

Results Of Explosion Der Fuehrer Narrowly Escaped

Seek Clues In Blast Aimed At Hitler

Some Held On Suspicion As Nation-Wide Hunt Continues

BERLIN, Nov. 10 (AP)—A large plate glass window in the store of Heinrich Hoffmann, personal photographer to Adolf Hitler, was smashed today by a missile apparently aimed at a huge picture of the fuhrer.

Hoffmann returned yesterday from Munich, where he attended the celebration of the 1923 putsch anniversary and narrowly escaped being caught in the blast which wrecked the historic Burgerbraud cellar.

Police dug piece by piece through debris nine feet deep searching for telltale fingerprints and metal scraps in the wrecked Nazi shrine and held an undisclosed number of persons, at least on suspicion.

Authorities were convinced that experts set the time bomb intended for Hitler.

Monsignor Cesare Orsenigo, Papal Nuncio in Berlin, visited the fuhrer, meanwhile to express the felicitations of Pope Pius XII on his escape.

Officials canvassed the nation for information that might lead to the assassins who set off the explosion in which six men and a woman were killed and 63 other persons injured.

Nazi suspicions turned toward the British secret service and Jews, but searchers hunted at home and abroad for clues that might fix the blame for the blast which missed the fuhrer by only 11 minutes Wednesday night. Germans who heard a broadcast of the fuhrer's address at the beer hall celebration of the 1923 Nazi putsch were asked to report any radio listeners who might have commented, "nothing happened," or who asked, "why did the fuhrer speak so briefly?" he spoke for 58 minutes.

In addition to a reward of 600,000 marks ($240,000) offered earlier for aid in tracking down the perpetrators, Heinrich Himmler, chief of all Nazi police, offered $500,000 marks ($190,000) to anyone abroad who supplied information leading to the arrest of the guilty person or persons.

Hitler's only comment when he heard of the explosion was "a fellow has to have luck."

FDR IS EXPECTED TO APPROVE TRANSFER OF SHIP REGISTRY

Move Legal, President Says, But He Studies 'Human' Angle; Maritime Labor Problem Is Considered

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (AP)—Maritime labor leaders said after a White House conference today that they believed President Roosevelt ultimately would approve a proposed transfer to Panama registry of eight United States Lines ships barred from the European war zone by the neutrality act.

A short time earlier at his press conference Mr. Roosevelt had expressed the view that transfer of the vessels would be legal, but he added that the question of whether to permit it still was being studied from a human as well as a proper angle.

The labor leaders who conferred at length with the president on seamen's unemployment arising from discontinuance of North Atlantic shipping were Joseph Curran, president of the National Maritime Union (N.M.U.); Joseph R. Ryan, president of the International Longshoremen's Association (I.L.A.); and Matthew Dushane, chairman of the Seafarers International Union (S.I.U.).

Mr. Roosevelt had disclosed at the press conference that a program of training would be undertaken, under the already established maritime commission coast guard training system, to give as many as possible of the unemployed men work. He said also that he would recommend to congress that seamen be brought fully under the social security law, thus making available to them benefits of the unemployment insurance system.

The chief executive also disclosed he was considering the use of idle ships, 25 to 35 in all, to bring back from the East Indies and other parts of the world strategic materials such as rubber and tin which the United States is seeking for wartime reserves.

Curran told reporters after his conference that it appeared the transfer of eight ships to Panama registry was looked upon "somewhat favorably." But the president had indicated, he said, that if the vessels were transferred they would not be definitely tied down to Panama registry and would be taken back by the United States lines after the war. American seamen then would be reemployed on them.

"There is a definite indication the ships will be transferred," Curran said.

Curran said the president outlined to the group the expanded training program and also advised that the WPA had "some plan" to take care of those seamen not provided for under the training program.

(The neutrality act forbids American ships to visit belligerent ports.)

Insisting that a transfer of the U. S. Line ships to Panamanian registry would be legal the president, however, said other questions were being discussed to benefit not only the laid up crews but the ships themselves.

He said he would discuss with maritime labor leaders during the week.

Ickes Calls For A Federal Statute On Oil Conservation

Claims States Not Doing A Complete Job Of Preventing Waste Of Resources

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (AP)—Secretary Ickes, saying that state oil authorities were not doing a complete job of preventing waste, asked the house oil committee today to endorse legislation to create federal standards of oil conservation.

"I must stress the need for legislation which will assure adequate protection against avoidable waste of the oil resources of our nation," Ickes said.

The interior secretary took notice of the long-standing controversy over federal or state regulation and said that in case of a disagreement between the government and a state over questions of waste, the federal authority should prevail.

Humble Loser In Oil Case

AUSTIN, Nov. 10 (AP)—An attempt by the Humble Oil and Refining company to invalidate the existing East Texas oil proration order failed at least temporarily in federal court today.

A three-judge court handed down a decision denying the Humble company's request for an interlocutory injunction against enforcement of the order but did not pass on validity of the proration method in the East Texas field.

The opinion stated that "usually courts do not permanently set aside orders of a regulatory commission unless convinced they are invalid after a hearing on merits."

James P. Hart, assistant attorney general in charge of oil litigation, said the Humble company could appeal from the denial of an interlocutory injunction. In event it does not, a hearing on whether a permanent injunction should be issued will be held before the three-judge court.

The jurists signing the opinion were Circuit Judge Rufus E. Foster of the New Orleans court and District Judges William H. Atwell of Dallas and T. M. Kennedy of Houston.

"I do not wholly agree with the written reasons filed," said Kennedy, "but think the interlocutory injunction should be denied."

COMPLAINT FILED
Two charges of operating as a life insurance agent without a license from the state board of insurance examiners were filed in county court Friday against J. Paul Bates. They were the two first such cases filed here.

The terrific destructive power of the explosion which smashed Burgerbrau Beer hall at Munich Wednesday night only a quarter hour after Fuhrer Hitler had left is well illustrated by this view of the wreckage of the hall made Thursday and radioed from Berlin to New York.

Cold Wave In Wake Of Rains

Tantalizing rains, not even enough to dent the drought, moved southward across Texas Friday, the Associated Press reported, ahead of a norther bearing freezing and frosty weather into the Panhandle. Showers Thursday night in Big Spring accounted for 0.7 inch moisture. Skies remained heavily overcast Friday morning while the temperature hovered in the 50's.

Colder weather was forecast for tonight. Temperatures in the Panhandle were to drop close to 20 degrees and bring a hard frost. Weather forecasts said the cold winds were moving fast enough to reach the Gulf coast overnight, clearing out the preceding showers.

Most of North Texas drank in the overnight rains, the heaviest of which visited the Dallas area, where the fall was 3.4 inch. Light rains were reported at Tyler, Brownwood, Wichita Falls, Lubbock, Waco and San Angelo.

In most of those areas, however, the rainfall needs were still far from being satisfied.

The norther's arrival was signaled at Lubbock in a drop from 75 to 44 degrees Friday, and temperatures were falling fast at other northwest points.

A heavy rain, however, fell in parts of Coleman county. A

Netherlanders On Alert Guard After Border Incident

Defense Tightened After Shooting Incident; Flood Plan Ready

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 10 (AP)—The lowland countries took swift, mysterious defense measures today, Netherlands standing guard on their newly flooded "water line" of protection and Belgian soldiers digging new trenches in the east.

A strange shooting incident on the Netherlands side of the German frontier near Venloo was followed by withdrawal of all Netherlands regular army leaves, placing guards around public buildings, inundation of water defense areas and stringent regulation of transportation.

Reports of the border incident varied, one saying two persons were killed, another that only one was wounded.

Both agreed several persons had been carried into Germany after the shooting.

Witnesses at the Venloo customs station said a German automobile stopped at the border, and that its occupants walked into the Netherlands and engaged in a gunbattle with occupants of a Netherlands car. Several persons from the latter machine then were carried into Germany, they said.

Venloo is near the neck of the Maas river, which loops southward between Germany and Belgium. It is opposite the German munitions center of Essen.

