BILLBOARDS

The war against defacing the scenery and endangering the lives of highway travelers by advertising billboards is gaining new recruits daily. The latest is the Fox Film Company, which has announced its abandonment of billboard advertising in favor of newspapers. Newspapers are better advertising media, the Fox people say, and of that there is no possible question. If there were no other argument against billboards, that should be enough.

Safety on the highways depends upon every driver keeping his eyes on the road. There should be no sign boards by the roadside, except those which call attention to the wares of the roadside markers retailer on the spot, direction markers and signs established by the highway authorities to indicate the condition of the road ahead.

"SPORT"

Two-thirds of what passes for "sport" in the United States is pure commercialism. Some of the inside of the "boxing game" was revealed the other day when a fight promoter sued Gene Tunney for half a million dollars, claimed as commission for arranging championship bouts. The court decided against the claim, but in the course of the testimony the whole business of prize-fight promotion was exposed as the money-making scheme which it is.

There isn't any reason why people who like boxing and wrestling matches, professional baseball or college football or any of the other so-called "sports" which are promoted for the big gate-money, should not go to see them. It is a degradation of the word "sport", however, to call such things sporting events. They are in the same class of entertainment as the circus and the movies.

DUPONT

Although related to one of the richest families in the world, T. Coleman Du Pont started in life with nothing but his bare hands and a keen mind. He worked as a coal miner, with pick and shovel, in a coal mine which he later owned. He loved to build, but cared little for the thing he had built after it was done. When the Du Pont powder industry was dying of dry rot and his cousins, who owned it, wanted to sell out, Coleman Du Pont offered to take hold and see what he could do. He built the business up into one of the most important industrial corporations in the world, and then retired to do something else.

A great American passed away when Coleman du Pont died at the age of 66.

MATING

The head of the Westfield, N. J. schools, told a convention of school nurses the other day that one of the things which high school students should be taught is how to select their future husbands or wives, and how to judge the characters of men and women.

That is extremely practical advice. The problem of mating wisely is the most difficult one which the young man or young woman faces, and the one in which he or she usually has had less help from parents than in any other of the problems of real life.

Three-quarters, at least, of all the marital difficulties which have brought the divorce rate up so high in this country, arise from the fact that young folks have had no instruction at all as to the qualities in the other sex which make for married happiness. In a completely civilized state, the proper mating of young human beings will be regarded as of equal importance with the proper mating of livestock.

"Eat More Lamb" Club To Organize December 16th

Judge J. A. Whitten announced Wednesday at the Luncheon of the Lions Club that a unit of "Eat More Lamb Club" would be organized at the Court House in Eldorado December, 16. E. S. Myres, District Chairman of the organization would be here to address the people and assist in the organization of this unit. Judge Whitten reported that since this movement had been started that a seven percent increase in the consumption of Lamb meat had been accomplished since September 1, 1930.

NEW CONSTITUTIONAL

AMENDMENT PROPOSED

It has been asserted that we need another constitutional amendment to keep deadly weapons out of the hands of criminals.

Those who favor such legislation do so because they believe it would curb crime and benefit society. Yet no proof is forthcoming to back their belief. The experience in New York with its "model" Sullivan laws—and in other great cities, has demonstrated that anti-gun laws serve only to keep weapons away from the law-abiding, to the advantage of the criminal.

Crime will be curbed when the people use their power to enforce fundamental laws, break up alliances between police, courts and the underworld, and revise and simplify the machinery of justice. Until that is done, all the prohibitory legislation or constitutional amendments in the world will be important.

H. H. Murchison was in Eldorado the first of the week from his ranch near Mertzon.

Way into the tills of merchants all over the country. That is the annual distribution of the Christmas Clubs, maintained by 8,000 banks. Eleven million persons have been depositing small amounts every week since the first of the year, in order to accumulate a fund for Christmas buying. The average in these Christmas accounts is $56.40 this year, but the grand total runs to six hundred and twelve million dollars.

Not all of the money will be spent for gifts; but all of the six hundred million will change hands, and it is money changing hands that makes business good. The faster it changes hands, the better business is.

The stimulus of this immense sum starting to circulate again should go a long way toward restoring prosperity.

University Graduate Makes Parting Gift

AUSTIN, Dec. 7 — Miss Maling Ma, University of Texas graduate from Tsinan, Shantung, China, has given a Chinese tapestry to the University as a parting gift. Miss Ma received the bachelor of arts, the master of arts, and the doctor of philosophy degrees from the University, the last in June, 1930. She came to the University as an exchange fellow from China. She is now teaching chemistry in Yenching University, Peking, China, an institution maintained by a group of American universities.

Miss Ma presented the tapestry to be placed in the proposed University museum, but until the museum assumes tangible form, it will be hung in the University Young Women's Christian Association room.

SCHLEICHER COUNTY GETS ANOTHER RAIN

Wednesday night brought to Schleicher county another rain and with the warm weather of the past few days, it will keep the green feed coming.

Buck Bailey, was shaking hands in Eldorado Wednesday, and telling how successful his football squad was this year, but hasn't been very successful in his oil investments.

Allan Bailey was here this week visiting and shaking hands, Allan is now located in Fort Worth.

Mr. Charlie Weatherly of Ft Worth was in Eldorado the first of the week visiting and attending to business.

Make It General

Audit of the State Confederate Home has disclosed alleged extravagance and irregularities, and has caused several officials of the institution to tender their resignations. The irregularities charged were poor business methods in handling warrants and affidavits and in accounting for inmates' funds. Extravagances consisted in employing more help than needed, some of the employees working without authority of law; failure to keep adequate check on supplies used; using State supplies for personal and family use; serving meals at State expense to those not entitled to them; using State-owned automobiles for other than State business; wrongfully securing railroad passes. It is possible that somewhat similar conditions might be found in other State departments and institutions, at least there have been whispers of the kind. Some officials do grow careless in handling State business.

