If it is true that enthusiasm is contagious, then McLean will have a city-owned swimming pool by next summer. The group who met with the city council Tuesday night is ready to go out and get to work to find the money to build a pool. It will be a big job, there's no denying that. The price of swimming pool construction, just like everything else, has skyrocketed in the last few years. To add to the problem in McLean, the federal money which was so abundant for grants a few years ago has totally dried up.

So we must do it ourselves.

I hope you will help think of creative ways to make the fund grow. We intend to publish a list of all donations to the fund in the newspaper, much as we did with the War Memorial fund. If you wish to donate to the fund in memory of someone, you may indicate that when you make your deposit.

There is a savings account established at the American National Bank for all monies for the pool.

We're also hoping that McLean businesses, and some of the industry in the area will make donations to the fund. It's going to take a lot of hard work to come up with the big money required, but I think McLean can do it.

Our kids are certainly worth it.

The dog problem in McLean seems to be a continuing one, and it affects our family just as it does yours.

For many months we have had two registered Beagles who could dig their way out of the sturdiest pens or enclosures. For the last few months, we have been very lax about even trying to confine the animals because of their roaming nature.

Now, our dogs are very good natured. They would never, never bite anyone. The only problem with their roaming around has been that they are a nuisance to some of our neighbors occasionally.

But some of the dogs roaming McLean are huge breeds... German shepherds, Dobermans, Dalmatians. And whether these dogs would bite or not, they certainly can frighten the person they approach.

Last week, one of those big dogs put an end to the

I-40 Stop-Light Will Not Be Replaced, Highway Official Says

During a lengthy meeting of the McLean City Council August 10, city officials learned that the recently destroyed stop light at the corner of Interstate 40 and Main Street probably will not be replaced.

Texas Highway representative James Krandall explained that the highway department felt that there was not enough traffic passing through the intersection to warrant a stop light, saying not only "does the traffic not warrant a traffic light, but we cannot even authorize the city to erect a stop-and-go light."

Krandall instead offered to have the highway department erect flashing lights at the intersection corners. The lights would flash yellow for Interstate-40 traffic and red for Main street traffic.

He also said he would look into the possibility of erecting more speed limit signs on Interstate 40 within the city limits.

Councilman Jim Barker noted that since the accident Aug. 1 when the traffic light was destroyed that traffic speed had seemed to have picked up considerably.

Several councilmen expressed concern over the possibility of accidents occurring at the intersection because the light had been there for so long and many McLean citizens were used to using it to cross the intersection safely. When asked why the traffic was not enough to warrant a stop-and-go light at this time, Mr. Kendall stated that now there are more rules and regulations covering that aspect.

Kendall also was questioned about not being able to authorize the city to put up the signal, since the truck which tore down the original stop-and-go light was insured, and it was feasible that insurance money might cover the cost of replacing the fixture. Kendall said that he thought both the city and the highway department might be legally liable in case an accident should occur because of the light being re-installed.

After much discussion, Kendall agreed to run another traffic survey to see if traffic volume would warrant a new stop light. He will report to McLean aldermen when the report returns from the Austin office. The survey reportedly was taken August 12.

In other action, several McLean citizens met with the council to request that the city investigate the possibility of building a city-owned and operated swimming pool. Several of the delegation had contacted other cities in the area to get ideas for funding and costs, and they presented the different options they had gathered.

It was noted that most federal funding has been cut, and that the chances for obtaining a federal grant was slim, but councilmen and delegates will search for funding aid from other sources in the area. "It looks like we're going to have to go solely through donations if we want to get a swimming pool for our community," Mayor Sam Haynes said. "We're all in this together, and we'll all have to work to get this. The city will do everything it can to get this project going."

Sammons Communications representative John Mason attended the meeting to hear councilmen ask that the southeast part of the city be offered cable television service. Mason said he would conduct a study to see if the project was feasible, and would take the matter "to the powers that be."

