The McLean News staff spent another lonely Labor Day, as we were about the only business open in McLean Monday. That is one of the disadvantages of a weekly paper; we work on all those Mondays that are official holiday for everyone else. We've tried working shorter hours on holi-day Mondays, but that makes Tuesday's deadline so hectic that the extra hours off are just not worth the frantic rush Tuesday.

These Monday holidays have us worried now, however, with the Post Office announcing that it will not put up mail on Sundays or holidays. If that policy holds, that means we will have no mail until Tuesday mornings fol-lowing these Monday holidays, which will work a real hardship on us and every other small newspaper I know about. A large part of the stories come from the mail, and that will throw us that much later on deadline days.

Hope you all had a nice. restful Labor Day, even if we did have to "lebor" just as hard as usual.

Lisa and I attended a photgraphy workshop at the School of Journalism at Texas Tech University last weekend. We have made almost every one that Tech has had since it started the program last year, so Dr. Dick Cook, a professor in the journalism department and a long-time newspaper man introduced us to our fellow students as "sen-

Tech is doing a great service for small newspapers, I think. By sharing their expertise with us, for a very reasonable price, they are helping improve the general quality of journalism in our area, which is a very important function of a journalism school. All the workshops have been set up with a professor from Tech as one of the instructors and a person actively involved in the newspaper business as the other instructor. The balance has worked out beautifully in most cases, with the professor giving the theoretical ideas and the newspaperman giving the practical approach. During this photography workshop, I learned that most newspaper people have the same problems with pictures that we do. Football pictures are always challenging to get, and we all worry about those. And most of us worry about trying to find something better than the "Castro Shots" that we have to use in so many instances. (The Castro Shot, by the way, is where you line em up against the wall and

We exchanged ideas with some good newspaper people, and perhaps you'll be able to see the evidence of that exchange in this newspaper in the next few weeks.

For the last several weeks, I have carefully avoided mentioning a new interest of mine in this column, not because I was embarrassed by what I was doing, but simply because I was not sure that it would

The Rain On The Plains Was Mainly In Mclean!

A cloudburst over Mc-Lean in the early morning hours Friday left an official total of 5.10 inches of rain in town, with some rural gauges north of McLean recording close to 8 inches of rainfall. The five-inch rain is recorded in McLean in many years, according to National Weather Bureau weather recorder Sam Haynes. Friday's rain brings the total for McLean for 1981 to 23.34, more than two inches above the town's yearly average of 21 Although Amarillo has ex-

Amarillo Artist Will Teach Watercolor Seminar

Rizza Debord, an Amarillo watercolor artist, will conduct a one-day watercolor seminar in McLean, Sept. 26 from 9 a.m. until about 4:30 p.m. at the Calico Arts and Crafts building. Mrs. Debord has painted for four years, after studying under Carol Vance, Ron Howard, and Stephan Krammer. She paints everything from barns to florals, and will teach several watercolor techniques on several types of paper.

Mrs. Debord is currently teaching a community Edu-cation class in Amarillo. The McLean class will be designed for both beginners and intermediates. Anyone wishing to take the class should complete the order blank in this paper and send $20 to Watercolor Class, McLean News, Box H, Mc-Lean, Texas 79057. A minimum of ten students is required for the class. Mrs. Debord said that beginners would probably invest about $50 in supplies, or may bring their own. Supplies needed for the class will be a watercolor pallet, (11 x 14 piece of glass or white plastic lid); water container, table salt, soft sponge, make-up toothbrush, bar of soap, mas-koid, I in. flat washbrush; #2 and # 8 round brush, script-liner; 300 lb. watercolor paper; and the following Grumbarand the following Grum cher watercolors: burnt sienna, burnt umber, ultra marine blue, Payne's gray, Indian yellow ochre, Alizarine crimson, Grumbacher red, sap green, and Hooker's green light.

