AUTOGIRO

Before the gas engine was invented anybody had ever believed the airplane possible, Thomas A. Edison invented a flying machine which was to be lifted into the air by a horizontal windmill propeller, the power derived from a series of gun cotton explosions.

The other day Mr. Edison saw James Ray and James Faulkner land at Newark after a flight from Philadelphia in a machine they called an "autogiro" which, except for the engine, was just like the early Edison dream. It is entirely possible that the autogiro, which can rise vertically, land "on a dime" and fly as slow as 20 miles or as fast as 115 miles an hour will be the airplane of the future.

LONDON

The municipality of London is still the largest city in the world, with 7,842,000 population, compared with New York's 1930 Census figure of 6,981,927. But in the area known as "circled New York" the territory included in a radius of 19 miles from the City Hall, which takes in part of New Jersey and of three New York counties not included in the city proper, there is a population about 1,400,000 greater than in the so-called "London traffic area" which extends nearly thirty miles from the center of London.

Contrary to the general idea, the average height of buildings in London is higher than in New York. The many huge skyscrapers, rising from 30 to 60 stories, in New York, and counter balanced by the tens of thousands of buildings only three or four stories high London has only two or three buildings more than seven stories high but very few under five stories. The London County Council recently refused an application for permission to build a new hotel ten stories tall, and fixed nine stories as the limit.

FOOD

Foods fads and faddists cost the American farmer millions of dollars a year, according to Henry Stude, president of the American Bakers Association. Mr. Stude's organization is trying to get people to go back to the habit of eating bread—not whole wheat bread or Graham bread or any kind of "health" bread, but just ordinary white bread.

There is a good deal in the suggestion that many persons have been frightened away from bread by the idea that it is fattening.

The craze for slenderness is not confined to women; men have been taught that fat is dangerous. The real danger is in not eating enough nutritive food to supply the necessary bodily energy.

"Eat what's set before you," was the rule for children, when I was a boy. It is still a good rule. Most of us can digest anything and the wider our range of diet the more healthy we are likely to be.

WHEAT

In every state but Georgia the August price of corn was higher than the price of wheat. Such a state of things occurs only once in a long time, wheat usually being the highest-priced grain. This year there is a big wheat surplus and a short corn crop.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture and the Federal Farm Board are advocating using the wheat surplus to feed livestock. It is figured that the food value of wheat is so much higher than that of corn, that with corn at a dollar a bushel the farmer can afford to pay $1.12-2 for wheat for feeding. Many farmers have reported their experience in feeding wheat in the past, for cattle, hogs and poultry, with uniform satisfaction. Some say that it fattens hogs faster than corn does.

It would be strange if wheat should become the stock farmers' mainstay as well as the backbone of human diet.

Ross Steling Resigns; From Highway Board; Martin Appointed

Austin.—Ross Sterling of Houston who will be the next Governor of Texas unless the Republicans carry the State November 4, Monday resigned from the Highway Commission, effective at once. He has served as chairman for nearly four years and the vacancy on the board was filled when Gov. Dan Moody appointed D. K. Martin of San Antonio, the shoemaker of Mr. Sterling, Governor Moody named Judge W. R. Ely of Abilene as the new chairman.

Mr. Martin served on the commission some years ago under appointment by Gov. Pat M. Neff. He then lived in West Texas, but originally came from Itasca, Hill county, where he still has farming interests. He was one of the leaders before the last Legislature of the movement to submit a State road bond issue, having been chairman of Governor Moody's committee of 31.

Cone Johnson of Tyler, whose term on the commission would expire in February, was appointed by Governor Moody to serve out the term of Mr. Sterling, which expires in February of 1933. Mr. Johnson refused to accept a long term appointment, Mr. Martin, at the request of Mr. Sterling, was appointed and given the remainder of Mr. Johnson's term. It is believed that next February Mr. Sterling will appoint either Judge Ely or Mr. Martin to a full term of six years. Appointment of Judge Ely would cause Mr. Martin to be designated for the remainder of Judge Ely's term, expiring in February, 1935. If Martin is given full term, Judge Ely would continue until 1935. In either event it is expected Judge Ely will remain as chairman.

WITH OUR EXCHANGES

The Heart O' Texas News reports that the city of Brady was visited by one of the worse floods in recent years estimating the damage around a half million dollars.

We note from the Brady Standard that McCulloch county had a million dollar rain, but we must subtract about one half for dam ages, leaving only a half million dollar rain.

The Christoval Observer reports that the recent rains were the most beneficial in 47 years.

The Melvin Enterprise reports 7 inches of rain in the Melvin county last week.

The Rotan Advance reports that the body of L. L. Harrison was found 3 weeks after he had died in a pasture from heart failure.

The Ozona Stockman reports that the Crockett county Commissioners contributed $500 to the campaign fund for taxing the land of the State University.

The Eden Echo reports that 13 inches of rain fell at Eden last week and that branches and creeks were higher than any time in the past 26 years.

died with his ambition unrealized. E. H. Harrisman, James J. Hill and Commodore Vanderbilt failed in their similar efforts. The Canadian Pacific and the Canadian National systems run from coast to coast in Canada, but only this year the first system under one control to cover the whole United States was completed.

In 1916 the Van Sweringen Brothers of Cleveland wanted a right of way for a trolley line to their real estate development, Shaker Heights. They could get it only by buying the decrepit Nickel Plate railroad, which they did, mostly on credit. That gave them a line from Buffalo to Chicago and soon they were up to their ears in the railroad business. Now, after 14 years they control also the Erie the Chesapeake & Ohio, the Hocking Valley, Pere Marquette, Wheeling & Lake Erie, Chicago & Eastern Illinois and Missouri Pacific.

Their 18,000 miles of road is the largest railroad system in the United States. It is capitalized at $808,000,000 and valued at over two billions.

That is going a long way in 14

Eldorado Wins Close Game From Lake View

The Eldorado Eagles took a very close and exciting game from the Lake View High School last Saturday afternoon on the local gridiron. The Eagles showed their superiority over the visitors after the first quarter ended. The home boys were in trouble during the first part of the game but put up a very stubborn defense and kept the visitors from crossing the goal line.

The game was very interesting from the start and was any boys game for nearly three quarters, but the home boys drew the first blood and they were never in danger any more.

The win was a great victory for the boys. They were out weighed and were far below their opponents in experience as many of the Lake View boys were letter men from other schools some of them playing as many as four years on other teams. The team was not a school team but just a picked bunch, some from San Angelo Business and other places.

Williamson was the outstanding star on the offense while McGinty put up the best game on the defense, playing the center position and smearing practically every play that came thru the center of the line.

Eldorado played straight football until the third quarter, they saw that they had the visitors guessing and they immediately opened up with everything and the Lake View boys were helpless before the charging of Eldorado eleven. After a long run by Williamson, Captain McGinty, on a pitch from center crossed the goal line practically untouched but fumbled the ball and recovered for the lone score of the game. The try for point failed.

