HOME TOWN TALK

Looks like winter has just about been killed off. Can't be sorry. This is a lazy day, but a beautiful one. One of those days when you can tell a Californian the home state has nothing on West Texas.

Of course we have sandstorms. They have quakes.

Lightness of the vote this morning in the city election is not surprising. As often said in this column we West Texas Americans vote more with our feelings than our thinking faculties.

There has not been enough of soap box oratory and blood and thunder hand bills to create much of a feeling one way or the other.

Therefore, we take it, the folks who do vote today will go to the polls and express opinions as to the candidates that have been arrived at through cool consideration of the list.

The ideal that we ought to strive toward is to get a heavy vote without stirring up a lot of "feeling." But that's hard to do.

Tomorrow the election will be over. But Big Spring will still be here, the city commission will still be here with plenty of work to do and plenty of cussing to absorb, no matter who happens to be elected today.

Fellow said the other day that the Herald was bound to support a certain pair of candidates. That fellow did not know whereof he spoke. The Herald does not support any man for any office.

When the Herald or any other newspaper gets into a position where any man or set of men can make it support any candidate it had better get out or give the whole plant and business to the fellows who hold the power over it.

A newspaper that through fairness in its news columns and tolerance in its editorial columns maintains the right sort of independence is indispensable to a community.

A newspaper that can be bent and compromised, and does not maintain ideals of fairness to the public is a liability to the community and, before long, will become a liability to the owners.

Speaking of selling your products, the McKesson-Crowdus company, manufacturers and wholesalers of drug preparations and sundries, has hit upon a neat method of carrying its message to the public.

The banquet tendered here last evening by the company offered druggists a fine meal, some sound advice from successful men in the business, some graphic object lessons in merchandising—and the McKesson-Crowdus line of merchandise. The affair was enjoyable and was conducted in such a manner that no guest went away feeling the company had attempted to hook him into buying its goods or had suggested anything but the public.

Seven candidates are seeking the two offices. They are H. Hinman and W. A. Gilmore, incumbents, J. L. Webb, Walter Yasstine, O. H. McCollister, L. L. Freeman, and W. J. Wooster.

DALLAS, April 7 (AP)—Many Texas cities today held city elections. At Fort Worth the vote was light, all councilmen seeking reelection without opposition.

Six councilmen sought reelection at Beaumont without opposition.

Dallas will elect nine councilmen who will hire a city manager preparatory to that form of government which becomes effective May 1st.

John R. Miller sought a fourth term as Borger's mayor. Miller was the first mayor of Borger, resigning in 1929, and subsequently regaining the position.

Austin's election yesterday returned Mayor P. W. McFadden, Houston's general city election is set for next Monday with Mayor Walter E. Monteth seeming certain of reelection.

Galveston's election is set for May 12. Innumerable other cities are electing today. The state is reported generally quiet, with no disturbances occurring.

MRS. NAT G. ROLLINS

SESSION OF THREE DAYS IS LAUNCHED

Rev. Bailey Administrates Holy Communion; Delegates Gather

WATSON WELCOMES

Mrs. N. G. Rollins Presides At First Business Meeting

The Northwest Texas Conference of the Women's Missionary Society of the Southern Methodist church convened this morning at 8:30 at the First Methodist church, with a good crowd in attendance of delegates and local women, and visiting ministers.

The meeting proper was opened with the sacrament of the Lord's supper administered by the Rev. W. G. Bailey, pastor of the local church assisted by the Rev. O. P. Clark, presiding elder of the Sweetwater district, the Rev. Cal Wright of Snyder, the Rev. I. A. Smith of Stanton, the Rev. D. D. Dennison of Meadow, and the Rev. J. F. Isabel of Ft. Worth.

This was followed by a memorial service for members of the W.M.S. who had died during the year. Mrs. J. A. Britain, of Seymour, conducted a beautiful service, reading the eighth Psalm and selected from the flower-filled platform, a basket of various flowers associated with the virtues of the deceased workers. Mrs. Rollins ended the service with a tribute to Mrs. F. F. Stephens, deceased president of the W.M. Council.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Keaton sang a duet, "The Invisible Land," accompanied by Mrs. Charles Morris, who will be pianist for all of the musical service of the conference. Mrs. Morris gave a short musical prelude during the administration of the sacrament and the memorial service.

