It was the best of times because my brother, whom I have not seen in over two years, just appeared on my doorstep Friday afternoon, with no warning. He and the rest of my family had plotted a giant conspiracy to surprise me with his visit. and "surprise" hardly describes my reaction.

Up until he moved to Florida, James and I saw each other at least twice a year, and talked on the phone every month or so. Since we lost our parents a few years ago, we have grown closer and closer, but after his move south, we had not been able to visit. As the months stretched into years. I found it more and more difficult to talk to him on the phone without crying. And like the good brother he is, he realized that I had just about reached my limit!

He called my daughter and my sister and they conspired to gather the family without alerting me. The frosting on the cake, however, was Friday afternoon about 2 p.m. when he called me...from Florida, I thought.

We joked about when we would see each other, since so many plans for reunions have been ruined in the last year. He promised this time that the next business trip he took would be routed through Amarillo. "Sure,"I laughed. "I've heard that several times before."

"If I fly into Amarillo, would you drive over to get me?" he asked.

"Of course not!" I joked. "You're making so much money on that new job rent a Cadillac and drive over yourself!"

"I promise that the next plane I get on will be coming to Amarillo," said

I laughed again, because his business takes him all over the country, but never, never to Amarillo.

"Okay," I said. See DISTAFF, Page 2

Exemption, Rendition Forms Mailed

Forms on which to apply for homestead and over-65 exemptions were mailed Monday by Shirley Johnson, tax assessor-collector for McLean Independent School District and the City of McLean. Mrs. Johnson said every taxpayer should be receiving an envelope which will contain a variety of documents, depending on what the taxpayer owns.

"There are new forms this year," Mrs. Johnson "The forms are prescribed by the State home rendition, water craft Property Tax Board and may be confusing for the taxpayer."

Mailed out were the following forms: over-65 and residential homestead exemption form, a general real estate rendition form, personal property rendition, open space exemption for productive value (ag use value), farm implement ex-

"I believe my conservative philosophy and common-sense approach to the complex national problems we face represent the views of the vast majority of the people of this area,"Hightower said.

Hightower was a founding member of the Conservative Democratic Forum in the House, which advocates conservative tax and budget policies. He joined other conservative Democrats in supporting the major elements of the Administration's budget and tax reduc tion program in 1981.

"President Reagan received a nationwide mandate to reverse spending policies which have driven the nation into excessive debt while imposing high taxation on the people,"he said. "This is bipartisan program and I believe it is imperative that Democrats and Republicans work together to restore our economic strength."

Vocabulary Lesson

Attention, class. Today we will have a lesson in the vocabulary of politics. As a qualified voter, you must learn to speak the language of your candidates, which consists primarily of catch phrases and buzz words. Please memorize the following definitions before the May 1 primary so that you can read press releases intelligently.

Grass roots support: All candidates desire this and claim to have it, although no one knows what it means. Faint if you ever hear a candidate say he has "concrete streets support.

Conservative: In 1982, all candidates in the Panhandle of Texas will claim this label. It is now one of those "buzz" words which automatically implies integrity, honesty, fiscal responsibility, and love of God, mother, apple pie, and country. Investigate any candidate in Texas who says he himself is a "wild-eye liberal." (Note that most candidates will claim to be more conservative than their opponents. Don't take this too seriously; it's mandatory in the political atmosphere this year.)

Liberal Establishment: A candidate can claim his opponent is a part of this shadowy group, possibly made up of the national press, big money (see definition below), Yankees, and other undesirables.

Party Line and Rubber Stamp: Two catch phrases that a candidate will use against his opponent. Republicans accuse Democrats of always following the "party line". whatever that is. Democrats accuse Republicans of being 'rubber stamps'' to the President, whatever that means. Big Money: Although many candidates, especially for state and national offices, are millionaires, they never, never represent the interests of "big money." However, their opponents usually do. When Bill Clements uses the phrase, he obviously is referring to millionaires who are taller than he is. When Lloyd Bentsen uses the phrase, he obviously is referring to fat millionaires.

Although this list is not complete, if you learn these definitions you may be able to understand the political gobbledygook which will fill the pages of newspapers and airwaves in the next few months. If you can skim out the nonsense, and find a candidate who answers questions honestly, without double-talk, support his campaign. But when you catch a politician using obvious propaganda, do your best to see that he is defeated.

