State Capital NEWS

By Vern Sanford

A task force of federal officials in Austin for a conference on federal-state relations, got an earful from disgruntled state agency officials who complained of poor communication between Austin and Washington.

Gov. John Connally opened the conference by telling the men from D. C. that the federal grant system is characterized by misunderstanding, disharmony and, in some instances, utter confusion.

Other state officials got down to specifics when the conference broke up into small groups to discuss intergovernmental coordination, health and welfare, education, water development, outdoor recreation, economic opportunity and manpower development.

They said they want to be consulted in advance about proposed programs; they want federal agencies to work through state agencies on local programs; they want block grants which would give state agencies greater latitude in tailoring federal programs to fit local needs; and they want specific, unconflicting instructions from Washington as to what is expected of them.

Since the federal officials had been through similar sessions in 39 other states, they took the criticism without flinching.

ENOUGH OIL?—Texas Railroad Commission is keeping an eye peeled on the Middle East crisis in case it becomes necessary for Texas to help make up for crude oil shortages growing out of the hostilities between the Israelis and the Arab nations.

Commission Chairman Jim C. Langdon said Texas has enough reserves to meet any emergency; but while increasing oil allowances is easy, overcoming logistical problems would require ingenuity.

INSTITUTE OF TEXAN CULTURES—Newest state office to open in Austin is the Institute of Texan Cultures. Its task is to assemble educational exhibit material for the ITC building at the HemisFair in San Antonio.

After HemisFair '68 closes its six months' run, the educational program by the State of Texas will be continued there as a permanent feature.

Institute is under the direction of H. Henderson Shuffler, former West Texas newspaperman who has been heading the UT Texas programs for the past five years. Exhibits will portray the colorful history of Texas in terms of the people who made that history.

COURTS SPEAK—Supreme Court will hear arguments July 19 on whether parents can collect damages for premature birth and subsequent death of a child due to injury of the mother in an accident.

In other questions the high court.

Agreed to review the $200,000 judgment favoring a workman who was burned when his bulldozer burst an underground pipeline in Brazoria County.

Upheld a trial court decision awarding damages to a woman who lost her hair from application of a lanolin bath on bleached hair (extending doctrine of strict liability to cases other than foodstuff).

Found parents of injured child who poured kerosene on smoldering stick are not barred from suit against an oil company which allegedly adulterated fuel with gasoline.

AGRICULTURE AND URBAN LEGISLATURE—Although the lawmakers turned down a proposal for creation of a coordinating board to study problems in agriculture, Agriculture Commissioner John C. White was given the job—and the money—to make the last of studies envisioned for the proposed super-board.

In the appropriations bill, funds were earmarked for studies on ways to expand marketing outlets for Texas commodities and research on boll weevil eradication, aflatoxin control, peanuts, plums, peaches, dairy products, fire ants, castor beans, vegetables, cotton, mohair, wool and statistics on county farms.

In addition, appropriations were bigger and better than ever for the Texas Animal Health Commission, A & M's Agricultural Experiment Station and Extension service, salaries for teachers of veterinary medicine and the Veterinary Diagnostic Laboratory.

ATTORNEY GENERAL RULES—Texas gas and oil production taxes do not apply to gas and oil which is severed in Texas, but produced from reservoir located entirely out of state, Atty. Gen. Crawford C. Martin held.

In other opinions, Martin concluded that: "Cable TV" concerns are not required to pay gross receipts tax charged telegraph message companies.

Parks and Wildlife Department has authority to control and protect marl, sand, shells, gravel, and oyster-bed resources and to seek court action to protect fish and shell-fish breeding grounds against disturbances (except those necessary to navigational purposes).

State Board of Hairdressers and Cosmetologists has authority to refuse to issue a license for operation of a business which has the same name as one previously licensed and still in operation.

SCHOOL ADMINISTRATORS' SALARIES—By increasing salaries for classroom teachers, the Legislature also raised the pay of administrators, principals and counselors whose base pay is what they would make if they were classroom teachers.

Depending on degrees earned and years of experience, a classroom teacher may, under the new law, be paid anything from $3,132 to $6,912 for nine months.

With the same conditions applying, administrative personnel get the same sums, but spread over 21 months for superintendents, 11 months for principals and 10 months for counselors.

