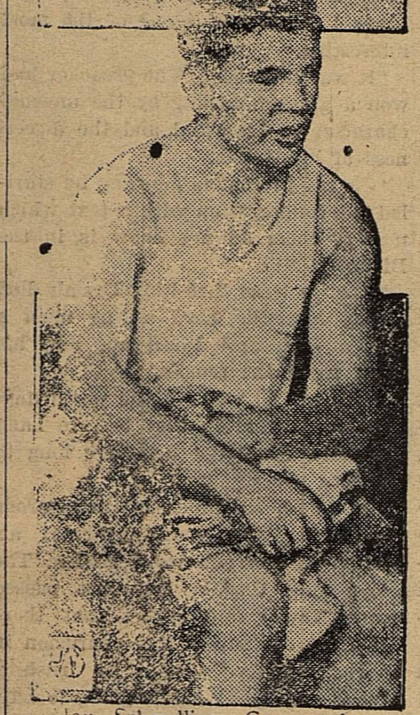

STREET PAVING PROGRESSING RAPIDLY

Work on the paving of the streets is rapidly progressing and the curb and gutters are already completed. The rock base is being put in for the paving and the actual work on the paving will start the first of next week.

WEST TEXAS UTILITIES TO BEGIN BUILDING SOON

The West Texas Utilities Company here will begin on their new building soon. Material is being placed on the ground now and actual work will begin as soon as the material all arrives. This building will be on the same style as all of their buildings, and will be a credit to any town. The building will be used for display room and electrical equipment of all kinds will be kept in store here. This will greatly help the people of Eldorado and surrounding territory in being able to get electrical equipment without ordering it from other places. A complete supply will be on hand here at all times.

4-H CLUB BOYS WORKING HARD WITH CALVES FOR SHOW AT FORT WORTH

The members of the Schleicher County 4-H Club Boys are working hard with their baby calves, trying to put them in first class condition for the Fat Stock Show at Fort Worth next Spring. The boys have already secured seventeen calves and according to L. E. Sumner they are making great headway in their feeding.

The boys were only entered in the lamb show last year with the exception on one calf that was entered by Heidis McCormick but failed to place in the showing. The lambs took several prizes and with entering both calves and lambs this year the boys are very optimistic over their chances to bring back many honors again but in both classes instead on one as before. Mr. Sumner is again giving much of his time to the work and is well satisfied with the cooperation of the many ranchmen that have furnished stock for the boys to feed.

There will be several more calves secured in the near future. The lamb feeding has not begun as strong as strong as the feeding of the calves.

TO THE VOTERS OF SCHLEICHER

To my friends and supporters of Schleicher County in the recent primary:

By this method I desire to express to you and each of you my grateful appreciation for your loyal and valuable support and effort put forth to secure my nomination for District Attorney, and to respectfully solicit and ask for a continuation of that support in the run-off primary August 23, 1930. With a united effort on the part of my friends, and from expressions of interest and support on the part of numbers of people who did not support me in the first primary, I feel confident of success in the run-off primary.

In this connection I desire to say to those who saw fit to support my opponents in the first primary I entertain no ill will, but bear to them best of feeling. I am gratefully yours, D. I. Durham.

NEW BUILDINGS COMPLETED

Two more new modern brick buildings have been completed in Eldorado this week. The new Theatre Building being erected by T. K. Jones and the new building erected by Sam Jones on the lot joining the T. K. Jones' structure. The Sam Jones building will be occupied by Lehman's Dry Goods store and the J. A. Flynn will occupy the Theatre building. Vitaphone pictures will be shown in the new theatre, which will open about the sixteenth of this month. The dry goods store will also be open about the same time.

K. K. Reese Starts Building
A building that is being erected by F. R. Keele of Eldorado has been started this week with L. E. McClary as contractor. This building will be under the same plans as the others built in Eldorado and will be used for a grocery store and market to be occupied by the Self-Serve Grocery and Market. The building they now occupy will be moved as soon as the new one is completed and probably another new building will be erected there.

Eldorado Nine Wins Sugar Game From Menard

The Eldorado baseball team took a top heavy decision from the Menard all stars here last Sunday afternoon by the tune of 12-6. Williamson, who shut the Eldorado team out the Sunday before, fell slaughter of the bats of the home club. Pierce was then called but had practically the same luck a s the starting hurler. Old Efe Moore, chief utility ball player that has played every position for practically every team in West Texas was called upon to stop the bombardment but failed to completely silence the big berthas. He was more effective than the two that went before him. This game ended the series of games with the Menard team with Eldorado winning two out of the three. These two teams have played eight games this season, tying two, Menard winning two and Eldorado four. Lefty Hana has pitched all of six of the games and went in as a relief hurler for four innings and held the strong hitters to one hit. He has struck out sixty seven men in the seven games he has faced the Menard team and has held them to very few scattered hits and few earned runs.

