This summer seems to be the season of vacations...and strikes. If anything has been sillier in recent memory than the baseball strike, perhaps it was the threatened postal workers strike. And now we have the air-traffic controllers out on strike. I think the reaction of the American public to all three of these strikes has been a great big "ho-hum."

Does anyone really feel sorry for the over-paid, over-rated baseball players and the fat-cat club owners who have nearly destroyed a great game this summer? Did anyone have any sympathy with the postal workers (who, by the way, start at the department at a ridiculous $9 per-hour)?

I think the air traffic controllers just might have a good cause, in that their job is highly-skilled and extremely stressful, and they deserve to be justly compensated. However, they are federal employees, and as such they are very well aware that it is illegal for them to strike. Perhaps the solution to that problem is to let private industry take over the air-traffic control industry, and get the government out.

Whatever the result, the summer of 1981 will be remembered for many years as the summer of the silly strikes.

We returned Sunday night from a five-day vacation in Ruidoso, N.M. where we slept late, over-ate, and generally did all the things people do on vacation. It was the first time in three years that our family has managed to go off together for more than a weekend, and I have reaffirmed my idea that vacations are great healers.

I think we all returned with both our bodies and our minds rested and relaxed and ready to face another year of work.

The only bad thing about a vacation is coming home to an over-grown yard, piles of dirty laundry, and the heavy reading on my scale. However, it was all worth it, so much so, in fact, that I may take another one next year!

One of our local wags suggested the other day that the City of McLean pass an ordinance outlawing glass beer bottles. He said that the aluminum cans that are left on the school parking lot and at the American National Bank Memorial Park are quickly picked up by those who sell the cans for re-cycling, but the shattered beer bottles just cause a big mess.

Another person said that the movie "Urban Cowboy" was the worst thing to happen to the litter problem in McLean, because John Travolta in the movie popularized the "long-neck" beer bottles, and now some of our slobs have switched to the glass bottles.

The sad thing is, of course, that McLean is a dry-precinct which forbids the public consumption of intoxicants, whether in a glass bottle or an aluminum can.

If anyone has a suggestion as to how to discourage the breaking of beer bottles in the public parking areas in McLean, we'd sure be glad to air your theory. Our law officers

McLean Library Receives $45,000 Grant From Pampa Foundation

Proposed Addition

THIS SKETCH SHOWS the proposed new addition to McLean's Lovett Memorial Library which will be funded in part by a $45,000 grant from the M.K. Brown Foundation in Pampa.

The M.K. Brown Foundation of Pampa is presenting $45,000 to McLean's Lovett Memorial Library building fund, according to an announcement made Tuesday by Foundation chairman of the board Bill Waters of Pampa. Waters called Lovett librarian Martha Parker and informed her of the Foundation's decision. The McLean library applied for a grant from the foundation several months ago.

The check will be made out to the city of McLean, with the stipulation that the money go to a building fund for the library, Mrs. Parker said.

The money will be added to a fund established by the late Alice Short Smith, who was a long-time patron of the McLean library. Mrs. Smith left the money in a savings account to be used for the building on of the library.

Mrs. Parker said that the library board made plans several years ago to add a 1500 ft. reading room to the back of the library, and that the Foundation's grant along with the funds left by Mrs. Smith should be enough to build the addition.

When the new room is built, it will be used to house books, and will be the reading room. The present reading room will be converted into a community meeting room.

The McLean library was established in 1940. The current building was built in 1957 and the name of the library was changed to the Lovett Memorial Library in honor of Henry and Fannie Lovett. The Lovetts, as well as Mr. and Mrs. Montagu Kingsmill Brown, and the family of Alice Short Smith were all early-day residents of Gray County. Brown came to Pampa in 1903 from England. He eventually became co-manager of the giant White Deer Land and Cattle Company. The M.K. Brown Foundation has contributed thousands of dollars to various projects in Gray County since Brown's death in a car accident in 1964.

Vandals Damage School

Vandals entered the McLean Elementary School Thursday night and did some damage to the principal's office, the cafeteria, and the science room, according to principal Dorman Thomas. Thomas said the intruders removed the door from his office, and rummaged through his desk and files. They entered the cafeteria, and broke into the candy storage and opened a gallon can of peanut butter. The vandals also set off a fire extinguisher in the cafeteria.

Damage to the science room was confined to some chemicals which were disturbed.

Gray County Deputy Jimmy Shelton investigated the incident.

Friday night vandals used spray paint to put graffiti on the north end of the gymnasium, part of the high school, and on the band hall.

Damage estimates were not available, and no suspects have been arrested in the incident.

Chamber Meets With Officials

City and county officials attended the Chamber of Commerce meeting July 28 in the McLean Elementary School to answer questions from Chamber members concerning the Marie Foundations building and the McLean Hospital.