Students who do not have their supplies should notify the McLean News when they send in their class fee. Mrs. Debord said that she would bring the maskoid, the brushes, the paper, and paints for students who do not have the supplies. Students will also need a one-inch thick piece of plywood, approximately 2 ft. by 3

Parking Fine Is Outrageous

McLean residents need to be aware (and beware) of a new law which went into effect Sept. 1 across the state of Texas. The Texas Legislature has done it again, folks, and this little law is going to cost you plenty, if you're not careful.

If you accidentally park in a handicapped parking space, your car will now be ticketed and you will be fined. Sounds fair enough, you say? It sure is. And a fine of $10 or even $20 would be fair and reasonable for this heinous offense. But according to a new state law mandated by Senate Bill 14, sponsored by Austin's Senator Lloyd Doggett, that criminal offense of parking in the wrong place is going to cost you a minimum of $50 and a maximum of $200 fine!

Reserving parking places for the handicapped are certainly a good idea, but punishing offenders for parking in those places by levying such a heavy fine is patently ridiculous.

The American justice system says that the punishment should fit the crime. How, then, can the Texas legislature justify setting a fine for a parking offense at $50 to $200, when the fine for most speeding tickets begins at $25, or when a fine for driving while intoxicated, a crime which causes thousands and thousands of deaths across the nation each year, carries a fine of only $50 to

One might be suspicious of the motives of an attorney senator like Doggett who would sponsor such a bill. Apparently, he was strongly influenced by a lobby which sees its own area of concern as the most important issue in the world, and Doggett and several other Senators agreed. Or perhaps a senator who is a lawyer likes legislation which is bound to cause a great deal of litigation throughout the state.

Whatever the reason, we are stuck with another asinine piece of legislation emanating from Austin.

If you go out of town, and accidentally park in a handicapped parking space, and you do not have a sticker on your car, expect to pay $56 in Pampa and about the same in Amarillo. And send a copy of your ticket and a hot letter to your state representative Foster Whaley and a copy to your state senator Bill Sarpalius. Maybe one of them will have the good sense to sponsor legislation to lower this ridiculous fine.

really work. But since I have commented in this space before about dieting and attitudes toward weight, I decided I had better fess up, and tell you that I have now been a member of Weight Watchers for the last eight weeks.

Since there is no chapter in McLean, several of us drive to Shamrock every Monday night for "weigh-in" and to listen to a lecturer concerning problems encountered by the

One of the reasons I have hesitated mentioning the organization is that I am one of those persons who can be terribly enthusiastic about almost any undertaking.....at first. But usually my interest and my attention begin to wane very quickly.

However, after giving Weight Watchers a two-month try, I am convinced that this is a program which I can follow the rest of my life. For those of you who have battled the bulge, you know that temporary measures just don't work, and that the only way to truly win against corpulence is to change you attitudes and your life-style and this is one of the biggest pluses for Weight Watchers.

When I first joined the organization, I went to give moral support to a friend. I was somewhat surprised when I got on the scale at the meeting room, to find that I had let several extra pounds slither around my waist in the last few years, so I was very attentive when the lecturer began explaining the program.
The Weight Watchers

"Diet" is really just simple nutrition. You have to eat fruit, vegetables, bread, fats, milk and protein every day, and you have to eat it prepared properly, and in certain quantities. Like most newcomers to the program, I was surprised at the amount of food that you have to eat everyday, and I swore that I could never lose weight and eat that much. I have conditioned myself over the years to associate "diet" with deprivation and pain, but not with healthy eating.

At the first "weigh-in" after l joined, I was truly amazed to find that I had lost a "large can of Crisco" as my instructor put it. Since then, the weight has come off more slowly, and some weeks not at all, but I have lost a total of nine pounds, pounds that will stay off because they came off slowly. I am now only 12 pounds away from my goal, and I expect to take another three months to reach that plateau. After reaching my goal, I will still attend the meetings for several weeks, as the instructor carefully explains "maintenance" and how to eat more without regaining the weight. I'm still enthusiastic about the program after these many weeks, not so much because of the weight-loss, although that is wonderful, but because I feel for the first time in my life I am learning about proper nutrition. Even though I have a college degree, and spent many hours in a home economics class in high school, the lessons in nutrition just did not stick in my head. By learning the proper nut-rition Weight Watchers teaches, I think I am helping my family toward a more sensible attitude toward eating.

