HOME TOWN TALK

An example of how far some water and a little cultivation will go hereabouts may be seen at the Airport, Lee Sanders, the manager...

The brightest gem in the city's crown right now is City Park.

Today, we predict, will just about mark the real opening of the season for the park.

This season's parking space is available on the west side of the creek.

One of the two volleyball courts will be ready for use today and a ball will be available at the park.

Another distinctive feature is the Scout Hut, being completed.

Built of native stone dug from the hill, it resembles a fort and the thick walls make it a good one.

The area field days to be held at the park two weeks from today will attract hundreds of people from out-of-town.

If the large crowds we noticed in a number of stores lately were turning loose any money a lot of them would be slow up a little.

We heard a fellow tell a bunch of fellow fellows recently that any attendant who answers those usual questions of tourists about "how's this town holding up?"

A man told us yesterday—and he knows whereof he speaks—that several local grocers who in recent weeks have been doing some good business with "specials" at a price below actual cost does himself harm.

Watch Herald advertisements regularly and note on your shopping tours around town the stores with the larger number of customers in them.

Two Army Regiment Baseball Players Are Badly Hurt In Crash

SAN ANTONIO, April 11 (AP)—Corporal Benjamin Sheriff and Private Homer Todd, two of the eleven men injured yesterday when a bus bearing the ninth infantry baseball team ran into a ditch near Skidmore were in a critical condition today.

Local Entries Take Honors in Latin Tourney

LUBBOCK, April 11.—Big Spring carried off a major share of honors here today in the district Latin tournament.

For the second successive year Big Spring first year term won the cup for that class.

Big Spring also won the second year class cup, the contestants being Ruth Mellinger and Dorothy Miller.

Ruth Mellinger took highest individual honors in the second year class, making a perfect grade of 100 to win over the Lubbock contestant by 5-10 point.

Margaret Tucker won individual first year honors.

Hudson Henry of Big Spring won third place in the third year individual contest.

Mrs. H. A. Stegner is coach of instruction for Big Spring.

Bill Prohibiting Railroad Owning Bus Lines Upheld

AUSTIN, April 11 (INS).—A proposal of Representative Terrell, of Cherokee to make it unlawful for a railroad company to own an interest in bus or truck lines doing interstate business is legal, an opinion handed down by Attorney General James V. Alford today states.

Terrell's proposal, embodied in a bill which received an unfavorable committee report, was brought out on the floor of the house on a minority report.

The opinion holds that, since it is the evident intention of the Terrell bill to apply only to intra-state lines, it does not constitute a burden on interstate commerce.

Since the constitution forbids monopolies, the opinion stated, the bill prohibiting a railroad company from owning or controlling the stock of a bus line is in accordance with the spirit of the constitutional provision making it unlawful for a railroad company to own the control of a competing line.

The opinion was handed down at the request of Representative E. M. Barron.

28 Meeting Places Arranged for WTCC Sessions in Lubbock

LUBBOCK, April 11.—In making arrangements for the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention to be held here May 14, 15 and 16, Maury Hopkins, WTCC convention manager, and A. B. Davis, manager of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, have found it necessary to secure 28 different meeting places in the city to accommodate the various gatherings, programs and other features of the affair.

All these places have been secured and all of them are conveniently located with reference to the hotels and the business district of the city.

When a fellow pays cash for advertising to lose money he's simple. But, they don't grow that way often. Use of newspaper advertising must be guided by common sense.

In the case of grocers it is, of course, better to advertise for week end business. The grocer who offers "specials" at a price below actual cost does himself harm.

In one of the 22 individual studies from which the consensus was drawn Mrs. Clement L. Shaver, wife of a former chairman of the democratic national executive committee, urged women to forget they were democrats or republicans and vote "to overthrow the liquor traffic."

The bureau reports 123 retail stores with a total annual business of $6,993,636, a yearly pay roll of $650,751, and the full-time employment of 491 men and women. The reported number of employees does not include those working part time, although the pay roll of part-time employees is included in salaries and wages. Merchandise in stock for sale at the end of 1929 shows a cost value of $1,067,744.

The total of 123 stores includes 98 single-store independents, 5 units of 2-store multiples, and 2 units of 3-store multiples. There are also 11 units of local chains, 5 units of sectional chains and 2 units of national chains. Sales of these three types of chain organizations aggregate $1,425,637 or 20 per cent of the total retail business, while sales of the single-store independents amount to $4,977,929, or 71 per cent. These figures are based upon reports received in 1930 covering the year 1929.

Automotive The automotive group takes the lead in this report, with the lumber and building group second, and the general merchandise group third in order of sales.