Lions Club To Entertain Football Squad At Luncheon

The Lions Club at their luncheon Wednesday, voted to invite the Football boys and coach to attend the Luncheon two weeks from Wednesday. The football boys have made a good record this season and the Lions Club will entertain them with a luncheon.

TOM R. HENDERSON VERY ILL

Mr. Tom R. Henderson became ill Monday afternoon and after consulting local physicians, was rushed to San Angelo where he underwent an operation. His trouble was pronounced as ulcerated stomach and intestines. Last reports were that he was resting fairly well.

Miss Jeanette Henderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom R. Henderson will spend her Christmas holidays at home with her parents, Miss Henderson is a member of the Fifth Form, or the Junior class at the Miss Hockaday School for Girls in Dallas. Christmas vacation will begin on December 19.

Frank, Murphy and wife were in Eldorado Friday from the ranch near Ft. Stockton, while here Mr. Murphy set up his subscription one year to The Success and had us send The Success to them at their address.

Mrs. Geo. A. Caraway and children who have been visiting, relatives in Comanche, for ten days returned Monday, and "Uncle George" out at Station A was wearing a pleasant smile and promised to stay in a good humor for several months.

BORN— Sunday November, 30th to Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Whitten, an 8 pound Son. Mrs. Whitten is at the sanitarium in Brady and she and babe are doing nicely.

Third Dixie Classic For Crippled Children

DALLAS, ex. — The Third Annual Dixie Classic Football Games, between a team representative of the Midwest and one representative of the Southwest, will be held in Dallas on New Year's Day. The teams consist of men selected as the best form the teams in the two sections and the game always proves a most interesting event. The funds which are derived from the sale of tickets are turned over to the Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children, and the large sum which has been collected in the past two years in this manner has been of great assistance to the hospital in carrying on its charitable work.

It has been recently announced that "Fighting Bob" Zuppke, coach of football at the University of Illinois for the past seventeen years, has been secured to handle the Mid-west team. Judging from the results that he has obtained at the University of Illinois, Coach Zuppke will be able to produce a team that can furnish worthy competition.

NEEDLESS ALARM

In a recent statement, Frank L. Dame, President of the North American Company, expressed his belief that the investors in public utility securities have been needlessly alarmed by rumors and talk of adverse legislation as an outcome of the election. "Whether one party or the other is in power in nation or state," he says, "whether a legislative deadlock or a majority in opposition to the Executive administration, there is the satisfaction of certainty that the aim is now to help and not to harm business. Psychologically the effect of this condition should be most beneficial to the public utilities because they have been the chief target of unfounded rumors of adverse legislation."

Notice To Contractors

STREET PAVING
Sealed proposals addressed to the Honorable Mayor and City Council of Eldorado, Texas, will be received at the office of the City Clerk until 10 a. m., Wednesday December 10, 1930, for furnishing all materials, labor and equipment, and constructing paving and accessories upon certain portions of Gillis Avenue, Murchison Avenue, Cottonwood Street, and Callender Avenue for the City of Eldorado, Texas, as per plans and specifications adopted by the City Council on November 4, 1930.

Bids will be received upon 6-inch sledge stone base with 3-4 inch Natural Limestone Rock Asphalt wearing surface; upon 6 inch compacted caliche base, with 2 inch crushed limestone subsurface with 3-4 inch Natural Limestone Rock Asphalt wearing surface.

All lump sum and unit prices must be stated in both scrip and figures. The City reserves the right to reject any or all bids and to waive formalities. In case of ambiguity or lack of clearness in stating the prices in the bids, the City reserves the right to consider the most advantageous construction thereof, or to reject the bid. Unreasonable (or unbalanced) unit prices will authorize the City to reject any bid.

Bidders are expected to inspect the site and general location of the work and to inform themselves regarding all local conditions.

Instructions to bidders, proposal blanks, specifications and plans may be secured at the office of Frank Bradley, City Clerk, or at the office of French & French, Engineers, 20 West Twobig Street, San Angelo, Texas, up on payment of Five ($5.00) Dollars which will be returned to only bona fide bidders upon return of plans and specifications.

Proposals must be accompanied by certified or cashier's check in the sum of Five Hundred ($500.00) Dollars, and bidders must be prepared to furnish surety bond from a company acceptable to the City. Bidders must fulfill conditions specified in "Instructions to Bidders."

RECIPE FOR MAKING A MILLION

A friend of mine who is still under thirty-five has made a fortune, and I asked him how he did it.

"I've been to your office several times," I said, "but you seem seldom to be there."

"No I don't go to the office every day," he answered. "A good deal of the time I just sit and look out the window and think."

When I make a decision I go out and put it into effect, and a little more than half the time I have had the good luck to be right. When I find I have made a mistake, I sit down and say: "Now what did I do wrong? Were my facts inaccurate, or did I draw bad conclusions? How am I going to avoid that same mistake again?"

I knew another man who owned a small but profitable business. He was methodical in his habits. On a certain day of each month he stayed away from the office, and everybody in his employ knew that the old man was "thinking". From breakfast time until sun-down on such a day he would sit before an open fire or on an open porch, without pen or pencil or paper, records or reports, and silently think. He attributed his modest success to this unvarying habit.

Henry Ford remarked to me once that "thinking is the hardest job there is," and added that he could get plenty of orders but not enough thinkers. Most of us know from our own limited experience that thinking is hard, and we have insulated ourselves against it by a restless and noisy environment.

We are afraid to be found in a small audience, terribly afraid to be alone. Our unwillingness to take trips, or to retire, is not dictated so much by loyalty to the job as it is by the haunting fear that, removed from the protecting clatter of daily activity, we shall have too much time to think.