On top of the base pay, each superintendent gets a 20 to 40 per cent increment, depending on the size of his school system; each principal gets a 20 per cent increment; and each counselor gets a $300 increment.

Under the new law, the lowest possible salary for a superintendent is $5,011.20 and the highest possible salary is $12,502.40. Principals can earn as little as $4,563.60 and as much as $10,137.60. Salary scale for counselors will run from $3,780 to $7,980.

POLLUTION BOARD TO VISIT—President's Water Pollution Control Advisory Board will visit Texas June 26-29 to survey state pollution problems first hand and study solutions being undertaken.

Nine-member board will visit Dallas, Fort Worth, San Antonio, Corpus Christi, Galveston and Houston. Trip will be climaxed June 29 by a public meeting at the Rice Hotel in Houston.

PADDED PAYROLLS—Governor Connally is keeping state employees and legislators guessing as to whether he will veto a bill which would improve retirement benefits for both.

Gray Countians Place in Defense Demonstration

Two Gray County girls, Judy Cox of Pampa and Mignon Nickel of Lefors placed third in the State Civil Defense Demonstration Contest held June 7 in College Station.

Judy and Mignon received a bronze medal for third place. Only three places were announced in the contest.

The title was "Happiness in a Shelter" and the purpose was to show the importance of high morale in time of disaster.

The two girls wrote the demonstration using civil defense publications obtained from the county extension office. They were given help by the recreation specialist, Lucille Moore, and Gail Nunez, assistant home demonstration agent. The team was coached by Mrs. Billie Cox of Pampa. This was the first trip for both girls to 4-H Roundup.

The Gray County Home Demonstration Council financed the trip for the girls and their leader.

Origin of Historical Sites Being Sought

Residents of Gray County were asked this week to help solve the mystery of the origin of several geographical names found on county maps.

The information is needed for a dictionary of Texas place names, including Gray and the other 253 counties, to be published soon by the East Texas State University Press. Before Dr. Fred Turpley, professor of English at the University, submits his final manuscript, he is appealing to county residents for assistance in contributing information about several names with unexplained origins.

With the following exceptions, the reasons for the choice of approximately 200 names found on detailed maps of the county have already been determined: Cabin Creek, Deerfield, Graham Creek, Grandview School, Grapevine Creek, Heaton, Huseby Creek, Kingsmill, Lake McClellan, Lake McClellan Park.

Dr. Turpley, who started his research on Texas geographical names five years ago, has exhausted material available to him in history books, newspaper files, student research and interviews with county leaders. He is hoping that the story behind the naming of the communities, creeks and other geographical sites listed above can be explained before his book goes to press.

Information will be welcomed by Dr. Fred Turpley, Department of English, East Texas State University, Commerce, Texas 75428.

WEEK OF ACTIVITY FINISHES ON A HIGH NOTE SATURDAY

McLean's annual 66 rodeo is now history. But the excitement it caused still lingers. The president of the rodeo association wishes to thank all those who worked to make this year's rodeo a success.

In the heard growing contest the four finalists were: Tony Smitherman, Carey Don Smith, Roy McMullen and Jerrell Lee. The contest was very close, but after much deliberation and confusion, the winner was judged as being Roy McMullen of McLean.

In the married ladies nail driving contest, the winner, Mrs. O. J. Miham, drove a 20 penny common nail with several fast and furious blows of the hammer. Her time was 3.1 seconds.

Gray County Hosts District 4-H Horse Show at Pampa

Gray County will host the District 1 4-H Horse Show which will be held July 14 at Recreation Park east of Pampa. Each county will have a county elimination and these 137 4-H'ers will be the winners from their respective counties.

Trophies and ribbons through sixth place will be awarded in all events. Showmanship and high point individual trophies will also be awarded.

Gray County elimination for the horse and pony club will be held June 24 at Recreation Park.

Hardball Team Loses to Lefors

The Tiger hardball team played their first game Tuesday evening at 6:30 at Tiger Field with Lefors. The Lefors team won with a score of 5 to 1.

Tiger Coach Jack Lisman wishes to express his and the boys' thanks to Roy McMullen, umpire and chief and Arthur Boyd base umpire.