ELDORADO TO GO TO OZONA SUNDAY

The Eldorado team will invade the Ozona diamond Sunday for a return game with the Giants of that city. The Ozona club visited here about three weeks ago and was badly defeated 16-2. They are now planning to give the visiting club some trouble as they have secured a battery out of San Angelo and will try to avenge the defeat handed them three weeks ago. A large crowd of fans is expected to attend the game at Ozona Sunday. The home club has felt the best support from the ball fans in the county and Eldorado that it has ever witnessed before. The club has also won a large percent of their games and tried to give the fans their money's worth on all games.

CITY COUNCIL APPOINTS CITY SANITARY INSPECTOR

The City Council of Eldorado has appointed Mrs. J. N. Davis as City Sanitary Inspector. She will have the authority to see that every thing kept clean and sanitary as possible in the corporate limits and she is backed by the City, County and State. She is also backed by the County Health officer, Dr. W. D. Patton.

Mayor Fred O. Green thinks that this is a very important factor in preventing diseases from spreading.

Roy Andrews was also appointed to the City Marshal's position and will begin at once to discharge his duty.

Good Rains Cover Most Of Schleicher

Rains falling last Thursday and Friday and Wednesday broke a drought that has been gripping the farmers and ranchmen for some time. The rains were not heavy but amounted to an average of about an inch and a half over most of the county. The east end of the county received the least share of the rain, getting only light showers, and some of the west end received light rain also. The conditions of the county up to the recent rains were getting in hard shape. With these rains the farmers will now make a good crop without the help of but very little more moisture. The ranchmen were also greatly benefited.

Grass conditions over practically all of the county are very good, with a very small area that was burned up. The rains received last week and the first of this week will start the grass that the ranchmen have to growing and make very good grazing for the stock. Stock in the county are in very good condition.

WRIGHT'S PARAGRAPHS

Some man was silly enough to suggest a rest for defeated candidates, a tree sitting contest. This will eliminate Jim, for he doesn't know when he is defeated.

The time has come when you don't pay your bills, you want get to make many, if you don't believe this get business and buy from big business concerns.

The good rains which partially covered Schleicher county last week did lots of good, but the rail was very spotted and many places did not receive any.

Well why not have another straw vote through the Literary Digest, the recent straw vote by them, if we remember right showed Texas in the wet column. But the recent election out Texas very much in the dry column.

Robert L. Henry well known politicians ran for United States Senator on wet ticket, made an active campaign received 170,732 votes. Morris Sheppard an ardent dry, never made any campaign at all not even coming to Texas from Washington, and he received 522,688 votes and yet some of our good friends still believe that the wets are in the majority in Texas.

We note that Jack Miles has closed up most of the pool halls in San Angelo, Jack wants them to know he is still constable if not Sheriff.

Our old friend S. I. Necks was hobnobbing with friends in the city Tuesday. The trouble with "Uncle Sam" he has lived too long, he was trying to buy some underclothes and he does not like the kind they sell these days, so he left Wednesday for the east, in search of long sleeves and ankle length underwear, he contemplated going as far as Austin if they could not be found closer.

Another thing that makes life a pleasure in Schleicher County, none of our ranchmen have forbidden any one from fishing on their ranch.

If Governor Moody voted for the Ferguson's 1924 and solicited the vote of the Ferguson, against Felix D. Rolinson, can Dan make any votes for his friends Sterling now, just how sincere is Dan, then he was running for attorney General, fighting the Ku Klux, now he seems to be falling in line for Jim says Sterling is a klansman. Some body tell us just how honest is a politician.

Last week we ask somebody to guide us a right on the August 23 primary. "Uncle Dink" was first man to offer his aid he made it very plain that Jim was the only salvation for poor man. Next came our friend A. K. Bailey he too favored Jim the pardoning governor back in power under petticoat government, although personally he doesn't favor that kind of government. Then came our friend Harry Freund who says if Texas ever had a candidate big enough for the job it could be found in Sterling and if Texas needed a business administration it was now and that Ross Sterling was he who could deliver the goods. Our friend Campbell suggested that we go fishing.

WE ARE STILL RURAL

According to the United States Census, the majority of the people of the United States live in "urban" rather than "rural" population as against 48.6 percent rural. The Census of 1930 will undoubtedly show a much larger proportion living in communities of a size which the Federal government calls urban.

The catch in this is in the definition of "urban" and "rural." The Government's position is the arbitrary one that any community with more than 2,500 inhabitants in "urban" and anything less than that in size is "rural." We agree that the line has to be drawn somewhere, but we submit that this is drawing it too far down the line.

Certainly there are thousands of communities of more than 2,500 population whose interests are still rural, whose inhabitants have not got a big city point of view or many of the important matters of manners morals and out look on life generally. We can name cities of 50,000 and more whose interests are still almost entirely agricultural, or in lines which depend directly upon agriculture; and a city like that, no matter what its size, is definitely rural.

Rural communities are growing in size; that is clear from the income complete Census reports already published. Towns which had 2,500 population ten years ago are now for the most part nearer 5,000. But that does not make them any the less rural.