Other actions taken at the city council meeting included the approval of the 1980-81 audit report. Aldermen also voted to

Swimming Pool Committee Organizes To Begin Raising Funds

Thirteen McLean citizens met with the McLean City Council Tuesday night to ask the City's cooperation in efforts to build a city-owned swimming pool.

Council members told the group that they would do everything possible to help with the project, but delayed voting on giving the group official status until the next meeting. The subject of the swimming pool was not on the council's agenda so no official vote could be taken.

However, officials assured the group that they saw no problems at this point with the formation of a committee to begin raising money.

Following the meeting with the council the group adjourned to the McLean News office for a short meeting. Members of the group decided to open a savings account at the American National Bank, and then discussed various methods of raising money.

Linda Haynes told the group that a preliminary estimate by a swimming pool company in Amarillo was for about $72,000 for construction of the pool. The amount did not include fencing or a bath house.

"We will probably need a minimum of $85,000 to get the pool in operation," she told the group. One citizen suggested that the group try to raise enough money to help pay the maintenance for a while.

"Pools just don't make money," one member said. "I understand the liability insurance is close to $10,000," Martha Bailey told the group.

"The ideal situation would be if we can raise $100,000, and use the excess to set up an endowment fund which would help pay the pool's losses over the years," Mrs. Haynes said.

Group members decided that they would approach oil companies in the area, and other industries and businesses. "Our only hope is that some of the big companies will be generous with donations, and that one of the area's charitable foundations will take an interest in the project," Mrs. Haynes said.

The group will meet again Aug. 30 at 7 p.m. at the Sam Haynes home at 317 Walnut. Anyone interested in becoming a part of the fund-raising activities is urged to attend.

Attending the initial meeting were Karan Mc-Clellan, Linda Haynes, Becky Stubbs, Margaret Milam, Lynda Syfrett, Martha Jo Bailey, Debbie Fitch, Tim Fitch, Kathy Carter, Miro Pakan, Thelma M'Carty, Ruth Boucher, and Billie Kingston.

Maryland Man Dies Following Head-On Collision In McLean

A Maryland man died Saturday morning in the Shamrock Hospital, where he was taken following a head-on collision in McLean Aug. 9. The 2:15 p.m. wreck occurred when Jack Little of Mashpee, Ma., driving a 1970 Torino was traveling the wrong way in the east bound lane of I-40.

His car collided with a 1981 Ford, driven by Malcolm Crouch of Springfield, Mo. Crouch and his wife were both hospitalized for cuts and abrasions in Shamrock.

According to Department of Public Safety trooper John Holland, hospital officials in Shamrock were preparing to release Little Saturday morning when they found him in his room dead. An autopsy has been ordered by hospital officials and Justice of the Peace Nobles of Lela.

The Little accident was one of four wrecks which occurred in or near the city of McLean within the last few days. The first wreck occurred Aug. 4 at 7:25 p.m. when a 1979 semi-truck, driven by Richard Lowe of Michigan City, Ind., took evasive action to avoid a 1977 semi-truck. The second truck, driven by Rene Beaugard of Danielson, Conn., allegedly turned from the wrong lane, according to investigating trooper Ron Shanks. The first truck skidded and hit two signs. No injuries were reported in the accident.

On Aug. 7, during a car-wash at the American National Bank parking lot in downtown McLean, Joseph Charles Rose of Stillwater, Okla. pulled into the lot. Darin Corley, driving a 1980 Ford owned by Wendell Ridgeway, pulled in behind the car. Rose started backing out, and hit the car. No injuries were reported.

On Aug. 10, about 2:40 p.m. Linda Jones, 37, of Crawfordsville, Ind., was injured when the motorcycle she was a passenger on suddenly turned left out of the wrong lane. The accident occurred on I-40 near Hembree's Truck stop. Carroll L. Jones was the driver of the motorcycle. They were hit by a 1977 Mercury Cougar, driven by Irven Stephens of Roswell, N.M.