Tiger hardball team captains are Steve Gray and Larry Boyd. Co-captains are Jimmy Shelton and Ross Lisman. These boys were selected by the players.

The Tiger team goes to Samnorwood Tuesday June 20, at 6:30 for the first out of town game. Parents or fans wishing to help take the Tiger team to Samnorwood are asked to come to the ball field before 5:30.

The other event for the ladies was the softball throwing contest. Mary Ann Rice took first place for the ladies in age group 30 down; Mavis McCurley was top for the 30 to 50 age group; and for the age group of 50 and over, was Mrs. Stafford.

Again this year, the 66 round-up had an old fiddlers contest. These are the winners in the Derby town fiddlers contest:

First, Major Franklin, Denison, Shawnee, Okla.; second, Herman Johnson, Shawnee, Okla.; and runners-up, Barto Bailey, Otton; Deniz Boyter, Lubbock; Gene Sewell, Chickasha, Okla.; Cecil Johnson, Shawnee, Okla.; Richard Stotts Memphis.

Though not the greatest number of contestants we have ever had, it is believed that there were more of the "top" fiddlers than ever before. Most of the finalists were All-American fiddlers, having won or placed in all the leading contests, such as Hale Center, Gilmer and others; really the cream of the fiddlers in the Tri-State area.

Contestants in the Derby Town fiddlers contest were: Major Franklin, Denison; Dick Guines and Shorty Loder of Wheeler; R. C. Burkhalter, Dean Yoden and Bob Burkhalter, all of Perryton, Jack Dye, Dumas; Emory Kennedy, Herman Johnson and Cecil Johnson, all of Shawnee, Okla.; Deniz Boyter and Jack Mears of Lubbock; Frank McCraw, Tucumseh, Okla.; G. R. Buckner, Dozier; Richard Stotts, Memphis; Gene Brown and Bobby Scruggs of Amarillo; Barto Bailey, Otton; Gene Sewell, Chickasha, Okla.; Dale Hendricks, Spearman.

Rodeo Winners

The top men in each of the rodeo events were given saddles. The winners were:

Bulldogging, Larry Dawson, Smetter; bareback bronc riding, Cucky Berry, Tulsa, Okla.; bull riding, Dash Danner, Amarillo; saddle bronc riding, Ed Harlan, Texoma, Okla.; calf roping, Terry Riddle, Wichita Falls; barrel racing, Judy Clemens, Amarillo; heading and heeling was shared by Jake Hess and Rex Long of McLean.

to a veto because lawmakers tagged benefits for themselves onto a bill designed originally for state employees.

While retired workers would get a 10 per cent hike in their pension, credit for five years military time, disability provisions and benefits for widows and dependent children, legislators would receive a 50 per cent hike in their retirement compensation under the tampered bill that passed late in the session.

Connally resented the manner in which the legislators' extra compensation was written into the bill in conference committee rather than by open floor amendments. Bill would raise legislators' retirement from $100 to $150 a month for eight years' service. Also, it increases longevity add-ons from $10 to $15 a month for each year of service beyond the 10-year mark.

Speaker Ben Barnes has urged the governor to veto the bill. If he does, he will probably submit the employee retirement benefits proposal at the special session next year.

AIRBORNE BRIGADE PLAN — National Guard reshuffle will bring Texas a new airborne unit and two other brigades.

Under reorganization, Texas' 49th armored and 36th infantry divisions will be replaced by a new mechanized infantry brigade and high-priority 36th infantry brigade. States also will get an army aviation group.

Broome Completes Course in Kansas Army School

Army Major James R. Broome, son of Jesse J. Broome of Lefors, has completed the 10-month regular course on June 9 at the Army Command and General Staff College, Ft. Leavenworth, Kan.

He was among more than 700 officers from the United States and 43 allied nations who were prepared for duty as commanders and general staff officers in divisions or logistical commands. They received instruction in the function of the general staff at corps and Army levels.

The major received his commission through the Reserve Officers' Training Corps program at West Texas State College in Canyon, where he received his B. S. degree in 1955. His wife, Bernice, lives in Leavenworth.

'Substitutes' for Money Are Boon For Vacationers

The loss or theft of money during vacation can spoil a long-anticipated pleasure trip, says Lucille Moore, extension recreation specialist with Texas A and M University.