Business Session

The business meeting of the meeting was called to order by Mrs. Nat G. Rollins, of Abilene, president of the conference. Mrs. Rollins used a new gavel made for the occasion from an oak tree under which Wesley preached to the Indians in Georgia.

C. T. Watson, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, extended an invitation of welcome to the visitors, invited them to see the show places of the city, such as scenic Drive, and to make themselves at home.

Following the completion of business for the morning, Mrs. Rollins gave the president's address reviewing the work of the past year and urging the members to greater efforts for the future. She spoke of the national situation of 1930; the need for law enforcement; of the accomplishments of the Methodist church, the creation of the Christian Education Board and the new unified program which was worked out by the conference. She then turned in detail to call attention to the work of the missionary department, its work in foreign missions and missions of the homeland.

Her report was followed by that of the vice-president given by Mrs. Carolyn of Amarillo, recording secretary, along with her own report.

The remainder of the morning was devoted to reports from the Extension department as follows: conference, Mrs. J. Frank Potts; Abilene, Mrs. W. H. Myatt; Amarillo, Mrs. R. I. Graves; Clarendon, Mrs. S. L. Seago; Lubbock, Mrs. W. R. Crawley; Fort Worth, Mrs. Carl Holt; Plainview, Mrs. D. B. Doak; Stamford, Mrs. Morris Randel; Sweetwater, Mrs. Robert Withers; and that of Mrs. Walter Hoffman.

Miss Roberts Gay sang a solo, accompanied by Mrs. Morris at the piano. At the conclusion of the Bible Hour, conducted by Miss Emily Olmstead, the members were served a luncheon in the church basement, and were shown the new furnishings of the church parlors contributed by the women.

The afternoon session was devoted to committee meetings on the various activities of the W.M.S. delegates and visitors were asked to attend whichever committee meeting interested them most.

The financial department's report was given by Mrs. S. H. Crossley, of Chillicothe, treasurer, following a few moments of worship conducted by Mrs. J. N. Arnett. Reports of the council meetings were given to the visitors and delegates.

The service this evening will commence at 8 o'clock with a devotional service conducted by Mrs. Robert Withers, of Sweetwater. The evening will be devoted to the children's work, of which Mrs. R. A. Metcalf

State Bond Issue Given Hard Blow By House Action

AUSTIN, April 7 (AP)—The house today struck a blow at the proposed statewide, $200,000,000 bond issue, passing to the engrossment bill by Representative Brooks, Bagwell, to pay the outstanding bonded indebtedness of counties, incurred on state highways, out of current revenues. The vote was 79 to 50.

Opponents of the statewide bond issue predicted defeat for the bond issue resolution as a result of today's vote on the Brooks bill, which set aside one fourth of the gasoline tax as a fund to pay interest and sinking fund on county road bonds.

The senate swamped other affairs and tried vainly to reach the highway bond issue resolution this morning. Hope is held of reaching it soon.

Banquet Is Given For Druggists By Wholesale Firm

Druggists and their employees from fifteen towns of this section joined Big Spring members of the McKesson-Robbins company, a part of the nationally-noted McKesson-Robbins company, at a banquet and sales conference at the Settles.

With John Oates, popular representative of the company in this section, as master of ceremonies, a group of speakers representing the company and Harvey Hays, Abilene druggist, were heard.

The McKesson-Robbins "Five-Star" program was gone into thoroughly. Featured for the assembly was an attractive display of several scores of the principal articles in the McKesson-Robbins line, which is being featured in several local stores.

Williams heard

Flake Williams, secretary-treasurer and merchandising expert; John W. Allen, first vice president in charge of credits, and Mr. Oates were speakers.

Details of the company's line of sundries and proprietary articles, which are sold to drug stores only, were reviewed.

"Some companies offering merchandise to druggists go direct from their own factories to the consumer, some go direct to the retailer from the factory while others go through the regular channel of trade via the wholesaler to the retailer," said Mr. Allen. "The McKesson-Robbins company of which McKesson-Crowdus is a part, combines the manufacturing and wholesaling branches in one organization.

The company has its manufacturing plant in Bridgeport, Conn., and maintains 65 wholesale houses.

"Ours is a vast organization offering individual service to the retailer," he declared.

Mr. Williams said that the meeting was next to the largest of a number of similar ones that have been held in the state in the past few weeks. He said the gatherings were designed to give the retailer a better insight into the McKesson-Robbins line as a whole. He pointed out several articles in the sundry line.

