'Kid Millions,' With Eddie Cantor At Ritz Sunday, Monday

Cantor Prances Among Pyramids

"Kid Millions," Eddie Cantor's annual screen musical extravaganza for Samuel Goldwyn, brings the peppy comedian to the screen of the Ritz theatre Sunday and Monday, as a boy Cinderella of the Brooklyn waterfront who becomes the heir to a fortune in buried treasure in the land of the Pyramids.

Ann Sothern, Ethel Merman, Block and Sully, George Murphy and this season's crop of Goldwyn Girls prance along the Nile with Eddie in this fast-paced fun-packed tale of adventure in the harem of the Sheik and the tombs of his fathers.

The story and dialogue were written by Arthur Sheekman, Nat Perrin and Nunnally Johnson, while Walter Donaldson and Gus Kahn, Burton Lane and Harold Adamson contributed the tuneful song numbers. "Mandy," the Irving Berlin hit which Eddie Cantor originally introduced in the Ziegfeld Follies of 1919, is revived in one of the elaborate song and girl numbers staged aboard the liner en route to Egypt. Roy Del Ruth directed the film, and the dances and ensembles were under the direction of Seymour Felix.

The elaborate "ice cream factory" scene is a poor boy's dream come true in which Eddie, the millionaire, opens a free ice cream factory for boys and girls, is filmed entirely in Technicolor under the direction of Willy Fogarty and photographed by Ray Rennahan. "Kid Millions" is released through United Artists.

Love Same Girl

The central plot deals with the deadly rivalry between State College's star halfback, Jack Oakie, and Lanny Ross, which is carried over into business after these two graduate together with Joe Penner, keeper of the college mascot, Goo-Goo.

Both Oakie and Ross are suitors for Mary Brian's hand and they strive to outdo each other with schemes to promote their department store's sales. Finally the store is completely transformed by college atmosphere, with girls' music and an inter-store football team.

It is not until after the big football game between the stores that Lanny Ross discovers that he is in love with Helen Mack, and that Oakie can be happy with Mary Brian, thus settling their romantic troubles and their disputes.

Prize Chorus Routines

Four brand-new tunes by Gordon and Revere, give Lanny Ross plenty of opportunity to use his tenor voice and serve as music for the sensational All-American Coed chorus routines arranged by LeRoy Prinz.

College Officials To Sign Bond Issue

DENTON.—The $163,000 bond issue, which will be used to repay 70 per cent of the PWA loan for the construction of Marquis Hall at North Texas Teachers College, should arrive at an early date for signatures of college officials, Dr. W. J. McConnell, president, stated recently. R. A. Stuart, a new member of the Board of Regents, who was a speaker at the called assembly program Saturday, expressed the belief that the bonds would be forthcoming at an early date.

Arrival of the bonds would permit the contractors to start work on the building and would be definite step toward relieving unemployment in Denton. College officials originally hoped to have the building ready for use at the opening of the summer session; however, this is impossible since seven months will be required for construction of the building and it now appears probable that the dormitory will not be completed until mid-semester next year.

Marquis Hall, which will be constructed at a cost of $210,000 will be the first dormitory at Teachers College. It will include accommodations for 100 girls and will house a large cafeteria and club rooms.

318 DEGREES CONFERRED

DENTON.—Three thousand one hundred and eighty undergraduate degrees have been granted by North Texas State Teachers College from 1919 until 1934, inclusive, according to figures received from E. H. Farrington, director of the Placement service. Five graduated with the class of 1934 as compared with 382 in 1934.

Poetry, Drama, History Filmed For The Movies

From Shakespeare to Sinclair Lewis range the selection of the world's greatest literature and best-sellers of all time from which will be made the motion pictures shown on the screen of the Ritz Theatre for many months to come, according to J. Y. Robb, manager of that theatre.

Never, in the entire previous history of the screen have the motion picture producers of Hollywood called on such an array of genius and talent for the material with which to fashion the new seasons' photoplays.

The master novelists and story tellers of all times, because their material is so well-adapted to screen usage, form the largest body of contributors to the screen. Leading them is Charles Dickens, whose "David Copperfield" is only one of the trio of his novels which are now in the process of screening.

Best sellers of today are finding adequate representation in Sinclair Lewis who will be represented by his "Babbalanza," Stark Young, whose poignant tale of the south during the Civil war, "So Red the Rose" is being filmed by Paramount; Gilbert K. Chesterton whose "Father Brown, Detective" is currently making its debut; Booth Tarkington, Sir Bulwer-Lytton, Jack London and Hervey Allen, whose "Anthem Adversus" is to be filmed.

Poetry has not been neglected but rather accorded an eloquent tribute in the selection of three of the greatest poets of all times from whose eloquent imagery will be fashioned photoplays. They are Dante, who will be represented by the filming of his masterpiece, "Dante's Inferno"; William Shakespeare, whose lyricism comes to the screen in the Reinhardt production of "Midsummer Night's Dream," and Edgar Allan Poe who will be represented by "The Raven."

Wealth Handicaps Romance Of "Richest Girl In The World"

Great wealth as a handicap instead of an advantage in the search for love is vividly dramatized in the new screen attraction, "The Richest Girl in the World," coming to the Lyric theatre Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, with Miriam Hopkins starred and Joel McCrea as the hero.

The story is set in the heart of the South, where a young girl, who is the heiress of a vast fortune, is being courted by a young man who is poor but who has a great deal of character and is a true gentleman.

The girl's father, who is a miser, is determined to see that his daughter is married to a man who is rich and powerful. He is willing to do anything to achieve this end, and he is not above using the law to his advantage.

The young man, who is a true gentleman, is determined to win the girl's love, and he is willing to do anything to achieve this end. He is a true gentleman, and he is a true hero.

The film is a true masterpiece, and it is a true gem of the screen. It is a true masterpiece, and it is a true gem of the screen.

SCOUT NEWS

This has been a quiet week for scouting for the most part. Some troops have taken advantage of the lax period to bolster up their records on test passing.

A. C. Williamson, known as "Chief," was due here during the week but somehow failed to make it over. Word comes now that a scoutmaster's meeting has been called for Sweetwater early in March.

Not long away, scouts will have an opportunity to work up a nature trail in the scenic mountain state park. Superintendent Thompson R. Richardson says that a suitable location will be given for the trail. Scouts will collect every specimen of native plant life in this section. That will offer some splendid nature observation experience to scouting here. Harry C. Newton, park landscape architect, is a botanist in his own right, and knows the plants of this section. Lots of scouts will find out the names of plants they have long recognized but have been unable to name.

TROOP MEETINGS

test, Bob Shuls passed his tenderfoot test, Jeol Prager knife and hatchet safety and compass, Warren Woodward, Indian sign language and fire building, Clyde Walker, scout pace and thrift.

The regular meeting was held Tuesday evening at the Methodist church. The troop marches into the meeting room and set by patrols. Dues were collected. Money was also collected for the summer camp saving fund. Bank books were issued to the members to register the money they paid into the fund. Mr. Cummings, the scoutmaster, said the troop was going to make an overnight hike soon.

Each patrol had a short meeting. Wrestling is the main pastime since it has permission to use the regular wrestling mat kept at the church. Several good matches were held. Peyton Wheeler, assistant scoutmaster, dropped in for a few minutes. Mr. Wheeler has resigned since he is leaving for Pennsylvania, where he has accepted a new position. He gave a short inspirational talk to the boys. During the patrol meetings he came around and told each boy good bye. The troop regrets to lose him for he was a good assistant scoutmaster, while he was connected with the troop. Twenty-two members, Jack Cummings, and one visitor were present.—Reported by Ray Wilson.

Troop No. 4—Eleven boys and Scoutmaster D. J. Wright were present for the weekly session. Addison Cotton, who is a new boy, passed his tenderfoot test and is ready to go into scout work. The troop reorganized two patrols last Friday, Bears and Flying Eagles. The Bear patrol opened their stunt with a flag ceremony. The Flying Eagles pulled a stunt called "Way Out West." The troop played a game called "Steal the Bacon and Murphy do this." After the games the troop planned a hike out to the scout hut next Friday and then the boys were dismissed by the scoutmaster.—Reported by Frank Wentz, scribe.

Troop No. 5—In spite of the windy and dusty weather, 18 scouts, two scouters and three visitors went on a hike Friday afternoon. Soccer was the game of the afternoon and capture the flag was played after dark. The troop will hold its regular meeting Thursday in the basement of the First Baptist church.

The program follows:
Doxology.
Prayer Response, (Gracious Father).
Hymns, "Praise Him" and "The Old Rugged Cross." "Come Into My Heart Lord Jesus," sung by Anita Mary Stalcup, soprano.

The club's next appearance will be in its spring recital in May at which time it will present a rather heavy program, including works of Strauss, Beethoven and Handel, as well as some lighter things. The members sing one operatic chorus from Lucia.

In all, the club will present six programs during this school year, and if the public enjoys them half as much as the young singers who present them, their success will be assured, according to Mrs. Frazier, who directs them.

So much for the need of a revision of the school curriculum. What do educators hope to gain from the study and reorganization of the curriculum?
It will make for uniformity in the educational programs of the different schools of the state. Students transferring to other Texas schools can take up the thread of work there with little difficulty without undergoing the retardation which often is necessitated by a change of schools now.
The careful study of the curriculum by teachers, supervisors, administrators, and members of P. T. A.'s as the revision proceeds is sure to be reflected in a much better professional outlook and can be expected to increase the effectiveness of classroom teaching.
The organization set up for the study may be expected to function continuously in keeping the Texas course of study modernized.
Lastly, it will increase the worth while knowledge and wholesome interest of the people of Texas in world affairs.

The need for the revision is obvious; the aims are commendable; it is one of the many manifestations of a new vigor and vision in the leadership in education in this state.

TEXAS CONGRESSMAN EVER IN THE PICTURE
Rep. Wright Patman of the first district, the father of the soldiers' bonus proposal, is confident of victory. His latest is that more than two-thirds of the members of the house of representatives will vote for the $2,000,000,000 bonus bill, that it will not be a bond issue but legal tender non-interest bearing which will furnish the medium of distribution and vastly increase the volume of money of the people. Moreover, he predicts that the people need new money as there is a scarcity of the stuff in the pockets of millions. Rep. Martin Dies has a plan all his own. His proposal is that the federal government shall purchase the East Texas oil fields at a cost of $2,000,000,000 and store precious fluid as a stabilizer of the most important industry as well as to be used should wars come in the future. Harold L. Ickes is not a Texan. He is a citizen of Illinois. He is secretary of the interior. He is said to be closer to the president. He has gone into print and the current number of the Stat-

By SIGRID AARNE
WASHINGTON (UP)—The President's day still starts with a bang, and carries through with the verve which made news in March, 1933.

Two years in the executive office, surrounded by a whirl of new legislation, have left no mark on his health.
Actually, if there are occasional slumps in the executive office they come in the outer suites where the secretarial staff grins and remarks, "The Chief's fine, but about a little sympathy for us!"

