Congratulations to the workers of the ex-student's association, the parade, the horse race, the cutting contest, the museum's grand opening, golf tournament, and the rodeo...the many hours of work put in paid off in a successful weekend, drawing large crowds to each event.

For those who were involved in organizing and helping with more than one event, the weekend proved to be demanding and exhausting, but still fun.

Wayne worked with the rodeo, horse race, and cutting contest and I worked with the rodeo and ex-student registration, and one of the nice things about putting in extra hour is seeing things go off relatively smoothly.

However, the biggest bonus for Wayne and I was being able to work with and getting to know people we haven't had the opportunity to know before.

Although 99% of the hard work had been taken care of by June Suggs and Jim Barker, I enjoyed working Saturday morning with June and her brother Butch Dorsey and son Randy, selling bar-b-que tickets. June had things so organized that it was a breeze to handle the 500-Plus tickets needed to feed the exes.

Wayne had the opportunity to meet and work with many fine people in the rodeo, including Mike Darsey, J.D. Barnard, Russell Bockmon, Marshal Hanes, Dale Steel, Doug Guthrie, Britt Hathaway, Bruce Beaver, Jake Hess II, Tony Smitherman, Glen Hallum, Thacker Haynes, Sam Haynes - the list of volunteers that worked before, during, and after the rodeo is just tremendous.

While patting people on the back I want to tell those of you who missed the Navy band brought in by mayor George Terry, you missed a terrific performance. We certainly appreciate the mayor bringing in this talented group.

And congratulations to J. Boyd Smith and Frankie Smith, and George Terry for the smoothly-run parade.

I have to say a special "thank you" to Dollie Haynes and Tina Cummings for watching Fris and Charlie this weekend, allowing me to work the gate at the rodeo both nights, and to Mother and Sam for giving up their home to us to use as headquarters.

I'd forgotten (or perhaps never realized) how important it is to have someplace in town to rest for a few minutes between events, to grab a bite to eat, or to change clothes before running to yet one more event. Had I had to travel the 18-miles (round trip) to home each time I needed to do one of the above, I would have never made it.

Also, I'm sure that there are more interesting and appealing things to be doing when you're 13 (almost 14) than watching a six-year-old and a four-year-old, but Dollie and Tina were champs about it and never complained.

Congratulations to everyone who put in extra time, especially those who worked "above and beyond the call of duty" this weekend.

Alanreed-McLean Area Museum Hosts M.K. Brown Foundation

The board of directors of the Alanreed-McLean Area Museum fed more than 30 people at a private viewing of the newly finished museum, June 13.

Guests attending the luncheon were County Judge Carl Kennedy; State Representative Foster Whaley and Mrs. Whaley; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Waters, and Mrs. William J. Smith of the M.K. Brown Foundation; Mr. and Mrs. O.L. Presley, Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Rice, and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Wright, county commissioners; Mary Emma Woods; honoree Mrs. Vera F. Back; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Youngblood and Sally (representing the late Mrs. Alice Short Smith); and Brian Pohlmeier.

Museum board of directors at the luncheon included F. J. and Leta Mae Hess, Carey Don and Cheryl Smith, Mr. and Mrs. J.T. Trew, Ruth Magee, Mary Powell, Bernard and Zelda McClellan, Lavern Back, L.L. Rogers, and Fayette Belle Barton.

Also present were contractor Kenneth Hambright and his wife, LaRue.

Co-founders of the museum, Mrs. Vera F. Back and the late Mrs. Alice Short Smith were honored following the luncheon, and portraits of the two women were hung in the entry way of the museum.

More than 500 people visited in the Museum during its grand-opening last weekend. "We would like to invite the local citizens of Alanreed, McLean, and Lefors to stop in and see us," said director Lavern Back.

"We had a steady stream of traffic Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, and most of those visiting were ex-students and people from out-of-town. We are very proud of our new setting, and displays, and know McLeanites will share our joy with us."

The museum board of directors were informed during a recent visit by a museum curator, that the local museum has more items than most could ever hope for. He also told the board that "most museums would give their eye teeth for some of the items you have," and that "the collection of history was simply marvelous."