The Eldorado pep squad was helping the boys on with many peppy songs and yells, appearing in their new Orange and Black uniforms for the first time.

The game last Saturday was not a conference game and did not help the standing of the home club but it did help in winning one of the toughest games that has been played this year. Two games have been played on the local field and the goal line has yet to be crossed. The boys are getting to be very proud of this line and going to try to keep the record up.

Ozona will play here Saturday and in all probability will be a very tough game. The strength of the Ozona team is unknown but we know that the Eagles are strong and are going to put up some stiff competition to all comers. After the game last Saturday, the sidelines should be crowded. The evidence of good coaching came out strong in the game and it will be remembered that it was Williamson was the man that put the strongest teams on the home field that ever entered the Eldorado school. He is making the same start this year with the exception he has not the material that he had three years ago, but with the light and inexperienced men that he is training this year he is going to have a team that is going to be hard to beat from here on out.

Don't fail to see the game here Saturday and help the boys win their home games. They need all the support they can get and in any team deserves it is the team now.

MEXICAN CHARGED WITH MURDER HELD HERE

Alfredo Arredondo, Mexican is being held in jail here after an examining trial was held Thursday. He is held on the charge of killing Domingo Bueno. He is alleged to have shot and killed him with a twelve gauge shot gun at the McDonald Gin about two o'clock Wednesday.

The shooting came up over an insult to Arredondo's daughter in law which started the quarrel and ended in the death of Bueno. Bueno was said to have pulled a butcher knife on Arredondo when the shot was fired which killed him. The shot entered his breast killing him instantly.

4-H Club Boys Feeding Seventeen Calves

The 4-H Club boys are getting along fine with the feeding of the calves that they are going to enter the Fat Stock Show a Ft Worth next spring. Seventeen calves have been secured for the boys and all of them are doing fine and are getting in real condition according to L. E. Sumner, county agent. Mr Sumner is working hard with the boys as he did last year and we are sure that they will bring home the bacon when they return from the show.

Only eleven heretofore calves have been secured thus far. The boys are wanting a car, which is fifteen. The other six are from the Hill ranch at Tierra Alta, they being registered black poles. These calves that are on feed are developing rapidly and have been taking their feed well and every one that has seen them predict several winners in the bunch.

WRIGHT'S PARAGRAPHS

Well it rained and rained again, the ground is soaked and full of water mother earth has had her drink and the usual wet weather smiles can be seen again. Some few have been held up on account of swollen streams and travel was on the bum, quite a few cars could not go where they wanted to, but it takes a little bitter to make the sweet sweeter.

J. M. Ramey and A. B. White ventured into town Tuesday on mule drawn vehicle. Mr. Ramey has quite a loss in feed by the filling of lakes in his field, which was planted in feed, and which was very promising until the lake filled up.

To show you that most towns are in a position to wash off, and that our population is from everywhere, one can stand on the street and hear just how much each town will someday be washed away, this applies of course to those towns situated on the different rivers. Such as Christoval, San Angelo, Ballinger, Brady, Menard and Junction. Here is our friend Ed Davis raised at Junction quite a few here from the other cities and all have good reasons to believe that these towns will someday be under water. Old highwater marks can be reached again, where it once flowed it is not impossible for it to flow again; Eldorado though miles from the high water marks suffered a loss of one of her noble young men by drowning in the South Concho.

If wet weather will stimulate a farmer's or ranchman's credit the Schleicher county boys should have a good credit, for the stimulation has been great.

There is a reason the farmers of Schleicher county should plant small grain. We have the season to get it started on right, and the need of the pasturage it will give will be great.

Begin now for next years crop, quit being hardtimes and look for the silver linings of the dark clouds.

Pat Martin was in from the ranch Monday, wearing wet weather smiles.

Will Isaacs was in from the ranch Monday and Tuesday and says his sections of the country is soaked.

John A. Martin was up from his Sutton County ranch Monday, visiting his sister and his mother Mrs. S. C. Martin

S. F. Shoemaker returned Sunday from Brady, where he had been to gather up his oil holdings which were scattered down Brady Creek for several miles. His holding consisted of barrels of oil stored in a ware house at Brady.

Sam Calhoun and wife were here the first of the week water bound. Sam was here when he learned of his brother Earl Calhoun's disappearance Sunday night at Christoval and was later found drowned in the flood water of the South Concho. Sam and wife live near the Christoval Minerals wells and were up here after a flow when the heavy rains came up.

Schleicher Is Again Drenched With Heavy Rains

For the second time within ten days Schleicher county has been drenched with heavy rains that fell for three days. The rain began Sunday afternoon and continued at intervals thru out the first part of the week. Only about two inches fell in Eldorado but other sections of the county report from two to five and six inches.

All of the dry draws were out of banks Sunday afternoon and some remained so until late Monday. Every lake in the county that has been dry for almost a year is brimming over with water and the winter season is assured.

Much fall grain has been planted and a great deal of it is already up. The farmers need not worry about their fall feed as it will be abundant this winter. Much of this will be used for grazing purposes and all cut down many small feed bills that might have to be faced this winter. There will be very little feeding that will have to be done this winter. Only a places where the ranches were overstocked will any feeding at all be done and very little there. The grass is looking like wheat fields all over the county. The winter weeds are coming in abundance.

It has been several years since the county has been drenched so thoroughly and covered so completely as it has been during these last rains.

BOY SCOUTS OF AMERICA

While the boys were gathering Friday night Junior Isaacs and Jack Radliff chose sides in "Steal the Bacon" Junior's side won the best two out of three. Then Joe Hearne and J. R. chose sides in the game of Medicine Ball. All the boys took a great interest in this game. Joe Hearne's side won. The troop meeting was opened with the scout oath. Mr. Redford asked the scout laws and had a general review of all of them. The patrols then gathered together to check up on the one hundred points. The patrols all reported fine again and also reported they would all be better next time. Sides were again chosen by Frank Bradley and Cecil Moore for a game of "Capture the Flag". Cecil's side won and then all of the boys went home.

Golf Fever Rising

The Golf fever is beginning to rise among the old golfers that were easily found when the new course was first completed. The golfers for the last two years have been almost abandoned the game but since the improvement on the course have been completed and a new hole put in instead of the one dug off by the railroad dump the fever is running high among the fans.

Eldorado can boast of having one of the sportiest small courses in this part of the State. A nine hole course with plenty of trouble for the wild golfer who hits them here and there.

The new hole has just been completed and the par for the course will have to be lowered on account of the new one being a shorter hole than the one destroyed. The par was thirty six at first but will be cut down to thirty five.

The members will be called on soon for dues to keep the course in first class condition which will be easily done from now on.

All electric bills not paid by the 20th, service will be discontinued without further notice.

week and reports that the flood conditions were bad there, and it was almost impossible to estimate the loss.

