Kathy's

Do you remember the rabbit in "Alice in Wonderland" who ran around yelling, "I'm late, I'm late..."? Well, it seems to be all we've been able to say this week.

If you didn't notice, last week's issue of the news was late being mailed out.

Now, for once Debi and I finished the paper at a decent hour Tuesday night (we were through by 9:30).

The paper was delivered by Mother in Pampa on schedule Wednesday and everything seemed to be running smooth as silk.

That is, until Mother Nature decided to make things a little whiter around here and sent us a nice-sized snow and ice storm Wednesday.

We tried to get to Pampa Wednesday to pick up the papers, but they weren't ready and the storm didn't want us to wait around.

Thursday's weather did not improve, and so the papers sat another day.

We were finally able to fetch them Friday and address them, but we were not able to get them to the post office in time to be mailed out.

We're sorry about the delay, and we hope it won't happen again.

However, the weather has been threatening so far this week to make travel between Pampa and McLean treacherous --so who knows? This explanation may be late also!

Charlie Marie Shurley and Ruth Magee have been putting in many hours of research working in the local histories for the Gray County History Book.

They are asking individuals to work up histories and have them in before the March 15 deadline.

Mrs. Magee has asked that we stress that this request is for younger families and residents also, not just the "old timers". Both women have offered their services in writing the histories so if you need any help, call 779-2858 or 779-2737.

The histories need to be less than 700 words. Take a day and write your family history down for the book. McLean and Alanreed hold important parts in Gray County's history and we need to be sure our fair share is in the book!

One of the things that I hate to do most is to nag everyone to attend a meeting and then be unable to attend that meeting myself.

Such was the case last Friday when the Chamber of Commerce meeting came up at lunch-time.

I was ready to go to the meeting, but I also had to be in Pampa to pick up the papers and the Chamber lost out.

The Chamber did not disband, although only five people showed up for the meeting. Stronger actions and appeals are going to be made in the next few weeks for more participation from area businesspeople and then the final decisions will be made.

It seems a shame to me to see the Chamber disband, but if only five people show at the next meeting, the message See KORNER, Page 2

MHS Beauty Pageant Sat.

Thirty young local ladies will be participating in the annual McLean High School Beauty Pageant Saturday night.

The pageant, scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m. in the high school auditorium, will feature the girls in street wear and formal wear.

The participants will also have interviews with the out-of-town judges before the contest.

Vying for this year's crown are Wendy McDowell, Amber Kingston, Melanie Billingsley, Diane Conners, Jem Ann Rice, Judy Stewart, Corrie Green, Melody Collins, Tanya Cummings, Lee Ann Tate, Angie Reynolds, Angie Glass, Connie Rawlings, Judy Kennedy, Amy Bernard, Shawn Crockett, Traci Edgell, Vickie Armbrister, Kristie Thompson, Diana Halum, Samantha Harris, Sheryl Dodds, Mary Wilson, Terri Lee, Kim Wiginton, Cindy Hembree, Kristie Meeker, Linda Reid, Carla Skipper and Wendy Kniffen.

Admission for the contest will be $2 for adults and $1 for students.

McGruff Program Feb. 13

Officer McGruff will be in McLean's Lovett Memorial Library at 10 a.m. February 13, according to Librarian Martha Parker.

"Officer McGruff will present a safety program to our area children that day, and we hope parents will bring their children for this free, beneficial and entertaining program," explained Mrs. Parker.

Students from McLean's kindergarten and first grade classes have been invited to attend the program.

Students Miss Two Days

McLean students missed two days of school last week, due to the inclement weather and a flu epidemic in the lower grades.

As many as 31 elementary students were absent due to illness last week, and most of those absences were occurring in the first four grades.

After the snow hit Wednesday morning, and at the request of McLean doctor Harold Fabian, officials dismissed school at noon Wednesday. Students were home Thursday and Friday, and school re-convened Monday.

High school principal Ron Cummings reported eight absences Monday and Tuesday.

Elementary principal Dorman Thomas had ten students absent Monday and 17 absent Tuesday.

According to superintendent Jim Rutherford, trustees will decide at the school board meeting Monday night when to make up the two days missed.

"At that time, we'll probably know whether any more school will have to be missed to the weather and the flu," explained Rutherford.

The superintendent also said that the days to be dismissed during the Pampa Stock Show would probably not be affected.

Chamber Postpones Action

McLean's Chamber of Commerce has not disbanded...not yet, according to spokeswoman Sharon Haynes.