The M.K. Brown Foundation gave the museum over $30,000 to complete the renovation project and enable the museum's growth. The museum has used all of that money in the project, and still depends on donations for the actual running and operation of the museum.

75th Rodeo Draws Large Crowds Nightly

Approximately 1000 people enjoyed the 75th annual McLean Rodeo held in conjunction with the MHS ex-student reunion, according to rodeo association president, Mike Darsey.

The rodeo featured a Memorial to the late Carl Lee Henley who was killed in a roping accident August, 1984. A memorial has also been erected by the engrance of the arena, featuring a heading and heeling team roping a calf, which is the sport Henley favored.

The memorial is the result of a combined effort between Cherine Beaver and Dale Steel.

"I would like to thank everyone who gave so much of their time, money, and effort to insure the rodeo's success," said Darsey. "It was important to many people and especially to the many friends of Carl Lee Henley that the rodeo continue. The Association is pleased this year's attempt was such a success, and we're looking forward to next year."

More than 100 contestants participated in the rodeo, in-

The recently-completed celebration in our community has to rank as the most successful in a number of years. The Homecoming crowd was probably the largest ever, the rodeo was a success, and the other functions during the weekend were similarly well-attended and enjoyed.

Many people deserve plaudits for their untiring work in the events, assuring positive results which were attained, but each of them will tell you that it couldn't have been done without the participation of many people, and that is exactly what occurred. The community got behind the celebration, and proved that interest, enthusiasm, and hard work certainly pays off.

I was fortunate to see many people I had not seen in many years, such as Dean Grigsby, Arvin Smith, Harvey Shelton, and others, and was certainly surprised by the way some of them looked! They all looked great, and I was most fooled by Bill Mounce, who was a stand-out football player for the Tigers in the mid-fifties. I was privileged to play with him, and the reason I didn't recognize him immediately was because he looked so thin and young. He is a shining example of what can be attained if you have the desire, even if you come from a small town like ours. Bill is now one of the leading lawyers for the El Paso Natural Gas Co.

At any rate, I hope you had as much fun as I did seeing old friends this year, and I'm hoping that the next gathering will be an even greater success!

At the time I am writing this column, many Americans are being held hostage in Beirut by a pompous Shiite leader, Nabih Berri, in another flagrant transgression of International Law and human decency by the Moslem faction. I'm certain President Reagan and many other super vocal critics of President Carter during the Tehran fiasco now have a better understanding of and sympathy for the spot he was in. I think the time has come for America to stand up and let the infidels know we will retaliate in great measure in future incidents, and it would suit me fine to level every terrorist concentration in the Arab world, no matter what any of the rest of the world might think...

Chester Cooper Honored On 80th

Chester Cooper will celebrate his 80th birthday June 22 at the Senior Citizen's Building.

Trout and two brothers, Archie and Paul, and all are living here in McLean.

LOVE THY NEIGHBOR

Who's your neighbor? Is it the young woman next door who may need day care assistance, the senior citizen a mile away who is lonely and struggling to make ends meet on a limited income, or the unemployed alcoholic who roams the city streets looking for hand-outs? If you have faith in the Bible and/or are a concerned citizen, the answer is clear: they are all your neighbors. What's more, there are ways that you can help these people and make your community a happier and more secure place for all its citizens.

Chester now lives in Walters, Okla. His friends are invited to come.

The Salvation Army is a religious and charitable organization which was founded by William Booth, a Methodist minister, in 1865. At Corps Community Centers and other facilities run by the organization, volunteers and staff gladly help all people in need, regardless of race, color, creed, sex or age. As an expression of its spiritual beliefs, the Army offers humanitarian services such as:

- Physical aid—food, clothing and shelter, in an atmosphere of dignity and respect.
- Special assistance—help in facing personal problems. The Army works to improve relationships and deal with the problems of unwed parents, alcoholics, ex-prisoners and others.

- Rehabilitation centers—in-residence programs that provide work therapy and counseling. The Army also provides alcoholism treatment programs.

Senior citizens are served through drop-in clubs, senior centers, friendly visitation in hospitals and nursing homes. For youngsters, there is an expanded network of summer camps, scouting groups and community centers for boys' and girls' clubs, as well as day-care facilities. For people who live in communities where disaster has struck, Salvation Army mobile canteens bring food, clothing blankets and medical supplies.

