Serving McLean and the Area Since 1903

The McLean Ex-Students Reunion is over again for a few years (either two or four years, depending on what the Association finally decides), and we now have time to sit back and think about all the changes in our old friends. Although I am not a graduate of McLean High School, I taught there long enough to have many friends among the ex-students who return for these reunions.

This year the class of 1966 made a special effort to get together to celebrate their fifteenth anniversary. Joe and Kay Magee worked many long hours to contact all the members of Joe's class and planned several special acti-vities for them, including a party Friday night, and then the presentation of awards at the class meeting Saturday afternoon. The awards were for the person who traveled the farthest to come, the boy who changed the least, the person with the most gray hair, and other fun things!

This bunch were always a special group. As their teacher, I was the object of some of their fun when they were in high school. They seemed to have a real inclination for hiding little animals, bugs and other creepy things in my desk, my purse, my jacket, anywhere that would elicit a scream from this nervous teacher.

I was so young when I taught them (or at least it seems that way now) that we did a great deal of growing up together. The group was really hard hit, a few years after their graduation, when three of their members died within just a few months of each other. Clovis Bible and Jimmy Keen were both killed in car wrecks, and Val Sharp was killed in Viet Nam. There was a lot of talk about those missing members at the reunion this weekend, and we all enjoyed exchanging stories about their high school adventures. The class of '66 has really traveled the world, too. Doyle McCurley and his wife came from far-off Montana, and George Green and his wife drove up from Midland, but they have just recently returned from two years in Saudi Arabia Martina Giesler Hergenrother and her husband Fred have just recently returned from two years in Turkey. Jeanne Anders Caho and her husband came all the way from St. Louis, Mo. to attend the reunion. So many others came and you'll find their names and places of residence listed in another part of this paper. I think all the exes enjoyed this reunion. The weather was good (although terribly hot), and all the events were well planned. Rodeo officials said they had record crowds at both performances, and the parade was undoubtedly one of the best in McLean in recent

During the business meeting at the park, the group voted to have the next reunion in 1985 and then have the meetings every five years; however, many of the exes said that they could not hear what was going on and that they were opposed to the change. The new officers of the association will have to decide what to do about this. It seems the older exes enjoy the more frequent reunions, so

Dry weather, good pub-licity, and outstanding stock third brought record crowds to the two performances of the annual McLean 66 Roundup and Rodeo last weekend. According to officials of the sponsoring organizations, the Mc-Lean Roping Club and the McLean Lions Club, between 600 and 700 people attended each of the two performances. The rodeo, which was plagued for many years by drenching rains storms, played both nights in a dry arena. The Roping Club also sponsored a ranch cutting horse contest, and a ranch horse race in conjunction with the rodeo.

Winners in the cutting horse ontest Friday afternoon were Kenneth Morris, first; Butch Turpen, second; and Johnny Rex McClellan on a Brass RO Ranch horse, third.

In the ranch horse race Saturday afternoon, Cindy Sherrod of McLean repeated her last year's win to take the first prize money for the second time. Two years ago, Miss Sherrod won second in the race. Placing second this year was Berry Smith of Hereford. Chuck Brass of McLean

Roping Club president Mike Darsey said that the cooperation among the workers was the reason for the success of the rodeo. "We can't begin to thank the many, many people who worked hard to get this rodeo organized and who worked each night in hundreds of jobs. It takes everyone to put this on each year, and I sure appreciate everyone's help," Darsey told The Mc-Lean News.

Israelis Strike Again!

Newspaper columnists and editorial writers throughout the United States last week struggled valiantly with the question of the Israeli attack on the nuclear reactor in Iraq. Although most of the writers agreed that the act should be condemned by international law, and the bombing was a flagrant violation of accepted behavior, in nearly every column a tone of admiration crept into the condemnation.

In many instances, newspaper columnists reflect the attitudes of the people around them, and like most Americans. we're tired of our government pussy-footing attitude toward terrorists and other thugs.

When terrorist grabbed Israeli citizens and held them hostages, the tough commandos of that country staged a lightning raid and freed their people. When terrorists grabbed 52 American citizens and held them hostage, we stood around wringing our hands and begging for their release. When the Israelis are engaged in war, they end it in 100 days. When we entered Viet Nam, we prolonged the agony as long as possible, and finally tucked our tails between our legs and, for all practical purposes, surrendered to the enemy.

Perhaps the Israeli attack was against international law, but if you lived next door to a proven homicidal maniac who was protected by the law, and you watched him putting sticks of dynamite around the edge of your property, what would you do?