Hopefully, you will see less and less of me as the weeks go

WASHINGTON, D.C. 20510 Labor Day is a time to honor the working men and women who built America and who are charged with maintaining its greatness. Texas should be particularly proud of its workers, for we are building and have set an example envied by the rest of the nation. Just about every week, the national press carries stories about opportunities in Texas which are attracting people from other parts of the nation. It is true that our climate and resources are important reasons for the attractiveness of Texas to both business and potential employees.

But the climate and the physical resources are only part of the story. The most important reason is the people of Texas and their spirit. The work ethic is alive and well in Texas. Texans always have believed in the worth of hard work, and have understood that the way to build a better life is through work. Employers know they will get a full day's work for a day's pay.

Because of this attitude, Texas has progressed from a small, completely agrarian foreign colony to one of the most prosperous, productive states in the union in less than 150 years. Not much more than a hundred years ago, the vast area of West Texas was dismissed as a barren desert unfit for human habitation. Texans have made those 'staked plains" into some of the most productive farm land in the country and brought in industry as well.

Some of the new Texans who have come from other parts of this country to our state have done so simply because they have heard there are jobs available. That in tself indicates an eagerness to work to provide a good life for themselves and their families. Many have come because they are looking for an area in which an individual still can make a difference, where there is an opportunity for a bright, hardworking person to get ahead. Texas is that,

Texans have not lowered their sights. They don't believe they have achieved all the greatness that is possible. And because they still see room for growth, room for greater accomplishments, they will continue to recognize opportunities to meet these goals.

My fellow citizens are proud of their state, and proud of their communities. Almost every city in Texas, large or small, has an active program to attract new business to its area. This pride extends to the workplace. People from other states frequently comment on the friendliness and helpfulness of Texans they have encountered on their visits to our state. It's no accident that they often return, sometimes to build businesses to employ Texans.

So let us celebrate Labor Day by reaffirming the values that have made Texas what it is today, and that promise to contribute to even greater things to come.

Reports

IT'S THE LAW

AUSTIN - Most of the time, new state laws become effective on September 1 which is 90 days after the end of the Legislative session. Here's a brief summary of some of the laws effective on that date:

1. Drinking age (Sarpalius) This law requires that everyone be at least 19 years old to buy alcoholic beverages. Even those who were 18 before September 1 must now be 19. This law does not prohibit 18-year-olds from working in a business that sells alcohol, but they may neither buy alcohol nor have a license to sell alcohol.

2. Wiretapping (Bock) Allows the Department of Public Safety to tap the phones of those suspected of dealing in dangerous drugs. Also, the DPS may break into a home or office to plant a wiretap or listening device.

Of course, the DPS may exercise this power only under court order.

3. Gasohol information (Sarpalius) - Creates a clearinghouse in the Texas Department of Agriculture for gasohol information.

4. Drug paraphernalia (Evans) - Possession or sale of items intended for use with illegal drugs now is illegal. Crimes against the elderly (J. Gibson) - Increases the penalty for certain crimes committed against senior citizens or children.

6. Generic drugs (Von

Dohlen) Pharmacists now may substitute equivalent generic drugs for brandname drugs if the generic drugs are cheaper and if the patient and the doctor do not object. confessions 7. Oral (Glasgow) - Prosecutors now may use the oral confessions of criminal defendants in trials if the confession is recorded on film or video tape. Formerly, confessions had to be written.

8. Bingo (Criss) - Communities now may vote on whether to allow charitable institutions to have bingo games for fund raising. 9 Radiation (Traeger) -Sets up strict standards for low-level radiation storage and provides for civil and criminal penalties for their violation.