However, by paying various fees, you can use any of several substitutes for money, limiting your cash to small sums.

Traveler's checks, usually purchased in banks, are the most widely used substitute for currency throughout the world. They are used like money, except the owner must sign them twice—first upon purchase, then again when the check is cashed. The matching signatures provide identification and protection. In the event that they are lost or stolen, the checks will be refunded in full upon notification.

Credit cards from some companies can be used to charge several services, including lodging, food, store purchases, and car rentals. A bill is sent monthly for all items purchased during the preceding month. If you lose your credit card, notify the company at once.

The traveler's letter of credit is usually reserved for large sums of money. The bank gives you a document specifying an amount you can collect, and the letter can be negotiated only by a branch or correspondent bank of the issuing institution.

A remittance is an authorization, usually by mail or wire, from a bank to a branch or correspondent bank to pay a definite sum to you or someone you designate. Some travelers who do not want to travel with a lot of money will have various sums of cash awaiting them at different stages of their trip.

Foreign-currency brokers and many commercial banks sell foreign currency. Many people find it convenient to have a small amount of foreign money for immediate use upon arrival abroad, however, in some countries merchants offer discounts for merchandise purchased with American currency or traveler's checks. Resale of foreign currency upon your return to the United States will be lower than what you paid for it. The fee charged in selling foreign currency in the U. S. may be included in the cost of the currency or charged separately.

Driver Responsible For Accidents

AN EDITORIAL

Most of us think of a traffic accident as happening very suddenly. However, the more we are able to understand accidents, the more we can observe that accidents and their consequent injuries result from a sequence of events that begin a long time before.

Even though we don't know as much as we should about these events, it seems reasonable that there are many steps that we can take—not only as drivers, but as voters, taxpayers, consumers, parents, even as passengers—to try to interrupt this sequence.

New laws have been passed in an attempt to reduce the tragic toll on America's highways. More are needed.

Last year 52,500 deaths and 4,400,000 injuries resulted from traffic accidents. The economic loss caused by these accidents amounted to $9.8 billion.

According to an authoritative report from the Travelers Insurance Companies, research is essential. It must be coupled with the new laws, better law enforcement and a greater stress on driver education.

Research can tell us why and accidents will occur. Their prevention is still largely up to the driver.

OPEN MEETINGS MANDATORY BY GOVERNMENTAL BODIES

Gov. John Connally, on May 22, signed into law an "Open Meetings" bill which he proclaimed as "a great step forward for the people of Texas."

He was referring to Senate Bill 94 sponsored by Sen. Chet Brooks of Pasadena. Similar legislation was introduced in the House by Rep. Bill Rapp of Raymondville.

Passage of the "Open Meetings" legislation at the 1967 session culminated a drive that began some 20 years ago. It was engineered by legislators and the press to insure a better flow of information to the public.

At the bill signing ceremony, Governor Connally made this statement regarding the importance of the legislation:

"Senate Bill 94, commonly known as the open meetings bill, provides basically that all meetings of boards, agencies and commissions shall be open meetings, open to the press. This is something that the working press in the capitol and the press throughout the state have been interested in for a long, long time. I think it's a historic and significant bill and a significant day."

"Certainly there's never been any desire, as far as I know, on the part of anyone who serves on a board or an agency or commission to transact its business under the cloak of secrecy. But, nevertheless, the meetings have, from time to time, been closed."

Connally added: "This bill will now end that and provide that all the meetings shall be open to the press. It's a great step forward in trying to provide a means where the public can be more informed with respect to governmental affairs and public affairs."

"Beyond any question, one of the weaknesses of a democratic society is that it's always difficult to try to articulate and to let the public of the problems that surround the administration of government. I personally feel that if the public is informed, if it has the knowledge, people themselves will always make the right decisions. And this is going to be a step in providing the means where people can be better informed on the workings of their government."

Governor Connally further stated: "This is particularly important because the affairs of this state are run by the various agencies, boards and commissions. People generally do not quite understand the significance of these various boards, agencies and commissions and the work that they do and the decisions they make. It is really the heart and the essence of government in Texas."

"So I want to commend the efforts of the press itself to bring into the light and to the awareness of the Legislature the need for this type of legislation. I want to commend the members of the Legislature who supported it and congratulate the people of Texas that they now can be better informed on their own affairs."