After all the bottom line in government is to get grass roots supports, throw out the liberal establishment and the big money interests, avoid the party line and the appearance of being a rubber stamp, and promote conservative interests. Isn't it?

I can't describe to you the joy that I felt to see him. I have been horrified that we would be like so many families, and just allow distance and business to keep us apart, so that our children don't even know each other. I have seen it happen too many times to families who never see each other except at funerals. and I didn't want that to happen to us. Life is just too short to stay away from people you love.

So, to see him, and talk to him, and know that he was really healthy and happy and enjoying his job, made it a very good time for me.

But my joy was tempered by the tragedy our town was living through last weekend and that tragedy made the day the worst of times.

It has been many years since McLean lost one of its teenagers in an accident. Rhonda Herndon's death Thursday night has been a blow to the whole town, not just because she was so

Another method enacted last session to keep drunk drivers off the streets is to raise the penalties. While the maximum penalty for a second conviction of the offense of driving while intoxicated was two years in jail plus a fine, it is now five years in the penitentiary plus a $5,000 fine.

We enacted the DWI school because it works. We have to take a realistic view of the world in the Legislature, and if something works, we're for it.

But if the student does not get the idea from the school, we will try to teach him another way - with five years in prison.

We hope these two "schools" will teach people a simple lesson - if you drink don't drive. If the first semester, the DWI school, doesn't do the trick. the second semester in prison probably will.

Top Teens Bullish On America

NORTHBROOK, ILL - Just one year ago, 19% of the nation's outstanding teenagers expressed a great deal of faith in the office of the presidency. Today, 45% of the teen leaders say they have tremendous faith in the country's number one office.

This dramatic change is recorded in the results of the 12th Annual Survey of High Achievers conducted by the publishers of "Who's Who Among American High School Students." Some 22,000 student leaders participated in the survey.

In the latest survey, threequarters of the respondents expressed support for Mr. Reagan's proposed federal spending cuts and 67% listed the economy as the President's first national priority.

If the top ranking students had the option to tell government what to do with their tax dollars, 82% would support education. More than twothirds would allocate funds to defense and 67% would put their money towards energy resource development.

Considering national issues, eight out of ten students advocate mandatory registration of handguns. Yet three-quarters think criminals will still get guns and use them.

A fair majority (56%) of the teens favor mandatory draft registration and in the case of Third World conflicts where communist nations are involved, 48% would send "military advisors." Further, these teens would favor U.S. military intervention if a communist country were the aggressor in South/Central America (68%). Europe (70%) and the Middle East (48%). Some 68% favor the use of nuclear power as an energy source and a little more than that number (69%) are in support of capital punishment. It would appear that the nation's teen leaders take a hard line in dealing with national and global issues.

The fort in fortnight is a contraction of fourteen; the word is actually an abbreviation for "fourteen nights."

HEART "TONIC"

A group of some of the most useful medicines available for your use today comes to us from plants. These medicines cause the ailing heart to pump blood in a smooth, regular manner. The diseased heart that is rapidly and inefficiently pumping is slowed...each stroke pumping more blood to the demanding body. These medicines could be thought to "rejuvenate" the heart...to give it new life.

These medicines...collectively called the digitalis glycosides...include several individual medicines. Some of the most common are digoxin, digitoxin, and designoside. The digitalis plant leaf is ground, standardized, and made into tablets and called digitalis leaf. All of these products are better known by their various trade names.

The major uses for the digitalis glycosides are treati. ant of congestive heart failure and certain cardiac arrhythmias (when the heart does not beat in a "regular" or "normal" manner). In these conditions, "digitalis" is truly a lifesaver. But even lifesavers have their problems...digitalis is no exception. These potent medicines can cause toxicity (severe adverse effects) if taken in doses slightly larger than those commonly used. The digitalis preparations must be used exactly as directed by the physician...no more, no less.

It's hard to be a once-ayear tax expert, but many people would realize tax savings just by knowing how to take advantage of the current tax rules. For example, here are basic, but very important, tax tips from H & R Block, Inc. which should help you save regardless of income level

· Know deductions and credits. This one sounds familiar, but it is impossible to keep good records unless and what isn't-for those important deductions and credits. Did you know, for example, that you can deduct many expenses related to looking for work? The cost of driving to and from the doctor's office? The expense of many energy related improvements even if you rent rather than own your home?

It pays to become informed, or talk with your tax preparer about which tax breaks many people tend to miss out on. You'll need to start now to keep accurate records for filing your 1982 taxes, to realize maximum savings.