We are almost inclined to agree with the New York Times, which suggests that only cities of 100,000 or more should be classed as urban. If that classification were adopted about 36,500,000 of the people of the United States would be in the urban group, and the remaining 70 percent would still be rural folk. That would be drawing the line somewhat closer to the top than probably is justified, but there is something in what the Times says about Los Angeles, with more than a million and a quarter population; it is astonishingly metropolitan in some respects but "on most of the issues on which the American people

THE FAMILY DOCTOR

B. John Joseph Gaines, M. D.

WARNINGS

No—your backache is not an indication of kidney disease, or it's the poorest, to say the most for it as a symptom. Let me enumerate several points however, that should send you to the doctor post-haste, if you have been uneasy about this particular set of eliminative organs:

First, a progressively increasing shortness of breath, that you just can't account for; this with increasing weakness and rapid heart that interferes with your ability to do your ordinary work.

Second, you notice a puffiness under the eyes—and maybe you have noticed black specks when looking at white surfaces; just tiny dots they are and might escape your notice. With the puffiness of the lower eyelids you may observe a decided swelling of the hands, not painful—just a "bloat."

Third, and getting more alert, you may notice a getting up from bed to relieve the kidneys—so many times that it really interferes with sleep; the amount may not be considerable, but it is the frequency of voiding that counts as a symptom. Even if you abstain from drinking water evenings, you get up just as often. The appearance of the fluid voided is of little value to you as an indication of disease; it may be clear and innocent looking—or dark red and scalding. It is your physician's business to determine the real condition.

Fourth, look with suspicion on headaches that occur mainly at night—along toward morning worst. Those that are a frequent thing—persistent—do not yield to your taking liver medicine.

These symptoms are usually concurrent, that is all work together—if your kidneys are out of order; the more severe they are, the worse neglected your kidneys have been. Go to the doctor at once!

vote, small town.

There is a difference between "small town" and "rural". Mere size of the community in which one lives does not necessarily affect one's point of view. It has been said that there are more "small town minded" people in New York than in any strictly agricultural community, and that is probably true. Certain it is that the dominant point of view of the people of America is opposed to the point of view which we think of in connection with the big cities. Probably the Times is right in saying that the "effective" urban population of the nation is not more than a quarter of the total.

The Way of Life

SITTING

MR. CHARLES M. SHELDON wrote In His Steps, the book that sold a hundred million copies.

I asked him once to tell about the greatest sermon he had ever heard.

"I don't know that I can name the greatest sermon," he answered, "but I can tell you about one of the most interesting.

"It was in London. The preacher had won a great following by the unusual character of his mind and the directness of his speech.

"On this particular morning he started the congregation with a text which most of them did not know is in the Bible.

"In the year that king Uzziah died I saw also the Lord sitting upon a throne high and lifted up, and his train filled the temple."

"I wondered what in the world anybody could find in that text to hang a sermon on. I did not have long to wait.

"The preacher proceeded in vigorous tones: 'I direct your particular attention to the one word sitting. The great king Uzziah, had just passed away. You would expect that there would be excitement and confusion in heaven. Angels would be rushing around asking, "What is going to happen?" and "What shall we do?"

"Was that the case? Not at all. Behold the utterly unflustered Lord sitting.

NERVOUSNESS ENDS

AFTER TREATMENT

Miss Violet Hicks of 734 Brooklyn, San Antonio, Texas popular stenographer in a recent conversation with the local representative of the Argotane company, made the following declaration:

"I suffered for three years from extreme nervousness, caused by nervous indigestion. I could not rest or sleep well at night, and frequently felt very sluggish. My complexion, too, was sallow, and I had very little energy or pep.

"Argotane being recommended to me as a preparation likely to help me, I started taking it, with most heartening results. I have been relieved of indigestion—am not nearly as nervous as I used to be—and I can sleep much better at night. My complexion is greatly improved, and I sleep much better at night, though I have taken just one bottle of Argotane so far.

"Argotane has been a great help to me and, though I do not care for publicity, I feel that I should tell others what a real good medicine it is."

Genuine Argotane may be bought at Hoover Drug Co. in Eldorado.

TEXAS AND TEXANS

By Will H. Mayes
Austin, Texas

"All Texans for all Texas"

Political Interest High

Just now it is difficult to secure the attention of Texans for any movement except politics. The results of the first primary in many races were surprising to even the most astute political observers, including the candidates themselves. Enough candidates are left in the State races, and in most cases in the county races, to make the August "run-off" the most exciting "second primary" ever held in Texas. In most of the races the results will depend on the activities of the personal friends of candidates, as the candidates themselves will be unable to cover the large territories in the brief time before the "run-off." August in Texas is too hot a month for the political excitement that is all too probable.

Attend The Local Fairs

County and community fairs are to be held in many parts of Texas during August and September. In many ways these small fairs are worth more to the people than the State wide exhibitions although the State fairs are resulting in great good to all Texas. The special benefits from the county and community fair come from careful comparison of exhibits and methods among people known to each other and from the strengthening of friendships that invariably result from the close association of people of like interests. These small fairs bring the people of their communities together to discuss problems in an intimate way and to form ties that can be created

Profitable Feed Crop

A Nueces county farmer has harvested 500 acres of dwarf maize and began with which he expects to fatten calves after grazing them for the first sixty days on the second growth crop of the sorghums. On the basis of his former stockfeeding operations the farmer expects to realize $50 an acre in no other way. Every effort should be made to make the greatest possible success of local fairs.