The Success in quoting J. H. Rodger's last week in regard to the Brady flood, made him say the damage was not over estimated, when he said it was not over estimated. The word not was left out, which made the error.

South Concho River Claims Lives Of Two

Earl Calhoun and E. M. Duke Victims of Flood

A gloom of sadness nestled over Eldorado Tuesday morning when it was learned that Edgar Earl Calhoun bookkeeper in the First National Bank and son of Mrs. W. L. McWhorter, of our city, was found drowned in the South Concho River at Christoval. Earl had been to San Angelo Sunday, in company of Jake Ballew was returning home about midnight Sunday night, they came as far South of Christoval as Cole Creek and found it out of banks, here they waited a few minutes. Ballew got out of the Calhoun car and into a truck that was waiting there also, a man, Everett Monore Duke, got into the Calhoun car and started back to Christoval, and just how the accident occurred will probably never be known, some think they drove into the stream not knowing it was up because they had crossed it only a short time before, others think they found the stream up and stopped upon the bank and were cut off from escape by heads of water rushing in behind them and washing off the car. The car was found some 400 yards from the road lodged against the railroad bridge. The body of Calhoun was found about 75 yards above the car, the body of Duke was found several hundred feet below the railroad bridge. The bodies were taken to San Angelo, and embalmed. Duke's was shipped to Del Rio for burial. The remains of Calhoun were brought to Eldorado Wednesday and funeral services were held at 3:00 P. M. Wednesday at the First Baptist Church, the Rev. L. J. Ratliff conducting the services.

Edgar Earl Calhoun was born July 31, 1907, at Buckner, Arkansas, his father died when he was a small boy, he with his mother moved to Eldorado in his early life and has spent his entire life here, graduating from the Eldorado High School in 1926. He attended The Tyler Commercial College and has been an employee of the First National Bank for the past two years. He was a fine young man of Christian Character and held in the highest esteem. The accident was a most regrettable one and a gloom of sadness hangs over our little city.

Earl Calhoun is a grandson of the late J. S. Pelt, and is survived by his mother, Mrs. W. L. McWhorter of our city, one brother, Sam Calhoun, of Christoval and four half-brothers, one Uncle, Otis Pelt, of Pharr, Texas. Aunts, Mrs. Marvin Evans of Pharr, Mrs. C. L. Fortson of Edinburg and Mrs. W. T. Whitten of Eldorado.

When Jake Ballew reached Eldorado Monday and reported that the two men had started back to Christoval Sunday night, and a girl at Christoval claiming she saw a car drive into the swollen stream Sunday night about 2 o'clock, and telephone service was restored to San Angelo a search for Earl was begun by his brother Sam, and no trace of him could be found and then real uneasiness began to be felt and Tuesday morning early the Christoval people began to look in the river bottom as the water went down and found the car and bodies. Although milts from Highwater, Eldorado has contributed one of three to lose their lives from flooded creeks and rivers caused by the recent rains. As we consign Earl's body to the dust, his spirit returns to God who gave it. We can only say to his mother and loved ones, that God in his wisdom doeth all things well although many of his mysteries are hard to understand. We must bow to his will in all things.

The Lions Club together with the Commissioners Court, with this, Crockett and Menard County, want a paved highway from East to West through Schleicher county, everything is pointing lovely for State aid on this road and have it designated as a State highway, this road if built West from Eldorado would run by our Cemetery, lets work diligently for the project and it would throw all the travel from Crockett County through our city, and furnish to pipe line station a good road to Eldorado.

THE RIGHT COLOR FOR A BARN

What is the best color to paint a barn?

That question is agitating some of the Eastern newspapers. Some think that to keep up with the times farmers ought to paint their barns white. They must be referring to "agriculturists" rather than to farmers. An agriculturist is a man who earns his money somewhere else and spends it on the farm. There are many such in the East, city men who keep up country places which they like to refer to as farms, but which are really country estates.

"Which will you have milk or champagne?" asked one of these "gentleman farmers" of a guest. "They cost the same."

The real controversy is not over the question of white paint, which any practical farmer will tell you is too expensive in both first cost and upkeep, when the area of the barn's exterior walls is considered, but that whether a barn should be painted at all. There is one school which holds that a red barn is not only an attractive thing to look at but that it will last longer than an unpainted barn. But the opponents of this view pro-ly point to the unpainted barns which not the Eastern landscape, which have stood, many of them, for a hundred years and then some, and whose white pine boards are still sound and weatherproof.

The unpainted barn, its advocates declare, becomes a part of the landscape; it is nearer to Nature than if it were painted in any color at all. Grant that, and the question still remains a practical one rather than one of beauty. From the farmer's point of view, it would seem to be a question of climate and the kind of wood used in building the barn. Some lumber will stand a century of unpainted exposure, other kinds of wood will speedily decay unless painted.

It is not an important question, but it has its amusing suggestions. What if we were to paint barns in the gay pinks blues and yellows which the peoples of some European countries effect for their buildings? Or why not decorate their exteriors, if not with landscapes, then with "modern" art in strange bands, triangles and curlicues of vivid reds, greens and purples? If the purpose is to add to the gaiety of the scene, why not?

There was a time when most of the barns, in some sections of the country were at least partly painted. What has become of all of the advertisements of cures for man and beast which used to decorate the farm out buildings? Farmers today don't tolerate the use of their property for such useless advertising. About the only signs we see on the progressive farmer's barn are the owner's name and the announcement that he is a member of the Farm Bureau and his cows have been tuberculin tested.

AN HONEST MAN

A man died the other day in New York, whose business record contained not a single blemish. Daniel Guggenheim and his five brothers, sons of Meyer Guggenheim, made money by literally tens of millions. They made it in one of the three fundamental industries. There are three lines of business which increase the world's basic wealth and only three; they are farming, fishing, and mining. The Guggenheims were miners owners of the world's largest sources of copper.

They let others share the profits of their mining enterprises, but they never let anyone share their losses. If a mining prospect "petered out" before it had returned the money invested in developing it, the Guggenheim brothers shouldered all the loss; if it made money, every investor got his share in proportion to his investment. In one instance they repaid more than $1,500,000 to investors, out of their own pockets, because the mine in which they had invested did not turn out as well as had been expected.

It was Daniel Guggenheim's money, $2,500,000 of it, which went to finance the extensive experiments made

GIVING

A MAN met his lawyer, and said: "One of these days I shall want you to revise my will."

The lawyer nodded encouragingly. "When you drew it," the man continued, "I hadn't accumulated much. Naturally, I left everything to my family. Now I am better fixed. I'd like to provide for relatives, give to the men who have helped me make my money, and contribute to charities. There's no hurry about it, of course. In another ten years I ought to be considerably richer. The amounts I can give now are small in comparison with what I expect to do then."

The lawyer advised him to save the will rewritten that very day. "If you live ten years and prosper you can revise the figures upward," he said. "But suppose something should happen to you tomorrow? You would die leaving a selfish will."