"We had five people attend the meeting Friday, and we decided to make one last request to local merchants as to their participation in the Chamber," she explained. "Area merchants and businessmen will be receiving letters in the next week requesting some type of action be taken-whether positive or negative-and then the final decisions will be made."

One suggestion made at the meeting was to hold the annual Chamber banquet and have officer elections and member-

City And School Filing Opened Feb. 6

Candidates could begin filing Monday for positions in the upcoming city and school elections, according to city secretary Stella Lee and school business manager Shirley Johnson.

Filing opened February 4 and will close March 6, following instructions received from the secretary of State's office Friday.

In the city election, terms open for election are the mayor's term currently held by George Terry; two full-time terms, one currently held by W.A. Bentley and one the term of Loyd Bybee, who resigned from his post in July. Also open is a one year unexpired term, filling the position vacated by Wayne Bybee, who resigned his post three months after being electd to the council last year.

Trustees positions open in the school election are three-year terms currently held by Joe Magee and Lloyd Hunt.

Candidates may file for these positions at the city ahl and school business office for the proper terms.

Absentee voting will begin March 18 and will close April 3.

Jr. High To Travel To Phillips

McLean junior high roundballers were to see final action on the courts Monday night when they travelled to Phillips, but inclement weather had officials postpone the game until Thursday evening.

Games are scheduled to begin at 5:15 with a junior varsity game. The varsity matches will follow.

Groups Involved In History Write-Up

A logo depicting the petroleum, cattle, and agriculture industries of Gray County within the lone star state has been chosen for the front cover medallion of the Gray County History Book, according to spokeswoman Darlene Birkes.

The 9"x12" bound volume will be published for the Sesquicentennial year.

The logo will be featured on brochures sent to Gray County residents this week. The brochures contain information about the history book and how to write family histories. Those not receiving a brochure may pick one up at stores and museum in the county.

The Gray County History Book will feature family histories and the general history of the county, organizations, churches, and schools, etc. Of special interest will be the many photographs plus sketches done by area artists, including Jerry Richardson and Jackie Kastor. Winner of the logo design was Richard Thompson, a former Pampa artist now living in Amarillo. Thompson is recognized for his oil paintings and sculptures of wild life.

He designed the art for Gray County's bicentennial coin in 1976. Thompson is currently working on the book "150 Years of the Texas Cowboy", to be published by the Texas Christian University press this fall for the Sesquicentennial celebration.

The book will contain art and research by members of the Texas Cowboy Artists Association. Thompson is now serving his second term as president of the group.

Area residents wishing more information about the history book or assistance in writing their family history should con-

Foundation... Not Association

In a January 17 story in The McLean News, concerning the City Council of McLean's two items reported have caused confusion. In said story, we erroneously called the Hillcrest Cemetery Foundation the Hillcrest Cemetery Association. Foundation is the correct word.

The second point in question also concerns the cemetery. The new regulations in the curbing around the plots is applicable only to the plots sold after January 8. Existing plots that have above-ground curbing will not be required to abide by the new requirements.

Weather Cancels Luncheon

The annual fund-raising chili luncheon sponsored by the Alanreed-McLean Area Museum was postponed due to inclement weather Friday.

As of press time, the luncheon had not been rescheduled.

Whittler's Bench

By Sam Haynes

Boys here on the Whittler's bench have decided that we may have come to a time in our lives when we will not be expected to make a decision of any kind about anything, as there are so many people around enthusiastically willing to make them for us.

Ralph Nader of course, takes care of telling us which cars to buy, what to eat, etc. Jerry Falwell and others of his ilk tell us how to act, what is sinful and what is not, and which candidate we should support in this or that election.

State and national legislators (some of whom are not yet dry behind the ears) seem to have lost all understanding of separation of church and state, and are legislating morality for all of us at every opportunity.

One legislator from our area who has enjoyed success with some of the bills he has presented during his brief time in public service, has become so suddenly wise that he can now invoke his superior insight and intelligence to support or be against measures directly in contrast to the views of the majority of people in his constituency.

We have been told of the evils of pari-mutual wagering, and lotteries and of the sanctity of Texas "blue laws", when in reality California, New Mexico, Arizona, Florida, Arkansas and many other states do not see pari-mutual wagering as a great peril to their society. Illinois and many other states do not feel the lotteries add to their welfare rolls as we have been told, and the "Blue Law" certainly does not protect small businessmen, and is so antiquated it should have been dropped long ago.