Mrs. Jones was the only one injured in the wreck. She was taken to Shamrock hospital, treated and released.

Motorists Must Stop For School Buses, DPS Warns

Motorists should remember to stop for school buses which are unloading and loading passengers. Department of Public Safety trooper John Holland warned today. Holland said that now that school is back in session, the local DPS troopers will increase their patrols of the school area during the morning and afternoon when the buses are in operation.

"We want to make sure our children are safe," Holland said. "We will be strictly enforcing the law and issuing tickets."

The law requires that approaching vehicles must come to a complete stop if a school bus is in the process of stopping or if the bus is stopped, loading and unloading passengers. The vehicles must remain stopped until the bus's warning lights are no longer in operation, Holland said.

Fire Department Answers Two Calls This Week

Members of the McLean Volunteer Fire Department answered two fire calls last week. A fire Thursday night destroyed a vacant home about 10 miles south of Alanreed. The house, owned by Frank Hommel, was totally destroyed. The department answered the call about 8:30 p.m.

On Friday afternoon about 1:10 p.m., the department responded to a pickup fire. The Chevrolet pickup, belonging to

Bill Beck, was loaded with hay when it caught fire on the Carpenter place, eight miles north of McLean. The pickup was destroyed.

Two Cars Involved In Minor Wreck

An out-of-state car turned left out of the right-hand lane in the west-bound lane of Interstate 40 Monday afternoon, and hit the car of a McLean woman. Deryl Middleton of McLean was driving a 1979 white Ford when her vehicle was struck by a 1978

Volkswagon, driven by Laura Lucille Bennett of Pittsburgh, Pa. There were no injuries in the incident.

OPINIONS

VIEWS ARE WRITTEN BY LINDA HAYNES UNLESS OTHERWISE NOTED. IF YOU HAVE AN OPINION ON ANY CURRENT SUBJECT WE WELCOME YOUR SIGNED LETTERS.

Can You Believe It?

If you don't believe that some people will bring suit on the slightest pretext, or that some people can be callously ungrateful, then you haven't heard about a recent pending lawsuit in Amarillo. As an announcement was being made of the death of an Amarillo firefighter, who died from burns received fighting an apartment house fire, the same newspaper carried the story that residents of that apartment are considering suing the Amarillo fire department for "improperly fighting the fire."

In that particular apartment fire, more than 20 people were rescued from the burning building. Not one single resident lost his life in the fire. The only casualty was an Amarillo fireman, and now his department is being accused of botching their job.

Is it any wonder that firemen and policemen become discouraged? These public servants daily risk their lives at relatively low-paying jobs. It seems to me that the least they deserve is the respect and gratitude of the people they protect.

Instead of filing suit against the City of Amarillo, those residents who had their lives saved by the firemen, should be establishing a fund for the widow of the fireman who died.

How can those apartment dwellers compare the loss of their television sets and clothes to the loss of a man's life? As one who has lived through a house fire, I think that I am better qualified than many to say that the loss of things is totally unimportant when it is compared to the loss of a human life.

Since some of those people who were saved from the fire don't know the meaning of gratitude, I'm sure they don't know the meaning of shame either, but I'm going to say it anyway.

"You ought to be ashamed of yourself!"

 A farmer took five pieces of chain, of three links each, to a blacksmith, and asked him to make it into one piece of chain. If the blacksmith charges one cent to cut a link and one cent to weld a link, how much should he charge for the entire work? The answer is not 8 cents.

Saturday afternoon we enjoyed a visit to the grape vineyard of W. P. The Vermillion vineyard contains some fifteen hundred or two thousand plants, divided between the beautiful white Niagra and the more beautiful Concord varieties. The vines are loaded almost to their capacity with a splendid sample of fruit and quite a few bunches have been found that weigh as much as a pound each.

I know some of you are not dog lovers, but most of you love children, so you will understand how Belle's death affected Dollie. The dog was her constant companion, and shared many secrets with her mistress. We were all saddened by her senseless death.