Two very rich men have died in recent years, leaving very selfish wills. The great business of one of longer confers distinction; a million them is already dwindling. The men are no more uncommon than an who manage it were given no share automobile, and not nearly so uncommon in it; their hearts are not in their mon as a horse.

The other rich man, a bachelor, who paid small salaries but promised his younger associates that they would be held up to scorn. And their children "taken care of" left his millions to will hang their heads.

a museum. By those who do not know the facts it was hailed as a princely gift. It was no gift. Having trained every faculty to get, get, get, he simply could not give. He merely dodged the issue by writing in the name of a museum which he had hardly even seen.

You say, "What has this to do with me? I am not a millionaire." The fact is that you, an average American, have more money today than you used to think you'd ever have. Are you giving any?

The muscles of the soul are like the muscles of the body. If you say, "Some day in the future I'll take physical exercise," you find, when the times comes, that you can't. The muscles have atrophied.

If you say, "Some day when I have more I will begin to give," you will never give. The habit requires cultivation.

We are about to have new standards in this country. Our day of work is already dwindling. The men are no more uncommon than an who manage it were given no share automobile, and not nearly so uncommon in it; their hearts are not in their mon as a horse.

The givers will be the heroes of the future. And the time will come when those who merely get will be younger associates that they would be held up to scorn. And their children "taken care of" left his millions to will hang their heads.

"All Texans for all Texas"
Rains Routs Pessimists

The walls of the most persistent wallers have been brushed by the October rains that have fallen over most of Texas and put a season into the soil that insures a splendid winter grain crops and pasturage. While the benefits to farms and pastures are incalculable, they are insignificant when compared to the improvement of the mental attitude of the public. Starting about a year ago with the heavy stock market losses in Wall Street, there has been enough pessimistic talk thru-out the country to bankrupt a less prosperous people. It extended to Texas and harmed every line of business, despite the fact that business statistics show that 1930 has been a more prosperous year in most lines than 1929. It's the talk that hurts and causes a tightening of the purse strings.

Help Business Along

Business with you will not improve as it should just because you want it to get better. It is well enough to wish for a thing, but wishing should be backed by personal effort. Whatever you may be doing that is worth doing, is worth striving for. The merchants who will get the fall and winter trade are those who have attractive stores, desirable merchandise at fair prices, and who use the modern methods of news paper advertising in their home papers to induce people to visit their stores and buy from them. The prosperous towns are those whose merchants show by their advertising that they are eager for business, and the merchants who succeed are those who put brains and effort into their merchandising.

Gets Big Tile Plant

One of the largest tile factories in this country has brought a $100,000 and buildings and will install $150,000 in equipment at San Antonio to manufacture floor and roof tiling on a large scale. The industry was secured for San Antonio through the active efforts of the chamber of Commerce, which gathered data and samples of clays available, and sent a representative to New Jersey to interest the manufacturer. It pays cities, towns and individuals to become active in securing what they want.

Patronize Home Industries

A writer in the Curoo Record says that too many home people, thoughtlessly perhaps, help to kill home industries by patronizing outside concerns instead of the home factories. He cites instances, showing that although local flour mills make as good flour as outside mills and sell it as cheap, merchants and consumers alike give the big share of their patronage to outside mills. Bakeries at Curoo buy flour from out of town, and in turn bread consumers patronize outside bakers. The local bottling plants compete with city bottlers in quality and price, but the consumer seldom calls for the home product in preference to others. There are merchants reading this that depend on local patronage for their living, who shop around for their home supplies when they go to market, instead of buying from local dealers, and even a few who send away for the stationary they use instead of getting it from the local printer whose business they expect.

Mohair Shipping Active

The goat business was once ridiculed by the Texas cattlemen as too small to have the attention of ranchmen, but they have quit "kidding" the goat men now. More than 5,000,000 pounds of mohair has been shipped out of Texas this fall, on which the National Wool Marketing Association has advanced in excess of $1,500,000. The goat and mohair industry is thriving in Texas, and many farmers now have flocks of registered goats.

Hotel Lobby Exhibits

The hotels of San Antonio have agreed to furnish space for exhibits of Texas citrus fruits, thus assisting in advertising to their guests the citrus industry of the State. In many cities and towns banks are encouraging home industries by giving window and lobby space for exhibiting home products. Why can't the hotels join in this movement and thus assist in developing Texas? Doubtless they would if asked.

Giving Helpful Advice

Floresville has a chamber of commerce secretary who is also some kind of a county agent and publicity man for the farmers of Wilson county and he is a good one too. He helps them with their co-operative buying and selling, and keeps them informed through the Chronicle-Journal as to general and local farm movements. He not only tells them what to plant, but will find a fair market, but what not to plant. Recently he warned them that they are planning to plant too many pink tomatoes for a profitable home market.

Will Hogg's Will

Will Hogg, exhibited his fathers love for Texas in bequeathing the greater part of his fortune to educational institutions of the State. He left $100,000 for a student loan fund at the University of Texas, $50,000 to both the A & M. College and College of Industrial Arts and $25,000 to each of the ten State Teachers Colleges for the same purpose, established six $20,000 scholarships at the University of Texas, and after making a number of personal bequests, left the remainder of his fortune of some two or three million dollars for either a vocational school at West Columbia or for lecture courses at the University at the option of his executors.

Some Cabbage Heads

It is estimated that 23,900 acres will be planted to cabbage in Texas for marketing or 5,900 acres more than last season. Cabbage growers made good money last season, the Texas crop being marketed to advantage because of its early maturity.

Banker Grows Squabs

A Santa Anna banker and his wife are growing squabs for market, keeping books on the business, and find that they have been making more for the money and time invested than in the banking business. Started as a hobby squab grower has become with them more profitable than poultry and more interesting.

Shows Right Spirit

When Col. W. E. Easterwood, who gave the French flyers $25,000 to make the flight from Paris to Dallas was quoted as saying that the flight "put Dallas on the map," he promptly stated that what he said was "This flight put Dallas on the map," and that while he was a proud citizen of Dallas he was just as proud of being a Texan. It is that kind of an "All Texans for all Texas" spirit that makes for the progress of the state.

Texas at Dairy Show

In the pure bred Jersey show at the National Dairy Exposition at St. Louis, Texas held second place in the number of herds exhibited, there being exhibitors from Hebronville, Trenton, Kingsville, and Taft. Texas is making a good start toward leading the country in dairying.

Buying Syrup for Prisoners

Although the Texas prison farms can produce the best syrup cane grown in all the world, and should make all the syrup for all the State institutions, the Board of Control recently bought 300 gallons of molasses at 47 1/2 cents a gallon. That is one reason why cost of government is high in Texas.

