"I'm Sooner born, and I'm Sooner bred, and when I die, I'll be Sooner dead...Rah, Oklahoma! Rah, Oklahoma! Rah, OKLAHOMA!!! OKU!!!!

Thanks for letting me say that. You must realize that I am a loyal transplanted Texan, that I love the state that I have lived in for 20 years, that I wouldn't move back to Oklahoma for all the world, but...OU finally beat Texas, after four 1-o-n-g years, and the old Sooner blood in me just rises to the surface, and has to cheer!

Since I have been writing this column, the Texas Longhorns have repeatedly humiliated the pride of Oklahoma Sooners, year after year. And next year may be the same old Texas song.... but for just a few days, we ex-Okies have to crow.

I hope the television executive who didn't include the traditional Oklahoma-Texas rivalry on the schedule was mortified Saturday. Some anonymous network official nixed airing the game because it "would probably not be exciting." It may be that I am prejudiced, but how could anyone think that clash could ever be dull?

Saturday's contest was one of the most exciting in years (at least from the accounts of the radio announcers, and I'm sure the television people missed out on millions in revenue.

I had a call Sunday afternoon from one of our favorite Texas Longhorns who good-naturedly admitted defeat. He said the game was a real thriller, but ended the conversation with the same line I've been forced to use for the last few years: "Just wait until next year!"

Since you've let me brag this year, I promise that if the 'Horns hook OU next year, I will finally learn all the words to "The Eyes of Texas!"

A McLean parent complained to me the other day that the students at McLean High School don't have enough homework to keep them busy.

I wondered then what that parent's definition of homework was. Does he mean some kind of meaningless busy work, a written assignment that is simply intended to

Schools To Begin Accreditation Check, Superintendent Says

The McLean School Board took care of regular business Monday night, despite the absence of three members who were out of town. Board members Darryl Herndon, Joe Magee, and Tony Smitherman were unable to attend the meeting, where board members discussed accreditation, the appraisal district, requirements for high school graduation, and hired a new employee in the business office.

Superintendent Jim Rutherford told the board that the regional service center in Amarillo had been chosen for a pilot program in accreditation by the Texas Education Agency, and that McLean would be required to start a self-study in the next few months. Accreditation studies are done every five years, Rutherford explained, and McLean had two more years before a regular study was due. The pilot program speeded the schedule up, he said. The board approved the budget of the Gray County Appraisal District which calls for the MISD to pay $4806 for its share of the $83,583 budget for the rest of 1982. The budget for 1983 will be about $300,000, but McLean's share will be determined after the tax levy is set, according to Lloyd Hunt, who is a member of both the McLean school board and the Appraisal District board.

A request from a McLean High School junior to approve a plan for early graduation was denied by the board. The board reviewed its policy concerning graduation from McLean High School, and after a lengthy discussion decided that the case in question did not qualify as a hardship case. Board members discussed tightening the existing policy regarding early graduation.

The board approved the purchase of a WW stock trailer for the ag department for $2000.

Following an executive session, the board, in open session, voted to accept the resignation of Judy Morris from the business office and to hire Mrs. Sue Simmons

American National Bank Begins Changeover To Computer System

Some customers of the American National Bank in McLean were confused last week when they received a supply of checks which they had not ordered. A letter included with the free checks, however, explains that the McLean bank is changing to an automated posting system which will require personalized checks and deposit slips with an account number.

According to Jim Allison, president of the bank, all counter checks will be removed from businesses in the near future, and the bank will honor only the personalized checks with account numbers.

"Several regulatory changes are pending for banks our size," Allison said. "It is necessary for us to make this change on our accounts."

Roger McCracken, vice-president of the bank, said that the bank hopes to have the new system fully operational by Nov. 1. "We're sorry about any inconvenience to our customers, but we feel that this system will prove advantageous in the long run."

All transactions at the bank will carry the account number. "Each account is assigned with a number which is different from any other account," McCracken said. Included in the sample checks are account number identification cards.

"The new checks should make it easier for our customers to cash checks out of town," Allison said. "Several stores in Pampa and

Amarillo now require account numbers on checks for their electronic cash registers. American National Bank customers have had to use social security numbers to cash checks in those stores, one local resident reported.

