Drain Autos Is Advice Of Weather Man

Minimum By Wednesday Morning May Reach Twenty-Four Degrees

Drain your car tonight if you haven't put some kind of anti-freeze in the radiator. That was the advice of Jack Cummings, weather bureau chief here, Tuesday afternoon. He said temperature likely would drop to as low as 24 by dawn Wednesday.

Although a very severe cold wave was blowing down the east side of the Rockies and Big Spring felt a precipitate drop in temperatures through out Tuesday morning, it appeared the most severe part of the wave would be felt east of here.

Lower temperatures were forecast for East Texas than for West Texas. Temperature dropped below 40 degrees between 2 and 3 a. m. Tuesday and stayed around 35 and 34 degrees throughout the morning, falling to only 33 at noon.

Snow, light in the west and heavy in the east portion of the nation swirled Tuesday over almost all except the southernmost states. The eastern storm started early Tuesday. Weather forecasters expected it to continue unabated throughout Tuesday night and Wednesday. It may be one of the heaviest snows in history, said Associated Press dispatches.

New York lay under five inches of snow. Forecasts for many sections were for a cold wave Tuesday night and Wednesday.

Cotton Survey Being Started In This County

Preparations Made For '34 And '35 Acreage Reduction Plan

A special cotton survey is being conducted in Howard and other counties of the state in preparation for the federal government's 1934 and 1935 cotton acreage reduction plan.

Information required on the cards deals principally with bales harvested, acres planted and acres harvested for the years 1928-33, inclusive. They are simple and easily understood.

County Agent O. P. Griffin stressed the importance of each of 1194 farmers in the county obtaining one of the cards. Only 775 of that number will be mailed since that is the total number participating in the plough up campaign.

Community committees have the right to adjust figures submitted by farmers, and when this is done figures on the survey blank will be used without question when the farmer signs up for the 1934-35 acreage reduction plan.

Holiday Buying Here Is Greater Than Since 1929

Volume of business enjoyed during the Christmas buying season by Big Spring merchants was practically unanimously described by the merchants themselves as the best since 1929.

Merchants generally credited President Roosevelt's national recovery and agricultural adjustment administration, the Cosden Oil Corporation's large construction and operation payrolls, and increased activity in the oil field and expenditures of relief and OWA funds with causing such unusual improvement in business.

From statements of Tuesday it was clearly shown that merchants in all lines here will enter 1934 with lower stocks and fewer accounts due wholesalers and manufacturers than they have in five years.

Merchants, and the public generally, credit Administrator Homer McNew's splendid economy, relief and civil works administration organization with furnishing a factor which figured heavily in making greater volume of buying possible. Large amounts of provisions have been distributed as direct relief. However, the jobs provided on OWA projects made possible the ordinary comforts for hundreds of families at Christmas time, with toys and other gifts to gladden the hearts of children whose Christmases have been pretty heart-rending for several years.

Once Gay Pickfair, Cheerless Now, Typifies Mary's And Doug's Romance

HOLLYWOOD—There will be no light glowing on the trees at the gates of white-walled Pickfair this Christmas season.

But Pickfair, dark except for scattered squares of electric brightness in the servants' rooms, will be carrying on its stately, expensive role in the dramatic life story of its mistress and its former master.

To whole romance of Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks, from their marriage nearly 14

America And The Possible War.

At this distance it is obviously impossible for Americans to form responsible opinions about the rapid, confusing and more or less secret negotiations in Europe on the subject of armaments. To attempt to guess what are Chancellor Hitler's intentions in making this or that proposal, or what are Sir John Simon's intentions, or Signor Mussolini's, is to lose oneself in a maze of speculation. And yet, thought we can not judge the details of the current maneuvering, we know that the ultimate issue is whether there is to be peace or war, and that this issue concerns us profoundly.

