Fourteen additional amendments were approved by the Legislature for voters' consideration on Nov. 5, 1968. These include the following:

SJR 14 giving the Legislature power to authorize cities and counties to issue revenue bonds to build industrial plants for operation by private concerns.

SPECIAL SESSION?—Legislators knew their job was little more than half finished when they adjourned at midnight May 29.

Gov. John Connally cheerfully reminded them that he would "see them in the fall or next year," meaning that that is when the 1969 budget and a balancing tax bill must be written.

Later, Connally told reporters that it is highly unlikely he will call the special session before next year. He hinted that next year's tax bill may be less than the predicted $20,000,000 to $20,000,000 and he does not intend to recommend an increase in the general sales tax rate.

COURTS SPEAK—State Supreme Court reversed a 43-year-old rule requiring a property owner to warn employees of a subcontractor of hidden dangers on the property. Case involved a Nueces County welder injured in an accident. Court said injured worker's own employer and foreman should have warned him of threats to his safety.

In another case, the Supreme Court upheld a decision of the Dallas Court of Civil Appeals that questions of usury and unreasonable collection methods should be considered together. Case dealt with a $42-a-week yardman's suit against Pacific Loans and Bond Finance Co.

Ward County District Court judgment that salinity content of water furnished by a water district caused $16,344 worth of damage to a maize maize crop also was sustained by the higher court.

FUNDS FOR AGING PROGRAM APPROVED—A $140,744 program to develop community programs of direct service to the aged in Lubbock, Big Spring, Fort Worth, Mercedes and San Antonio have been approved by the governor's committee on aging.

Contracts went to Texas Tech College, Lubbock ($3,786); Big Spring State Hospital Volunteer Advisory Council, Inc. ($50,122); Tarrant County Community Council ($27,000); Hidalgo County Committee on Aging ($14,946); and Senior Community Services, Inc., San Antonio ($44,920).

AIRPORT FUNDS AVAILABLE—Legislature appropriated $175,000 for building and improving small town airports. Big Bend National Park will get $150,000 plus federal aid for new airport; Lake Whitney State Park, $40,000, and $25,000 will go to aviation research at a higher education institution.

Texas Aeronautics Commission Director Charles Murphy estimates that 40 per cent of these applicants for state aid will share in available funds:

Abernathy, Aransas Pass, Atlanta, Bay City, Brady, Brownwood, Bryan, Canton, Center, Cleveland, College Station, Daringfield, Dimmitt, Dublin, Eagle Pass, Edinburg, Ennis, Fairfield-Teague, Follett, Georgetown, Giddings, Gilmer, Granbury, Graham, Gregg County, Hamilton, Harlingen, Hempstead, Hillsboro, Honey Grove, Karnes County, Kerrville, Knox City, La Porte, Levelland, Littlefield, Livingston, Llano and Lockhart.

Also, Madisonville, McGregor, Marlin, Miami, Morton, Mt. Vernon, Navasota, Overton, Paducah, Pecos, Port Mansfield, Ranger, Rockwall, San Benito, Schulenburg, Sherman, Silsbee, Stanton, Smithville, Stamford, Slaton, Sulphur Springs, Tuhoka, Temple, Vega, Wellington, West Columbia, Wharton County, Westaco and Willis Point.

INTERIM COMMITTEES—A record-breaking list of interim committees, some 70 in all, have been appointed to serve until the next special or regular session of the Legislature begins.

Committees will deal with about everything the Legislature considered during its recent session. In fact, there are more interim committees than there were standing committees during the 60th session. Total then was 44 in the House and 24 in the Senate.

Among the special committees are those dealing with state and local tax policy, law enforcement and crime prevention.

Sidelights from a History Notebook

"Mid pleasures and palaces though we may roam, Be it ever so humble, there's no place like home."

John Howard Payne (1792-1852) American actor and playwright

The inspiration for this great song came to Payne during a visit to Italy. The melody was inspired by an old Sicilian air. Payne wrote the song, the harmony was provided by Sir Henry Rowley Bishop, an English composer. The song was first presented in an opera "Clari, the Maid of Milan", produced at Covent Gardens in 1822.

Arthur Korn was a pioneer in electrical transmission of pictures by wire and wireless. His transatlantic radiophoto of Pope Pius XI appeared in "The World", N. Y., June 11, 1922.

"Why fear death? It is the most beautiful adventure of life."

