Pioneer Banker And Cattleman Dead

M. L. Mertz, 76, San Angelo Banker and cattleman, died in Galveston Friday March 13.

Mr. Mertz came to the Concho country when a young man and has been identified with the continuous up-building of San Angelo and the surrounding territory, and at one time owned considerable ranch interest in Schleicher County, known as the Bird and Mertz ranch and under the supervision of G. A. Neill now of Eldorado.

Mr. Mertz was known by all the old time cowmen of this section as he was a heavy buyer of stock, which were shipped and fattened for market in the Indian Territory, now Oklahoma. He has been president of the San Angelo National Bank for 48 years, and with his passing, goes another of West Texas pioneers, like the long horn cow, they are passing from sight.

Allen Kilgore Bailey Jr.

Allen Kilgore Bailey Jr., 39 died at 6:04 Monday morning at the San Angelo hospital. Burial was at his home in Eldorado at two o'clock Tuesday afternoon with services conducted from the First Baptist Church by the Rev. Paul Ray and the Rev. J. L. Ratliff.

Mr. Bailey had been in ill health for a number of years and had put up a brave and courageous fight until the last, which was characteristic of his nature. During his illness he bore his suffering with a smile and in his unselfish manner, never complaining to his family or friends. His life was one of continuous ray of sunshine which he scattered wherever he was. Allen's pleasing personality and winning disposition has won for him a host of friends in our midst where he lived most of his life.

The deceased came to Eldorado during his childhood from San Saba county. He attended the public school of Eldorado where he was graduated with valedictorian honors in 1910.

Although Mr. Bailey was not affiliated with any church he was a Christian, and was always ready to help the needy. A beautiful floral offering attested the high esteem in which he was held by his many friends.

Survivors are Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Bailey, Eldorado; four sisters, Mrs. Oscar Gibson, Eldorado; Mrs. J. A. Nixon, Fort Worth; Mrs. Mattis Couzens, Lamesa; Mrs. John Garrett, Lenora, Texas; four brothers, Marshall and Oliver of Eldorado, T. J. of Abilene and Buckner of Pullman, Wash. Out of town friends attending the funeral were: Miss Susie Garrett, Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Garrett and Mrs. Feris of Fort Worth, Mrs. Lee Harvey of Dallas and Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Dunn and Mrs. R. P. Hinyard of San Angelo.

CARD OF THANKS

Words fail us when we try to express our thanks to each and every friend who so lovingly and tenderly gave us assistance and sympathy during the recent illness and passing of our precious Allen.

We pray that when such sorrow comes to you that you will be surrounded by loving friends and that you will be borne up by the Great Comforter.

The Bailey family

A MAGNIFICENT WORK

The nation's schools, aided by police departments and other organizations, have done a magnificent work in educating children in accident prevention.

In 1922, according to Albert W. Whitney of the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters, 57,912 adults killed—an increase of 32 per cent.

In contrast to this, 18,598 children died through accident in 1922 with a slight increase in the two years following. Since then, the rate has gone steadily downward, with the result that if child deaths had increased at the same rate as adults, 6,000 more children would be killed each year than is now the case.

In other words, safety work is now saving the lives of 6,000 children annually.

The query naturally arises as to why adults—who are susceptible to instruction as children—would show steady increases in the accident rate. Hazards naturally increase as the world grows more complicated—but they increase just as much for children. The reason for the discrepancy is that adults lack the educational environment of children.

Just how the problems will be solved is difficult to say, but, as Mr. Whitney points out, it is good to recognize its imminence and seriousness. And the pessimism caused by our general accident records is partially alleviated by a survey of the magnificent educational work done among school children—a work that cannot be measured in terms of dollars.

THE RUNAWAY TAX COLLECTOR

It begins to look as if taxpaying Americans will have their hands full during the next year or so trying to keep taxes from getting beyond all limits.