The results were well worth your efforts!

For those of you who were wondering about the "mystery" pictures in the paper last week, I'll identify one of them for you. The front page picture was a 1949 shot of Bob Sherrod, riding Black Diamond.

I don't know if the cutline fell off the page before the printers got to it, or if I inadvertently left it off, but I didn't mean for the picture to be such a mystery.

The inside picture however, is a mystery to me, and if you can identify the rider, please let me know. The photo was brought in by Sophie Hutchison, who thought it might be Mary Hess Dwyer, but after checking with Mary - we learned that it wasn't. If you can identify the rider, or know who the photo belongs to, let us know and we'll see that it gets to its rightful owner.

I really appreciate Bob and Sophie bringing in these photos for us to use last week. It was nice to have one of our "local" cowboys featured on the front

If you have not yet stopped in and visited the museum in its new location, you won't believe what you're missing. Many extra hours of hard work were done by the board of directors, volunteers, and Kinnett Ham-bright trying to complete the project before the reunion/rodeo and they did an excellent job.

Stop in and visit. You'll be amazed at the excellent condition the collection is in!

Reports

SESSION COVERS A MYRAID OF ISSUES

AUSTIN - Legislative sessions seem to some outside the Capitol a game in which only a few issues are considered and even fewer passed. Sometimes, those of us inside the Capitol do little to rid ourselves of that image.

Whatever the perception, the truth is far different and decidedly less glamorous. More than 5,000 bills and resolutions were introduced during the recently completed 69th regular session, and a pretty good number of those passed. Only a few of those issues, maybe 10 percent, grabbed headlines week-in and week-out.

Last week, we looked at the issues that attracted the biggest headlines during the regular session. Now, we're going to look at issues that didn't have the same amount of time in the spotlight but are just as important to the people of District 31.

BUSINESS AND CONSUMER ISSUES

Of course, the celebrated repeal of the blue law dominated all business-related debate this year, but in the long run, action or inaction on several other business bills will have significant impact on the state. Among those:

Secondary Mortgages - Several bills were introduced to allow people to borrow against their home for more than home improvements. Opponents warned that many people, especially the elderly, could be cheated out of their homes. Proponents said, "let the buyer beware."

The opponents won as the bills failed to pass out of committee.

Local Measured Service - Senators approved a bill that protected against phone company attempts to force on customers pay-per-call local service, but the House adopted a more laissez-faire approach and refused to outlaw LMS. Look for the prohibition effort again next session.

Satellite Dishes - This one could be bad news for those people looking to improve their home entertainment centers. Unauthorized use of these dishes will become illegal if the governor signs a bill outlawing cable theft.

Securities Law Changes - Plans to abolish Texas' "merit review" of stocks died in the Senate during the session's waning hours. With it ended our efforts to exempt some cooperative stock from unnecessary review. Since the bill came so close to passage, it likely will be on someone's agenda next session.

Computer Crime - Hackers beware. We passed a bill this session outlawing unauthorized entry into computer systems if the person entering the system steals, alters or damages material in the system. All the bill needs now is the governor's signature.

CRIME - Criminal issues attracted more attention this session than any in recent memory. Maybe that's because so many lawmakers were posturing to run for attorney general in 1986. Crime bills passed during the recent session include:

Expanded Death Penalty - Multiple murders, especially so-called serial murders, will be punishable by death if the governor signs a bill passed recently by the Legislature. Since the governor wants to be re-elected next year, the chances are good he'll sign the bill.

Wiretapping - The House and Senate both approved an extension of the controversial wiretap law originally pushed by former Gov. Bill Clements. The bill almost died in the Senate before restrictions were placed on police ability to covertly enter a home and place a wiretap. Only the governor's signature is needed, and he is expected to sign the measure.

Child Abuse - Two bills were passed protecting children from the trauma of abuse. One requires day care centers to check the criminal background of all prospective employees, and the other dedicates licensing fees from those centers to better training of child-care workers. Both are expected to be signed by the governor.