But in a way I feel very guilty. I was the one who let the dog roam around, and be exposed to vicious animals and speeding cars. If she had not been killed by the big dog, she probably would have been run over eventually. So I am as responsible for her death as is the thoughtless owner of that big dog which is still roaming the streets of McLean.

Thank God, the big dog killed another dog this time, and not a small child.

Perhaps we were all lucky. Belle's death has made me resolve that I will never again be irresponsible enough to allow a dog to roam around the streets, and perhaps those of you who own large dogs will see that your dog is confined before a more serious tragedy occurs.

ings, let me add a postscript to this story. Although nothing will ever quite replace the sweet personality of our lost Beagle, Dollie is now the proud owner of a new puppy. Chel See Tu, a Shih Tzu (a Tibetan breed), is a tiny dog who looks like a big ball of fur. He will never be allowed outside the house, unless he is on a leash, so I know he will not suffer the same fate as Belle. The "dog problem" in McLean would be solved if each of us were more thoughtful about our fellowman, and even more loving to our pets. Allowing a dog to run loose because he hates to be penned is really not kind, since this practice often results in the death of the dog. Just ask me...I am much sadder now, but also much wiser about dogs.

Loose Marbles

by Lisa Patman

About the time you let your guard down and actually start liking a teenager, the dirty rat will turn on you and make you remember just how insufferable he can be.

Just last night Old Dad and I, lulled into a state of mellowness by some kind words uttered by a few ornery teens we know, were cajoled into taking a herd of them to see an atrocity called Friday the 13th, Part III, which happened to be a movie filmed in new, improved 3-D.

If the term 3-D brings to mind the delightful chills of Vincent Price in the House of Wax, or the fun or Rocks from Outer Space, both of which thrilled us years ago, then unhook your galluses and settle back in your rocker, because this new stuff is a real mind-boggler.

For two hours Old Dad and I were trapped in theater seats while onscreen a strange looking guy in a hockey mask chopped up a bunch of teenagers at a lakeside camp. Oh, it wasn't that the kids didn't have it coming, since for the most part they were a motley lot who probably had paid for the whole trip on some unsuspecting parent's charge card. One of them hadn't bathed since graduating from the bathinette. Another guzzled beer with a funnel. I won't mention what the girls were like, but it's just as well they got the ax there, because they were sure to get it when they returned home.

But if the chopped bodies and splattered blood weren't enough, this new 3-D had eyeballs flipping out nearly in our laps, dismembered limbs hurling over our heads, and an occasional pitchfork slicing just this far from our ear. Old Dad excused himself about midway through the flick. I sat flused to my chair--probably stuck there by dried blood.

When we finally escaped to our car, the first question we asked our younger son was "How could you bring your poor old parents to a movie like that?" He just laughed a heinous cackle (Heh, heh, heh) and proceeded to jump out from behind the back seat and scream everytime he thought he might have a chance to scare the living daylight out of us. By the time I finally managed to errand into the house and turn on the lights, I was ready for the loony bin, and Old Dad wasn't much better. The kid was having a wonderful time scaring us into early cardiac arrests.

So let that be a lesson to you, and never again think that you might be able to like a teenager. If you do, you're sure to find yourself the target of his sadistic fun. And there is little remedy for that--except, of course, the old wise parent's trick of sending the kid outside on an errand, waiting in a dark corner of the yard, and scaring the tar out of him when he goes by. It worked for me, and if the coach could have seen the height of his jump that kid would have a college track scholarship today. Heh, heh, heh.

Meet The Teachers

The McLean News presents this special picture feature of the McLean School faculty for 1982-83. We hope that this will give the parents an opportunity to know their child's teacher. We apologize to some of the teachers that their pictures are not as flattering as they could be. We caught the faculty on their first day of work, and some of them were overwhelmed at the thoughts of beginning another year. (All photos by Linda Haynes)

Let's talk.

Information about your changing telephone service from Gary Stevens, Community Relations Manager.

