Groom School Board Discusses 6-Man Football

Dwindling school enrollment in the general area has many school boards discussing the possibility of converting eleven-man football programs to six-man teams. Coach Terry Coffee met with the Groom Board last Monday night to answer questions concerning such a move for the Groom program.

Coffee stated that there are currently 18 boys eligible to play football here. If every male student in high school chooses to play next year the team would consist of 17 members.

Football Main Topic At Local Board Meeting

Coach Terry Coffee met with the Groom School Board last Tuesday night fielding questions on the transition from eleven-man football to a six-man program as well as various questions concerning his policies in the current football program.

Board member Bill England questioned policies on whether or not coaches would allow a person to join the team that did not participate in two-a-day drills at the opening of each season.

Coffee answered, "That decision is mine to make, but it would depend on whether circumstances preventing the kid from attending practices were beyond the kid's control." The coaches would decide that question on an individual basis.

England also asked what the policy was for letting a person come out in mid-season.

Coffee stated, "Ultimately, that would be the coaches decision, but any kid allowed to come out in mid-season See School Board, Page 4 because their numbers of eligible players were too dwindling. Their team has to travel as far away as 150 miles for games. This year's schedule included Texline, Silverton, Patton Springs, Higgins, Guthrie, Miami and North Side Vernon. School officials say having area teams eligible to compete would be a benefit for all concerned.

Coffee says he sees no problem for coaches making the conversion to six man football and supporters in Miami and Lefors are just as avid over the six man football as the old eleven man style. Local school officials see due to reduced numbers in enrollment. The decision rests with the school board who plan to take a vote on whether to weather the storm with an 11-member team or convert to six man in their November 10 meeting. Coaches see the conversion as a definite advantage to the team's ability to be competitive at the sport in the next few years.

The need to make the decision now is to be included in a district. District divisions are set up every two years, if area schools considering the change wait past the deadline, they will play no-honors ball meaning that the teams are on probation and cannot win dual honors and they will play out-law schedules, playing whatever teams coaches can line up.

Schools in the area considering six man teams are Groom, McLean, Follett and Claude. Coffee stated that a district could easily be formed in the area if several districts make the switch.

Lefors School converted their program two years ago

PTO Halloween Carnival Set To Include Chili Supper

Costumed ghosts and goblins will parade across the floor beginning at 6:30 p.m. Saturday night as the PTO kicks off their annual Halloween Carnival in the school gym. Everyone is invited to dress up for this year's carnival and even parents are encouraged to join in the costume parade.

The carnival will feature a chili supper hosted by Alpha Mu Xi sorority members. The chili supper begins at 6:00 with a menu including chili and beans, cornbread, corn dogs, cobbler and drinks. Serving will continue until 7:30 p.m.

Elementary classes will feature a number of booths that will open at 7:00 p.m. Tickets for the booths will be sold at the door, 5/$1.00. Booths include Plinko for kindergarten; tic-tac-toe toss for the first grade; football toss, second grade; steer roping, third grade; shuffle board, fourth grade; and basketball toss, fifth grade.

The junior high classes plan "A Trip Beyond" which will be a spook house with fortune teller.

Proceeds from the carnival are used by the PTO to fund their service projects. Last year a new sound system for the auditorium was purchased. The chili supper will also be the major fund raiser for the sorority who participate in a number of service projects each year.

would be treated as an equal team member."

Coffee also answered another question saying it has never been his policy to require that a person must play football to be eligible to make the basketball team or compete in any other sport. He also commented that any person quitting a team would not be given an opportunity to return to the team during the same season.

Coffee also discussed the possibility of converting the football program to six man rather than eleven man. His primary concern was for scheduling games under either plan. Schedules are figured on a two year basis and unless the board makes their decision in November to convert to six man, a latter decision, would mean Groom playing any team coaches can find to play.

No action was taken on either matter.

A new filter for the swimming pool was also discussed. Superintendent Rex Peebles reported estimates ranged from $3,500 to $6,000. No action was taken.

Installation of new doors to be located near the ag shop and possible purchase of a vacant lot south of the school both died for lack of a motion.

Board members approved the payment of bills and adopted 57.46¢ per mile transportation cost for 1986-87.