Excepted in the bill, so far as open meetings are concerned, are grand juries and certain executive sessions supported by or expending public funds. The law also exempts meetings called to consider the appointment, employment or dismissal of a public officer or employee or to hear complaints or charges brought against such persons, unless the individual concerned requests a public hearing.

Similar legislation was introduced by the Texas Press Association some 20 years ago. This year it had the backing not only of TPA but also the Texas Daily Newspaper Association and the Sigma Delta Chi journalistic fraternity, plus the support of radio and television media.

Coadjutors of the new law, in addition to Senator Brooks, were the following Senators: Joe Christie of El Paso; Barbara Jordan of Houston; Criss Cole of Houston; Henry C. Grover of Houston; A. R. Schwartz of Galveston; and Dorsey B. Hardeman of San Angelo.

Joining Representative Rapp in sponsoring the bill through the House were Representatives Russell Cummings and Paul Floyd, both of Houston.

EXAMPLE

There is no substitute for good example. Parents may lecture, advise, or preach to a child; still the child will hold to the idea there is nothing wrong with doing something that he sees his parents doing without shame or apology.

It is not possible to justify a wrong act in the eyes of a child by pointing out that it is an "adult" prerogative. Children do not understand this line of reasoning. With few exceptions, the average teenager believes that he or she is mature and "adult". They are eager to do the things, to take on the mannerisms that will make them appear more "adult" in the eyes of their friends and associates.

Don't preach to children; teach them. Teach them through the example of an approach to life that is Christian in every aspect; and that places values where values belong.

For And About Teenagers

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "Please give me a good answer. I have a boyfriend that I like very much and he likes me. How much I do not know. He goes to see other girls and sometimes takes them out. He comes to see me two or three times a month. Sure, I know he is often busy or sick. But not that much. He gets mad over things that are not important. Often I have tried to give him up and forget him, but it is not easy. People say, 'Don't drop him unless you really want to.' I don't want to. I care for him but I feel I am being used. Do you have a good suggestion? Should I drop him or give him another chance?"

upon the relationship and the understanding that exists between the two of you. For example, you say that he sees other girls. Does he, at the same time, expect you to see no one but himself? Have you agreed to go steady? Has he promised not to see other girls?

If you have no understanding about your relationship, you are not being used — and you should have other boyfriends, just as he has other girlfriends.

If you enjoy seeing him, even if it is two or three times a month, continue to see him and don't break up just because you feel he should visit more often.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, COMMUNITY AND SUBURBAN PRESS SERVICE, PLAINVIEW, TX.

The Internal Revenue Service reminds these students that they should be sure to file an income tax return next Jan. 1, even though they make less than $600. Faith

Let him ask in faith, with no doubting, for he who doubts is like a wave of the sea that is driven and tossed by the wind. — James 1:6

Faith brings confidence. If we believe in the ultimate good, there is strength to withstand, to hold firm, to pursue, in the face of challenge and adversity.

Ask for the strength you need. This is a sign of faith. If you have the hope that is a part of faith, you need not waste time making excuses. You know that things will work out well in the end. You look for ways to make this happen and in so doing help to make it so. Have faith and doubts will not deter you.

FLUORIDES AND BONE DENSITY

In this technical age an obscure scientific term can flash suddenly into the headlines in terms of controversy which makes it overnight a fighting word. Such a term is fluoridation, as applied to the treatment of water supplies for the amelioration of dental decay, especially in children.

Fluoridation is based on observations initiated by the desire to know why children's teeth in certain areas of the country showed an unsightly mottling. This effect was identified as a result of excessive amounts of fluorides in the public water supplies, usually derived from ground waters. Accompanying the mottling, however, a marked resistance to decay was noted. In areas with low fluoride levels, mottling did not occur. Dental decay was much more prevalent.

Decay Prevented
After intensive comparative studies and experimental work, a method was arrived at for adding minute quantities of fluorides to public water supplies. Remarkable improvement in dental decay followed where this measure was adopted.