Food stores total 19, and report sales of $21,155, or 12 per cent of the total retail business. Of this number, 8 are grocery stores with sales of $217,533, and 4 are combination stores (grocery and meats) with sales of $361,492. Many bakeries which manufacture their own products are included in the census of manufacturers, and do not appear in this report, but 3 stores selling bakery goods are reported.

The automotive group, with 31 establishments, does a business of $2,371,825, or 34 per cent of the total retail business. Sales of 6 motor vehicle establishments amount to $1,824,361. COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 11 (AP)—Captain Ira Eaker, army test pilot, was forced down here at 5 p. m. while attempting to set a new west to east transcontinental air record.

He said he would abandon any attempt to better Frank Hawks' record for the present.

The clutch on the supercharger of the plane was slipping when the landing was made, making necessary complete dismantling of the motor for repairs.

Eaker was undecided whether to try for an east to west record after repairs are made.

He took off from Burbank, California, at 3:30 a. m. Pacific standard time and refueled at Wichita, Kansas. Hawks' record is 12 hours 35 minutes.

Regulation In New Oil Field Again Studied

LONGVIEW, April 11 (AP)—East Texas oil operators here today appointed committees for both the Longview and Kilgore areas to work with the state railroad commission in regulating production of that area.

Parker, supervisor of the oil and gas division, explained that it was an operators' meeting and not a railroad commission meeting and therefore not in contempt of court because of the temporary injunction granted last week by a Travis county court prohibiting enforcement of state prohibition laws in those areas.

Upton County Seat Election Injunction Overruled By Court

SAN ANGELO, April 11.—The court of civil appeals today overruled the injunction preventing the holding of an election to decide whether the county seat of Upton county would be moved from Rankin to McCamey.

Refinery At Pecos To Renew Operations

PECOS, April 11.—The Jenkins cracking units at the Burford Oil Company's big Pecos refinery will be started into operation next week after a three months shut-down according to Harry Knoch, refinery superintendent.

The cracking stills were shut down late in December due to the economic situation as related to the oil industry. Conditions now have improved to permit their operation.

The Jenkins units will bolster the daily production of Crystal and Silencer gasoline by some 1,000 barrels, or 42,000 gallons of gasoline.

Their operation will likewise mean additional payroll for Pecos, since the refinery will re-employ several men laid off when the units were shut down last December.

Scovyers, Fort Worth, today was sentenced in federal court here for using the mails to defraud in connection with circulation of promotion literature concerning the oil fields of Williamson and other Texas counties. Another Slap At Marriage

MARRIAGE—always an interesting subject—has received an other knock. It has been pointed out that 12 women named recently by a jury of prominent members as the most outstanding of their sex in the United States only four were married. The four are Carrie Chapman Catt, Minnie Maddern
Fiske, Grace Coolidge and Ernestine
Schumann-Heink.

Very likely the endless argument of "home vs. career" will gain new impetus from this revelation and the advantage will seem to be on the "career" side of the fence. It is scarcely surprising that women, with the cares and responsibilities of managing a home and rearing a family, seldom achieve such distinctions as to become president of a college or a famous scientist.

On the other hand, there are the names of those four prominent members who would rush to the defense of marriage. It is not a bar to winning renown.

The eight women included in the list who are unmarried are: Grace
Abbott, Jane Addams, Cecilia
Beaux, Martha Berry, Willa Cather, Helen Keller, Florence Rena Sabin
and Mary E. Woolley. They outnumber married members of the group two to one and yet there is the important argument for those who would rush to the defense of matrimony. Perhaps after all the jury of impressive members did not succeed in naming the 12 women of the country who are really greatest. Almost everyone known men and women living obscurely whose daily existence has touched sublime heights.

The answer for those who are disturbed by arguments concerning the greatest women is to make their own list.

OPINIONS OF OTHERS

Experimenting on Human Beings

Christian Science Monitor:
A STOCK argument of those defending animal vivisection has always been that thereby medical theories could be tested and the effects of the methods and beliefs of materia medica discovered at the expense simply of the suffering and possible destruction of the animals involved. That this does not represent a complete statement of the case is seen, however, in the suggestion of the alleged necessity of experimentation on human beings appearing every once in a while in connection with other medical activities.

Not long ago, for instance, an Associated Press story dealt with a serum made by inoculating an animal with cancer. The results of the experiments involved were reported in the April issue of the American Journal of Cancer in an article by Thomas Lumsden, M. D., director of the cancer research laboratory of London Hospital. In the newspaper story this paragraph appeared (italics not in the original):

"A start has been made in applying it (the serum) to living animals.
It has not been tried on man, although in vitro it kills human cancer cells. Dr. Lumsden suggests human experiments."