Tigers Held Scoreless
By Happy Cowboys

"We can't take anything away from Happy," said Coach Terry Coffee describing the Tigers Friday night 26-0 defeat. "We're not down on our kids either, they played a good team."

Happy remains unbeaten in district play and Groom coaches feel they will make a good test for Vega.

Coaches were concerned at the opening of the district season with three big games in a row for Groom, Vega, Happy and then Nazareth. "It's hard to keep a team motivated for that kind of schedule and coaches felt the Tigers had no fire on Friday.

The Cowboys scored on runs of 37, 29, 10 and 16 yards. Happy gained 271 yards rushing while Groom had only 129. Bruce Thornton led the Tigers with 37 yards on 16 carries.

Coach Coffee says his team can still have a respectable season, now 4-2.

The Tigers host Nazareth this Friday with game time set at 7:30 p.m.

Doughboy Recalls WW I

Last week, we began a series of articles on McLean's fighting men. We started with the first half of a profile of Walter Evans, the only World War I veteran left in McLean. As you may remember, he had been a cowboy in the years before the war and signed up in March 1918. After going through basic training in San Antonio and Atlanta, he shipped out from New York to France in mid-1918. He was a member of the Motor Transport Company whose duty it was to carry ammunition and supplies to units in combat.

Evans went across the Atlantic Ocean in a convoy of 24 ships, including freighters and one battleship. The convoy was constantly harassed by German submarines. In fact, during the 18 day trip, a U-boat tried to torpedo the ship carrying Evans. The torpedo missed but hit and sank the boat next to it. Twelve people were killed in the incident but, fortunately, the rest were saved.

"The trip took 18 days," Evans said, "and for three of those days and nights we were pretty nervous because the battleship protecting us had turned back and the submarines that were supposed to meet us were late. We had no protection for those three days."

He finally arrived in France on July 12, 1918. After several transfers to different locations, he ended up in Motor Transport Company whose job it was to haul ammunition and supplies to the front. He and 12 other men were the first ones assigned to the company but by the end of the war there were over 1,000 men in the unit.

"We drove solid tire quad trucks with no cab," he said. "And it didn't matter if it was raining or snowing, we still had to drive. The most unpleasant thing about the whole experience was having to drive in that bad weather with no cab on the truck."

Because the vehicles were going right up to the front, where the fighting was going on, they were not permitted to use their lights. "We would pull up close to where the fighting was going on and wait for someone to guide us in to drop off our loads," he said. "There were so many holes from all the exploded artillery shells that we couldn't get in without the guide."

Although he and his company were constantly under attack by artillery, Evans said his closest call came from another source. "I was in line waiting to be guided in to drop off my load when an artillery shell exploded. We all thought it had poison gas in it I was standing outside my truck and had left my gas mask in the front seat. From that point on, I always kept my mask around my neck."

He had another close call in 1918 but it had nothing to do with the war. During that year, a massive flu epidemic swept the entire world. As Evans put it, "In 1918, we actually had more men die from the flu than from combat wounds. I heard of one unit that lost 80 men because of it."

Evans was one of those who caught the virus and lived to tell about it. "I had been wet for three days and hadn't had my shoes off during that whole time," he said. "When I got sick I was afraid to go to the hospital because it seemed like everyone who got sick and went to the hospital died. I had a company commander who said his mother's favorite remedy for sickness was to take some whiskey with lemon and then just sweat it out. And that's just what I did. Every time a doctor would come around to look for people to take to the hospital, I would just hide until he left. I never was so hot and sick in my life but I finally just sweated it out."

World War I was famous for its artillery barrages and Evans saw a prime example of why the war earned that reputation. "We were hauling ammo and supplies to the mountain town of Metz, France," he said. "The Germans had taken it from the French and the French were trying to get it back with the help of the Americans. The Allies hit Metz with an artillery barrage that lasted for about two hours. By the time it was over, the town was almost completely destroyed. There was so much artillery that every time we tried to walk the vibrations of the explosions would knock us down."

It wasn't all bad for Evans while in France. One time, he reports, he and 18 others got a long furlough and went to Grenoble in southern France. "We stayed in the best hotels where the wealthy stayed in peacetime," he said. "Everything, the hotel, food and entertainment, was paid for by the French government. It was their way of showing their appreciation to us."