In many states measures have been passed whose inevitable effect must be to place a greater burden on business, property-owners, workers. Levies have been shifted from one type of property to another—on the supposition that this constitutes tax relief. New and almost unknown forms of taxes—state income taxes, intangibles taxes, etc.—have come into being.

Too many public officials are seeking more funds to spend; too few are seeking ways to lower cost of government.

It is about time our citizens took affairs in their own hands and said "Whoa!" to the runaway tax collector.

Charlie Mund was in from the ranch Saturday buying supplies. Mr. Mund's boy fed the calf from Schleicher County that won honors at the Fat Stock Show.

ACREAGE MEASURE GETS ENDORSEMENT OF FARMERS UNION

AUSTIN, Tex., March 16—Support of the McDoland-Olsen cotton and soil conservation bill, which would empower a commission to regulate cotton acreage, has been pledged by the Farmers Union of Texas.

At a meeting here, the organization adopted a resolution which said: "Apparent over-production, depletion of the soil, increasing taxation and kindred causes have rendered land values uncertain and destroyed the farmer's ability to continue in production unless relief is afforded. Therefore we urge the legislature to enact House Bill 46 by J. J. Olsen, with the firm conviction that it will distribute its beneficial benefits to all."

The Farmers Union also urged the legislature to be as liberal in its appropriations for the support of the agriculture department "as may be suggested by an equitable distribution of public funds."

IN EIGHT YEARS

Eight years ago, in 1923, the American railroads embarked on a comprehensive campaign to improve their properties to provide the shipping and traveling public with higher standards of transportation service.

During those eight years their expenditures amounted to more than $6,600,000,000. The result is that America, at present, has not only the best railroad service in its history but the best in the world.

The lines have given us more comfortable, more reliable and faster trains. They have eliminated car shortages—once the bane of the shipper. They have increased the carrying capacity of freight cars. They have established an enviable safety record, both for passengers and employees.

They have practically done away with any uncertainty in the matter of rail transportation. In that time they have met severe competition. Their taxes have steadily risen, their earnings gone steadily down. Profits, ever since the war, have been below the 5-1-2 per cent "Fair Return." These profits have now diminished almost to the vanishing point. So serious have conditions become that severe railroad retrenchment—a thing which will, in the long run, principally damage the public—is imminent. Railroad credit is impaired.

The record of the lines during the past decade is one of real public service. It is to be hoped that during the coming decade they are given the chance to earn the profits that an essential and progressive industry deserves.

GAS PROGRESS

It appears that the gas industry is on the brink of a period of widespread development and expansion.

Both in home and industry, gas use is on the increase. This is partially because of its economy and efficiency—and largely because of its cleanliness and smokelessness. The great cities of the future, through gas, will be freed of the smoke bill that now is damaging to property and to plant and animal life.

THE TRANSPORTATION CINDERELLA

A dramatic struggle is being staged between the railroads and various forms of automotive transportation. As about one person out of five in the United States owns an automobile and hundreds of millions of individuals use buses or trucks annually, this is a question of general interest which must have intelligent consideration.

The public has no desire to injure the railroad industry but it believes that it is entitled to every advance in transportation service, convenience and economy.

Commenting on transportation progress, Collier's Weekly recently said: "During the years in front of us somebody must discover ways of using the marvelous resources which invention has made available. Railroads, waterways bus and truck lines, air transport, private automobiles, pipelines for gas and oil, these are the tools we have to use. . . . We must learn how to adjust the great facilities one to the other so that the maximum service may be had and so that nothing valuable may be lost."

C. E. Wickman, President of a large motor transport system, said recently, "The automobile industry gives the railroads directly over 3,000,000 carloads of freight annually. The railroads handle twice the freight tonnage they did twenty years ago. Would the railroads be better off if automobiles, buses and trucks were entirely eliminated? The size of the automobile industry and the history of railroad transportation in the last generation is a sufficient answer to this question."

