Last week's snow and ice storm caused all kinds of problems for McLean residents, but one of the more long-lasting effects will be the permanent damage to the trees in town. The weight of the ice and a slight wind caused thousands of branches to snap and break. Most residents will have a big clean-up job when the weather clears up.

Another area that we should keep in mind is the Hillcrest Cemetery. The damage to trees there was extensive, and the clean-up will be tremendous. If you have lots in the cemetery, you might go by and check the damage and set a time to go help clean up.

Most of us in town were fortunate that we did not lose electricity, although there was a heart-stopping moment when the electricity went off just at the beginning of the Cowboy-Redskins football game, and we were afraid that we would miss the game. But the television flickered back to life a few seconds later and we were all set to watch the Cowboys on their way to the Super Bowl!

Okay, okay, so I'm a sore loser. But did you hear the Redskins owner make a special point to congratulate Dexter Manley who gave Danny White a cheap shot and put him out of the game? And did you see the camera zero in on poor Danny as he sat on the side lines watching the Cowboys go down in defeat? And did you hear the news reports later that White and another Cowboy were accosted by a Redskin fan as they tried to leave the field?

It's one thing to lose the game, fair and square, but to lose the game because of the brutality of the opposing team is horrible. And to have the team owner encourage that kind of behavior is a real disservice to the game.

For that reason, I hope the Miami Dolphins swamp the Redskins Sunday afternoon and become the superbowl champs.

But how much longer can we Cowboy fans say "Wait 'til next year?"

The rising cost of postage has become one of our most worrisome expenses at the News office, and I guess that's

The Guy Behind The Tree

Henry Wells
The Wellington Leader

Nobody wants their taxes raised... raise the other fellow's. Nobody wants their benefits cut... cut the other fellow's.

And it's not just the poor - people who don't want welfare payments cut. And it's not just the rich - people who don't want tax loopholes closed.

The middle class doesn't want Social Security or Medicare benefits cut either.

The problems has led to an estimated $200 billion deficit in the federal budget this year.

It's a problem that's been most eloquently described by a Congressman: "Don't tax you, and don't tax me - tax the fellow behind the tree."

Let the other guy pay. The problem showed up in the recent nick-a-gallon gasoline tax increase. A couple of examples come to mind in that bill alone.

One penny of the nickel-a-gallon raise goes to fund mass transit. We'll be paying that penny here, although there's hardly anything mass in Collingsworth County, much less transit.

The broad view, of course, has it that by sending our pennies to sponsor mass transit in New York, Chicago, Boston, Washington or San Francisco we're encouraging people to abandon their automobiles, thus reducing demand for gasoline, thus reducing total demand for oil thus reducing the price we pay for oil, thus reducing the price we pay here for gasoline.

That's the broad view. The narrow view is that it won't help us get any more Farm-to-Market roads paved in Collingsworth County.

The bill that raised gasoline taxes a nickel also drastically raised the fees and taxes that truckers pay.

The broad view is that the free flow of commerce and ideas is best served by a cheap transportation system that does not charge users the full cost of providing the service. The highways should be built and maintained from the general revenue of the government. In other words, New Yorkers' income taxes should be used to pave roads in Collingsworth County.

That's the broad view. The narrow view is that trucks damage roads so they should pay more taxes, and that's the view that prevailed in the bill.

It will mean that truckers expenses will be higher, so truckers' rates will be higher. And since almost everything in Collingsworth County is brought in by truck, it will mean that we'll be paying more for goods.

Collingsworth County came out on the short end of the stick in both cases in this law. New Yorkers probably say they came out on the short end of farm price support bills, though.

We'll probably see more of the effort to put the burden of taxation on somebody else in the next Congress.

We've been trying to put the load on that fellow behind the tree for the past 30 to 40 years. We may be about to come to the realization that that fellow is you and me.

TWO BUREAUCRATS DISCUSS REAGANOMICS OVER LUNCH...