Bike-A-Thon Set For Saturday

McLean youngsters have been busy gathering sponsors for the last week in preparation for the annual St. Jude's Bike-A-Thon which will begin at 9 a.m. Saturday. The youngsters have been asking area residents to pledge a certain amount of money per mile the child rides during the bike-a-thon. The money raised during the project sponsored by the McLean Lions Club goes to the hospital in Nashville which treats critically ill children.

The ride will begin with a registration and bicycle safety check at the elementary school at 9 a.m. Orientation of riders begins at 9:25, and then the actual ride begins at 9:30. The bike-a-thon officially ends at noon. Youngsters who ride in the event will receive various types of prizes.

"Each rider will be given a lap card when he registers at the elementary school Saturday," according to Dorman Thomas, chairman of the event. "Every time the riders pass through the check points, we'll initial the card. At the end of the ride, we'll check it and sign it to show that the rider earned what the sponsor pledged." Riders will then return to the sponsors to collect the pledge.

The riders will follow a mile-long route which will begin at the front entrance of the elementary school, go north 2 1/2 blocks to Wood Ave., turn west to the south east corner of the football field, turn south to Fourth Street, turn east to Main Street, and then turn north of the starting point.

"We'll also be giving them a hospital bracelet

Blackhawks Zap Tigers For Homecoming Victory Saturday Night

The Phillips Blackhawks rolled over the McLean Tigers last Friday night in a stunning 28-0 victory. Over 1000 fans watched the Phillips homecoming game at Chesty Walker Stadium in Phillips. McLean fans had high hopes at the beginning of the gridiron battle, as McLean recovered a Blackhawk fumble on the Tiger 33 in Phillips' first possession of the game. But those hopes were dashed halfway into the first quarter, as Phillips' tailback Mike McKee scored on a 35-yard run. Kyle Lynch's kick was good for the extra point, and Phillips led 7-0. And when a Tiger punt was blocked midway through the second quarter, Phillips regained possession of the ball on McLean's 10-yard line.

From there it was an easy trek to scoring territory. And Blackhawk McKee took it over from the Defensive Driving Course Begins 8 A.M. Saturday

Drivers who need a 10 percent discount on their insurance can still sign up for the defensive driving course in McLean Saturday, according to Chamber of Commerce president Ida Hess. The Chamber is sponsoring the course free to anyone who wishes to take it. The all-day course will begin at 8 a.m. at the McLean Lions Club building. Participants should bring a sack lunch. The Chamber will furnish drinks for the noon meal. Successful completion of the course will give the driver 10 percent off his car insurance, according to Jane Simpson, local insurance agent. "If all

Sarpalius Should Be Re-elected

If Texas voters are really interested in good government in Austin, State Senator Bill Sarpalius should be a shoo-in for re-election to the Texas Senate in November. He has shown during his brief tenure in office that he keeps his campaign promises. He pledged to listen to the people of his district and to work on their behalf, and he promised to use his mobile office to stay in touch with local problems.

Those promises have been kept. The mobile office has visited McLean and the other towns in the district on a regular basis, and Sarpalius' able aid Henry Honea has effectively transmitted the people's concerns back to the Senator. Sen. Sarpalius has been available to the people of his district whenever his presence was needed. Each time we have needed an effective voice in Austin to help us with local problems, Sarpalius has responded, and responded quickly.

He has built one of the most impressive records of any freshman legislator by introducing 30 bills, 21 of which have passed into law. He was the only freshman legislator to be chosen to chair a committee. His work as chairman of the Agriculture Subcommittee has kept him at the forefront of the various problems facing this troubled industry which is so important to our area.

Bill Sarpalius is that rare breed: the honest politician. If he survives the legislative wars long enough, he has a good chance of becoming one of the outstanding political leaders in Texas history. Sarpalius is a good family man, a dedicated worker, a decent human being - what more could the voters of the 31st District ask for?

"keep him busy"? Or does he mean a reading assignment or a study assignment?