Rape - A bill that would have allowed a person to charge their spouse with rape died in the Senate as the session was coming to a close. While the bill had merit, some said there wasn't enough protection against meritless charges aimed strictly at harassment. Expect a slightly beefed up version of the same bill to be introduced next session.

As you can see, more than just "sensational" bills passed this session. In the future, we'll take a look at those bills that dealt with social and health-related issues as well as bills that will affect the way your state government works. If you have any questions about these or any other bills, please write us at P.O. Box 12068, Austin, TX, 78711.

Cookin' With...Betty Crocker!

I purchased Betty Crocker's "International Cookbook" from the Variety Tuesday, and found so many new wonderful recipes I wanted to try them all!

I've included one that's slightly different, and wouldn't be a dish to serve every day, but would be excellent for company or a special family dinner.

Stuffed Rolled Steak

A thin, flat cut of beef spread with a savory stuffing, then rolled, skewered and braised, produces an applause-winning main dish that is particularly easy to serve - it can be sliced jelly roll fashion and eaten hot or cold. The dish is popular throughout Latin America. In Argentina it is called matambre, or "hunger killer". The beef roll was originally prepared for travellers setting out on long journeys.

Serves 8.
1 1/2 pound beef boneless round steak, 1/2 inch thick
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/2 teaspoon dried oregano leaves
1/4 teaspoon pepper
4 ounces thinly sliced fully cooked smoked ham
2 medium tomatoes, chopped
1 can (4 ounces) mild green chilies, drained and chopped
1 medium onion, chopped
1 clove garlic, finely chopped
1/4 cup dry bread crumbs
1 medium carrot
1 hard-cooked egg, cut lengthwise into fourths
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
1/4 cup water
1 teaspoon vinegar
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 bay leaf

Trim fat from beef. Pound with mallet or edge of sauce until about 1/4 inch thick. Sprinkle beef with 1/2 teaspoon salt, the oregano and pepper. Arrange ham evenly on the beef. Sprinkle tomatoes, chilies, onion, garlic and bread crumbs on ham.

Cut carrot lengthwise into halves; cut halves lengthwise into three strips. Arrange on ham. Place egg pieces down center of ham. Sprinkle with 1/2 teaspoon salt. Carefully roll up beef. Fasten with metal skewers or tie with string. (If beef separates when rolled, fasten with wooden picks.)

Heat oil in dutch oven until hot. Carefully transfer beef roll to Dutch oven; cook over medium heat until brown on all sides.

Drain fat. Add water, vinegar, Worcestershire sauce and bay leaf.

Cover and cook in 325 degree oven until beef is tender, about 1 1/2 hours. Remove skewers. Cut beef into 1-inch slices; serve with broth.

The "International Cookbook" recommends serving the above dish with the following Red Beans and Rice recipe, which serves 12.

Red Beans and Rice
2 cups water
8 ounces dried kidney beans* (about 1 cup)
2 ounces salt pork, diced, or 3 slices bacon, cut up
1 medium onion, chopped
1 medium green pepper, chopped
1 cup uncooked regular rice
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
Heat water and beans to boiling in 3-quart saucepan; boil 2 minutes. Remove from heat; cover and let stand 1 hour. Add enough water to cover beans if necessary. Heat to boiling; reduce heat. Cover and simmer until tender, 1 to 1 1/2 hours (do not boil or beans will burst). Drain; reserve liquid. Fry salt pork in 10-inch skillet until crisp; add onion and green pepper. Cook and stir until onion is tender. Add enough water to reserved liquid to measure 2 cups if necessary. Add reserved liquid, the salt pork, onion, green pepper, rice and salt to beans in 3-quart saucepan. Heat to boiling, stirring once or twice; reduce heat. Cover and simmer 14 minutes. (Do not lift cover or stir.)

Remove from heat. Fluff lightly with fork; cover and let steam 5 to 10 minutes.

*1 can (16-ounces; red kidney beans, drained, can be substituted for the cooked dried kidney beans.

Down on the FARM

WATCH UP FOR POWER LINES

Power lines can be dangerous.

