"An American Tragedy," the talking picture, is based on Dreiser's novel. It is a story of youth in this mad, modern age with ambition vieing with love, one love conflicting with another and a boy groping his way recklessly out of a situation which he is too weak to face.

Preview audiences claim "An American Tragedy" has moments that have never been equalled for drama, suspense, intensity. Its courtroom scenes are the most graphic, sincere and tragically real pages from life the screen has ever captured.

Josef von Sternberg, who directed Marlene Dietrich in her three screen triumphs, "The Blue Angel," "Morocco," "Dishonored," made this Not a western, but a big comedy Riot stirring picture. Phillips Holmes, the blonde hero of Nacy Carroll's "The Devil's Holiday" and "Stolen Heaven," has the leading role, with Sylvia Sidney, New York stage star, recently seen with Gary Cooper in "City Streets," and Frances Dee, an important and vibrant personality,

"An American Tragedy" was five years in coming to the screen. Soon after the publication of the sensational novel, Paramount acquired the screening rights, but actual filming awaited the coming of the perfected talking picture medium, the perfect director and the perfect cast.

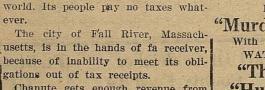

The result of the five years of preparation is evident in the intensely convincing story. A boy, lonesome and confused, seizes his first chance at love only to feel it become a lodestone which keeps him from reallove Just as "An American Tragedy," and the opportunity to satisfy his and powerful defensive center; Jack Kerr, a back with plenty of drive and weight; Aubrey Smith, who gained recognition last year as defensive end McCormick and Raymond Smith hard man of the season before last. The 1930 squad averaged about 140 pounds and boasted four lettermen: the present Eagle squad can place a first eleven on the gridiron averaging about 155 pounds, containing two experienced backs and six veteran linemen, which makes the prospects for this year extremely bright.

In addition to the lettermen named, there is a large group of new and old men who are fighting for positions, some of them having seen service last year. Among the most promising of these are: Junior Isaacs, Vance Morgan, Hollys Alexander, J. R. Conner, Billie Kerr, Bill Smith, Jim West, Bernard Carr, Clyde Mills, R. J. Alexander, Dee DeLong, Clifford Archie, Gerald Gafford, Eugene Lewis, Joe Turner Hext, and Raymond Reynolds. The admission to all games played at the Fair Grounds this year has been lowered from twenty five and fifty cents to fifteen and thirty five cents, a fact which should meet the approval of the fans and result in a better home backing of our high school

We have been reminded in the past few weeks that we did some street paving about a year ago, but the job was a good one and badly needed.

Oklahoma and Texas have nothing on Arkansas, and over production of oil in both Oklahoma and Texas, caused martial law to be enacted for control, but it seems like Arkansas has had an overproduction of preaching, as it took martial alw to quell a church row at Jonesboro, Arkansas.

Promises are not worth much unless carried out, why bother about making them.

Now since the Fair Association has called off the Schleicher County Fair, we will have to find something elso to write about. Anyway the Fair has been given a dose of medicine and fallen off into a sleep for the time being and probably until next year when the depression will be remembered no more and cotton will have been forgotten.

STERLING-LONG

Governor Long quoted Isaiah 28:15: "Because ye have made a covenant with death and with hell are ye in agreement," and said it applied to Governor Sterling's opposition to his otton prohibition proposal.

"Governor Sterling is not in any agreement with the people on the cotton question," he said. "Who is he in agreement with? Yes, again the passage reads: "A covenant with death and with hell are in agreement."

Governor Long could have quoted the 16th verse of the same chapter of Isaiah, which reads: "Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I lay in Zion for a foundation a stone, a tried stone, a precious corner stone, a sure foundation: he that believeth shall not make haste."

Governor Sterling is right, the cotton situation is a large affair, and to act in haste, and to encourage a law that would be a detriment to the human race and especially to his own people, would be an unpardonable sin, and we believe he can be compared to the 16th verse better than the 15. He is being tried, and we

MASTER FARMERS" FAVOR CONTROL OF COTTON ACREAGES

AUSTIN, Texas, Sept. 12 .- The 'Master Farmers" of Texas, those outstanding farmers selected yearly by the farm journal Progressive Farmer and Southern Ruralist, favor control of cotton acreages by law, accoding to a survey made by the magazine.