These words were the last spoken by Charles Frohman, an American theatrical manager, as he stood with three companions on the deck of the doomed steamship Lusitania, which had been struck by a torpedo from the German submarine U-20, off the Irish coast, May 7, 1915. Rita Jolivet, and English actress, was among survivors, and reported Frohman spoke the words only moments before the stricken ship went to the bottom of the sea. Frohman did not survive.

On June 14, 1777, the Continental Congress, sitting in Philadelphia, adopted a resolution declaring:

"That the Flag of the thirteen United States shall be of thirteen stripes of alternate red and white, with a union of thirteen stars of white in a blue field, representing the new constellation."

WEATHER TO BLAME

Discolored leaf conditions in young cotton in widespread sections of Texas are the result of the unusually cool nights combined with higher daytime temperatures that have persisted over the past several weeks, says Fred C. Elliott, Texas A and M University Extension cotton specialist. Cotton leaves first show a silvery on the top side, then bronzing and finally a reddish color. Roots appear normal unless seedling disease is present. Two good weeks of growing weather should correct the situation, he believes.

Teach Children What to Do in Emergencies

A young child must be taught to think for himself, not just to react by habit if he is able to cope with the unexpected, say family life education specialists at Texas A and M University.

Although demands upon the pre-school youngster must be kept within reason, childcare authorities, including the Child Study Association of America, agree that the average 4-year-old is capable of comprehending much more than his parents usually believe he can.

In teaching a child to handle emergencies, do not scare him. Take a calm, matter-of-fact attitude in explaining emergency situations, even if you may be anxious about them yourself. For instance, in explaining these situations, do not offer sordid details or create a horror story.

Every young child should know what to do in these specific situations:

1. If lost in town: he should be able to repeat his name, address and telephone number to an adult. A small child should also carry some form of identification such as a bracelet or tag on his clothing with his name and address on it. Train him not to panic, but to try to seek a policeman or fireman for help.

2.—If lost in the country: he should remain in the open where he can be found more easily. If an older child is lost while hiking in the woods, teach him to pick one direction and walk until he comes to a road or path. He should be able to keep track of his direction by knowing that the sun rises in the east and sets in the west.

3. If bitten by an animal: train your child never to pet a strange animal. But, if bitten, and no adult is immediately available for help, teach him to wash the wound thoroughly under running water and to dry it with a clean gauze. He should report the injury to an adult as soon as possible and try to identify the animal.

4. If fire breaks out at home: a child should know two escape routes from his bedroom. He should also know how to call the fire department and how to report the exact location of the house. The National Fire Protection Association says children as young as four have been successfully taught some simple responses in case a fire breaks out during the night. These include not to open bedroom doors but to stay near an open window awaiting rescue and, on a predetermined signal from a parent, to crawl out a window. Repeated rehearsals are important because a child's impulse is to run to his parents in a fire emergency, an act that could trap him in the flames.

5. If clothing catches on fire: train the child to immediately drop to the ground and smother the flames by rolling about. If a rug or coat is handy, he should wrap these about his body.

6. If approached by stran-

Professional Tips for Sewing With Bonded Fabrics

BEAUTIFUL SHAPING: That's what this Spring's fashions call for. And that's what bonded fabrics offer the home-sewer.

A bonded fabric is really two fabrics. The outer surface (face) can be almost anything; jersey, knit, lace, tweed, or acetate and rayon crepe. The backing, which is permanently bonded to the face, is usually acetate tricot or a loosely woven cotton.

A double-faced fabric is two face fabrics bonded together back-to-back. For example, a worsted gabardine may be bonded to lightweight wool flannel, so that the fabric is completely reversible.

Tension "break test" to determine if tensions are balanced or one thread tighter than the other.

Bonding two fabrics together can change the hand of the face fabric, stabilize an open weave, reinforce a stretchy or pliable base, or pre-line a garment. Bonded fabrics are easy to handle, and hold their shape, wearing after wearing.

What to Look For

When buying bonded fabrics, look for evenly bonded lengthwise edges and firm bonding throughout the piece. The face fabric should be on-grain with the backing, although, if the acetate backing is slightly off-grain, don't worry.

When choosing a pattern to make up in a bonded fabric, look for simple styling. Avoid patterns that call for soft draping or gathered fullness.