State's Telephone Growth Takes Tall Texas Doings

Hear about the difference between a fairy tale and a "tall Texas tale?" Seems a fairy tale always begins, "Once upon a time..." while a tall Texas tale begins, "Y'all ain't gonna believe this..."

But as a matter of fact, the tremendous telephone growth in Texas creates a story that sounds almost unreal. Nearly 10,000 linear miles of cable were added during the year ending March 31, 1982. Add to that more than 130,000 new phone customers for the same period. And Texans make 72 million local calls during the average business day, 5.1 million long distance messages and 1.4 million calls to directory assistance.

The impressive statistics could go on and on, but more important to most of our customers is the question of whether we're doing a good job in trying to hold down the cost of service in an era of rapid inflation and rising costs?

Ratepayers Benefit Directly From Productivity Increase

Probably the best indicator is productivity. And the productivity of Southwestern Bell's Texas operations has exceeded that of private industry throughout the nation by a large margin over the past five years. Our company has averaged 3 percent annually in Texas, compared to the national productivity growth of 0.2 percent (two tenths of one percent) for the same period.

This outstanding productivity performance has helped significantly in holding down costs for Texas telephone ratepayers. Each percentage point of productivity directly offsets a percentage point of inflation in operating expenses incurred by the company. However, the rate of inflation during the last five years has more than doubled Southwestern Bell's productivity performance... good as it is. In other words, we haven't been able to offset inflation, but we keep trying.

Incidentally, our rate application hearings before the Texas Public Utility Commission are scheduled to begin about September 1. If at any time during the hearings you have any questions or comments, I'll be glad to hear from you.

School Days Bring Need For Extra-Special Caution

Speaking of comments, I appreciate those in response to my first column. Some of my friends around town have been kidding me about saying "Let's talk," then suggesting you drop me a note instead of calling. But there's a simple explanation. I spend most of my working day trying to visit as many customers as possible in the area.

Since I'm not in the office much, I ask you to drop me a note that I can read on the road or at home. Then I can get back to you, already prepared to answer your questions, at the earliest possible time.

Here's a safety reminder: With school beginning, it's more important than ever that all of us exercise extreme caution when driving, especially in school zones and on the highways when school buses are picking up or dropping off children.

Remember, if you have something to talk about don't hesitate to drop me a line. Here's my address:

Iron Eyes My Life as a Hollywood Indian

by Iron Eyes Cody

Millions of Americans will recognize Iron Eyes Cody as the Indian with the tear in his eye in the "Keep America Beautiful" campaign on television, and would not realize the varied and fascinating career in movies, ecology campaigns and service to his country contributed by this rare American.

He is no doubt the most famous of all the American Indian actors, and has appeared in over 200 films with most of the famous western actors of our time, in many of the classics enjoyed for so long by an appreciative American public.

Cody's contributions also include service in the F. B. I. for his country in World War II, and intense activity in promoting American Indian causes while in the thick of the fast-moving, sophisticated world of Hollywood.

You will find "Iron Eyes" to be an excellent story-teller, as he recounts many of the interesting-not generally-known facts about people and events in the thrilling and bizarre whirl of the movie industry, and he touches all bases from his start in movies, his close personal relationship with Gary Cooper, and his unique insight into the careers of early cowboy greats such as Tom Mix, "Hoot" Gibson and Tim McCoy.

"Iron Eyes" is a one-of-a-kind memoir of a fantastic original-type person who has said he not only speaks with two tongues, but with two minds as he fights to promote the futherance of his race as well as mix successfully with the great stars and meet the problems of a whirlwind Hollywood society.

"Iron Eyes, My Life as a Hollywood Indian" by Iron Eyes Cody, is now available at Lovett Memorial Library.

In The Kitchen

by Linda Haynes

This week's recipe comes all the way from Tucson, Ariz., via Lisa Patman. Lisa ate this dish while visiting with friends there, and swears it is "out of this world." A warning, however: just because the dish has cottage cheese, it is definitely not low calorie. Eat, and enjoy.