The government began flooding low sections through the center of the country, including a wide strip in Utrecht province and another extending eastward between the Maas and Waal rivers. Residents of "water line" villages were removed.

After a cabinet meeting which lasted until early today, the high command ordered the removal from numerous martial law areas of all ships undesirable for defense purposes.

Ambulance units were ordered on. See HOLLAND, Page 8, Col. 7

TOKYO, Nov. 10 (AP)—Ten persons were reported killed and 215 imprisoned 900 feet underground today in the collapse of a sulphur mine shaft at Morioka in northeastern Japan.

Jurors Recess Until Nov. 29

The 70th district grand jury Thursday recessed until Nov. 29 after returning one additional bill of indictment, which brought the total to 15.

The indictment was against Henry Smith, negro, for an alleged attack against a negro with a plank. She was treated at a local hospital Monday for severe wounds.

Although there was no formal report to the effect, it was reliably reported that the grand jury took a very firm stand in regards to slot machines. At any rate, some local organizations which considered the idea of getting permission to operate the machines to raise money for charitable purposes had definitely abandoned the move.

It was recalled that several members of the current grand jury were members of the investigative body which ordered the devices out two years ago and recommended to the court that they be kept out by means of specific charges to future grand juries.

COTTON FILE

The fire department made a run to the Guitler gin early Friday morning when a bale of cotton caught fire. Very little damage was reported.

Baby Born With Two Heads, One Removed; Child Doing Nicely

KINGSPORT, Tenn., Nov. 10 (AP)—A baby boy born October 17 with two heads, one of which was later removed, is "coming along nicely" and may develop into a normal youngster, Dr. J. C. Statzer, Bristol, Tenn., physician, reported today.

Dr. Statzer said the baby weighed nine pounds at birth and had a second, abnormal head at the base of the normal head.

"It had the outline of a head with eyes, nose, mouth and hair but no ears," the physician declared.

Dr. Statzer, with a record of 3,500 deliveries in 35 years of practice, asserted he could not recall a similar case in medical history. He said he had made a careful study of the case before performing the operation.

The physician reported he first amputated the abnormal head and several days later removed the neck, leaving a small wound. He expressed the opinion hair would grow over the scar, eventually making it unnoticeable.

"I am uncertain about the child's future," he declared. "At present the child is normal in every other respect, but another operation may be necessary later."

COURT DUE TO TAKE ARMISTICE HOLIDAY

With the criminal docket set for Monday, the 70th district court Friday tapered off from the opening week of business with prospects of a holiday on Armistice Day.

The damage suits of C. H. Davis, et al against Earnest Odum resulted in a mistrial due to introduction of irrelevant testimony by one witness. It was continued until the January term.

A divorce was granted to Minnie Baaden from Oliver Baaden.

City Rejects Bids On Lake Cottage

City commissioners rejected all bids on the caretaker's cottage and concessions house project at Moss Creek lake Thursday evening.

All of the three bids submitted were refused when they exceeded architect's estimates by a considerable amount. The city has available some $4,500 for the work which will be undertaken as the final phase of the PWA-city waterworks improvement program. No date was set for letting.

Housewives Urged To Make Saving On Meals, Give Sum To Red Cross

An appeal, directed specifically to Big Spring housewives, for observance of a "Red Cross Day" next week came Friday from Roll Call headquarters as workers reported the campaign for memberships was slowing down.

Particularly in the residential areas has the response been lukewarm, with many women reporting that their husbands are joining "downtown."

The "Red Cross Day" idea is devised particularly for these women.

said Mrs. Dorothy Lawrence, executive secretary of the Roll Call, who discussed it on a radio broadcast Friday. Her proposal simply is this:

That Big Spring housewives set aside one day next week to serve simpler, more economical meals, and donate the saving to the Red Cross. "We're not asking anyone to do without food," she said, "but there are a hundred dishes — for

Steers Rule As Slight Favorites Over San Angelo Bobcats

THE SPORTS PARADE

BY HANK HART

Having gained benefit of a week's rest, the Big Spring gridders move to Angelo tomorrow the slight favorites over Harry Taylor's Bobcats, a role unique to them in their annual scrap with the always tough Angelloans.

It's always a rugged defensive battle between the two elevens and this time it will be no exception. Rarely has there been more than one touchdown's difference in the two squads. This time there may be more and, from this corner, it looks like the Bovines will cop the duke.

The Cats will be ready. There's little doubt about that. They'd rather trip the Big Springers than win any other game on their schedule.

But the Herd will be ready, too, prepared to do what no Big Spring team has been able to do since 1934, rack up a win over the Bobcats.

The Angelloans are equipped with a potent passing combination in J. W. Stewart and Pete Ewald and a fine little running back in Len Cortese besides a line that will outweigh the Steers' wall; but the locals have a faster, classier secondary, a tough line as well.

What with Lefty Bethell and Johnny Miller beating enemy ends into the ground and Bobby Martin's passes connecting, the locals should emerge the winner by a touchdown, possibly two.

Elsewhere in the district (winners in capital letters): SWEETWATER, thundering down the stretch in her bid for the loop title, can handle Odessa pretty much as she pleases. The Hosses (Joe Coleman's herd) showed power and ability to stick with their job in upsetting Angelo but the Sweetwater Caucasians are bang-tail of a different hue. The red and white should win by three touchdowns.

MIDLAND, despite Jackie Vaughn, will romp over Lamesa and the Tornados will play the Bulldogs a better game than did the Abilene Eagles.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS (Fort Worth) can add to Dewey Mayhew's woes by socking Abilene by a pair of touchdowns.

And on the college front: TEXAS A&M will probably overpower Southern Methodist although this one can go either way.

TEXAS CHRISTIAN should edge out Tulsa.

BAYLOR can be expected to divide Jack Crain and Texas University.

RICE may finally get right by upsetting Arkansas.

TULANE looks capable of hobnobbing Alabama.

AUBURN is picked to surprise Villanova.

Watch YALE rebound from last week's crushing defeat and stop Brown.

BOSTON COLLEGE should edge Detroit.

OHIO STATE can handle Chicago as it pleases.

CALIFORNIA looks slightly stronger than Washington.

Pittsburgh cannot cope with CARNEGIE TECH's all-around game.

CORNELL will continue unbeaten at the expense of Colgate.

Navy doesn't look as strong as does COLUMBIA.

DUKE should floor Virginia Military.

DARTMOUTH will outscore Princeton.

DUQUESNE will rout North Carolina State.

FLORIDA looks better than Georgia.

GEORGETOWN, unbeaten in tests with Temple, Roanoke, Syracuse, Bucknell, George Washington and Virginia, will slip down Maryland.

GEORGIA TECH should halt Kentucky's string.

HOLY CROSS shapes up as superior to Temple.

Indiana hasn't the defense to cope with FORDHAM.

WISCONSIN should cuff Illinois. Our special is IOWA over Notre Dame. The fact that Eddie Anderson is our favorite coach may have something to do with that.

NEBRASKA should have no trouble with Kansas.

OKLAHOMA can handle Kansas State in a game that should be a wow.

MISSISSIPPI STATE can halt Louisiana State.

MICHIGAN will hit the comeback trail at Minnesota's expense.

SANTA CLARA will throttle Michigan State.

MISSOURI is liked over NYU in a close one.

NORTHWESTERN, on the high road, is more potent than Purdue.

MARQUETTE can handle Iowa State.

OREGON STATE looks capable in her test with Oregon.

PENN will shell Penn State.

FURMAN can outscore South Carolina.

USC will have little trouble with Stanford.

SAN FRANCISCO should stop St. Mary's.

Centenary doesn't have the all-around game that TEXAS TECH possesses.

TENNESSEE can hurdle The Citadel.

WASHINGTON STATE should nose out Idaho.

Late Rally Gives Yearlings 7-7 Tie With Sweetwater Gridders

BOWDEN-EVANS PASS CLICKS IN FOURTH

A 20-yard touchdown pass from Jimmy Bowden to Bill Evans and a successful plunge for the extra point by Junior Moore enabled the Big Spring junior high gridders to come from behind and tie the Sweetwater Colts, 7-7, here Thursday afternoon.