Mayor Sam Haynes and councilmen George Terry,

Miro Pakan, Boyd Meador, Dale Glass, and Charles Millam told the Chamber that a Pampa firm had talked to the council concerning opening a machine shop in the factory building. Haynes said that the shop would be designed to service oil field equipment, and the prospective owner said he would employ about 15 men. Haynes also said that the interested party indicated he would build housing for his men if it were not available in McLean. The client was expected to contact the City Council around Nov. 1, Haynes said.

Gray County Commissioner Ted Simmons told the Chamber

Tiger Two-A-Days Begin Monday

Members of the McLean High School Tiger football squad should come to the field house this week to get shorts and shoes in preparation for the beginning of two-a-day drills next week. Coach Jack Dorsett said the prospective gridders should check out their equipment this week so that practice promptly can begin at 7 a.m. Monday morning.

"One of the coaches will be at the field house all day this week, so that the boys can check out their equipment," Dorsett said.

The Tigers will begin pre-season conditioning drills Monday, with practices scheduled for every morning and every afternoon during the week.

The first Tiger football game will be Sept. 11 against the Shamrock Irish.

Summer Band Practice Announced

Summer band practice for the McLean High School Tiger band will begin Monday Aug. 10 at 10 a.m. in the band room at M.H.S. Practice at this time will enable football boys to also take part in practice. All band students 8th grade through seniors are encouraged to be present. Practice will be 10 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. each morning the week of Aug. 10.

Among the selections used at games this fall will be "Superman", "2001 Space Odyssey", "Star Wars", "Calling All Interplanetary Space Craft", and "Theme from Patton", as well as traditional marches, according to band director Francis Adamson.

Billy Frank Hambright Will Play In Greenbelt Bowl

Billy Frank Hambright, a 1981 graduate of McLean High School, will represent McLean at the annual Greenbelt Bowl football game in Childress Saturday night, and Missy Billingsley, who will be a senior at MHS this fall, will be a queen candidate at the game.

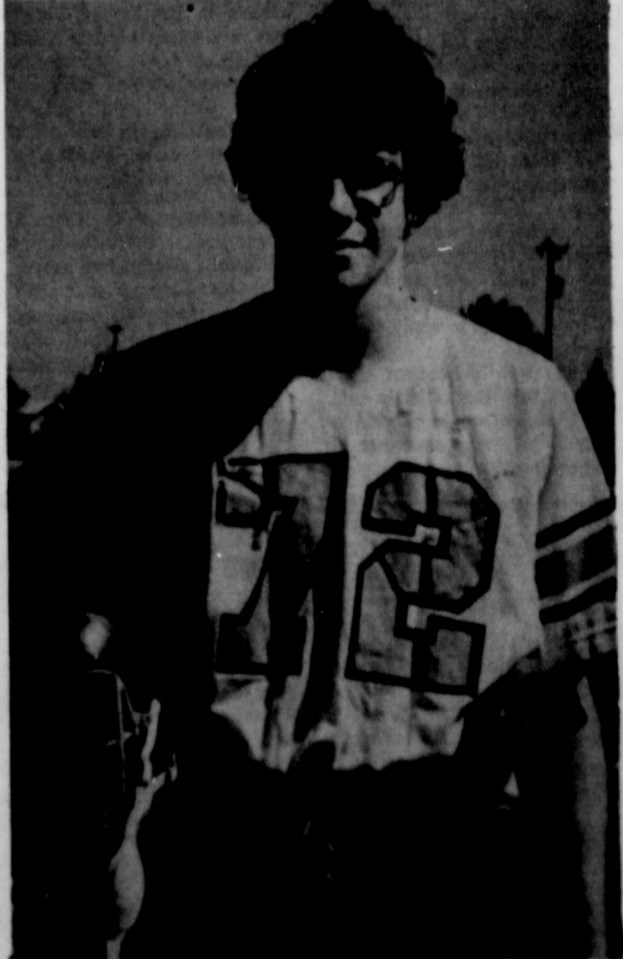

Hambright, a 6'3" 200 lb.

tackle for the Tigers during his high school career, was named first-team all-district on both the offensive and defensive teams last spring.

Gridders from all sizes of schools in the Panhandle will play in the Bowl game. The players must have graduated from high school this spring to be eligible for the honor.

Coach Joe Riley said that McLean was very honored to have a player chosen for the bowl. "I don't have any idea how long it's been since McLean has been represented there, but it has been several years," Riley said. Scouts from area colleges traditionally go to the game to watch college prospects play, according to one source.

Miss Billingsley, who was chosen by Hambright to serve as his queen candidate, will ride in a parade, and will be seated in a place of honor at the game, where the Greenbelt Queen will be announced. Miss Billingsley is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Doyal Billingsley. Hambright is the son of Mr. and Mrs. K.W. Hambright.