Touching irrigation pipe to a power line can divert the electricity through the pipe . . . and to anyone in contact with it. In this part of the country, this is the leading cause of farm injuries and deaths in electricity-related accidents. Any equipment of unusual height represents a potential danger. Lift arms on field equipment, combine auger spouts and even radio antennas can cause serious injury or death if they, and you, make contact with a power line.

Keep an eye up for power lines. Watch up, for safety's sake.

The Bank of Vernal in Vernal, Utah, is the only bank in the world built from bricks sent through the mail. In 1919, the people of Vernal discovered that it would cost less to mail the bricks from Salt Lake City, seven to a package, than to have them shipped commercially.

The largest dinosaur, along with an elephant and a man, could stand on a blue whale with plenty of room to spare.

Venetian blinds, often thought to be a "modern" look, are said to have been installed in 1761 in St. Peter's Church in Philadelphia.

A three-ring celebration

Make your child's party a circus

By Donna Higgins
Del Monte Corporation

Editor's note: Higgins is director of consumer services for Del Monte, and heads the corporation's test kitchens.

Children's parties are a lot of fun for everyone but the person who has to cook and clean up afterwards. You want their celebration to be fun, without entailing a week's worth of work on your part.

I've devised the following recipes to make the task of planning birthday parties, end-of-the-school-year celebrations or other festive fetes a bit simpler. They are

BIG TOP HONEY LOG

1/4 cup honey
1/2 cup creamy-style peanut butter
1/2 cup instant non-fat dry milk
3/4 cup Del Monte Natural Raisins
1/4 cup chopped unsalted, dry-roasted peanuts

Blend honey and peanut butter. Gradually stir in dry milk, mix well. Stir in raisins. Shape into log and roll in chopped nuts. Wrap tightly and chill 1 to 2 hours. To serve, cut into 1/2-inch slices. Keep refrigerated.

Yield: 18 slices (1 1/4-inch diameter).

JUNGLE JINGLE PUNCH

1 can (46 fluid ounces) Hawaiian Punch
Fruit Juicy Red, chilled
1 1/2 cups Del Monte Pineapple Juice, chilled
1/2 cup lime juice
2 bottles (10 fluid ounces each) Canada Dry Ginger Ale, chilled
Ice cubes

Combine punch and juices. Add ginger ale just before serving. Serve over ice. Yield: 10 servings (8 ounces each).

3-RING CIRCUS MIX

1 can (5 ounces) Chun King Chow Mein Noodles
2 cups Rice Chex or Wheat Chex cereal
2 cups mixed nuts or peanuts
1 cup Del Monte Natural Raisins

Combine all ingredients, mix well. Store in airtight containers. Yield: Approximately 8 cups. ▲

Big Top Honey Log and Jungle Jingle Punch combine foods kids love with good nutrition. They are also quick and easy to prepare.

SHOPPING FOR MONEY

If you are lucky enough to be planning an overseas trip, be sure you get the most for your money — literally. Exchange rates vary from day to day and from place to place. Money manager Gene Snow keeps an eye on more than $4.5 billion in currency translations each year for R.J. Reynolds Industries. He tells friends going abroad to exchange only as much money at the airport as they need for cab fare and other small expenses. The best exchange rates are generally found at downtown banks, not at the bank branches located at the airport. Snow says you should check the exchange rate your hotel is using if you're paying in American travelers checks. It may be cheaper to exchange your money at a bank and pay the bill in the local currency. ▲

GOSPEL MUSIC AWARDS

The third annual Kentucky Fried Chicken Gospel Music Competition finals will be held Sunday, July 14, in the nation's capital at the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts.

Eight finalists chosen during preliminary auditions at churches in the Washington and Baltimore areas will perform at the Kennedy Center. Churches sponsoring the winning entrants will receive contributions totaling more than $9,000.

Since it began, the competition has given more than 450 gospel groups, soloists and musicians the opportunity to perform before audiences of thousands. ▲

HENHOUSE IN THE SKY

Travelers in Japan who get a yen for some Kentucky Fried Chicken get even more for their money. In Japan, every blessed piece of chicken they serve is exactly that — blessed.

Each year a solemn religious ceremony is held by a Shinto priest to pray for the souls of the 20 million chickens eaten each year by Kentucky Fried Chicken's Japanese customers.