The President's day still starts in his "Office No. 1," and progresses to his "Office No. 2."
Office No. 1 is his bedroom. At 8:30 a. m. he is having his breakfast, listening to the day's most urgent business, usually presented by a cabinet officer or an emergency administrator who has phoned for an early appointment.
The breakfast tray out of the room, and the cabinet officer goes. "Steve" and "Mac" come in. They are the President's secretaries, Stephen T. Early, and Marvin McIntyre, who bring the day's news already digested into brief form, the day's appointment schedule, and any messages to be sent "up the hill" that day.

Usually, Mrs. Roosevelt drops in to say "Good morning," and to remind the President of any special guests for lunch and dinner. Most mornings the grandchildren pop in for a three-minute romp.
Then the President goes over to his "Office No. 2" in the executive wing of the mansion. The appointments begin, most of them lasting about 15 minutes. Lunch-time arrives and the President still has it when in on a tray, sharing it with whomsoever is there.

Appointments continue until three o'clock. From three to four the mail is read and answered. If the mail is very heavy that business continues until six o'clock. Otherwise appointments start again at four.

Between six and seven the President slips away to his swimming pool for a relaxing swim before dinner. Sometimes Mrs. Roosevelt joins him.
Dinner is served at 7:30, and it often includes guests. Sometimes they are family friends, sometimes visiting celebrities who are traditionally offered the courtesies of the White House, and often they are administration leaders who stay to a business conference afterward.
Music often follows dinner, or a short moving picture shown in the mansion.
Then 8:30 to 11:30 is given over to more conferences, more reading of reports.
At 11:30 the President calls it a day, and retires to his "Office No. 1" to read some magazines, or there is an urgent report, to go over that. At midnight he switches out the reading light.
During the winter he seldom leaves the White House except for the brief drive to church on Sunday.

Monday evening Post carries a remarkable article, speaking of "oil and gas wastes in the past and the future," and what should be done for the conservation of the black gold without delay by the people and their senators and representatives. Incidentally, the secretary of the interior, who is a Hamiltonian rather than a Jeffersonian democrat, has scant respect for the rights of the state, brushes aside the state compact proposal as worthless and predicts that some day "the oil industry will become a great national public utility." This is a fast-moving age and the "old guards of the old order," are on the sidelines—in a state of petrification.

36,000 AUTOMOBILE "MURDERS"
The President of the United States, in letters to the governors of the 48 states, has urged the enactment of uniform regulation of traffic, and intensified safety educational campaigns.
There is no good argument against uniform traffic legislation and regulation in the face of the fact that the killing record of automobiles last year touched the 36,000 mark.
Think of it! Thirty-six thousand lives snuffed out by automobiles in one year. Why should there be any argument about uniform traffic laws and the need of cooperation between states to eliminate such a disgraceful record as this?
Take a specific example: Why should one city be allowed, as at present, to maintain three different types of "stop" signals at intersections, thus confusing both its own drivers and those from other states? Legislation should work on a "life saving" program, such as this to the benefit of every man, woman and child in the country.

Uncle Sam Considers "Social Security"

1. Wagner-Lewis Bill Aims To Remove Uncertainties of John Doe's Future

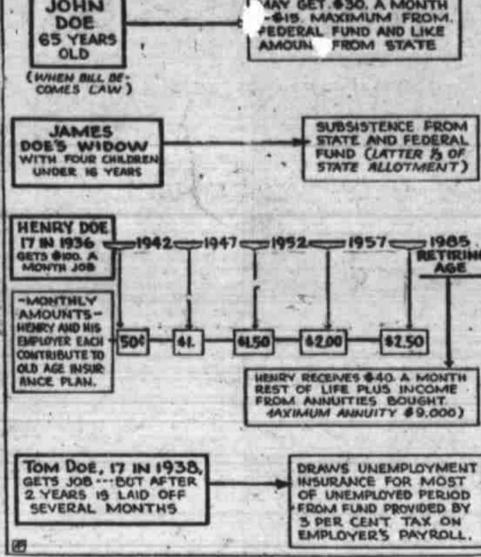

How social security legislation, such as that now before congress and a number of state legislatures, may affect the average person and what problems it creates for federal and state governments are discussed in a series of four articles, of which this is the first.

By DON JOSEPH
(Associated Press Staff Writer)
Mr. and Mrs. John Doe's outlook will be affected in a number of ways if the Wagner-Lewis social security bill, now before congress, is enacted as introduced.
Under the terms of the bill, John Doe—assuming he is 65, a citizen and in need and that his state has passed laws cooperating with the federal government—would receive a monthly pension. It might be $30 if his state had decided to match the federal government's maximum appropriation of $15.

It would be more if the state had decided to give more. And it might be less for instance, if the state gave $10, the total would be $20. So the bill calls for federal grants matching up to $15, the state's.

If he had a wife, the two could ask assistance as a couple.
Widow Helped
In making application for this assistance, John Doe would be asked "if he had resided in the state for five years or more within the 10 years previous to making the application, and if he had any independent income whatever." If he answered the first in the affirmative, and the second in the negative, John Doe would be asked to establish a just demand for his allowance.

Let us further suppose that John had a brother, James, who died, leaving a widow and four children under 15 years of age. The widow does not have sufficient money to provide for her children. If she had lived in the state one year she could request the state to provide money that would permit her children to live in a decent and healthful manner.

Although she might not question the source, she might be told that the state was providing a sum on which the federal government based a donation one third as large.
Employee Helps Pay
In 1935 Mrs. Doe's eldest son, Henry, gets a job, which, say, pays him $100 a month and continues at that level until he retires. From January 1, 1937, until January 1, 1942, he would have deducted from his salary a sum of 50 cents a month, which his employer would pay to the government, together with a like sum the employer contributed.

When 1942 rolls around he would find a payroll envelope of $90 instead of $99.50 at the end of the month. Beginning in 1947, it would be $98.50 and beginning in 1952 it would be $98. From 1957 onward it would be $97.50. Each time these sums were deducted from his payroll his employer would put with it an equal sum. Thus, after 1957 a sum of $5 would be deposited each month toward his old age benefit.

Henry started to work when he was 17. In 1955, having reached the age of 65, and having lost his job to make room for a younger man, he applied, according to his right, for his insurance. He had worked steadily for 48 years, so he would be entitled to 40 per cent of his average monthly salary, or $40 a month. This would be composed of a 15 per cent slice of his monthly salary, plus additions for the length of time he worked. The sum would be due him for the rest of his life.
During these same years he had been contributing voluntarily a small sum to the federal government, which served to purchase an old age annuity policy. Now, in 1955, he would also receive the benefit of the income from this. The Wagner-Lewis bill says the policy shall not exceed $9,000 in value.
Unemployment Insurance
Let us suppose that Mrs. Doe's son, Tom, obtained a job in 1938 but after two years was "laid off" for several months. If his state's unemployment law had been in effect a year, he would be entitled to compensation during a certain period of his unemployment.
The date that compensation started and the time he would receive it would depend upon the state law, as would also the question of whether he paid anything toward building up the unemployment reserve fund.
After 1937, however, his employer would have to pay to the federal government a sum equal to three per cent of his payroll, with an allowance up to 90 per cent for the payments required under the state law.
Next week—Unemployment Insurance Measures.

Annual Conference of the Youth here.
Few Votes Beneficial
RAN ANGELO, Tex. (UP)—District Clerk C. W. Barnett is glad that he received so few votes when he was elected to office. If he had received 3,000 votes, his office would have been placed in a new fee bracket. In that case he would have received $3 less for each case tried in two district courts.

HUEY WANTS 'BIG JIM'S' SCALP

National political waters again have been churned to a froth by Senator Huey Long, who apparently hopes to bait the next hook in his fishing for political fame with the head of some high administration official. Postmaster-General Farley, "Big Jim" of the democratic political arena, has been singled out. The senator's decision to investigate certain records of the public works administration followed Long's resolution. Here are caricatures of the two principal figures in the latest political whirlpool.

The Big Spring Week

Rains, Ravens, Roads, Oil, and Ordinances Stand Out
The Big Spring week was not as rushing and important the past week as before, but if you are interested in ex-president's mad dogs, mad storms and swimming pools, you may have enjoyed the week.

Tuesday Herbert Hoover, who served as president of this nation immediately preceding Franklin D. Roosevelt, stopped here for lunch. Before he had time to finish his report, a group of curious persons had gathered around. They gathered close for a good look. Some dared to get an autograph. That was the interest in Herbert Hoover, a very unfortunate man in some respects. He may or may not have been responsible for the crash and subsequent depression, but he gets and will continue for some time to get the blame for it. In 1928 he was popular enough in these parts to carry this county. In 1935 he is plain poison to the average voter. That's part of the joy of being president of this great nation.

Friday morning people in this part of the country awoke under a blanket of dust. This time the condition was not just local. It spread over many states. Some started accounting for damage done by the storm. A few others, who look on the bright side, got out pencils and figured the benefit done soil in some sections by the dust. The fact that the wind can pick up thousands of tons of dust and keep it in the air for days should suggest to some the potentialities of the wind. Someday people in this part of the world may harness the day morning. About once a month he manages to find a cranny late in the afternoon when he can slip away for a longer drive, sometimes accompanied by Mrs. Roosevelt, sometimes by one of his secretarial staff. The one selected usually grins and admits he needs the drive more than the President does.

wind as well as others harness streams.

Monday one of the strongest votes ever given any issue in Big Spring was accorded the municipal natatorium. One reason, and a good one too, was no tax money expenditure was involved. It was authorizing the getting of "something for nothing" almost. In the future it may be that more and more things will be built on the same plan as was the pool, should it prove successful. That is to say, let those who use a thing pay for it.

The very words "mad dog" once struck terror in the hearts of people who heard it. For once the dog had bitten a victim, there was nothing but certain and terrible death. Now, thanks to Pasteur and his genius, a cure has been wrought. Just the same, people still do not fancy being bitten by dogs afflicted with rabies, because it is still dangerous. The prevalence of rabies in this section since the first of the year is certainly not encouraging news. Steps should be taken to curb and practically erase the menace. To do so may mean the sacrificing of a few prized dogs, but better a pet should die than a human.

The highway commission this week consented to lend an ear to the proposed road from Andrews to Stanton. On March 11 this city and others directly affected by the road should know what is the attitude of the state road body. The road would give a much shorter route through to Andrews, Eunice, and Hobbs, New Mexico. All places are served by oil supply houses out of here. Such a road might provide a short cut toward the Carlsbad caverns.

More than most people realize, these trade trips are of benefit to Big Spring. When a group of friendly, jovial people join with citizens of a neighboring community in some sort of celebration, it breeds a kindred feeling. Out of kindred feelings comes close relationships. The more and better relations we have with towns in a fifty to hundred mile radius, the better it will be for us. So in the future, these trade trips ought to be supported more liberally and become bigger things. Worked wisely, they can reap an infinite good for the town.