As a teacher for 13 years I was never much of a believer in written homework. After I spent the first year grading Johnny's mother's themes, I quit assigning themes to be done at home. But as a teacher, I always assigned work to be read and studied outside of class.

I did some checking at the high school, and found that that is the procedure of most of the teachers in the school. Almost every teacher assigns some sort of material to be studied every night. Many of them do not assign written work to be done outside of class for the same reason that I did not.

If you are a parent, and you are upset because your youngster's grades were too low, don't believe that he has no homework. He probably does, but is leaving his books at school. If you are concerned, go to school and talk to the teacher. I assure you that as a teacher I was always pleased when a parent showed enough interest in his child to come and talk to me.

Most students receive poor grades because they have poor study habits. While they can manage to eke by in high school, they will quickly flunk out of college if they do not know how to study.

Report cards went out in all grades in McLean last week. If you don't like what you saw on your youngster's card (if you even saw it!), call the school and learn what time the teacher's conference period is. Pay the school a visit and get the information first hand.

But as an old teacher, I can almost assure you that the old line, "I don't have anything to study" is probably fictitious.

Studying role-taking can help to improve aggressive behavior

COLLEGE STATION — Aggressive boys may improve their behavior by learning to view a situation from another person's perspective, according to the results of a study conducted by a Texas A&M University graduate.

Jody Ann Gilberg, who recently received a Ph.D. in educational psychology, conducted the study with 30 boys aged 13-19 who had been identified by their teachers and counselors at a Southeast Texas private school as aggressive.

"Aggressive kids have difficulty viewing the world — including themselves — from another perspective," said Gilberg, who recently assumed a position as school psychologist with the Texas Department of Corrections Windham School System. "Our study helped the students to see themselves from the perspective of others. Before the study began many of the boys couldn't even understand what it was like to be in someone else's shoes."

In The Kitchen

by Linda Haynes

A favorite book of mine in year's past was Peg Bracken's I Hate To Cook Book. The book was filled with delicious recipes for the person who doesn't want to spend much time in the kitchen.

I enjoy cooking on those leisurely days when I have time, but when my schedule is tight, I want to prepare a nutritious dish in a very small amount of time. That's why I came up with this fast version of stuffed peppers. The taste is identical to the recipe which involves several steps of preparation. This recipe requires only a skillet, and just a few minutes of preparation time.

UNSTUFFED PEPPERS
 1½ lbs. ground beef
 1 large can tomato sauce
 ½ onion, chopped
 salt and pepper bay leaf garlic powder tobacco sauce
 instant rice (about ½ cup uncooked)

2 or 3 large bell peppers
 In large skillet, brown ground beef. Drain off most of drippings. Add onion, and cook until onion is clear. Add seasonings as listed to taste.

Add tomato sauce. Let cook for a few minutes. Add rice and enough water to cover. Cut bell peppers into large chunks

(at least quarters) and lay on top of rice. Cover skillet and let cook until rice has soaked up most of the sauce and water.

An unused swing set can turn a backyard into an eyesore... unless you hang flower baskets from the frame, attach a bird feeder to the overhead bar and plant climbing vines to trail up the legs. A thing of beauty!

FARM AND RANCH EQUIPMENT TAX?

Amendment No. 3 on the November ballot

AUSTIN — Presently, farm and ranch equipment is on the property tax rolls, except for a $15,000 exemption for individuals and a $30,000 exemption for families. Amendment No. 3 would remove implements of husbandry from property taxation, without any limits as to value or the form of ownership (family, partnership, corporation).

Supporters of the amendment say the property tax is hard to enforce and never has generated much money for schools and the state. They say farm equipment is often hard to find and hard to appraise — so hard, in fact, that it may cost more to collect the tax than the tax generates. They say the tax frequently is not collected now and accounts for only 0.2 percent of school districts' taxable property. Supporters say the school districts never would miss this small amount, but that this tax break would mean a lot to hard-pressed farmers and ranchers.

Also, supporters say farmers already pay tax on their equipment because of the new agricultural valuation of land for property taxes. This method of assessment values land for its production value, and therefore includes the value of the equipment needed for that production.

