

Legal Curb Lacking On Influence Peddling

By DAVE CHEAVENS
AUSTIN, March 26 (AP)—A DeWitt County grand jury and district judge have bluntly warned Texas this state has no law to bar influence peddling by public officials, including legislators.

The action might also serve as a reminder that Texas has no specific statute to prevent a lawmaker from being on the payroll of corporations or individuals interested in legislation.

LEGISLATURE WIND-UP

Filibuster May Be Bitter Fight Omen

By BO BYERS
AUSTIN, March 26 (AP)—That record-breaking filibuster by Sen. Jimmy Phillips on Thursday-Friday may have been the forerunner of one of the most bitter wind-ups in Texas legislative history.

Tempers already were beginning to flare on other hot issues this week before Phillips called for an "insurrection" against what he called false economy.

Phillips' filibuster also was considered a significant indication of his personal political ambitions.

Coupled with his work in the veterans land scandal investigation, the headline publicity from his filibuster has made Phillips' name familiar to many Texas voters who will be going to the polls next summer.

The senator from Angleton, leg and arm weary from his 23-hour, 35-minute oratorical effort, laughingly countered questions today on his political future.

However, he has privately conceded he might enjoy living in Washington as a senator from Texas or in the mansion in Austin as the state's chief executive.

up with Sadler against increasing the gasoline tax.

Sadler made no answer on that score but became embroiled in a scrap at mid-week on the natural gas "economic waste," "price-fixing" bill. After the House Oil, Gas and Mining Committee deadlocked 10-10 on whether to recommend passage, the committee reported to the House it couldn't agree.

Phillips' filibuster also was considered a significant indication of his personal political ambitions.

He said he still hopes the Legislature will see that it is "foolish economy" not to provide funds for "proper operation of the hospital to its fullest capacity."

His statement could presage another floor fight on the 1 1/2-billion-dollar two-year general appropriation bill if the House-Senate Conference Committee fails to make some increase in working out a compromise between the two houses.

The big money bill which Phillips sought to amend has been passed by both, but differences between their spending recommendations must be resolved.

Word battles also flared this week on:

ering the Legislature, can remember only one instance in which a member has publicly announced his personal interest in a bill as a reason for not voting on it. There may have been others, but it is rare.

There is no statute specifically forbidding a legislator from working full-time or part-time, for instance, for an insurance company, a bank, an oil company, a newspaper or radio station.

The Texas legislative set-up in fact is such that lawmaking is constitutionally recognized as part-time business. Legislators have never been expected to depend on their state pay as a means of making a living.

They are school teachers, lawyers, business men, farmers—they represent a fairly accurate cross-section of Texas trades, businesses and professions.

It is common practice in the naming of legislative committees to put lawyers on committees dealing with specific criminal and civil laws and procedures; bankers on the banking committee; farmers on the agriculture committee, and so on. The presumption has been that their backgrounds equip them to deal with problems in those areas more intelligently than lawmakers with no experience there.

The presumption also has been that the lawmakers both in committee work and on the floor would conscientiously keep in mind the spirit of Section 22 of the Constitution.

It took the veteran's land scandal to prompt the DeWitt County grand jury to suggest directly to the Legislature that it make influence peddling by public officials illegal.

Belgian Police Jail Hundreds In School Tiff

BRUSSELS, Belgium, March 26 (AP)—Police battled thousands of Roman Catholic demonstrators in the heart of Brussels today with sabers, clubs, fire hoses and even a whiff of tear gas. Only about 40 persons were hurt and those slightly.

Official sources said 614 persons were arrested in the demonstration, organized to protest a projected cut in the amount of financial aid the government supplies to church schools. Only about 15 of these are to be prosecuted, the officials said.

Toward evening, reports came in of other trouble flaring—in Ghent and in Hasselt, about 33 miles east of Brussels. About 15,000 demonstrated in the latter city and four persons were hurt.

Of inhabitants professing a religion in Belgium, the majority are Roman Catholic. Most of the Catholics are Flemish-speaking.

In the capital, police used clubs and sabers and drenched the surging crowds with streams from high-pressure hoses. Two tear gas bombs were hurled but orders came from headquarters to stop using them at once. Police appeared under instructions to avoid any undue violence.

Official sources said the 40 persons injured included one policeman. They put the total hauled away to military barracks for screening at 564 men and 50 women, but said only 15 would be prosecuted on charges of illegal possession of weapons such as knives, clubs or bottles. Police planned to release those arrested after the city quiets down.