Even more recent another striking example of such experimentation has received publicity in connection with a case before Superior Judge Lester Roth in Los Angeles.
This case involved Adolphus Romme, who, it appears, though but fourteen years of age, is more than six feet tall and weighs close on 250 pounds.
The question at issue was whether this lad should be subjected to certain gland injections designed to halt growth or should continue his present development, with the possibility, in the words of the judge, of taking a chance of becoming "like the big giants" at the circus.

In the course of the trial the lad
made this plea:
"I am afraid the treatments will affect me mentally. I may be large, but I have no physical troubles, and I'm a pretty good athlete. When they put these test shots in me I was affected for days."

At the close of the trial the lad was ordered to submit to the medical treatment. The question is

HEALTH

Edited by

EATING FOR HEALTH

Long before the advent of modern science it had been commonly observed that the pastoral races, those deriving their sustenance from cattle, were more robust than the strictly agricultural groups who lived by tilling the soil.

The most interesting and milk-drinking races were physically superior to those living mainly or exclusively on cereals and vegetables.

The physical superiority of the pastoral group cannot be accounted for entirely on the basis of diet.
Tending sheep or cattle was not as arduous toil as winning one's livelihood from the soil. Then, too, it was mainly an outdoor existence.

None the less, as our recent dietetic studies indicate, the diet of the pastoral peoples, consisting as it did mainly of milk, milk foods and meat, was vastly superior to the diet of the agriculturists.

Modern science has many times demonstrated the special food values of milk and its derivatives.
Milk contains in abundance vitamin
A and, to a lesser extent, vitamin
B and C.

Vitamin A is the so-called fatsoluble vitamin, essential for growth and normal preservative or reproductive functions. Its absence from diet, or an inadequate amount of it in the diet, will in time produce a serious eye disease known as Xerophthalmia.

Vitamin A has also been shown to influence man's resistance against infections. Children whose diet was deficient in vitamin A were found more susceptible to infections of the respiratory (breathing) tract. Vitamin A is therefore an essential item in diets and of particular importance to growing children.

The most abundant sources for this protective vitamin are milk, butter, egg yolk, fish and cod liver oil. One or more of these foods should be in the daily diet of every child.

Adults, too, require vitamin A for health, and those bent on reducing should be cautious about leaving milk and butter out of their restricted diet.

Bennett, noted on the stage for his fiery curtain speeches, appar-

Constance and Joan, who are in pictorial appearance, although Joan to fulfill a promise, once did of medical compulsion is one concerning which many persons in of science.

READ IDEAL
MYSTERIOUS WAY

SYNOPSIS: The "Spider"
Schultz murder has caused turmoil at the nursing home of Dr.
Charters, his former criminal confederate. First, the doctor admits as a patient a stranger, John Wayne, who discloses the murder and demands a hiding place. Charters, apprehending his visitor's familiarity with his past, agrees. Mr. James, the doctor's aid, draws a pistol on Wayne, but is repulsed, and Dr.
MacAdoo also wants to "bump him off." Wayne's hint to the latter precipitates his demand of Charters for half of the "spoils"
in the case of pretty Marjorie Lauderell, a patient, who is steadily growing worse under treatment. Charters and his evil associates learn that Wayne has left a note beside Schultz implicating a real or fictitious person. When Wayne overhears their plotting against him, he interrupts and Charters stormily orders him to leave the home.

Chapter 17
THE FATAL CONFESION
UNINVITED, John Wayne stepped into the room, as he had done on the day of his arrival at The Monastery, took an arm-chair, crossed his knees, and leaning back, settled himself comfortably, took out his cigarette case and smiled at the Doctor.

"And why this sudden change of front, Simon? This threatened cessation of hospitality? This attitude almost of unfriendliness?"
"Seen the paper?" snarled the Doctor.

"Oh, yes, I always see the papers, I have them with my morning tea, you know. . . . Drink my tea, light a cigarette, and settle down for ten minutes' read while my bath is being got ready," and John Wayne smiled round at the ring of hard, cruel faces of the men and women who watched him intent, with averted eyes.

"Look at here, you," continued the Doctor. "Suppose you cut out the funny stuff—before we do something a little against our interests. Since you've seen the papers, you know the name's up."
"My name or yours, Simon?"
Dr. Charters, once again obviously exercising great and commendable restraint, replied:

"Yours," and added with slight self-righteousness, "We are not wanted murderers. We are not "You're not, Simon? Well, now how apt one is to misjudge people!
I should have thought that was exactly what you were. And so my game is up, is it? And why do you think that?"