SELECTED PRESIDENT OF CITY LEAGUE

The Water Bucket

BY BOBBY CAMPBELL

The New Press

Introducing to the new customers Dr. Wofford B. Hardy, doctor of dental surgery, dentist, massager of the molars, or use your own. This young fellow was elected president of the 1931 City League at the initial meeting held last evening in the shadows of the press of his establishment. Poor fellow, he knows not what he does. He has accepted, rather than rejected, this high honor. Upon his already drooping shoulder blades has been heaped more of the same. In the future it will be necessary for this man to leave bed and board and spend weary hours settling any disputes that may arise, working out plans to get $15 from the next box of baseballs, adopt a method of keeping the customers from sitting on top of the fence of Dusty Diamond instead of in the grandstand where they are supposed to pose. It falls his duty to see that the infield has not a gravel and that the outfield cannot boast of fruit jars and plow shares. If the sun shines in the eyes of a horticulturist as a liner leaves the wood of the slinger it behooves Peppy Hardy to do something about it. Such a job as this requires tact, and stamina, wisdom and strategy, physique and a pair of track shoes.

And The Others

The others are familiar in the picture. George Gentry as last year's president, W. E. O'Brien on the board of governors last year. Robert W. Middleton ushered the Bankers in the first half of the season. They are members of the board of governors this year. May their lot be easy, their path strewn with the rose petals of a spring garden. This department, it seems, will be the keeper of the keys, scorekeeper, gate keeper, record keeper, park keeper, and napper keeper of the loop for another season.

Joking Jackie

Jackie Aiz, whose witticism made him the most popular manager of the Fort Worth ball club ever had, is at it again. He seems to have been rejuvenated after getting out from under the Dallas load, and assuming the responsibility of the Shreveport club. A young fellow named Ralph Michaels is a crack third baseman, but he has a fault. The fault is, he doesn't like to work more than a couple of weeks a month. Aiz knew this when Michaels came to him for a job. It seems that before he drifted in on Dallas, he was with the Kansas City Blues. He was sold to Dallas and Dallas immediately slashed his salary, in the hope, no doubt, that he would remain forever a holdout. He offered to play for Aiz for $400 a month. Aiz, being among other things, a business man, made him a proposition. He would pay him $400 a month, on a pay-by-week-if-plays-highly. In other words, if Michaels developed a fallen arch and slept two weeks, he would get paid for none of it.

"I know Michaels," Aiz said. "When his sister has a toothache in Pittsburgh, he immediately gets one. If he hears of anybody with a sprained ankle he begins to have a sprained ankle symptoms himself. When he wants to play he is a good player."

And Another

A young fellow dropped in on Aiz the other day for a job as third baseman. It so happens that Aiz already has eight thirdbasemen trying for the job. "But my boy," said Aiz, "I've got eight thirdbasemen now."

"No, you haven't," replied the boy. "You've got only one. You can get rid of those other guys now."

It happened, however, that the youth was a better soap box orator than a thirdbasemen. He was scammed.

Bank Run

It seems that there will be an abundance of ball players within the walls of this city this year. Reduction of the city league from six to four clubs gives plenty of ball players freedom. Most of the former club have transferred to the Bankers, and that team should stand out in front in this year's race down the home stretch. Ira Thurman has been hobnobbing around the city ball shaggers and is lining up a nice array of clouters and fielders. He is still counting on Samuel Sain, the Texas and Pacific railway shopman, to guide his good ship Banking through the rough channels of the 1931 season.

That's Gold In—

This golfing business ain't so bad, if you can sink them. Take Gene Sarazen for instance. In tournaments—eight of them—this year Sarazen copped $2,332.50. George Von Elm won $7,857.50 in six tournaments. Johnny Golden gleaned $7,790 from ten events. The big killings did the work. Sarazen won the Lagrove open and $5,250. Golden and Von Elm each gained over $4,500 when they decided to split first and second cash in the Arus Collette open. Ed Dudley connected six times and won $5,112.50. Other money winners were, Wiffy Cox, $4,815; Harry Cooper, $4,246.50; Joe Turnesa, $4,010.67; Horton Smith, $3,545; Al Espinosa, $3,531.67; Tommy Armour, $3,484; and Johnny "Arrel," $3,161.65.

1931 Season to Get Underway April Nineteen

Four Clubs To Be Included In This Year's Amateur League

Dr. Wofford B. Hardy was elected president of the 1931 City League, at the initial parley of players and managers, held at the Herald office, Monday night.