Features That Attract

In recent years too many fairs have over-stressed the roving carnival companies and side shows that are of no value whatever to the public and that get the largest share of the profits. People patronize them only because they are not given anything better to see or to do. Horse-racing when fairly conducted, always interests a crowd and is attracting more attention now than in recent years. The objection frequently made to this sport is the dragging out of time and this is being met by putting entertaining features in front of the grandstands between the races. Fireworks have again become popular as night features of small fairs. More interests is being shown in cattle and poultry than here to fore. Farmers like to see and hear how neighboring farmers are succeeding. The small fair is worth all it costs in any community.

Terracing In Texas

In 1920 only 689,000 acres of Texas lands were terraced; in 1925 the terraced acreage had increased to about 1,600,000 acres. It is now placed at about 3,700,000 acres, and the work extends to 202 of the counties of the state. In most instances the interest in terracing is due directly to county farm agents or to vocational agricultural teachers in the public schools. It is resulting in a great saving of Texas soil and in increased crop production but there is still far too much good soil being washed into the gulf.

Conserving Texas Soil

In the next ten years greater attention will be centered in conserving Texas water and soil. It is probable that irrigation will be increased at least five fold, the waters of the river watershed being stored in reservoirs for that purpose. Greater care will be taken to prevent the waste of soil fertility from the washing of the lands. All this will mean far greater wealth for Texas. No State can prosper as it should while its soils are being depleted and its resources are going to waste.

Marketing Problems

That Texas land ascn and will produce far more than they are now are producing is evident to every one who is even a casual student of the State's progress. An even greater problem than production is the marketing of farm products. The greatest need of the day is for men of ability to devote their best thoughts to the solution of marketing troubles to the end that farmers may secure their returns from their labors. Politicians can not be depended on to do this, however fulsome they may be in promises. But this writer believes that there is wisdom enough among the people to solve their marketing problems if only that wisdom can be organized and set to work.

Need State Museum

A number of museum organizations are springing up over Texas with the very laudable purpose of saving the things of valuable historic interest and placing them where they may be seen and studied by the people of the present and future generations. Most of these organizations are somewhat local in character and are not financed to carry on large undertakings either in buildings or in collecting exhibits. The collections they can make are at most local and limited and likely to go the way of most poorly financed undertakings. Texas should have and can afford to support a richly endowed museum located at some central point accessible to the largest number of people and should not depend on poorly supported organizations to preserve its valuable treasures.

Lamesa Milk Plant

Lamesa now has a $200,000 powdered milk plant, which is to be supplied by farmers on six milk routes leading to the plant, with more to be established. The plant can handle 100,000 pounds of milk daily. It belongs to 100 stockholders, a Chicago concern owning one-half the stock. The enterprise has already greatly stimulated interest in dairying in Dawson and adjoining counties.

Texas Tomato Shipments

Texas shipments of tomatoes are still reaching New York and other eastern markets, the season for Texas tomatoes having been longer than ever before and the markets having been fairly satisfactory to growers. Plans are under way for a large planting of fall and early winter tomatoes in South Texas. With proper plantings Texas can have tomatoes on the markets throughout the entire year.

Pea Curing Plants

Jefferson has a pea-curing plant which has contracted for 10,000 bushels of field peas at $2.00 a bushel. Farmers find the crop profitable at that price. Many parts of Texas would find pea-growing a good business, with markets assured. Peas at $2.00 beat wheat at 60 cents a bushel.

for his feed crop and pasturage.

Cowpeas In Demand

Farmers near Kingsville have been using Chinese red cowpeas extensively for several years for feeding dairy cattle. The success they have had with the cowpeas has been such that a demand has been created for seed peas in excess of the supply. The peas were introduced there by the Texas agricultural experiment station near Beville.

North Texas Truck

The secretary of the Cooke County Truck and Fruit Growers' Association who has kept the books says that while the output of cantaloupes and tomatoes was smaller than usual this year because of dry weather, the growers have realized $50 an acre from these crops. Intelligent diversification pays.

Miss Nobody from Nowhere

BY ELIZABETH JORDAN

FOURTEENTH INSTALLMENT
What Has Gone Before

Standing on a New York street corner, a young woman suddenly discovers that she does not know her own name nor how she got there. Everything in her past is a blank. She knows only that her name is "Eve." She meets a young man who lives at the hotel where she is registered as Eve Nobody from Nowhere, which she had written in French. Eric Hamilton calls in a nerve specialist, but Eve slips out of the hotel, goes to a little apartment house, where she meets a professional dancer who gets her a job in a cabaret.

As a cabaret hostess she meets many curious people. Then, one night, a man who claims to recognize her comes in. She is afraid of him and runs away, back to the hotel to Eric Hamilton. She has her hair dyed and changes her manner of dress, so that the stranger out of her old life will not recognize her. Then Hamilton persuades her to go through a marriage ceremony with him. As they return to the hotel the man she fears is waiting. Hamilton sends her up stairs and turns to the other man, who says his name is Samuel Henderson, of Chicago.