Why Marble Falls Prospers

News reports state that Marble Falls ships 350 cars of cedar, 20,000 to 50,000 pounds of pecans, 700 cars of granite, 250,000 pounds of poultry, 125 rars of livestock, 3,000 bales of cotton and $20,000 worth of furs annually, besides hundreds of cars of other products. The town, even the small town, that ships out much more than it ships in is always prosperous.

The Electric Man Presents His Low-Cost Burglary Insurance

"Police records show that sufficiently lighted houses rarely suffer depredations from prowlers or thieves. For this reason, many people make it a practice to leave lights burning when they spend a part of the evening away from home. On their return, they feel secure in the knowledge that their possessions have been safe in the keeping of protective lighting.

"Normal household necessities utilize the first two steps, so with the new Home Comfort rate, this burglary insurance is even more economical, for it is billed on the low rate of 4¢ per kilowatt-hour—3¢ where service is also used for heating or cooking.

"The next time you spend an evening out—leave lights burning in one or two of your rooms. Notice the sense of security with which you enter your home—then check your light bill. You will be surprised at the extreme economy of this efficient Burglary Insurance. Watch for me next week, I'll have some more ideas for you."

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Giles Chittenham swears to avenge the death of his young half-brother Rodney, driven to suicide by the notorious Julie Farrow who had spurned his love. He will make Julie love him, then throw her aside as she threw Rodney. He meets her in Switzerland, goes with her to the hotel on the St. Bernard Pass, and succeeds in winning her love. To his amazement, he discovers that he has fallen overwhelmingly in love with her himself! And he is married to an American girl with whom he has nothing in common.

Then he discovers that the girl is not the same Julie Farrow who ruined Rodney, but her cousin of the same name. She scorns him when he confesses his love and his inability to marry her. They meet later in London where she is going the place that kills another man—Lawrence Schofield, who wants to marry her in spite of her wild life.

Through her friend Lombard, Giles Chittenham meets the "other Julie," the notorious woman who had ruined Rodney's life.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

She sat besides him, and her voice and her laugh, and her little tricks of manner sometimes made it seem impossible that she was not the same woman who had come so hopfully to his arms in the cold bleak room of the little hotel high up in the mountains.

She told Giles frankly that she had been a little nervous of meeting him. "I thought perhaps the family hatred had extended itself to you," she said bitterly. Life is very unkind to some of us, Mr. Chittenham, I am glad you do not hate me as badly as I had expected you would."

Chittenham hesitated. "When I was on the other side of the world my hatred for you was a very real and vital thing," he said gravely. "I used to hope for an opportunity to tell you—"

He shrugged his shoulders and smiled. "Avenge" is a melodramatic word, isn't it?"

"There is no other word that gives quite the same explanation," she answered. "Don't you still hope for it?"

"No."

"What made you change?"

Giles looked away from her down the crowded little restaurant, and in an aching imagination he saw again the bare ugly room of the mountain hotel, and heard the wind howling as it flung the soft snow against the windows.

"Something happened—" he said. She did not answer at once, then she said quietly:

"Well, whatever it was, I'm glad I don't want to be hated any more. I don't think any one—even your mother—could hate me any more if she knew what I know."

"What do you mean?"

Julie lowered her voice. "If you would like to drive home with me afterwards I will tell you."

What is it you were going to tell me?" Giles asked after they got into her car. He felt an immense curiosity in this woman, and also an inexplicable anger for her, which somehow angered him.

According to all accounts she was worthless and heartless, and yet... once before he had blundered into tragedy through listening to and believing the things other people said.

The car stopped. "We are just home," Julie said. "Come in, and I will tell you."

Julie threw herself down into a big chair with a half sigh.

Giles said nothing. He stood leaning against the mantel-shelf looking down at her, vaguely conscious of something tragic that seemed to have stolen into the room during the last few moments. Suddenly Julie raised her eyes.

"I'm glad you don't ask thousands of questions," she said. "You're such a restful person, Mr. Chittenham, I can be quite sure that you won't say 'Oh, my God!' or anything like that when I tell you that I am going to die."

"I don't look like it, do I?" she queried whimsically. "But it's true, all the same. It's quite signed and sealed with no hope for a reprieve. I've been to every specialist in London who would take my money, and they all say the same thing. There could be an operation, but I won't have it. I hate the idea of the knife, especially as it can be a cure—but only just a way of prolonging life for a little while. I don't think I want to prolong it either. It's not been such fun when one looks back."

"What are you going to do then?"

"I'm going abroad. Couldn't bear the idea of dying here in London, where so many people know me, so I'm going right away where I shan't know any one, and nobody will know me. What do you think of it Mr. Chittenham?"

"I think you're a very brave woman, Giles said, and suddenly he leaned down and took her hand. To his surprise the tears welled up into her eyes and splashed no to her frock.

"That's foolish of me, isn't it?" she said. "And they are not because I am frightened... these tears! It's just because the way you took hold of my hand reminded me of some one... She drew a hard breath as if of pain. "Some one I really loved. There was a man I once really loved, Mr. Chittenham."

"I am sure there was."

"He died..." Julie sat very still for a moment, then she gently drew her hand away. "That finished me, in the same way that something of the kind has finished the other Julie too. He died and then it was as if I died too, all that was best of me at least, and all the hateful rotten part I lived on! My cousin Julie is like that now!

It must be in the family. Perhaps you don't know her well enough to see it or recognize it, but I do! I knew directly she came home from Switzerland... We're never been great friends—I told you she didn't approve of me! But the day after she came home—about six weeks ago, I suppose it must be, or more—she came to see me and she said: 'I want to ask your pardon for all the hard things I've said to you and thought of you. You've been right and I've wrong all the time. It's no use trying to lead a decent life. The only way is to get every ounce of pleasure possible, never mind at whose expense. That's what I'm going to do in the future—that's what she said.'

"I said: You poor little fool!—there's no man in all the world worth breaking your heart over—she wouldn't admit anything, of course, but I knew!—Julia laughed softly. "And now there is something I want to ask you—something I want you to do for me. Will you be kind to Julie? I'm so sorry for her. I know just what she's going through. I've been through it all myself, you see. And I think you could help her. You're the one who'll just be friends with her—"

"I'll do anything I can but..."

"She's got amongst a horrible set of people," Julie said. "Not really vicious people, but silly and worthless! They make her drink too much and swear—and sit up all night, and she's not that sort! She won't be able to bear it as well as I used to. I saw her the other night. She's got hold of a new friend—"

"You mean—Schofield. He's not a bad fellow—"

"No. It's a girl—a common little American—"

"American?"

"Yes—a girl named Sadie Barrow, why, do you know her?" for Giles had made a sudden convulsive movement.

"No—yes... at least... no, I don't know her. Not know her! Sadie Barrow? His own wife."

So Sadie had come to London without acquainting him of the fact. Giles Chittenham felt cold with anger.

How the devil must be laughing at this successful double-cross which had not only brought Sadie to England when he at least wished to see her, but had thrown her across Julie's path!