Perhaps we all need to re-think our definition of world law. Since the advent of international terrorism in 1968, the maniacs have rewritten the rule book. Is it any surprise that we are losing when we continue to play by rules that have long since been invalidated by the reality of the random slaughter by terrorist

I don't know about you, but if we get into another war, I hope those flagrant law-breakers, the Israelis, are on our side. I like

Whatever is decided, this on was definitely a success and everyone involved should be congratulated. ***

By the time you read this Lisa and I will be on our way to Fort Worth for the Texas Press Association meeting. I was probably the only person in the nation who was praying for the air controllers to go on strike. Since the strike is settled we are flying to Fort Worth; otherwise, we would have driven down.

I am taking daughters Sally and Dollie, and this is the first flight for Dollie. I wanted her to fly for the first time with some people who love to fly, so that perhaps she will not inherit my white knuckles. Lisa and Sally are both seasoned travelers and have no qualms about crawling on that ridiculous aluminum tube.

One of the reasons we are making the trip is that we were notified by TPA that we had won a state award. This makes the third year in a row that we have won something in state competition, and we are very excited about it. The In memory of Jack Bogan, Morse Ivey, S.B. Many of you have been nice enough to comment favorably on the special edition of The McLean News which was published for the McLean omecoming and rodeo week-In memory of Jim McCarty, Val Sharp, Johnny Evans end.

In addition to the hardworking members of The Mc-Lean News staff, three people in the printing shop of The Pampa News deserve a special thank you from us. They put in several long hours printing the many pictures which you saw in that edition, and their craftsmanship and expertise is in large part responsible for the looks of our paper each week. So a special thank you to B.J., Mark and Rose Ann of the Pampa News for their continued outstanding work in our behalf. Members of The McLean News staff who worked overtime (some in spite of illness) to insure that the paper got to press were Lisa Patman, Sam Haynes, Sally Haynes, Connie Dwyer, Kathy Carter, Allen Patman and Bob Patman. LIBRARY NOTES by Sam Haynes

Carrie Young This interesting story of a couple who traded a split-level home in the city for a pony farm in Ohio will be interesting to anyone who has ever lived on a farm or had visited in the country, or marveled at the many wonderful things that seem to happen there. Carrie Young and her hus-band obtained their farm during the pony boom of the early 1950's, and embarked on an unusual yet often painful ex-perience which taught them that life in the country and the people there were as interesting as individualistic.

The family's problems were further complicated by a tre-mendous slump in the pony market which forced the father, Witt, to return to the city and earn a living and the remainder of the family to face the realities of making things work in an area in which they were total neophytes and in which the people were as different (although loveable) as their new environment.

Go with the family in this story through droughts and floods, pony auctions, stray dogs and cats, and ducks allergic to water, as they find their niche in their new life and finally come to be a part of the land they learn to love.

Saving Social Security

The Good News: Congress is going to do something about it this year.

ment income, not replace it. (OASI), is tilting out of balance with the percentage of benefits paid out narrowing dangerously closer to the the system. In 1950, 16.5 Americans were paying taxes to support one retiree. Last year, the ratio was down to only 3.2 to 1.

Although in 1965, 1970 and 1977 Congress acted to shore up the system, several developments have jeopardized its short-term fiscal health. Persistent inflation has cheapened the benefit dollar returned to retirees; unemployment has meant fewer people paying into the system; additional benefits have been added by Congress over the years, benefits not originally planned during the system's creation; and, finally, the national trend toward an older population has meant more recipients, even though many people are working more years before employers to strengthen the main trust fund. I am generally opposed to this idea because in my opinion those taxes are high enough already, particularly for younger taxpayers. Such action would only be a shortterm answer to a long-term problem. Instead, one plan much-discussed in the Social Security Subcommittee would do three things to stabilize the system. First, it would replenish the OASI fund with money from the large surplus in the underutilized Medicare Trust Fund. Second, the plan would tighten the way the cost-of-living (COLA) factor is determined. Third, the plan would modify the percentage of benefits paid to someone

Some people have suggested that Congress merely by wage earners and present 80% at 62 to 64% and phase this in gradually over ten years. The controversial Reagan proposal would have allowed only 55% of full benefits at 62 and would have begun immediately. I think that is too low, comes too soon and is an unfair breech of contract between present retirees and their government,

The House Ways and Means Committee is considering several different proposals and I expect legislation will come to the floor in the next few months. No President, no Congress, could or would let a major program affecting 35 million Americans each month go broke. I will work for a solution that will be practical and fair. The American public expects, and certainly deserves, to be sure their government will uphold its end of the security commitment.

There is both Good News and Bad News to report on the Social Security system. First, the Bad News: the system is in financial trouble and may be in danger of running a deficit as early as 1982 if nothing is done about it.

Although few realize it, the system was established in 1935 to supplement retire-Today, 35 million Americans depend on social security. The problem essentially is this: the largest of the three trust funds comprising the system, the Old Age Survivors Insurance Fund

That letter going on strike was good for a spell of sitting around thinking of what might happen if all the "s" all over the world were suddenly to vanish. (Sorry, folks, I'd type it in if I could, ut it just isn't eing cooperative.)

difference would the size of a woman's reasts, or the measurements of a man's iceps make? Who would give a second look at a girl with a great ody? And who, may I ask, would want to worry over irth control? See, nothing sounds nearly so terrific without that little letter.