Emerson tells the story of "a man who on his death-bed called to him his profligate son and left him his large possessions, only exacting of him a promise to spend an hour every day alone. The son kept his word and became a wise and good man." In another passage Emerson remarks that "the gods and the wild beasts are certain day of each month he stayed away from the office, and everybody in his employ knew that the old man was "thinking". Solitude and thought are responsible for the considerable fortune of the young friend whom I quoted at the beginning. I pass on his recipe-free to you, all I have not been able to apply it to myself.

TEXAS AND TEXANS

By Will H. Mayes

Austin, Texas
"All Texans for all Texas"

Banks Have More Money

Texas banks generally are in fine condition and most of them can meet all demands of their customers for well-secured loans. Deposits indicate that that money is well distributed among the masses. Where business is low, it is due largely to the fact that the people, having gone through an era of somewhat prodigal spending, are now practicing unusual economy. However, merchants in many sections are reporting a larger advance Christmas trade than usual and are expecting December sales to exceed those of last year.

Great Irrigation Projects

Next year is to be a year of great power and irrigation projects for Texas—greatest by far in its history. There is little doubt but that the Federal and State governments will make provisions for the survey and other preliminary work looking to the early construction of the several dams that will conserve the immense resources, now going to waste in the Brazos river valley and will bring about the irrigation of that immense area, larger than the State of Ohio.

Work is rapidly going forward toward the construction of the Colorado river dam near Llano, Marble Falls and Burnet—the first of five dams between Austin and Lampasas.

The great Eagle Pass project, one of the largest undertakings in the State, is well under way and will be completed before the year is over.

Plans are being worked out for irrigation large areas along the Rio Grande, both in Texas and Mexico, and a number of the existing irrigation systems will be increased.

The proposed dam on the Colorado above Ballinger will bring a large completion of which gives promise of rapidly increasing wealth in Texas.

Brownwood Celebrates

The completion of a twelve story hotel at Brownwood, as modern as a hotel can be, and the letting of the contract for the storage dam of the $2,500,000 water and irrigation project has been celebrated by a big dinner-dance at the new hotel and the issuing of a monster edition of The Brownwood Bulletin. Brownwood has passed out of a small city class and is making its plans to become one of Texas' large cities, having all the resources that go to the making of a great agricultural, commercial and industrial center.

Dallas Favors Extension

Houston, through its Chamber of Commerce, having thrown its influence, if any, against the proposal of the Texas-Pacific road to build a line North through a rich part of the state, on which building it would expend some $13,000,000 and open up a large territorial development, Dallas has joined hands with the railroad in the fight. Doubtless Fort Worth will also lend a helping hand, and there is now a prospect that the effort to get the Interstate Commerce Commission to grant the road's application may become State-wide. Houston admits that its interest is purely selfish and local in opposing the building, fearing that some cotton hauls may be diverted to New Orleans.

Watch Corpus Christi

While Houston is trying to throw a monkey wrench into the West Texas railroad development movement, it should keep its eyes on the port of Corpus Christi. That Gulf and Western road from San Antonio through Fredericksburg, Mason and Brady to San Angelo will be completed, no doubt, in time to handel the cotton crop of 1931, and it is going to prove such a good cotton haul that a short link from Brownwood through Cross Plains to Abilene, using the Frisco from Brady to Brownwood, is almost certain to follow, these two lines opening an immense agricultural area to a direct short route to Corpus Christi through San Antonio.

Buy-In Texas Movement

Texas manufacturers are starting a State-wide movement for increasing the use of Texas-made products. The initial meeting being held at Waco this week under the sponsorship of the three sectional chambers of commerce. There are in Texas some 2,500 to 3,000 industrial plants and with proper Texas support many more industries would locate in the State. There is no better way to get industries than to give support to those we have.

Chicago Tribune on Texas

Because Gov. Moody recently stated, somewhat inadvertently, that if he were mayor of Chicago, he would run the gangsters out of Chicago, he by martial law, the Tribune came back with a nasty fling at all Texans, speaking of them as benighted people whose greatest contribution to culture and enlightenment has been burning negroes and enforcing law through the Ku Klux Klan. And this just when Texas is trying to cooperate with Chicago by having proper representation at the Chicago World's Fair in 1933. If the Tribune will only call off its dogs long enough, Texans will be coming up to Chicago during the big fair to get some Chicago culture at first hand.

Establishing County Libraries

Club women of Temple and other places in Bell County are at work on a movement to establish a county public library. County libraries are proving great factors in bettering country and village life, and there is no other finer work in which club women can engage than in sponsoring them. They are also conducive to better feeling between people of the towns and the country.

Listing The Unemployed

Several progressive local chambers of commerce are listing the unemployed of their towns with a view to assisting them in getting work and also to be able to separate them from the drifters who float into the towns and pose as local laborers in need of work or charity. While this places additional work on the chamber of commerce it is a helpful service to both communities and laborers. It is also a suggestion to the floaters that they are not wanted.

Plan For Great Things

The Curo Record points out some of the needs of Texas, as more active chambers of commerce civic improvement societies, city planning, a new constitution, a reorganized government and wise legislators who can think in terms of an Empire State. It should place obligations on its professions to give to its people health, good laws, spiritual insight. It should aim to develop that broad intelligence that appreciates the value of the artistic in connection to the problems of the State." The Record has laid out a broad platform and one that would produce all the results to be desired. Study it!

Some Farm Results

W. W. Fritz of Comanche county, planted 100 pounds of certified mulo seed that produced 5,000 pounds that were sold for seed and 21-2 tons of heads per acre.

From four eighty-foot rows of tomatoes Mrs. C. C. Spivey of Limestone county, sold $25 worth, gave away five bushels and put up 75 cans.

A flock of 220 White Leghorns, run on an acre of Bermuda grass and white clover brought Waldo Sufel of Bee county a net profit of $2.08 per hen.