"In many States, the proportion of gross income paid for taxes by the motor buses is twice as large as the proportion paid by the railroads. On the basis of the value of property used in transportation, the motor buses pay from five to ten times as much for taxes as do the railroads."

"Instead of receiving a subsidy from the public, the motor bus gives to the public which does not own cars the use of highways which the public owns."

"The motor bus industry does not object to paying its fair share of the cost of construction and upkeep of the highways. It is willing to submit to all fair and reasonable regulations. It believes, however, that in the interest of millions of people who utilize the motor bus, that taxation and regulation should be imposed strictly in the public interest and not in the interest of a competing form of transportation. The public is entitled to all the advantages which highway transportation, private or commercial, offers to the growing needs of the nation."

Progressive transportation systems are giving the public the best possible service by combining rails, highways and air. Nothing will be gained by one of these branches of transportation fighting another, for each serves a useful purpose, in the public interest.

NARROW ROADS MENACE THE MOTORIST

The model rural roadway will have a paved surface at least eighteen feet wide, will be waterproof, and will be usable at all times of the year and under all weather conditions.

The National Conference on Street and Highway Safety is authority for the statement that eighteen feet is the minimum safe width. In many farming sections there is a good deal of traffic, moving at fairly high speeds. Under such circumstances, narrow roads become a menace to the life and property of all who use them. Going off the pavement of a country road may mean an overturned car, as road shoulders, particularly in rainy seasons, are often untrustworthy.

Those communities which are building narrow farm-to-market roads in order to "save" money have a mistaken idea of economy. Full width, long-lived roads, of modern asphaltic materials, can be built cheaply and maintenance costs are likewise low. Every improved farm road should be designed with a view to accommodating not only the traffic of the immediate present, but that of the future. Any other course of procedure causes waste and needless expense in the long run.

WHERE THE FAULT LIES

B. C. Holmes, President of the Texas Company, recently stated that if the efforts to bring about satisfactory conservation of petroleum, which have been recommended by the Federal Oil Conservation Board and various state bodies, fail to accomplish all that is desired, it will be primarily the fault of certain units within the oil industry.

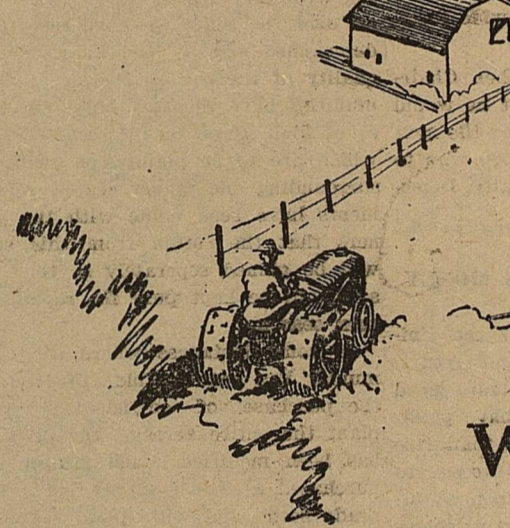

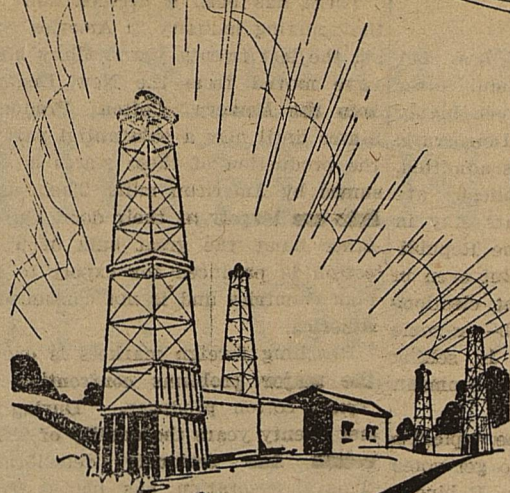

Some time ago the American Petroleum Institute created five regional committees, whose duty it was to consider conditions within their territories and to make recommendations for better and more economical production. These committees found that the amount of crude oil produced in 1928 would be sufficient to meet the needs of the three years following.