How to Handle Them

Bonded fabrics do not respond to the usual procedure of stretching diagonally for straightening. Merely square off the end with a ruler, and cut. Follow the lengthwise grain of the fabric for the lengthwise fold.

When cutting a pattern out of bonded fabrics, pin the pattern to the fabric with plenty of sharp, fine pins, and use sharp shears. Tailor's tacks or a chalk pencil are best for transferring pattern markings to the fabric.

How to Sew Them

To sew bonded fabrics by machine, sewing experts at The Singer Company suggest these steps:

(1) Thread the machine with silk, mercerized or synthetic thread of matching color. Use a size 14 needle. Set the stitch length selector at 12, and pressure regulator at medium.

(2) Test-stitch a seam about 12 inches long on two layers of fabric, right sides together. If the seam ends do not come out almost even, decrease the pressure, and test again.

(3) Inspect the seam for appearance and balanced tensions. Stitching should look the same on the bottom as on the top. If in doubt, make the "break test" (see diagram A).

With a quick pull, break the stitching line. When tensions are balanced, both threads will break simultaneously. If tensions are not balanced, adjust the upper tension.

Construction Details

To eliminate bulk, darts should be slashed and pressed open. Seams inside collars, facings and similar constructions should be blended (cut to uneven widths) to eliminate bulkiness (see diagram B).

Bonding keeps seam edges from raveling so they don't need special finishing. Exceptions might be a bulky tweed or a lacy fabric which should be finished with a zig-zag stitch.

The lengthwise grain of almost all bonded fabrics is very stable, so needs no special treatment. Crosswise or nearly crosswise seams in bonded knits need stay stitching to hold them in shape during assembly. Also, they often need staying with woven seam binding stitched into the permanent seam.

Seam edges are blended unevenly. Facing edge is always narrower than garment edge.

The crosswise seams in bonded woven fabrics have a stable crosswise grain and need no special treatment.

Finishing Touches

Buttonholes may be made on a zig-zag machine or with a buttonhole attachment, but a woven fabric should be used between the garment and the facing.

Suit collars and lapels should be interfaced with lightweight hair canvas. Dresses should be interfaced with lightweight fabric. High rounded necklines may be faced with color-coordinated tulle instead of self-fabric to reduce bulkiness.

A French hem is most suitable for bonded fabric. To make one, pink the free edge of the hem. Stitch close to the pinked edge with stitch length set at 20. For tweeds or lacy fabrics, stitch bias seam binding to hem edge. Hem by hand with a catch-stitch below the hem edge, between the hem and the skirt.

HEALTH HINTS FROM AMA

Small boats by the hundreds are on the water most of the month freshly scraped and painted after a winter of age.

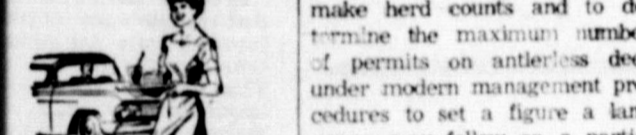

In the deep South, many boats are on the water most of the winter but in most of the north June is the season to get back on the lakes and ponds.

Accidents are becoming more prevalent each season, and comparative amateurs are boats and take to the water. Pamphlets on boating are available in many department stores and at auto and motor dealers. If you are on a boat and even if you know how to handle a boat, get a safety vest and study it.

Common sense and good judgment are cardinal safety principles in boating. Show respect for other boats, swimmers and fishermen. It doesn't take much of a boating to know a big lake on a windy day can be dangerous for small craft. Know the capacity of your

Brotherhood

"Love one another with brotherly affection; outdo one another in showing honor." - Romans 12:10

To many, brotherhood is a word, an idea. It is not a day-to-day approach to living. It is something one can believe in from the safety of a turtle shell.

Many of us can feel kindly toward our fellow man so long as his efforts to achieve do not interfere with our own or inconvenience us in any way.

We practice brotherhood only if we give something to our fellow man - a smile, a helping hand, patience and understanding.

How much trouble would it be for any one of us to practice brotherhood for a single, full day?

HOW WILL YOU VOTE?