W. E. Cruse of Tyler county spent $5.28 an acre for fertilizer, but made 35 bushels of corn per acre while his unfertilized land made only 12 bushels an acre.

Promises Business Administration

Which reminds that Governor-elect Sterling is repeating the fact that his administration is to be conducted like a big business with every attention to efficiency and economy. If so, there will soon be some changes in many public places. So much politics has crept into State affairs, so much petty trading in public positions that the cost of government has grown out of all proportion to the services rendered the State. The opportunities confronting Governor Sterling are great, but great efforts are going to be required to use them to public advantage.

 Some good preaching is going on at The First Baptist Church this week, by the Rev. J. B. Rowan, of Abilene, the meeting began last Sunday morning, and will continue over Sunday.
 Eldorado many years ago witnessed a wolf chase through the business district and was finally captured under a store building. SIX SETS OF TWINS ATTENDING STATE UNIVERSITY

AUSTIN, Dec. 3 — "Seeing double" at the University of Texas may mean that the observer has been imbibing strong drink. On the other hand, it probably indicates that he is only gazing at one of the six sets of twins enrolled in the University. Lois Robbins and Louise Robbins, sophomores, are from Cameron. Hayes Campbell and Killis Campbell, Jr., are Austin residents, the sons of Dr. Killis Campbell, professor of English in the University. Margaret Lee and Madeline Lee, senior academic students, come from Weatherford. Harold Putnam, law student, gives his address as Austin, but his twin brother, Hal Putnam, claims San Antonio as his home town. Helen Harper and Harriet Harper come from McGregor, and Emma Beason and Frances Beason are from Bryan.
 Joe Reynolds was in from the ranch Saturday meeting friends and looking after business.

MRS. GEO. WILLIAMS IS CLUB HOSTESS

Mrs. Geo. Williams was hostess to the Self Culture Club at her home some few miles south of town on Thursday November 20 at 2:30 o'clock. White and yellow chrysanthemums were featured in the home decoration.
 Presiding as leader for the afternoon Mrs. D. C. Royster gave a very interesting paper on "The Value of Acquaintance with Great Literature in Choosing and Telling Stories to Children and in Training Them in Right Conduct."
 A general discussion based on Mrs. Royster's paper gave many different views by individuals of the club. Preparatory Readings included Story Telling and Stories with the Children by Miss John Alexander, "Culture in Youth" by Mrs. Ed. Hill and "Why to Read" by Mrs. Haywood Bird.
 Special attention was directed to the articles now appearing in the San Angelo Evening Standard by Garry C. Myers Ph. D. who is Head Division of Parental Education, Cleveland College, Western Reserve University. All members were urged to read these.
 Mrs. W. B. Gray, visitor for the afternoon, paid a tribute to the club on its work and study course.
 Beautiful white chrysanthemums made a seasonable decoration on the refreshment plate which consisted of: Toasted crackers, chicken salad, fruit cake and coffee. Members present were: Mesdames: D. C. Royster, H. T. Clavin, John Williams, Reuben Dickens, Sherman Shoemaker, L. M. Hoover, Grady Parker, Joab Campbell, Carl Reagan, L. L. Baker, Ed Hill, Haywood Bird, Geo. Williams and Miss John Alexander. Visitors for the afternoon were Mrs. W. B. Gray and Mrs. J. R. Alexander.

 The Success tribe had their wild turkey dinner Sunday November 30, made possible through the kindness of Mr. and Mrs. I. S. Foley who were here Saturday from the ranch in Edwards County. People just couldn't get along without friends and friendship. Bill Foley was visiting his family through the Thanksgiving holidays, from Texas Tech and while on the ranch got the turkey. Thanks to all.
 At this season of the year it is always permissible to buy Christmas seals to assist the fight against tuberculosis, if you have a half dollar you might assist this worthy cause by buying a few.

DANCE TO BENEFIT MUSEUM FUND SAN ANGELO DEC. 5TH
 SAN ANGELO, Dec. 2 — Preservation of the history of West Texas is being encouraged by the Business and Professional Women's Club of San Angelo, which has subscribed $1,000 to the West Texas Museum which is housed in the old adjutant's headquarters building at Fort Concho.
 A benefit dance, at which pioneers of West Texas will enjoy the dances of pioneer days, and which will be called by John P. Lee and other pioneer citizens, will be given for the Museum fund at the Hilton Hotel ball room Saturday evening December 5.
 Since its inception, the West Texas Museum has been given the support of the Business and Professional Women club. Showcases in which some of the more delicate relics are encased, together with material improvements to the old Fort building in which the Museum is housed, have been contributed by the club in addition to its subscription of $1,000 to the Museum fund. It has been announced by Mrs. W. W. Carson, president of the West Texas Museum.
 Members of the entertainment committee of the club have pointed out that while the benefit dance will be given primarily for the entertainment of the older people, there will be much amusement for old and young alike, and the youngsters are urged to accompany their parents to the dance.

constipation
 "I HAD a stubborn case of constipation after a very severe spell of grip," says Mr. John B. Hutchison, of Neosho, Mo. "When I would get constipated, I'd feel so sleepy, tired and worn-out."
 "When one feels this way, work is much harder to do, especially farm work. I would have dizzy headaches when I could hardly see to work, but after I read of Black-Draught, I began taking it. I did not have the headaches any more."
 "When I have the sluggish, tired feeling, I take a few doses of Black-Draught, and it seems to carry off the poison and I feel just fine. I use Black-Draught at regular intervals. It is easy to take and I know it helps me."