Among those taken into custody were four deputies from the Social Christian (Catholic) party. Police said they would also be released in a few hours.

Paving On Benton Between 3rd, 4th Awaits Curbing

The paving of Benton (Snyder Highway) between Third and Fourth Streets, scheduled by the Highway Department, is being held up by property owners. It was announced Saturday.

Not all the property owners on the block will pay their share of installing curbing and gutter costs, city records show. The city must install the curbing and gutter before the Highway Department will pave.

The street must be topped to give an all-paved link on the Snyder Highway between the two segments of Highway 80. Drivers going east on 80 must now turn on the gravel road to the north if going to Snyder.

The State Highway Department will contract for the paving only when the curb and gutters are installed, city commissioners have been told.

A number of people in the recently annexed area in East Big Spring have indicated that they wish to install curbing and gutters on their property to have Highway 80 widened. City Manager H. W. Whitney said.

The Highway Department is expected to submit a project for the curbing and gutter installation, according to an announcement made in city commission meeting several weeks ago.

154 Communicable Infections Listed

A total of 154 communicable disease cases was reported to the Big Spring-Howard Health Unit last week by local physicians.

Tonsillitis, with 27 cases, headed the list. There were 20 cases of influenza and 16 of bronchitis. Other diseases were diarrhea, 15; measles, 14; mumps, 10; chickenpox, 9; pneumonia, 7; upper respiratory, 13; gastroenteritis, 9; syphilis, 1; gonorrhea, 1; pink eyes, 2; and strep throat, 10.

Abilene Band Returns Home

NEW YORK, March 26 (AP)—A Texas college band returned today by plane from a two-week tour of London, Paris, Amsterdam, Zurich and Rome.

Raymond Rynum, conductor of the group from McMurry College, Abilene, said the tour was most satisfactory, that the players were well received and had many requests for American jazz music, particularly in Rome.

The tour was arranged by the Abilene Rotary Club Golden Anniversary Committee and Edward Stewart, committee chairman, accompanied the 31 musicians on the tour.

Silent Trams

LONDON, March 26 (AP)—The Russians say they've invented a noiseless street car. The Moscow radio reported this week it was built by the Riga Wagon Works.

Webb Cadets Hold Steak Fry, Dance

Approximately 200 members of the 3560th Student Squadron at Webb AFB and their guests staged a steak fry and a western dance Friday night.

The evening started off with the steak fry in the city park, and ended with the dance in the cadet club to the music of Billy Taylor's western group from San Angelo. Decorations in the club were of a western motif, complete with a frontier-style "jail."

Special guests during the evening included Col. and Mrs. Charles M. Young, Maj. and Mrs. Gerard Rooney, Maj. and Mrs. Max W. Wilemon, Maj. and Mrs. Roy B. Blumh, and Maj. and Mrs. Robert G. Woda.

City Requests Bids On Garbage Truck

The City of Big Spring is accepting bids on a new garbage truck, it was announced today by Purchasing Agent Roy Anderson.

The truck, with garbage packer body, must have gross weight — including load — of 21,000 pounds. All local truck dealers have been requested to submit bids, Anderson said.

Keys Are Found

A chain of four keys was found Thursday afternoon at the south entrance to the courthouse and Sheriff Jess Slaughter said the owner may claim them at his office. Two of the keys are for door locks and the other two are for padlocks. One of the door keys has been stamped with a "25."

Power Saws Free Man

Initial Mishap Occurs In One-Way Traffic Saturday

The new one-way traffic system in Big Spring resulted in one accident Saturday, and Chief of Police E. W. York said there have been a number of "near misses." The mishap was in the 1500 block of West Third Street about 1 p.m., and drivers involved were Julius Zoden, 1410 Wood, and Cleddie Henderson Vickers, transient.

Chief York said that Zoden was making a left turn at the time of the collision. Vickers was headed west in the left traffic lane, and the front of his car came in contact with the side of Zoden's vehicle.

This was the only accident attributed to the one-way traffic set-up, but there was a collision about 6:45 p.m. Friday at the Fourth and Greg intersection.

Workers Sought For Colorado

Latin Americans in Big Spring were being contacted concerning work on northern sugar beet farms at the Texas Employment Commission office here Friday.

Jerome Kovarik, employe of the Colorado Department of Employment Security, was representing the Holly Sugar Company in interviews with local workers. A plan for local Latin Americans who desire almost year around work in seven states was offered by the representative.