Senator Lloyd Bentsen

Watching Washington Federal law, the Controlled Substances Act, has historically distinguished between "narcotic" and "non-narcotic" drugs. As a result, penalties for trafficking in "non-narcotic" drugs are much lighter.

However, the historical distinction between narcotic and nonnarcotic substances loses its validity when you examine current patterns of drug abuse and consider that drugs like quaaludes, LSD, "angel dust" and amphetamines are classified as non-narcotics.

Recently I introduced legislation to sharply increase criminal penalties for illegal trafficking in such drugs.

My bill, in line with a recommendation by the General Accounting Office (GAO), would eliminate the distinction in penalties between "narcotic" and "non-narcotic" drugs listed in Schedules I and II of the Controlled Substances Act.

Right now, trafficking in narcotic drugs is punishable by a maximum 15 year prison sentence and a $25,000 fine, while the dealer in non-narcotic drugs listed in Schedules I and II is subject to a jail term of only five years plus a $15,000 fine.

My bill would require that all traffickers in dangerous drugs listed under those schedules be punished by imprisonment of up to 15 years and a fine of $25,000. Second offenders would face 30 years in jail and a $50,000 fine.

Narcotic drugs in Schedules I and II include heroin, morphine and codeine. Non-narcotic drugs in those two schedules include methaqualone (quaalude), LSD, phencyclidine (angel dust) and amphetamines.

There is, for example, no more dangerous drug used illegally today than angel dust. And while my legislation, passed in 1978 to clamp down on angel dust abuse is proving helpful, more needs to be done.

A recent GAO study reviewed cases involving 68 clandestine laboratories which were shut down by the Drug Enforcement Administration. These laboratories were manufacturing nonnarcotic drugs listed in Schedules I and II. Two out of every three of the 153 violators arrested in conjunction with these lab shutdowns got off either scot-free or received prison sentences of three years or less

The legislation I propose will put those persons who traffic in poisons like angel dust, LSD and speed on notice that-once they are caught-they will face more than a slap on the wrist. Law enforcement officials will have renewed incentive to concentrate on putting these clandestine operations out of business. And, ultimately, my bill will help focus attention on the serious problems that result from abuse of so-called "non-narcotic"

HOMEMAKER NEWS

Are you drinking less milk these days because of higher prices? If so, then you are losing money, not to mention nutrients. Even with today's higher prices, milk alone offers greater amounts of calcium, protein and other nutrients than many other foods combined, no matter how many you eat. For that reason, milk still ranks among consumer all-time best buys.

For example, to get the all-important nutrient calcium, consumers can turn to dark leafy greens, of course, but it would take enormous quantities to provide just one day's requirement for adults. Two glasses of milk provide the calcium an adult needs. Or eight ounces of cheese, yogurt or cottage cheese will do the same.

Calcium is not the only benefit, though. At the same time, these two glasses of milk provide a significant amount of the high quality protein you need every day. In addition, the two glasses are a good source of the vitamin A you need every day (if the milk is "whole" or "fortified"). and they're a good source of

CAPITOL UPDATE

Enterprise and determination are among the key elements of the American spirit. Nowhere are these qualities displayed in more abundance than by our nation's disabled citizens.

People who have had to overcome disabilities to become educated, set up homes and move around their cities have shown us what can be accomplished through determination, a strong motivation to succeed and, in many instances, a great deal of ingenuity.

Employers have discovered that their disabled employees who possess these qualities make excellent workers. We have developed more sensitivity toward the needs of disabled Americans, and begun to realize that we as a people have an obligation and a need to bring the disabled into the mainstream of society.

The International Year of Disabled Persons in 1981 helped focus attention on the problems and needs of the 35 million Americans who are affected by physical or mental disabilities throughout their lives -- as well as the even more numerous temporary disabilities most Americans face at one time or another. A Senate resolution awaiting House action would make 1982 the National Year of Disabled Persons to continue this effort.

The disabled ask only that they be given the opportunity to participate fully in American society -- its work, its recreation, and its commerce.

Some of these activities -- most notably, education -are the responsibility of federal, state or local governments. But increased public awareness has increased the private sector's role in this effort. This partnership of government, private organizations, employers, and individual citizens holds great promise for a brighter future for the disabled.

A nation's most valuable resource is its people. And we cannot afford to overlook what our disabled citizens have to offer. As individuals, our lives would be far less rich without knowing and coming into regular contact with our disabled neighbors. As a parent, I know that our children need the example of courage and determination demonstrated by disabled citizens.