10. Inheritance tax (Geistweidt) - Substantially reduces the state inheritance tax.

Of course, this is just a sampling of some of the more important bills that became law on September Many others will become law on January 1, and we will devote a column to these at the proper time.

As we look at the accomplishments of the last session, and look toward the next, we realize how important the help all of you gave us has been. But we still need to hear from you to plan an effective legislative program. Please write to Senator Bill Sarpalius, P. O. Box 12068, Austin, Texas

THE NEW ENERGY FRONTIER: Coal America's new energy frontier. Black Thunder Coal Mine near Gillette, Wyoming, sits on part of 50 billion tons. Tapping this huge new reserve of raw energy is a job that takes a combination of resources and pioneering spirit. The kind that fuels booms of opportunity. And we're here helping.

Last year, 3 million tons of this coal was used as fuel to make electricity at Southwestern Public Service power plants. Coal is being used more now because other fuels cost too much.

In Wyoming alone, there's enough coal that some areas of Black Thunder won't be mined until the year 2013. That's a lot of electricity. Coal. It's good to know there are some things you can depend on. SOUTHWESTERN PUBLIC SERVICE COMPANY

BRIEF EXPLANATORY STATEMENTS OF PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS SPECIAL ELECTION

ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution proposes a constitution al amendment that would allow the legislature to authorize cities, towns and other taxing units to grant exemptions from ad valorem taxes on an unproductive, underdeveloped or blighted area in order to encourage its development. The amendment would also allow the legislature to authorize a city or town to issue bonds or notes to finance this development and to pledge future increases in ad valorem tax revenues from the property in such areas to repay these bonds or notes. The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows: "The constitutional amendment to authorize cities, towns, and other taxing units to encourage the improvement, development, or redevelopment of certain areas through property tax relief and the issuance of bonds and notes."

House Joint Resolution 117 proposes a constituamendment that would authorize a person to receive a patent to land from the Commissioner of the General Land Office under certain conditions. Application for the patent must be made within five years from approval of the amendment. The land must be surveyed, public free school land not previously patentable. The person must have a properly recorded deed to the land, which he acquired without knowledge of the tent defect and which title he and his predecessors in interest have held for at least 50 years. The person and his predecessors in interest have continuously claimed the land and paid the taxes for at least 50 years.

This amendment does not apply to beach land, submerged land, or islands. An applicant may ot use this provision to PROPOSITION NO. 1 resolve a boundary dispute. This amendment will not apply to land which has been determined to be state-owned by a court of competent jurisdiction or that has a productive state mineral lease on the effective date > of the amendment. The proposed amendment will appear on the hallot as follows: "The constitutional amendment authorizing the commissioner of General Land Office to issue patents for certain public free school fund land held in good faith under color of title for at least 50 years as of November 15, 1981."

PROPOSITION NO. 3 ON THE BALLOT

House Joint Resolution 38 proposes a constituamendment that tional would enable the legislature to grant to a state finance management committee the authority to manage state funds. Funds constitutionally dedicated to specific purposes would not be subject to committee management. The committee would be composed of the Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Speaker of the House of Representatives, Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, Chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, Chairman of the Senate State Affairs Committee, and the Chairman of the House of Repre-

Means Committee. The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows: "The constitutional amendment to allow the legislature to grant to a state finance management committee the power to manage the expenditure of certain appropriated funds."