"Obviously. Surely? . . . We don't suppose that even you are going to lie up here, while an innocent man swings for what you did. Little as we like you, we do you that much credit."

"You flatter me, Simon."
"I hope not. I hope I don't misjudge you."
"Well, sorry as I am to seem unworthy of your good opinion, Simon; sad as I am to disappoint you
—I am not going."
"Not going to give yourself up?"
"You'd let an innocent man swing for you?"
"He's not swinging yet, anyway, Simon."

"No, but he will—unless the poor devil has got a fool-proof alibi. The dicks must have pinched the first crook that answered the description in the letter you left on Spider Schultz's body."
"A low-down, dirty trick," growled Mr. James indignantly.
"Sickening" swine," murmured Nurse Jones, while the fingers of the Matron's right hand curled in the manner of the claws of a cat about to scratch.

"Oh, I don't know," observed Dr.
MacAdoo tolerantly. "Quite legiti-mate, I think, so long as he owns up—as of course he will do—now that some one else is arrested. Quite a good trick for putting the police off the scent. . . ."
"Tastes differ," sneered the Doctor. "Not the sort of trick that appeals to me. Filthy. . . . low. . . .
unspeakably foul. . . ."
"I suppose you don't deny you wrote it?" he added, turning to John Wayne.

"Certainly, I wrote it. I wrote it, all right. And, what's more, Simon, I gave an actual name—the real name of a real man, here in England. Apparently the police have suppressed it. . . ."
"I suppose you don't deny you
wrote it?" he added, turning to John Wayne.

"With an oath Mr. James sprang to his feet—his restraint vanquished at the bare thought of such infernal villainy, such incredible violation of all fair and decent dealing between honorable crooks."
The Doctor himself seized Mr.
James' wrist as, with a flash of blued steel, it appeared from beneath his coat.

"Sit down, you simp!" he blazed, and violently thrust Mr. James back in his chair. "Will you leave this to me? Who asked you to but-in? D'you want us all to. . . .?"
"Have it your own way," growled
Mr. James. . . . "Bump him off, and done with it, I say."
John Wayne smiled at the Doctor, and nodded in complacent confirmation.

"Yes, the description, name, and probable address of an actual man," he said shamefully.
His hearers stared in silence, genuinely shocked to the depths of their souls.

The man was a monster. Something beyond their ken and comprehension—a superhuman, or sub-human villain.

"I don't think perfectly innocent men often get hanged in this country," he observed conversationally.
"Well, and what sort of a time
do you think he's having, lying there while they weave the noose round him?"
"Most uncomfortable. I should think."

"Well, then, don't you think it's up to you? . . . Aren't you going to do something?"
"Not a thing. . . . What would you do in my place, Doctor?"
The Doctor picked up his heavy ebony ruler in both hands, and that it neither bent or broke seemed incredible.

"Look here," he said in a low and menacing voice, as he pointed it straight at the face of John Wayne. "I'll tell you what I'd do, and I'll tell you what you're going to do, unless you're lower than a snake's belly. . . . What you are going to do, in any case.

"For some reason of your own, you bumped off Spider Schultz; and when you'd done it, you wrote a note for the police, to put them on the track of another man; and the police, saying the usual thing—that they'd get a clew and hoped to make an arrest at an early date—framed the man whom you described and named. Sort of thing they would do. . . . Now, then, why can't you be white enough to say,
'The game's up. I've had a run for my money, and this is where I get off? . . . You've had a square deal here; now give this other guy a square deal—and us as well. Go to the police and take your medicine like a man, and don't squeal about us. We've treated you about square. . . . Now go and give yourself up, and take what's coming to you with your mouth shut."
"That's what you'd do, eh, Simon?"
"Certainly."

"And what about the case of poor young Swipe Gorman—eh, Simon? Young Gorman who went innocent to the chair—for a murder you planned and Gunman Gryde committed? Who put Swipe Casey on the spot? For Gryde to shoot, and then sat quiet and saw poor innocent young Gorman electrocuted for it?"
The Doctor sprang to his feet
with an oath.
"You—!"
"Sit down, Simon. Sit down," soothed John Wayne coolly.

"Abraham Lincoln" Screen's Best Historical Drama

Play Offers New Goal For Film Artists

Griffith Says Re-Creating of Great Man Most Worthy Object

Talking pictures have their boosters and knockers among the millions of motion picture fans throughout the country, but from a purely professional point of view, the speaking films have added the greatest single impetus to the screen since the nickelodeon gave way to the modern picture palace costing millions of dollars.