It is, therefore, important that we establish clearly in our own minds the principles by which we intend to be guided. I do not have any illusion that all the necessary principles of a complete American foreign policy are clear to me, but it may perhaps be useful to set down what does now seem clear and to indicate what is least clear and needing to be carefully explored.

First: However ardently we hope for peace, we have to recognize that war is a real possibility. Therefore, though we may continue to hope for the best, we have to prepare ourselves for the worst. No competent observer of international relations would, I think, when he is completely candid, disagree with Mr. Frank H. Simonds in his "America Faces the Next War" when he writes that: "Men may still assert that a new war in Europe has not yet become inevitable. With an even greater show of warrant they may argue that it is not today imminent. But what no man can longer deny with reason after the German election of November 12 is that war is a present possibility. . . . This in substance is the conclusion of the legal adviser to the American delegation at the Disarmament Conference. . . ."

Allen W. Dulles, who, writing in "Foreign Affairs," says that unless there is a new peace conference in Europe which solves the territorial problems between Germany and her neighbors, "Europe will be taking the road which may lead to a major conflict unless Germany's neighbors decided in the meanwhile to adopt the heroic remedy if in fact it is a remedy of preventive military action."

These pessimistic judgments arise from the knowledge that the ambitions of Germany are irreconcilable with the established interests of her neighbors. The German ambition, frankly announced in the Naam program, in the book of the German Chancellor, and installed in the consciousness of the people of Germany, particularly of the youth, is to unite under their flag the Germans in the surrounding countries. This ambition means

Increase In Retail Sales
 Is Reported

Fourteen Per Cent Added
 In November, Survey Shows

AUSTIN—An increase of 14 per cent in annual dollar sales occurred in Nov. 1933 over Nov. 1932, according to reports to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research from 21 retail stores located in all sections of Texas.

The decline in sales from October to November was about equal to the average drop between these two months for the past seven years, the bureau's report said. Total sales for the year to December 1 were still below those of the corresponding period last year, but the discrepancy has now dwindled to only 2.8 per cent. During the early months of the year sales were more than 20 per cent below those of the corresponding month of the previous year.

All cities from which reports are received show a gain over November, 1932, but only Austin, Galveston, Port Arthur and San Antonio registered an increase over October. Abilene, Houston, Port Arthur, San Angelo and Wichita Falls are the only cities to report larger sales for the first eleven months of the year than in the corresponding period in 1932.

Department stores having annual sales of $500,000 or more each showed an increase of 11 per cent over November, 1932, while those of $100,000 or more had a 12 per cent increase over those of last year. Increases in women's specialty shops and men's clothing stores were 14 and 20 per cent respectively above sales in these stores during November, 1932. The only group to show a drop from last year's sales were the department stores, and the decline in this group was only 2.8 per cent below that of the corresponding month last year. The ratio of collections to outstanding accounts was 34 per cent, compared with 30 per cent in November, 1932.

Unbelievable, but true! And why? Just because in the remote places where these people live there are no newspapers and folks seldom, if ever, see a magazine.

Contrast this with your standards of living — an electric clock on your mantel, an electric refrigerator in your kitchen, a vacuum cleaner, colorful draperies, modish clothing of fine fabrics, foods carefully prepared for you by great manufacturers, shoes and hats in the latest style — and then say a great big "Thank you" for advertising.

Without advertising you would be living in a past generation. Listening, open-mouthed, to the stories of some wayfarer with tales of radios, telephones, furniture, cosmetics, silk underthings he had seen in his travels.

Read the advertisements. Always there is something new, always something of interest, always something to save you money, time, or trouble.

WERE STILL HELPLESS

Figures on automobile accidents for 1933 are, as usual, pretty discouraging. To be sure, deaths in traffic during the first nine months of the year are nearly 4 per cent below the total for last year. But the number of fatalities per accident has gone up by 7 per cent, and the number of persons non-fatally injured per accident has gone up 2.5 per cent.