THE OPTIONAL RESIDENTIAL GAS RATE

Three Questions asked by our customers regarding this rate, and our answers:

- "What is the catch?"
Our Answer: There is none.
- "Why are you doing it then? No corporation ever gives anything away."
Our Answer: If every eligible customer for whom this rate means a saving were to elect the rate, it would cost us about $6,000.00 in revenue in the first year. We hope eventually to get this revenue back because we expect every one on this rate to increase his consumption when he finds out how little the extra gas costs him under this rate. Further, every customer who signs this rate immediately becomes a satisfied user of gas. We prefer that our customers be satisfied.
- "How long has this rate been in effect?"
Our Answer: Since late in 1933, at which time it was approved by the City Commission and put into effect.

Mrs. Bode Is Hostess For Pretty Party At Settles

Mrs. John A. Bode was hostess to the members of her bridge club and other friends for a four-table bridge party Thursday afternoon at the Settles hotel.

Coming the day before Washington's Birthday the party accessories were in red, white and blue with patriotic symbols used even on the playing cards.

Red hatchets were table markers. The tallies carried pictures of the Father of Our Country and his lady; so did the playing cards.

First prize for club members was a set of companion statues representing George and Martha. This was awarded Mrs. Wayne Mathews.

High for gaud was a smoking set which Mrs. Davenport won. Mrs. Logan cut for high and received a double deck of cards with silhouettes of the famous couple on them.

Cherry tarts and coffee were served at the tea hour. Plate favors were national emblem nutcups.

Club members present were: Misses Mathews, Vernon Logan, Laron Lloyd, Joe Ciers, E. T. Smith, Horace Reagan. Visitors present were: Misses W. W. Pendleton, L. L. Le Bien, Gene Davenport, Arthur Middleton, G. Hall, W. O. Wright, Wayne Pearce, O. M. Waters and B. C. Ammann.

3rd with Mr. and Mrs. McCombs. Jolly Times Club

Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Crocker were host and hostess Friday evening for members of the Jolly Times Bridge club.

On the mantelpiece under an arch formed of red white and blue streamers was George Washington's picture.

Small flags on stands formed table decorations and centerpieces, the guests cutting for these. They went to four men: Messrs. Pritchett, Nell, Lowmore and Badgett.

The floating prize was given to the person bidding and making the most number of times. Mr. Lowmore won this. Mr. Badgett was presented with a cookie jar for making high score.

Luncheon cloths, like the score pads, were decorated with appropriate symbols. A sandwich and a dessert course were passed to the following: Messrs. R. V. Pritchett, Jack Nail, E. W. Lowmore, R. L. Badgett, G. L. Japca, Cecil Mitchell, Mrs. C. B. Sullivan, Cecil West and Kelly Bennett.

Members attending were: Misses Charles Badwick, Leon Smith, E. C. Boatler, Sam Baker, Sam McCombs, Jimmy Tucker, Tom Donnelly, George S. Harvell, A. E. Underwood.

Mrs. J. E. Fort will entertain the club next on April 5th. Bridgette Club

Mrs. R. F. Blum entertained the members of the Bridgette club Friday evening instead of the regular date in order to give her husband a surprise birthday party.

The surprise was complete. George and Martha Washington lent their countenances to the scene, decorating the party accessories, table covers and napkins.

At the refreshment hour, when cherry pie was served with coffee to the guests, Mr. Blum was showered with a basket of gifts from his friends.

High score for club women was won by Mrs. Chastaine and for the husbands by Mrs. McCombs. Mrs. Cox won high for the women visitors. Mr. Collins was high for men visitors. All four were awarded attractive trophies.

Playing were: Messrs. and Misses C. H. Chastaine, S. A. McCombs, Hollis Webb, Andy Pruitt, Guy Steinbaugh, C. A. Johnson; Misses Agnes Parmley, Violet Cox, I. J. Robb and Mr. Charles Collins.

Ted Clark Is Pace Setter For The Mile

COSDEN Refinery will not have a baseball team this year, according to Spike Henninger, athletic manager. Spike says it's not a paying proposition. "It requires too much to operate when the income is practically nothing," Spike lamented. "Why we can draw a crowd of more than a thousand and we won't take in much over three dollars."

That is very regrettable, indeed. Big Spring should by all means have a baseball team, but it's nearly impossible to organize one successfully without some good backing. Where one has to continually pay out without taking anything in the road gets pretty rocky. For a team to profit here is not necessary. It's just an amateur proposition. It all boils down to the fact that a fenced in park is absolutely necessary. It's necessary that there must be some way to charge admission. Passing the old hat just won't do. The boys and girls and times to buy the balls and bats and pay traveling expenses.

Big Spring will be forced to pass up this fine invitation. "A meeting of all representatives of towns and cities interested in baseball for 1935 will be held in Texas Sunday, February 24th at the Big Lake, Ok. Co. club house. Big Spring representatives are urged to be present to help form a league of semi-pro baseball clubs for 1935.

Texon Baseball Club, R. E. Johnson, Business Manager.

In the course of conversation Henninger added that he thought some of the Cosden employees in the Foreman field were planning to organize a baseball team. We hope they do, because there are a lot of fine ball players around here. Take Jack Dean and L. L. Brummett for instance. Both of those boys have wonderful opportunities, brought on by their sand lot activities in these parts. It may turn out that they don't have anything, but again they may. If there had been no baseball around here they would not have had the opportunity they now have. If enough people get behind the movement, a first class park can be built here, and it will mean a lot to the city.

While in Dallas recently George White of the News sports staff asked about high school baseball in West Texas. White seemed very interested in schoolboy baseball teams, and expressed a desire to see it put on a basis with football, basketball and track. In other words he wanted to see it sponsored by the Intercollegiate League. Considerable agitation for the baseball plan is going the rounds now, and if it is started it will probably be on a district or regional plan with a play-off in Austin late in the spring. A schoolboy loop was successfully organized in South Texas last year. White was of the opinion that one of the big reasons the schools do not try to get baseball back is because most of the coaches knew so little about the horsehide sport.

It has been suggested that Coach Weidon Chapman of Lubbock try to get a grid game with the San Angelo Bobcats this season. They feel that if the Bobcats should win, the school might be more tolerant toward Lubbock's bid for membership in District 3. Should the Westerners triumph, the Lubbock scribe said it would do him more good than beating Amarillo, although it would lessen the Westerners chances to join up with District 3. Personally, we would welcome the Lubbockans in, and the district bids should tell Blonny Cross, Chester Kenley and the San Angelo fans to do their yelling in a rain barrel. The can be but one reason for San Angelo's adamant refusal to consent to Lubbock's transfer—the fear that the Westerners, eventually if not immediately, will shade their district pennant hopes. Chapman's boys are scheduled to play El Paso high in the Border City Sept. 28. They also go to Abilene and Sweetwater.

A resolution requesting that District 12B, embracing Colorado and nine other high schools be divided into two districts for the next football season was drafted at a meeting in Roby recently and forwarded to Roy B. Henderson in Austin, League director. Coaches are advancing the opinion that nine conference games would be too many and such a schedule will be set unless the district is divided. In case the proposed change is realized one district would include—Roscoe, Snyder, Roby, Rotam and Colorado, and the other Anson, Haskell, McKel, Hamlin and Stamford. If Henderson fails to approve the change, District 13 play will be in two sections next fall with the two winning teams meeting on Thanksgiving Day to battle for the championship pennant.

Odessa Show Has Big End

Rancher Sells 500 Head At Good Price, Champion Calf Brings 21c

ODESSA—The third annual livestock and poultry show closed out here Saturday with a flourish when Mabee Pyle sold 500 steer calves at $30 a head to an Oklahoma buyer, Ed Moore, who ordered them shipped Saturday.

The grand champion calf, weighing 904 pounds, sold for 21 cents a pound and was bought by Spruill Grocery and Market of Odessa. It was fed by Walter Crowley.

Taylor White, teacher of vocational agriculture and manager of the show, served as auctioneer.

There were 75 exhibitors and 350 exhibitors in the show this year making the affair the outstanding success of its three years of life. John M. Gist, who has 21 1/2 sections ranch land in Ector county and several thousand acres in Midland and who is a widely known breeder of fine Hereford cattle, is president of the show.

So The Detroit's Wanted Lefties?

By EARL HILLIGAN
DETROIT (AP)—There will be a decided swing to the "left" this year in plans of the Detroit Tigers. Not that the American league champions will not have dependable support from a "right wing" contingent, but a survey of the 1935 Tiger rookie crop reveals that of four promising youngsters coming up to the majors for the first time, three are pitchers—and all three left-handers.

The Tigers wished many times last year that they had a couple of good southpaws. Slim (Chief) Fitzgerald, after a dismal start, made a great finish and much is expected of him this summer. But the Tiger management hopes that at least one and possibly two of the three young hurlers coming up will make the grade. Even if only one makes good, the Tiger claws will be much sharper than when the Bengals came down in front in 1934.

Kentucky Sends One Up
Clyde M. "Mad" Hatter, whose home address is Yosemite, Ky., will be at Lakeland, Fla., March 10 when the Tigers gather for their spring training camp. A younger and pleasant personality, Hatter is given a good chance of staying up. He has plenty of stuff and enough experience. Manager Mickey Cochran believes to make the grade.

With Louisville last year, Hatter won eight games while losing 12, but the Tigers believe he is capable of doing much better work. He is 26, stands 5 feet 11 inches and weighs 170 pounds. He bats right handed.

Joe Sullivan of Manette, Wash., is the boy on whom Cochran is relying to fill the southpaw gap in the Bengal pitching staff. He won 25 games while dropping only 11 decisions with Hollywood on the coast last summer. Joe is 19, stands just under six feet and weighs 175 pounds. He has a nice fast ball, a good change of pace and lots of stuff, and an addition to the regular rotation well enough to work hard at it.

An Outfield Helper-Onter
Jacob F. Wade, who is "Jake" to everybody and looks especially like to the Tiger bosses, hails from Morehead, N. C. His southpaw whip last year won him 14 games with Beaumont while losing 11. He is two inches over six feet and weighs 175. He has developed an extreme fly fast ball with a hop, and his flow curve is a fooler. He's 22.

Chester Morgan, an outfielder from Beaumont and San Antonio in the Texas league, is another rookie in which the Tigers place much hope. Chet can smack that apple and last summer clouted at a .342 clip. He is not a finished fielder but a natural player whom the Tigers believe will develop into quite a ball player and give the regular outfielders a lot of help.

Morgan, whose home is in Cleveland, Miss., is 22 years old, five feet nine inches tall and weighs 160. He throws right—with a fine arm—and bats left.

Ernie Lombardi, Reds Catcher, Holding Out

OAKLAND, Cal. (AP)—Ernie Lombardi, big Cincinnati Reds catcher, "dug in" at his Oakland home Friday and called for an adding machine.

He was supposed to report to the Tampa, Fla., training camp Friday. A letter from Larry McPhail, business manager of the Reds, advised Lombardi he would be fined for every day he was away from camp.

The Reds' backstop wants restored a pay cut he took at the start of the 1934 season. McPhail's last word was Lombardi wouldn't get a penny more than had been offered.

DEAN LEAVES FOR FLORIDA TO TRAIN UNDER HORNSBY

Jack Dean, 180-pound six foot three inch youngster who aspires to baseball fame, left early Saturday morning for West Palm Beach, Fla., where he is to train for five weeks with the St. Louis Browns under the critical eye of Rogers Hornsby.