THE ECONOMY

why I have noticed the extravagant and lavish methods that several government agencies use to mail their press releases. We got a release and a photo Monday mailed in a heavy, expensive snap-apart cardboard envelope. The cost to mail the envelope was 71c. The cost to mail an ordinary envelope of that size is 31c. Not only did the agency waste 40c on the mailing cost, it also paid a good price for that expensive mailer, when an ordinary manilla envelope would have served the purpose just as well. Another government group mails its news release in an oversized manilla envelope at a cost of 45c for postage, and at least 10c for the envelope. The press release is the size of a regular typing sheet and could easily be folded and mailed in a regular envelope for 20c.

With all the bureaucrats running around, isn't there anyone in charge of using common sense on postage? If there is such a person, he's sure falling down on the job.

Senator Bill Sarpalius Reports

68TH LEGISLATURE BEGINS

AUSTIN - The Texas Senate welcomed a large group of freshman legislators during the last legislative session, with District 31 among them.

And when the 68th Session of the Legislature began on Jan. 11 this year, one-third of the Senate members took the oath of office for the first time.

This unusual turnover in lawmakers is significant for District 31, because our seniority is relatively high as we begin our second term in the Senate.

We were fortunate in the 1981 session to have been appointed as the only freshman chairman of a Senate subcommittee. We worked hard to address important issues in all areas of agriculture, and the hard work paid off. Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby again appointed us as chairman of the Subcommittee on Agriculture, which is part of the 11-member Natural Resources Committee of the Senate.

Other members of our subcommittee are Senators Carlos Truan and Ted Lyon. In addition, our appointment this session to the Senate Education and State Affairs committees will allow us to become more actively involved in the law-making process for the people in District 31.

My background in public school teaching will certainly be beneficial in working with the Education Committee. We are keenly aware of the funding needs of small, rural schools and will work toward developing solutions to the school tax burden during bad crop years.

The State Affairs Committee will hear, among other issues, proposals for drunk driving legislation. It is good that the people of Texas have become more aware of the problems of alcohol abuse and are asking lawmakers to do something about it.

We have filed a bill that

Letter To The Editor

Dear Linda:
I have just finished reading a most interesting article about your very fine newspaper in the "Amarillo Daily News". This has prompted me to do something I have intended to do for several years - write and request a subscription to the "McLean News".
The four years I spent in McLean were four of the most enjoyable years of my life. I came to know and love many of the people who live there. I will never forget the friendly manner in which I was received in McLean as a newcomer back in 1969. I am very proud to have served in the school system, the fire department, the McLean Area Ambulance Service, and the Lions Club. I still consider the people of McLean to be very special friends.

Please relay greetings to the people of McLean for me.

I wish many successes for the town, the citizens, and for your very fine newspaper.

Please enter a subscription for me.

Thanking you very much for your help and consideration, I remain

Very truly yours,
Jerru W. Jansa

FANGY THAT!

The coldest place on earth is not, as many people think, the North - or even the South - Pole. It's the Pole of Nedostupnosti - the Pole of Cold - in Antarctica, somewhat north and east of the South Pole. The annual mean temperature there is believed to be minus 72 degrees Fahrenheit. That's a mean mean temperature.

An increasing number of fast food restaurants are giving a warm welcome to a way to keep their cold drinks colder, longer: foam cups. Researchers at the Society of the Plastics Industry have found that foam keeps drinks colder. It keeps the ice solid, longer, too.

Our expanded committee involvement in the 68th Legislature will help make us more effective in dealing with these and other complex issues of concern to you. That is our goal, and we welcome your comments. Please write Senator Bill Sarpalius, P.O. Box 12068, Austin, Texas 78711.

The officials at Coffee Memorial Blood Center in Amarillo said that blood donations sometimes mean the difference between life and death, but that less than five percent of the American public are blood donors.

Here comes Super Bowl seventeen
With both teams big, tough, and mean;
I don't care which side wins
Twixt Dolphins and Redskins;
'Cause my Cowboys aren't on the scene!

Senator Lloyd Bentsen Watching Washington

Federal drug law enforcement in Texas has fallen to dangerously low levels. Even more alarming are reports that, as the number of federal drug agents in Texas has decreased, drug smuggling along our Border with Mexico is on the rise.