PROPOSITION NO. 4 ON THE BALLOT

House Joint Resolution 6 proposes a constitutional amendment that would provide that one-half of the surplus tax revenues above the spending limit provided by Article VIII, Section 22, of the Texas Constitution would be placed in a Water Assistance Fund to be used as provided by law, includng projects for water development and conservation, water quality enhancement, and flood control purposes or any combination of these pur-

The amendment also provides $500,000,000 of the general credit of the state to guarantee bonds issued in commercial markets by local political subdivisions, including cities, counties, and special districts. The amendment allows amounts to be established to decrease retire state debt, which is defined as that debt secured by the full faith and credit of the state. amendment would raise the interest that could be paid on authorized, but unissued, bonds guaranteed by the full faith and credit of the state from 6% to 12%.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows: "The constitutional amendment authorizing the use of a portion of the excess revenues of the state for water development, water conservation, water quality enhancement, and flood control purposes; authorizing the use of the state's credit, not to exceed five hundred million dollars, to guarantee the bonds of cities, counties, towns, and other units of local government in the financing of projects for such purposes; increas-ing the interest rate that may be paid on previously approved, but unissued. state bonds; and authorizing a program to retire state bonds."

PROPOSITION NO. 5 ON THE BALLOT

House Joint Resolution 49 proposes a constitutional amendment that would exempt livestock and poultry from taxation. Currently, farm products in the hands of the producer and family supplies for home and farm use are exempt.

The proposed amend-ment will appear on the ballot as follows: "The constitutional ment to provide for the inclusion of livestock and poultry with farm products as exempt from taxation."

PROPOSITION NO. 6 ON THE BALLOT

House Joint Resolution 81 authorizes the governing body of a county, city, school district or other political subdivisions to exempt from taxation a portion of the market value homestead. The portion exempted may be as much as 40% 1984; 30% for 1985-1987; and 20% for 1988 and after. The amount of an exemption may not be less than $5,000 unless the legislature by general law prescribes other monetary restrictions on the amount of the exemption. An eligible adult is allowed to receive other applicable exemptions provided by law. An exception is made where ad valorem tax has previously been pledged for the payment of debt.

The amendment further directs the legislature to require that notice be given to property owners of a reasonable estimate of tax on their property in certain situations.

PROPOSITION NO. 7 ON THE BALLOT

House Joint Resolution 4 proposes a constitution-al amendment that would authorize the Veterans' Land Board to issue and sell an additional $250. 000,000 in bonds increasing the Veterans' Land Fund's total bond issuance authorization from $700,000,000 to $950,000,-000. The amendment would increase the maximum interest payable by the state on these bonds from 6% to 10%, and permit an even higher rate, if specified by the legislature.

Notes From Your

County Agricultural Agent

by Joe Van Zandt

GRAIN SORGHUM INSECTS Headworms in grain sorghum are being reported from many areas of the Panhandle. Sorghum that has headed should be checked for headworms. Inspect heads closely and, if an average of 2 headworms per head can be found, an insecticide application is justified. Check frequently in order to detect the vorms while they are small. Lannate (R) has been providing effective control of the smaller worms.

Mites have increased dramatically in grain sorghum. The cool, damp weather has not held this pest in check like expected. Damaging infestations have been reported throughout the Panhandle. Cygon (R) and Sypracide (R) are giving satisfactory control.

The parasitic wasps are finally beginning to help bring the greenbug infestation in grain sorghum under control.

SOME RANGE GRASSES DIDN'T COME BACK'

Many counties throughout the High and Rolling Plains of Texas have complained of "decline" or "die off" of native grasses since the severe summer drought of 1980 and in 1979. Large acreages of buffalograss and blue grama, two major grasses the affected, have never "greened up" this year.

Hopes for a summer recovery were never realized--much of the grass is dead and gone. The extent of damage is not fully known at this time, but we do know the 'decline' is widespread with some areas showing more loss than others.

With such widespread concern, many agricultural pro-fessionals and ranchers are combining their efforts in attempts to explain the die-off phenomena. Theories have been proposed blaming the decline on the severe drought and high soil temperatures of last summer. Others have accused the ground dwelling termite as the primary culprit. Still others are blaming a foot tot similar to wheat foot rot.

"It is possible that any one or a combination of these proposed factors may be re-sponsible for grass death at any one location," says Dr. J.F. Cadenhead, Extension Range Specialist from Vernon, Soil temperatures in the upper inch of soil reached as high as 160 degress Farenheit over parts of the Rolling Plains last summer. Extended temperatures in this range could certainly be lethal to plants, especially when combined with severe moisture stress.