One of the greatest boosters of talking pictures is D. W. Griffith, the pioneer United Artists producer-director, who is responsible for most of the screen reforms of today and whose "Abraham Lincoln" is scheduled for the Ritz Tuesday.

FOR SCHOOL KIDS

A special matinee performance of "Abraham Lincoln" will be given Tuesday afternoon at the Ritz, beginning at 4:15 p. m.

Wednesday and Thursday of this week. History records that he made the first attempt to commercially popularize screen dialogue when he employed the Kellum process nine years ago in vocalizing "Dream Street."

"If talking pictures accomplish nothing more than recreating for us in sight and sound the world's greatest historical moments," says Griffith, "they will have done more for education and the preservation of culture than any other invention since the birth of type."

Debate

One of these moments Griffith reproduces in "Abraham Lincoln" when Stephen A. Douglas and Lincoln meet on the platform in that remarkable series of debates which overnight raised Lincoln from obscurity to national fame.

"A debate is a dull thing at its best," said Griffith, "or so I thought. But I have discovered that all my pre-conceived opinions regarding dramatic screen possibilities have radically changed now that speech is one of our main ingredients."

"Silent, that debate would have bored even me, its director, but clothing it with the life of words makes it a human thing, with that homely infectious humor that underlay Lincoln's argumentative moods even in so vital a thing as the preservation of the Union."

"Dialogue makes 'Abraham Lincoln' a more human and sympathetic document than a thousand reels of silent film could have made it. Some will point to 'The Birth of a Nation' and say that it was human despite its lack of sound. Pride of creation forces me to agree with this contention, but only in part. How can I say that it would not have been even a greater picture if we could have heard Lillian Gish and Henry Walthall speaking their lines?"

First In Sound

"It was perhaps the first to realize the value of sound in pictures. 'The Birth of a Nation,' when it toured the United States as a road-show, was the first screen production to utilize sound effects. True, the effects were simulated by mechanical processes backstage, but they were none the less effective."

"I have found that sound is of tremendous assistance in developing montages or tempo. Before the era of dialogue, we were obliged to rely solely on plot construction and characterization for tempo. This method made for good, solid drama. Now, however, we can add to those two ingredients the third element of speech with its multiplicity of shading and nuances."

"Dramatically, the screen has about reached its peak with the reproduction of realistic speech and action. We will fool with many other innovations—color and wide films and perhaps stereoscopic effects—but those are the side lines of the three major fundamentals—talk, character and movement."

Allied Fight Against Submarine Menace Re-Enacted On Screen In "The Seas Beneath," Coming Here

Recounting in a thrilling manner the Allied fight against the submarine menace, and combining this with a unique romance between an American naval commander and a German secret service agent, "The Seas Beneath," Fox Movietone drama coming to the Ritz theater next Friday and Saturday reveals many hitherto unfiled secrets of the U-boat struggle.

The story, written by a former naval officer and directed by John Ford with the cooperation of the United States Navy, revolves around the activities of a noted German submarine, the U-172, and the efforts of two American ships to capture it. One of the vessels, a "Q-ship" or "mystery ship," with a big gun concealed under a false deck-house. The other is an American submarine, escorting the schooner and maintaining telephone communication with her through a long cable. The efforts of the German spy, a woman, almost capture the American vessels and the heart of their commander.

Filmed aboard a big three-masted schooner, the "Dolphin," and on two of Uncle Sam's finest submarines, the giant "V-4" and the "S-47," Director Ford has achieved unusual realism in his marine sequences. The scenes in the interiors of the underwater vessels were actually filmed and recorded aboard them, but types of portable sound and camera equipment being thus employed for the first time to give absolute authenticity to the picture. Dudley Nichols wrote the screen play and dialog, and William Collier, Sr., in addition to playing an important role, also staged the production.

George O'Brien, as the American commander, has what many critics acclaim as his greatest role, and Marion Lessing, the newest film ambitious undertaking of his career. The title role of "Abraham Lincoln" is portrayed by Walter Huston, while Kay Hammond plays "Mary Todd"; Una Merkel, "Ann Rutledge"; Jason Robards, "Herndon"; Lincoln's junior law partner, Ian Keith, plays the assassin, "John Wilkes Booth," and Hobart Bosworth and Frank Campeau are cast as "Lee" and "Sheridan" respectively.