The board of governors consists of W. E. O'Brien, George Gentry, and Robert W. Middleton.

According to plans adopted at the meeting Monday night, it was definitely determined to have four clubs in the loop this year, instead of the usual six.

The clubs will be the West Texas National Bank, Flewellen Service Station, Coahoma and the Mexican Tigers. The Cosden Refinery will represent Flewellen's station.

The 1931 season will open April 19 with a clash between Coahoma and the Tigers. Drawing for places was held Monday night.

Four games will be played each week. Playing days will be Sunday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday.

The team managers voted to schedule all games at 8 p. m. with a clause providing for a forfeit of the game is not started by 5:30 o'clock. This was done in an effort to prevent the "night baseball games" of last year.

Although the usual $15 team entrance fee remains in force, the 50 cent charge per player was reduced to twenty-five cents. To defray expenses of the league, including a ten per cent payment out of the daily receipts for the use of Dusty Diamond, and balls, a small charge will be made for the games. The policy of allowing women to see the game free again was adopted.

Railings

The solemnity of the various clubs voted to use only bona fide residents of Howard county, and increased the limit of players from 14 to 16 and made one exception to the residence ruling by allowing Coahoma to use Tip Grissett, twirler, of Westbrook.

Men must be signed two weeks before they play.

Contract cards will be printed and issued later this week to managers of the respective clubs.

Another meeting of the managers, the board of governors and the president, will be held Monday night. At that time the schedule will be approved, and the ball to be used this year will be selected.

STATEMENT OF THE OWNERSHIP, MANAGEMENT, CIRCULATION, ETC., REQUIRED BY THE ACT OF CONGRESS OF AUGUST 24, 1912.

KNUTE K. ROCKNE

Rough And Ready Gridiron Psychologist

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third of a series of stories depicting the human side of Knute Rockne, Notre Dame's great coach.

By LOREN DISNEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Great as were the 1929 and 1930 undefeated Notre Dame football machines, Knute Rockne's football system reached its apotheosis a half a decade earlier.

That was during the three years of the "Four Horsemen." The famous quartet, Stuhldreher, Layden, Crowley and Miller, raced through 30 games, losing but two, tying one, and winning all the rest.

Nebraska was the only team capable of checking the center of those four swift backs. Other eleven were swept aside with a cold and rhythmic precision that captured the nation's imagination.

It is perhaps typical of Rockne's system that his most famous product should have been an entire backfield, rather than an individual star. As fine a back as George Gipp was, it is to the "Four Horsemen" that football fans doubtless will refer when talk turns to the great days of Rockne at Notre Dame.

The "Four Horsemen" were a synthesis of the Rockne idea of football. They had rhythm, fractional timing and they embraced speed and deception rather than cumbersome power.

During their playing days none of the "Four Horsemen" weighed over 165 pounds. But that they were ready and knew football is indicated by the fact that each is now coaching. Harry Stuhldreher at Villanova, Don Miller at Ohio State; Jim Crowley at Michigan State, and Elmer Layden at Duquesne.

Rockne developed in each of the back a specialty that made them coordinate perfectly as a whole. Stuhldreher was the passer, Miller the broken-field runner, Crowley the blocker, and Layden the punter and line plunger.

The backfield received its name after trimming one of the best of the Army teams in 1923. Its perfect rhythm fascinated fans, and after a sports writer, remembering a novel by Blasco Ibañez, dubbed them the "Four Horsemen," the backfield became a household word.

While Rockne realized the value of the aura of invincibility about his backs, he saw to it that they entertained no delusions of grandeur.

He asked them to "show their chippers" after making blunders; he started a second string line before them. And when they failed to gain, he made it very clear that the "Seven Mules" up front led by Capt. Adam Walsh, center, had something to do with the success.

Through the "Four Horsemen," Rockne was able to put over all his ideas on what he thought a backfield should be. Stuhldreher, the quarterback, in Rockne's opinion, made only one mistake during his entire varsity career.

That was in his first game against Georgia Tech. The quarterback ordered a pass over the goal line, which resulted in a touchback and gave the ball to Tech on the 20 yard line.

In the huge majority of games he ran, Stuhldreher showed the hand of the master. If he ends played out, Stuhldreher sent his plays inside. If they played in, the sweeps were directed wide, if a team shifted far to the strong side, the Notre Dame reversed to the weak side.