Cottage Cheese Noodles Florentine
Corinne Greene
4C (about 6 oz.) medium egg noodles
1 10 oz. pkg. frozen chopped spinach
2 C. (1 lb.) Cottage cheese
1/2 C. grated Parmesan cheese
1/2 C. sour cream

1 tsp. salt
1/4 to 1/2 tsp. hot pepper sauce (Tabasco)
1/4 tsp. dried leaf basil
1/4 tsp. dried leaf thyme
2 Tbs. butter, melted
1/2 C. dry bread crumbs
Cook noodles according to package directions.
In large bowl, mix thawed spinach, cottage cheese, Parmesan cheese, sour cream, salt, hot sauce, basil, and thyme. Stir in noodles. Turn into a 1 1/2 quart casserole.

In small bowl, combine melted butter and bread crumbs. Sprinkle over top of casserole.

Bake, covered, at 350 degrees for 45 minutes. Serves about six.

FREE EDUCATION AND THE UNDOCUMENTED WORKER

On June 15, 1982, the Supreme Court ruled 5-4, that Texas and other states must provide free public education for the children of undocumented workers—people in this country illegally.

Our current Lt. Governor, Mr. Hobby, was happy with the decision, praising it as the "only rational decision" the court could have made.

On the contrary, I think it was a wrong decision that defied both law and logic. One of the principal underpinnings of an orderly society is that one should not benefit from breaking the law. All around the world, thousands of people stand patiently in line at our embassies, waiting for legal entry into this country. By its recent ruling, the Supreme Court told these people that, if they are smart, they will ignore our immigration laws, find some other way to enter, and then there's a good likelihood all manner of taxpayer-supported benefits will be open to them and their families.

We can all feel sympathy for people driven to emigrate by desperate economic conditions. And I believe we should be compassionate toward the children of undocumented workers who are here through no fault of their own. We have been told we must educate these children and we will, it is our duty.

But I am deeply concerned about the effect this will have on our school systems and the quality of education. We have only a certain amount of desks and dollars with which to address the problems of educating Texas' children.

The court was essentially establishing social policy under the guise of ruling on a constitutional question. The result was bad law and bad social policy. It should now be up to the Federal Government to help pay for the mess they have created by not properly policing our borders.

did you know?

The steam-driven turbine rotor at Tolk Station, our new coal-fired plant near Muleshoe, Texas, whirls at such great speed that if it were placed on the highway, it would travel the 125 miles from Lubbock to Amarillo in about 6 minutes. Other interesting facts about the power plant, which began generating electricity in July: At the speed the main steam — which drives the turbine — travels through the pipes, it could finish the Boston Marathon (26 miles) in about 12 minutes. At maximum output the turbine produces about 728,000 horsepower. It can provide power for 5,430,000 hundred-watt light bulbs.

Jim Matthews, Generation Design & Construction Group Manager, Amarillo.

The primary fuel for Tolk Station is a low-sulphur, high-heat-value coal from the Black Thunder Mine near Gillette, Wyoming. Southwestern Public Service made the decision to buy this coal because the low-sulphur rating means we can comply with certain requirements of the Clean Air Act without installing extremely complex and extremely expensive pollution-control devices.

Leo Austin, Supervising Engineer, Roswell.

We'll turn things upside down to benefit our customers. Here's an example: We use a "rotary dumper" system to unload the railroad cars which carry coal to Tolk. The cars are unloaded one by one. Each is attached to a large wheel that literally turns the car upside down, pouring out the coal. The system allows us to use lighter weight coal cars. So our freight cost is lower, and so is the fuel cost adjusting our customers pay.

Jack Logan, Operations Superintendent, Muleshoe.