If termites are suspected. the most important ones infesting rangelands in our areas would leave tell-tale signs of their presence in forms of tubular mud casts around the surface of the plant.

Other culprits under suspicion are the foot rot fungii of the Helminthisporium--Fusarium Complex. Recent tests indicated that a fungii complex that causes foot rot in wheat was isolated in grass samples collected from the High Plains. According to Dr. Phillip Colbaugh, plant pathologist, with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station in Dallas, this fungii complex infests the plant at the root crown, plugging up the roots, preventing nutrient transfer and eventually causing plant death.

Whatever the cause for the buffalograss decline, whether pathogenic, insect or drought related, the carrying capacity of the range has been reduced. Ranchers need to reduce animal numbers, so grazing pressure will decrease and allow the remaining desirable grasses to increase. If grazing pressure is not regulated properly then much of our perennial native grass-base could be lost to invading annual weeds and grasses. This is not the first so called grass decline', we have experienced and probably not the last. But, perhaps we will have some answers and be able to predict conditions favoring such 'declines' before they catch us by surprise.

Before dismissing an elderly person's forgetfulness by saying that he or she is just getting senile, take a look at what foods they're eating, the drugs they're taking, and their physical and emotional state. Although the majority of people termed "senile" do have a gradual, progressive condition commonly known as senility, approximately 10 percent of the

COOKING TOGETHER & SHARING THE FUN

NOTE TO PARENTS: Now, having read the previous two articles in this "Kids At Home On the Range" series, you are excited by the prospect of sharing kitchen experiences with your own children. You know that cooking can enrich family relationships, enhance a child's creativity and self-esteem, and help boys and girls develop valuable life skills.

Home economists at the Kraft Kitchens have developed the two recipes below to share making together. They are built around inexpensive, dishes children enjoy. Two more recipes will be suggested in later articles in this series.

The recipe steps are broken down to make organizing easier. Some steps like measuring water, can be handled even by a young child. Other steps may take adult-child cooperation, and others may require the adult to complete the task alone for safety reasons. As your child gains more experience, he can do more steps himself or with adult cooperation.

distinguish real senility from other, reversible and treatable disorders, however. One of the most common causes of "pseudosenility" (symptoms that look like senility but which have other causes) in senior citizens time, place and people, loss of is improper drug use. We tend to become more sensitife to drups as we age. We tend to to become more sensitive to drugs as we age. Also, an older person is more likely to take different drugs at the same time for many seperate complaints. Very frequently these drugs, although safe taken alone, react in unexpected ways when combined with other drugs. Side effects which seem like senility, for example lack of mental alertness, can occur. Even over-the-counter drugs can cause trouble when other medications are taken too. Both the pharmacist and physician should be informed of all the drugs--including over-the-counter drugs--that an older person is taking.

Real psuedo-senility also can mask such problems as alcoholism, or alcohol withdrawal. Nutritional deficiencies are common among the elderly. Many older people do not or cannot provide balanced diets for themselves. Some may require nutritional supplements, especially if they are on steady medication. Other physical problems which can either mimic or aggravate symptoms of senility are acute infections and metabolic disorders.

Depression too, can be mistaken for senility. It is unfortunately common to find elderly people living alone in isolation and boredom. Emotional disturbances often go undetected in nursing homes as well.

"Pseudo-senility" is most often suspected when a person is closer to 60 than 80, but it is possible at any age. Sometimes a surprisingly minor treatment can clear up these causes of so-called senility.

Is Your First Aid Kit As Well Stocked As Your Pantry?

Most homemakers keep their pantries and freezers well stocked so that they can serve nutritious meals to their families. Ask yourself if you have given the same time and consideration to your first aid kit or medicine cabinet, so that you can be prepared to meet minor emergencies.