Heavily outweighed the Yearlings made a game but apparently hopeless fight until more than eight minutes had elapsed of the fourth period when Moore opened a drive that carried 50 yards to pay dirt.

Moore mixed some attractive ground gains with Bowden's successful overhead game to carry them within striking distance of the Sweetwater goal.

On the try for the tying point Moore took a pass from Bowden but both sides were ruled off side and the play was called back.

Moore then hit the center of the line, was stopped momentarily but kept driving and finally went through.

The invaders counted in the first period when Robert Taylor plunged through from inside the ten yard line. Aubrey Hollis added the seventh point.

The Colts had a shade the better of the milling throughout the first half with the Yearlings taking the offensive after the rest period.

Score by quarters: Sweetwater 7 0 0 0-7 Big Spring 0 0 0 7-7

NBC, TSN TO AIR AGGIE-PONY GAME

At 2:20 p. m. Saturday, the Texas air will be filled with football, for at that hour, the Humble Oil & Refining company begins four broadcasts of games featuring all seven Southwest conference teams.

Ears, as well as eyes, of close followers of the conference championship race will be on College Station, with the undefeated Texas Aggies playing host to the Southern Methodist Mustangs, who began their conference schedule last Saturday with a convincing victory over the Texas Longhorns, 10-0.

The Humble company's broadcast of this game will be handled by Kern Tipton, ace play-by-play broadcaster of the Southwest, assisted by Dan Riss, who will keep statistics on the game and give pre-game and between halves color. The game can be heard over stations KPRC, Houston; WOAI, San Antonio; WFAA-WBAP, Dallas-Fort Worth.

This game will also be broadcast over the NBC Blue network, a national chain by Bill Stern, who has flown down from New York to handle the game. The Humble company, which has exclusive broadcasting privileges at the game, extended NBC permission to make the broadcast in order to further national recognition of Southwest conference football.

At Waco Saturday, the Texas Longhorns engage the Baylor Bears in another outstanding conference battle featuring two sophomore backs, Jack Crain of Texas and Jack Wilson of Baylor.

Cy Leland will handle the play-by-play description of this game on the Humble company's broadcast and Buddy Bostick the color. Tune in stations WRE, Dallas; WACO, Waco; KROW, Austin; KFDM, Beaumont; KABC, San Antonio; KTEM, Temple; KBST, Big Spring; KGKL, San Angelo; KGGK, Tyler, KXYZ, Houston; KRIS, Corpus Christi; KRGV, Weslaco; KRBC, Abilene.

In Houston, Rice Institute and the University of Arkansas will each be fighting to rehabilitate their conference standing. The Humble company will broadcast the game over stations KTRH, Houston; KTSA, San Antonio; KGKO, Dallas-Fort Worth. Eddie Dunn will handle the play-by-play description of this game, Harfield Weedin the color.

Texas Christian university is the only conference member to meet an inter-sectional foe; the Horned Frog plays the University of Tulsa in Fort Worth. Good coverage is assured the Humble company's broadcast of this game by the use of powerful station KRLL, of Dallas. Hal Thompson will handle the play-by-play description of the game, Bud Sherman the color.

governing deer hunting and sportsmen are advised to consult game wardens when in doubt.

Season dates on Turkey coincide with deer but the game department urges hunters to limit their kill of his species since drouth has severely damaged the crop. The turkey bag limit is three per season except in counties which have universal hunting and fishing licenses where it is two. It is illegal to kill turkey hens.

Deer Reported Plentiful As Season Nears

AUSTIN, Nov. 10 (AP)—A heavy harvest of deer, which despite a general drouth are ready in large numbers to match wits with hunters, was predicted today by state game department officials for the season starting Thursday.

Hundreds of thousands of white-tailed and mule deer bucks of legal size—with pronged horns—will draw out battalions of hunters until Dec. 31, when the season closes. Officials estimate the kill will exceed the 1938 count of 35,000.

Part of the army of nimrods which spends more than $3,000,000 a year in Texas, the largest concentration is expected, as usual, in the hill country of Central Texas.

Game department officials, however, pointed out many other sections of the state now have supplies of the big game sufficient to draw out sportsmen and hundreds probably will trek to the wild trans-Pecos region west of the Pecos river in search of the larger mule deer.

East of the Pecos river the open season on mule deer is identical with the whitetail dates but west of the stream, shooting is limited to between Nov. 16 and 30.

Bag limit on whitetail is two per season, the same applying to mule deer east of the Pecos. West of the river, the limit is one buck. Statutes make it illegal to kill a doe or fawn. Hunters may call up deer by rattling horns but in no other way.

Many counties have special laws

All Cripples Are In Shape To Operate

5,000 Fans Expected; Locals Must Stop Stewart, Cortese

By HANK HART

Pat Murphy's Big Spring Steers, a bunch of toughies conceded little chance to figure in the District 3-AA sprint this year but who have copped the duke in two of three family bouts, and Harry Taylor's San Angelo Bobcats, whose title hopes have been chucked into the discard by two false starts, have at it Saturday afternoon in San Angelo and neither the elements, that are threatening to get downright contrary, nor the season's records of the two clubs can very well be employed in predicting the victor and the vanquished.

Rich in tradition, the feud invariably produces spartan performances on the part of both elevens. More often than not in years past, the teams have waxed to deadlocks. On most every occasion the Concho City corps has reigned as favorites. Usually when a paw has been raised in triumph it has been that of the Bobcat. But this year the pendulum has swung and the Herd will not be punching at a dead-vantage.

Fell Twice The Angelo machine moved along on all cylinders until it hit its conference schedule, then was bounced unceremoniously, not once but twice. Sweetwater invaded Angelo and romped away with a 7-0 triumph. A week later the Cats slipped into Odessa intent on cuffing the Hosses for their embarrassing reversal but instead the Odessans failed to fit into the scheme and kayoed Harry Taylor and Company, 14-6.

The Bovines contributed one of the state's major upsets several weeks ago by tripping that same Odessa team, 7-0, since have looked to advantage in shelling Lamesa into defeat, 40-14, and losing

A&M Picked To Defeat Mustangs

By HERB BARKER

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (AP)—Being the seventh chapter of the weekly football guessing contest:

Texas A. and M.—Southern Methodist: Twin powerhouses of the Southwest collide and probably will decide a conference championship. S. M. U. has revealed a sturdy defense, but the Mustangs seem to lack Texas A. & M.'s all-around power and class. The nod goes to the Aggies.

Tulane-Alabama: This may be Tulane's toughest test thus far, but we'll stick to the Green Wave.

Michigan-Minnesota: The little brown Jug at stake. The Illinois debacle revealed Michigan weaknesses that few, if any, even suspected existed. But Minnesota has been no football bargain this year, and this ballot is marked for Michigan.

Iowa-Notre Dame: With Nile Kinnick pitching, this might be the spot for the well-known upset, but this corner, for one, hasn't nerve enough to call it. Notre Dame.

Cornell-Colgate: There are some who believe the Cornells are bound to get knocked off somewhere along the line. Voicing disagreement, the vote goes to Cornell.

New York University-Missouri: No harder one on the list. Missouri's Paul Christian against N. Y. U.'s Ed Boell. The coin falls and says N. Y. U.

Princeton-Dartmouth: If there's anything seriously wrong with unbeaten Dartmouth, Princeton will uncover it. Until then, Dartmouth.

Fordham-Indiana: The Rams, early season disappointments, are improving and should get past this one. Fordham.

Southern California—Stanford: The Trojans look much too good. Southern California.

Auburn-Villanova: Villanova, but we'd like to have a second guess in reserve.

Harvard-Army: Both well beaten, but Army rates the nod.

Navy-Columbia: On a reversion, Columbia.

Holy Cross-Temple: More woe for the Owls. Holy Cross.

Penn-Penn State: Can't pick anybody except Penn.

Stanton Buffs 6-B Champions

STANTON, Nov. 10 — Stanton's Buffaloes became the champions of District 6-B this week when Seminoles bowed out of the picture by voluntarily eliminating themselves upon the discovery by Horace Jones, Seminole coach, that one of his players, Lester Shirley, tackled, a transfer from Kermitt, was ineligible.