The U.S. Customs Service advises me that in recent weeks it has apprehended more smugglers at Border crossing points. The Customs Patrol, which enforces smuggling laws between ports of entry, advises me that its seizures of marijuana and cocaine also have increased.

This is especially disturbing in regard to cocaine. Enforcement officers tell me that cocaine seizures as large as a pound are being taken, where in the past only small amounts of cocaine have been in evidence along the Border.

Even as drug seizures have risen, the number of Customs Patrol officers in the Laredo and El Paso Districts has fallen, from 180 to 105 over the past four years.

From November 1981 to November 1982, the Drug Enforcement Administration also decreased its Texas agents by 14 percent, from 183 to 158. Yet in 1981, I was assured by Peter Bentsen, then acting administrator of DEA, that he was ordering a freeze and that no additional agents would be sent out of Texas.

Drug agents in Texas also are plagued by equipment shortages and failures. Customs Patrol officers at Amistad and Falcon Lakes on the Rio Grande used to have 12 patrol boats. They now have only one.

An incident in Starr County further illustrates the problem. In November, two Customs Patrol officers encountered 15 smugglers, each carrying 44 pounds of marijuana and a .380 caliber Beretta handgun. A gun battle ensued in which one officer was wounded and another severely beaten.

The officers had no bulletproof vests. The pump shotgun carried by one officer jammed after being fired twice. It was one of the Army castoffs, some 20 years old, that these federal officers are provided.

In order to guide in ambulances and reinforcements with his handheld radio, one patrolman had to climb a tree because the radio repeater in nearby Roma had been taken out.

The radio repeater has been replaced, but these officers still have no bulletproof vests and their shotguns are still 20 years old.

I have written the President's Cabinet members in charge of the DEA and U.S. Customs urging them to take immediate steps to remedy the situation in Texas. The Customs Patrol needs more officers and equipment, and the number of DEA agents in our state should be brought up to at least the 183 here at the end of 1981.

The President has made a strong commitment to bring the full weight of federal law enforcement into the fight against illegal drug trafficking.

These problems in Texas should not have developed and I intend to see that they are corrected.

Loose Marbles

by Lisa Patman

In case you were wondering how to spend your time during the next eleven months until Christmas, here is a handy horoscope to help you plod through the year.

1983 Marblescope

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Early in March, you will forget to bathe for several days. When you are unable to understand why people avoid you, you will enter a deep depression and try to drown yourself. You will not succeed in the drowning attempt, but you'll be a lot cleaner, thereby solving the problem.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Tomorrow you will discover that the green stuff growing in your refrigerator is a distant relative of E.T. When you publicize this, you will be ostracized by millions of parents who just invested their life savings on E.T. memorabilia for their kids' Christmas. Try to keep your spirits up by remembering that you once lived through the loss of your genuine imitation Davy Crockett coonskin cap.

AIRIES (March 21-April 19) At some time during the summer months, you will recognize your next door neighbor as the principle character in an old porno movie. Shame on you. You should have been weeding the garden.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) No matter how difficult it may be, do not, on any account, eat any worms this year. If just the thought of it makes me sick, think how you would feel if you actually ate on.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) 1983 will be a good year for you, dear Gemini. I don't know why, but it sounds good, doesn't it.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) This is the Marbles sign. I hope the rest of you don't resent the name of your sign as much as I do. I keep going around looking for the seven warning signals. Makes me really crabby.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) This year you will be infested with fleas. Trying to make the best of the situation, you will invest in tiny trapezes and tightropes in order to make a few circus. Expect financial disaster when a well-meaning exterminator decides to give you a free sample of his work.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Expect a miracle this year. Go ahead, expect one. It won't happen, but you can always hope.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Late in March you will narrowly escape death when a near-sighted, hard-of-hearing, big game hunter takes a potshot at you. (He thought you said "Zebra.")

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) Your ship will come in this year. Unfortunately, it will be an aluminum canoe which did not survive the fire at the sporting goods store.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Beware of the entire month of February. You stand a good chance of being run down by an irate Scorpio in a melted canoe.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your best month of the year just ended—yesterday. I tried to call, but your phone was off the hook. Go back to bed. Have a happy! Love, Marbles

The Scientists Tell Me...