Yet, largely due to the lack of cooperation, production in almost all fields increased materially in 1929. Where the average daily production in 1928 was 2,403,027 barrels, in September, 1929, a high figure of 2,915,067 barrels was reached.

In other words, irresponsible producers motivated only by a spirit of personal gain and selfishness, are making the efforts of responsible producers to outlaw waste of our invaluable petroleum resources doubly difficult. If the only damage done was to the oil industry, it might not be so serious. But in the long run the general public, to whom an adequate, fair-priced supply of oil products is essential, will suffer.

Pioneers in the dependable and widespread distribution of electric service, the West Texas Utilities Company has, in a comparatively short span of years, built here in central West Texas one of the major electric light and power systems of the Southwest.

Motivated by a sincere faith in the brilliant future of this rich West Texas empire, nearly fifty millions of dollars—a sum larger than the total gross revenue for the eight-year period—have been brought in from the outside and invested here in generating stations, transmission lines and other physical properties necessary to the production and distribution of electric and other utility services. Virtually all of this new money has been provided through the financing agencies of the Middle West Utilities System.

The earnest resolve to conduct itself in such manner as to merit the friendship and confidence of the people it serves, plus a constant effort to deliver more service at ever-decreasing rates have been ideals toward which this company has pointed since its inception.

Operating under a Texas charter, with its officers and employees seasoned West Texans—“living on the job”—a loyal band of 1,300 men and women strives always to render that type of utility service which has made transmission line service the accepted standard throughout the nation.

As a corporate entity, the West Texas Utilities Company was organized on January 1, 1923, for the purpose of producing and distributing electric and other utility services. Like many other West Texas institutions with but modest beginnings, its growth and development has paralleled that of the West Texas territory as a whole.

Today the company is rendering service to 59,000 customers—carrying the advantages of dependable, efficient and inexpensive electric power to 120 cities and towns, and to hundreds of rural communities, farms and ranches. Its over-all average rate for electricity per kilowatt-hour consumed is, today, more than sixty per cent LOWER than the net average rate charged throughout the territory before the organization of the West Texas Utilities Company.

A PHYSICIAN'S VIEWPOINT ON PROHIBITION

Some thirty years ago I began practicing medicine in a small mining town with two saloons in full blast. I soon learned the cause of a lot of the poverty, which I encountered on my daily rounds among the people. When I went in a home and saw a longnecked bottle of whiskey on the table and the children crying for something to eat, I came to the conclusion that that was the best evidence I needed to fight the booze-gang and I have been at it ever since. If some of these so-called wets were to have traveled with me in those days, I think they would have had all the evidence they desire as to the wonderful improvements since prohibition has been established.—Dr. F. S. Campbell in the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Today, especially, it is wise to consider carefully just what you get for every dollar you pay. Be certain that the automobile you buy represents the latest standard of motor car value. The Parent Teachers and the Eldorado School Board, have jointly agreed to have a few shrubs planted on the school campus.

Winning 32 prizes at the Fat Stock Show, many of them first prizes, is calculated to give Schleicher county some good publicity, especially in papers in other portions of the State. The Success in this week publishing the entire list of winners and the prize they won. This data is furnished by J. Ed Hill, active vice-president of the First National Bank, who has been in close touch with the 4-H Club and the stock that was shown at Ft. Worth, and who accompanied the exhibit to the show and help to look after them until the awarding of the prizes, and gathering up the araful of prize ribbons that the exhibit won. Mr. Hill and L. E. Sumner, county agent, was overjoyed with the outcome of the exhibit. This is the second year in succession that Schleicher County brought home the bacon.