Stanton will be certified to the state interscholastic league as champions, according to a decision handed down at a district committee meeting held at Lamesa Wednesday evening.

The 6-B district playoff will be determined by the state league officials. It is probable that the winners of 6-B will be matched against Stanton. Roperville is the favorite in that sector.

FARMERS AND MUSTANGS TEE OFF SATURDAY FOR SW TITLE

By FELIX B. MCKNIGHT

COLLEGE STATION, Nov. 10 (AP)—Jolly cool about it all, unbeaten A&M, dependent on a thunderous ground game and a delicate passing touch, tomorrow tees off on a stretch drive that could lead to glory—or just a good season.

Southern Methodist, carrying designs of its own, comes to this little village with the greatest aggregation the Aggies have faced to date. And they have licked seven pretty good football teams.

Troubled a bit by injuries earlier in the week, the Aggies will have the old gang back for a kickoff before an expected throng of at least 30,000. Only Quarterback Walemon Price, who, ordinarily, shares his passing and running spot with Marion Pugh and Marland Jeffrey, is a doubtful player. His knee is still misbehaving.

In Southern Methodist, which ranks thirteenth in the national poll and has only a tie with Oklahoma and a one-point loss to Notre Dame to scar its record, the Aggies meet the team that should answer the question—"just how good are the Texas Aggies?"

On paper, it's a give or take proposition, but a wise man has made the more destructive Aggies a six or seven-point favorite. The Aggies, in quieting seven foes—Santa Clara, Villanova, Texas Christian, Baylor, Arkansas, Centenary and Oklahoma A&M—have built up 153 points to 25 for the opposition. S.M.U. in five games, has 68 to enemy's 27.

The churning feet of such backs as Jerrin's John Kimbrough, Derace Mosser, Pug and Bill Conatser have given the Cadets 1,022 yards in a roughhouse running game, but the Methodists are also prepared to watch a passing game that has netted 656 yards.

Not leaning on the usual "aerial circus" that has made it famous, Southern Methodist is also inclined to run its Sophomore Preston Johnston, Fullback Wally Bearden and lanky Johnny Clement for the bulk of its gains. Statistics show the Methodists have plowed for 841 yards on runs—only 336 passes.

But the Methodists still pay off on passes. It's still their touchdown formula.

One of the duels close students of football are waiting for in the match: between Jim Thomason, the hulking Aggie blocking back, and Will Mullenweg, often described as the Methodists' most valuable player. Both play the hard, unglamorous role of blocker. Thomason could easily be called the secret of the Aggies' success; Mullenweg the same for S.M.U.

After S.M.U. the Aggies must face Rice Institute and Texas, with its Cowboy Jack Crain. The season isn't over, even if they shove the Methodists, but, on the basis of play to date, they figure it's the turning point.

Shelocked by the Methodists last week, Texas moves into Waco to meet Baylor's bears, on the way back up after massacring Texas Christian, 27-0, last week. Crain sprained his wrist in the S. M. U. game—but he still runs with his legs.

Two floundering giants who were picked to finish 1-2 at start of the conference, Rice and Arkansas, meet at Houston. Both are looking for victory in a disastrous season. It's a draw.

The third downtrodden team, Texas Christian, winner of only one game in six starts, should pick up another against Tulsa in a Fort Worth game.

Thanksgiving Party Given By Baptist T. E. L. Class

For the November business meeting and the Thanksgiving social, the T. E. L. Class of the First Baptist church met Thursday afternoon in the church parlor. Mrs. J. E. Greene, class president, presided during the business session.

The devotion was given by Mrs. R. C. Hargrove and Mrs. L. A. Souder. Reports of the various committees were heard. The committee in charge of purchasing a pulpit Bible reported that the Bible had been received and presented to the church.

Members reported how the money was earned for the Bible. Plans were made for holding the December meeting on the first Thursday instead of the second and meeting in the evening in place of afternoon. Husbands are to be guests and an old fashioned Christmas party is to be staged.

The social chairman, Mrs. J. P. Dodge, was in charge of the Thanksgiving Can party which followed the business. Cans were donated for a basket which is to be given to a needy family. "Let We Forget" was sung by the group.

Mrs. K. S. Beckett gave a talk on the meaning of Thanksgiving Day in the United States and of its perpetuation as a national Harvest Festival.

She pointed out that since 1863 the presidents have always issued proclamations appointing the last Thursday in November as Thanksgiving Day.

Mrs. Dodge conducted contests carrying out the "can" idea and canned peaches, whip cream, coffee, and cake were served. Can donations are still being accepted at the church.

Present were Mrs. C. E. Lancaster, Mrs. E. E. Bryant, Mrs. Nat Shick, Mrs. J. R. Copeland, Mrs. Bennett Story, Mrs. C. C. Mason, Mrs. H. H. Squires, Mrs. Earl Lassiter, Mrs. Greene, Mrs. Beckett, Mrs. Souder, Mrs. E. R. Stephens, Mrs. Arthur Driskill, Mrs. L. Grau, the hostesses, Mrs. Hargrove and Mrs. Dodge, and Marjorie Lancaster.

Seems like I'm still stuffed with a Thanksgiving turkey dinner when someone nudges me and says "Merry Christmas." Pushing Turkey day up a week won't make a bit of difference; it is Christmas that comes too soon.

When the 25th of December arrives, my feet are worn to nubbins, my voice, from haggling with the clerks, will be a whisper, and nerves jangling.

Sometimes during the day I will rise up and smite the table and declare in a decided manner, "Next time I'll do my shopping early," but folks will just laugh and say it with me because it has been the same old cry every year—and I never seem to follow through.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Berry and children plan to accompany Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Hayward to San Angelo Saturday for the Steer-San Angelo football game.

A TRIBUTE TO THEIR COURAGE

Skepticism is abroad in this modern world... Idealism has become the object of much ridicule. So as our tribute for Armistice Day, we're not going into the question of motives—of ideals—of right or wrong—we're simply going to pay tribute to the men that did their duty. The tribute is deserving—great deeds were performed, deeds that required courage and fortitude and a dogged stick-to-itiveness. The men who made those efforts cannot be praised too highly—the magnitude of their accomplishments is difficult to realize, but certainly, they were tremendous. Our hats off to the men who saw their duty and did it—regardless of the personal sacrifices it entailed!

Continue The Dies Committee

Not all the evidence before the Dies committee since it resumed its hearings has merited serious attention, and many of the comments on it of the committee's members, including its chairman, have added to the superfluity, but the net product has been extremely valuable.

For this reason, among others, we thoroughly agree with Chairman Dies that it should be continued. The other reasons, however, are the more important.

We are aware of the danger of a witch-hunt and would strongly urge the Dies committee, in applying to congress for a new lease of life, to pledge itself to greater precautions against "screw-ball" testimony.

Man About Manhattan

NEW YORK—If Harlem seems a bit condescending these November days it is because Manhattan, and the rest of the country, is gazing with puckered brows at a set of lyrics that are "plainer than English" to anybody who lives up above the Big Back Line, or plays the numbers racket.

There is a song called "Vol Vistu Gaily Star" in which such words as "Manya Si" and "Laam Baylo" appear. It doesn't make sense anywhere except above 125th street, where Bill Robinson is mayor and the name of Joe Louis is a hall howny.

But one rainy Saturday night this tune bobbed up on the Hit Parade, and after that people were mumbling Vol Vistu Gaily Star—Manya Si—Laam Baylo... What does that mean... What nonsense is this that has come along in another unintelligible screw-ball tune.

Well, the answer is this. It's a Harlem. It's a sort of black catvoodoo prayer murmured by prayer gamblers as they hazard their coin on the numbers racket. The words "Laam Baylo" form the name of the Voodoo god of chance. And the number is really "The Song of the Lucky Charm."

Gamblers in Harlem mumble this song, meaning, "This is my lucky star," every time they choose a number. It's been old "live" stuff up there for years. It's everyday talk. In a sense, it's folklore, which a shrewd individual whose name is Slim Galliard has pressed between 32 bars of music, and capitalized on.