Bill Thomas Is New Paramedic

McLean now has two paramedics on the McLean Ambulance volunteer crew, following confirmation this week from the Texas Health Department that Bill Thomas had successfully passed his certifying test. Thomas joins Jim McDonald who was McLean's first paramedic.

Thomas said that to apply for entrance to the paramedic program the trainee must be an EMT (Emergency Medical Technician), be associated with an ambulance service, and pass an entrance exam. Thomas said the entrance exam consisted of both a written and an oral test.

Thomas began paramedic training Jan. 11, and finished the class July 18. The training consisted of eight hours of classroom work and eight hours of clinic practice each week at Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo.

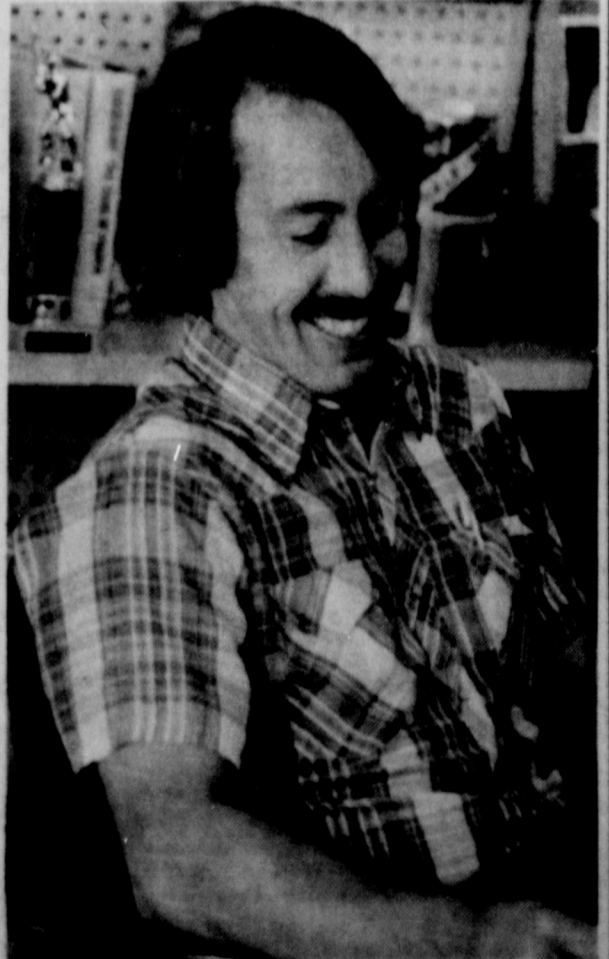

Thomas, who is the administrator of Thomas Nursing Home in McLean, said he became interested in the paramedic program when the McLean Ambulance was called to several wrecks on the infamous "Death Alley", a two-lane stretch of Interstate-40 near McLean, which claimed at least 17 lives.

"I felt so useless riding in the back of that ambulance with critically hurt people," Thomas said. "I decided that I wanted to have enough training to help someone the next time."

The McLean Ambulance

Service is a volunteer organization and is made up of members of the McLean Volunteer Fire Department.

Teddy Sure Ain't A Texan!

DEMAGOGUE: a person who tries to stir up the people by appeals to emotion, prejudice, etc., in order to become a leader and achieve selfish ends.

Senator Edward Kennedy (D. Mass.) has flirted with the title "demagogue" for many years, but his pronouncements and his actions this past week concerning the tax break for the oil industry in the Reagan's tax cut bill have guaranteed him his place among the scoundrels in our political history.

In fighting the Reagan proposal to help ease some of the burden of the prohibitive windfall profits tax, Kennedy said that it "made no sense to give the federal store away to the oil companies." For the casual listener, Kennedy's statement sounds like the tax bill would actually give the oil companies federal money.

In fact, according to the provisions of the bill, small independent oil producers, two million royalty owners, and, to a very small extent, major oil companies will pay a little less than the prohibitive windfall profits tax they are now paying.

Kennedy has made "big oil" into a bugaboo the likes of which have not been seen since Adolph Hitler starting blaming all of pre-war Germany's economic problems on the Jews. The Massachusetts senator would have us believe that the entire oil industry is made up of fat, greedy multi-millionaires who are sitting around waiting to gobble up the common folk, all in the interest of big profits.

Texas can assure the heavy-set millionaire senator from Massachusetts that share holders in oil companies, independent oil producers, and small royalty owners are the common folk. Many of those two million royalty owners receive less than $30 per month from the royalty off their land.

Since Massachusetts has no oil, Kennedy is relatively safe lambasting an industry that is the life blood for Texas and other Southwest states.

And perhaps his ranting and raving carries just a tinge of envy. Maybe he's sorry that that distant relative of his who made the family's millions off of whiskey sales didn't have the good sense to settle in Texas on top of an oil reserve instead of choosing the cold shores of Massachusetts.