The ceremony is a local tradition that the company says it respects. "The service is held to put the souls of the birds at peace," a company executive explains. ▲

THE OUTSIDE COUNTS

There's no such thing these days as a simple package. Years of research often go into developing the materials used to package the familiar products on supermarket and drugstore shelves.

The time and care given to perfecting a single package is well spent, though, says flexible packaging producer RJR Archer, Inc. Rigorous testing of product packaging helps ensure that the items you buy are in top condition. ▲

NOW IF THEY ONLY HAD ONE FOR KIDS...

It's an American ritual. You make vacation reservations. You pack the car and the kids, and take the dog to the kennel. Then you plead, beg or bribe a neighbor to water your plants while you're gone.

Well, if you were a "soil-free" gardener, you wouldn't have that last problem. A new system called Luwasa Hydroculture lets you grow plants in clay pebbles rather than dirt. Plants grown in the clay pebbles need watering just once every two or three weeks.

The Luwasa system was invented in Switzerland. According to the gardening experts at Jackson & Perkins, the company that sells Luwasa in the United States, clay pebbles are better for your plants. They let in more oxygen than dirt does, and make it virtually impossible to overwater the plants. The Luwasa pots look like regular plant pots, but they have a water gauge on the side that works like the gas gauge on a car.

The Luwasa system is popular in European offices and public buildings. Studies there have shown that it reduces plant maintenance costs by 60 percent and plant replacement costs by 20 to 35 percent. ▲

MY KIND OF ADVICE

If you want to lose weight — and keep it off — don't go on a diet. Sound like the advice you've been waiting to hear?

Dr. Dee Graham, a food scientist with Del Monte Corp., says it's true. Graham says that Americans spend as much as $10 billion each year on diets. But even those people who lose weight on the diets usually gain it back.

Graham says the best way to lose weight is to eat a balanced diet, but limit your portions. That way, you can even include some of the foods usually forbidden on a diet. Graham says the key to it all is making small portions a way of life — if you can do that, you won't gain back the weight you lose. Your diet will be in balance, and so will your body. ▲

WHAT'S UP IN CATSUP?

Americans consume about 840 million bottles of catsup each year, according to Del Monte Corp. That's about four bottles for every man, woman and child. It takes about five pounds of ripe tomatoes to make just one 32-ounce bottle of catsup. At five pounds a bottle, and four bottles per person, the average American is eating about 20 pounds of tomatoes each year in catsup alone. ▲

SIMPLY STUNNING

How a product is packaged is an important part of consumer goods marketing. A package must be simple but eye-catching, so consumers are not bombarded with too many messages at once, says packaging producer RJR Archer, Inc. A product's package should be designed to be used for at least several years. That length of time is needed for the package to make a lasting impression on consumers. ▲

SURVIVE TAX DAY 1986

Congratulations. You survived the April 15 tax-filing deadline. Believe it or not, this is the time to begin preparing for your 1986 tax returns.

According to Charles Simms, a professional tax manager for R.J. Reynolds Industries, starting now will save you time later. Remember the weekend you had to plow through boxes of receipts and records this year? You could prevent that next year by setting up files for your records. Set up one for deductions on loans, one for reimbursable car mileage, one for charitable contributions and so on. Your file doesn't have to be fancy — large manila envelopes marked with the category will do the job.

Simms also says you should write to the IRS now and get a copy of Publication 17. It will tell you what types of things will be deductible on next year's returns, so that you can keep an eye out for them through the year. ▲ based on a circus theme that could be carried out throughout the party decorations, favors and entertainment.

The recipes require very little preparation time — none of them even require baking — and most are simple enough that even the youngest partygoer can help make them. As an added bonus, the recipes call for fruits, nuts, juices and other nutritious ingredients.

Cream cottage cheese in your blender as a lower calorie substitute for sour cream to use in dips.

The onion was regarded by the Romans as a god who guarded the kitchen and guided the healing of battle wounds and skin diseases.

One of the first American magazines, The General Magazine, founded by Benjamin Franklin in 1741, carried the first known American magazine advertisement.