Confound all women! Chittenham thought, then he looked again at the one sitting crouching in the chair before him. He stooped impulsively towards her and took her hand.

"I should like to be your friend, too, if I may. I should like to be able to help you."

"Thank you, and, Giles—"

"Yes."

"I was never quite so wicked as people have made out. It was not my fault about—Rodney. I told him so many times it was useless—why, he was only a boy compared with me—a spoilt, weak boy."

"I am afraid he was."

"So don't think too badly of me."

She drew her hand gently away.

"And now—please go. I'm so tired."

She did not look at him or rise from her chair, and Giles walked reluctantly to the door, pausing when he reached it to look back. It seemed horrible to leave her like that—alone!

Horrible to think that of all her friends and lovers she had known there was not one to stand by her now and hold her hand as she went through the dark valley lying before her.

A day or two later he saw a small announcement in a newspaper to the effect that she had gone aboard, and would be absent for some time, and that no letters would be forwarded.

It was the same night that his mother rang up on the telephone to inform him that she was giving a party. short her voluble explanations.

"To-night, Twelve midnight, Giles, coffee about four."

"Good Lord!"

"Don't talk like that. It will be such fun. Every one's coming!"

"Who's everyone?"

"Doris of course—she's bringing a party. And Lawrence Schofield—"

"What made you ask him?"

"To please Miss Farrow, of course. They're always together! I really believe they will make a match of it."

"I thought you didn't like Miss Farrow?"

"I don't! But I find that one must be broad-minded in these matters. You see, it takes all sorts to make a world."

"It certainly does. Who else?"

"A lot of people you don't know—"

She rang off and Giles turned away from the phone with a shrug of his shoulders. It was only when he was in his mother's house that he suddenly realized that in all probability Sadie would be there also. For a moment he hesitated, a sudden chill feeling at his heart, then he philosophically pushed the thought aside and went on.

She was almost the first person he saw when he entered Mrs. Ardron's crowded drawing room.

She was talking to a group of people which included Julie Farrow and several others whom Giles knew slightly, and it was Julie who first caught sight of him and waved an airy hand.

Giles went straight across to her. He did not know in the least what sort of reception to expect from his wife, but after he had greeted Julie and the others whom he knew, it was she who said in her insistent way:

"Present your friend."

"It was Julie who obeyed."

"Mr. Chittenham. Miss Barrow—"

"Pleased to meet you," Sadie said impudently.

There was a twinkle in her eyes for which Giles could have shaken her.

Schofield was with Julie beaming happily upon every one.

"We haven't met lately, Mr. Chittenham," Julie was saying. "Where have you been hiding? So kind of your mother to ask me here to-night."

"So kind of you to come Giles answered formally. He could see that Sadie was manoeuvring to reach his side, and presently they were a little apart from the rest.

"Isn't it a scream? Sadie demanded mother's house, and she not knowing that she's entertaining a daughter-in-law unawares?"

"You are at perfect liberty to tell her if you choose." Giles answered coolly, though inwardly he was raging.

"I have no doubt that you have told other people already."

Sadie gave a little scream of repudiation.

"Tell any one! Not me! It would look my little goose once and for all if it was known that I'd got such highly respectable relations. No, thanks. Freedom for me all the time, and if there's anything left over freedom again."

"Why have you come to London?" Her face changed subtly. "Not to find you, my lambkin, so don't worry! I've come to have a good time, and don't you interfere, or it will be the worse for you."

"Sadie, the situation is impossible—"

She laughed in his face.

"Rubbish! Don't pretend that you want me to come back to you."

Sadie shrugged her naked shoulders. "Times change!" she said. She moved away from him, her slim, scantily-clad body swaying with a little impudent movement.

Giles watched her with hard eyes. And this was his wife! This common little... he pulled his thoughts up sharply ashamed of them. After all, he had once thought her good enough to marry.

Giles turned again to Julie. "I suppose it would be utterly useless for me to ask you to drop this damnable play-acting?"

"My dear man, what on earth do you mean?"

"What I say. You're never natural, for a single moment. You hate this sort of—of piffle—as much as I hate it. You despise people like—like these people here—"

Julie laughed serenely. "I brought Lawrence and Sadie Barrow. By the way, what do you think of Sadie?"

"Is she a new friend of yours?"

CARD OF THANKS

To our dear friends who were so kind to us during the illness and death of our Dear Mother we wish to express our sincere thanks. Each word of sympathy was a consolation to our bereaved heart for the beautiful floral offering which spoke words of sympathy that tongue cannot express.

We can not express our gratitude to the ones who went through the mud and high water and did all in their power to bring comfort and consolation in the saddest hour of our lives.

May Gods richest blessings rest upon each of you is our prayer.

Did you ever try to MILK a LAWNMOWER?

—not as foolish as it sounds, for many dairymen quit feeding concentrates in the summer and expect their cows to exist on pasture alone. Such cows expend their energy in GRAZING instead of PRODUCING MILK—and a lawnmower could do that job better.

You know, of course, that a 1,000 lb. cow requires about 30 lbs. of solid food to produce 35 lbs. of milk. But do you know that if she must obtain these solids from grass alone, she must graze over about ONE-TENTH of an ACRE and eat about 175 lbs. of GRASS?

Your cows are worth more as milk producers than as lawnmowers. Pasture is fine and will help reduce your production cost—but ONLY when supplemented by a high quality concentrate such as RED CHAIN 24% Dairy Ration.

SCHOOL SPIRIT

School Spirit— we talk school spirit, we write school spirit, we sing school spirit, but what is it?

Everyone knows what school spirit is but to give one specific definition would be a singularly difficult task.
An indefinable but fathomable atmosphere prevails over every school, sometimes casting a golden glamour or sometimes an air of tarnished gold.
Whether the old or the new here prevails depends solely on whether the proper school spirit prevails.

The proper school spirit is that infingible something which gets into our system and makes us for our "gang" through thick and thin. It is that something that gives us the grit to fight even in the face of defeat. It embodies good sportsmanship always. "All of life cannot be perpetual winning. Some of it must be a failure." The one who can take a defeat as well as the laurel crown is the one who will get the real good out of life.

The kind of a spirit which predominates in a school is illustrated no place as much as on the athletic field. If a winning team can leave our school ground and say "Good sports well I should say!" then our school has manifested the proper spirit. If a visiting team leaves our field in defeat and still proclaims our good sportsmanship then we have won a still greater victory—one to be praised even more. Do not let our victory or our defeat cast bad reflections upon our school.

It is not only by the goal that each individual might prove to the world that he is a loyal student, portraying the ever-present school spirit but in the corridors, in the classroom, to the superintendent, to the teachers in school and out he can develop a spirit for his school that will be widely known.

A pupil becomes a true part of the school only when he learns to think and act as those who have been in school long enough to catch the real spirit. When a pupil once knows the characteristics of a real student, he will usually be eager to make them a part of his personality.