Reduction in the total number of deaths can be attributed to the fact that fewer people have been driving cars this year than last—the registrations for the first half year were 5 per cent below the 1932 figures. The fact that the accidents themselves are getting deadlier only can mean that we are driving more dangerously, more carelessly, more selfishly, than before.

The situation, as a matter of fact, is a national scandal, and as far as we have shown no sign that we know how to do anything about it.

State Schoolboy Grid Title

Seats Go On Sale Monday; Crowd Of Twenty-Five To Thirty Thousand Expected At Fair
Stadium At 2:30 P. M.

PORT WORTH—The Greenville Lions and Coach Wally Davis' Dallas Tech Wolves have started polishing their formations in preparation for the final of Interscholastic League football play Saturday afternoon at Dallas in Fair Park stadium. Both clubs were allowed to rest Christmas day.

Seats for the championship classic went on sale Monday. Officials are confident that if the weather is good, between 25,000 and 30,000 persons would see the game. It will start at 2:30. Coach Henry Frnka of the Greenville Lions probably will start the same backfield that last Friday riddled the Port Arthur line, 22 to 14. This backfield, composed of Dock Luckett, Robert Williams, Bert Marshall and "Terror" Terry, is small according to announced weights, but has speed and deception. Terry is the largest of the four. He weighs 145 pounds. Marshall, quarterback, who started against Port Arthur, weighs 125 pounds. The largest man on the Greenville team is Emmett Hussey, candidate for an all-state guard position. He weighs 194 pounds.

Coach Davis' Wolves escaped from their 13 to 7 victory Saturday over San Angelo without suffering any injuries. Tech played the entire game without making a single line substitution. Only a few reserves were used in the backfield. The Wolves will have a weight advantage over Greenville. It will be the second meeting between these two teams. In their early season non-district game, Greenville won 13 to 6. Since that time, however, Tech has improved a great deal.

Austin

By GORDON K. SHEARER

AUSTIN, (UP)—Former State Senator Tomas Pollard, Tyler, utilized a few spare hours in Austin recently to propose a system of small lakes along Texas highways.

Fantastic as it sounds, the plan is feasible. It was recommended by the late Coss Johnson, former member of the state highway commission. Cost of building dams, it has been determined, is less than the money required to build drainage ditches along roads and put in the various drainage structures.

Co-operation of land owners is necessary in order that permission may be had to flood the lake beds.

If the plan is adopted it will be only an additional step by the highway department in diverting water to provide roads. Large stream beds are being diverted on Highway 20 between Austin and Fredericksburg to afford a desirable right of way.

The Austin-Fredericksburg road is one of the scenic highways of the state. It rises rapidly above Austin as it goes west. From a number of places along it, bird's-eye views of the state capital may be had. The highway department is marking these spots. Signs apprise the motorist of them 500 feet before they are reached. In at least one place small growth timber has been cut away to provide the vista.

Holders of claims against the state for several hundred thousand dollars were happy when payment of the claims was authorized in an appropriation bill signed by the governor. Now they have had an awakening. The Attorney General's department has ruled that the bill is invalid. Payment has been stopped. One claimant got a considerable sized warrant in payment of his claim before the stop order was issued. He has declined to return it to the state. A suit may result.

Texas Relief Headquarters have evacuated the state capital. The force of 300 headquarters workers has been moved to an Austin office building. Evacuation of the offices formerly used in the state building has resulted in a merry scramble for them. Governor Miriam A. Ferguson has declined to approve use of her reception room for a press room. She had granted its use for the relief forces.

Texas business men are beginning to soft pedal on the return of better times. A business organization representative when approached for comparison of conditions at first, was highly optimistic. On second thought, he toned down his statement.

In explanation of the change he said: "If I told how good business is, it might result in bankrupt stocks being shipped in here from other less favored sections."