As a high school athlete here Jack played football and basketball two years and track one year. After his graduation two years ago he made plans to attend college, but illness kept him in.

A little less than a year ago he made a trip by request to San Antonio in an effort to secure a try-out with the San Antonio Missions, Texas League baseball club.

The ambitious Dean boy made a favorable impression and had no trouble securing a contract. A few weeks after he had returned to Big Spring he was met by officials of the San Antonio club who informed him that Hornsby had asked that he be sent to train with his St. Louis Browns.

Dean will train with the Browns for five weeks in Florida where twenty-three exhibition games have been scheduled. The Browns will spend a week on the road en route to St. Louis, where they will play a five game series starting April 6 with the St. Louis Cardinals. Jack has high hopes of showing up the National League Deans in the St. Louis city series. A three game series will be played with the Giants on March 30, 31 and 12.

The training grind for pitchers and catchers starts Feb. 27. The rest of the players will report March 4.

No matter how good a showing he makes, Jack will probably be farmed out to San Antonio for at least a year or two. He plans to attend college at a later date.

Regarding the Rookies

By W. N. FANTON
ST. LOUIS (AP)—Indications that the 1935 harvest of rookies reaped from far-flung farms of the champion Cardinals was blighted by last summer's drought seem not to alarm club officials.

Thirteen recruits, hardly measuring up to the usual crop, will respond to the dinner bell and the shouts of Manager Frankie Frisch at Bradenton, Fla., when practice begins March 2. If only two or three show big league ability all will be well, for the Redbirds, now that Dizzy Dean actually has signed, are well supplied with veterans.

The principal competition will be for centerfield, with stove-league fans already awarding that spot, patrolled by Ernie Osnatt last year, to Terry Moore, husky 21-year-old from Columbus.

Moore, a graduate of St. Louis semi-pro ranks, batted .328 last year at Columbus, weighed 175 pounds, and is credited with rumpousing 100 yards in 9.9 seconds. Branch Rickey, vice president and master farmer of the Cardinal system, makes no secret of his admiration for the new-comer.

Infield Solidly Veteran
There may be other nuggets in the slingshot from the club's farms, but records are not encouraging. Only one of four infield candidates is a .300 minor league hitter, although their defensive records are good. Charley Wilson, up from Columbus, batted .325 in 1934. He's a right-hander and throws right handed, but is 25 years old and failed to get the nod when given a previous trial.

Other incoming infielders are Tom Carey and Pat Ankenman, shortstops, and Pat Gutteridge, a third baseman.

Sox in 1930 and 1931. He's 25, big and fast, right-handed, and batted .358 last year with Rochester.

Vice president Rickey especially likes the chances of four of his six recruit pitchers.

Norbert George "Hub" Kleinke, from Rochester, won 19 games and lost 7 in 1934. He had a trial with the Athletics when he was 17.

There are other favored freshmen hurlers are Mays Copeland and Henry "Cotton" Peppen, both from Houston, and Raymond Harrell, late of Rochester. Copeland is only 19 years old, weighs 170 pounds and won 16 and lost 10 games last year.

Peppen, signed off the campus of the El Paso, Tex., College of Mines after he pitched a no-hit game in 1929 against Arizona, lost one more game than he won with Houston.

Gene La Belle Semi-Windup Man

Charlie Heard, the short stocky grappler who has met and defeated the best in the game, will meet a man here Tuesday night who is just his opposite in physical build. He is Joe Morali, former University of Southern California athlete.

EX-MOVIE STAR
Morali is an ex-movie star of the Spanish type, tall and slender. In spite of their different physical stack-up, both tin-eared wrestle just about alike. They are speedy and scientific, especially Heard, who is classed among the "fastest in the world in his weight division."

Charlie is without a doubt the most popular boy ever to appear in the local arena. His deadly thrust is the Russian leg twist.

Advance press notices show Morali to be one of the clever types, a man with a large bag of tricks gathered over a period of several years.

Eddie Back Again
The semi-final card should be a knockout, not just because Eddie O'Shea will be in the ring, but because of the humorous tinge his opponent will give the situation.

Gene La Belle, Frenchman, doesn't understand a word of English, and O'Shea is not only a failure at trying to speak and understand French but can't master the English language any too well.

The situation will be a perfect set-off for La Belle, who can yell, to his heart's content. La Belle will probably be a lot more satisfied not knowing what Eddie is saying.

Cage Race In Three Way Tie

Mustangs Defeat Porkers Saturday Night, 40 To 27

DALLAS (AP)—Southern Methodist's Mustangs smothered the University of Arkansas here Saturday night, 40 to 27, and threw the Southwest conference into a three way tie, with Rice the other team involved.

Whitite and Bacus led a dashing attack that bewildered the Porkers.

In the most startling upset of the season, Baylor whipped Texas, with Clark, Baylor guard, holding Jack Gray, sensational Steer forward to one field goal.

Razz—Jim Farley doesn't admit that he's worried, but some of his friends are worrying for him. They don't like the continual harping on the damage done the Democratic party by Farley's successful bossing of both the P. O. Department and the political strategy of the party. These friends scoff at the charge that Farley is interested in government contracts, but they don't want investigations that will raze Farley and perhaps develop into a party demand for his resignation from one of his jobs. Farley's friends do wish that Senator Norris would let up. They are more afraid of him than of Huey Long.

Pressure—Owners of utility holding company stocks are making such a hullabaloo that Sam Rayburn, sponsor of the administration bill to regulate these concerns out of existence, is starting a counter-propaganda. The companies themselves are lying low. They expect a bill to pass which will subject them to a federal licensing and regulating system of rigorous character. But seasoned stockholders seem to believe that they can head off some of the most stringent provisions of the Rayburn bill. They claim that rule forces them and are bombarding their "home Congressmen" with pleas for mercy. As they number tens of thousands their agitation is having some effect.

Army—Senator Robert D. Carey, staunch Wyoming Republican, offers the following letter from his ranch foreman at Careyhurst, Wyo., by way of vindication for his vote against the New Deal. Writes H. B. Emery, the foreman: "The Roosevelt dote army was here yesterday after the one T.H. cow. One veterinarian, 1 man to pilot the vet, and 5 helpers to get the cow. One truck that would hold 9 cows and 2 four-seater cars to carry the helpers. Billy White and I loaded the cow."

NEW YORK By James McMillin

Neat—Financial insiders learn that the Treasury is considering an unusual experiment in connection with the refunding of $1,000,000,000 in called Liberty bonds this spring. The bulk of the refunding issue will probably be in notes bearing 3 3/4 or 2 7/8 per cent interest and running for five years or more. This is in line with recent practices and follows Secretary Morgenthau's aim of financing the government still more cheaply. The market has been trained to swallow such an issue without protest if not with gusto.

But along with these notes you may also see a comparatively small offering of 3 per cent consolidated bonds—callable in 15 years but with no definite maturity. Chances are they would go like hot cakes because of the higher interest and limited amount. If that happens a much larger issue of similar "perpetual" bonds—at lower interest—could be expected a little later. The Treasury would have been planned to ally any uneasiness that might otherwise be inspired by this unorthodox method of raising money.

Bonds without maturities have been successfully floated by the British government in the past—but they are a complete novelty to the American Treasury. Experts agree it would be a very neat way to shelve the thorny question of federal debt retirement indefinitely.

Babies—New York is intrigued by Secretary Morgenthau's baby venture—but not much impressed. It's understood that the government has three purposes in mind:

1. To bring money out of hoardings that never has returned to the banks since the '33 crisis—even with deposit insurance.

2. To give the average citizen a more personal stake in his government as a creditor. This might help to tone down some of the wilder demands for still greater federal generosity and inflation.

3. To show that Uncle Sam isn't entirely dependent on the banks for the wherewithal to play the New Deal cards.

A lot of the subscriptions are expected to come out of postal savings deposits. That's O. K. with the postal savings system. Too many people have tried to use their deposits like checking accounts—giving the post office a lot of extra bookkeeping it doesn't care for.

Dwarfs—Selling the bonds at a discount is rated a nifty way to assure a minimum of transfers and demands for redemption. By paying no interest in the first year and scaling it up towards the end of the ten years purchasers are given every incentive to hold their bonds to maturity. This method also means bookkeeping economy to the Treasury—it won't have a raft of small coupons to pay off every quarter. Here again there's English precedent for marketing securities to the public at a discount.

The best New York can say for the idea is that it can't do much harm. The only interests which could possibly be hurt are the small town banks with a large proportion of time deposits at low interest—and even here it's doubtful that there will be withdrawals in volume. Savings banks aren't worried at all.

Insiders expect the Treasury can get millions of customers—even without ballyhoo—but with a maximum volume of a few hundred million dollars. It will not become independent of the banks with that size potatoes. A Wall Street remarker: "If you call the bonds 'just babies' you won't be far wrong. They'll never grow up."

Amenable—Utility men are feverishly preparing their case to submit to Congress in opposition to the Rayburn holding company bill. They will get last innings at Congressional hearings and they're out to hit a flock of home runs. There will be remarkably little frothing at the mouth—no matter what their real sentiments. Leaders have decided that sweet reasonableness is likely to pay better dividends.

Power companies will be represented individually at the hearings rather than as a group. They figure the psychological effects will be better if there's as little appearance of ganging up as possible.

Interested New Yorkers realize that holding companies must justify their existence in terms of economies to operating subsidiaries if they are to survive. Evidence to that effect will be stressed.

Watch for a curious contrast in the attitude of eastern and western power groups. The westerners are likely to appear as good deal more amenable to Washington. Their chiefs are in closer touch with their public.

Deficit—New York is beginning to have doubts about that staggering deficit FDR forecast in his budget message. It amounts to only the comparatively modest sum of $1,800,000,000 for the first seven months of the fiscal year. In order to reach the official estimate of $4,200,000,000 would have to exceed income by half a billion dollars a month for the next five months. That's a lot of money to give away—even for the U. S. government.

The point isn't missed that painting the picture in its blackest terms sets the stage for the administration to point with pride a little later.

Cost—Some New York railroad men are skeptical about grade-crossing elimination as a major work-relief project. They contend that many grade crossings involve heavily engineering problems and others are tied up in questions of property title outside the right-of-way. They add that diggers and concrete workers—who need jobs first—are the last to be employed on such projects.

One observer remarks that the total cost of eliminating grade crossings would be more than the railroads themselves are worth these days.

Open—Wall Street comments that Arthur Cutler shouldn't be too busy about the order forbidding him to trade in the Chicago grain market. "Winnipeg is still open to him and so are the security exchanges. They offer quite a scope even for a speculator" with Arthur's colorful tastes.

Sidelights—All but 44 out of 217 earnings reports so far submitted for 1934 show improvement. . . . Electric refrigerator people are shooting at a 2,000,000 sales goal this year against 1,400,000 sold last year. . . . Phoney gold mine promotions are giving the Securities and Exchange Commission a flock of headaches.