The workers sign up to work for specific farmers in the states which are cooperating in the program and every effort is made to assist him to follow the various harvests in other states as the become ready, the agent said.

Kovarik explained that workers could get a 1 m or 1 1/2 continuous work in seven states, (Texas, Colorado, New Mexico, Nebraska, Wyoming, Montana, and North Dakota), under this plan. Last year the program shipped 3,000 Latin Americans out of Texas to the fields in those states, and Kovarik said they planned to enlist from 5,000 to 6,000 this year.

Workers who sign up to work in the fields in Colorado will leave Texas about May 2, he said. This will mean that they will arrive at the farm in time for the harvest without having to wait around with no work.

The workers are guaranteed jobs before they leave Texas and may receive advances from the companies they will work for to enable them to get there, according to Kovarik. They are also provided with living quarters as well as advances in pay for the necessities of life.

Kovarik is a member of a 10-member team interviewing prospective workers in this area this year. He will be in the TEC office on alternate Fridays.

2 HCJC Students Named For OCS By Marine Corps

Two students from Howard County Junior College have been accepted for officer training in the Marine Corps, it was announced Saturday from the Dallas procurement office.

They are Howard L. Thames, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Thames, 608 E. 12th, and Charles R. Gibson, Chillicothe.

Both will complete the spring semester at HCJC before entering the service. They will report to the Marine Corps School at Quantico, Va., in July for 12 weeks of officer training.

Thames is a freshman at the school, and Gibson is a sophomore. Gibson is a member of the student council, Ag Club, Circle "K" and Athletic Club.

Railing Goes Up

An aluminum railing was being installed Saturday around the war memorial recess on the east side of the courthouse square. The railing is the last phase of courthouse construction and grounds improvement started two years ago.

Legislature Gets Down To 'Trading Stage'

AUSTIN — This session of the Texas Legislature, now two weeks past the half-way mark, has worked itself down into the "trading stage."

"No bill is running by itself now," one member commented at the end of the week.

The absence of a two-party system has been very obvious in voting on "special interest" measures in the House of Representatives.

Behind it all there's alignment of pro and anti-Shivers forces, but those lines haven't been clearly drawn on special interest measures.

For instance, there's the Trinity River Bill, not yet up for vote, which has been kicking up so much fuss and dumping loads of mail on members' desks. Then there's the "economic waste" or "price-fixing" bill (the title depends on which side you're on in the natural gas fight).

Some West Texas members are inclined to look favorably on the Trinity River proposal, if in turn Dallas and Fort Worth members look kindly on the natural gas proposal.

When you get into the matter of water legislation, the lines sometimes shift. The farmer and the city man don't look on it alike since their interests are different. And, the interests of the upstream cities and the downstream irrigation folk don't jibe.

Insurance and securities law reforms draw some altogether different lines.

Various forms of taxation have their friends and their very vocal foes.

A major factor in chances for all measures is the amount of influence the Shivers administration can and will exert.

As things now stand, the appropriations bill is headed for conference committee. No tax bill has yet been reported out of committee.

Supposition now is the administration might try a run with its 2-cent gas tax increase. Other single shot tax bills, such as that on cigarettes, might be kept in storage. If the gas tax has trouble, as it is expected to, the strategy might be to fall back on an omnibus tax bill which has been introduced, and hike such items as needed to meet the appropriation bill.

The spending bill can't finally pass until money's in sight to foot the bill. As time runs out, lawmakers might be caught in the squeeze of voting out taxes — or seeing the conference committee pare the spending bill to fit the income in sight.

WINGS OVER BIG SPRING Hangar Space Gone At Hamilton Field

Hamilton Field has reached total capacity, according to Barney Edens, manager of the field. There is no hangar space left at the field, he said, and if flying enthusiasm keeps up its present pace, Big Spring flyers will not have adequate facilities for their aircraft.

The field uses rope "tie-downs" for many aircraft now, he said. Normally these tie-downs are used for temporary parking, but many planes at the field must use them all the time because of the inadequate hangar space. Enough tie-downs for five more planes are being installed at the field now, he added.

Harvey Hooser soloed last week at Hamilton. He is a member of the Big Four Flying Club and almost crashed week before last making a solo flight. Since completing his solo flight, he has been logging up solo flying hours.

J. W. McClendon bought a new Luscombe at Snyder last week. He finished the deal for the aircraft last Saturday and has been trying it out this week.