Now Go On With The Story

Hamilton tells the whole story to his friend, Dr. Carrick, who is able to assure Eve that there is nothing in her old life that she needs to fear, while he considers how to bring her memory back.

Now Go On With The Story

"I will try to . . . but I have a sort of horror . . ."

"I know you have, Mr. Hamilton has told me about it. But there's nothing now to justify it. Will you believe that?"

"Yes."

"Good. And you must remember another thing. We're morally but not absolutely certain that the man who came to-night is what he says he is and that the story he tells is true. He may have stolen the proofs he offers, or be passing himself off as some one else, but there seems a hundred to one chance that he's not a fraud. We're going to learn all about him as quickly as we can, but it may take a few days. In the mean time I'll give you a bare hint of his story and see if it stimulates memory. How about the name Carrington—Eve Carrington? Does it seem familiar?"

"I don't know," she faltered. "Is it mine?"

"I can't be sure, I was so excited when you came in. You know what this possibility may mean to me . . . if there's nothing to dread . . ."

"Of course I do. How about the name Henderson? Does that suggest anything?"

Sherelected, while both men waited anxiously.

"No," she said at last, in a hopeless one. "I'm afraid it doesn't."

"H-m-m. Well, this man Henderson who was here to-night and who frightened you at the cabaret, Mr. Hamilton tells me . . . says that you are a musician."

"A musician?" She tried the word with tender lips and a sudden smile.

"Are you?"

"I . . . good Heavens Doctor! I don't know!"

"Don't get nervous. I won't ask many questions. But what sort of a musician do you think you are—a singer?"

"I . . . I don't know."

"Do you think you can sing?"

She shook her head.

"If some one rolled a piano in here, would that interest you? Would you want to play on it?"

"I don't know. Oh, I don't know!"

It was clear that the strain of the situation was too much for her. To Hamilton's horror, she collapsed abruptly in a spasm of sobbing, her face in her hands, her body shaking. He started toward her, the psychiatrist waved him back while he himself approached the girl and laid a quieting hand on her shoulder.

"You see how it is, Miss Carrington he said very gently. "You're not quite up to these tests yet, and in one way they may do you more harm than good. Don't let that frighten you. I'm certain that you're coming through this all right, and very soon at that. In the meantime you mustn't mind if we don't talk any more of this man and his story till we know what we're about. We can't risk getting you stirred up on false clues, can we?"

She wiped her eyes and pulled herself together.

"No," she steadily agreed. "But if they're real clues—"

"If they're real clues you can trust us to tell you. In the meantime, these names are in your mind and they may start some subconscious work. Will you be patient and leave all the rest to us, and promise not to ask any more questions?"

"Yes." She sat up and resolutely smiled at him. "I'm ashamed of myself for breaking down."

"You needn't be. You're going thru this wonderfully; and you're coming out of it wonderfully, too. Do you think you will sleep to-night?"

"I hope so."

"You ought to, for I think you're on the road home. Good night, Miss Carrington."

"Good night, Doctor."

Their eyes and hands met.

The next morning in the light of a sparkling day, the problems seemed simpler.

"I want you to make me a promise, Eve said to Hamilton.

"Almost anything Eve. You know that."

"Then promise me you won't let the man who calls himself Henderson know about my condition until I say you may."

Eric hesitated.

"Doctor Carrick and I agree that it would be wise not to confide in him for a time," he told her. "Won't that do?"

"No. Even if you find he's all right, I don't want him to know about my amnesia, or whatever it is," she persisted. "There's something deep down—Oh, I can't explain it. Perhaps it's instinct. Perhaps it's memory stirring a little. Whatever it is, I don't want him to know."

Eric, of course, understood and shared her feeling but he hesitated to give a blanket promise.

"Something may happen," he pointed out. "News may come—"

"Then tell me all about it before you give him any details. Consult me. You owe me that. Will you promise?"

"Of course I will." She was right, he was sure; and he himself was anxious to keep the truth from Henderson as long as he dared. Moreover, right or wrong, the important thing was to have her mind as free from anxiety as possible.

"It's too fine to stay in," he suggested. "Suppose I get a roadster and we go off for the day?"

She hesitated, but her quick glance at the outer radiance showed him that she was tempted.

"It does sound nice," she admitted.

"Then let's go. Can you be ready in half an hour?"

"In half a minute. I've got on everything I own, you know!"

"We'll split the difference with a car in fifteen minutes."

He was exacting about the roadster when it was offered for his inspection at the hotel garage. He insisted on having it cleaned and she also ordered an overworked tire changed. But it was not much more than twenty minutes before he helped Eve into the car at the Garland's entrance. Her mood was serene but severely practical.

"I oughtn't to let you spend money on me this way," she murmured as she took her place beside him. The matter of money was increasingly on her mind. He gave the wheel a care-free whirl and started the roadster uptown.

The roadster was approaching the turn that led to White Plains. She glanced down at her black pumps and her face sobered.

"I had a shock this morning when I looked at myself in the glass and got the full effect of my dyed hair in a bright light," she abruptly announced.