CHURCH REPRESENTATIVES TO MEET SUNDAY AT 2:30 One hundred members of eight churches in Big Spring, under whose auspices the Rayburn revival meeting, scheduled to start in Big Spring Sunday, March 3, at the old Deats garage building on Seely street, have been called to meet at the First Christian church Sunday afternoon at 2:30. These members have been chosen to serve on a general committee of 100 in promoting the bond sale and publicity campaign for the union revival meeting here. S. J. Shetlesworth, secretary of the Pastors' association, mailed cards Friday to the various members. All are requested to be present at the appointed place on time Sunday afternoon.

BILLIE WILCOX ABLE TO GO TO PARENTS' HOME

Billie Wilcox, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Wilcox, who was injured recently in an automobile collision on Seely street, was able to go to the home of his parents last Sunday. He continues to improve, although he will be confined to his bed for two or three weeks more. He has been in Bivings hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Coffey have returned from near Lamesa, where they were called by the death of Mrs. Norman O'Brien, sister of Mrs. Coffey. A 6-year-old O'Brien girl is dangerously ill of pneumonia, the same malady which claimed her mother.

TERRACING WORK DONE BEFORE COST MOUNTS

Terracing work on 51 farms in Howard county has been finished in the niche of time. A new ruling by PWA is that terracing work will now be done as a PWA project and that a charge of 12 1/2 cents per acre will be made for running lines. County Agent O. P. Griffin said Saturday that terracing and contour lines had been run on 51 farms with an acreage in cultivation of more than 3,000. Only about three places remain to be visited.

THE DOG, THE DOG, WHO KILLED THE DOG?

City and county officers are giving the old game of "button, button, who has the button?" a new twist. Since rabies became so prevalent here as to constitute a real menace, war has been made on dogs. A number have been killed. Of the number, some have unfortunately been family pets. When irate citizens demand of an officer if his shooting dogs, he now diplomatically replies, "No, but some of the other boys have." Just the same, the war against stray dogs goes on.

Haines Figuring On Having Stuff "Every Six Days"

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Jesse Haines, whose purchase in 1923 is credited with starting the St. Louis Cardinals on their climb to baseball prominence, believes that "once every five or six days I'll have as much stuff as I ever had."

The 41-year-old veteran, his 1935 contract signed and delivered, will go south with the first contingent of Red Birds. He's the only member of the 1920 Cardinals still on the squad.

"I don't feel any different than I ever did," commented the right-hander as he signed his contract.

When Haines broke into the National league his chief asset was a burning fast ball and a disposition to try to throw it past the batter when in a hole.

He met with success until 1924 when he struck a depression and won eight and lost 19 games. That made him realize something had to be done and he started perfecting a knuckleball.

His success was outstanding and in the 1926 dash to the first Cardinal pennant he won 13 games, lost four, and was credited with two of the St. Louis victories in the world series.

The following five years were among the best in his record. In 1932 he weakened, and won three while losing five, but came back in 1933 with a nine and three record.

Last year, used chiefly as a relief worker, he broke even in eight games.

When they can be stopped, he stops 'em. As a result McDonald is Wisconsin's nominee for all-western honors.

His most recent demonstration was staged at the expense of Bill Harlow, Chicago star and individual high point getter in the Big

Air Travel To Be Improved

Fast Service To Be Provided Between Houston and New York

HOUSTON (UPI)—Air travel enthusiasts believe this city will be on a 21-hour passenger service between New York and Mexico City before the end of 1935.

Plans for establishing the service are being made and call for operation before the end of the year.

The new service would link Houston directly with Mexico and Central and South America for the first time.

Three air lines, two of which already have adjusted schedules to give the city 11-hour service from New York City, were expected to cooperate in the plan.

They are Eastern Airlines, operating between New York City and New Orleans; Wedell-Williams Air Service, operating between Houston and New Orleans, and East American Airways flying the Brownsville, Mexico City, Central and South American route.

Wedell-Williams, under the plan, would extend its service to Brownsville to make the connection.

During the Chicago-Wisconsin game, won by the Badgers, 26-21, McDonald covered Harlow and held him to two field goals, drawing only three fouls for his efforts. Harlow admittedly is the most difficult player in the Big Ten to cover without fouling, due to his speed, deception and variety of shots.

Of the eight sharpshooters McDonald has been assigned to cover, only one, Northwestern's Lyle Fisher, made anything like his usual showing. Ten of Fisher's 13 points in the game resulted from five extremely long shots. In the first game between the two teams, McDonald held Fisher to two points.

Others unable to cope with McDonald's close guarding have been Downey and Kessler of Purdue, held to a total of six points; Stout, Indiana, three points; Jablonick, Michigan, six points; Baker, Minnesota, six points.

The work of McDonald and his teammate, "Chub" Poser, has won for Coach Bud Fisher's first Wisconsin team the reputation of being the best defensive five in the conference.

Poser at guard has held all opponents except Colton of Purdue below their season's average and has scored 33 points to 35 for opposing players.

Japan's League Baseball Team To Invade Coast

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Professional baseball has found its way into the sports picture of Japan. There is a league, with parks and everything, but the league at present has only one team.

The team is coming to the United States for a tour. Frank "Lefty" O'Doul, who starred in the big leagues for many years, will act as advisor for the visiting Japanese players.

O'Doul, who recently returned from the orient which he toured with Connie Mack's American stars, persuaded the Tokyo club to make a trip to this country.

It will be the first Japanese professional baseball team to appear on these shores. O'Doul, who has booked exhibition games with several of the Coast league clubs, says the Nipponese play ball comparable to that produced in Class AA minor leagues.

The Japanese league is in the formative stage, according to O'Doul, who says two clubs are planned for Tokyo, two for Osaka and one each in Yokohama and Nagoya. In the meantime the lone Tokyo team will match its diamond skill with Coast league clubs and such others as may be scheduled before their arrival early in March.

If the coast tour proves popular, the itinerary may be extended to embrace the mid-west and east, says O'Doul.

Others unable to cope with McDonald's close guarding have been Downey and Kessler of Purdue, held to a total of six points; Stout, Indiana, three points; Jablonick, Michigan, six points; Baker, Minnesota, six points.

TEXAS TOPICS By Raymond Brooks

Gov. Alfred has approved into law H. B. 515, which removes the penalty for fornication in getting automobile plates on a car before April 1.

This law, by Rep. B. E. Quinn of Beaumont, Rep. W. E. Pope of Corpus Christi and Rep. Joe Greatton of Fort Worth, is unique in legislative history, in the speed of its progress.

It was introduced Friday morning, 11:30 a. m., and had received a committee report and was passed finally by the house under suspension of the rules, in 20 minutes. It receives a 132-0 record vote.

At nine of the meetings, a triple A committee has been named to assist in cotton adjustments.

A list of producers, number of adjusted acres and the adjusted yield have been posted in each community and will remain there until March 11 when the county committee will make readjustments.

"Anyone who knows of a certain tract that should be readjusted," said Griffin, "should deal with his triple A committee or the county committee."

Mrs. F. M. Furrer left Saturday for Eastland to spend the week-end with her mother, Mrs. R. E. Webster.

NO. 18 Losses From Casualties, Theft, and Wagers

To be deductible, a loss arising from "fires, storms, shipwreck, or other casualty" need not be connected with the taxpayer's trade or business. If his home or his automobile is destroyed by fire or his summer bungalow damaged by flood or storm, he may claim a deduction for the loss sustained.

Loss of property by theft or burglary is an allowable deduction, and need not be incurred in trade or business. Hence, the loss occasioned by the theft of jewelry or an automobile used for pleasure and convenience is deductible. It must be established, however, that the property actually was stolen. Should circumstances attending the loss leave the owner in doubt as to whether it was stolen or lost, the claim would not be allowed.

Losses from wagering transactions are allowable only to the extent of the gains from such transactions. A loss is deductible only in the year in which it is sustained, even though, as in the case of a theft or casualty, it may not be discovered until a later year. Losses compensated for by insurance or otherwise, of course, are not deductible. However, in the event the amount of insurance is not sufficient to compensate for the loss sustained, the excess of the loss over the amount of the insurance is deductible.

Hill Proves Great Friend

Farmer Raises Value Of Land Through Terracing Program

PENNINGTON, (UP)—Farmers of the Friendship community just six miles from here believe M. V. "Bug" Hill is the best neighbor in Texas.

Hill is the champion "terracer" in these parts. Through a one-man terracing program, he has raised the value of deserted farm land $5 an acre and more.

"Bug" has been so interested in his neighbors' welfare that he has spent time and expense to aid them. And his friends appreciate what he has done.

When he goes to the state capital to try to raise relief funds to help with the work, his neighbors turn up 15 to 20 at a time to do his farm work. Hill also makes many trips to Texas A. and M. college to obtain information.

County Agent C. E. Bowles who aided Hill in his work said "Bug" was responsible for salvage and terracing of 6,000 acres in Houston county.

Hill became convinced many years ago that terracing would prevent the tremendous wastage of fertile land through soil erosion.

"Neighbor" Hill has studied terracing from a scientific point of view. His wide experience has made him an expert and authority on land reclamation.

Bowles said that great gullies on the hillside have been filled and honors for the day with a score of 138.92. Midland took second and third places in individual scoring and Bobby McNew and Halbert Woodward, Big Spring, finished fourth and fifth, respectively.

Midland's first team averaged 124 points Friday while Colorado's team averaged 126.

One week before the same three towns took part in similar competition at Colorado with the Big Spring team winning first honors in its division.

These are merely practice contests," said Mrs. Flossy R. Lewis, typing instructor and coach of the Big Spring team. The official district contest will be held in Sweetwater on April 5.

Talk Spoils Sales Plans

Students Planned Sale Of Papers For Spending Money

HOUSTON, Texas, (UP)—Too much talk spoiled the scheme of four high school students to pick up spending money through sale of examination questions.

They obtained the questions from a teacher's textbook and began taking orders at $1 a copy.

"We weren't going to release any of the copies until late in the day before examination time," one of the four explained.

"If we had started selling them early, the kids who bought them could sell them on their own hook."

Many "orders" were taken, but San Jacinto high school Director J. O. Webb heard of the scheme before any copies were delivered and brought youngsters up on the carpet.

Martin County Commissioners In Order Delay

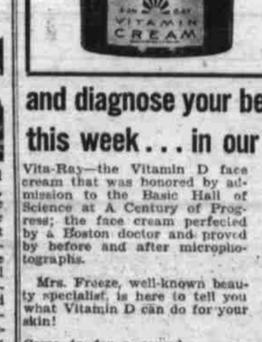

Delegations from Big Spring and Andrews Saturday listened to Martin county commissioners court discuss the proposed road from Stanton to Andrews without final action.

A mild controversy arose over the contemplated route. One commissioner, speaking for his precinct, said his constituents are interested in the road, but would like it to traverse their section of Martin county.

"Though no decision was reached Saturday, it was assured that some disposition of the matter will be made by the end of the month."

The 250 delegates expected to attend the convention.

Almost Every Make Of Car Found Here

Sales In 1935 Expected To Be Broken In Big Spring Area By Dealers

"With the conclusion of the 1935 automobile shows of the nation the automobile industry is settling down to a production calculated to take care of the big demand for new cars.

Every popular automobile model of consequence is represented by an agency in Big Spring, and the general representation is more substantial here than it has been for the past five years.