Eighteen Big Spring flyers have signed up to aid in the formation of a Civil Air Patrol squadron, according to Dr. James Whitney. The squadron would become a part of a CAP organization which now has approximately 80,000 members, 5,000 privately owned planes, and about 500 planes on loan from the Air Force.

The CAP was formed Dec. 1, 1941, Whitney said, by the Office of Civilian Defense. It was transferred to the War Department in 1943 and achieved its present status as an auxiliary of the Air Force in 1948. The CAP has as its purpose today the promotion of aviation in all phases.

The membership is divided into senior component, comprising members 18 years old or over, and a cadet component for those age 15 to 17. Senior activities cover training, administration, and operations. Cadet activities are limited primarily to training.

All subjects pertaining to aviation are covered by CAP training except actual flight training. Each year the cadet program is climaxed with an encampment at an Air Force base. The cadets spend from one to two weeks as temporary members of the Air Force. They receive training by base personnel as well as regular orientation flights.

The most spectacular activity of the CAP is the search and rescue work, Whitney said. The fliers are paid nothing for this work but in 1953, two-thirds of the total hours flown by all agencies on search and rescue missions at the request of the Air Rescue Service were logged by CAP pilots.

Both sexes are eligible for membership in the CAP, Whitney said. CAP members are authorized to wear official insignia on U. S. Air Force uniforms and are given identification cards as members of the Air Force auxiliary.

In this "Air Age" the CAP is serving a useful function in the life of the country, Whitney said. Persons interested in getting in the CAP program now developing Big Spring should contact Dr. Whitney.

TCU Trustees Hit Federal Gas Control

FORT WORTH, March 26 (AP)—Texas Christian University trustees recorded today strong opposition to federal control of production and gathering of natural gas.

Their concern was over possible decrease of income from endowment investments and curtailment of gifts to those funds.

In a formal resolution, the board voted to petition officials to enact laws which "will make it clear that production and gathering of natural gas and its sale by the producer is not within the jurisdiction of the Natural Gas Act."

10 Persons In Bus-Collision

HEARNE (AP)—Ten persons were injured, none seriously when a Greyhound bus struck a car stopped for a red light at 3:30 a.m. today.

Highway Patrolman Floyd Tiptit quoted the bus driver, Lewis Herring, Houston, as saying his brakes failed. Tiptit said the car was knocked about 200 feet.

Assault Charged

Aggravated assault charges were filed Friday in County Court against George Henry Brown of Colorado City. Complaint was made by his wife, who resides in Big Spring. County Attorney Harvey Hooser said.

Ballpoint Pens Get Postal Try

Those scratchy, ink-spilling nib pens at the post office may be on the way out, if present plans of the Post Office Department prove successful.

The department has purchased 20,000 ballpoint pens to be used in 20 eastern post offices on a trial basis. In 17 of the cities, the ballpoints will be chained to the desks and in three, the pens will be left lying loose.

The test will be used to decide whether or not the pens will be used universally. Permanent use of the pens will be decided on how many of them are stolen and how well they stand up.

Local Postmaster E. C. Bostler said he had not been advised that they would be used here in the experiment, but he did know of an experiment in St. Louis that failed. He said the post office there tried out the ballpoints and so many of them were stolen that the idea was abandoned.

Bank Robber Gets $2,000

JUSTIN, Tex., March 26 (AP)—A youthful, tight-lipped gunman held up the Justin State Bank today and escaped with about $2,000.

Road blocks were thrown up in North Texas after the robber sped south from this Denton County town of 500 toward Fort Worth.

There were only three persons in the bank—the president, cashier, and assistant cashier—when the unmasked bandit entered at 10:50 a.m.

Bank President Newton Knox said the robber approached him.

"He threw a white bag at me and said, 'Fill it up', Knox related. 'Then I saw his gun.'"

While the robber held the gun on him, Knox scooped up bills and coins from the counter and put them in the bag.

Standing near Knox were Miss Alta Williams, cashier, and Mrs. Frances Jones, assistant cashier.

The gunman ordered all three to lie on the floor while he made his escape.

The bank president said he was not sure how much money he was forced to scoop into the bag but that a preliminary check of the bank's fund showed about $2,000 missing.

Currency Revision

NEW DELHI, India, March 26 (AP)—The government is thinking of revising India's currency next year to put it on a decimal basis. The plan calls for dividing the Indian rupee, which is worth 21 U.S. cents, into 10 annas and each anna into 10 pies. At present it takes 16 annas to make a rupee and each anna has 12 pies.