Opponents of the amendment say we really do not know how much this tax is worth, but the new appraisal districts created under the new Property Tax

Code probably will find out and tax the equipment more aggressively than in the past.

Opponents of the amendment say we really do not know how much this tax is worth, but the new appraisal districts created under the new Property Tax Code probably will find out and tax the equipment more aggressively than in the past.

They say agricultural equipment is no harder to appraise than industrial equipment, and that there is no reason to give farmers and ranchers a special break. They claim that someone else will have to make up the difference in tax collections if this exemption passes. In other words, property taxes in rural areas may increase.

If you think the exemption is a good idea and that farmers and ranchers should not have to pay property taxes on their machinery, vote for the amendment. If you think farmers and ranchers should not receive an exemption on their machinery, or you feel other property taxes may have to increase if they do, vote against the amendment.

Because of the needs of the people we represent and our position as Chairman of the Senate Agriculture Subcommittee, agriculture is the most important topic we face in the Texas Senate. If you have any questions or comments on how we can do a better job for agriculture, please write Senator Bill Sarpalius, P. O. Box 12068, Austin, Texas 78711.

Loose Marbles

by Lisa Patman

Last week we carried a letter to the editor in which the writer criticized football spectators who hurl insults quicker than the quarterback can toss the football.

It's a pity that letter had to come up at this time. I was just about ready to start my "Let's Insult Employees" movement. At a time when unemployment and inflation are teaming up to wreck our lives, I thought a little cursing and yelling would do us all a world of good.

Think of it. Let's say your bathroom sink is stopped up, and you call a plumber. The plumber comes, tracks mud all over your carpet, scatters tools all over the bathroom, and leaves, muttering "I need to order a new phalagnicart for the thermopsis. It'll take two weeks. Give me $40." Under my new plan, you, and a gathering of your friends who have been so treated by plumbers in general, would be allowed to gather in front of the plumbers home and boo him into submission.

Been frustrated by the rising cost of gasoline? Under the new "Insult Employees" plan, you simply grab the nearest oil company employee and scream ego-shriveling curses into his ear until his melts into a little puddle of goo. Forget the fact that he probably couldn't do anything about gas prices, or the fact that he's having trouble with them himself, just get it out of your system.

This whole thing has incredible possibilities. With some good enthusiastic members we could soon find ourselves mauling homemakers with dirty yellow buildup, pummeling starving actors who do crummy commercials, and hasseling the man on the street for standing on our shadows.

We could let off steam by kicking the daylight out of the milkman when the price of cream goes up, ax-murdering a telephone operator when we get a wrong number, maybe assaulting a little old lady for being wrinkled.

Think what we could do to the cowboy when our steak was tough, the teacher when our kids played hooky, the minister when we sinned, the reporter when our newspaper.....

Er, perhaps this is something we ought to put on the back burner for awhile. Maybe it's an idea whose time hasn't come. Come to think of it, it's a really stupid idea. Let's forget the whole thing. Please.

Yeah Team. Go Fight Win.

be exhibited as wall hangings in the Heritage Room and Lobby; a display of Western Art will be sponsored by the Fine Arts Association; slides of earlier days in Gray County and Pampa may be viewed in the lobby of the Auditorium.

Saturday evening will be one of the highlights of the week-end when Gray County early pioneers will be honored at a banquet in the Heritage Room of the M. K. Brown Auditorium. All people who were in Gray County in the 1920's and earlier are urged to get reserations in for the banquet by Oct. 13. Everyone is invited and urged to come and join in the festivities. The banquet tickets are $8. per person. Anyone may come, as long as the tickets last. Seating is limited to 480.

A style show of early-day fashions and today's western wear will be modeled during the dinner.

The celebration will continue on Sunday with three activities scheduled. An airplane exhibit and air show, a tour of historical homes, and dedication of a post office historical marker at the museum will conclude the schedule of events.