Tough luck, Teddy!

have done their best to catch the offenders, but it is almost impossible to do so.

How about if we have someone hide close to the areas in question...have that person write down all the license tags of the cars in the lots after 10 p.m. each night, and then have the law officers bring the owners of those cars (whether parents or kids) down to the lots the next day to clean up the mess? You'd probably get many innocent people, but I'll bet you'd catch a few offenders too! Anybody want to try it?

While we were buying some magazines at a store in Ruidoso, N.M. last week, we saw Mr. and Mrs. Garland Ramsey, long-time McLean residents who retired several years ago and moved to Ruidoso. They look fit and healthy, and said to tell all their friends in McLean hello.

The first animal star to appear regularly in films was the dog Rover, hero of the 1905 movie "Rescue by Rover."

er that the search for another doctor so that the McLean Hospital could be reopened had proved totally fruitless. "If anyone has any ideas on how to find a doctor we would sure be glad to pursue them," Simmons said. He said that Hospital Corporation of America, the company which has leased the McLean facility from the county, had been extremely helpful in trying to locate a doctor for McLean.

Simmons explained to the group that the Hospital's certificate of need would expire in November, and once it was gone it would be difficult to obtain another in case the hospital could reopen. A one-year extension was the best hope the hospital had, Simmons said. He told the Chamber that he would ask county officials to apply for an extension.

Chamber president Jim Barker told the officials that the Chamber would be glad to help in any way on either of the projects.

year. According to the magazine, Stubbs "will man one of the offensive guard posts and defensive tackle. He averaged 14 stops per game in 1980, and (Coach Jack) Dorsett says he may be the best player ever to come out of McLean High School."

The yearly publication places McLean fifth in the Class A schools in the top of Texas area, and ranks McLean third in district 1-A. Booker is ranked number one in McLean's district, with Follett ranked second. Fourth in the district is Claude, followed by Groom and Miami.

Tigers listed on the Class A Honor Roll in the publication are Stubbs as offensive guard, Billy Joe Skipper (6-0, 160) senior as defensive end, and Dudley Reynolds (5-11, 180) junior as defensive linebacker.

According to the magazine: "McLean coach Jack Dorsett claims the Tigers had their best season in 10 years in 1980 with a 6-4 record. Now he hopes that winning will spread like the Hong Kong flu. "That winning last year will definitely help us," Dorsett said. "We were picked to finish next to last in 1980 but we surprised some people, and I think we can be as good this season."

Also listed as having all-state potential is Dudley Reynolds, a 5-11, 180 pound senior, and Billy Joe Skipper (5-11, 180).

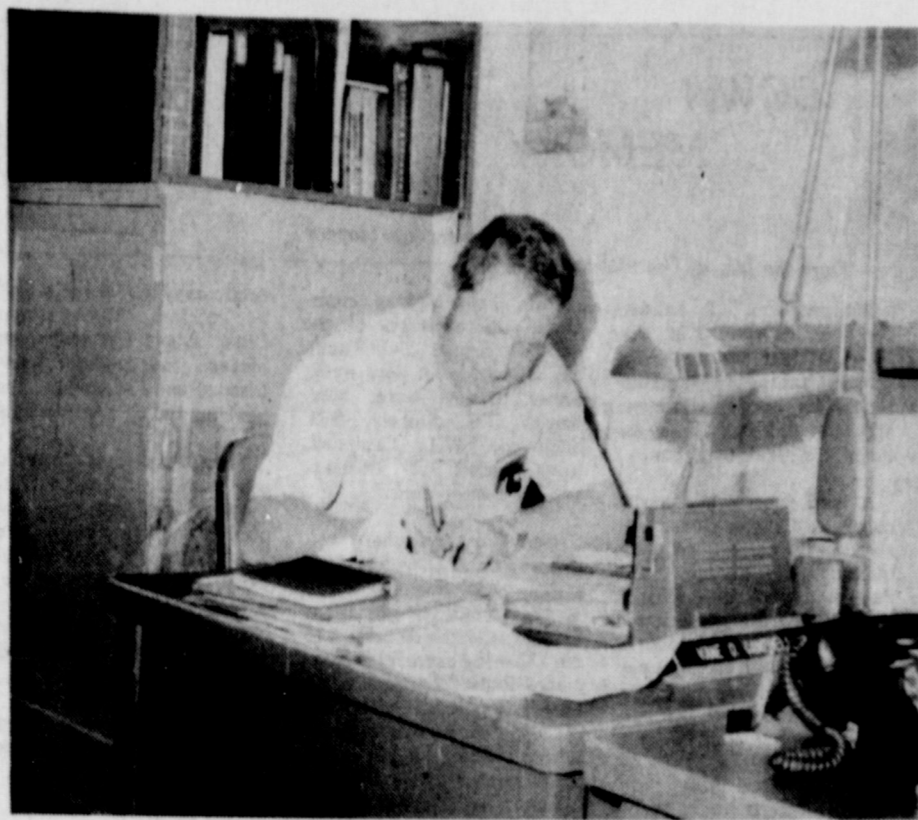

The first parking meters came into service in Oklahoma City on July 16, 1935. 150 were originally installed.