Summer arrives this year on June 21. For most of us, it is the most pleasant season of the year. It is the season when the works of nature reach full bloom. It is the season of picnics, hunting, fishing trips and camping. It is the season when the family car will carry vacationers far and wide across the land to see the sights and wonders which abound in this country. Weekenders flock to the beaches and to lakes. Some are looking for quiet relaxation. Others will participate in exciting sports such as water skiing. A few will devote time to contemplating the wonders of the world in which we live. The latter will gain greater enrichment from summer than the rest of us. In their behalf, it is but fitting to issue a plea and a warning to all and sundry as the long worms of traffic stream out of the cities this summer for the mountains and the seashores. Every auto will be loaded with potential garbage as well as people. Multiply each auto by tens of millions, each carrying its quota of paper plates, beer cans, melon rinds, all the refuse of living—and we come up with a pollution problem of awesome proportions. Whether there is beauty left for future generations to enjoy depends on the behavior of the people. They have the power to leave a heritage of beauty or blight. The choice is made and a vote is cast whenever trash is tossed out of the family car along the roadside or left at the spots which nature provided for camping or picnicking. How will you vote?

EXAMPLE
When do you acknowledge God? Is it only when you are in immediate need of help or assistance?
Do you say a little prayer when it seems a "big break" or a "big deal" appear just out of reach?
Have you ever thought of praying for guidance. Have you ever asked God to help you make the right decisions in every phase of everyday living?
Do you ever consider that God's commandments are simple and there is no more proper example of a good life than that which may be found in the life of Christ upon earth.
Pray for faith and guidance, not just for help—and your life will be well directed.

Education Is Top Family Expense

The home may be taking second place to college education for the children as the biggest family investment, according to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The National Association of Home Builders has reported that the average new home last year cost in the neighborhood of $20,000, not counting interest on the mortgage.

But consider the investment facing the average family with three teenagers to educate, suggests Wanda Meyer, extension home management specialist at Texas A and M University. Just the basic fees alone can rival a family's housing investment.

Basic fees and charges at a publicly-supported four-year college or university average a little more than $1,000 a year in 1967, according to HEW. Those same basic fees and charges at a private institution averaged about $2,100. Thus, four years at a public or private university or college will cost a family $4,000 to $8,000 for one youngster alone.

For the average three-child household, the basic higher education bill could range from $12,000 to $25,000, depending upon whether the family chooses a public or private institution.

But that's not the end of it. Education costs are rising. Furthermore, there are other charges besides the basic charges. Books and supplies cost the average family $160 a year for each student. Transportation costs range from $150 to $250 a year. Personal and miscellaneous expenses average $400. Including all these expenses, it now might cost a family up to $3,300 a year to keep a youngster in a private school, and up to $1,800 in a public one. This means that the total investment for a family with three children would range up to $38,400 if they chose a private school, and up to $21,600 if they chose a publicly supported college.

Campers' Guide Now Available

Vacation season's opening has created the annual demand for the Campers' Guide published each year by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Tourist Development Department.

This handy guide lists almost 100 towns in West Texas with camping facilities. It describes the facilities and gives locations. Each listing is keyed to indicate the availability of such important (to the camper) items as water, electricity, rest rooms, shower, picnic tables, swimming, fishing, hunting and wood.