Homes on the tour include: 1033 Christine, Tom Bates home, originally the home of the Horace Saunders, parents of Bette Bates. 1100 Mary Ellen, Chuck Ekleberry home, originally the C. T. Hunkapillar home, and later belonging to the George B. Crees. 1206 Christine - The Bill Bridges' home, originally the John Sturgeon home. 1401 Mary Ellen - The Benny Kirksey home, originally the Guy Saunders' home. 321 N. West - the I. B. Hughey home. One-half mile north of Pampa on Highway 70 - the Robert Mack home, originally the Jud Wilson home.

The Tour of Homes will be $5 per person. Tickets will be available at each home when the tour starts.

Other activities include exhibits in the Pampa Mall by Pampa school children and tours of the White Deer Land Museum at 116 S. Cuyler. Two historical books which have been published for the celebration are the Gray County Heritage Cook Book by Darlene Birkes, and a Souvenir Historical Book on five pioneer families of Gray County by Eileta Nolte. These books will be available at the registration table all day Saturday, Oct. 16, at the M. K. Brown Auditorium.

McLean's Thomas Nursing Center Has Latest In Fire Safety Equipment

THREE RESIDENTS OF Thomas Nursing Home in McLean enjoy working on crafts following the

McLean's Thomas Nursing Center has one of the most up-to-date, efficient fire alarm and sprinkler systems available, according to administrator Bill Thomas. Noting the concern for fire safety in nursing homes following the tragic fire at a Pampa Nursing home Sunday, Thomas explained that the McLean home has an outstanding system.

"Every compartment - rooms, closets, baths - on the main floor of the nursing home has a sprinkler head," he said. Also all attic spaces at the home have sprinklers.

According to news reports from Pampa and Amarillo, the Pampa Home did not have sprinklers in each patient's room.

Thomas said that all walls in the McLean facility are 5/8 inch fire-retardant sheet rock. All doors are 1 1/4 inch solid core which gives them a one-hour fire rating.

Smoke detectors are placed on a 15 foot center in all halls, the nursing station, the living room, dining room, and the return-air ducts for the air conditioning system.

All wiring to the fire alarm system is heat-resistant wire, Thomas said. All water valves for the sprinkler system have tamper monitors on them, Thomas explained. "If water is turned off to the sprinkler system, then an alarm goes off at the nursing station," he said.

All walls on the hall ways and at the entrance to each wing are fire partition walls which extend all the way to the roof line. The entrance to each wing and the area between the nursing station and the living room are equipped with smoke doors which automatically close if the fire alarm goes off.

"The system has several fail-safe mechanisms," Thomas said. "If the electricity goes off, the generator kicks on. If for some reason the generator does not work, the system is equipped with batteries which will keep it operational up to two hours," he said. The new home, opened in April, 1979, conforms with all codes for fire safety.

Each wing of the brick building has a separate heating and cooling system so that there is no penetration of air from one area to another. All air handlers (air conditioning, heating, vents) automatically close, and an audible, visual alarm goes off. The alarm features a screeching horn and flashing red lights.

The fire alarm system is in six zones: one for each patient wing, one for the living room area, one for the nurses' station and one for the sprinkler system. The sprinkler heads activate by heat, Thomas said, a fire extinguisher has been placed in each hall, the nurses station, the laundry, the living room, and the kitchen. He said that the vent over the cook stove has an automatic extinguisher system on it.

The center has fire drills once per quarter, station, and a couple of weeks ago when the McLean High School students staged their annual bonfire two blocks away from the home.

"The system is very sensitive," Thomas said. "It will pick up smoke long before the humans can sense the danger."

Thomas noted that an inspector from the Life Safety division of the Texas Department of Public Health inspects the devices once a year to make sure the home conforms to a life-safety code.

Thomas conducted a fire drill Tuesday morning to show how the procedure works. He placed a bright red "Fire" sign in a patient's room, and then activated a smoke alarm outside that room.

The nursing staff quickly gathered at the nursing station, as the automatic doors slid closed. By checking the security system panel at the nurse's station, the supervisor was able to note which wing the "fire" was located in. Nurses were sent to that wing where all rooms were checked. The occupants of the room with the "fire" sign were evacuated, the door to that room was closed, and the drill was completed.