Last year there was a record made here over many of recent years in the distribution of new models, but with the impetus of deliveries of 1935 as an indication of what this year has in store, it is evident that this record will only be a fair pace as compared to what is going to happen this year.

During the month of January 75 new automobiles were registered with the county tax collector. This does not include sales made that were registered out of the county.

Dealers say that this mark would have been surpassed by far if an adequate number of new models could have been delivered from the factory.

Lending impetus to the immediate demand for new cars are the exceptional improvements which have been put into the new models during the past year or two—improvements for safety, comfort, durability and economy.

Comfort for passengers and ease for the driver is advanced perceptibly. There is no longer the need of tense grip of the driver at any speed, and on the contrary, the later models cling to the road and do most of the driving.

The improvements made on the finish of the new cars has much to do with claims made that they will stand the weather much better, especially the sandstorms of this section, which heretofore have done much to remove it.

Economy in operation has advanced with other engineering accomplishments. This applies to the necessary replacement of oil as well as to oil and gasoline consumption.

The smoother operation of the models of today augur for less shock and wear on all parts, and it is now nothing strange for a new model to accumulate 20,000 to 25,000 miles without a spark plug being pulled.

Big Spring is the logical center of distribution for new automobiles and more and more companies are coming to realize this fact with the establishment of distributorships of automobiles, tires, parts and accessories.

Some of the finest dealerships between Ft. Worth and El Paso are now located in this city.

With the arrival in this city of complete lines of all models of the motor cars carried the Big Spring dealers urge all persons to visit their respective places of business and inspect, ride and drive the 1935 models they now have in stock.

New Chevrolet Is On Display

Crowds See Master DeLuxe Models At Carter Chevrolet

Big Spring people have been viewing the first display of the new 1935 Master DeLuxe Chevrolet.

A large number visited the Carter Chevrolet company at East Third and Johnson street during the past week to see the new model.

The standard model has been on display for several weeks. The Master model for 1935 is crammed with new improvements, but retains the valve-in-head motor principal and other outstanding Chevrolet features.

The new Fisher body features a solid steel "turret" top and a body pressed from only five pieces of steel, reinforced by hard wood.

Electroplated cast iron pistons give the engine added pick-up. Chevrolet says, and the full pressure lubrication to all connecting rods, main bearings and camshaft bearings is provided.

There are also many other improvements on the new Master model, such as a rear luggage compartment, a new type jack which operates from in front of the radiator and the rear bumper.

The Carter Chevrolet company is also having a special showing of the standard model and the 1935 trucks.

Shroyer Motor Showing New Oldsmobile

New Model Said To Perform Better In Every Way Than Others

An engineering goal which has been the ambition of automotive engineers for years has been announced by Oldsmobile for 1935.

This goal is the simultaneous increase in performance and reduction in gasoline consumption.

By actual tests it has been demonstrated that the new Oldsmobiles will perform better in every way than previous models.

They show greater top speeds, greater acceleration, greater hill climbing ability, in both the Six and Eight lines.

And yet gasoline mileage has been increased despite the fact that the Six has been stepped up from 64 to 90 horsepower and the Eight from 90 to 100.

"Engineers have believed in the past that greater performance could be obtained only at the expense of gasoline mileage," said C. L. McCuen, president and general manager of Oldsmobile.

"But in our 1935 cars we have proved this belief a fallacy. We have motors which are of much greater horsepower, deliver higher speeds and faster acceleration than those of last year and at the same time give increased gasoline economy.

"Proving ground tests show that the Six will give 15 miles per gallon at the same average speed, which is remarkable economy in a car of this size and power."

Even better economy, it is said, is secured at lower speeds. At Oldsmobile engineers made exhaustive tests at 50 miles per hour since this figure represents average touring speed and offers a really fair conclusion as to what may be expected in actual service.

Oldsmobile is sold in Big Spring by Shroyer Motor Company, Inc. Shroyer, proprietor, also operates Phillips Super Service Station.

Big Spring Hardware Displays Massey-Harris Line Of Implements

The Massey-Harris Co., which manufactures the complete line of farm implements carried by the Big Spring Hardware company, builds over a thousand different kinds of implements that are used in fifty-five different countries.

It operates nine factories in the United States and foreign countries and has a yearly capacity of 300,000 implements, from a walking plow to the combined complete reaper-thresher.

Massey-Harris farm equipment, for nearly a century, has been the result of scientific research by practical men experienced in agricultural operations.

Massey-Harris was first to manufacture and market a complete line of farm equipment—a line that provides for every farm operation by either horse or tractor. It has developed many special type machines to meet unusual local conditions, both in American and foreign lands.

Pioneers. Not only has Massey-Harris originated many farm implements and machines, but nearly every product in the line has various advantages that are exclusive with Massey-Harris.

Massey-Harris farm equipment has always been practical in design—the result of years and years of actual field experience.

Massey-Harris engineers are agricultural engineers and the equipment designed by them has always undergone steady, progressive improvement—frequently leading the industry in new advanced features.

The owner of a Massey-Harris reaper built in 1921, recently wrote: "It is still working, and will cut any crop today." While operating obsolete farm equipment is seldom an economy, we are frequently called upon to supply repair parts for implements built many years ago.

Because of the long life of its implements, and its large line, it is necessary for Massey-Harris to carry an extensive stock of repair parts, complete line of branches, sub-branches and distributing stations throughout the United States, Canada, and in foreign countries, assure that prompt, efficient service which every farmer appreciates.

Massey-Harris implements are now on display at the Big Spring Hardware Company.

Sealed-Air Seiberling Tube Shown

Creighton Of Shook Tire Co. Tells Secret Of Its Success

"How many punctures does it take to make a flat?"

"Only one," says Chas. Creighton, manager Shook Tire Co., local Seiberling tire dealer, "if you are using ordinary inner tubes, but if you have Seiberling Sealed-Air tubes in your tires—that's a different story."

"Seiberling engineers at Akron, Ohio, recently ran a test to determine how many punctures it required to make a tire equipped with a Seiberling Sealed Air tube go flat."

A "torture road" was prepared, as shown in the accompanying photograph, and the car was driven back and forth across it all day long. At the end of the day's run total of 2,498 nails had been picked up by the tires. Yet they did not lose a single pound of air.

The nails were allowed to remain in the tires and the car was driven for three days after that the nails were pulled out—yet none of the tires went flat.

"The Seiberling 'Sealed Air' tube," Mr. Creighton explained, is the only tube of its kind in the world. Its secret of success is an ingenious invention by which soft plastic gum is held in place with partitions of cured rubber that divide the tread of the tube into compartments, like the bulk-head of a battleship. When a nail punctures the tube and is withdrawn the plastic gum around the hole fuses together and the hole is gone.

Shook Tire Co. carries a complete stock of Seiberling tires and Sealed Air tubes at all times.

New Dodge Is Inspected

Lines, Designs, Refinements Set A Complete New Style

Inspection of the 1935 Dodge, which is being shown at the West Texas Motor Co. showrooms, at 118 East First street, will reveal a car that is new from the ground up.

Lines, designs, refinements set a complete new style.

Dodge engineers were instructed to go the limit, to cut no corners, to spare no expense in creating an outstanding car. When you view the result, you'll agree that they spared no expense in creating a swagger trim, smart car, smart from every angle.

It has been said of the new Dodge that fashion experts have about its style and beauty, but value experts hail its economy and ruggedness.

The interior of the Dodge presents a place for Dodge owners and their families to live. The rear seat is like a lovely drawing room, a spacious rear compartment. The new posture seats are chair-height, for correct, restful, fatigueless riding, and has side armrests. The front seat is wide and roomy with all controls within easy reach of the driver.

The engine gives brilliant new range of power and performance with astounding economies in gasoline and oil mileage, and is built to outlast as well as outperform. It develops more speed and maintains it, and it's more economical.

The new Dodge also brings Synchromatic control. If the clutch is hard to press down, if the steering wheel requires labor to handle, if the gears are stiff, if you have to struggle with the brakes, then driving is an effort. But not so with the amazing co-ordination and synchronization of the new Dodge.

feather pressure clutch, finger-tip steering, synchro-silent transmission and time-tested hydraulic brakes constitute synchromatic control, all units of one simplified system that really makes driving effortless.

Mr. Roy Carter, of the West Texas Motor Co. is inviting the public to come in at any time and let the New Dodge speak for itself.

Stanton Woman And Son Hurt In Auto Wreck Wednesday

STANTON—Mrs. Earl Powell and son, Edgar Lay, had a very serious accident Wednesday evening, when they were returning to their ranch home north of Stanton.

Mrs. Powell left town just at dusk and about eight miles out a car was partially across the road. She avoided striking this car but going over a slight rise in the road came upon another car which was reported as also being in the road.

Not being able to avoid this one in spite of her quick thinking, she smashed into it.

Edgar Lay was thrown against the windshield with sufficient force as to fracture his nose and smash a hole in the glass. Mrs. Powell was thrown against the steering wheel, loosening her front teeth and sustaining a deep gash in the right knee.

The car, which she was driving, was pretty badly damaged. It was miraculous that the occupants escaped without more serious injury.

Big Spring People Attend Opening Of Odessa's Third Annual Livestock Show

(BY JOE PICKLE)
ODESSA—This little city in Ector county trembled with excitement Friday. This time it wasn't oil, late benefactor of the place, that furnished the center of interest. It was Odessa's first love—cattle.

Odessa's third annual livestock and poultry show was off to a good start, with more entries than ever and with a much larger attendance. Three bands furnished music for the parade which stretched for more than five blocks. The Odessa school band led off the procession, followed by the Midland high school band. The Big Spring high school band, followed by a representative Big Spring delegation, brought up the rear.

Led by Charles Ray Sikes, a prancing, twirling understudy to the regular drum major, Torchy Bright, the Big Spring band presented a colorful picture. There were approximately twenty cars bearing Big Spring people who made the trip to the Ector county seat Friday for the celebration. Among those who spent the morning mixing and mingling with the old-time cowmen and visitors to Odessa were D. W. Webber, president of the Chamber of Commerce, W. T. "Tanler" Strange, W. C. Blackburn, Grover C. Dunham, Fred Keating and a dozen more.

At noon the Big Spring delegation was feted to a luncheon at the New American cafe. Taylor White, who has successfully managed the young and growing show this year, presided as toastmaster. He introduced Strange, who made a short address and invited sportsmen of that section to live near the show on March 2 and 3.

John Gist, known to every cattleman in the southwest and a rancher if there ever was one, spoke briefly as president of the show. Since it had its modest beginning three years ago, Gist has headed the institution. "The knacker and doubting Thomases said you can't do it. Well, you're wasting time," he recalled in typical Gist style. Then he told how they put the show over in spite of criticism and non-support and paid every dollar back they had to borrow. He even went to his cellar and dug up some money to pay off some because all banks were closed during that stressful period in 1932.