Slam, just to set the mood for you, was one of the co-writers of that other seren little lullaby, "Flat Foot Floogie." When he wrote this, he was merely justifying his existence as a song-writer... But with "Vol Vistu Gaily Star" he becomes something of a historian of Harlem.

Here is a good way to stamp yourself as an ignoramus: just do as I do. There's quite a good music shop in our building, and I sneak off down there every day or so and while away time with the newer records. It's mighty nice to sit in a quiet booth, away from the world, and let the music take the kink out of your nerves.

And so on the day it came out I was down there playing Tommy Dorsey's new release of "Indian Summer," which Jack Leonard sings and which is a honey. It sort of fascinates me. It kept running through my mind, and after wearing the record this I thought I'd gather some interesting information for this column about the men, or man, who wrote it.

The Creeping Man

by Frances Shelley Wees

Chapter 28 GARDEN PARTY It was Saturday afternoon before the Sunday of Tuck's garden party. Michael sat on the edge of his father's desk, swinging his legs, and looking gloomily over the drab city roof visible through the open window.

to untie the parcel. I don't think our friend intended to take the parcel from the cart no. But he'd scarcely dare stand there too long, even in the covered area where the cart was. I think he barely got his hands on it when he heard something—footsteps probably, and he steps into a convenient doorway. The footsteps turn out to be the butcher boy's, who thereupon drives off.

Michael had been talking. He went on with his story. "So I tried to figure it out," he said. "It seemed to me that there must be some reason why it should be the meat that he... to use Gordon's term... chose to poison."

"Who was around that door between half past five and six?" Michael looked down at his foot. "Well," he said slowly, "Katie didn't see everyone perhaps. But she saw Duncan Murchison, coming across the campus. He probably entered the back door, and went up to his room. That was just as the boy's cart stood in the seaway."

"You're moving immediately?" "No. We're not moving." "You've got to, lad."

"The heavy lids fluttered for the merest instant, and the eyes turned toward Tuck. "My niece?" Devotee broke in. "It was the sundial she spoke of, mother," he said with a swift glance that Tuck caught.

"Always thinking of yourself, aren't you?" Michael said reproachfully. The District Attorney glared. Michael lit a cigarette.

Whether the Devoes and Mrs. Murchison would accept Tuck's invitation had been rather a matter of speculation. It seemed scarcely possible that they would attend. Jared Devotee's elaborately constructed alibi for them, and considering the fact that Tuck was violating one of society's rules in inviting them when they had not called upon her. But in spite of everything, they came, at four o'clock—almost too promptly, Tuck thought.

"Well, you see, it's this way. The butcher boy came without the meat. He left the shop with it—he was sure. Anyway, I phoned the butcher, and asked, 'So we came to the conclusion that the meat was intercepted on the way. Why the meat? Because, my well beloved father, the groceries and all the rest of the supplies come from the city, direct to our door; while the butcher is on this side of town, and invariably sends the meat supply to the University first. The boy stops his cart there at the back door of the residences, and carries in armloads of supplies. And, while he is carrying in armloads of supplies, the meat for the horses goes... where? It should be reposing peacefully in the cart, waiting to be taken for a further ride.'"

Sunday dawned bright and clear and warm, a perfect day for a tea party in the garden. Tuck had the wicker tea table set out of the sun on the east side of the house, facing Miss Lacey's. Whether the Devoes and Mrs. Murchison would accept Tuck's invitation had been rather a matter of speculation. It seemed scarcely possible that they would attend. Jared Devotee's elaborately constructed alibi for them, and considering the fact that Tuck was violating one of society's rules in inviting them when they had not called upon her. But in spite of everything, they came, at four o'clock—almost too promptly, Tuck thought.

Washington Daybook

WASHINGTON—From what battlefield will come America's next unknown soldier? And how soon? Will he die abroad in one more effort to "end all wars" or will he die "somewhere in America" to keep an alien power from setting aggressive foothold in this hemisphere?

MORE THAN ONE In the vicinity of Washington are the tombs of one or more unknown soldiers of each of America's major wars. In Alexandria, Virginia, just across the Potomac from Washington and only a mile or two from Arlington, is buried an unknown soldier of the American revolution. His shrine, in the "old Presbyterian church" is remembered by historians and many patriots but often forgotten by the public.

Not far from the tomb of the unknown soldier of the World War, in Arlington, lie the tangled remains of 68 unknown soldiers, Union and Confederate, taken from a mass grave at Gettysburg. The latest of America's unknown, who died on one of four great battlefields in France in which American troops had a decisive part, was buried only 18 years ago—just long enough for a baby to have become a soldier ready for another war—if one must come. He is enshrined in the most impressive of all the monuments to America's unknown soldier dead.

PEACE DEDICATION Never was a nation more solemnly committed to peace than America on that Nov. 11, 1921, when we laid away in fresh-hewn granite the body of a lad who had died unknown in a blood-reddened struggle to bring harmony to an angry world.

Where he came from, whether he was blond or black-haired, rich or humble, was unknown. He was one of the 1600 or more American World War soldiers who now share that impressive epitaph at Arlington: "Known but to God."

FOUR CASKETS The four soldiers, each "dead of a gunshot wound in the body," were aligned in four caskets in a little French hotel at Chalons-sur-Marne. Into the room where they were sent Sergeant Edward F. Younger, of Chicago, who for his outstanding service had been selected to designate which of the four would be brought to Washington for solemn entombment.

A French military band played outside as he circled three times about the caskets, placed a wreath on the third from the left, saluted and withdrew. Assembled military commanders in turn saluted. The other three bodies were removed to lie forever unknown in France. That was on Oct. 24, 1921.

Brought home on Admiral Dewey's old flagship, the cruiser "Olympia," the unknown arrived at the Washington navy yard November 9. Two days later he was laid away in Arlington and all records of the event were lodged in a war department file upon which some unremembered clerk scribbled: "Do not mutilate this file. It is sacred."

And the day after the unknown, his casket piled with medals, was so prayerfully buried, representatives of the United States sat around a table in Washington with delegates from other nations to plead for a laying down of arms. All laid down a few, but warily kept enough to make certain they would not be beaten in the next war.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

"The Cat and the Canary." Screenplay by Walter DeLeon and Lynn Starling. Directed by Elliott Nugent. Cast: Bob Hope, Paulette Goddard, John Beal, Douglas Montgomery, Gale Sondergaard, Elizabeth Patterson, Nydia Westman, George Zucco, John Wray, George Regas.

HOLLYWOOD—"The Cat and the Canary" is today's proof that what's done in the movies is not so important as how it's done. This particular murder mystery has been done and done again on stage and screen, and here it is—bright and fresh and chilling, in 1939 dress and all a-sparkle once more with entertainment values.

There's an eerie, lonely house out in the swamps—remember?—and the relatives are assembled to hear the reading of a will which develops into two last testaments. If the first beneficiary can stand the gaff for a time, well and good, if anything happens to her (Goddard) then the second will is to be read—and plenty begins happening almost immediately.

All the trappings of the familiar school—the sliding panels, the clutching hands, the screams in the dark—are utilized with amply thrilling effect, but Bob Hope and his laugh-lines are the factors mainly lifting the piece above the average of its type. Hope has never been so effective in a picture, nor had a picture affording better opportunities. And if the Goddard girl goes on like this, there'll be two stars in the new Chaplin picture—and Charlie will be only one of them.