Keepink Things Going
 Wichita Falls tells the world that it isn't going to listen to any "hard times" talk, but has stated a campaign to have its citizens spend immediately $1,000,000 in repairing and remodeling homes and business property, paying accounts and buying things needed in the homes, and that in a few weeks work will start on a building campaign that will require another $1,000,000. All of which means good times for Wichita Falls.
 It is not necessary, though, to keep labor busy. In many Texas towns civic organizations are making systematic efforts to get every family that is able give work for at least one day in each week to some person who is unemployed and who is recommended for the work. That is another good idea.

FOURTEENTH INSTALLMENT WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Giles Crittenden sets out to make Julie Farrow love him, intending to show her over in revenge for the side of his brother Rodney, whom Julie had cast off. He succeeds, but finds that he has fallen desperately in love with her himself. Then he discovers that it was not this Julie Farrow, but her cousin of the same name, who had driven his brother to death. But Giles is married to an American girl named Sadie Barrow, with whom he has not lived for a long time. Sadie unexpectedly turns up in London, at a party at Giles's mother's house, but both keep silent about their marriage.

Julie, disillusioned, enters into the wild night life of London to try to drive in her anguish, Lawrence Schofield, who wants to marry her, Lombard, who had first introduced her to Chittenden, demands money from Giles with the threat that if he is not paid he will tell Schofield that Chittenden and Julie spent the night together in the St. Bernard Pass. Later Julie confesses to Chittenden that she loves him.

At a spiritualist seance at Giles's mother's house Sadie Barrow, his wife, suddenly goes blind. She calls for him and he responds, revealing the fact that she is his wife, Julie, who had sent Schofield away because of her love for Chittenden, goes home in despair. Chittenden follows her, but she sends him away and decides she will accept Schofield. She goes to Schofield's hotel. He is out, but she leaves a note for him.

WHAT GOES ON WITH THE STORY

"Oh, no, thank you."

He hung up the receiver and turned away. Lawrence was leaving London, leaving her—she was seized with exaggerated panic. What was become of her? Even Jim was weary of her, there was no place for her in the world. But Lawrence had loved her, must surely still love her. She remembered the despair in his eyes when she told him she would not marry him.

If she could only see him for a moment she was confident that every thing would be all right—to see him, just to see him! She felt like a child left alone in the dark, straining every nerve to get to the one person who can take away dread and the desolate sense of loneliness.

She took off her loose gown and dressed again with shaking fingers, she was still very cool, but her face and head felt burning.

She would put herself beyond Chittenden's reach, tomorrow when he came he should it to late.

If Lawrence would take her away to-night she would go with him. She was tired of hoping for things that never came true, afraid of a love that brought with it only pain. She went out into the wet, chilly night and took a taxi. She drove straight to the hotel where Lawrence was staying. No, he was not in yet, and they could not say at what hour he would be returning. It was past nine then.

"I'll wait a little while and see if Mr. Schofield returns," Julie said.

The minutes ticked away, and later she supposed that she must have fallen into a stupor, out of which she was roused with a start to the sound of a chiming clock. Julie walked across to the porter.

"I cannot wait any longer, I will leave a note for Mr. Schofield."

He took her to a desk and gave her paper and a pen.

Julie wrote a few hurried lines.

"I didn't mean it, Lawrence dear. I want you to come back to me. Please ring me in the morning—Julie."

It was a relief to have written that and she half smiled as she thought how unnecessary it was to have added those last words. He would not ring her, he would come round, she was sure, he would come very early, perhaps even to-night if he was back in time, and then in the morning they would go away and make some sort of happiness together.

Julie tried hard not to think beyond to-morrow, but although she was so tired, and felt ready to drop, she could not sleep. She lay awake for hours listening to every sound.

In the early morning Julie dozed off to sleep, only waking when she heard the maid let herself into the flat and move about in the kitchen lighting the fire.

Presently she brought tea and a note. "It was lying on the mat when I came in, Miss."

Julie glanced at the handwriting, then sat up, her pulses jerking. It was from Lawrence Schofield. She was conscious of a warm glow of pleasure.

He loved her—it was something to be happy about in a world that held no real happiness. He must have brought it himself late last night. Perhaps, after all, it had been his foot step out side which she had heard.

She broke open the seal, the envelope felt unusually bulky, she drew out its contents—her own note which she had written last night in the hotel lounge, torn across and across into minute pieces. That was all!

When Giles Chittenden got back to his mother's house she met him in the hall.

"Your wife has been asking for you all the evening. I said I would send you up as soon as you came in."

As he went upstairs he could hear Sadie's voice, high-pitched and hysterical, and he stopped for a moment, his hand clutching the stair rail, a terrible sense of loss and irrevocable fate gripping his heart.

When she heard Chittenden's voice she turned her head towards the door, and stared at him with her wild, blind eyes.

"So you've come at last, have you?" she shrilled at him. "I suppose you've no use for me either, now I can't see."

She beat her hands frantically on the brass rail, and the nurse who had been standing beside her, caught and held them.

Sadie burst into wild sobbing.

"There's no hope for me, I know that I shall never see again as long as I live. I shall just sit here in the darkness till I die—till I die—and nobody cares—it doesn't matter to any one in all the world what becomes of me."

Giles crossed the room and touched her shoulder. "Sadie—"

She checked her sobbing with a sharp breath, and raised her face with pathetic eagerness to hear what he had to say. She tore her hands from the nurse's grasp, and groped in front of her till she touched Chittenden's coat, then she clutched it feverishly and began sobbing once more.

"Don't leave me, Giles—be kind to me—after all, I am your wife—"

Chittenden looked at the nurse.

"Please leave us."

When she had gone, he sat down beside his wife and put an arm round her.

"Sadie—you must try and be brave and listen to reason. Everything possible is being done and will be done, you know that."

Sadie was sobbing again.