"Well, the old fool did it," they said after we put the first one over and said they'd help out this year. So the second year was easier than the first. This year has been the smoothest sailing yet, related Mr. Gist. W. H. Rhodes, who doesn't say much but gets the job done, as chairman of the finance committee, said that they were not content to have a tent house for their show, but that they were now looking forward to erecting a building adequate to their increasing needs. One of the busiest men in Odessa on Friday was F. M. Gwin, secretary of the chamber of commerce in Odessa. He was formerly city manager at Stamford and the folks at Odessa regard him as extremely capable. Among the leading breeders of the section in the show were John Gist, W. B. Mitchell of Marfa, and B. M. Aycock of Midland. Winner in the judging Friday morning for calves 700 pounds and under were Eugene Walden Jr. of Andrews, Ed Arledge of Seagraves, and Bill Pogue of Odessa; for calves 700-900 pounds, J. H. Coles of Colorado, Bill Arledge of Seagraves, and G. H. Coisen of Colorado.

Big Spring Salesmen Attend School

Pictured above is group of salesmen from West Texas. This is one of the many Ford Sales Training Schools being held at the Dallas Branch of the Ford Motor Company. These schools are being held for the purpose of better familiarizing Ford salesmen with recent developments in the automotive industry, and particularly how the new features of the Ford V-8 meet present day transportation needs. The Training School was attended by the following men from Big Spring: C. R. Johnson, Carl Merrick, Roy Tidwell, L. S. Cole.

There are about 30 calves entered in the show. One of the most unusual things in it was the cow which Mr. Gist billed as "19 years old and the mother of 17 calves, 16 bulls and 3 heifers. None of the bulls sold for less than $1,000." Although he did not have stock in the show, M. F. Anderson, who ranches ten miles from Odessa, was an interested observer. G. P. Crenshaw, who ranches on the J. L. Johnson place, said that he has about 800 head of stock and that cows have calved better this winter than in 7 or 8 years.

Zeda Anderson named his calf after the show manager, Taylor White, but the judges evidently had no intentions of playing favorites. They placed "Taylor White" seventh in his class. The calf weighed 785 pounds. R. F. Henderson, who ranches about four sections near Odessa and 10 around Crane, was on hand to see his son, Tad, enter a calf in the show. Tad recently got up from a bad leg break caused by the fall of a horse. Henderson's herd is down to about 350 now because of dry conditions for the past two years. He says that recent moisture will bring out a good weed crop.

An evidence that Odessa backs the thriving show, the town this year tossed in $200 more in prize money than is listed in the catalogue. The town is justly proud of an institution which is sired into a prize winner in better times. Stock in the show was entered from Odessa, Colorado, Seminole, Seagraves, Midland, Crane and Marfa. Odessa listed prizes at a total of $400, but raised about $200 more than listed.

Among the most colorful and well known cowmen at Odessa for the affair was Frank E. "Forty" Waddell, Crane county rancher, who would be financially secure if he never raised a cow. Water is the reason. His cousin, R. T. Waddell, ranches about 40 miles from Odessa in the wide open spaces, says that his stuff has stood the winter exceptionally well and has calved out without a loss. He has sold some stuff, particularly when the market surged up. Eugene Walden, Jr., who Friday won the calf title under 700 pounds, is the son of a former sheriff and is an Andrews 4-H club boy. L. S. Webb, former Ector county judge and brother to Ector Sheriff Reeder Webb, was at the show Friday. He ranches 4 1/2 sections near Odessa. Catting up for the crowd's amusement was Floyd De Long, Hollywood, Calif., who says he is billed as the "ace daredevil."

Enjoying the show as much as anyone was Yippe Kerr, cowhand, who is known to every cowman in that section. John Gist still likes to talk about Jumbo, that famous gargantuan bull he once raised. The animal, no good for show or breeding purposes, grew to outlandish proportions, so much so that he accepted an offer to sell him when he reached 4,000 pounds. A carnival offered to buy him for a dollar a pound. Jumbo was at that time topping 3,750 pounds and gaining rapidly. One muggy day, three years ago, he was out of his stall and went straying. Gist found him the next morning, three toes broken off and bleeding profusely. He had Jumbo hauled back to his stall and patched up but the brute just pinched away after that. He lost weight so rapidly that when he was killed (he was just 3 years old at the time) he weighed less than a brother bull, which Gist shipped at 3,019 pounds.

This other bull and a cow won Gist distinction by proving to be the largest carcasses by 100 pounds to ever enter the Swift and Armour packing houses. He thought the bull had won him an extra $100 prize for being the largest animal, but officials rules the money was open only to steers. But back to Jumbo. He was shipped and slaughtered, going the way of all good Hereford flesh. His hide was preserved and mounted. Now hanging in the Gist home, it appears big enough to serve as a spacious tent. Odessa offered several prizes for dogs entered in the parade Friday. There were all kinds and shapes ranging from Pekinese to poodles, and not a few dog fights. In the midst of that cattle country, a couple of kids had the effrontery to parade a couple of goats. "Why", asked L. C. Mowery, Texas Tech coach of cattle judging teams that have made enviable records and who served as a judge in the show, "do we have fine animals

Brotherhood Day To Be Observed Throughout The Nation Today

Protestants, Catholics and Jews in more than six hundred communities in every state of the Union will join today in special meetings and ceremonies to observe Brotherhood Day as an expression of inter-denominational goodwill and of united determination on the part of all faiths to work together for the general welfare of American humanity.

Brotherhood Day is being held under the auspices of the National Conference of Jews and Christians, 288 Fourth Avenue, New York City, of which the Co-Chairman are Newton D. Baker, Professor Carlton J. H. Hayes and Roger W. Straus. Dr. John H. Finley, eminent educator and publicist is chairman of this year's observance. Its purpose is not only to wipe out all discords that may still derive from religious differences, but also to emphasize the great constructive tasks which all Americans of every faith have in common. It aims to "mobilize the goodwill of people and their natural friendliness and cooperativeness against the fomenters of group hatreds." The occasion has been termed a "call to arms for members of every faith to stand by their belief in human fellowship."

Hundreds of communities throughout the country will hold civic mass meetings this afternoon in which Protestant, Catholic and Jewish lay and religious leaders will participate. In many cities special radio broadcasting programs stressing brotherhood have been announced. From Station WMCA in New York an Inter-faith Choral Program will be broadcast for the first time and will be participated in by the Y. M. C. A. Negro chorus, the Y. M. H. A. Hebrew Choir and the Catholic Boys' Club. This afternoon at 12:30 p. m. Rabbi William F. Roseblum of Temple Israel, New York, will speak over Station WNAO Boston and a New England network on the subject of "Children of Men." A Brotherhood Day Educational Symposium will be broadcast over Station WEVD from New York in which the speakers will be Miss Rhoda McCulloch, editor of the Woman's Press, Monsignor John L. Belford of Brooklyn and Rabbi Jacob J. Weinstein of New York.

The Lucky Thirteen Bridge club entertained their husbands, naming the Herbert Keatons as honor guests during their visit here for the week-end. The party was held Friday evening at the Settles at shows like this and Jersey bull at a banquet when we set down to eat. It was Gist who rose to the occasion. "Hell, it's against the law to do it here", he fairly exploded.

ADMIRAL SLATED TO HEAD WORK DRIVE KEEPS TRADITIONAL SILENCE OF NAVY

By WILLIAM S. WHITE
WASHINGTON, Feb.—Rear Admiral Christian Joy Peoples keeps the rigid silence of his service tradition as events suggest his selection of the biggest job of a long career—helping to spend $4,000,000 in the administration's new work program.

This naval officer who never commanded a bridge—whose weapons have been figures rather than guns—is understood to be President Roosevelt's choice to direct one of three phases of the administration's big work relief drive.

The dash and color associated with line officers have not been Peoples' in his 5 years with the navy. His has been the painstaking job of overseeing all the department's vast purchases, ruffing into many millions annually, and more recently—doing the same work for the U. S. treasury, too.

Reticent About Self
Ask naval officers about the man and they tell you only the flat, official facts of his career. Ask Peoples himself and he tells you nothing. He turns away all questions and refers questioners to his official navy department biography—which covers the subject in 150 words—and says any discussion by him, even of his own life, would be "most inappropriate."

His fellow officers have little knowledge of the details of his career. This much, however, emerges: He made a record in keeping naval expenses to a minimum, especially during the World War, and was decorated with the navy cross. In the era of America's greatest naval expansion in history he kept watch over the purchase of everything, from beans to millions of barrels of oil. He figured out a system of fuel specifications that saved a lot of time and money and, his friends vouchsafe, in all his official life he has been hard-bitten about spending government dollars.

'Business Man' Officer
Peoples divides his time now between two jobs and three titles. He is head of the treasury department procurement division—which means he is the government's No. 1 purchasing officer—head of the navy's bureau of supplies and accounts and paymaster general of the navy.

He entered the navy through competitive examination—not by way of the naval academy—and became a "business man" officer. From 1914 to 1921 he served as assistant chief of the bureau of supplies and accounts and was cited for "exceptionally meritorious service in a duty of great responsibility." His job was to buy the supplies for a navy at war, and to get them as quickly and cheaply as possible.

From 1921 to 1930 he served as general inspector of the west coast supply corps, with headquarters at San Francisco. Then he was placed

1935 PLYMOUTH
Characterized as a "high speed safety car" the 1935 Plymouth is streamlined in design, and is three inches longer than previous Plymouth models, 129 inches from bumper to bumper.

In charge of the naval supply depot at Brooklyn.

Met During War
President Roosevelt, an assistant secretary of the navy, became well acquainted with the Iowa-born admiral during the war. The extent of his admiration is gauged by the fact that the work relief post outlined for Peoples—that of recommending suitable projects to the President—is going to be one of the biggest things in the administration.

No dour wearer of brass buttons is this square-faced officer turning 60, despite his insistent silence. He is jocular and there is a wry of unobtrusive heartiness in his manner. But, behind it all, is the long training of a service man who waits for his superior officer—in this instance his commander-in-chief—to speak.

Deluge Letters On Old Age Plan Swamps Congress

By HERBERT PLUMMER
WASHINGTON—A favorite topic of conversation among members of congress, especially in the house when two or more get together is to query each other as to the number of letters the morning's mail dumped on their desks concerning the Townsend old age pension plan.

Not in recent times has capitol hill been so deluged with such an avalanche of correspondence on a proposed piece of legislation as in this instance. As many as six letters have been received by members of the house from the same individual.

"I simply am receiving a deluge of these letters," one member complained recently. "Every day and in every mail from California, and more recently from my own district, they have been coming in stacks."

If it were mere volume perhaps members of congress wouldn't get so "het up" about the situation. They are accustomed to being flooded with letters when certain bills are up for consideration, but it's the tone now being employed by their correspondents which irks

Blanton Takes Floor
Thus far only the fiery Tom Blanton of Texas, an avowed foe of the Townsend plan, has seen fit to avail himself of the right given members of the house to take the floor for one hour on a question of personal privilege and discuss the matter.

The Texan, serving his 10th term in the house, apparently has been getting a little more of it than some of his other colleagues. The Townsendites are aware of his opposition and according to Blanton, have passed the word along to train their guns on him.

He read into the Record, a statement allegedly made by Representative McGroarty of California, who introduced the Townsend plan in the house, in which he said: "Blanton might have a change of heart and of mind if made aware that he might not stand any more chance than a jackrabbit to come back to congress against the wishes and will of his constituents."