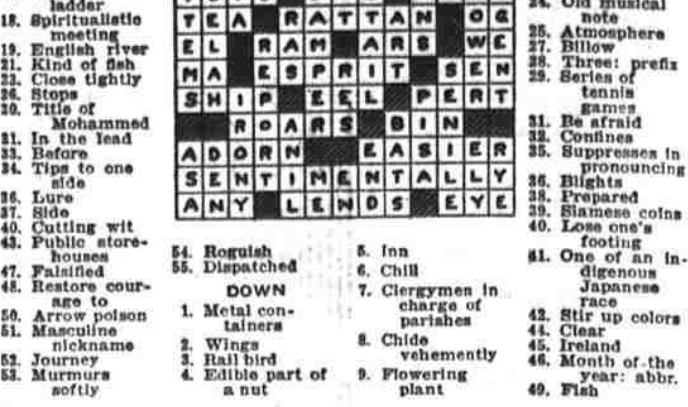

Allegheny Uprising." Screenplay by P. J. Wolfson from the story, "The First Rebel," by Nell H. Swanson. Directed by William A. Seiter. Cast: Claire Trevor, John Wayne, George Sanders, Brian Donlevy, Wilfrid Lawson, Robert Barrat, John F. Hamilton, Moroni Olsen, Eddie Quillan, Chill Wills, Ian Wolfe, Wallis Clark, Monte Montague, Olaf Hyten, Eddy Waller, Clay Clement.

Claire Trevor and John Wayne were teamed, with success, in the highly successful "Stagecoach." The present film, their reunion in romantic harness, is unfortunately not another "Stagecoach." It has a great deal more "action"—and much less suspense. The setting is Pennsylvania, in pre-Revolutionary days. Wayne is the young leader of a band of intrepid colonists who, though loyal to the English crown, resent unrestricted trading with the unruly Indians.

When the trading goes on (that villain Donlevy is here again!) apparently under English military protection, the colonists risk the charge of treason to stop it. They attack the military trains, in which the racketeers are disguising their real pursuits, and eventually they attack, and take, the fort in which the military commander (Sanders) is standing martinet-like on his authority. There's hell to pay then. Before justice's eventual triumph, practically everybody in the cast has had a chance to ride, like Paul Revere in a later time, to spread an alarm of one sort or another. For so much and such continual action, it is lamentable and surprising that so little genuine interest is aroused by the proceedings. Miss Trevor's peppy heroine has a struggle to stay in the story, leading one to the conclusion that she never belonged there in the first place.

HEARING SET MONDAY FOR SUSPENDED POLICE CHIEF

GALVESTON, Nov. 10 (AP)—Hearing for Floyd Goodrich, suspended chief of police and former United States customs patrol officer, on charges of inefficiency and misconduct in office filed against him by George H. Gymer, police and fire commission, has been reset for Monday, Nov. 13, by the board of city commissioners. Goodrich, in a formal petition, asked that the hearing be delayed to Nov. 20 because the attorney he retained to represent him prior to the filing of the charges recently underwent an operation for appendicitis and would not be able to represent him before that time. The charge was the outgrowth of a prolonged controversy between members of the commission and the police chief.

1918 - Twenty-one Years - 1939

PEACE COMES OF AGE

Just old enough to be drafted!

Not a pleasant thought, is it? This thing that we fought to get—this Peace—is growing up. Today, It is twenty-one years old. Not old enough to have acquired wisdom, to be sure, but — certainly—old enough to begin to have a mind of Its own.

Peace, you see, is a very real thing. And—thank Heaven—It lives at our house. It sits down at the table with us and It sleeps with us at night. And when we lay our paper down or turn off our radio, we constantly realize that it is good to know that Peace is in the room.

Life would not be the same without this silent partner to our living. We know this. We know, too, that—while It is our strongest support—Its very existence depends upon us.

Looking at Peace, as It rides with us in the car, laughs with us at our football games, plans with us for the holidays ahead, we can't help but realize that It is growing up to the dangerous age. For we knew Its father.

He came to live with us around 1900, at the end of the Spanish-American War, and the world of our living was blessed by His presence; but He was barely eighteen before we allowed the World to occupy us so much with its bickerings that we had no time for Him and He left us to suffer for our sin.

Will we make this same mistake again? Will we drive this new, young Peace out of our house? Or will we realize that throughout each and all of the twenty-one years we have enjoyed the presence of Peace, we have also been striving to bring It to full-fledged manhood with a future before It and the strength to carry on . . . and that now is when It needs us most?

If we, as the greatest united family of free people in the entire world, permit "the will to war" to enter into our minds, Peace will find life with us unbearable and leave us to our fate. For Peace is a positive thing. It cannot bear with weakness and middle-of-the-road indecision. If we say with our mouths that we will not fight, yet harbor in our breasts a conviction, born of timidity and fraught with futility, that we must inevitably fight, we will have broken faith with Peace. And when Peace forsakes us, we will no longer be the proud possessors of that courage which is greater than the courage to fight. We will be destroyed in a maelstrom of self-deception, dying and suffering to regain that which we need never have lost.

Peace is a harried child. Perhaps that is why we love It. For our household is composed of the persecuted from all the lands of the earth and we know that Peace is one of us. It is our son. Upon It we may freely lavish our love.

As It reaches Its twenty-first birthday, this Armistice Day, let us resolve to turn our backs upon that which is foreign to Peace and to us and set about the most monumental and glorious task ever undertaken in the history of humanity . . . the task of keeping and protecting Peace long enough—for once in the history of Man—to give It a chance to demonstrate to all humanity what Peace can do for the world.

IN SUNDAY FILM

James Stewart and Jean Arthur are co-starred in one of the season's most highly publicized films, "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington," a production directed by famed Frank Capra and dealing with the adventures of a homespun youth thrown suddenly into the political maneuverings of the United States senate. Men And Women Are Found Guilty In 'Wife Swapping'

RUSSELLVILLE, Ala., Nov. 10 (AP)—Two men and a woman planned appeals today from convictions of bigamy in a rural wife-swapping case in which the women were traded temporarily before divorces were obtained.

A jury yesterday convicted Will D. Johnson, 36; Odell Brand, 32, and Della Brand, 29. Annie Fay Johnson, 29, pleaded guilty as the trial opened and testified for the state.

Bigamy was committed, the state contended, when the four exchanged mates and re-married a few hours after the women received divorce decrees prohibiting re-marriage within 60 days.

J. Foy Gwin, defense counsel, said he would file an appeal with the state court of appeals at Montgomery. The defendants will be sentenced today. Gwin said and released as soon as appeal bonds are made.

The Golden Text is: "Henceforth know we no man after the flesh" (II Corinthians 5:16).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "As is the earth, and so is the heavenly, such are they also that are earthly. And as we have borne the image of the earth, we shall also bear the image of the heavenly" (I Corinthians 15:48,49).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The sinless joy—the perfect harmony and immortality of life, possessing unlimited divine beauty and goodness without a single bodily pleasure or pain—constitutes the only veritable, indestructible man, whose being is spiritual" (page 76).

Jimmy Greene served as pin-hitter for George White in presiding over the Forsan good will dinner staged in the Forsan school gymnasium Thursday—an affair for which 162 registered.

With Shine Phillips serving as master of ceremonies, the program included the part of a Big Spring quartet composed of Harshel Sumner, Roy Cornelison, Dan Hudson and Phillips, who offered "The Eyes of Texas," a duet of Mr. and Mrs. Summerlin, accompanied by Mrs. G. Home McCarthy gave the welcoming address on the part of the Forsan "guests" while impromptu talks were contributed by Rev. G. C. Schurman, Judge Cecil Collings and Martelle McDonald, all of Big Spring, and by Dan Yarbro and R. M. Brown of Dan.

RIOTING IN WAKE OF COMMUNIST MEETING
DETROIT, Nov. 10 (AP)—A score of persons nursed bruises today as a result of a riot that followed a communist party rally last night. Three persons were injured seriously and six were arrested.

Police said the fighting started when members of war veterans and patriotic organizations massed outside a hall and charged the communists and sympathizers as they left the building. Fighting spread up and down the street as battling groups detached themselves from the throng.

The group outside the hall began massing while those who attended the meeting heard William Z. Foster, chairman of the communist party in America, speak in observance of the 21st anniversary of the Soviet regime in Russia.

Start A Probe Of Turkey Markets
AUSTIN, Nov. 10 (AP)—Inspectors of the state department of agriculture and investigators from the attorney general's office today began an investigation of turkey prices on Texas markets.