Widow Of Noted Detective Tells Why She Killed

DENVER, Colo., April 7. (UP)—A story of domestic hardship was told today by Mrs. Harold W. Axtell, who admitted to police that she shot and killed her husband, an internationally known finger print expert.

Mrs. Axtell, attractive, blue-eyed mother of four adult daughters and step-mother of four girls and two boys, emotionally related how she had slain her husband.

"I did not do anything I was not forced to do. He threatened to shoot himself and then me.

"My husband got his gun and laid it on the table—I never would have thought of the gun, otherwise, I picked it up—I can remember nothing more until I saw him on the floor."

The slaying of Axtell, who only last fall was re-elected president of the International Association of Identification, was the second tragedy in recent months to occur in the Denver police department.

Not long ago Mrs. Pearl O'Loughlin, wife of a city detective, was convicted of poisoning her small step-daughter and sentenced to life imprisonment.

Mrs. Axtell told how her husband had awakened last Friday afternoon, how they had quarreled; how she had attempted to kill herself, and falling had turned the gun on her husband.

Mrs. Axtell said the quarrel had arisen over domestic difficulties which gradually had become more involved since her marriage two years ago.

Axtell's first wife, and mother of his six children, killed herself in 1927 by drinking poison. Friends said she was deranged.

DENTON, April 7. (UP)—Trial of Dr. J. J. Smith, Dallas, on murder charges in connection with the death of Mrs. W. J. Cribbs, 18, following an operation in Dallas during February, was continued here today until June 8 by agreement of attorneys.

Brothers opposed each other at the attorney's table as the case was called here today. O. M. Street, brother of County Attorney Earl Street, was one of the defense counsel which also included Alvin Owsley and Farley Reasonover.

Mrs. Cribbs, a sophomore in the College of Industrial Arts and the wife of an associate professor of biology at the school, died here Feb. 16 for peritonitis.

Dr. Smith is at liberty upon $10,000 bond accused of performing an illegal operation upon her in Dallas on Feb. 2.

SPORTSIANTS

By Alan Gould

The case of Edd J. Roush, one of the greatest centerfielders of all time, illustrates how the breaks seldom go to major league baseball's holdouts.

Roush, after "wing something like $23,000 a year for three mediocre seasons with the New York Giants, refused to sign a year ago at the reduced rate of $15,000. He stuck to his Indiana farm. Hard times hit him and he was even obliged to sell his automobile.

Now that he has decided to come back the Giants don't want him and he has a job with the Cincinnati Reds, where he first rose to fame, at probably no more than $10,000, fair enough as veterans of 15 years' service go, but well under the figure Roush might be drawing if he had made some concessions last spring.

The manager may not be right when some of their salary disputes with the hired men are considered, but in the long run they hold the advantage.

It has been unusual this spring, under the circumstances, to see such players as Vance, Phil Collins, Klein, Hefey and Simmons extending their holdout staves, even though in most if not all of these cases increases have been granted.

TWICE WITH MCGRAW

Roush was among the substantial number of big league stars let go in their younger days by John McGraw, only to be bought back later at considerable cost.

The outfielder, after two years with the old Federal league, was sold to the Giants along with Benny Kauff in 1915 by Harry Sinclair for a reported price of $60,000.

He figured in a startling deal next year when McGraw traded him, with Christy Mathewson and Bill McKechnie, to the Cincinnati Reds for Buck Herzog and Wade Killefer.

Mathewson became manager of the Reds and Roush quickly rose to stardom, leading the National league at bat in 1917 and 1919. In ten years with the Cincinnati Reds never batted below .321 and was considered the finest defensive outfielder in the league, as well as one of the best runners.

When he came back to the Giants in 1927, the Indiana farmer seemed to have slowed up. His batting fell off and illness cut down his usefulness in 1928 and 1929.

Oakland, notes Ed Orman in the Fresno Bee, he two other former St. Mary's ball players, Wed Willie Ludolph, right handed pitcher formerly with San Francisco, and Leonard (Buck) Dondoro, second baseman who had a trial with the St. Louis Browns.

BETTENCOURT'S BUDDIES

When I talked with Larry Bettencourt, St. Mary's former All-American center, in the camp of the St. Louis Browns this spring, he told me to watch the baseball progress of another Gael gridiron star, George Ackerman, who played tackle at the California college.

Ackerman has shown considerable promise with the Oakland club of the Pacific Coast league. Although lacking experience, the lineman has "played ability to hit and apparently will be heard from before another season has passed.