Letters To The Editor

Several weeks ago, a group of citizens met with the McLean City Council to discuss an animal problem in the city. At that time, our concern was, and is, that where a large number of dogs and/or cats are kept, a hazard to the humans around this area exists. Rabies is not the only disease that may be transmitted by these animals. There are at least 35 or 40 other diseases of major importance which can be carried and transmitted to humans as well as other animals. The position which is on file at Lovett Memorial Library. In this report, Dr. Galbreath discusses the various diseases which have been mentioned. He also sets forth other reasons for animal controls including the present explosion in the pet population; traumatic injuries caused directly or indirectly by animals; and the ecological damage stray animals inflict on a community. This report is available to any interested citizen wishing to read it.

Three From McLean Attend Summer Band Camp

McLean High School drum major Terri Glass, Karen Wilson, and director Francis Adamson have returned from summer band camp at WTSU. The camp was from July 13 to July 25. While at the camp, Terri and Karen studied drum majoring and twirling as well as having sectional rehearsals and band rehearsals. Both played in the concert band and participated in two concerts.

TAKE CARE OF YOUR HEALTH--AND YOUR HEALTH COSTS

Take care of your health--and your health costs. Americans spent $943 each in 1979 for health care, a total of $200 billion, or one-tenth of the Gross National Product.

Consumers can help control these staggering costs in several ways with one basic idea in mind: it pays to stay healthy. Six major steps can go a long way toward economical health care.

1. Stay fit.
2. Recognize early warning signs of disease.
3. Learn about low-cost or free health care.
4. Provide your own home care.
5. Consider buying "generic name" drugs.
6. Follow your doctor's orders.

Staying fit is your best "no cost" health insurance. This involves eliminating cigarette smoking, getting moderate exercise, eating sensibly, reducing alcohol consumption, obeying speed laws and using seat belts in vehicles.

Learn to recognize early warning signs of disease. At an early age--before expensive hospitalization is necessary--many potential health problems can be detected and treated. Early stages of disease are when chances of recovery are best.

Learn about low-cost or free health care. Many health-care services are available through a variety of public programs at all levels of government, such as well-baby clinics, Planned Parenthood and Family Planning, immunizations from public health clinics, and screenings for high blood pressure and glaucoma.

Provide your own home care. Be ready for emergencies with an adequate first-aid kit at home and in the car.

When possible, care for a convalescing family member at home. It's much more pleasant and less expensive than a hospital or nursing facility. Most communities have home health-care services to provide you with backup support.

Consider buying drugs by their generic name. Generic-name prescription drugs are usually cheaper to buy than brand-name prescription drugs, so when your doctor prescribes a drug, talk to him or your pharmacist about the least expensive way to buy the drug. Follow your doctor's orders--all of them, not just the ones you "like."

NOSEBLEEDS

Stop nosebleeds using simple first aid measures. The simplest first aid measure is to sit with the head leaning slightly forward and apply pressure at the site of bleeding by pressing the nostrils together. Keep the pressure steady for about five minutes, then release to see if the bleeding has stopped. If there is blood in the throat, spit it out to make breathing through the mouth easier.

Applying a cold cloth may help stop the flow of blood. If the first five minutes are not successful, repeat the process. Most nosebleeds will respond to this procedure. Try to remain as calm as possible. Lying down, however, tends to direct the blood into the throat which causes gagging, difficulty in breathing and anxiety.

COMPUTER PRICE SCANNERS

As computers "invade" many large grocery markets, consumers may need to "adjust" a few shopping habits. Computers may force consumers to rely more heavily on shelf pricing information. When the computerized pricing system replaces traditional methods, a price scanner reads a code of black and white lines printed on the product which the computer translates into prices.

The system offers numerous advantages to the store, but consumers may also benefit from it. Consumers receive a more complete record of everything charged because the computer "prints a note" about each item on the register tape. Also, check-out should be faster since checkers do not have to ask for prices not marked or remember them. This system also should minimize check-out errors. And, the system may lower or control prices if the reduced store labor costs are passed on to consumers.

On the other hand, consumers may experience certain concerns when shopping in stores using the computerized system. You can't always be sure of the price of an item until you get to the check-out counter. If the price is not indicated on the product, shelf labeling should provide details.