"I can imagine it. I'm glad myself when you wear your hat. Talking of food has made me hungry," Hamilton added, for the dyed hair was not a topic to dwell on. "How about lunching very soon at some picturesque place along here? You ate hardly any breakfast."

"I'll be ready for my luncheon!"

She was not only ready for it, but she ate it, to his immense relief. They had a table on a hotel veranda commanding a superb view of river and hills and meadows, and after the meal they lingered to enjoy the vista while Hamilton smoked a cigar.

When they resumed their ride she deliberately led him, for the first time to talk about himself. He was glad to have her know something of his family and traditions, of his school and college life, his interests and his friendships. Perhaps she had wearied of their marriage game, but this did not hurt him. She was an inspiring listener. He knew he had never talked better.

"How would you feel," she abruptly demanded, "if a black curtain suddenly fell between you and all that? If you had absolutely no knowledge of yourself as you were before you came here?"

"I'd feel just the way you feel," he admitted; "only I couldn't take the experience so pluckily. You've been an inspiration, as Carrick says."

"It was disgusting of me to bring up the subject," she broke out. "That wasn't plucky—to spoil even a minute of our beautiful day."

The last words would have made up for anything. They restored Hamilton to a mental state in which the universe belonged to him and his companion; and this condition of beatitude lasted through a rather silent dinner and an evening in which she left him at eight on the plea of being tired.

"But it has been a good day," she told him, and added with her enchanting smile, "I have felt actually human."

He had sent off his instructions to the Chicago agency the previous night, before he slept, and from the time he wired them he subconsciously began to watch for the report. Incidentally he dropped a note to Henderson, postponing their next talk for a few days.

No doubt Henderson was equally busy with investigations covering Hamilton's life and present standing. Certainly Henderson revealed no more urge toward another meeting than Hamilton did.

He had also wired to Chicago, extending his own vacation, and he killed time for Eve and himself during the rest of the week by arranging several motor jaunts, a matinee or two, and some bus and steamer sight-seeing expeditions. There was no doubt that Eve played up wonderfully. She asked no questions and betrayed only occasional moments of depression.

The third day Eve made an unexpected suggestion.

"Do you think it would be all right if we dropped into Jake's to-night for an hour?" she asked.

"We'll do anything you like," he said at once, but she saw that the prospect of the expedition was intensely distasteful to him. She was not surprised. From the first he had shown an unwillingness to discuss her experience at Jake's or even to admit that

"TREE SITTING" ENDURANCE CONTESTS THE LATEST FORM OF SUMMER FUN FOR BOYS

By Caleb Johnson

When the Hunter boys of Sparta, Ill., broke the world's endurance record in flying they started something.

Every boy in the United States, it would seem, is trying to emulate the young flyers.

True, the boys haven't any airplanes, but that makes no difference—to a boy, Jimmy Clemons of Racine, Wisconsin, first conceived the idea of climbing up into a tree and staying there, as a test of endurance.

That was early in July, and the news of his attempts passed from boy to boy and from town to town by the mysterious "grapevine" telegraph whereby such news is transmitted in boyland. Before the newspapers discovered what was going on there were hundreds of boys literally, all over the United States, engaged in the most curious contest ever staged.

Nobody but a boy would have thought of tree-sitting as a sport. But it is just the sort of a thing a boy would think of.

Jimmy Clemons, who started it all, only managed to stay up a tree for 38 hours, which isn't much of a record. Many of the boys who have taken up tree-sitting in a serious way have already stayed up for several times as many hours, and the Summer is as yet hardly under way.

Jack Richards of Kansas City climbed up into his tree on July 10, and as this is written he is still among the branches, imitating Tarzan of the Apes, and holding the unofficial record. Jack is 14 and says he can sit just as long as if he were older. He's going to stay in his tree until school begins—says he.

A good many of the early entrants in this curious championship event were "forced down" after a few hours because they found it harder to sleep among the limbs of a tree than they had anticipated, or because their "refueling" arrangements were imperfect. But Louis Saunders Jr., of Chicago, after sitting it out for 65 hours, had to withdraw from the contest because his refueling arrangements were too good. His playmates sent him up to many sandwiches, cakes and bottles of soda that he got a regular old-fashioned stomach ache and had to climb down and go home to bed.

Jack Harris and Truman Kirpatrick, 19 and 15 respectively, were among the first tree-sitters to make adequate preparations, comparable to those of a trans-Atlantic flier. They first built themselves a comfortable house up in their tree. It is big enough for them to walk around a bit, and they can stretch out full length to sleep, besides having a roof which keeps out all but the worst of the rain.

Billie and Archie Thompson of Oklahoma started in the contest with a promise from their mother that she would send them all the food they wanted, and from their father that he would give each of them $1 for every day they broke Jimmy Clemons' record. A good many other parents have hailed the tree-sitting contest as a sure way of knowing where the boys are during their vacation time.

tree-sitting craze spread East and West. As this is written Bill Kearny of Kansas City claims a longer record than that of Jack Richards. The late entrants do not expect to win the championship, but many of them are shrewd enough to capitalize the craze.