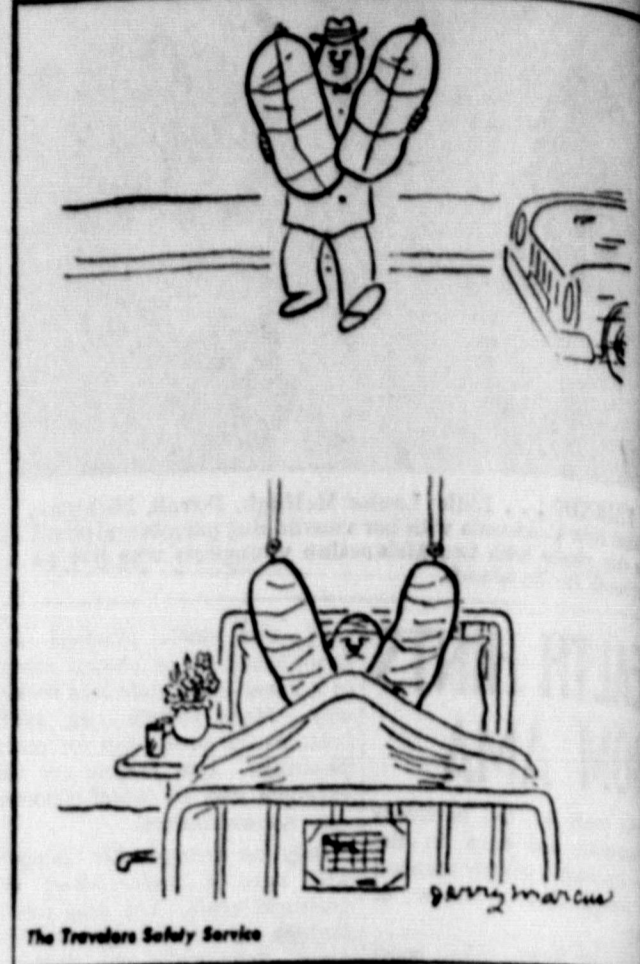

Thousands of tourists have taken to the camper sites as a more economical method of stretching their vacation dollar, according to surveys made by National Park and State Park authorities. It has been determined by these experts that the vacation budget can last from 50% to 66 2/3% longer if the family utilizes the free camping facilities available to them.

Today's camp sites are not primitive, by any means, according to the facilities listed by the guide. Often located very near shopping areas instead of far from town, the in-town advantages of entertainment and easy shopping for needed items make the locations ideal for the family on a camping trip.

Copies of the 1967 Campers' Guide are available at no cost at each of the chamber of

MAKING ARTIFICIALS "REAL"

How do you fool those licky bottom-dwelling fish frequently reach larger proportions because of some feeding habits?

Sinking a hook home is the jaw of an eight-pound bass carries about the same odds as the average angler as hitting daily double at the track, there are those who score an uncanny success.

For the guy who wants to better his chances in the bass department, there are a few tricks on this season's water that may be of interest to fishing experts at Mercury boards.

The first, they claim, is a "chewable" lure. While a soft offering has been standard fare for bass users and devotees of pork rinds and plastic worms, the "pliable approach" is also available to plug casters. With the tendency of big bass to mouth and chew a while before swallowing, it certainly has merit.

Recently marketed soft lures that emulate many old favorites have the deep characteristics of natural bait. This quality becomes important when dealing with lunkers that seize a bait gingerly move off for some distance while contemplating the authenticity of the morsel, turning it around before swallowing.

Weight is necessary in the lure down on bottom. It also presents an unexpected resistance that may warn of danger when engulfed by fish. The big boys have a way of releasing a suspect bait without ever brushing a hair.

To overcome this warning signal, use a hollowed-out sinker through which the lure has been threaded. It provides the needed weight yet permits the lure to be grabbed and carried with the line running free through the sinker.

Prairie Chickens Make Great Gains

Lessee: prairie chicken nesting ground counts in the northeast part of the Panhandle showed they have increased per cent in Wheeler County the past three years, according to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

Wildlife Biologist Dick Arment said the 7,000 prairie chickens in Wheeler County and the 3,500 in Lipscomb and Hemphill counties represented the highest counts in 14 years.

He said ideal nesting conditions and favorable weather areas where chimney and grasses have not been destroyed are major reasons for prairie chicken increases.

NEWS OF CONSERVATION

By WILLIAM M. SOWERS Soil Conservationist, SCS

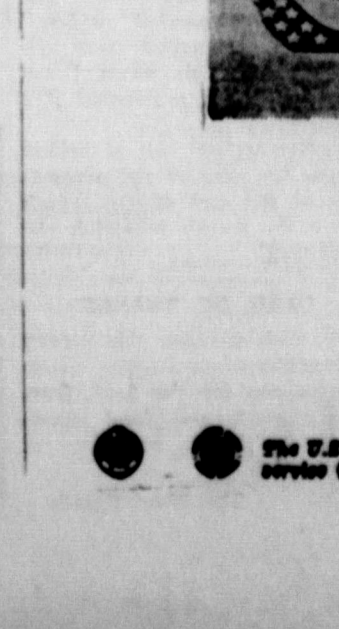

The seven most common reasons for failure in establishing irrigated Bermuda grass pastures. There are numerous problems that are encountered by the farmer or rancher in establishing Bermuda grass pastures. The following are the most common problems and one or more of them will usually contribute to the failure of a grass planting if not handled properly.

1. Improper Seedbed Preparation—Usually the land is recently plowed, when grass is sprigged. Sometimes the soil is too loose and "fluffy" immediately after plowing. The seedbed should have time to settle down and regain the proper firmness after preparation and before sprigging.