Fluoridation provoked opposition. This has been the history of preventive measures from smallpox vaccination to measles eradication. There have always been the "agin-its." Some of these were sincerely concerned about possible dangers; some were just afraid of the unknown; some saw a chance to stir up a row and profit from it in terms of publicity or whatever motivates the constitutional obstruct-tionist. It was the latter who introduced the diabolically clever claim that fluoridation of water supplies was feeding rat poison to children. There are still good, honest, misinformed people who believe this preposterous canard. There were also physicians who feared that fluoride ingestion would tend to have unfavorable influences on bone growth in future years.

Fears Unfounded
These fears have not proved correct. Indeed, there is evidence now coming to light which indicates that elderly persons living in areas where natural waters contain fluorides fare better than those from localities where fluorides are absent or low in amount. Specifically, a bone disease called osteoporosis has been found more prevalent in fluoride-poor regions than in fluoride-rich localities.

Osteoporosis is a rarefaction of bone through loss of calcium which results in deformities, spontaneous fractures such as hip fractures and collapsed vertebrae. At the same time, calcium deposits in the aorta were higher in the low-fluoride areas. The arterial calcifications are significant by their relationship to heart and blood vessel diseases. The consumption of milk and cheese (principal sources of calcium) did not appear to differ significantly between the areas compared.

Editorially, the Journal of the American Medical Association says: "Fluoride is another mineral element that has been found useful in human nutrition . . ."

By MRS. CECIL CARTER

A duet by Mr. Earthman and Mrs. G. L. Simmons was followed by an encore. Mrs. Lester Carter, Abilene, sang a solo and Mrs. Morris Brown of McLean also sang.

New officers were elected as follows: President, G. L. Simmons; vice president, Mrs. H. H. Worsham; secretary, Mrs. O. W. Stapp.

Gift for the oldest member present was given to Cleve Greenwood of Wichita Falls, brother of S. T. Greenwood, Alanreed. Gift for the one coming the longest distance was given to the former Goldie Collier, daughter of the late John and Mrs. Collier, who came from Washington.

Consumers Costs Are Confusing

If you had ever taken a load of wheat, ground it into flour, added various ingredients for special purposes, put in a little salt, water, yeast, perhaps some vitamin concentrate, worked the resulting dough, let it rise into loaves, and then baked it in an oven to make a loaf of bread, you would quickly see the reason for the spread between farm prices and the cost of finished food products.

One senator has made the suggestion that labels on food products should state the value of farm-produced ingredients to make consumers aware of the difference between the retail price and what the farmer receives for the basic raw material. The only trouble is that both farm prices and retail prices are constantly shifting according to the changing relationships between supply, demand and competition. Grocery clerks would be spending practically all their time pasting new labels on their merchandise. Consumers would really be confused, farmers would not receive any more, and retail prices would go up to cover the cost of label changing.

As The Wall Street Journal observes, "Like so many consumer-oriented schemes designed to be informational, this could only be less a help than an unintentional hindrance."

Mrs. Willie Lamb returned Tuesday from Dallas after visiting her daughter, Mrs. Eugene Corley, and family.

Planned Day Improves Child

What does your child do all day long? Is it just a matter of keeping him out of your way—or can his day be planned so that it will have real meaning to him? Ideally, a child's day is spent in play through which he learns physical, emotional and social development, say family life specialists. Activities which can help meet these needs can be planned.

At an early age, the child wants to help. He wants to learn to feed and dress himself. Study tools and steps, low rods for wash cloth and towel as well as clothes, and articles which are easy for him to handle all add this desire to learn. He likes to be near you and do whatever you are doing. Think of jobs he might do at his age. Through helping, he learns what work is like and what adults are like as they work.

A pre-schooler could possibly wipe off his own high chair or the table; empty the waste basket or ash trays; sweep with a small broom; dust parts of furniture he can safely reach and can't easily damage; pick up newspapers, magazines, etc., and put them in their places; grease baking pans; bring in the newspaper; or run errands around the house.

Outdoor play should be planned if the weather permits. A sand box, swings, barrels and toys to ride help provide good physical activity. They provide an opportunity for climbing, jumping, running, yelling and letting off steam.

Encourage the child to play by himself part of the time. This encourages imaginative play and exploring. Children need supervision in their play, but not interference and constant direction.

A mid-day rest is important whether they sleep or not. This may be a good time to look at books or listen to records. Just before the evening meal and following the until bedtime is usually family time. If fairly active play goes on during this period, be sure there is some time devoted to quieting down before the child goes to bed.