The study was ordered by Attorney General Gerald C. Mann after a conference with J. E. McDonald, agriculture commissioner, because producers had complained that uniform prices offered at various markets indicated possible price fixing among buyers.

Mann added he would study general conditions in connection with buying, selling and shipping for the next several weeks. For that reason, he said, the investigation probably would not affect the price of turkeys this year.

The investigation, he explained, was one in a series dealing with various industries.

"In the event that evidence points to price fixing or other violations of the state laws steps naturally will be taken against the offenders," he concluded.

MINER BURIED UNDER ROOF COLLAPSE AS WIFE LOOKS ON
RAWLINS, Wyo., Nov. 10 (AP)—A miner's wife who was standing only 12 feet from her husband when a mine roof collapsed over him and four other men was under treatment today for near hysteria.

Mrs. Viola Stackhouse, 35, had walked 130 feet into the mine and was standing at the edge of a large chamber in which the men were working when the roof of the chamber gave way last night.

Lee Stackhouse, her husband, his three employees, Raymond Potter, Bill Haywood and Wesley Messing, and Sammy Valdez, a Rawlins bar employee, were buried beneath tons of coal.

Blinded by the coal dust, Mrs. Stackhouse groped her way to the shaft entrance and drove 29 miles to Rawlins.

"The roof of the mine caved in five men are in there," she told Sheriff Glen Penland.

Although near collapse, Mrs. Stackhouse went back to the mine and aided rescuers by telling them the position of the men when the caving occurred.

In 150 years the center of population of the United States has shifted westward from Maryland to Indiana.

Texas Needing Millions For Road Program

FORT WORTH, Nov. 10 (AP)—Brady Gentry, chairman of the state highway commission, says that $480,000,000 would be needed to build hard-surfaced roads along routes already designated, improve inferior roads and replace obsolete surfaces, adding that the program will have to be abandoned unless new funds are found.

Gentry, speaking here yesterday at the annual convention of the County Judges and Commissioners Association of Texas, said the present method of financing highway construction would not yield enough revenue for the program set up when previous commissions designated routes.

He pointed out that an additional two cents on the gasoline tax would enable the department to give the state an up-to-date system of highways within 10 years.

The convention entered its second day with San Antonio, Beaumont, Mineral Wells, Temple and Waco seeking the 1940 meeting. The selection will be made tomorrow.

A round table discussion of the road bond assumption bill and addresses by State Comptroller George Sheppard, State Treasurer Charlie Lockhart, State Superintendent of Public Instruction L. A. Woods, Attorney General Gerald Mann, State Highway Commissioner Robert Lee Bobbitt, and G. B. Giehrst, dean of engineering at Texas A. and M. college, were on today's program.

a hard fought decision to Midland, 13-21.

Last year's edition of the black and gold twice tasted the resin in its collisions with the Cats, losing 14-12 and 13-6, but Murphy has fought his club a long way since the white Angel, if anything, is weaker. There's no Amos Gray to speak the Cat attack. When Taylor lost Gray through graduation he lost a back that to date hasn't been replaced. True, he has J. W. Stewart and Len Cortez to carry on but Stewart and Cortez had to take their lumps with the others last week and didn't exactly look like Grade A students in doing it.

Good Attack

Taylor has developed good overhead game. Stewart usually tosses that pig pelt in a groove. His favorite catcher is Pete Ewald, a welterweight back who doesn't always catch the heaves.

What running game the Angelenos have is constructed around Stewart and Cortez. Stewart is a nifty but Cortez apparently isn't as good as he was a year ago when he ran the Steer forwards daffy.

Against all that, the Bovines will roll out a well oiled attack with Lefty Bethell, Johnny Miller and D. R. Gartman, as usual, doing the ball toting and Bobby Martin firing away in the ozone game.

The Herd is in great shape. Last week's rest enabled the cripples to catch up with the remainder of the squad. Bethell is still handicapped by a bad ankle but may be the difference in the two clubs.

A crowd of about 5,000, a goodly portion of that number from Big Spring, is expected to sit in. The tussle will get underway at 2 o'clock.

STERLING AND W'VALLEY TO PLAY TODAY
WATER VALLEY, Nov. 10—The Water Valley Wildcats meet the Sterling City Eagles in a six-man football game here today.

This is the Wildcats' last home game of the season and they are pointing toward a win after having dropped six straight games in their first year of play.

Nitrogen Process, Once Held Solely By Germany, Now Belongs To World

(This is the second of two articles comparing the world's dependence on Germany for many scientific discoveries before the World War with the situation today.)

By ALBERT W. WILSON
NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (AP)—Among the scientific secrets which gave Germany domination over many phases of life 25 years ago was one that went beyond even the wildest dreams of political isolationists in making today's nations self-sufficient.

It was the process of taking nitrogen from the air, invented by Fritz Haber and used commercially by Germany for the first time in 1913.

Nitrogen products are used in making explosives and among persons who contend that Germany precipitated the World War are some scientists who believe the Germans delayed the conflict until the Haber process was perfected.

But today the Haber process is everyone's property and the agricultural consumption of nitro-

And in his latest starring vehicle, "The Creeping Man," he wins new laurels as a lawyer-philosopher who preserves peace in a thriving American community. relief Miss Lissey, smart in a flowery chiffon, coming hastily down the outer path. Tuck almost liked Alix Lissey at the moment. Certainly, she told herself, there would be no more of these awkward pauses in the conversation than she remembered what Dr. McBaln had told Michael about the Devere-Lissey contretemps, and groaned inwardly. That would probably stop even Alix Lissey's agile tongue. But other than a slight raising of her chin Miss Lissey showed in no way her disagreement at Devoe, and Devoe was very polite, if a trifle distant, with Miss Lissey, — so affairs moved rather more smoothly than might have been expected.

But the afternoon was fated not to go smoothly; not with the ease and lack of restraint that had characterized Mrs. Deane's party. It Tuck decided mentally that it was no use to keep to harmless subjects. With an air of utter innocence she introduced one, that might have a ring... of which she, of course, couldn't be expected to know. The servant problem.

Decision Week Is Successful

The chamber of commerce Friday counted its first "Decision Week" a success with more than 200 persons submitting suggestions for a program of work for 1940.

A survey of the ideas submitted showed them to be as varied as they were numerous. Few among them contained exhaustive suggestions for a program of work and others cited one dominant idea. A form letter circulated by a service club had several returns expressing sympathy for an enlarged paving program.

After Friday afternoon the week in which members and other people were to offer suggestions for a plan of community betterment next year will have been past. But the chamber already had enough response to make the week one of the most successful conducted by any organization in the state.

MARKETS Wall Street

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (AP)—Feeble rallying sorties in today's stock market failed to carry far and leaders backed away fractions to around 2 points at the worst.

Dealings slackened after a moderately fast opening and extreme losses were reduced before noon. There was a subsequent slip-up without much activity and, near the fourth hour, many issues were within reaching distance of the day's lows.

Some selling was attributed to fears the recently static European war is about to assume a "destructive" phase.

The speech of Federal Reserve Chairman Eccles on taxes was said to have provided new worries for some financial quarters. An incentive to lightening commitments also was seen in the fact the exchange will be closed tomorrow for Armistice Day.

Bonds edged downward and commodities were fixed. Foreign markets dipped as war tension heightened.

Among losers were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Douglas Aircraft, Du Pont, U. S. Gypsum, Anaconda, U. S. Rubber. Posting minor gains at one time were General Motors, Sears Roebuck, Electric Boat, Youngstown Sheet and White Sewing Machine.

Hospital Work Is Just One Part Of The Red Cross's Huge Job

THE AMERICAN RED CROSS, its responsibilities increased by the European war, is driving to increase its present membership of 5,668,680. Red Cross activities, some of them shown here, are surprisingly varied. For example (right) the organization is the largest non-commercial translator of literature into Braille for the blind.

THERE ARE 44,479 nurses ready for emergency service in the Red Cross—a larger nursing reserve than it ever had before. Approximately 20,000 Red Cross nurses saw service in the World War. Nurses are busy even when there is no emergency. New York women (below) now are working on Christmas gifts for disabled veterans and their children.