That missing letter would help even the economy. Without one the national deficit would fall from its present high to a few measly millions. We would have only nice, dark-colored, credit columns in our ledgers, since that other awful word, the one that heads the red column, would lack its full impact without all its letters. And storekeepers would never dun us, for what kind of fool would send an ill in the mail?

Manufacture And Use Of Drugs In Texas Increases

Washington, D.C.--Sen-ator Lloyd Bentson on Thursday said the illegal manufacture and use of drugs in Texas increased by 63 percent during 1980. Bentsen said he has been advised by the Drug Enforcement Administration that, while the illicit manufacture and use of such drugs as heroine and PCP declined during the year, abuse of cocaine and dangerous drugs such as methamphetamine increased dramatically.

"The D.E.A. has provided me with preliminary estimates which indicate that the retail value of drugs illegally manu-factured and used in Texas increased from some $640 million in 1979 to over $1 billion in 1980," Bentsen said. "While we can take some comfort in the fact that heroine use in our state has declined and we've seen a heartening reduction in the manufacture of PCP, known as 'angel dust'--which I consider the most dangerous illicit drug in use today--the overall picture indicates that we are losing the estimates released by Bentsen heroin usage in Texas declined from 406 pounds in 1979 to 140 pounds in 1980; marijuana use declined slightly, from 1.5 million pounds to 1.25 million pounds; cocaine use in the state jumped from 490 pounds to 800 pounds and the amount of dangerous drugs manufactured in the state--primarily methamphetamine, known among crug users as "speed" rose dramatically from 200 million dos. ge units in 1979 to 800 million units in 1980.

The figures given to Bentsen are preliminary ones. Official D.E.A. estimates on U.S. drug activity during 1980 are slated for release within the next several weeks.

'I am pleased to report that 'angel dust' manufacture 'n Texas decreased from 200,00 units in 1979 to 150,000 in 1980, according to these estimates. The President signed into law in 1978 my legislation making it harder to obtain piperidine--one of the key ingredients in this drug-and law has been of benefit in their efforts to curtail 'angel dust' abuse," Bentsen said.

"I won't be completely happy, though, until we completely eliminate this drug--which can literally drive people crazy--as a threat to Americans. Bentsen has other anti-drug legislation pending in the current Congress. One such measure, for example, sharply stiffens the penalty for pilots involved in drug smuggling. Currently the Federal Aviation Act provides only a $1,000 fine

HOME CANNING: Difference in Water Bath and Pressure Processing in Home Canning

Have you wondered about the differences in water-bath and pressure cooker processing of foods in home canning?

The water-bath method is used for processing fruits, rhubarb, and tomatoes and is done using a pan with a lid and rack. The rack is used to hold the jars off the bottom of the cooker. The pan is large enough to cover the jars with one to two inches of water, so that the jars are surrounded with boiling water. The lid is used to help retain the heat. The acid in some fruits and vegetables helps prevent the growth of some bacteria which is the reason water-bath process can be used.

However, low acid fruits and vegetables must be canned using the pressure cooker. The spores ("seeds") of some bacteria are highly resistant to heat, which makes it necessary for them to be destroyed by high heat. This is accomplished with the pressure cooker

What are foods processed by these methods? The waterbath is used for such foods as peaches, plums and tomatoes. The pressure cooker is used for such foods as beets, peas, corn, beans, greens and okra. Buying Fruits and Vegetables

for Home Canning
Do you wonder how many fruits and vegetables to buy for home canning? You can expect to get about 30 to 44 pints of peaches from one bushel of peaches. You can expect 30 to 40 pints of snap beans from one bushel of green beans. Knowing this can help you decide if it is economical for you to buy beans for home canning. For infor-mation on yields of other fruits and vegetables call or write the Gray County Extension Agent for a copy of B-194 "Home Canning Fruits and

How are they canned? Just wash, drain and cap them as though you were preparing them for eating fresh. Fill clean jars to 1/2 inch of the top of the jar, shaking the berries down for a full pack. Cover them with boiling syrup; made with 2 cups sugar and 4 cups of water---a thin syrup or add more sugar if you prefer them sweeter. Leave 1/2 inch space at top of the jar. wipe off the sealing surface of the jar and close according to the type of lid being used following the manufacturer's directions.

Place the jars in a water bath canner which is a large container with a rack in the bottom to hold the jars about one inch from the bottom. It should be tall enough to have space to cover the jar with about one to two inches of water and about the same amount of space above the water. The water should be hot but not boiling when you place the filled jars in the canner. Place lid on canner and bring the water to a rolling boil. but reduce the heat, just to boiling.
