Reading area newspapers is one of the many things I do on my "easy" days. This keeps me in touch with what other editors are doing-what's going on in area towns and frequently what many of my friends are up to.

I have noticed in reading some of the larger papers, that the tone and outlook of reporting news itself may be changing. This, as far as I am concerned, is definitely a change for the better.

Printed in this month's Texas Press Association Messenger as a guest editorial by Henry Tatum of the Dallas Morning News.

In his column, Tatum rehashes a question-answer session he attended at Baylor University. Tatum was there to lend his experience and expertise to the journalist students at Baylor. He says he went to the meeting armed with answers for the usual questions. "Why the Dallas Morning News editorial page cares so little about poor people..." why our cartoonist is so "unfair" to Geraldine Ferraro, and why my newspaper never printed true stories about a Third World Nation country."

Tatum reports the questions he was asked were disarming. He states, "These future journalists did not want to know why my newspaper was so conservative. They wanted to know what they could do to make the news media more responsible."

"The students asked me if editors and reporters have any feelings of remorse when they published stories that ruin the careers of public figures. They wanted to know if we weigh the consequences before printing reports that hurt individuals or families. In effect, they wanted to know if people in journalism today have consciences."

Another important point that Tatum stressed was that "During my three hours on campus, no one asked me about investigative reporting. No one said we were not zealous enough in pursuing elected officials. There were no calls for more advocacy journalism."

This editorial was especially refreshing to me and although some local officials probably feel I am not as relaxed as they would like, I feel it reflected my views on good reporting and tasteful journalism.

I also recently read a column where the author said, "Most good reporters would rather be accused of being an 'obstructionist agitator' than a 'mouth-piece' for the city, school, or county. When a city official praises my coverage of his fair town, my overriding fear is 'My God! I am a disgrace to my profession. What scandal am I leaving out?'"

This reporter does not want to be included in that group.

While writing a "sensational" story and trying to be an "obstructionist agitator" may win awards in state and national contests, it does little for the morale and day-to-day life of the people involved.

Don't get me wrong. I do not feel that local governments should be given free hand when it comes to running our city, school and county.

Neither do I think the public should be kept in the dark when it comes to actions taken by elected officials. I have had plenty of run-ins with elected officials before and I'm sure I will down the road. You have read about a few of them in the paper. Many of them you have never known about.

I have found that much more can be accomplished on a one-to-one basis when there is a disagreement with such entities rather than a scandalizing editorial or sensational story and headline.

I am sure there are reporters and editors who would find this outlook "Polyanish" and too naive. However, I would rather consider myself a viable, helpful voice of the community instead of an adversary for its governments.

The deadline for the Gray County History Book stories is here and much hard, unsung work has been done by two very dedicated and special ladies to see that McLean is fairly represented in the book.

Charlie Marie Shurley and Ruth Magee have given countless hours of their time an effort to ensure McLean's participation in the County book.

We all owe these two ladies a very special "Thank You" for donating their time, money, and effort

Whittler's Bench

By Sam Haynes

It is now officially spring, and you know they say that in the spring a young man's fancy turns to what the girls have been thinking about all winter long, but I have been noticing that on national TV, magazines, etc., the thinking of many commentators, public officials and other sundry "experts" indicate a rather marked optimism that relations with Soviet Russia may now show drastic improvement with the naming of Gorbachev as the new Red ruler.

They claim he is more "westernized" than his predecessors, is younger with more charisma, has a lovely wife, has not been around long enough to be as "set in his ways" as his older contemporaries, and perhaps was named premier as the first step in softening the Red line and beginning an honest move toward peace.

Of course, I sincerely hope all these things are true but the facts at hand dispute this opinion (an American Major was shot to death by a Russian soldier yesterday in East Germany) and my personal opinion is that these good things will come out of Russia at the same time the Dallas Cowboys and Washington Redskins sign a no violence, non-aggression pact; that Muhammad Ali announces "I am the leastest,"; that the Ayotullah Khomeini join the Southern Baptist Church; and finally, at the same time Jerry Falwell donates his entire income to the starving folks in Ethiopia.