Before answering, check your supplies against the list below. Do you have:

An open letter to my friend, the Republican

Dear Friend,
You'll have to understand how it was in my family when I was growing up. As a baby I used a "Harry Truman for President" button for a teething ring. I was lulled to sleep with "Rockabye, Democrat, in the treetop. When Republicans blow, the wind's always hot. When the bough breaks, the cradle will fall, and those damn Republicans are the cause of it all." (The fact is, I thought "Republican" was only part of the word, having heard "thosedamnRepublicans" so many times.)
As a teenager, I was warned not to date a member of the "other party", because the son of a Republican would make me pay for my own movie ticket. Moreover, I was told, quite firmly, "If you kiss a Republican you will get pregnant, and he will refuse to marry you, saying the baby will be a half-breed."

You see, I was taught early to wash my hands after meeting a Republican, to never smile at one because he would think he had my vote, and to shun Republican meeting places on the off-chance that I might be exposed to germs that my Democratic blood could not handle. I was trained to believe that Republicans eat worms, unless they can sell them for bait.

Well, my dear friend, I met you and I did not get acce. We became friends and lightning did not strike me. I even (don't tell my dad) hugged you goodbye the other day, and the rabbit is still alive.

So forgive me if I've been a bit stand-off-ish. It's just that it as taken me a while to discover that I like Republicans, even if me aren't Democrats.

Professor praises Japanese managers

COLLEGE STATION _ Manufacturing firms in this country may improve productivity by studying the Japanese style of management rather han their technology, says a management expert.

Since the end of World War II, the Japanese have been able to build almost anything faster, cheaper and, lately it seems, better than Americans. One reason, suggests Dr. Don Hellriegel of Texas A&M University's management department, is the Japanese attention to the human aspects of life in the workplace.

Hellriegel said while U.S. managers tend to highly rate aggressiveness, individuality and conflict as measures of achievement, the opposite is found for Japanese managers.

Other sites are Dalhart and Hereford.

Funded by the National Endowment for the Humanities, the series is a project of the University of Mid-America at Lincoln, Neb., and implemented by nine libraries nationwide. UMA is a consortium of 11 universities in 7 midwestern states created in 1974 to develop and experi-ment with nontraditional programs for adults. UMA chose the Amarillo Public Library to implement the project in Texas. Cooperating with the Amarillo library is Panhandle-

Plains Historical Museum in Canyon. Also involved are program leaders from PPH Museum, West Texas State University, and the public libraries and museums of four area towns: Dalhart, Hereford. Shamrock, and Spearman. These libraries and museums will utilize local artifacts, library sources, relevant art, and special museum exhibits created for the series.

Discussion leaders are Dr. Federick W. Rathjen, Dr. Peter L. Peterson, and Dr. Garry Nall, professors of his-tory, WTSU; William C. Griggs and Bobby Weaver, PPH Museum; and Roberta D. Speer, archaeologist with Killgore Research Center. Each will introduce the film with a presentation of the theme which adapts it to the special Panhandle Plains experience.

"The Land", according to Rathjen, is about the environment of the Plains, how it affects all its inhabitants, and how man has affected the environment since his first appearance on the Plains in prehistoric times. During the widely-attended Amarillo and Canyon series, Rathjen recalls concern expressed for dwindling water supplies on the Other program themes are "The Lakota: One Nation on the Plains"; "Clash of Cultures"; "The Settling of the Plains'; "Heirs to No Man's Land" (The Dust Bowl Years) and "Four Portraits: Challenges and Changes." The project's purpose is to promote understanding and apprecia-tion of area history as it relates to the interaction of the land and the people, according to Bryon Price, PPH Museum curator of history.

Price, together with Carol Daffern, curator of exhibits design at PPH Museum, has participated with local mus-eums in planning exhibits for each program. Mary Louise Loyd of Amarillo Public Library is project director, with Anite G. Pitts, assistant. Dr. Joe F. Taylor, retired, Amarillo College history department, is evaluator for the