There is John Norwood a colored boy at Pensacola, N. J., who lives in a barrel up in a tree and shines the shoes of people who come to see him, pulling them up on a string and charging a dime for a shine. A firemen's carnival at Audubon, N. J., seized upon the three sitting fad as an added attraction, and promised three boys $100 if they would sit in a tree on the fair grounds for ten days. One New Jersey grocer is paying two boys 25 cents a day each to sit in a tree opposite his store, figuring that they draw customers to his part of town.

Everything is not rosy in a tree-sitter's life. Martin de Bree of North Tarrytown, N. Y., got in only eleven hours before the mosquitoes drove him rude and unsympathetic police have from his perch. In many cities the interfered with tree sitters in the public parks. But the boys have been getting a barrel of fun out of it, and after all that's what vacation is for.

Tree-sitting is not the only form of endurance contest, however, in which boys are indulging this Summer. Bicycle riding is going strong as an attraction. On Long Island the other day I watched two boys who were taking turns at riding a bicycle back and forth over a quarter of a mile of paved road.

We're going to see how long it will take to wear the bicycle out," they informed me!

Donald Mohr and four other boys of Newark, N. J., were still taking turns at riding a bicycle around the city block in Irvington, after two weeks of continuous wheeling, as I write this. Jimmy Dooley of Hackensack and his team of five cycling riders were hopeful of lasting longer than the Newark boys because their bicycle was in better condition. In a dozen other New Jersey cities from one to five teams of boys were trying to break the cycling endurance record.

Nobody knows how long anyone has ever kept a kite in the air, but several teams of boys in the East are trying to set a record which will go down in history. Five days and nights is the longest period of success recorded as this is written.

Sundry teams of roller-skaters, running in relays, are after a world's endurance record in that field, also. And the girls have joined in, with day-and-night continuous swinging and seesawing.

Altogether, it seems as if the children of America were having a pretty good time this Summer!

A THOUGHT FOR SUNDAY

By Amos R. Wells
WHAT DO YOU THINK ABOUT WHEN PEELING POTATOES

A COLLEGE girl who spent the summer as counselor in a girl's camp was also expected to help out in the kitchen. One day she was busy peeling potatoes when the head of the camp came and spoke to her. "It's too bad," she said, "that a young woman of your education should have to peel potatoes." The girl looked up brightly. "But Miss Baldwin," she said, "I don't think about the potatoes while I am peeling them."

That was a Pauline utterance. "Whatever things are lovely . . . think on these things." Our minds are ours, though our fingers may be hired out. And even if our humdrum tasks require constant attention as we work there is an upper self that may be living at the same time, and communing with the angels. If we "set" our minds on the things that are above, the "things that are upon the earth" will not suffer—be sure of that—but will be vastly advantaged.

"Whatever things are lovely . . . think on these things." Read PHILIPPIANS 4: 4-9.

LUMBAGO?

A pain in the lower part of your back can torture you. But not for long, if you know Bayer Aspirin. These harmless, pleasant tablets take away the misery of lumbago, rheumatism, neuralgia, headaches, toothaches, and systemic pains of women. Relief comes promptly; is complete. Genuine Aspirin cannot depress the heart. Look for the Bayer cross, thus:

To the Hon. Ross Sterling and to Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, candidates for governor:

Herewith I hand you a copy of a letter I am writing to the candidates for the nomination for attorney general. In addition to the issues which relate peculiarly to that office I beg to submit the following questions which call for direct expression from you as a candidate for the nomination of governor.

1. Taxes, state, district, county and municipal have heavily outgrown the ability of the tax payers of this state to pay. They represent, on an average, except in the educational department an expenditure of 4 where -1 would be liberal. They are the product of a system of graft which runs all thru the government and which owes its existence to the subversion of the executive and legislative departments of the state to the designs of professional office seekers who have formed alliance with Special Interests, all standing together to give each what it covets. The result is that the tax payers of this state are assessed the full proceeds of their cotton crop to meet all demands of the fee grabbers and other exploiters of government and the per capita taxation in Texas exceeds the per capita taxation in Germany, bedridden that nation is on account of its war debts. All taxes in Texas should be and may be heavily reduced provided its controlling officials will give their earnest efforts to the public welfare rather than to the exploitation of selfish and personal ends. I can point out two hundred county officials in Texas who collect in fees and perquisites every year a sum in excess of four millions of dollars and who never did and never could in private employment earn as much, in the aggregate, as four hundred thousand dollars. This represents over three million, five hundred thousand dollars of graft—criminal graft—and is typical of conditions which are hurrying this state toward universal financial ruin.

If elected governor do you pledge your unceasing efforts to drive all grafters out of office, to lop off all graft, and to reduce taxation to the lowest possible limits?

2. It has been shown by the reports of the Federal Trade Commission that the Public Utilities, particularly the General Electric Trust, which controls nearly all of the business based upon electricity, together with its subsidiaries, have a strangle-hold upon this state. This Trust is far more extortionate in its demands and autocratic in its administration than Standard Oil ever was. It has planted its agents in every department of the state government and has issued orders to the legislature from time to time which have nearly always been implicitly obeyed. On account of its control of the politicians of this state it imposes charges upon the public largely in excess of its charges in other states.