It should be the duty of every older student to show the younger students how to act and this should be done in a genial, sincere effort.

A school is judged by the actions of the students—we are the real tests of the character of our school. So let us through our loyalty and adherence to the ideals of our school portray an ever-loyal school spirit so that the outside world might proclaim, "with the splendid spirit of that student body, that school will always go forward realizing new ambitions and new ideals."

EAGLES WIN THIRD GAME
OF SEASON

Lake View last Saturday was called at 3:30 P. M. Eldorado kicked off and on the first down Lake View made no gain. The second down they made five yards, the third down two yards and the fourth down three yards.
They made no gain on first down two yards on second down, and kicked out of bounds on third down on forty yard line.

Eldorado made no gain on first down, two yards on second down, no gain on third. Williamson punted out of bounds on fourth down.

Lake View got the ball on their twenty yard line and made thirteen yards on first down, one yard on second down, one yard on third down, and two yards on fourth down. Wil-lamson caught punt and was downed on our twenty yard line.

On first down Logan caught a pass and gained six yards, but Eldorado was penalized five yards for off-side. Then a punt was tried.

Lake View carried ball to our thirty five yard line and on first down made two yards, second down two yards, and third down one yard. On fourth first down, they made no gain on first down, no gain on end run on second down, five yards on third down but also got a five yard penalty. On fourth down they made an incomplete pass and ball went over on Eldorado's
twenty yard line.

On first down Eldorado made an incomplete pass and quarter ended with ball still on Eldorado's twenty yard line, with the score 0-0.

Eldorado made five yards on second down and Williamson punted but ball went out of bounds on thirty-five yard line.

On Lake View's down and end run was broken up by Williamson. Their second down gained nothing, and their third down gave them a three yard loss. They punted on their fourth down and Eldorado covered the ball.

On Eldorado's first down no gain was made. On second down, Williamson took ball around end for one yard gain, and on third down he took it around end for no gain. On fourth down, Williamson punted to our five yard line where Hollis McCormick covered the ball for a first down, which gained one yard. On the second down no gain was made, and on third down Williamson carried ball around end for a two yard loss. On fourth down Eldorado made two yards but the ball went over.

Lake View punted and Williamson received ball and carried it one yard where he was downed. On first down a pass failed but on second down a pass and end run gained eight yards which brought the ball back to our twenty yard line where we had time out for Brownie Bullion. On third down, Albert Williams took ball through line for five yard gain, on second down a pass failed to Smith,
and on the third down Williamson took ball around left end for no gain.
A pass was intercepted by Lake View on Eldorado's five yard line and was carried back to our fifteen yard line
just as the half ended.

During the half, the Pep Squad paraded the field.

Lake View kicked off and Aubrey Smith received the ball and passed to Williamson who carried it for ten yards.
The first down gained five yards, then time out was called. On second down Williamson carried the ball around right end to Eldorado's sixteen yard line for a first down. On first down we made two yard gain, second down no gain, and on third down a pass was intercepted by Lake View on our ten yard line and carried one yard. On their first down they made no gain, second down no gain on end run, third down no gain on the plunge and fourth down punted.

Williamson received the ball on our thirty five yard line.

On first down we made two yards and on second down Albert Williams took ball around left end for ten yards and first down. First down gained nothing, and second down Williamson took ball around left end for twenty-two yards. We made one yard on first down, then Albert Williams bucked
the line and went over the goal line, dropped the ball and recovered it to complete the touchdown. A kick failed to score the extra point.

Lakeview called time out to make substitution but when their knocked out player came to he threw off his helmet and acted like he was mad so the substitute went back and the game was renewed.

Eldorado kicked off and Lake View took the ball to thirty-five yard line where Brownie Bullion tackled man with ball and probably prevented him from making a touchdown. The first down made them no gain, on the second down Williamson stopped the man with the ball to run gain.

On the third down they fumbled and Albert Martin covered the ball.
On first down we made no gain, on second down Logan carried ball thru line for seven yards and on third down we made no gain but on fourth down Logan carried ball around left end for seven yards and a first down.
We made three yards on first down and the third quarter ended. On second down Logan carried the ball around end for no gain and on third down Williamson made four yards, but on fourth down Williamson failed to make any gain so ball went over on Lake View's twenty yard line.

Lake View's first down gained nothing, likewise their second, third and fourth, so ball went over.

Logan was thrown for a loss on first down and was almost knocked out but stayed in the game. Eagles lost three yards on our second down, but on third down Williamson took ball for about one yard gain. Then on our fourth down Williamson punted and Lake View was dropped on their nineteen yard line. They made no gain on their first down, but made five yards on second down through the line and two yards on third down but was taken for a two yard loss on fourth down and ball went over on twenty yard line.

On first down Albert Williams took ball for no gain, and on second down Williamson took ball for no gain. On third down Logan fumbled a pass and lost three yards. Williamson kicked out of bounds on seventeen yard line.

A pass failed on Lake View's first down and second pass failed and they were penalized five yards. On third down Lakeview ran around right end for an eight yard gain. They made one yard on fourth down so ball went over on Lake View's thirty yard line.

It was Eldorado's ball when the whistle blew for the game to end, leaving the total score Eldorado 6-Lake View 0.

Listen folk, this certainly was a good game and all who didn't see it sure did miss a lot because there was some dandy, all-round good playing go on out there in the field all during the game.

There was quite a nice crowd out but we want many more. If you'll only come out and boost these players we can show you a team as good as we have ever seen. Next game will be played October 8th, next Saturday, with Ozona and let's all come out and see a real game.

PEP SQUAD

For the first time in the history of the high school on the divide there is a real pep squad at the games. On last Saturday this organization made its first appearance in public and paraded before the admiring gaze of the poulae. They secured a truck from the Chevrolet Motor Company and loaded in this, they advertised the game well, before going to the Fair Park.

At the football field they were much in evidence and were both heard and seen. They occupied the new bleachers which have recently been donated by the West Texas Lumber company and they yelled and made pep throughout the game. During the half they paraded the field and formed the letter E.
Lucille Oglesby, head yell leader, was he leader in this drill.

The new uniforms of the pep squad are golden in color and have a large E on the back of the cape of each.
They show up to a decided advantage and certainly should mean much to the school and to the town. The pep squad, if it is a good one and if the members conduct themselves in a sportsmanship manner are a good advertisement to both school and to the town of Eldorado.

The members of the pep squad who attended the game last Saturday were as follows: Lucille Oglesby, Margaret Bradley, helma Taylor, Jess Ella Johnson, Nell Campbell, Sora Saur, Fay Kenney, Willie Ruth Nicks, Margaret Sheeh, Hazen Bruton, Mary Dell McGilvary, Grace Ratliff, Lorene
Shoemaker, Marjorie Thornton, Sammy Luendecke, Anna Ruth Spurgers, Pauline Rape and El Nora Andrews.