Thomas explained that all curtains are either inherently fire retardant or have been treated. Also all upholstery and floor-covering in the building is fire retardant and only the heads that receive heat, spray.

In pointing out other safety features of the home, Thomas noted that

Thomas also noted that per shift, Thomas said, which is a state requirement. He said that the fire alarm was tested each week.

He said the system had activated three times: once when an employee burned a pie in a small oven in the conference room, once when an ash-tray was dumped into a trash can at the nurse's station, and a couple of weeks ago when the McLean High School students staged their annual bonfire two blocks away from the home.

McLean 2 to bring Phillips' tally to 13. The extra point kick failed.

Tiger Steven McAnear received a hit which took him out of the game with 2:14 showing on the second quarter clock. McAnear was taken to North Plains Hospital in Borger where he was x-rayed and released. He was diagnosed as having a hip pointer injury.

Phillips racked up two more points with only 55 seconds left in the first half, as Kyle Lynch tackled McLean's Randall Wynn in the end zone for a Blackhawk safety, and a 15-0 lead at halftime.

The third quarter was not much better as far as McLean was concerned. Early in the third, Phillips' McKee took advantage of a steady Blackhawk drive from the McLean 35, running in another touchdown. The extra point kick was no good, and the score read Phillips 21, McLean 0.

McLean's defense managed to regain some of its strength, stopping Phillips three times in fourth down tries, twice inside the Tiger 20. And offensively Tiger Billy Corley showed some sparkle, rushing 62 yards in the game.

Yet the Tigers were to watch another Blackhawk score, this time on the first play of the fourth quarter, when Lynch took a 16 yard pass from James Hough to increase the Phillips lead. Lynch's extra point kick was good, leaving the final markup at Phillips 28-McLean 0.

The Tigers will host the contest with Lefors this Friday, Oct. 15. Game-time is scheduled for 7:30 p.m.

"News From the Republic"

1836-1986 Exerpts from newspapers of the Texas Republic 1836-1845

Gen. Sam Houston is nominated as a candidate for President of the Republic of Texas -- His claims are too well known to make it necessary to repeat them. No man in Texas stands so high in the United States or in Europe. No man in Texas stands so fair in the estimation of President Jackson and his Cabinet. Consequently no one else can have the same influence in ruling the claims and requests of Texas on the Government of the United States. No man stands so high in the estimation of the people of Texas -- and his election will produce public tranquility by the destruction of old parties and the excitements spring from them. Let all good citizens then repair to the polls and give their votes for HOUSTON, and rest assured that in his election the great good of the country will be advanced. (signed by more than six hundred persons) Columbia, August 20, 1836 was joking, that a wealthy individual up the way has tamed and trained a couple of alligators so that they will swim in harness and haw and gee about as regular as oxen. So well, indeed, have they been broken that their owner frequently tackles them up, hitches them to a "dug-out," and cruises about the bayous and ponds when the waters are too high to admit of his going on horse back.

PeeWee Gridders Begin Football Workouts

Fourth, fifth and sixth graders may be seen donning football gear these days, as the PeeWee football season approaches. Practice began last Saturday, and is scheduled for Tuesdays and Thursdays. The young players will be coached by Frank Sparlin. Assisting Sparlin will be Pat Washburn. "We're really in need of new helmets," said coach Sparlin. "And we'd appreciate donations from anyone who would like to help us purchase new equipment."

Donations may be made to the McLean Activity Fund, according to Sparlin. Interested persons should call principal Dorman Thomas at McLean elementary school for further details.