It should be added that the reports of the Federal Trade Commission show that the Electric Trust is spending millions of dollars throughout the nation to buy up and control the press. Its system of propaganda covers Texas like a blanket. It is the first rule of its propaganda service not to permit the public to know any material fact in relation to its operations which it can suppress.

If elected governor do you pledge unceasing warfare against the criminal aggressions of this Trust committed against the general welfare of the people of Texas?

3. Our court procedure, civil and criminal, is a disgrace to civilization. It feeds graft, protects criminals, encourages perjury and magnifies technicality. It exists because it gives an advantage to the shyster lawyer and shyster lawyers in the legislature refuse to change it.

If elected governor will you earnestly seek to reform, simplify and cut down the expense of all court procedure and to pass an effective arbitration statute as demanded by the constitution?

Respectfully,
E. G. SENTER.

Miss Nobody

as an apology."
"Of course," he restlessly agreed. "But . . . you could write you know."
"I've done that." She gave him an odd look. "You don't want me to go back there, do you?"
"No frankly I don't. But we'll go, just the same, if you're really keen for it. However, I'll ask you to indulge me in one detail. Introduce me as your husband. I don't want those people to think you're drifting around alone."
"As you like," she agreed. "But there's no danger in the visit. The man Henderson isn't likely to be there again, and even if he were—"
"There's no danger at all. That's not what I'm thinking about."
He spoke so curtly that she looked at him in mock alarm.
"Do you realize," she said teasingly

WITH OUR EXCHANGES

The Menard Messenger reports that Menard county polled 1301 votes in the primary election last Saturday.

W. A. Bodine returned Saturday from Eldorado and San Angelo where he has been visiting his son, Guy, and daughter, Mrs. Frank Brazelton. He said it was extremely dry out there and that he had to go across the Rio Grande into Villa Acuna to get a drink.—Eye Witness.

It always depends on what a man wants to drink. If it was a glass of pure water with no lurking demands we have it, if it was a glass of home brew, August had it locked up for evidence, and Joshua Munsell knew it when he pined those lines, consequent ly the trip to Villa Acuna was necessary, if our friend Bodine wanted other than a glass of pure water.

The Melvin Enterprise reported big rains falling as it went to press last week.

The Rock Springs Record reports the marriage of Mr. J. M. Lea a noted wool buyer, and Miss Mary Hornby of Uvalde. Miss Hornby is the daughter of Editor Hornby of the Uvalde News.

The Kerrville Sun reports that a short oat crop is being harvested in Kerrville.

The Robert Lee Observer has come out strong for Ross Sterling but advises Ross that he has hubbed the devil.

The Merton Star is singing a new song "Pa, Ma and Me." He didn't say by what tune he was singing but we presume it was "A hot time in the old town to-night."

"that at moments you're beginning to talk and act like a real husband? The proprietary air you're wearing this minute would deceive the closest observer."

He flushed.
"I beg your pardon."
She relented.
"You don't need to . . . Erc!" As he turned an illumined face to her she added hastily, "I know just how you feel."

"You don't know anything of the kind," he said unsteadily. "But some day I hope you will."

HARD TIMES

By ILLA MARTIN

It's here again, this gabby stuff. About hard times and all— We can't hold out—we're ruined sure We'll die before the Fall. No rain—no crops—and even now Our candidate, he lost— The country's shape is worst in years We just can't meet the cost. It's hard on street—in railroad cars: It's heard throughout the land— We're bound to DIE—yes even starve Won't someone lend a hand? *****

Now back up, brother—hold your tongue! Worse times than these, you've seen,

And thru them all you passed quite safe

Although you did get lean. Just talking is not helping you— You chase away your trade By standing in your store as if Your lost will you had made.

Now buckle up!—and smile a bit— You're here and bound to stay

This talk and griping will not help— you've got to LIVE and PRAY.

It can't last long—and even if It sort of gets your "goat",

We're still all sailing down Life's stream—

We're all still in the boat. Hold to that paddle—call it faith—

Let cheer guide you along; Don't frown and worry over things,

But meet them with a song. —Heart O' Texas News, Brady.

Making the race for Railroad Commissioner in the short period of five weeks time, with $826.00, against a former Governor and Railroad Attorney who had the backing of the Railroads, the Railroad-Controlled Bus Lines, Pipe Lines, and Big Oil Companies, together with nearly 2000 persons placed on the State's payroll while he was Governor, and by his influence since that time, (including members of the Railroad Commission and all-powerful State Board of Control, which directs the expenditure of the State's money and passes upon the salaries of the State employees) as well as their combined corporate and personal influence in closing the columns of some newspapers to my candidacy and in minimizing the mention of it in others, it now seems that I have been placed in the run-off primaries as a candidate for Railroad Commissioner. While I appreciate to the uttermost the confidence thus expressed by the voters in my ability and personal integrity, I realize that the vote cast for me in the July primaries was also cast for the protection of the "Common people" against "Corporate greed" and on this and other issues, I will shortly go to the voters of Texas.