SLIDES SHOWN IN SCHOOL
The High School has recently bought a projection machine from the Keystone View Company of Meadville, Pennsylvania. It costs fifty dollars and the slides are borrowed from the Uof Texas Department of Extension.
The school is allowed to keep each set of slides ten days, the only charges being the express on shipping from Austin here and this being about one dollar. The teachers are responsible for these charges.

Slides can be obtained for any subject. Some that have already been shown are: "Class lesson in American History" and "Travel through Germany, France and England."

The slides have already been shown to about one hundred students. The grammar grades as well as the high school will have the use of this new equipment in the school.

BIOLOGI CLASS

Mr. Williamson is the teacher of the Biology Class. There are twenty eight students and they all seem to be taking great interest in the work.
Group number one performed an experiment on the making of hydrogen.
They put the experiment over with a bang, and found that hydrogen is lighter than air and evaporates slowly.

Each member of the class has a biology note book and they are working hard trying to complete it so that they can go upon some field trips.
During the week they studied on bees and their ways of adaptation. Now they are studying on the crab family and how they live. Through the study of the crabs they intend to make some very interesting experiments.

IN THE RACK

By "Maggie" Zine

There is one thing that the students of the Eldorado High School are interested in this year, especially if they are full of pictures (I mean the thing I am talking about—not the students.) That is the magazine rack and the magazines. There are fourteen magazines and several school papers that come to the school library monthly and weekly.

They are as follows; The Golden Book; Outlook and Independent; The Scientific American; Correct English; Reviews of Reviews; Current Events; Athletic Journal; Asia Modern Mechanics and Inventions; Science and Invention; Popular Science Monthly; The Scholastic; World's Work; Current History and The Literary Digest, etc.

In all the high school classes, whether Science, History, English or what not, these periodicals can be used to a great extent and will prove valuable to every student and teacher.

ELDORADO EXES

Every week an article will appear under the title "Eldorado Exes" on some ex-student of the Eldorado High School. The third of these appear below.

MRS. L. M. HOOVER

By Nell Campbell

One of the first graduates of the Eldorado High School, was Miss Essa Alexander, now Mrs. L. M. Hoover. She and Miss Bertha West, now Mrs. Joseph Elder of Arlington, Texas began their school days together in the small one room school building that is now known as the old "Silliman, Campbell and Evans Office". They went on together through all the grades and were the only two graduates from high school in 1907. Mrs. Hoover graduated with highest honors her average grade being eighty seven and one sixth.

Professor J. B. Smith, one of the most efficient school men Eldorado has ever had, was superintendent during all of Mrs Hoover's high school days.

After graduating she entered Howard Payne College at Brownwood, taking a course in stenography and English. She later attended the State Teachers College at San Marcos, and taught school four years in Schleicher County, two of them being in Eldorado. She later accepted a position in the Post Office, this being during the World War, and at the same time she was Secretary of the interesting experiences of her life.

But still desiring to do clerical work, she accepted a position as Deputy County Clerk with Mr. J. F. Issues, one of her old school mates. She worked in the Clerks office for almost to years and was still holding this position when she was married to Mr. L. M. Hoover, local druggist. Since her marriage she has been identified with P. T. A. work, Self Culture Club and Church work. She has been general secretary of the Baptist Sunday School for several years and considers this her most interesting work out side of her home. Being secretary seems to be her speciality, as she has filled that office in almost every organization to which she has belonged.

"FOOT BALL STUFF"

"Side" Lyner

It seems as though this bunch of boys are hot-stuff this year. They've got back that fight of two years ago.

Some people think the winning and losing of an athletic event is based entirely on the players. That's wrong. The Coach has an important part.

There was tackling in the game Saturday that could be heard from the side line and that's what it takes to win a game.

When the pep squad figures another weiner roast they'd better pile in enough girls to suffice the ever increasing demand of the boys.

Seems to me that the boys are really helped by the pep squad. I guess when they hear a real peppy ripsnortin yell it gives them added stamina.

Every play in Saturday's game was accompanied by a heavy grunt from a guard, Jack Ratliff. We don't blame him much. Think about the opponent he had, just a baby of 218 pounds.

This is the first school that I ever saw in which the boys out of football didn't take an active part. Maybe they don't care what comes or goes to the team. "Boys, back the team!"

COLEMAN HOUSEWIFE ONE OF PROUDEST WOMEN IN TEXAS SHE SAYS

"I'm Certainly Grateful For The Happiness Argotane Has Brought To My Home"

"I'm one of the proudest women in Texas today, and I just want to tell the people it's all because of what this Argotane has done for my husband," said Mrs. J. T. Stewart, wife of the well known employee of the City Power and Light Company, and residing at 403 East College St., Coleman, Texas, a few days ago.

"He has suffered so much during the past two years," she continued, with kidney trouble that he had almost lost hope of ever finding anything to relieve his condition. His appetite was poor, and what he did eat would just stay in his stomach and make gas and misery for him. He got so run-down and out of sorts that sometimes he did not feel like going around while trying to do his work. He was restless and bothered so with his kidneys he could hardly sleep, lost strength and felt despondent at times.

"He was under treatment several times, and tried any number of different medicines, but everything failed to help him, until he began on Argotane. He began picking up right off when he began taking Argotane and his despondent feeling soon disappeared. He has such a big appetite now that he can hardly get enough to eat and his digestion is fine. He has already gained wonderfully in strength and says he never felt better. He is hardly ever bothered with his kidneys now and sleeps good every night and goes after his work with ease and is cheerful all the time. I'm certainly grateful for the happiness Argotane has brought to my home by restoring my husband's health. I honestly believe it will help anybody."

Genuine Argotane may be bought in Eldorado at the L. M. Hoover Drug Store.

"IT IS A SHAME"

The following is taken from the August 13th issue of the Wall Street Journal:

With 7 percent of the world's population, the United States consumes 48 percent of its tin, 56 percent of its rubber, 21 percent of its sugar, 72 percent of its silk, 36 percent of its coal, 42 percent of its pig-iron, 47 percent copper, 60 percent of its crude petroleum and over 23,000,000 of the 30,000,000 running automobiles. "It operates 60 percent of the world's telephone and telegraph facilities, 33 percent of the world's railroads and produces and consumes more than 35 percent of the world's total electric power. This nation embraces 6 percent of the world's area, but it produces 70 percent of all the oil, 60 percent of the wheat and cotton, 50 percent of the lead and coal output of the globe. It holds about one-half of the world's monetary gold and two-thirds of the total banking resources of the earth.

"On the other hand, we would seem to have about 1 percent of the courage 3-4 of 1 percent of the nerve, 1-2 of 1 percent of force and power, and 1-4 of 1 percent of backbone of almost any other country. England, for instance struggling along with many debts and millions of unemployed, without a number of complaint.

Fundamental conditions in America are safe and sound.