Assault Suspect Held By Police

Police arrested a man early Saturday morning who they say may be charged with assaulting Eulalio Flores with a pipe.

Flores, 63-year-old Latin American, was injured about 10:30 p.m. Friday at the North Side Drug, according to the police record. He was treated at Big Spring Hospital.

The man was arrested in the 200 block of Northwest Third about 5:15 a.m. Saturday after an all-night search. Flores did not appear to prefer charges Saturday, officers said.

Steam Atomics

ROME, March 26 (AP)—Italy's National Committee for Nuclear Research reports construction is to start soon on a plant for the production of heavy water. It is to utilize hot vapors that emerge from the ground in the Larderello Valley near Pisa.

Guidance Program Discussed For Club

Wilder A. Roe was guest speaker at the Kiwanis Club luncheon here Thursday. He told the Kiwanians about the vocational guidance work being conducted at the high school.

J. B. Whiteley, Kiwanis vocational guidance committee chairman, was in charge of the program which featured Mary Walker, a high school senior, who sang "My Wild Irish Rose."

Roe explained to the club all the various phases of vocational guidance work. He pointed out that the students are given examinations and tests to determine what kind of business they are best suited for.

New Car Damaged

The front seat of a 1955 Buick was damaged during a fire Saturday as a result of fire. The car, parked in the 900 block of North Greg, caught fire as a result of smoking, firemen said. Owner of the car was not identified.

HOUSE-HUNTING—Julia, 8, and James, 5, help their parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Dickey, above, as they search for an "unfurnished house for rent." Coming here from San Angelo, the county engineer and his wife have left their furniture stored until they can find a house. Mrs. Dickey is from England, having come to this country in 1946. The family now lives at 1603 Main.

Newcomers To Big Spring

DO-IT-YOURSELF is the first interest of Lt. and Mrs. Mack Stoeltje, right, 1605B Lexington, as he has made quite a bit of furniture. Next in importance is the toy terrier, Fifi, who appears none too happy at posing. One look at the picture would tell you why Mrs. Stoeltje was chosen Miss Wool one year and why she has done modeling at leading department stores in Houston and Austin.

HOT-ROD DEVOTEE — Young Kenny Austin, son of Lt. and Mrs. Ken Austin, (photo at left), Ranch Inn Courts, seems to be as interested in the models of hot-rods as his father is. The trophies behind the lieutenant are some of the many he has won in racing cars which he has worked over. He is able to give an interesting account of how he transformed a block and crankshaft of a 1952 Ford, which was donated by a firm in Tacoma, Wash., to make a high-powered racer.

COLLECTORS — When Lt. Raymond McMahon, right, isn't working in his shop with the power tools, he may be assembling pistols such as the ones in this picture. Or he may be working on ship models in bottles. Again, he may be just listening to some of the music boxes in the beer mugs which Mrs. McMahon has brought to this country from her native Poland. They live at 803 Gregg, and their apartment houses an interesting collection, including a 400-day clock from Germany.

SURPRISE!—The George Lanford family (pictured left) go in for hunting and fishing and Monty seems to be thinking, "I don't remember ever seeing a wild animal like that!" An outdoor life appeals to all of them, but when it's time to stay indoors, TV is the mainstay of 11-year-old Gary. Mr. Lanford is employed by the Ray Flex Exploration Co., and they live at 711 Main.

CAMERA FAN—Six-months-old Deborah Bishop, above, is much more interested in the photographer than she is in the Bible story being read to her sister, Cheryl, and her brother, Stephen. They are children of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bishop, 1218 Mulberry. The family came here from Amarillo when Mr. Bishop was transferred as loan manager of Southwestern Investment Co. The parents are quite ardent bowlers, having been members of several teams in their former home.

Makes Work A Pleasure

Grading papers doesn't seem so much like work when there's a comfortable contour chair available like the one Bernard Rains is sitting in. Having completed her tasks, Mrs. Jack Gary gloats over her leisure. This is one corner of the lounge furnished for the teachers by the P-TA Junior High School.

Refreshing Pause

Be it coffee or a soft drink, the relaxation that comes with it is made more pleasant by a visit with co-workers. Left to right, Mrs. Zolite Mae Rawlins and Mrs. Keith McMillin listen to Jack Everett. This is another inviting spot in the teachers' lounge at Junior High.