Murphy Must Have Been a Mother And Other Laws I Live By Teresa Bloomingdale This new book by Teresa Bloomingdale will especially appeal to all wives and mothers, but will also be enjoyed by husbands and fathers as all can readily identify with the problems encountered by the author while raising a large family. Mrs. Bloomingdale, author of the very hilarious and successful "Up a Family Tree," has uproariously updated that volume with this new book which will no doubt be as popular as its predecessor. The crazy things that happen to a woman raising ten children (or less) are excellently documented, and statements such as "No family should ever attempt an auto trip if their kids outnumber the car windows," or, regarding organized sports - "Scheduled practices entail unscheduled meals," or, commenting on communication with children

"Frankly, I have never found the lack of communication with my kids a problem. It's when they talk that we get into trouble," or regarding things that go according to plan - "Oh, I could write a book about things that go right, but such a book would be so boring -- and so brief!" You will probably not want to put the book down until you have finished the last page because you will be so easily able to identify with the facts and suppositions found there. One statement to which I personally add a resounding "Amen," is "If your family and friends insist on celebrating your birthday, You're forty." Others such as "If a twelve year old boy suggests that he has so much homework he had better get started on it right away, it must be his turn to do the dishes," and "He who claims his child never lies, lies." "Murphy Must Have Been a Mother" is an extremely entertaining book which you must read if you would like to be put in a good mood because situations recounted there will no doubt ring a bell about experiences within your own family. Don't miss this funny book. It is now available at Lovett Memorial Library.

A CARD PARTY -- It is related of Madame du Deffand, that three of her friends brought a card table to her bedside, at her request, in her last illness, she taking a hand. As she happened to die in the midst of an interesting game, her partner played dummy for her, and thus the three quietly played it out, and settled the stakes before they called the servants to notify them of the inopportune demise of their mistress. This is a tough story, but we can believe it, or any other respecting gamblers, which comes within the range of possibility. Gambling deadens the perceptions of right and

International Credit Union Dry
October 21, 1982
A Strong and Growing Family

The credit union family, it's your source for financial security in these turbulent economic times. Your credit union is one of many strong links in a financial system that stretches from coast-to-coast. This credit union financial system is supported by more than $75 billion in assets, 21,000 credit unions and 48 million members.

Your credit union offers loans at reasonable rates, high dividends on savings, and financial counseling, and more. And because its members own the credit union, they're treated as more than just an account number.

So when things get tough, your credit union is there with that emergency loan or timely financial counseling.

At a credit union, you become part of an extended family over 40 million strong.

So join your fellow credit union members October 17-23 in celebrating International Credit Union Week. And during this week especially, remember that your credit union is your source for financial strength. We invite you to come by and visit with us.

Ultrasonic Pest Control Devices

During the past year, the Texas consumer has been offered the opportunity to purchase one or the other type of ultrasonic pest control device. The prices run from $69.95 to $700 each. The seller usually guarantees control of rodents, bats, and various household insects (cockroaches, fleas, flies, ants) within 6 to 8 weeks. Unfortunately, Black Magic and Voodoo don't work in Texas and neither do these devices.

Experiments have been conducted at Texas A&M University and other research institutions (Land Grant colleges and Federal installations) and no experiment has shown any potential for pest control using ultrasonic devices. These experiments have been run on mice, rats, bats, and cockroaches.

The true fact is that these devices do not control, manage, kill or repel rodents, bats, insects or other common pests. Effective pest control is accomplished only through proven management strategies (environmental and habitat modification, sanitation, etc.) and the judicious use of chemical pesticides. I advise you to thoroughly scrutinize advertising and to ask questions regarding effectiveness and the research which substantiates claims for control.

There are also electro-magnetic pest control devices currently being marketed. They are not effective either. Public and commercial pressure forced U. S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to test these devices extensively in the late 70's and, as a result, officially withdrew them from the market. The Federal Environmental Protection Act) causes, among other things, pesticides and devices used in controlling pests to be regulated by EPA. However, because of vast intricacies and other problems, devices are not registered, labeled or tested by this agency prior to marketing.

Plan 1983 Landscaping Now

Although it may seem a bit early to plan for next year, planning is the key to successful landscaping. A well-planned, simple landscape design keeps down labor costs and time-consuming maintenance.

Space is an important factor in planning, not only the initial space occupied by the plant but that needed as it matures.

If a plant constantly needs pruning to keep it in the space allotted, then we suggest finding another plant.

Soil and climate should be considered too. Selecting plants suited to a given area is a lot easier than trying to modify the soil and environment of a given plant. Many times native and adapted plants provide more pleasure and enjoyment to the gardener than exotic plants because native plants tend to require less care and attention.