It will be so refreshing someday to have people in authority realize that we the "common" people just might have a little sense ourselves...that we can read the Bible and see what is right and wrong...that we won't buy faulty products but once...

that if we are against pornographic material we don't have to read or look at it...that we'd all appreciate a person capable of making laws who would do away with many we already have, enforce the ones that are left, and let each of us handle our own morality.

We really don't need or want them making any more decisions for us, and in my own case, they will just be spinning their wheels anyway, 'cause I'm married...

DPS Trooper Reports Wrecks

McLean DPS trooper Ron Shank investigated three wrecks January 30, all within 25 minutes of each other.

At 11:40 a.m., Mark DeSeguian of Alexandria, Va., driving a Cabover tractor-trailer, lost directional control of his vehicle, jackknifed and slid off the roadway to the north and came to rest in the ditch between the service road and the west bound lane of Interstate 40. The wreck happened four miles west of McLean and DeSeguian was not injured.

At 12:05 p.m., two wrecks occurred 3 miles east of McLean, and both wrecks were due to drivers travelling at a speed to high for the road and weather conditions.

Rocky A. Pillion of Kansas City, Mo., driving a Cabover tractor-trailer, saw other vehicles ahead sliding in the road and hit his brakes. He lost control of his truck, jackknifed, slid off the road to the north and came to rest near the shoulder.

He then straightened out and parked in the shoulder, facing the west.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor; LAND RETIREMENT

The way to a market oriented agriculture

The market orientation theory would be desirable to a farmers, only of agriculture could be returned to a supply and demand price base without financially strangling America's farm families during the transition. I suggest that a land retirement program could be the cheapest and most effective mode of transition.

One of the major problems with recent farm program is that their design stimulates over-production. Because of government payments, lands that are otherwise unprofitable to farm are being operated. A land retirement program would redirect government spending from current subsidies to funding the seeding of these acres to grass. The reduction of lands being cropped would decrease the products available for sale. This would cause an increase in prices and the return of profits to farming again.

It should be noted that retirement of more than marginal lands may be required to accomplish the price and profit goals. In order to retain the desired goal of market orientation, retired lands must be kept out of production long enough for the balance of supply and demand to be restored. Retired lands would be returned to production only if farming is profitable. Consistency in this direction would allow the agriculture industry to recover from its depression, and return to a supply and demand market.

Current situation is that crop production on most lands is profitable only because of:
1. Price Deficiency Payments
2. Storage Payments
3. Diversion Payments
II. Solutions that are better and more economical than removal of all government support:

1. Initial expenditure of fund reseeding
2. Annual compensation to hold retired lands out of production
  - a. An annual payment
  - b. A reduction in a farmers indebtedness to the government
  - c. Grazing a portion of the

It seems that a school fraternity was taking in a new member who became infuriated at some of the things required of him, and undertook to settle things with a gun, but was restrained. Next day he came in a restaurant where young Carpenter was and began shooting. Five shots were fired, two hitting Carpenter, one glancing off his chin and one hitting one side an lodging against his spine. The injured boy was taken to Quanah, where an operation was successful and barring complications, the patient should recover.

Editorial...The spring season is approaching and every loyal citizen who owns a foot of land should make arrangements to beautify it in some manner by the addition of trees and shrubbery. There is nothing that adds more to the attractiveness of a plot of ground than God's own green, and though your home may possess all the beauty and grandeur of architectural skill, it will remain bleak and unattractive without the addition of trees and flowers.

Methodist Church To Send Aide To Africa

Appeals for funds to feed the hungry of Africa bombard us on the television, blare at us on the radio and blast us in every newspaper headline. The amounts needed are great. The agencies responding are many. We United Methodists still have the best system in the world to get the most there in the most reliable fashion. No administration cost is held out when the gift is given as an Advance Special-100% of the gift goes to help. Food and supplies are distributed by the African, United Methodist Church and other colleague churches, thus eliminating government red tape.

Sometimes it is appreciated if we can explain what specific amounts will do. In that way a family or individual can see what the money is buying.

$11.00 will buy 100 lbs. of sorghum, $14.00 will buy 100 lbs. of rice, $17.00 will buy 100

lbs. of beans, $4.50 will buy a 5-gallon water container, $5.00 will buy a pure wool blanket, $110.00 will buy a small tent, $200.00 will buy a large tent to house 6-10 people, and $6,000.00 will transport one plane load (18 tons) of food. Tigerettes Defeat
Lefors Pirates 49-35

High school basketball teams traded games with Lefors when they hosted the Pirates January 29.