However, confusion can arise if shelf labeling is missing, inaccurate, or misaligned with the product. Also, discount or sale prices may not be reflected in prices marked. Or, sale prices no longer in effect still may appear on the shelf. In addition, lack of product labeling may cause greater difficulty for consumers in comparing prices between different products. To be sure you are charged the correct price for goods purchased, watch the cash register display screen during check-out as each item is scanned. Also, check the detailed register tape when you get home. Report price discrepancies to the checker or store manager.

HIGHTOWER WASHINGTON HIGHLIGHTS

From Correspondent Jack Hightower

I voted for the Hance-Conable substitute tax bill rather than the Ways and Means Committee bill. I did so only because I thought it was in the best interests of the District. The tax relief plan proposed by President Reagan and passed by the House is clear evidence that the American people are closing ranks behind a bi-partisan program to restore the strength of the economy.

I voted for it only after I had been released from my earlier commitment to support the Ways and Means Committee bill. In exchange for a commitment from the committee's chairman to provide relief for small royalty owners and producers from the oppressive burden of the windfall profits tax not provided in the Hance-Conable bill at that time, I agreed to support the rival bill approved by the House Ways and Means Committee. Subsequently President Reagan amended his proposal to provide essentially the same relief and vastly improve his entire plan.

The people of the 13th Congressional District who have contacted me on the two proposals, overwhelmingly favored the President's plan, even though there is great similarity between the two. They believe that it is important to show unity behind the President in solving our severe economic problems. I share this conviction.

It was clear that the public supported the President on this issue. I supported the Administration on this bill. I believe that it is in the best interest of the nation. Many Democrats joined me in this support with a determination to give President Reagan every opportunity for his economic package to succeed.

Parachute Team To Perform At XIT Rodeo

13,500 feet above the surface of the earth, two men fall away from an airplane with colored smoke trails issuing from canisters attached to their boots; they join in free-fall and spiral toward the ground, and the smoke forms a giant "candy-pole" two miles high.

If this doesn't catch your attention, there are three more acts to come, each more spectacular than the last, when the world renowned United States Army Parachute Team, the "Golden Knights," come to town.

The Golden Knights, who have performed in all fifty states and twenty-four foreign nations, will demonstrate their unique parachuting skills for you at the Annual XIT Rodeo held in Dalhart, Texas, August 6-8.

Also representing the Army at the rodeo, will be the 1st Calvary Horse Platoon from Fort Hood, Texas. They intricate drills and maneuvers performed on horseback are guaranteed to entertain and amaze you.

For those interested in seeing real Army equipment, there will be a helicopter from Fort Sill, Oklahoma on display with the pilot and crew available to answer questions and to discuss the capabilities of the helicopter.

The men of the Army Parachute Team and the 1st Calvary Horse Platoon also invite the public to remain after their demonstrations to ask questions.

Join the Army at the XIT Rodeo, August 6-8, for the entertainment and for the fun.

Nursing Center News

Our deepest sympathy to the family of Mr. Homer Wilson, who passed away Sunday here at the nursing center. We will miss him so much.

Mr. Hugh Tollison is in the hospital in Amarillo. We hope he'll soon be back with us.

Sunday, members of the Methodist Church were here to conduct services for the residents.

Monday, Charlene Barker, Betty Lopez, Grace Flores, and June Griffith were here to play Bingo with us. Eleven residents played and everyone had a great time.

Wednesday, the Methodist Church conducted our Bible Study and returned Thursday for a Sing-A-Long. The Methodist ladies served delicious cookies and punch after the Bible Study on Wednesday.

Friday, Thomas Nursing Center was host for the third annual barbecue, held on the north lawn and patio at the nursing center. Visitors, residents and employees enjoyed the delicious barbecue beef furnished by Mr. and Mrs. F.J. Hess, and Mr. and Mrs. Jake Hess II. All the guests brought covered dishes, so there was a lot of good food. After the meal, everyone enjoyed the good music, jokes, and laughter of Gib Welch and the country and western band from Borger. We appreciate these good people driving all the way to McLean to entertain for us. During the evening, chances were sold on a patchwork coverlet that the ladies here at the nursing center had made. At the end of the evening, a drawing was held, and Mary Dwyer was the lucky winner. Everyone, residents and guests alike, had a wonderful time.

"Up With People" Cast To Entertain In Pampa August 17

The all-new 1981 Up With People Show is coming to the "Top of Texas". The show will be in Pampa on Monday, August 17 at 7:30 p.m. in the M.K. Brown Auditorium. It is sponsored by radio station KGRO/KOMX in Pampa.

The program features an international cast of over 100 young men and women. Tickets for the performance are $4.50 student/senior citizen, and $5.50 adults.

The entertainment has been seen by millions in 42 countries around the world. There are full-cast production performances, as well as soloist and feature dancers. Together with a 13-piece band, the cast presents music from the nostalgic past through today's contemporary sounds. According to a recent news release, the music of Up With People celebrates the brotherhood of man, and attempts to instill a sense of hope among the members of the audience. The show is billed as "exciting family entertainment."