The Success calls attention to the date and lecture of Miss LeSell, Mar. 27, on Fine and Applied Art, at the Palace Theatre, at 2:30 p. m. Miss LeSell is coming to Eldorado under the auspices of the Woman's Club. Mrs. Holt is very anxious for every one to see these pictures and hear this lecture. It will be free.

Well, it looks like we are going to get to vote on that State-wide Road Bond Issue. The legislature is trying to pass such an act. Well the people should have an opportunity to say and if the majority wants the bonds let them have it. If it is submitted we will learn more about it.

The Democratic Party with Raskob as their National leader has lost ground and votes since he has become leader, well he dropped out of the republican party into the Democratic party, how he got to be leader is a mystery. We don't need him to lead.

TOO MUCH LAW MEANS TOO MUCH LAW-BREAKING

In discussing the political mania in this country for trying to remedy all problems by the passage of a "new law," by the establishment of a new regulatory board or commission or by handing out public funds in an endeavor to benefit one group of citizens at the public expense, a keen student of economic affairs recently said:

"We allow disappointments in unachieved objectives to ruin our perspective we become disgusted with further attempts at reconciliations of difference between parties and except the other alternative of legislative enactment to impose a superior force on unreconciled parties, which leads only to bad faith, long delay in judicial interpretation and economic distress with all the consequent hatreds and fears. And so the cycle begins anew. We need patience and much fortitude to undo the stupidity of the past."

PEOPLE VS. GOVERNMENT

One hundred and one years ago, writing in the Edinburgh Review for January, 1830, Thomas Macauley said: "Our rulers will best promote the improvement of the people by strictly confining themselves to their own legitimate duties—by leaving capital to find its most lucrative course, commodities their fair price, industry and intelligence their natural reward, idleness and folly their natural punishment—by maintaining peace, by defending property, by diminishing the price of law, and by observing strict economy in every department of the state."

"Let the Government do this—the People will assuredly do the rest."

Macauley's injunction is as true and apt today as when it was written. Almost all our social and economic problems have arisen when Government has failed to confine itself to its legitimate duties and has entered the sphere of the individual and of business. The greatest issue now before the American public is People versus Government—bureaucracy versus individualism and fundamental democratic principles.

Modern officeholders would do well to reflect on the words of a man who lived a century ago and observed Government with an insight that is all too rare.

William E. Talbot revealed the fact that the committee he heads has completed its survey of Texas manufactures and is ready to place in the hands of Texas merchants complete lists of Texas-manufactured products.

This information is available without cost or expense of any kind.

He also recounted some experiences which, despite the fact they disclose an amazing lack of knowledge as to the extent of present Texas industry, have their amusing aspect.

There was, for instance, the Texas manufacturer who discovered a way in which the use of Texas cotton could be materially increased provided a certain cotton fabric could be obtained. The Talbot committee instituted a search for a mill which did, or could, produce this particular fabric. A search of several weeks was concluded when a mill making the fabric was found—within three blocks of the manufacturer who had requested the information!

The value of this experience lies in the fact that it so aptly demonstrates the necessity for further education, not only of the people of Texas, but of the manufacturers themselves.

"THIS AND THAT"

By Jimmy

Amid cheers, fears, jeers and Raskob's suggestion for light wines and beers, the Democratic national executive committee met in Washington recently to discuss possible policies for future Democratic propagation.

The meeting was called to order by John J. Raskob, who held the chair while Joseph T. Robinson went up in it. It was an old-fashioned Democratic gathering where everybody talked at least once or two or more subjects, and whatever else may be said of the meeting, it succeeded in giving the Democrats a slight edge in the next presidential campaign; that is insofar as the publicity of the thing is concerned. Even the Republicans got a kick out of the meeting, and every newspaper in the country has had something to say about it.

While Chairman Raskob has not been applauded for every public utterance he has made he has been highly successful in keeping the Democratic Party in the headlines. It is admitted, of course, that the Republicans are content to let the Democrats stay in the headlines as long as the Republicans can stay in office. But even in this, if returns from recent elections mean anything, Mr. Raskob—or some body—has been successful in selling the Democratic theory of government.