Producing Heavy Calves From Forage Can Hold Down Costs And Increase Profits

By Robert L. Hancy
TAES Science Writer

Production of heavy calves from forage may be one way for the traditional cow-calf producer to stay in business and show a profit, according to Dr. Monte Rouquette, Jr., associate professor of forage physiology with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Overton.

The costs of maintaining a cow herd have steadily increased over the past few years and as production costs have accelerated, the producer has found himself in the position of either altering his traditional methods or facing the real possibility of terminating the operation.

Rouquette says that one of the best alternatives open to the producer is that of maintaining continuous ownership of the cattle from birth to slaughter, or, at least, for as long a period as possible past the time of weaning.

However, the commercial operator who maintains ownership must produce an animal which can reach a suitable carcass weight and grade, as rapidly as possible. With high interest rates, "rapid" becomes a key word in the producer's vocabulary.

"Cattle must be able to gain at a rapid rate and make this gain on a predominantly forage diet," Rouquette says.

"Management practices used in the continuous ownership scheme have ranged from systems based on forage only, to those using various amounts of feed grains in the growing-finishing stages.

"Combining animals of superior genetic potential with abundant, nutritious forages, permits calves to be weaned at relatively heavy weights. It is not uncommon to wean fall-born steers which weigh in excess of 700 pounds at nine months of age, without the use of creep feed. With the use of creep feed, an additional 75 to 100 pounds may be added to this calf."

Through the manipulation of calving date, animal genetics, properly managed forages, and creep feed, the producer now has the option of producing an 800 to 900 pound calf at weaning rather than a 400 to 600 pound calf.

The primary requirements for weaning heavy weight calves (800 + pounds) which may be slaughtered directly at weaning are:

1) cow must have good to high milk production potential and continue to rebreed;

2) bull must add the ability, to off spring, to gain at a rapid rate and reach the desired weaning weight;

3) forage program must contain cool season grasses and legumes, in addition to warm season perennial grasses;

4) calves should be born in fall-winter period to make efficient use of quality forages;

5) creep feeding should be initiated early (3 months or less) and feed should be palatable and low in fiber.

Some of the advantages Rouquette mentions for producing heavy-weight calves that can be slaughtered directly at weaning are:

1) ownership has been continuous to the 700 to 900 pound range;

2) heifer calves will not be discounted at the carcass level, therefore all calves will bring the same price per pound;

3) local markets can be created which should increase demand for calves;

4) calf carcasses approach the sensory traits of grain-fed beef and are not the typical "forage-fed" beef;

5) split calving seasons would produce a more evenly distributed supply of calves to market;

6) efficiency of forage utilization should improve; and

7) because of stocking rate, cow is in good to excellent body condition for next calf.

Some of the disadvantages Rouquette points out, of slaughtering calves at weaning are:

1) calves won't grade as "beef", therefore premium prices may not be obtained;

2) medium to light-stocked pastures are required (.50 to 1.25 animal-units) per acre in East Texas;

3) breed of bull and/or calf may need to be changed (from currently used herd) to reach heavy weights;

4) labor requirements are increased;

the superior animal genetics and forage systems of today.

"However, the economic incentive has not progressed to the same level in terms of marketing, both in recognition of quality and accessibility to packer.

"So the challenge for the commercial operator is to not only speedily produce a heavy calf, mostly with good forages but also to get top dollar for that calf in the market place," Rouquette concluded

IT'S ALL IN THE MIND

Employment Is An Inside Job

By Dr. Earlene Castellaw
When labor statistics tell us that today's unemployment is at its highest level since World War Two began, it is hard to believe that everyone has the right and ability to achieve prosperity. After all, there seem to be dozens of applicants for every job opening. Many of the unemployed are losing hope of finding jobs, while others feel discouraged about limited opportunities for advancement.

If you or someone you know is in such a situation, it may well appear due to economic forces beyond anyone's control. But in fact, by changing your thoughts and exerting appropriate efforts, you actually can change your financial circumstances. And the opposite is also true. If you believe that employment circumstances are beyond human control, you are supporting a belief in your own powerlessness to do anything about it.