Audience involvement is an important element of the Up With People Show. One reviewer said, "Often, it's hard to tell where the stage ends and the audience begins."

Up With People was incorporated in 1968 as a non-profit independent, international, educational program. According to Laurie Gardner, a spokesman for the group, two goals of Up With People are to build bridges of understanding and communication among people, cultures and countries; and to give young people a learning experience that not only broadens the intellect, but matures the person.

The cast performing in Pampa is one of 5 touring companies consisting of approximately 550 young men and women between the ages of 18 and 26 representing many countries around the world. Each cast member spends 11 months on the road getting a first-hand look at a diversity of cultures and customs in the places they visit and from each other. They will travel an average of 35,000 miles this year, touring approximately 80 cities.

In each community they visit, cast members stay with host families, sharing in their lifestyles and interests. Some 40 local families will be hosting the Up With People students during their stay in Pampa.

Up With People cast also involve themselves in the community they are visiting. An average day often includes visits to area schools, hospitals and institutions, a tour of a local point of interest or industry, or a meeting with local government or business leaders. The performers do their own stage work, promotion and day-to-day logistics. Students may also receive college credits for independent study projects they undertake on the road.

The Up With People Show last appeared in Pampa in 1975. Widely known for their half-time performance at Super Bowl XIV in Pasadena, California in January 1980, the group plans to perform again at this year's Super Bowl game in Detroit.

For additional information on Up With People's appearance in Pampa, call Laurie Gardner, Polly Basten or John Valention, promotional representatives for the group, at 806-669-6809.

ABOUT IRRIGATION
Anson Bertrand and irrigation were the speaker and topic at a June meeting of a Great Plains Agricultural Council subcommittee in Lubbock. Bertrand, the USDA director of science and education, emphasized energy savings as an important benefit of finding alternatives to irrigation.

"Irrigation farming consumes 16 times the amount of energy that dryland farming does, mostly because so much energy is needed to pump groundwater," Bertrand said.

"In fact, two thirds of the energy consumed in the southern plains for farming is used for that purpose alone. That hurts when you realize that the cost of energy is eight times higher than it was in 1974."

"NATURAL" INSECTICIDES FOR GARDEN PESTS

More and more gardeners are producing food organically. While many reasons have brought this surge in organic food production, one major factor has been an attempt to reduce environmental pollution with insecticides.

The organic approach to managing insects can be somewhat elusive if the definition isn't clearly defined. The terms "organic" and "natural" insect control are used interchangeably. In essence the organic gardener is really a natural gardener who refuses to use material or pesticides chemically transformed or altered from their original state. Most garden pesticides marketed today are chemically manufactured and do not fit the definition of being natural or organic in origin.

For a pesticide to be classified as natural or organic, its extraction must have originated from plant or animal life. The organic gardener has several naturally occurring insecticides at his disposal. One of the oldest and most widely used natural pesticides is rotenone. Rotenone is extracted from derris roots in Asia and the cube barbasco plant in South America, to name a few. It is also taken from Devil's shoestring, the only known native plant with rotenone properties. Rotenone is extremely potent and may control many sucking and chewing insects, including aphids, caterpillars and certain beetles.

Another safe insecticide of plant derivation is pyrethrum. Pyrethrum is taken from dried flower extracts of a certain Chrysanthemum in Kenya and Ecuador. It has been used extensively to control spider mites, leafhoppers, aphids, thrips, beetles, and many caterpillars. Pyrethrum kills or paralyzes insect by body contact. It is relatively non-toxic to ladybug larvae although higher rates will kill adult ladybugs.

Ryania, also a naturally occurring insecticide, is derived from stem and root wood of the Ryania plant, a native to Trinidad and the Amazon basin. Ryania has been used as a selective insecticide because it protects against most beneficial insects. It controls a variety of insect pests, including corn borers and tomato fruitworms.

Sabadilla, another naturally occurring insecticide, is made from the seeds of a South American and Mexican plant of the lily family. Although hasn't been used much in current times, it controls a large number of insect pests, including grasshopper, armyworms, webworms, aphids, cabbage looper, melonworms, squash bug, and blister beetles.

Numerous other plants also have insecticidal properties but are either toxic to humans, difficult to obtain or lack documented information.

Perhaps the most popular group of natural insecticides are the microbial or disease-causing organisms, such as bacteria, virus, protozoan and fungi. Current microbial insecticides are increasing in popularity because they are environmentally safe, do not harm beneficials, and effectively control a selected group of insects.

A gardener's delight is Bacillus thuringiensis, a bacterial that effectively controls caterpillars of moths and butterflies, such as cabbage loopers, cabbage worms, hornworms, armyworms and many others. It is sold under the trade names of Dipel, Thuricide, Biotrol or Biodust.