Melanie Billingsley led the Tigerettes in their 49-35 victory over Lefors with 20 points. Kristie Thompson had a fine night with 13 points. Patricia Rodgers had seven, Lee Ann Tate had six, Jem Ann Rice had two and Tanya Cummings had one point.

The Tigers fell behind Lefors in the first quarter and were never able to catch them. They lost the match 54-31. Kirk Anderson was high-point with six, Mark McCarty and Huey Green had five points each. Carl Sherman and Bob Patman had four and Donnie Smith had two points.

The Feb. 1 match between McLean and Darrouzett was cancelled because of inclement weather and will not be re-scheduled.

The two teams were scheduled to travel to Groom Tuesday night and will go to Claude Friday night for their final game of the season.

NEWS OF ENERGY

By Nicholas J. Bush, President, Natural Gas Supply Association

When you pay your monthly natural gas bill, what are you paying for? A lot more than just the gas that you use in your home for heating and other purposes.

A natural gas bill can be divided into three, possibly four, basic parts: (1) the cost of the natural gas itself which accounts for about only 40 percent of your total bill. (2) the cost of transporting the gas from the production field to your city, (3) the cost of distributing the gas within the city and (4) state and local taxes.

By the time the natural gas reaches consumers, the ownership of it has changed hands at least twice. The way the industry works is that producers explore for and produce the gas, sometimes from wells that go nearly three miles into the ground. When the gas is produced, it is then sold to a pipeline that ships it to your city. When the gas arrives at the city it is sold again to your local distribution company.

At each step in the process after the gas comes out of the ground, a set of costs are added to the basic price of the natural gas. None of those costs are related to the huge investments necessary to find the gas in the first place. The next time you get your monthly gas bill, remember that you're paying for a lot more than the natural gas itself.

Texas FFA Threatened By House Bill 72

"Learning to Do, Doing to Learn, Earning to Live, Living to Serve" has been the motto for the Texas Future Farmers of America since the state received its first charter in 1929. From the very beginning vocational agriculture and the FFA have been looked upon as essential education maintaining a link with the important agriculture economy of the state.

According to Chris Kountz, past president of the Texas Vocational Agriculture Teachers Association, "The very existence of these programs is being threatened by Texas Education Agency administrative actions and reformulation of vocational education funding to schools."

"Based in the new funding formula provided by House Bill #72 this past summer, a vocational agriculture program will have to maintain an average of 65 students in order to receive adequate funding, and in many schools, depending on the experience of the teacher and local economic factors, the number of students will need to be greater to maintain funding levels. In the rural areas of the Panhandle and South Plains the schools will not be able to pick up the slack caused by the loss of funding. At the very best the quality of the programs will severely deteriorate."

"Another devastating blow to vocational agriculture has been the proposal to close the are vocational education offices. The offices provide the necessary coordination and quality control for the vocational programs in the high schools," says Kountz.

State Rep. Jerry Clark of Buna, a former state FFA president, says the Texas Future Farmers of America program will be severely crippled of the structure of the area occupational specialists is done away with.

FFA members in Texas currently number more than 60,000 in 949 FFA chapters. The area specialists coordinate leadership events, judging contests, workshops, and conventions involving more than three-fourths of the Texas FFA students.

Ronnie Teichelman, Occupational Education Specialist for

Texas Education Agency's Area I office in Plainview which serves McLean high school says there are three essentials that must be met if vocational agriculture education is to survive in many Texas schools.

"We've got to get vocational funding channeled back to the small schools. Secondly, the area offices have to be saved. And finally the teacher training supplement has to be funded to the colleges and universities."

"Without the teacher training supplement the universities such as Texas Tech would not be able to sponsor judging contests and teacher improvement workshops." (Two options According to Teichelman, vocational agriculture programs such as the one in McLean under the direction of Jim Bob Webb will not be able to maintain the same high standards that the people of McLean have become accustomed to.

"There will only be a shell remaining of the co-curricular activities that provide motivation and education to students."

Vocational agriculture provides the students with job entry level skills in the technical areas of animal science, plant science, soil science, agriculture mechanics.

gram in leadership training. Additionally, in the previous school year Texas vocational agriculture students earned a net income of over $24 million from their supervised occupational experience programs.

Vocational Agriculture Education in Texas is in trouble. It will take a united effort from the people to preserve what has become a tradition for more than 50 years. If you would like to help, contact Jim Bob Webb for more information.