Success begins with a sound recognition of fundamental principles. The first of these is that there is nothing wrong with desiring financial security. The truth is, prosperity is possible for each of us, without taking anything away from anyone else. The right job exists for each of us and there is unlimited opportunity for prosperity. Like other basic desires, the wish for prosperity is a positive, motivating impulse urging you toward greater fulfillment. It should be appreciated and used for that purpose.

Second, remember that problems are never permanent. But they will persist as long as you believe in them. This is especially true if you are casting blame for your problems according to the three "ifs": self-blame ("if only I had saved more money"); blaming others ("if only my boss appreciated me"); and blaming circumstances ("if only I had a college education"). Neither regret nor anger ever changed anyone's life for the better. Keep in mind that yesterday has nothing to do with today, unless you're hanging onto old, negative beliefs.

Another way of looking at this is to realize that your current beliefs create your present world. You can't afford to identify yourself with failure. If you desire more employment satisfaction and prosperity, you may well need a new set of key beliefs. Mind power always flows to the focus of your attention, and you can make this work for you when your ideas are positive. From your positive beliefs and intelligent efforts will come effective action toward achievement of financial success.

There are actually four aspects of this process:

1. The belief that satisfying employment and prosperity can happen to you;
2. The realistic acceptance that life moves forward.
3. The courage to face challenges; and
4. The patience to take one step at a time. Consider the case of a young woman who many years ago found herself with

Dr. Earlene Castellaw a baby and an invalid husband. She took her last five dollars, made a downpayment on a second-hand mimeograph machine and went around her neighborhood distributing mimeographed lists of chores she could perform. Work began to come in almost immediately, her little business grew and she was able to support her family comfortably.

When you truly believe that you are a worthy contributor to life, nothing in this universe, including a recession, can stop you from succeeding.

If you would like to know more about this thought system, write to Dr. Earlene Castellaw c/o Religious Science Information Center, 3130 Fifth Avenue, San Diego, CA 92103.

GENERAL ELECTRIC COOPERATIVE IN WELLINGTON wants to thank our members for their patience and understanding of our problems during the ice storm that left some of our electricity up to four days.

Your whole-hearted cooperation, as our employees worked around the clock to restore power, is appreciated by all of us.

We are aware that besides being without power for your lights and appliances, some of you lost food from your freezer, many of you were without heat, you could not use your cookstoves, or you had no water because your pumps could not operate. In some instances, you couldn't pump water for livestock. We regret your inconvenience.

We believe you are a special breed of people to react to a natural disaster as you have.

Again, your patience and understanding are appreciated.

Cattle born after Jan.
1, 1983, changing ownership within the C area must have two negative

Non-vaccinated female

Olympic Athletes Shaping Up With "Sports Med"

As tryouts for the 1984 Olympic Games progress in cycling, judo, and weightlifting, another highly specialized team is holding its own tryouts in another facet of athletics—sports medicine.

From a pool of volunteers come the professionals who will vie for positions with the sports medicine staff attending the athletes competing in the National Sports Festival, the Pan American Games, and the 1984 Olympic Games.

In addition to physicians, the sports medicine staff's athletic trainers must be certified by the National Athletic Trainers' Association.

Jenny Stone, head athletic trainer of the U.S. Olympic Training Center (OTC) supervises the volunteer program. Stone says that the environment at "sports med" differs greatly from that of a clinic. Stone looks for the ability to adapt to a certain amount of disorganization, as volunteers treat about 100 patients per hour.

The National Governing Bodies at the OTC, as well as the sports medicine staff, rely on volunteers who come to the Training Center.

The sports medicine program at the OTC concentrates on four basic areas. Sports Physiology is an applied discipline that evaluates cardio-pulmonary endurance and capacity, muscle power, and joint flexibility.

"Biomechanics is the study of human movement. Sports medicine uses high-speed cameras, computers, and special analytical systems to evaluate the body's mechanics for optimum performance.