Mr. Raskob touched on the explosion when he told of his plan to get votes in the next campaign. Mr. Robinson of Arkansas resented his suggestions and said they were all wet. Mr. Raskob intimated that he was willing to be a Democrat, but couldn't keep in losing and not have anything to stimulate himself with. He has lived in the North for sometime and has not been accustomed to losing every year, and thinks that with his platform the North can get "relief" while the Southerners can do as they please, because they are not in the habit of winning and could probably stay dry and still vote for a Democrat.

Tom Love of Dallas attended the meeting—as a Democrat. He was too embarrassed to talk publicly.

A resolution from the Texas legislature apologizing for the stand Texas voters took in the Hoover landslide provoked both laughter and applause. As north provokers, our legislature seems to be gaining nation-wide fame.

The meeting broke up when Chairman Raskob announced that he would explain his plan for financing the next campaign, in which $5,000,000 was to be raised. That was typically Democratic, too.

MORE ROAD FOR LESS MONEY

The organized farmers of the United States have, for several years, been making a drive to obtain good roads for themselves. They have pointed out that at present less than five per cent of farmers have access to roads that can be relied upon at all times of the year and under all conditions.

On the other hand, public expenditures have been increasing alarmingly and businesses and citizens, including farmers, are seeking ways to curtail governmental expense.

Under modern conditions, two traffic lanes are necessary. The problem is, then, how to get more road for less money. This, according to Bernard E. Gray of the Asphalt Institute, can be achieved by the use of low cost local materials—top-soil, sand-clay, shale, cinders, crushed stone, and so on. It is true that experiments in the past with these materials have not been wholly successful. But in recent years engineers have developed bituminous treatments for such surfaces that prevent dust and mud, reduce wear to the minimum and give smooth, non-skid roadways.

Every community which seeks good roads—and that, it is safe to say, includes a majority of American communities—should investigate the possibilities of scientifically treated, low-

TEXAS COTTON AND FOREIGN MARKETS

There has been a decided shift in the spinning industry in America during the last twenty years. Many mills have moved from the New England into the Eastern Cotton Producing States until now a substantial part of the production of these states is consumed by American mills. Their markets are largely at their door. On the other hand, the great bulk of Texas cotton is produced for export to foreign countries and is not consumed in America.

Reaching foreign markets is one of the major problems confronting the Texas cotton producer. During the last twenty years the quality of Texas cotton has seriously deteriorated. This deterioration has placed Texas producers at a serious disadvantage in winning and holding foreign markets, when we consider that foreign producers during recent years have materially increased production and improved quality.

In some foreign countries where cotton production is being encouraged by the government, varieties are standardized and high-grade seed, procured originally from this country, is planted on government breeding farms where the increase is made available to the farmers.

The only way to meet competition in any business is to supply the consumer with a better quality product at an attractive price. If the Texas cotton producer is to retain his greatest asset—his world market—it is necessary for him to give serious consideration to this problem.

The State-wide effort to improve the quality of Texas cotton is meeting with very gratifying results. From all over the State we have reports of determined efforts to improve the quality of the cotton. Dozens of communities have reported large purchases of high grade seed of one variety, which are to be planted on the farms surrounding one ginner center. Agreements have been made with the ginners that the cotton from this seed will be ginned separately so that the seed will be kept pure for replanting next season.

In some instances where the community has been unable to finance the purchase of sufficient seed to plant the entire acreage, the program has been modified. Each grower has purchased a small supply of high-grade seed and will plant it on a specially selected plot. This cotton will be kept separate at ginning time and the increase from these small plots will furnish a supply of improved high-grade seed for next season's planting. In the drought area where public funds have been made available for production loans, many communities are purchasing uniform improved seed and the result will be a better cotton in each community.