"You don't really care for me—nobody dares for me. Though I can't see you I know by the feel of your arm that you're just trying to be kind, while all the time you're impatient and want to get away—"

"Don't leave me alone, Giles. You don't know what it's like to be left alone in this hideous darkness. I shall go mad if you leave me. I've often felt impatient with blind people—it's bored me to have to talk to them, and try and be nice to them, but I know what it's like now, and I wish I'd been kinder. I suppose it's my punishment—and yet why should I be punished? I've never done any one any harm—"

"My dear, I want to be kind to you, but you make it so difficult for me—"

There was a little silence, which Sadie broke pitifully:

"There! I'm not crying any more, am I? I'm quite now—please kiss me, Giles."

He kissed her affectionately enough, his heart torn with pity.

"You didn't kiss my lips," Sadie said—then she laughed brokenly, "Never mind! I suppose it's all I deserve."

She took her hands away from him and folded them in her lap to hide their trembling.

"Well—" she said after a moment as he did not speak. "What am I going to do? Or what are you going to do with me? I can't stay here, can I?"

Giles explained as gently as he could.

"In the morning I will take you away."

She interrupted quickly:

"Where will you take me? To live with you?"

"Not at once. To a nursing home. I have arranged with a specialist to see you—"

She interrupted again:

"It will be of no use. I know, I'm finished."

"Don't say that, Sadie."

She shuddered from head to foot.

"Well, go on—and afterwards? What then?"

"Then we must see. We must make arrangements."

"Arrangements! for what? For me to be led about by a nurse or a dog for the rest of my life?" Her terrible, hysterical sobbing began afresh. Chittenden felt that he could bear no more. He called to the nurse and made his escape. His nerves were shaking as he went downstairs. He had never imagined anything so tragic as this last half hour.

He paced up and down the library, at his wit's end to know what to do. It was long past eleven and he had all the night to drag through.

If there was indeed no hope of Sadie ever being able to see again, how could he possibly leave her?

It would be inhuman, impossible, and yet to live with her—

Another knock at the door. Chittenden turned impatiently.

"Oh, come in, come in."

"A gentleman to see you, Sir. I said you were very much engaged and could see no one, but he insisted, Sir, and says he will wait if he has to wait all night. The gentleman is Mr. Schofield, sir."

"Schofield!" The colour rushed to Chittenden's drawn face.

Schofield! the man whom Julie had said she would marry.

Chittenden was across the room in a stride.

"Is there any thing the matter—Miss Farrow—"

In his desperate anxiety Giles forgot that this man in all probability knew nothing of his relations with Julie—and when he did not immediately reply, he broke out again hoarsely.

"If anything is wrong—"

"That all depends what you mean by 'wrong'." Schofield answered slowly.

"Yesterday evening I had the doubtful honour of a visit from a man named Lombard. I have met him before—usually, I believe, in your company. I think I am right in assuming that he is a friend of yours?"

"He was—yes."

"Yes," he said, still in that level, unnatural voice—"I believe there has been a little upset between you—over a question of money—or should we call it the price of a woman's honour? There was a tragic silence. Chittenden's hands were clenched behind his back—and his face was grim.

"Perhaps you would like me to explain, Mr. Chittenden," Schofield went on, and now every sneering word was a studied insult, "or will it be sufficient if I just call you the cad and the blackguard which I know you to be?"

"I can only conclude that you are drunk," said Giles, sharply, "and that being so, the kindest thing I can do is to ring and have you shown out of the house."

He took a step towards the bell, but Schofield was too quick for him—"That won't do," he said thickly. "I've seen that trick tried before, I'm not drunk and you damn well know I'm not. You're a younger man than I am, Chittenden, but I spoil Lombard's beauty for him last night—he won't show his face amongst decent people again for some time to come, and I'll spoil yours if I—"

Chittenden caught his upraised arm and held it in a grip of steel.

"Don't be a damned fool," he said roughly, "you're no match for me, and you know you're not. If you've got anything to say, say it and be done. As far as Lombard goes, if you have given him a thrashing I'm in your debt. I owe him one myself—"

He released Schofield's arm, at the same time giving him a little push away from him, and for a moment the two men glared at one another silently then Schofield broke down. He groped towards a chair and fell into it, hiding his face against his clenched hands. Giles watched him for a moment without speaking, then he fetched whisky and soda from a side table.

BIGGER AND BETTER

THE NEW CHEVROLET SIX

Strikingly beautiful, fleet and smart—a masterpiece of Fisher styling

In the entire field of modern coachcraft no symbol has come to mean more to the buyer of a motor car than Body by Fisher. And never has Fisher's superiority been more strikingly exemplified than in the beautiful new bodies of the Bigger and Better Chevrolet Six!

Working with the added advantage of a lengthened wheelbase, Fisher designers have been able to achieve in the new Chevrolet a degree of smartness, comfort and impressiveness hitherto considered exclusive to cars far higher in price.

Inside and out, scores of refinements stamp this car as a masterpiece of modern coachwork. Radiator, headlamps and tie-bar are artistically grouped to create an unusually attractive ensemble. Mouldings sweep back in a graceful, unbroken line to blend with the smart new body contours. And new colors lend a new individuality. Interiors, too, are exceptional in every way. The new mohair and broadcloth upholstery is tailored with exceptional smartness. Seats are wider and deeper and more luxuriously cushioned. A deeper windshield and wider windows give better vision for both driver and passengers. And beautiful new hardware, of modern design, lends a final note of charm.

Many mechanical improvements have also been provided in the chassis of this Bigger and Better Six. Among these are a stronger frame; easier steering; a more durable clutch; a smoother transmission; and engine refinements which make the new Chevrolet a car you will be happy to drive—as well as proud to own.

The Bigger and Better Chevrolet Six is now on display in our showrooms. See it. Drive it! Learn for yourself that it is the Great American Value!