Evelyn Brent, Wolheim, Hatton, Blanche Sweet Seen

Epochal days in development of a great industry in the virgin territory of Alaska are depicted in "The Silver Horde," Radio Pictures' two-act romantic drama, which will be seen at the Queen theater Wednesday and Thursday.

The terrific struggle of Rex Beach's famous characters is brought for the first time to the talking screen in a gripping and fascinating manner, with Evelyn Brent, Louis Wolheim, Joel McCrea, Raymond Hatton, Jean Arthur, Blanche Sweet and Gavin Gordon in the leading roles.

Filmed in Alaska, above the clouds in snow-capped mountains, along trap-lined rivers and below the surface of salmon-infested waters, the action is sweeping in its magnitude.

Every phase of the salmon industry, from the time the fish start their "runs" to spawning grounds to the time they emerge from canneries in tins, is shown as a background to one of the most colorful red-blooded romances of modern fiction.

The production was directed by George Archibald and in addition Purnell Pratt, William Davidson, to those named includes in the cast Ivan Linow and hundreds of others.

CAMPEAU PLAYS SHERIDAN

General Phil Sheridan, whose magnificent rallying of troops at Cedar Creek in the Civil War turned the tide of defeat into a spectacular victory, is played by Frank Campeau in D. W. Griffith's "Abraham Lincoln" for United Artists, the spectacular life of the Emancipator to be shown Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at the Ritz theater.

"Bad Sister" To Be Saturday Evening Ritz Attraction

Which is the Bad Sister? The answer to this question will be found on the screen of the Ritz Theatre, when the famous Booth Tarkington story, which has been produced as a talking picture special, is shown at the midnight matinee performance next Saturday evening. Manager Robb announced yesterday that he has booked this production, which has a notable cast, headed by Conrad Nagel, Sidney Fox and Bette Davis.

The two sisters of the story are played by Miss Fox and Miss Davis, both of whom are making their screen debuts in this production. The title of the picture is itself "Bad Sister," and audiences will have a chance to judge for themselves which one the title applies to. The production is one of the most entertaining of the season, and the Ritz Theatre is preparing to take care of capacity audiences.

The exceptional cast includes Slim Summerville, the famous comedian; ZaSu Pitts, one of the screen's best known comedienne; Humphrey Bogart, Broadway stage player who recently has entered pictures and scored a great success; Charles Winniker, who came to the screen from the stage, and has been seen in many important roles; Emma Dunn, the former stage star; Bert Roach, a screen favorite, and little David Durand, whose work in the role of uproarious slapstick of her career.

"Bad Sister" was produced at Universal City, California, where "All Quiet on the Western Front" and many other of the screen's foremost pictures have been made. It was directed by Hobart Henley, who has filmed many successes.

Ken Maynard One Of Texas Natives Starring In Films

When Texas was nick-named the "Lone Star State," Ken Maynard, the star of Tiffany's "Fighting Thru," his first all-talking Western which is coming to the Queen Theatre on Friday and Saturday, was the Lone Star they probably had in mind. Maynard was born where one would expect him to be born—in the heart of the West in a small town called Mission, which is located in an indiscreet corner of the largest state in the Union, Texas, which gave us the greatest star in Westerns, first in silent, and now in his first talking film, Ken Maynard!

THE POLKA DANCE

The stately and useful polka of the Roaring Forties, with its gay, carefree music, features the country dance series of "Abraham Lincoln" for United Artists to be shown Thursday at the Ritz theatre.

A special instructor, one acquainted with period dances, was employed to teach the more than 200 extras the elements and intricacy of the rhythmic dance.

Why Be So Stingy? Open Your Homes, Have a Good Time

An urgent appeal for cooperation from the women of the town for entertaining the club delegates is being sent out by the Homes Committee.

In former years Big Spring was proud to show itself off. Today it is acting as though a visitor were a huge imposition and as though no other town in Texas were being so mistreated.

This is not the result of the depression; it is the result of the selfishness of the people. Other Texas towns no larger, and less prosperous than Big Spring are entertaining conventions with more attractive programs and with open arms.

Mrs. Steve Ford, Miss Clara Pool, Mrs. Felton Smith, and Mrs. E. H. Happell are the homes committee. Every woman in town with a spare bedroom—and everybody knows there are plenty of unused ones—should call one of them and agree to take a visitor.

The club sessions will be a lot of fun—if the women of the town will use their common sense about them. The entertainment will be a pleasant diversion from bridge. It will be a time to put on one's pretty clothes and get out and go, and be thankful for a change.

It's been 20 years since this town entertained a club convention and it will probably be another 20 years before it is Big Spring's time again. So why be so stingy?