The journal advised J. E. McDonald, commissioner of agriculture, that a poll showed many of the Master Farmers, heretofore against legislation of any kind, "are now firmly of the opinion that acreage must be controlled by law." A majority of them favored the plan of partial reduction originally sponsored by the commissioner of agriculture, as against the Long plan of total prohibition in 1932. Excerpts from their communications follow:

"I think Governor Long's plan unvise. No tenant farmer ould weather 1932 without cotton. Mr. McDonald plan is the best yet offered."-R. F. Alfrey, Godley. "I am in favor of the McDonald plan provided that it is passed in all principal cotton raising states."-Douglass Pounds, Lubbock. "The 'one-half of his farm cotton' plan is least open to objection, and should make for a more stable agriculture."-T. D. Porcher, El Paso. "Governor Long's plan would cause greater competition from foreign coun tries-Mr. McDonald's plan would be best."- J. M. Chamblee, Mabank. ... Mr. McDonald is sound; we would still make enough cotton and be able to build up our land."-Wil liam Ranly, Lott. "I am very much in favor of hav ing a law to govern cotton planting."-Arthur G. Ilse, D'Hanis. "I . . do not approve the Long plan.

I favor the McDonald plan in this way: If we art to lose 50 per cent of our cotton acres, let the big boys who who are holding so much cotton lose 50 per cent with us."-R. B. Gary, Floydada.

"I do not believe either plan is ound."-Paul W. Price, Vinton. "Because of the emergency, I favor Governor Long's plan."-Raymond Brown, Mt. Pleasant. "I am opposed to any law that prohibit the farmer producing he wishes to grow. . . lowe, Plainview. ...

trust that he will be found to be a precious corner stone, a sure foundation, and that he will not lose his balance and act in haste, but remain firm and act wisely so that thih people will not suffer.

If we judge right, every public act of Governor Sterling has been for the Independent people and for tax on the wealthy, and his administration has passed a law to exempt the home valued up to $3,000 from tax. We did not favor the election of Sterling because of his oil interest, but we believe in giving the "devil his dues", and do not hesitate to say that we believe he is for the mass of the peonle at heart.

CLUB WOMEN READY TO BACK CAMPAIGN FOR USING COTTON

AUSTIN, Texas, Sept. 15 .--- That 60,000 clubwomen of Texas are prepared to join thhe Texas Division of the National Association for Increased Use of Cotton in a state-wide cara paign to increase home consumption of the state's chief crop, was a statement made here by Mrs. R. F Lindsey Mt. Pleasant, president of the Texas Federation of Women's clubs.

"I have been very much interested in the work of your organization, "Mrs. Lindsey told Lowe Simons, executive secretary for Texas," and I can assure you that we are prepared with an efficient set-up throughout the state to aid in carrying out its purposes.

"The suggestion that we 'Make This a Cotton Christmas' affords a channel through which I believe our membership will be able to do an enormous amount of good toward stimulation of retail trade in cotton goods. Our organization reaches the home life of every community in the state, whether urban or rural.

"My own feeling in the matter is that ultimately-in the final analysis -the design and purpose of your organization to bring about greater use of cotton far surpasses in importance any project heretofore suggested to aid the cotton farmer of the south."

Firestone Telling Wonders of Rubber in Brief Radio Talks

Highlights of Industry Given for First Time Over the Air

Speaking over a nationwide N. B. C. network which reaches an estimated audience of 40,000,000 persons, Harvey S. Firestone, Jr., is telling the romantic story of rubber development in a series of brief word pictures forming a part of the Firestone radio program, which is now on the air every Monday night.

In these talks Mr. Firestone, who is vice-president of The Firestone Tire and Rubber Company, confines himself almost entirely to the human side of the industry avoiding technicalities. Always close student of the business in which his father pioneered, he has amassed many interesting episodes and unusual highlights concerning rubber which he will use in his short broadcasts.