He finished up his hitch overseas, which lasted one year and one month, as a guard at a POW camp. "It got me out of the rain and I had a warm bed to sleep in," he said. "The camp was located at Langres on the Marne River. It was one of the oldest towns in France. It had a rock wall about 20 feet high all the way around it and the walls had port-holes in them."

After the war, Evans and his outfit stayed in France to look after the military equipment until it could be sold or disposed of. None of it was brought back to the United States.

Finally on July 12, 1919, eight months after the end of the war, Evans started the voyage home aboard the battleship USS Frederick. But his adventures still weren't over. "We left Brest, France, and hit a terrible storm in the Bay of Biscay," he said. "It hit about midnight and lasted for three days. That was the seasickest bunch of fellows you ever saw. One sailor told me he had crossed the Atlantic 20 times and this was the sickest he had ever been."

After an eleven day journey, he landed in Brooklyn, New York. From there, he went to Long Island, where he was discharged, and returned home by way of Washington, D.C., and Memphis, Tenn. in August,

After the war, Evans' dedication to the armed services didn't stop. He was one of the original founders of the American Legion and VFW Posts in McLean. He said, "We had to put a lot of work into organizing the American Legion post. We even put on a big rodeo just to help raise money for it."

He was also a member of the honor guard that fired a 21-gun salute for Andy Floyd, the only McLean resident killed in World War I. According to Evans, "The body originally had been buried where Andy had died in Europe but after the war it was returned to McLean. That burial brought out what was probably the biggest crowd this town has ever seen. People from all over came for it. The body was carried to the cemetery on a wagon drawn by two horses."

Between the wars, Evans worked as a farmer and when war came to the U.S. again in 1941 he did his part. He served on the Fire Department at the POW camp outside of McLean. He continued to serve out there until the camp was torn down after the war. "In fact," he said, "I was one of the last persons to leave when they finally closed the gates."

During his full and active life, Evans found time to get married and raise a family. He and Mary Langford were married in 1925. Through his long life, he has had the difficult task of burying his wife, who died in 1959, and two sons, John, who was killed in 1967 while in the service of his country in Viet Nam; and Joe Don, who passed away earlier this year.

The remaining children of this remarkable man are: Jerry Corbin, of McLean; Bill Evans of Alamosa, Col.; Jim Evans of Amarillo; Bob Evans of Midland; Sue Modderman of San Antonio; and Linda Ellison of Corpus Christi.

They, and all of us, are grateful to men like Walter Evans who, because of their willingness to endure hardship and sacrifice, have given us the freedoms we enjoy. You have our everlasting gratitude and respect.

Tigers Make Strong Offensive Effort Against Booker

As we have said before, the final score of a game doesn't always indicate the quality of play. Although the scoreboard said the Tigers lost to Booker by a score of 41-6, they didn't lose at all as far as their fans are concerned.

There were so many heroes and fine plays but certainly one of the players who deserves honorable mention is quarterback Jim Anderson. Ending the evening with 130 rushing and 124 yards passing, he helped the Tigers to a total of 324 total yards and 17 first downs, by far their best offensive effort of the year.

Key receptions throughout the game by Sid Brass and Grant Mann, as well as strong running by not only Anderson, but also Huey Green Tony Polito and Tres Hess, kept the Tiger fans cheering right up to the final gun.

Several miscues prevented the Tigers from getting into the endzone until the final quarter when, after getting a first down on a fourth and one yard play, Anderson plunged into the endzone for six points.

Several minutes later Huey Green scored on a reception and long run but the play was called back because of a penalty against the Tigers.

Head Coach George Watson said, "Our first quarter performance hurt us, but after that we were pleased with the way we played. We had good offensive efforts by Anderson and Brass while on defense Hambright, Polito, Cross and Anderson played very well." He added, "Up until now we have been discouraged by our offensive performance but now it may be that we are coming around."

During the game three Tigers were injured: Huey Green suffered a bruised shoulder and neck; Davey Ridgway had a bruised neck; and Rob Sanderson possibly has a broken arm. Their status for Friday night's game against Follett is still now know. That game will be played in McLean and will begin at 7:30 p.m.