In all cases the variety selected is determined by a committee of growers. These committees have arrived at their conclusions after carefully analyzing the experiences of the community and studying the results of variety tests made by the Agricultural Experiment Stations. Growers are abandoning personal preference for the more important object of having just one variety, with even-running character to each ginning community.

Only by united, intelligent group action on the part of the producers of cotton in Texas can we compete with the cotton producers of other nations cost road materials. Only by using them can full-width, weather-proof, farm-to-market roads be built without inflating the tax rate.

THE LEADING ECONOMIC PROBLEM

During the next few years rising taxes may prove to be our foremost economic problem.

Cost of government has gotten beyond all control. Local divisions of government, especially, grow increasingly wasteful and inefficient. And in some states there is a well-defined tendency to put government into some business or other—at the expense of the poor taxpayer.

The taxpayer is not entirely blameless. His laziness and lack of interest in economic problems has given tacit consent to governmental extravagance, and has influenced the spread and development of powerful bureaucracies. Eternal vigilance on the part of you and taxpaying citizens is necessary for good government.

Unless the great mass of Americans show a new spirit toward their government the bleak future will bring tax increases of almost unimaginable proportions. The wind blows that way, and only an active public consciousness can prevent it.

FORT WORTH TRACK MEET (As Reported by Joe H. Moore)

Last Friday at recess five track boys sprinted out to Coach Williamson car, which was already warmed up for about a 2-30 mile drive. The boys were Jack Kerr, Aubrey Smith, Joe H. Moore, Raymond Smith (who was later known as Mr. Johnson) and Luther Parker (who was later known as Babby Jones). Mr. Johnson and Mr. Jones proved to be very expert as souvenir collectors.

The track men drove into Abilene at sundown, left their car in a garage to get a brake rod fixed, then hunted a cafe. Coach ordered a Shrimp lunch. Luther ordered the same and so did each of the others as his time came until they had gone around. All took the same as Coach, having no more idea than a goose what they were getting. Some ate all that was served except the pie (it wasn't because they didn't want pie that they didn't eat it) and some wouldn't touch the shrimp. But that night in a Hotel at Weatherford we thought the shrimp was going to prove very fatal to one of the boys.

Save Mohair

During the past three weeks the co-operative in Texas have appealed to the mohair growers to send their hair through the Co-operative Association. We tried to prevail upon them to continue their support of this system as they did during the year 1930 in order to build a marketing association owned and controlled by them.

We should consider the future of our business as well as the immediate present.

In our former announcements we stated that ten per cent of the price of this coming clip, or a minimum of 3c per pound, would be retained to carry over the 1930 clip which will be held back until the 1931 spring clip is disposed of. This requirement has been rescinded so that the ten per cent, or 3c per pound minimum, will not be retained.

The grower will get every cent that the mohair sells for with the exception of freight and regular handling charges the same as in the past.

The mohair growers made an excellent start last year. Let us continue to build our marketing association rather than tear down the work already done. Market your mohair by joining the

THE HI-DIVIDE

Raymond Smith ran the 100 yard dash and made third in his heat in the 220, Luther Parker ran the 440, Jack Kerr ran the 440, Aubrey Smith ran the 1-2 mile and J. R. Conner, who was already at Fort Worth ran the 1-2 mile and threw the discus 96 feet which would have easily won the practice meet at Sonora. Raymond Smith wanted to enter in everything. He was a man "Doubling in Brass" for Eldorado. He would answer to any name you wished to call him. When the officials were calling out the names for the 100 yard dash he answered to R. Smith, then ran down to where they were calling out names for the 220 and answered to J. A. Cates.

We saw many things that will help us in the regular meets here. It would have done anyone good to see those crack track men in action.

NICKNAMES IN HIGH SCHOOL

Talk about nicknames, well there are plenty in this school. Students have acquired these beautiful names from various sources, whether they like them or not. We will endeavor to give you a few of these names and how they were acquired if possible.