Clinical Services provide medical diagnosis and support to OTC athletes at the National Sports Festival, World University Games, Pan American Games, and Olympic Games.

Educational Services interpret for coach and athlete the what and why of recommended sports medicine premises and practices.

Kevin Moody, assistant athletic trainer, who came to the OTC to be a long-term volunteer athletic trainer in March of 1982, is one volunteer.

Moody came from Indiana State University with a Master of Science degree in Physical Education and Athletic Training. At sports medicine, in addition to assisting head trainer Stone, Moody helps supervise volunteer trainers, and in the absence of Stone, acts as head trainer.

The OTC currently occupies land donated by the city of Colorado Springs which had been an Air Force installation. As national sponsor, Miller High Life has underwritten all of the operating expenses of the Center for the next three years. There is no cost to the athletes for any of the benefits of the finest amateur training facility in the nation.

Bob Mathias, 1948 and 1952 Olympic decathlon champion, is director of the Olympic Training Center. "We've seen great results here at the Olympic Training Center," said Mathias recently. "And with efforts from people like Miller High Life, we will continue to get stronger. The team we will field in 1984 Los Angeles will be the best team the U.S. has ever fielded."

"We need greater virtues to sustain good fortune than bad." La Rochefoucauld

Emergency Loans Available For Gray County, FmHA Supervisor Says

Emergency loans for farmers, ranchers, or aquaculture operators are available through county offices of the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA). Marvin Crabtree, FmHA county supervisor, said today.

Mr. Crabtree asked that those who need farm credit as a result of extensive rainfall, hailstorms, and tornado from May 1, 1982, through November 15, 1982, make their needs known at the Farmers Home Administration office at 416 S. Kearney, Clarendon; or on the second and fourth Thursday of each month at the Courthouse Annex in Pampa.

Applications for assistance in the disaster stricken counties will be accepted by Farmers Home until Oct. 20, for physical and production losses.

FmHA loans covering actual physical and production losses may be used to replace installations, equipment, or building, (including homes) lost through this disaster. Funds may be used to buy feed, seed, fertilizer, livestock, or to meet interest and depreciation payments on current real estate and chattel debts.

Funds can be used for essential operating and living costs, Mr. Crabtree said.

Applicants that certify that other credit is not available may receive loans covering actual losses at an interest rate of eight percent and are scheduled for repayment as rapidly as feasible consistent with the applicant's ability to pay. Applicants who certify that other credit is available may also receive these loans at a higher interest rate.

To be eligible for an emergency loan, an applicant must have suffered losses from the disaster.

Save Time With Baking List

Rather than shopping for just the ingredients you need for one week's holiday baking, save time and money by making a master shopping list for all your holiday baking. Look over the ingredients in your favorite recipes, then check your spice shelf, flavorings, and food dyes. Jot down how much you'll need of canned pie fillings, candied fruits for yeast breads and fruitcakes and buy them now. Perhaps the question of how many pounds of flour, sugar, nuts, etc. should you get comes to mind. Add up the number of cups needed, then use the following chart to make an accurate shopping list. If you stock up now, you'll have everything you need when the "mood to bake" hits you.

Baking Equivalents
Regular flour, 1 pound equals 4 cups sifted; 2 pounds flour equals 8 cups, sifted; 5 pounds of flour equals 20 cups, sifted; 10 pounds of flour equals 40 cups, sifted; Cake flour, 1 pound equals 4 1/2 cups, plus 2 tablespoons, sifted; Graham crackers, 11 squares equals 1 cup crumbs; Oatmeal, 18 oz. quick equals 7 cups; Oatmeal, 1/2 oz. packet, plain equals 1/2 cup; Granulated sugar, 1 pound equals 2 cups; Granulated sugar, 5 pounds equals 10 cups; Brown sugar, 1 pound equals 2 1/4 cups, packed; 10x confectioners' sugar, 1 pound equals 4 cups; Walnuts, 1 pound, whole equals 4 cups; Walnuts, 10 oz. pack, broken equals 2 1/2 cups; Almonds, 1 pound, whole equals 3 1/2 cups; Almonds, 6 oz. pack, sliced equals 2 cups; Pecans, 1 pound, whole equals 4 cups; Candied fruit, mixed, 4 oz., chopped equals 1/2 cup; Citron, 4 oz., chopped equals 1/2 cup;

Recreation Revival

Martha Couch, State 4-H and Youth Specialist, will visit Pampa Feb. 1 for a Recreation Revival, at the Courthouse Annex, 7:00 to 9:30 p.m. ALL Youth grades 6-12 are invited to attend and be revived.