THOUGHTS FOR STUDENTS

Have you asked yourself why you are a student? Your answer probably would be, "Because I want to be educated". True enough, but why be educated? The answer should be, "To fit myself for a life of usefulness."

Right ambition is a good stimulus to activity. Have a goal and strive to attain it. Keep your eyes on it and refuse to be side tracked by pleasures or by laziness.

"Aspiration, inspiration and perspiration" these form an unbeatable combination for any student.

ELDORADO VICTORIOUS OVER SONORA

Eagles Cop Hard Fought Game
By a 7 to 0 Count

With a beautiful day and the largest attendance of the season, the Eldorado Football team showed most of Eldorado as well as a good part of Sonora that they have all that it takes to make a winning team.

McANGUS BARBECUE
Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McAngus gave the football boys a barbecue Friday evening, November 23 at five thirty p. m. Some of the boys weren't there but they all came drifting in finally All but little "Dutchy" Morgan. We didn't see him there. He must have had a date with a certain girl and we wouldn't have to guess very hard to think who it was either. Well, folks, you talk about eat, now those boys really did mop up on that dinner. Why I actually thought they hadn't had any thing to eat for three days the way they "lit" in on that barbecue.

After the barbecue was over they had a party, and talk about fun, they had it and plenty of it. Some of the old High school graduates were there, Victoria Jones, Ed Ratliff, and other I can't recall, but Jessie Young there with his mouth traveling, and say people, that boy could talk any body's right hand off, but the good part of it is that he is an interesting talker. All in all we had a fine time out there and everybody is nearly ready for another barbecue.

THE TYPING CLASS
Typing is an important subject taught in High School. Most pupils like to take typing because it is so beneficial to them, and it is a practice in cultivating the mind which will be of use to them some time in the future. Mr. Smith is the Typing teacher this year. There are twenty-eight students taking typing, twenty of which are first year students.

Typing was offered in this school five years ago under Mr. A. B. Tyson. Only eight students took typing that year. There were only four typewriter to begin with and all of them were second hand. There are now eight new Underwood typewriters in the typing room and all of them are in use several times during the day.

SPANISH I CLASS
The Spanish I class is progressing in their work very well or beginners. All the students seem to like it fine. They are now learning to conjugate verbs. As it is near Christmas they are going to have another exhibit because the Spanish towns have "puestas" where they sell wooden and clay figures to decorate their mantels or tables a few weeks before Christmas. They build a village on a hillside with figures representing the Holy family and all kinds of animals and large castles. The Spanish class is thinking of making an exhibit to show this custom.

THE COLLECTION OF LOST ARTICLES

In the office of the High School there are so many lost articles that really, it makes you think you are in a five and ten cent store to go in and look at them.

There are fountain pens, pencils, purses, combs, vanities, cigarette cases, beads, and any number of other things. These articles have been collected during the past year, and it seems that some of the students could manage to stop for a moment and try to recall losing some article such as a vanity, fountain pen, and almost any thing else, then maybe they would have to think back several months or even a year, for some of these articles have been in the office as long as that.

GIRLS BASKET BALL

The girls want to let everyone know that there is still a girls' basket ball team here and that they are still on the map. They have been practicing lately and nearly all of them are in shape to play as far as training is concerned but there are some that are ineligible due to grades.

Miss Osborne is coaching the girls team again this year and thinks that they will perhaps play Rooksprings there, Saturday, December 6th.

ELDORADO EXES

Every week during the nine months of school an article will appear in the "Hi-Divide" on an ex student of the Eldorado High School.

The purpose of this is to boost the Eldorado School and to let you know who these students are and what they are doing now.

The tenth of these articles appears below.

MR. CHESTER KENLEY
Mr. Kenley entered the Eldorado High School in February 1914 in the ninth grade at the age of 15. He attended the major part of the 1914-15 session under Superintendent B. F. Bennett and did tenth grade work but near the end of the term he moved to Christoval and finished high school there in 1916, ranking as highest boy in grades. Mr. W. W. Dover was superintendent and the members of the class were Fay Spears, Alin Hannum, Urban Welch, and Horace Taylor.

Mr. Kenley then attended Thorp Spring Christian College during the '16-'17 and '17-'18 sessions and also Abilene Christian College summer sessions of 1922-23, and '24. He attended the University of Texas during the summers of 1928 and '30. He received an A. B. degree from A. C. C. in 1924 and is now doing graduate work from University of Texas and is a member of the Phi Delta Kappa, National Education Faternity, since all his grades in college were B or higher.

During the 1919 and '20 session, he taught a one teacher rural school near Ft. Sumner, New Mexico, was Principal of the Wall High School in Tom Green County in 1920 to 1922; taught in the Junior High School of San Angelo 1922 to 1928 and became principal of the Senior High School in September 1928, which position he still holds. He states that there are 700 students enrolled in the ninth, tenth, and eleventh grades, there and 33 teachers in his building. Mr. Kenley is making a decided success in his profession in the neighboring city of San Angelo. He is an ex-student of our high school that Eldorado should be proud of.

ASSEMBLY PROGRAM

As we all know Wednesday mornings are assembly mornings. We are all glad to come to school on Wednesday because we know we are to see a free show. This Wednesday we fled into the auditorium to a peppy march played on the piano by Miss Margaret Williams.

BOZO'S BOOKLET OR The Diary of a Freshman

Boy, did I have a gud time. Well I recon, I went to a partie out here in the country a long ways with the other fut bal boys and this wuz the first party i ever went to. They had lotsa sheep to eat and ever thing else you could think of. An believe me i sur did eat too. Once i wuz reachin for some more sheep an my sleeve caught in my glass of something to drink and over it went into the table and my lap and a girls lap next to me. She musta thought i done it on purpose cuz she turned arund and hit me so hard it nocked me clear out of my chair onto the floor in the rest of the drink. Corse every body lafed so loud that the hous shook and i sur did feel funny for a while.