The state of Arkansas has begun their competency test for teachers, and the Texas Legislature has the same thing in mind for our teachers.

I feel sure it will eliminate some absolutely undesirable teachers, but it will no doubt be a great insult to some teachers who have done an excellent job for many years. One definite addition should be made to that legislation, which would force all state elected officials to take the same test, with a failing grade to mean immediate expulsion from office.

I am afraid that if the first question on the test was "Do the people of Texas have enough sense to decide moral and personal questions themselves?" the Senator from our district (according to his last performance) would be well on his way to a failing grade.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor,
Are you ready for a change? It's time we had some women on the Board of Education.

On April 6, let's vote for two of these three ladies that have filed for a position on the board of trustees.

Diann Dalton
Gwen Henley
Bonnie Fabian
Sincerely,
Martha Jo Bailey

Dear Editor,*
Some of our citizens are concerned about how headlines, such as the one in the pampa paper recently about our school board's actions, look. Since the headline was accurate, should more concern be placed on how it looks than what was actually done by our elected officials? I for one, think that how it looks is of no concern. What was done, however, is of major concern to me and my vote in the coming election will reflect that posture.

Thank You,
George M. Green

It was also decided at the meeting to leave the concession stand workings and its proceeds to the Lion Club.

All interested people are invited to attend the meeting/workday scheduled for April 14.

Dows To Hold Church Meeting

at the First Assembly of God Church, according to pastor

Z.A. Myers.
The meetings will begin nightly at 7:30. The dows and brother Myers invite the public to "hear music to stir your heart and preaching to change your life!"

Information about your changing telephone service from Gary Stevens, Manager-Community Relations

Contest set for Texas directory cover

How would you like to see your painting on nine million telephone books in Texas? Now's your chance. Southwestern Bell Telephone is sponsoring a statewide contest to select a painting for use on its directory covers during 1986. The painting should depict in some way the Texas Sesquicentennial. It might portray significant events or sites in the state's history. It may even include faces of Texas heroes. You are only limited by your imagination. In announcing the contest, our Texas Division president, Jim Adams, summed it up this way: "Southwestern Bell has played an active role in the state's history and its growth. It just seemed like a natural for us to be involved in celebrating the Sesquicentennial."

Texas roots go back to 1880s

"We're a Texas company with roots going back to the 1880s. You might say we have grown up together. That partnership continues today. Our 34,000 employees are involved on-and-off-the-job in serving 4 1/2 million Texans in more than 450 communities." A purchase award of $5,000 will be paid to the artist whose painting is selected. In addition, the artist will be identified in every phone book which carries the covers. That's about 160 directories with a distribution of almost nine million copies. Deadline for contest entries is July 1, 1985. No actual paintings are to be submitted. All initial judging will be done from color slides of the artwork. The contest is open to all Texas residents with the exception of employees and families of Southwestern Bell Corporation and its subsidiaries. School children, college-age students, professional artists and amateurs alike are encouraged to enter.

No restrictions on artist's medium

There's no restriction on the medium the artists uses — it can be oils, acrylics, water colors, tempera, even crayon. That should make it easy for anyone to enter. An entry form and contest rules may be obtained by writing to:
Art Contest
One Bell Plaza
Post Office Box 225521
Dallas, Texas 75265.

Send today for all the information. And remember, the contest ends July 1. Good luck! Look for information in your local newspaper about our Tele-Help booklets. There are five new booklets available at no charge by calling this toll free number: 800-325-2686, extension 86. Topics for the new booklets were suggested by customers and employees. They include information on: establishing local telephone service... using the telephone to make your home more secure... handling annoying phone calls... choosing among local service options... and, installing home telephone wiring. The company's Tele-Help program was launched last year to help customers cope with the changes caused by divestiture. To date, almost 2 million booklets have been distributed to Texas customers. Mostly we've heard positive comments about the program. Customers tell us they want as much information as possible about the changes, especially those which touch their service. That's the reason we're extending the program through the end of this year. If you're confused about our services or some of the industry changes, chances are we have a booklet that will help.