Soil Conservation Service
Gray County Critical Area Treatment RC&D Measure, Texas
Agency: Soil Conservation Service
Action: Notice of a Finding of No Significant Impact

Summary: Pursuant to Section 102 (2) (C) of the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969; the Council on Environmental Quality Guidelines (40 CFR Part 1500); the Soil Conservation Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture, gives notice that an environmental impact statement is not being prepared for the Gray County Critical Area Treatment RC&D Measure, Gray County, Texas.

For Further Information Contact: George C. Marks, State Conservationist, Soil Conservation Service, W. R. Poage Federal Building, 101 South Main, Temple, Texas, 76503, telephone 817-774-1214.

Supplementary Information: The environmental assessment of this federally assisted action indicates that the project will not cause significant local, regional, or national impacts on the environment. As a result of these findings, George C. Marks, State Conservationist, has determined that the preparation and review of an environmental impact statement are not needed for this project.

The measure concerns a plan for critical area treatment at seven severely eroding gullied areas. Planned works of improvement include installing grade stabilization structures and shaping the adjacent eroding areas. All areas will be fenced and vegetated. This will involve 31 acres of eroded areas and 18 acres of rangeland adjacent to the eroded areas.

The Notice of a Finding of No Significant Impact (FONSI) has been forwarded to the Environmental Protection Agency and to various Federal, State, and local agencies and interested parties. A limited number of copies of the FONSI are available to fill single copy requests at the above address. Basic data developed during the environmental assessment are on file and may be reviewed by contacting George C. Marks.

No administrative action on implementation of the proposal will be taken until 30 days after the date of this publication in the Federal Register.

CARD OF THANKS

The last few months since Buddy was diagnosed as being terminally ill had been a nightmare for our family. Many times we searched for a reason this horrible disease could rob us of our husband and father. But Buddy's faith never wavered, although he got physically very weak. He remained emotionally strong and independent as ever. He was still the rock we could lean on, when we were frightened, he gave us courage. But now as we stand alone, it is God and you our many loving friends in which we get our strength. Words cannot express our thanks for everything the people of McLean and the area did for us. One friend we met when Buddy was in St. Anthony's hospital sent me this poem. We have found much comfort in reading it. Perhaps you will too.

To those I love and Those who love me, When I am gone, release me, let me go. I have so many things to see and do.

You mustn't tie yourself to me with tears, Be happy we had so many beautiful years.

I gave to you my love, You can only guess how much you gave to me in happiness.

I thank you for the love you each have shown, But now it's time I travelled on alone.

So grieve for me awhile, if grieve you must, Then let your grief be comforted by trust.

It's only for awhile we must part, so bless the memories within your heart.

I won't be far away, for life goes on, So if you need me, call and I will come.

Though you can't touch me I'll be near All my love around you so soft and clear

And when you must come this way alone, I'll greet you with a smile and say,

"Welcome Home" Pascal O (Buddy) Holloway - August 11, 1902 - August 10, 1982. We will surely miss him. Thanks again to everyone, especially Creed and Wanda Lamb.

Summer Care of Flowering Annuals

Care and attention are necessary to keep flowering annuals looking attractive until frost.

A few suggestions are offered for the necessary care.

1. Remove all faded flowers to prevent seed production. Allowing plants to set seed will shorten the flowering period.

2. Don't be alarmed if plants wilt slightly in mid-afternoon. This is the natural method of preventing excessive moisture loss. Watering is usually unnecessary unless plants fail to recover by late evening.

3. When soil is dry, water thoroughly, soaking the soil to a depth of five to six inches. Allow soil to become slightly dry before watering again. Use a mulch to conserve moisture.

4. To encourage new growth, cut plants back drastically. This is especially true of petunias as they have a tendency to become tall and leggy.

5. Stake tall-growing annuals to prevent damage from high winds or heavy rains.

6. Maintain a disease prevention program to fight off mildew and leaf spots.

7. Apply a complete fertilizer every four to six weeks.

8. If plants are too far gone, just pull them out and replace. Most nurseries and garden centers will have a supply of fall flowering plants in stock.

Let me live in my house by the side of the road, And be a friend to man,