Like Color . . . the best Gasoline is Blended

THE artist stands before his canvas with color-laden palette. Blues, greens, white and touches of warmer tones are blended by his inspired brush as the waves of the seascape take form. His genius tells him that only through the blending of just the right colors is the ideal result achieved. Otherwise his most painstaking effort could only result in a monotone, wholly lacking in brilliance.

Artist and genius have their place in the making of CONOCO Gasoline. CONOCO engineers long since have found that the ideal gasoline is a balanced blend of the three types containing the elements most desired in a motor fuel. There is highly volatile Natural Gasoline, to give quick starting. There is Straight-run Gasoline, to give power and long mileage. There is Cracked Gasoline with its well-known anti-knock quality.

Like the artist with his colors, CONOCO refiners take these three types of gasoline in balanced proportions and blend them. The result is as pleasing to the car owner as is a Rembrandt to the art connoisseur. Of course the genius of "knowing how" is the vital element and it is here that CONOCO refiners excel.

Convince yourself of the merit of CONOCO Blended Gasoline. Try it today. You will find this triple-test motor fuel wherever you see the CONOCO Red Triangle.

Older Generation Yawns In Face of Greatest Circus' Performance; "Do We Go to Movies," Is Query

MARY FERGUSON
 Staff Correspondent
 (UP)—It is not to be inferred that the circus is inferior this year. Graybeards call it one of the best shows ever assembled under one tent, and Dexter Fellows, circus press agent, admitted after a severe cross examination that he thought things were at least up to the standards of former years.

Not Even That
 But even the death-defying Clyde Beatty, who entered a cage and outstared jungle-bred lions and tigers, failed to evoke more than faint interest from the young sophisticates who sat docilely beside their parents waiting, presumably, with a remarkable patience for cavari and cocktail hour.

"When," inquired a seven-year-old male, as Mr. Beatty thrust his nose into the lion's mouth, "when will the lion bite the man's head off, mother?"

Mother, taken aback, said she didn't believe Mr. Beatty was prepared to sacrifice his head at this performance, and then patiently explained that this wasn't like the motion picture they saw last week where lions strayed the landscape with decapitated bodies.

Machine Age
 "Can we go to the movie after a while?" responded her offspring. For those native adults who have not yet lost their belief in the clamor of the circus, the information is hereby handed out that it is the same old circus with the important exception that it has kept abreast of the machine age and is therefore more mechanical.

Clowns, instead of driving into the ring on donkey carts, now appear in weird automobiles, apparently flched from college campuses, which spit water, shoot off Roman candles, catch fire, run by themselves and ultimately explode with an awe-inspiring finality. And to add to the mechanical atmosphere Hugo Zaccini the human projectile is back again, allowing himself to be shot out of a monster cannon with only the minimum of complaints.

The peanuts this year are slightly shriveled but the pink lemonade is a veritable nectar of the gods.

Smoother, Clearer Skin in 8 hours!

NURSES TELL HOW TO HAVE IT

OVER 4,000,000 women today are using a new kind of cream that refines and beautifies complexion overnight. Nurses first discovered this successful beauty treatment.

"It's not like any other beauty preparation," a New Jersey nurse says. "It's a balancing cream containing gentle medication and Oriental oils that soften the skin, clear away blemishes and shrink large pores. You massage it into the skin at night before going to bed. Leave it on overnight. In the morning notice how much softer, clearer and smoother your skin is. The results are simply marvelous. Practically all the nurses at the hospital now use Noxzema Cream."

You'll really be amazed to see what a change Noxzema Cream can make in your skin. It refines skin noticeably overnight, and that is but a beginning of the new beauty it brings.

Most skins are a little coarse-textured, blemished or have some small flaws that keep them from being truly beautiful. Noxzema corrects these faults and leaves the skin clear, fresh, satin smooth—glowing with loveliness.

Follow the advice that so many nurses give. Try Noxzema tonight—if you can't notice a big improvement in the texture of your skin in the morning, your druggist will refund the cost of the jar. Get a jar of Noxzema today—at any drug store.

Forty-Five Countries Raise Tariff Duties As Result of Enforcement of New U. S. Law

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of a series of three stories on world tariff changes since the Hawley-Smoot tariff act became effective.

By THOMAS L. STOKES United Press Correspondent WASHINGTON, April 7. (UP)—Forty-five countries have increased tariff duties on hundreds of commodities which the United States places on the world market since the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill became effective ten months ago, a survey by the United Press disclosed today.