Another microbial product recently marketed for grasshopper control is Nosema locustae Canning, sold under the trade name Hopper Stopper. It is a protozoan credited for controlling grasshoppers up to four to five years once it becomes established in the insect population.

Additional information on organic control of garden insects is in Bulletin B-1252, "Insect Control for Organic Gardeners" available at the County Extension Office.

Senator Bill Sarpalius

Reports

GASOHOL IS UP TO THE GOVERNOR

AUSTIN — We are ready to run with gasohol. We have introduced a good gasohol bill, Senate Bill 14, in the special session. We have passed the bill out of committee with no dissenting votes. We have polled the Senate and we are sure we have the votes to pass the bill. We think we have the votes in the House. There is no significant opposition to the bill.

Already, more than 1300 Texas farmers are prepared to spend $200 million on three gasohol production plants. One is to be in Dumas; one is to be in Muleshoe and one is to be in Hutto. This investment should be worth about $650 million for our state. There is also a strong possibility that other such plants will be built in the Panhandle area in the future, bringing in even more jobs and more industry. On the average, each dollar of investment in a new industry contributes about $3.50 to the state's economy.

There's only one catch. The bill will die automatically if the Governor does not "open the call" for the special session to allow the Legislature to consider the bill. Only the Governor has the power to do this.

Our new gasohol bill gives a tax credit to gasohol distributors. The credit will be five cents a gallon until 1986. Then it will decline one cent a year until 1990, when gasohol will be taxed at the same rate as gasoline. The savings will be passed on to you, the consumers of gasohol.

The idea behind the credit is two-fold. It should allow gasohol to compete with unleaded gasoline, and it should encourage the construction of gasohol plants in this state.

There's no doubt in anybody's mind that there will be gasohol production plants in this part of the United States. The only question is where. Every state that surrounds Texas already gives gasohol some sort of tax relief, so we must do the same if we want part of the new gasohol industry.

Our bill will give gasohol a chance to get started, then will make gasohol compete on the open market with gasoline and whatever other fuel that comes along.

As many of you no doubt remember, there was significant opposition to the gasohol bill introduced during the regular session. We have changed the bill to satisfy the people who were against it. Now we do not know of any group that does not want this bill.

It's up to the Governor to decide whether we shall have a gasohol industry here in Texas. He is the only one who can decide that now.

The special session will end August 11. This time limit will decide whether we will have new jobs and new industries, increased corn production, as well as more stable crop prices. The decision is up to the Governor.

We know many of you are very interested in gasohol, and we would like to hear from you. Please write to Senator Bill Sarpalius, Post Office Box 12068, Austin, Texas 78711.

4H Corner

by Carl Gibson

August 7 and 8 Wheeler Rodeo

A special workshop is being offered at the Texas 4-H Center to help 4-H club officers and their organizational leaders work together as a team.

This is a great opportunity to help your clubs improve their meetings and make the club more interesting and attractive to its members.

The workshop will be held August 28-30. If you are interested in attending or would like more information, contact the Gray County Extension Office.

STORE HOME CANNED FOODS PROPERLY. SAY 4-HERS

Store home canned fruits and vegetables in a cool, dry place to retain high quality and pleasant eating year-round.

Canned fruits and vegetables stored in warm places, such as near hot pipes, a range, a furnace or in direct sunlight are apt to lose their eating quality within a few weeks, say participants in the national 4-H food preservation program. The program is supervised by the Cooperative Extension Service and supported by Kerr Glass Manufacturing Corp.

4-H'ers note that dampness can corrode the lids and cause leakage, and they advise that jars must be free of cracks or chips and have tight fitting lids.

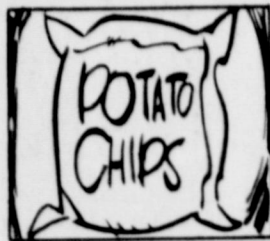

Canned foods stored in space that may become excessively cold in winter may be protected by wrapping jars in paper and covering them with a blanket. Freezing will not cause food spoilage unless the seal has been damaged.

In the food preservation program, members are encouraged to supplement the home food supply by canning and freezing home and locally-grown products. At the same time, members study basic scientific principles required for safe handling of foods to prevent spoilage. They also are urged to learn the importance of and increase the use of fruits and vegetables in the diet.

Members who excel in the program are eligible for a number of awards donated by Kerr Glass and arranged by the National 4-H Council, a non-profit educational organization which supports 4-H. Four members from each county can earn medals of honor, and one 4-H'er from each state can earn an expense-paid trip to the National 4-H Congress in Chicago each fall, where six members receive $1,000 scholarships.

Boys and girls, 9 to 19, can obtain more information on the 4-H food preservation program and other 4-H activities at the County Extension Office.