FUNNY MONEY

What if you discover that a dollar bill, recently acquired by you, is a counterfeit? Your quick reaction might be: "This thing is a hot potato. I'd better unload it onto somebody else as fast as I can." But if you do, you will be committing the serious crime of passing counterfeit money. True, you do have a hot potato on your hands. But it is folly to add to the minor mistake of accepting the money the major mistake of passing it along.

Your duty is plain. Notify the local police department or the United States Secret Service at once, giving as much information as you can about when, where, and from whom you received the bill.

No, you will not be reimbursed for the one dollar bill. But you will be helping to curb one of the most ancient and persistent of crimes—one that has been given a new lease on life by modern techniques of printing and engraving.

In the roster of criminals, the counterfeit is something of a maverick. He is seldom motivated by sudden passion or by grinding poverty or by personal inadequacies. He has time enough for planning, money enough for equipment, and talent enough for manufacturing. He is a cool customer who knows exactly what he is doing.

However, merely passing—unlike manufacturing—counterfeit money may occur in perfect innocence. It is part of the government's job in prosecuting to prove that the person who passed the counterfeit money knew (or at least thought) that it was counterfeit. Consider this case:

An intoxicated fellow, caught spending counterfeit money in a bar, denied that he knew it was bogus. At the trial, the government told the court: "Shortly before this man's arrest, he burned a $5 bill to light his cigar. So he must have known the money was no good."

But the court was not convinced beyond a reasonable doubt, and dismissed the charge. The judge said it was quite possible for a drinking man to burn real money—just to show off.

In another case, though, there was evidence that the defendant, when he realized detectives were on his trail, flushed his counterfeit money down a toilet. This time, the defendant was convicted. The court found no reasonable explanation for this behavior except a guilty conscience.

FOR THE FAMILY MANAGER

ITEM: Paint the proper way. On vertical siding, paint the grooves between the boards first and then do the faces. On horizontal siding, paint the bottom of each board first, then do the face.

ITEM: If your budget won't permit you to build a much-needed bathroom, see if you can't find some waste space in an old closet, pantry, under a stairwell or at the end of a hall for a compact powder room that will ease the strain on existing bathroom facilities. You can install a powder room in a space as little as 4 x 5 feet. Lavatories and water closets that can be installed in corners are available for rooms with unusual shapes.

ITEM: Iron-on tape may loosen when garments are washed, but you can press the tape back in place. Whether to use tape instead of a hem depends on several things. Among them are: Can you make the hem stable without making it rigid; will the tape show through the fabric; can you press the fabric at the temperature needed to obtain a strong bond with the tape.

ITEM: For a quick treat for children, put graham crackers on a baking sheet. Sprinkle chocolate, butterscotch or caramel flavor chips on top of crackers, then press halves of marshmallows - cut side down - onto the chips. Heat in oven at 350 degrees about five minutes or until chips are soft enough to spread. Top each cracker with another one and serve the sandwiches at once.

Crawford Receives Flying Cross Award

First Lt. Mike Crawford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Crawford of Spearman, is home on leave after receiving the Flying Cross for having suffered approximately 800 hours of combat flying as an Army helicopter pilot in Vietnam.

The commendation on the award reads: "First Lieutenant Crawford distinguished himself by heroism in action on Jan. 4, 1967, while serving as section leader of a flight of four UH1D lift helicopters during combat operations in the An Loai Valley, Republic of Vietnam. On this date Lieutenant Crawford voluntarily led his flight on a medical evacuation mission to a landing zone which was under intense hostile automatic weapons fire. Fully aware that the landing zone was insecure, Lieutenant Crawford piloted his air craft into the endangered area and boarded three critically wounded infantrymen. As a result of his courage and determination under fire, the lives of the three men were saved. Lieutenant Crawford's action stands in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service, and reflects great credit upon himself, his unit and the United States Army."

Lt. Crawford is the husband of the former Rita Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emory D. Brown of McLean.

Visitors in the P. M. Gibson home were their daughter, Mrs. D. D. Patton and children of Allen. The Pattons came for the rodeo and the Alanreed Homecoming. On Monday the two families went to Amarillo to see another daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gibson, Mrs. D. D. Bednorz, and husband.