VOLUNTEER drivers (above), working two days or more each week, supply transportation to all departments of the Red Cross, and also aid in transporting cripples to clinics for treatment. During the past year the Red Cross gave aid in 157 domestic disasters. This involved sending 356 nurses to scenes of trouble in 15 states.

GRAY LADIES (left) from the Red Cross distribute magazines, stationery, and good cheer to hospitalized men of the army and navy. The Red Cross War Service is an official adjunct of the regular military forces. The Red Cross last year helped 150,605 disabled veterans and 10,653 active service men in solving social-economic problems.

LOCAL LIONS ATTEND COLORADO CITY MEET

Six members of the local Lions club participated in the quarterly zone meeting Thursday evening at Colorado City.

Approximately 125 Lions attended from Big Spring, Midland, Colorado City, Snyder, and Hamlin. Snyder was chosen for the next meeting place.

Members of the local club who accompanied Zone Chairman B. J. McDaniel to the meeting were Dr. J. E. Hogan, club president, Dan Conley, secretary, Virgil Smith, Elton Taylor, and Lawrence Robinson.

"not stand Adolf Hitler," and rebuked him thus:

"We will take it for granted you don't like a hair on Hitler's head. But that is not the point. If it is shown that the defendant has been guilty only of un-American activities, he can walk right out of that door a free man."

District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, calling the Kuhn case "routine," turned it over to his assistants for trial. A bond newspaper earlier had contended Dewey was "persecuting Fritz Kuhn and Americans of German blood" in a bid for the republican presidential nomination.

Kuhn, who was born in Munich, is being tried on 10 counts of a 12-count indictment charging him with grand larceny, second degree forgery.

The two severed counts, on which he may be tried later, accuse him of the theft of $8,907 in bond funds. He is charged with stealing $14,000 from the organization he has dominated since 1935.

servation laws did not "assure the prevention of waste."

He added:

"I favor strongly the continuance of oil and gas conservation laws in the states which have enacted them and their adoption by the states which do not have them. It would be a serious mistake even to suggest that they be set aside, with the complete loss of all which has been accomplished during the past few years."

The proposed federal measure, Ickes said, is intended solely to cooperate with the states in preventing its waste.

"The bill is designed to encourage and assist the states in the prevention of waste, not to restrict or limit their action in this accomplishment," he said. "The regulatory provisions of the bill would apply only where investigation reveals as a fact that there was waste, as defined in the bill. The bill would apply to all oil fields in the United States, and, in my opinion, the need for its enactment would be no less urgent than it is now if all of the states, which do not have oil and gas conservation laws, should enact them."

He said that the measure would not authorize the federal government to limit, on the basis of demand, the oil production of the United States, or of any state, field or well.

breakfast, lunch and dinner—that can be served to represent a saving over the ordinary day's menu. We want the women of Big Spring to be personal members of the Red Cross, along with their husbands. A membership is only a dollar. We believe this amount could be saved by special attention to just one day's saving on menus; and we are hoping that many homes will thus observe a "Red Cross Day."

Mrs. Lawrence and J. H. Greene, Roll Call chairman, reported that drive results are slackening, and they renewed an appeal for prompt response to workers' solicitations. "We have more than 100 people who have graciously given their time and effort," the leaders said. "We can't keep these people working too long. We are urging every citizen of Big Spring to respond promptly."

Roll Call headquarters will be closed Saturday, Armistice Day, and workers are requested to make their weekend reports on Monday. It is hoped to conclude the drive early next week.

WATER POLLUTION CASES TO BE FILED

AUSTIN, Nov. 10 (AP)—Attorney General Gerald C. Mann announced today he would file in a Dallas district court a suit against 49 East Texas oil companies and operators aimed at halting alleged pollution of Neches river system streams by oil production salt water.

Asserting the suit would be filed some time today, Mann declared it would be based on information and evidence furnished by the state game, fish and oyster commission and the state board of health.

The attorney general said the defendants owned and operated oil wells on lands in the water-producing area on the western edge of the southern portion of the huge East Texas field and were producing oil and large quantities of salt water.

BIG PLANE ORDER IS NEGOTIATED

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (AP)—A single order for about 800 speedy training planes was being negotiated today by Great Britain and North American Aviation Corporation of Inglewood, Calif.

It was understood the company, which received an order for 400 of the same type before the war started, intends to double its plant capacity.

Either Britain or France, or both, also are considering buying a considerable number of 4-motor, old bombers, of exceptional range and striking power, from the Boeing Airplane Co. of Seattle.

Buses have been requisitioned and many trains taken out of service, apparently to be prepared to remove the population to areas west of the flood defenses.

The flooding process, which will require some time, is an unusual defensive measure to cut off Amsterdam, Rotterdam, The Hague and other industrial areas from the east.

Although official explanations were lacking, the moves by Belgium and The Netherlands were interpreted as preparation for any eventualities in the European war.

Guggenheim Heir Takes Own Life

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (AP)—Police listed today as suicide the death of George Denver Guggenheim, 32-year-old heir to mining millions, found lying in a hotel room last night shot through the head with a big-game rifle.

Guggenheim, director of the American Smelting and Refining company, was the only remaining son of Simon Guggenheim, philanthropist and former United States senator from Colorado.

A servant said the father, president of the smelting company on which the Guggenheim fortune was built, and his wife, mother of the dead man, had been ill for some time.

day the prospects of working out with the maritime commission a project to give training under commissioned officers to officers and seamen thrown out of work. They would be paid by the government during such training.

The president emphasized that both ships and men in north Atlantic trade were being laid up as a result of an act of congress. The seamen would be on the beach, he said, whether American ships were transferred to foreign registry or taken off routes to the war zone as a result of the neutrality act.

There is no question as to the legality of transferring ships, he continued, but the administration is working on other methods which would guarantee, in case of transfers, full retention of title in the owning company.

Replying to a question, he said the transfer to Panamanian registry of 15 Standard Oil tankers had not set a precedent and was perfectly legal. Replying to critics of proposed transfers, the president pointed out he was more or less bound by law and it was one of those anomalies that some supporters of the neutrality act were very ones challenging the step.

To suggestions that the American ships taken out of north Atlantic commerce be put on South American and other routes, Mr. Roosevelt said that was a beautiful thought but unfortunately there was a shortage of goods and passengers for such trade.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Hamilton left today for Sweetwater to visit her parents over the weekend.

Marland Would Donate Mansion As 'Home' For Retired Oil Men

PONCA CITY, Okla., Nov. 10 (AP)—The sumptuous $1,800,000 mansion former Gov. E. W. Marland built as he prospered in oil may become the center of a $10,000,000 "colony" for retired oil men.

Marland, president of the Marland Oil Co., of Oklahoma, offered to donate the great native stone house and its 36-acre plot as a home for aged oil operators and workers.

A board of governors is being formed with Marland as chairman. The proposal was to use the mansion as the nucleus of a $10,000,000 project. Paul S. Hedrick, Tulsa World oil editor, said:

The program, contemplating additional buildings, also involved the rest of the 640-acre estate except for land Marland gave the state in a park surrounding the statue "The Pioneer Woman."

Marland's offer was made to Earl Sneed, Tulsa attorney, and Hedrick. They and Leslie J. Brooks of the International Petroleum exposition had advocated a home for oil men.

Sneed and Marland's attorneys plan a self-governing, self-supporting institution. Funds to maintain the home would be raised through development of the adjacent lands.

Construction by oil companies of dormitories for their retired men was proposed. The "colony" also would be available to retired men of some means who were without families and wished to spend their last years among those of their own circle.

Marland, saying he and Mrs. Marland would be "most happy to give our home to the oil men for a home," recalled:

"Oil men helped me to attain prominence and success in Pennsylvania and in Oklahoma, and they also fostered my efforts to serve my state in congress and in the governor's chair. Now I can help to make the last days of many of them comfortable."

Mrs. Charles Koberg was to leave early Saturday for Waco to attend the Texas-Baylor football game and visit with her daughter, Camille Koberg, who is a student at Texas university.