I hope that all of us will be more aware of how we can contribute to the goal of full participation in society by the disabled, not just during designated years, but until the

be the annual Valentine Ball. Nominated for princesses were Sonie Bybee, Billie Kingston, and Lynda Sufrett. One of the three will be named Valentine Queen at the banquet.

Because much of our lives is spent in frustration over the telephone, I thought you might like this little story, which clearly illustrates the entanglements of the jingaling.

Mr. Throckmorton-Warty, aware of the many pressures his socialite wife was experiencing, hired a full-time maid to cover those household tasks for which his beloved spouse no longer had time. On the first day the maid was to report for work. Throckmorton-Warty phoned from his office to see how everything was going.

"Hullo?" a very maid-like voice answered. "I should like to speak to the lady of the house," said Throckmorton-Warty in his most cultured, I-am-the-boss

"I am terribly sorry, sir," the maid replied frostily, "but Madame has left orders that she not be disturbed. Not to be ouf-frosted, Throckmorton-Warty warbled, "Tell Madame that her husband is on the phone and would like a word with her.

"I'm afraid that is impossible, sir. Madame was very firm about not calling her to the telephone for any reason," said the obedient girl.

"Harrumph," said Throckmorton-Warty. "Please keep in mind that it was I who hired you in the first place.

Now call my wife to the telephone! "I'm really sorry, sir," the poor maid trembled, "but Madame said she would fire me if I disturbed her."

By this time Throckmorton-Warty was beginning to lose his frost, so to speak. "Just what in the heck is she doing, anyway?" he bellowed at the poor girl. "Well, quite frankly, sir, Madame is in the back room with another man," came the reply.

"Holy Toledo!" shouted Throckmorton-Warty. "Enough is enough. Take my revolver out of the desk in the study, go into the back room, and shoot both of them!"

"Yes sir," whisperered the frightened maid as she laid side the receiver.

Throckmorton-Warty heard the maid's retreating footsteps, two shots, and a few minutes later the maid's voice as she reported, "I've done just as you ordered,

"Right-O!" cheered Throckmorton-Warty. "Now tell me, what did you do with the gun?" "Oh," chirped the maid, "I threw it into the swimming

To which Throckmorton-Warty inquired "What swimming pool? We don't have a swimming pool Say, is this 555-2501?.....No?.....Oh, sorry, wrong number."

MARCO AND MARTY — SHARE THEIR HOPE

Eight-year-old Marco Cordova met Marty Mim Mack, a 20-year-old college student when the two California boys teamed up with the March of Dimes to make a short film about how they cope with their birth defects. Marty shares his strength and optimism in overcoming physical problems which he and Marco have in common. Both boys were born without arms and with other handicaps, but both look at life with confidence. The March of Dimes cares about youngsters like Marco and Marty and is dedicated to the goal of freeing future generations from birth defects.

ON THE ROAD in front of Marco's home, he and Marty Mim Mack talk over their problems and hopes. Both were born ut arms and with other birth defects. Both have joined the March of Dimes campaign to help prevent birth defects.

MARCO CORDOVA, an eight-year-old farm boy from Watsonville, California, loves to ride his pony. Although he took several spills while learning to stay on, he uses his metal hooks to hold the reins. Marco has been helping the March of Dimes as its poster child in California as well as co-starring in "Marco and Me", with his friend Marty.

COXSWAIN on the University of Santa Clara rowing team Marty Mim Mack is a 20-year-old sophmore who hasn't allowed his birth defects to keep him from doing a lot of the things he wants to do. Marty, who thinks he may become an announcer after graduation, was the March of Dimes National Poster Child in 1970 and 1971 and still keeps up his volunteer work with the voluntary health organization.

GONE FISHING - Marco and Marty take time out to be together on a California creek bank. "He's like my shadow, Marty says of his young friend. Marty often gives what time he can spare from college studies, to help other children like Marco born with birth defects

Houston Waman Found Guilty Of Social Security Fraud

A Houston, Texas Federal Jury has found Patricia Ann Mitchell of 2002 Staples in Houston guilty of falsifying applications for Social Security benefits.

According to Larry Mayo, Branch Manager of the Pampa Social Security Office, Mrs. Mitchell had made falst statements on benefit claims for herself and on behalf of her two children, and she had concealed the fact that her children were already re-