The Water Bucket

BY BOBBY CAMPBELL

Another coach has affixed his signature to that popular document, "I hereby submit to you, with regrets, my resignation, effective..." Henry Frnka, coach at Lubbock High School, will remove himself from the land of sand storms et cetera, and head the Greenville high school coaching staff. Frnka, who received his football knowledge at Austin College under Pete Cawthorn, Texas Tech mentor, succeeds Jim Reese at Greenville. According to Collier Parish, Lubbock Journal sports writer, Frnka gave as his reason for leaving Lubbock the fact that material and conditions at Greenville for next year are more promising. In addition he didn't care for the contract that was offered him. Two very good reasons.

The called meeting of the board of governors, the president, the managers et cetera of the City League has been deferred until Tuesday night, at 7:30 p. m. At that time the ball to be used in this year will be selected. Sporting goods handlers are requested, urged, and asked to submit prices if they are interested.

Oble Bristow, looking glum because business took him to San Angelo this week-end, will call a halt to spring football practice, at the end of this week, he told this department Saturday as he leaned nonchalantly against a light post. He was en route to Angelo to aid in forming the 1931 schedule. Bristow, incidentally, needs help. Young fellow with lots of football talent has a deep seated desire, as it were, to enroll in the local high school. The rub is his family would have to move here also, and the head of the family would have to have a job. That is always the rub. It probably always will be.

This department would like nothing more than to see Bristow place upon the gridiron next year a formidable aggregation. Although he has been heralded from hither to yon, and other extremes as a player, this is Bristow's first job as a coach. He too has a yen for a marching thing which would startling things upon the grid. But as he thinks, so think others. For instance, Harry Taylor at San Angelo wants a hefty eleven. Mr. Barry at Midland, besides being greatly in favor of the one-year eligibility ruling, also would like to make a powerful showing. Henning over at Sweetwater craves to go places and see a variety of things. So it boils down to where it isn't a case of desire at all, but football players. With all due respects to Bristow and to the 1931 aspirants, we can't possibly see where Bristow can march down the inside lane with his present material. Bristow, used to powerful backs, hasn't them. Bristow, accustomed to hefty and towering ends, is fresh out of them. Bristow, leaning in the general direction of big boned linemen, doesn't have a supply. He has a bunch of good boys-willing to fight their ears off if it is necessary, but he doesn't have weight nor power. Things may develop. We sincerely hope they do.

Of course when you get around to it, and all things down to a fine, very fine edge, the future of Bristow's aggregation depends on a great deal upon the proposed one-year eligibility ruling. When it passes the shades will have dropped upon the 1931 chances of not only one or two, but scores of Texas high schools. The question comes before the school representatives in May. There is little question but what it will be passed by a huge majority. And when it is--if it is--things are going to be hoop-boop-dee in favor of it are strongly in favor of it. They are working for its passage. We entertain little doubt but what there are those who oppose it. But they have remained inactive, and done little toward fighting the battle. As a result the ruling will be passed through and passed. We

Big Spring Gets Only Two Games 'That Count' Here In 1931

The Big Spring high school Steers will continue the old Howard county custom of meeting Sweetwater on Armistice Day; and will start playing San Angelo on Thanksgiving Day, according to the schedule of the newly created grid district, adopted Saturday at a meeting in San Angelo.

The Big Spring schedule calls for Big Spring to play at Midland October 17, with McCamey coming here October 24. San Angelo comes here November 26. The locals have only two district games here according to the schedule.

The hating bovines meet Colorado at Colorado October 30.

E. H. McLain, superintendent of schools, Sweetwater, was elected chairman of the district committee. He did not attend the meeting.

Phelix Smith of San Angelo was named vice-chairman and C. H. Kenley of San Angelo, secretary.

It was voted to hold all future meetings of the body at Big Spring. George Gentry, principal of the high school, J. Gordon Bristow, coach, and Superintendent W. C. Blankenship, represented the local school at the session.

Ruby Smith Wins Singles Title At District Fight

Held In Abilene Saturday Driver and Ford Lose In Final Round; Hutto Falls Before Roscoe Youth; Boys' Doubles Team Loses

Ruby Smith of Big Spring wielded a racquet well enough to sweep through to the girls' district singles tennis title Saturday afternoon at Abilene.

The Big Spring girl took two straight from Frances Maehen of Abilene to cinch the district title in the final battle. She won 6-4 and 6-3.

In the girls' doubles, Dorothy Driver and Zillah Mae Ford fought their way to the finals, only to be eliminated by the Weinert pair, Winnie Siddons and Louis Boone. The Weinert girls took the district title after a hard fought battle, 6-3, 4-6, and 6-2.