'Unkind Cuts'
This statement which Blanton charged appeared in California caused to be let loose against him some very unkind cuts, politically. He couldn't resist the opportunity of letting his colleagues in on some of them much to their amusement. He gave names and addresses.

From Glendale, Calif., came the warning, "Unless you wake up you might as well start to write your political obituary." A woman in Pasadena wrote him to say, "Any man against the Townsend plan is no better than a bandit."

One from Arcadia, Calif., brought gales of laughter: "For your own good, get in touch with Dr. Townsend." Another from San Diego observed, "It is you smart boys up there who say it can't be done."

There were more written in the same vein which he read. It was the observation of Hoepffel of California, a staunch supporter of the Townsend plan, however, which drew the biggest laugh. The Californian remarked that he had just received a letter from Blanton's constituents inquiring: "Hoepffel, tell us when we should put the steam on Blanton."

A RAPID-FIRE ROMANCE BY EVAN EVANS

Chapter 24 AT THE POSTERN Montana reached the stairs that wanted steeply down through the wall. Someone came running up toward him, almost crashed into him. The soldier jumped back against the wall. "Pardon, senator!" he gasped. Montana went silently past. He was down the second flight of stairs. He was at the entrance to the guardroom. There had been three men in the place when he and Rubric made their entrance, terrible hours before. There was almost a dozen present now, and there was a captain among them. From the depths of his throat, the kid summoned the gutters roar: "Attention!" and strode in on the wings of that word. They came to rigid attention, all of them, their eyes foolishly staring, their arms foolishly stiff at their sides. So the kid crossed to the door. "Open!" he thundered. "But, Excellency—" said the captain. There was a corporal who heard the word "excellency" and sprang like a frightened rabbit to do the first bidding. He worked feverishly, wrenching back the three bolts. He thrust them so fast and hard that they clanged loudly. The heavy door yawned a little. "Excellency—" said the captain. "Silence!" roared El Keed. "Silence be damned!" exclaimed the captain. "What are you and who are you?" He came striding, with a jingle of spurs, and the kid leaped through the widening lip of the door. The night struck at him like a wet black hand. He heard, from behind him, a scream of rage and astonishment like the shriek of a woman. He— to the left he turned, shedding the encumbering cloak as he ran. Behind him, the arm of light was widening, reaching into the rain of the night. And the gunners— each man shooting at the brilliant phantom "with in" of the light and the rain. Then they had sight of Montana to their left, already dim with night and distance, and running straight down the slope towards those willows which stood by the bank of the river. They paused even now to fire a few shots, in hope of good fortune and also to catch the ear of the rest of the fort. Then they burst into pursuit of a fugitive who was already invisible. One cry came out of the throat of the kid as he heard the willows. And when he came through them he found the gigantic form of the friar. The kid leaped on the red mare. "Take the black and the mule," he commanded. "I have half of the crown. The soldiers are after me. We must ford the river. Rubric will

Colorado Votes For Underpasses

Colorado—By a vote of more than five to one the Colorado electorate Tuesday went to the polls to write another mandate clearing the road for progress in this community. The election had to do with closing Elm and Oak street crossings over the Texas & Pacific railway properties as the final move for beginning construction on two underpasses and extension of streets to connect the traffic lanes, with thoroughfares serving north and south Colorado and the industrial district. A few days before light standards on Second street were ordered taken out by an overwhelming vote. One of the underpasses is to be built near channel of Lone Wolf creek east of the present Elm street crossing. First street is to be extended from the Elm intersection along north side of the rail property to the underpass and a new street will be opened south of the tracks connecting with Concho street. The second rail underpass is to be built near the Colorado river bridge and will serve traffic to add from the industrial district south of the railroad. Street extensions north and south of the tracks are to be built to connect this passage with thoroughfares already in use. From the chamber of commerce it has been announced that the Texas & Pacific railway will furnish a considerable amount of the construction cost. Through a project grant authorized several weeks ago at Austin the PWA will advance finances to pay labor costs, leaving only a small outlay to be met by the city. Vote on the question was one of the smallest registered in Colorado in several months. Out of only 161 voted, 128 were in favor of closing the streets and 26 against.

The Thrill That Comes Once In Lifetime DIARY SATURDAY JUNE 2. Busted a window in Flannagan's flour mill. Got a licking from old man Flannagan and one from dad when I got home. Dad had to pay $3.25 for the window. Smoked my first cigar this afternoon. Awful sick. Saw a nice cat bite just before supper. Some old fool had to go on spoil it with a pail of water. THE DISCOVERY OF THE INFALLIBLE PARENT'S BOYHOOD DIARY AND THAT HE HAD ONCE BEEN HUMAN

My God! how can a man walk invisible? I am robbed. Do you hear? And El Keed— A loud and sustained rattling of guns began at this moment. The general ran to the open window and leaned out. "It's from the postern! If the thief has escaped by the way he came, I'll skin the guards and eat them with my own teeth!" "No, Excellency. He could not have gone that way. I myself posted ten men and Captain—" "Damn the men—damn the captain! Names are no good. Numbers are nothing. Brains are what rule the world. Scatter! Use your feet if you can't use your wits!" The door was heavy, but Rubric could have carried it like a feather if he had not known that it was better to assume the swinging, slow pace of the true laborer. So he went patiently down the stairs, and through the lower gallery, and finally into the great open courtyard, where he was shocked by a noise of firing just outside the fort and a clamoring of voices made high and thin by excitement. He dropped the door to the ground, but noticing that some soldiers were watching him, he hastily put it on his back once more and went on. Had they captured Montana? Well, at least the curse of the alarm bell was still in his ear, beating on his brain with the impulse to flee as fast as he could. He kept to his steady gait right through the inside parade-ground. He was right at the gate before he was halted. "What goes there?" "Luis Lapaz." "What's that?" "The door of the room of General Estrada." "What are you doing with the door of the commander?" asked the lieutenant. He began to laugh as he asked the question. "I am carrying it," said Rubric, simply. "I can see you are, donkey. But why are you carrying it?" "I am taking it away," said Rubric. "Be patient," said another young officer. "You can see that the man is not right, up here." "Well, these fools! Luis Lapaz!" "Where is your pass?" "I lost it, my senator." "Come, come! Simpleton or no simpleton, that won't do here!

Italy Haven Of Fugitive Royalty; Duce's Police Guard Exiles Rigidly

They Loll In 'Dolce Far Nie nte' Under Sunny Skies

Dreams of restoration to toppled thrones fade for most royal exiles after they sample the unruffled life of Italy's aristocracy. Among the dozens of ex-kings, ex-queens and ex-princes who find haven in Mussolini's domain are Alfonso of Spain (upper left), Helen of Rumania (top center), Amanullah of Afghanistan (upper right), Zita of Austro-Hungary (lower left) and Christopher of Greece.

her brother, Prince Paul of Greece, more exiles. Once a year her son, Crown Prince Mihai, comes to visit her. Some say the boy yet may be the means of reconciling Helen and Carol.

Ex-Queen Sophie of Greece lived in Florence for years. She died Jan. 14, 1932 and is buried there. Her husband, ex-King Constantine, died at Palermo.

In Rome ex-King Alfonso of Spain has taken up his residence in the sumptuous villa of the opera singer, Titta Ruffo. He has his family with him, except ex-Queen Victoria, now in London and planning, it is said a legal separation.

Alfonso has more fight left in him than most of the others. He maintains close contact with the monarchist party in Spain, spends a good deal of money in a political way and has hopes of a return.

In Rome too is Amanullah, ex-king of Afghanistan. He has a villa and a large family. The children go to Italian schools. Of all the royalty in Italy Amanullah is probably the most retiring.

Prince Christopher of Greece, who married Princess Francoise of France, lives in Rome. His first wife was the widow of the American "tin plate king", William R. Leeds, Cleveland, Ohio.

Here also lives Princess Marie of Greece, widow of Russian Grand Duke Georges Michailovitch, a. s. o. by the bolshevists. She now is the wife of a Greek admiral, Pericles Joannides.

At Viareggio on the coast south of Pisa is the villa of the Hapsburgs, where ex-Empress Zita of Austro-Hungary and most of her family come for the summer.

French House At Palermo At Fianore di Luca, near Parma, is a villa of the Bourbon family. There lives Infanta Marie Antonia, aunt of ex-King Manoel of Portugal.

At Palermo is one of the headquarters of the French royalists. Here in 1931 Henri, Count of Paris, France's unofficial crown-prince, married Isabelle of Orleans. Last year the Duke de Guise, pretender to the French throne, conferred with his followers there.

Needle Finally Found FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (UP)—A needle Mrs. Marion Lindley swallowed 30 years ago pushed through the skin on her right arm. She was making doll clothes as a little girl when she swallowed the needle. She will use the needle now to quilt and mend for her family of four.

Greeks Family At Florence Ex-Queen Helen of Rumania is the latest addition to the royalist colony. Giving up her throne by divorcing King Carol, she migrated to Florence.

She has a villa on Fiesole hill overlooking the city. With her are her sisters, Princess Irene and Princess Catherine of Greece, and Only ex-students who are outstanding in their respective fields invited to address the conference, it was stated. Houston is one of eighteen graduates of the college who will appear. In addition to the graduates, fourteen students of the college will speak. Dr. Hollis L. Caswell of George Peabody college for Teachers, an expert in curriculum revision; Dr. Carleton Wolsey Washburne of Winnetka, Illinois; and Dr. Edwin Mims of Vanderbilt University are the principal lecturers.

Governor's Arm Saved

BOSTON, (UP)—The Massachusetts National Guard has decided to spare Governor James M. Curley's right arm. At the annual Washington's Birthday reception at the State House it is customary for the governor to shake hands with all National Guard officers. This year, however, there will be no handshaking, the officers having been instructed merely to stand at salute.

Fire Alarm On Toot MILTON, Mass. (UP)—The town's fire alarm atop the Baker chocolate factory at Dorchester went on a toot recently. Blown from a minor blaze, the alarm wouldn't stop and continued to shriek until the steam was exhausted. Meanwhile townfolk kept the Police headquarters busy in answer to their questions about a conflagration sweeping the area.

XENIA, O. (UP)—A superstitious thief raided the chicken yard of J. E. Watts, chief probation officer of the juvenile court here. Though Watts had 13 fowls, the thief took only 12.

Softer Water to Cheer Town BEREA, O. (UP)—Bereans, who find it hard to wash behind their ears—or anywhere else—because their city water is adamant to soap suds, are all in a lather over a bit of good news. When You Buy A New Automobile-- Equip It Immediately With Seiberling Sealed-Air Tubes

Wise motorists equip their cars immediately with Sealed-Air Tubes for they know they get a better trade-in for the old-fashioned Tubes they get with their new car by not driving them a mile.

Punctures are not only annoying but they are costly to tubes and tires and waste valuable time on the road.

In a recent test, by Seiberling engineers, eight hours of driving over a "Torture Road" of nails placed point up a total of 2,498 nails were picked up in tires equipped with Seiberling Sealed-Air Tubes—WITHOUT A FLAT.