2. Poor Quality Sprigs—The timing of the digging of the sprigs is important. Freshly dug sprigs should always be used. The best results have been obtained by sprigging the same day the sprigs are dug. Old sprigs which have been exposed to hot sunshine for very long, should not be used.

3. Poor Planting Techniques—Often sprigs are planted too shallow or too deep. Sprigs should be planted from one to three inches deep. A shallow planting will allow the sprigs to dry out before they are established while if sprigged too deep they may have difficulty emerging.

4. Poor Timing of Irrigation—Land should be adequately pre-watered before sprigging.

and then watered again as soon as possible after sprigging to resettle the soil. 5. Weed Control—Pre-emergence chemicals such as Simazine-80W can be applied after sprigging and before weeds germinate in the spring. When a chemical such as this is used, however, a dangerous residue exists, and grass cannot be grazed or used for hay for at least five months after use. Shredding or mowing will usually do an adequate job on weeds if a mechanical control is desired. 6. Grazing too Early—Grass should not be grazed until it is well established. A good rule of thumb is to not graze new Bermuda plantings until it has reached the height of eight inches. Grazing before grass is well established will destroy many of the young plants. 7. Improper Fertilization—Fertilizer should be applied when runners start to grow. Amounts and kinds of fertilizer to be used should depend on a soil analysis. Fertilizer may be applied at or before sprigging if no weeds are present. If weedy competition exists, however, this is not practical.

SALUTE TO TOPS

One of the rewards, and by no means the least, of proper eating is normal weight. For the ladies, this means a good figure and the ability to wear stylish clothes, as well as good health. To the men, it means freedom from that unsightly bulge below the belt, and a better chance at longer life.

The women customarily do a better job at keeping close to normal weight than do the men. They do not subscribe to the Oriental wish, "May your shadow never grow less." Indeed, they may go to fantastic lengths to avoid becoming overweight. On the other hand, they sometimes attain fantastic degrees of overweight, into the hundreds of pounds.

Started In 1948

But the ladies have done something about it, and are doing something about it continuously. Through the leadership of Mrs. Esther S. Manz, an organization was started in Milwaukee in 1948, composed of women who were overweight and were determined to regain normal weights, or else. Later men and boys were included.

The organization soon came to my attention at the American Medical Association because of its very sensible underlying principle of doing nothing without medical guidance. My associate, the late Dr. William W. Bolton, became a counsellor and advisor to the organization, and it was my pleasure to have a small part in this association too.

The organization called itself Take Off Pounds Sensibly, or TOPS. This has been one of the most phenomenal developments in self-help toward health. By using what doctors call group therapy, sometimes expressed as "misery loves company," the overweight members of TOPS helped each other.

They have paraphrased popular songs to sing at meetings: such as "The more we get together, the slimmer we'll be . . . your loss is my loss, and my loss is your loss . . ." They weigh in at every meeting, and there is recognition for weight loss, and penalty — after fair trial — for weight gains.

At annual meetings a queen is crowned and garbed in royal robes. They have fun. And they lose weight — 10, 20, 50, 100 pounds and more.

They Keep It Off

That isn't all. They keep it off. When they have demonstrated that phase of the program successfully, they become KOPS — Keep Off Pounds Sensibly. S stands for Successfully, too.

They have had a phenomenal growth in this country and abroad. In 1966 they presented a research grant of $250,000 to Milwaukee Deaconess Hospital for work on the causes, treatment and prevention of overweight. Doctors, who were skeptical at first, have learned to look upon TOPS and KOPS with admiration, respect, and no small sense of wonder at their accomplishments.

In my book, TOPS is top!

VETERANS INFORMATION

Q—I was divorced from a veteran a short time ago. He is now in the hospital and is unable to make his payments to support our two children. Can I get VA payments toward the support of these children?

A—If your husband has more than a 30% service-connected disability, and if he is receiving compensation payments because of it, you should contact the nearest Veterans Administration office and discuss your case with representatives there.

Q—Can the burial expenses of a wife or child paid by the veteran be deducted from his income for pension purposes?

A—The expenses of last sickness and burial of a wife or child paid by the veteran pensioner can be deducted from his income for the year in which they are paid.

Q—I am receiving a VA pension check as a widow. The words "unremarried widow," have been removed from my check. Does this mean I can continue to get a pension if I remarry?

A—Remarriage of a widow causes her pension payments to stop at the end of the month before the month in which she remarried.