In the boys' singles Tommy Hutto drew a bye in the first round, eliminated Swift of Munday in the second, 2-6; 6-3 and 6-0, only to go down before Thewert of Roscoe in the semi-finals. Hutto took the first 2-6, and was downed in the latter two, 7-5 and 6-4. Leo Brady of Abilene took the singles honors, as is an old Brady custom.

In the boys' doubles, Brady, paired with Willard Foster, took the district honors.

The Steer doubles team defeated Will Hubbard and Keith Monroe of Sweetwater 6-3 and 6-1 in the first round. Hutto and Joe Edward Davis represented the local school. They ran against a brick wall in the second round, however, falling before Brady and Foster, 6-1 and 6-4.

In the girls' doubles, Ford and Driver found their way to the finals by drawing a bye in the first round and winning by default in the second. In the semi-final they downed Wed and Sprangler of Abilene, 6-4, 3-6, and 6-2.

Ruby Smith defeated Anna E. Mitchell of Sweetwater 6-3 and 6-1 in the first round, downed Newman of Old Glory 6-0 and 6-1 in the second, and ousted Gariff of Itan, 6-4 and 6-4 in the semi-finals.

Steers Place Third In Race At Texas Tech

With Cecil Reid setting the pace in the 880, the Big Spring Steers won third place in the medley relay, at the invitational tournament held at Texas Tech, Lubbock, Saturday. It was the only place in which the Steers were able to land.

Tracksters which attended the meet from Big Spring were Flowers, Rockhold, Orr, Forrester, Richbourg, Denton and Reid. Reid's gallop down the 880 yard stretch was one of the features of the meet, despite the fact the Steers placed only third in that race.

Baptists Enlist Many Members: NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 11 (AP)—Dr. E. P. Aldredge, statistician for the Southern Baptist convention, said in a report made public today that last year the church recorded its greatest net gain in membership since 1923 and that in the last five years Baptists on professions of faith exceeded the total for any other two denominations in the United States. The report is a summary of Southern Baptist gains and losses in New Mexico, Missouri, Southern Illinois, Kentucky, Virginia, Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina, South Carolina, Oklahoma, Texas, Arkansas, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, Florida, Louisiana, Arizona, Maryland and the District of Columbia. It will be presented to the Southern Baptist convention at its meeting May 13-16 at Birmingham, Alabama. The net membership gain in 1930 was 79,541, an increase brought about in spite of a net loss of 289 in the number of congregations, the report said. The number of baptisms in 1930 was 183,309, a gain of 22,925 over 1929. A total of 957,924 baptisms on profession of faith have been reported in the last five years. The loss in the number of congregations was attributed to good roads and the consequent merging of a number of small rural churches. This condition was also given as a cause for a loss of 304 Sunday Schools. The report points out, however, that despite the decrease in the number of congregations and Sunday schools, membership in each increased substantially, church membership rising 79,541 to 3,850,385 and Sunday School enrollment increasing 59,464 to reach 2,836,129. Gains also were recorded in W. M. U. and B. Y. P. U. organizations. Young Peoples Unions increased in number from 24,273 in 1929 to 25,840 in 1930 and in membership the increase was from 501,405 to 529,521, a gain of 28,116. Missionary unions increased in number from 27,690 to 29,270. Although the number of ordained ministers fell off from 23,431 to 22,926, Dr. Aldredge said this was due to a re-check of lists and the removal of names of ministers who had long since died or moved from the convention's bounds. He said there had been no actual loss!

Cigarette Tax Would Save Loss Of $20,000 Here

Enactment into law of the cigarette tax bill passed late Friday by the state senate, providing a levy of three cents per package on standard-sized cigarettes would save the schools of Big Spring from loss of approximately $10,000 during the next two years due to reduced per capita state apportionment, according to W. C. Blankenship, superintendent of the city school system. State apportionment for the past year has been $17.50 per child, the highest in history. Unless legislation is adopted to create $5,000,000 a year additional revenue from sources other than the ad valorem property tax, the apportionment must be reduced to $14 per capita, according to S. M. N. Marra, state superintendent. Two bills similar to the senate measure already adopted have been reported adversely by house committees, and printing of favorable minority reports was refused. However, according to a statement by Rep. Ray Holder, Lancaster, chairman of the house committee on education, who is urging passage of the tobacco tax bills, the parliamentary situation in the house is such that this type of legislation may yet be adopted in the lower house. Strong opposition to imposition of any tax on tobacco has been urged through wholesalers and retailers by the leading manufacturers.