Of course every one has heard of the famous "Al Chemist", Joe H. Moore, and can easily guess where it came from because of his scientific turn. Then, there's "Bulgarian", "Bull", or "Bulgarian Orchestra" all of which belong to Albert McGinty and came from mysterious sources. Aubrey Smith "Lefty" has gone by that name ever since he began school and drove it from his being left-handed. And so we come to Fred Williams "Freddy" who, is called such because of his striking resemblance to the famous "Ferd" in the comic strip of "Boots and her Buddies". We also call him "fat stuff" because of the similarity. Eli McAngus, Alias "Legs", has achieved his name just because—well, his brother went by the same name through school too. There seems to be some mystery about "Chevrolet" or "Chevey", Jack Ratliff. Jack has told us a time or two (and not secretly) that he didn't like this name. We wonder! Every one knows "Pretty Girl's" influence.

We wonder why John Alexander gets so hostile when he is called by the name of "Juanita." Albert Martin has two or three peculiar names which we have not found the source of as yet, namely "Hack" and "Contractor" neither of which he appreciates. "Snooky", Thelma Taylor is also an interesting character. We suppose "Buddie" Henderson got his name because he had an older sister. We just call Pauline Rape "Polly" for short.

We also have our "Blondy", Carroll Green, who we suppose derived that name from "That School Girl Complex ion." We are much more familiar with Holly Alexander than with his new nickname "Chicken-feathers."

Hassell Ratliff has derived quite a few names some of which are "Snake," "Screw-driver," and "Hass." Of course the teachers are not exempted from having nicknames but we won't mention them now.

SEEK MORE, CHEAPER MONEY FOR FARMERS

AUSTIN, Texas, March 16—Designed chiefly to make more and cheaper money available to the Texas farmer and land owner, a bill of far-reaching effect was pending before a house committee today. It was presented by Reps. P. L. Anderson and Harold Kayton, of San Antonio.

The bill seeks revision of the Robertson insurance law, which requires that life insurance companies operating in Texas must invest 75 percent of their legal reserve in this state. As a consequence of the law, it is pointed out, none of the nation's largest life insurance companies operate in Texas.

Supporters of the bill declare that if it is passed and the big companies are allowed to return after having been excluded for more than 20 years, millions of dollars will quickly be made available for loans. In addition, with the influx of the huge amount of loan money, interest rates would probably drop as much as two percent.

"Now, with interest rates high and money scarce, Rep. Kayton said, "the return of these companies, with their vast sums eagerly awaiting placement on loans, would prove a godsend to land owners. One of the greatest needs of the farmers, particularly, is for more and cheaper money. The path to revision of the Robertson law is the one we must follow in order to give it to him."

G. H. Farrington was in from the ranch Wednesday, buying supplies and looking after business.

BEST SHOWING MADE BY COMPANIES THAT KEPT UP ADVERTISING

That the relatively good showing of utilities as a whole during 1930 was attributed to their continuance of advertising schedules is the opinion of "Telephony," Chicago telephone journal. "One of the important lessons learned from the business depression has concerned the essential value of continuous advertising," it says. "Since the first of the year the financial reports covering 1930 operations have repeatedly shown that the companies making the best showing have been those which kept up their advertising regardless of dull times."

"Public service companies of all types paid more attention to advertising than in most years, and it is generally admitted that they suffered less than any other line of industry. In all other lines, the most successful concerns have been the ones which did not let the depression stampede them into reducing their advertising appropriations. Now they know it paid them 'to carry on.'"

Texas utility companies as a whole maintained their 1930 advertising schedules on their 1929 basis and some of them, profiting from their 1930 experience, are increasing their advertising appropriations for 1931. Two of the large companies, through advertising, recently sold more than 40,000 shares of preferred stock in campaigns that continued only two weeks, indicating not only the confidence of the stock-buying public but also the existence of large sums for safe and profitable investment.