I wuz gettin a lot of kick out of that sling the piller game until it hit me an then I had another funny feelin. I don't know what was the matter with me but my fase sur did burn for a while and ever body laughed at me again. But after that iver thing went arlite an i sur did have a dandy good time. I sur wuz getting sleepy when nine o'clock come but i couldnt get no body to take me home so in went in-pnual of the Senior High School in September 1928, which position he still holds. He states that there are 700 students enrolled in the ninth, tenth, and eleventh grades, there and 33 teachers in his building. Mr. Kenley is making a decided success in his profession in the neighboring city of San Angelo. He is an ex-student of our

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McAngus gave the football boys a barbecue Friday evening, November 23 at five thirty p. m. Some of the boys weren't there but they all came drifting in finally All but little "Dutchy" Morgan. We didn't see him there. He must have had a date with a certain girl and we wouldn't have to guess very hard to think who it was either. Well, folks, you talk about eat, now those boys really did mop up on that dinner. Why I actually thought they hadn't had any thing to eat for three days the way they "lit" in on that barbecue.

After the barbecue was over they had a party, and talk about fun, they had it and plenty of it. Some of the old High school graduates were there, Victoria Jones, Ed Ratliff, and other I can't recall, but Jessie Young there with his mouth traveling, and say people, that boy could talk any body's right hand off, but the good part of it is that he is an interesting talker. All in all we had a fine time out there and everybody is nearly ready for another barbecue.

THE TYPING CLASS
Typing is an important subject taught in High School. Most pupils like to take typing because it is so beneficial to them, and it is a practice in cultivating the mind which will be of use to them some time in the future. Mr. Smith is the Typing teacher this year. There are twenty-eight students taking typing, twenty of which are first year students.

Typing was offered in this school five years ago under Mr. A. B. Tyson. Only eight students took typing that year. There were only four typewriter to begin with and all of them were second hand. There are now eight new Underwood typewriters in the typing room and all of them are in use several times during the day.

SPANISH I CLASS
The Spanish I class is progressing in their work very well or beginners. All the students seem to like it fine. They are now learning to conjugate

THINGS ARE LOOKING UP

From what we hear from different parts of the United States, it is New York City that is deepest in the slough of despond right now, while in almost every other section the sunshine is beginning to shine through the clouds of business depression.

It has been a tough year; there is no denying that. What with the financial slump that began more than a year ago, and this year's wide-spread drought, and the tumble in the price of wheat and cotton, and the shutting down of factories, we haven't been through such a "hard times" year since 1921. But it has its compensations, by comparison with previous similar situations. Commodity prices have not gone up but have come down. Most of these thrown out of work had something ahead to tide them over.

The main thing the matter with the country right now is timidity. The head of a big bank said the other day: "Our bank has more money in it right now than it ever had, but where is it? It is mostly in time deposits, drawing interest, or in savings accounts. People are hoarding instead of spending. If everybody would spend even ten percent of what they have saved up, it would start the wheels of industry going again speedily."

And we hear that the "Buy Now" movement, which started a few weeks ago, has spread around the country, and that people everywhere are beginning to take the dimes out of the savings banks and the dollars out of the checking accounts and buy the commodities which are for sale everywhere at bargain prices.

This is going to be a "useful" Christmas, from all indications. People generally are planning to give as Christmas gifts things which are not merely ornamental or luxurious, but such useful presents as new things for the home. That is all to the good, for it puts money circulating in channels where it is most needed.

Some smart fellow proposed a few weeks ago that everybody ought to spend ten cents a day that he had not intended to spend. That sounded foolish to some, but a lot of people have taken it up, and the accumulation of dimes thus started on their merry way is beginning to show its effect.

"Big money" is not timid. One large financial house announced the other day that it had clients ready to invest anything from a million dollars upward. They didn't want to bother with trifles worth less than a million, but they would buy anything profitable in million dollar units. The ones who are holding back are the ordinary folks like us. But if we believe in the future of the United States we can prove our faith by beginning again to spend our money for necessities and a little bit more, and when we are all going that the "hard times" will be over.

WHAT'S WRONG WITH THE COUNTRY?

One of the most amazing statements made at the White House Conference on Child Health and Protection is that city children, on the average, enjoy better health than country children. That is reversing the accepted idea of the benefits of rural surroundings, outdoor life and fresh air. But the report is a specific one, the result of an extensive survey of health conditions among school children.

"Rural school children have from one-half to 20 percent more physical defects than the city school children," says the report. "The rural child gets a one-sided physical development. He lacks the medical care and health service facilities that the city child is offered."

Standing alone, that sounds as if the same report.

Not all city children are perfect physical specimens, however. More than 70 percent of all children in the public schools, city and country, are sufferers from physical defects that affect their mental as well as their physical developments, according to the rising generation was up against a pretty tough struggle for existence. But compared with only fifty years ago, when only one child out of three born ever lived to school age, we are doing pretty well by the children. And when every community, city or rural pays as much attention to public health as the big cities do now, the ones who will benefit most will be the schoolchildren.

to relieve economic conditions and restore prosperity.

This seems to us to be a symbol of a new era in America party politics. The Democrats reserve their right to take sharp issue with the Administration and with Republican legislators on all matters which are part of their party's program. But on subjects which are not partisan in their nature they promise what amount to a coalition government.

There are hundreds of such questions to be decided by every session of Congress. It has been the custom in the past for the party whose representative does not occupy the White House to oppose everything which the Administration wants, regardless of its merits. In the past this has resulted in delay and sometimes the complete failure of programs which would have benefited everybody, merely because their sponsors were of a different political faith. Legislation has been partisan rather than business-like.

We hope both parties will prove their patriotism by living up to the promises which the Democrats have made and the Republicans have accepted.