Following President Hoover's signature of the tariff measure which brought criticism in this country and abroad for its high rates, one country after another has raised its own tariff higher. In some cases these increases are generally regarded as a direct retaliation of the higher tariff rates which the United States has raised against the world to protect its own industries. In other cases, such as China, the increases have been the result of a change of governmental policy to increase customs revenues and protect home markets.

With Silence Whatever the cause, the effect admittedly has been disadvantageous to the United States. American officials have met the raising of tariff barriers by other countries with silence, but spokesmen for several leading industries, which have seen their markets cut off, have expressed their anxiety over this development. This is true particularly to the automobile, tobacco and motion picture industries. Faced by the necessity of developing new foreign markets with the home market reduced by the depression, they have become alarmed at the gradual spread of a tariff raising fever in countries which formerly have been good customers. This movement has been accompanied by a considerable drop in United States foreign trade. While the world wide depression has reduced the foreign trade of all countries, opponents of the Hawley-Smoot tariff act attribute the decrease partly to the hostility which they say was aroused by passage of that act.

Exports Off The Hawley-Smoot tariff act became effective last June 17. Export trade of the United States dropped off more than a billion dollars from last July 1 through February as compared with the corresponding eight months a year before, according to official commerce department figures. Exports for the eight months beginning last July 8 totaled $2,241,821,373. For the corresponding eight months in the previous year they were $3,377,608,078. The value of goods purchased by the United States from other countries also dropped over a billion dollars. In the eight months since last July 1, imports aggregated $1,685,428,350, as compared with $2,705,661,557 in the corresponding eight months a year before. The United Press survey, based on official reports by its trade commissioners throughout the world to the commerce department since the Hawley-Smoot act became effective, shows tariff increases on products exported by the United States by 16 European countries, 16 South and Central American countries, and 13 countries and political units in the far east and South Pacific.

European countries which have increased tariff duties are Austria, France, Belgium, Estonia, Finland, Germany, Greece, Hungary, Ireland, Italy, Lithuania, Poland, Spain, Switzerland, Portugal, and Yugoslavia. The following South and Central American countries have increased tariff rates on various articles: Argentina, Brazil, Colombia, Chile, Peru, Bolivia, Ecuador, Cuba, Dominican Republic, Mexico, Uruguay, Costa Rica, El Salvador, Guatemala, Venezuela and Paraguay. Oriental and Pacific countries and political units which have raised rates are China, Japan, Siam, Dutch East Indies, British India, Egypt, Syria, the Federated Malay states, British New Guinea, Hongkong, Australia, New Zealand, and the Cook islands.

Editor Who Killed Himself Identified As Oklahoma Man

YUMA, Ariz., April 7. (AP) Mrs. Hutton Bellah, Los Angeles, formerly of Altus, Oklahoma, today identified the body of a man known here as William A. Lee, publisher and editor of the Yuma Sentinel, who disappeared from Los Angeles over a year ago. Bellah committed suicide, slipping a bullet through his brain yesterday. Bellah, known to have been hard hit financially in a crash in 1929, sold the Altus Times-Tribune, moving to Los Angeles. As Lee, Bellah came here last summer from Madison, Wisconsin, with Mrs. Lee, whom he married while working on a newspaper in the Wisconsin capital.

Hutton Bellah, former Altus, Oklahoma, editor, who killed himself in Yuma, Arizona, was a brother of Jack Bellah, former infielder on several clubs of the old West as baseball league, whom many local fans know.

Lake Altus, popular Oklahoma fishing resort, will be opened this year, a month earlier than usual.

Aided by a three-year closed season, an effort is being made to restock Stephens county, Texas with quail for which it once was noted.

At the White House conference on child health and protection, it was found that only 37 per cent of American children have enough milk each day; 75 per cent use no milk at all and the rest have less than enough. The slogan "It's smart to be thrifty" has captured the imagination of our people in the opinion of Mrs. Jessie New, nutrition specialist, department of health of New York state. Economists are of the opinion that food is one of the first things on which families begin to skimp, says Mrs. Cole, "they feel that no one will know if they do without milk or eat less vegetables and fruit. From time to time the state department of health issues bulletins explaining the essentials of adequate diet and dealing with food requirements. Particular emphasis is laid on the way in which food money should be budgeted. The value of dairy products, vegetables and fruits is pointed out and the foods which should appear in each day's dietary are given.