W. M. W. Splawn, former president of the University of Texas, will meet no competition for C. V. Terrell, state railroad commissioner, for the vacancy on the Interstate Commerce Commission. Terrell, mentioned for the past, said he had made no application and did not know how his name came into it unless Dr. Splawn had recommended him. The public careers of the two men have been closely related. Terrell succeeded Splawn on the Texas Railroad Commission when Splawn resigned to become president of the University of Texas.

Counterfeit Internal Revenue Stamps Found

EL PASO, (UP)—Counterfeit internal revenue stamps have appeared in the southwest with the advent of repeal, customs officers report.

While Texas is dry technically, speakeasy operators have obtained revenue stamps for their liquor to keep federal inspectors off their trail. Officers said many of the stamps used are counterfeit.

The bogus stamps are made in Juarez, they said.

Dallas Restaurants Must Serve Milk In Bottles; No Glasses

DALLAS (UP)—A glass of milk served over the counter in Dallas restaurants is "taboo." From now on it will be a bottle of milk or nothing, according to Chief Inspector W. E. Roberts of the city health department.

Roberts' authority is derived from a revised sanitary ordinance recently placed into effect. It prohibits cafés from pouring glasses of milk out of bottles.

"If operators don't want to get into trouble they had better sell the whole bottle of milk or not sell any at all," Roberts said. "The health of the public must be protected."

Evidence that the health inspector means what he says is shown in the fact that already 17 cases are pending here against cafe men who have violated the sanitary ordinance.

Coach Henry Frnka of Greenville high school now is being mentioned as a possible coach for the University of Texas. Greenville's record under his coaching is cited. State Senator Joe Moore, Greenville, says that Frnka knows more football than most college coaches. Frnka played only in a minor college, Austin, but has had football instruction under Rockne and other masters. The way his light team defeated Brackenridge high school of San Antonio by a trick, has centered much attention on Frnka.

Houston In 1838 Seen Through Diary Kept By German Immigrant Boy

HOUSTON, (UP)—Houston in 1838, then capital of the Republic of Texas, presented anything but a cheerful outlook for Gustav Fresel, German immigrant boy whose diary has been found and translated by Dr. Max Freund of Rice Institute.

Besides its unwholesome aspects of rat-infested hotels and mosquito-laden swamps the city had a bad reputation aboard, the youth's journal revealed. When Dresel made known he intended sailing for Houston, he wrote, Colonel Bee, for whom Bee county later was named, advised against it.

There would be wild beasts, the colonel said, and yellow fever.

All buildings in Houston, then 2,000 population, were wood, Dresel observed. The tallest was three stories.

Three stores were objects of much praise during Dresel's first winter here. One was in the old City Hotel, where executives of the Republic gathered.

Dresel went back to Germany after three years at the insistence of his mother, then returned to Texas in 1847 to die the following year at Galveston of the dreaded yellow fever.

ter, but within a few weeks it offers promise of being the busiest town in the United States where the citizens actually are happy and contented.

Dalworthington is the prospective subsistence colony planned by President Roosevelt's New Deal system and recently approved at Washington for immediate construction.

Location of the site for construction has been selected 15 miles southeast of Abilene, midway between Dallas and Fort Worth. For lack of a better name someone juggled the names of the three towns and formed Dalworthington.

Within a short time a home in the country should be ready for approximately 100 families in Dallas and Tarrant counties.

Walter B. Scott, Fort Worth attorney, already has taken steps to obtain a charter, after which $250,000 to build the colony will be available, he said.

Final inspection of the 640-acre tract has been completed by Scott, Dr. C. C. Taylor, deputy supervisor of the NRA subsistence colony director; Hugo Kuhn, supervising architect; Harry Newton, landscape architect, and Francis J. Clair, resident engineer in charge of construction.

All stock in the colony corporation, to be known as Dalworthington Gardens, Inc., will be owned by the Government. William E. Eastwood, Jr., Dallas, chairman of the board of directors, said.

Selection of the "first citizens" was to be announced at a later date.