Recreation is a past-time, sport, or exercise used as a means to refresh one's body or mind; or it's what you do when you don't have to. This includes all types of games, songs, crafts, parties, and dancing. Today's youth are so busy with different types of activities that recreation has been lost in the shuffle.

The 4-H County Council and Adult Leader's Association wants to revive recreation with the Recreation Revival. Dr. Martha Couch will share different types of recreation for older youth.

4-H member or not, please attend and bring a friend -- the more the merrier.

Exploring 4-H - 4-H Gardens Produce Bountiful Harvest

Growing vegetable involves more than just planting seeds and watching plants grow. Aside from routine chores like weeding, watering and fighting bugs, there are other matters to deal with, including thinning, transplanting and deciding what to do with all the goodies once they start ripening.

4-H members in gardening, entomology and food preservation projects conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service combine study with actual hands-on experiences.

Good planning precedes planting in the garden and is essential to achieving overall satisfying results.

The national 4-H gardening program, supported by the Ortho Consumer Projects Division, Chevron Chemical Co., encourages members to submit soil samples for analysis, learn insect and weed control methods, mulch and irrigation techniques, seedbed preparation and seed selection and planting.

The national 4-H entomology program, supported by Mobay Chemical Corp., Agricultural Chemicals Division, teaches 4-H members to recognize garden pests and learn methods of eradicating insects that are harmful to fruits and vegetables.

A bountiful garden offers several alternatives for use of crops. Aside from enjoying fresh vegetables, members in the national 4-H food preservation program, sponsored by Kerr Glass Manufacturing Co., lengthen enjoyment of their crops through canning, freezing and drying.

4-H members in gardening and food preservation programs enjoy firsthand the special fresh, out-of-the-garden flavor of their home-grown fruits and vegetables.

Further, they can save money, earn money by selling their crops at roadside stands, and help meet special dietary needs and family preferences all year long.

Medals of honor are awarded to four members in each program from each county. In the food preservation program, one member will earn an expense-paid trip to National 4-H Congress in Chicago. In the gardening and entomology programs, one 4-H'er from each state earns a $75 U.S. Savings Bond, and 18 sectional winners in gardening and 16 in entomology are eligible also for trips to Congress. During Congress, national winners in each program are recognized and receive $1,000 scholarships.

More information on these and other 4-H programs is available at the county Extension office.

State Funds Available For Transportation Aid

The State Department of Highways and Public Transportation is announcing that funds are still available to purchase vehicles and related equipment for the transporting of elderly and/or handicapped citizens.

Approximately $330,000 of federal funds still remain available under the Section 16b(2) program Fiscal Year 1983 allocation. Fiscal Year 1983 allocations have not been received.

Only private, non-profit agencies are eligible to receive funding. Involvement of minority-oriented organizations is encouraged.

Interested individuals or organizations can obtain information and applications for 16b(2) grant program at the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation District Office. Written inquiries should be directed to: A.L. McKee, State Department of Highways and Public Transportation, Attn: William Harvey, P.O. Box 2708, Amarillo, Texas 79105. Telephone inquiries can be made by contacting William Harvey, 806 (355-5671).

Texas A&M plans high-technology industrial complex

COLLEGE STATION — The Texas A&M University System Board of Regents recently announced selection of a site for establishment of a high-technology industrial research park here similar to Silicon Valley in California and the Research Triangle in North Carolina.

The 315-acre site is on land presently owned by Texas A&M University and is west of and adjacent to the main campus.

Regents hope establishment of the park will attract various high technology industries that will complement the teaching and research programs of Texas A&M and various other parts of The Texas A&M University System, including the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and the Texas Engineering Experiment Station.