Teachers' Lounge Has Comforts Of Home

By ANNE LAPEVER
A school teacher's life was never like this "in the old days" Time was when the only place an instructor had to sit down for a bit of relaxation was in the school office with its uncomfortable office chairs. Now, thanks to the Junior High School P-TA, those instructors have a comfortable, livable room where they may relax, visit or, if the necessity presses, grade papers, in complete comfort. Done in shades of green, brown and coral, a lounge has been furnished by the P-TA with a divan, several occasional chairs, and, best of all, two contour chairs. Bamboo window curtains soften the light, and a redwood screen provides privacy. A redwood screen will be used as a divider between the living room area and the corner with a sink, a refrigerator and a small hotplate on a metal table with shelves. A dining table provides facilities for work or serving snacks. Two pictures were selected by Clara Secrest, who also directed the work of her Eighth Grade Art classes in making a mural for a wall. Lamps, ashtrays and book-ends were given by the teachers for the modernistic coffee table and the other small tables. Mrs. Clyde Thomas Jr. is the president of the organization. Chairman of the lounge committee is Mrs. Zolite Mae Rawlins and her assistants are Mrs. Jack Gary, Mrs. Keith McMillan, Bernard Rains and Jack Everett.

Officers' Wives Meet Newcomers

Mrs. Robert D. Whittington Jr. was in charge of a coffee welcoming 40 new members of the Officers' Wives Club Friday at the Ellis Hall Lounge. Centering the table was a miniature tree bearing colored Easter eggs. Miniature birds perched on the limbs. Easter baskets filled with lace were placed on either side of the centerpiece. Mrs. Clifford F. Holake Jr. and Mrs. Richard O. Franz presided at the coffee service. Mrs. Whittington was assisted by Mrs. Carlton Virdien.

Miss Smith Says Vows With R. B. Neisler

Saturday evening, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Byron B. Smith, 1305 Sycamore, was the scene of an informal wedding, when their daughter, Mae Evelyn, became the bride of A-1C R. B. Neisler. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Neisler of Huntington, Ark. The Rev. Warren Stowe, pastor of the Brownfield Calvary Baptist Church read the double ring ceremony. "O, Promise Me" was a piano solo played by the bride's

Juniors, Seniors Have Class Banquet

GARDEN CITY—A fiesta theme was used in decorations and program for the junior-senior banquet at the Wagon Wheel in Big Spring Friday. B. L. Murphy gave the invocation. Patsy Gotcher, mistress of ceremonies, gave the welcome and Retta Stephens the response. Dr. R. Gage Lloyd, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, was the principal speaker. Deanna Watkins sang "El Rocio Grande" accompanied by Rob Childers and Eugene Dawe. Childers and Dawe sang "My Adobe Hacienda." The group sang "Auld Lang Syne." W. A. Wilson gave the benediction. Sponsors are Mrs. A. M. Nunley, senior class, and Mrs. Bill Paschel and M. A. Barber, junior class. Forty-two attended.

Labor, Time Saver

You can buy frozen shrimp that have been graded, peeled, deveined and put into eight-ounce packages. Handy to have on hand to use for a shrimp cocktail as a first course. Or heat the shrimp with a can of stewed tomatoes and serve over rice as a main course.

FHA Raises Money For Convention

ACKERLY — The FHA will use the $55.75 made from a play they presented to send the girls to the state FHA convention in Galveston. The Good Housekeeping Shop provided the furniture for the stage set.

In Dancing Trim

Moira Shearer, famous ballerina, talks to Lydia Lane about exercise, fashion and the contrast between American and European women. After many years as a reigning ballerina, the natural redhead plans to concentrate on motion picture making.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Dancer Has Exercise To Keep Waist Trim

By LYDIA LANE
 HOLLYWOOD — Moira Shearer, the beautiful and talented ballerina of "The Red Shoes," confided to me sometime ago that her tour with "A Midsummer Night's Dream" was her swan song as far as the ballet was concerned, although she had not yet made a formal announcement.

"I am not retiring from the theater," she explained. "I enjoy making pictures and hope to continue, but the ballet is too demanding now that I have a family. After my baby was born, I found that in order to get back to where I left off, I'd have to work strenuously for six months. The ballet requires tremendous control, discipline and concentration and I no longer desire that kind of dedication," Moira told me in her suite at the Ambassador Hotel.

"Ballet dancers look fragile but they have to train like boxers and have the same kind of stamina. We eat energy foods like tartar steak, the yolks of raw eggs and lot of honey. A few hours before going on stage I always drink the yolks of two eggs mixed with honey and lemon."

Moira was wearing a soft blue dressing gown which tied around her tiny waist.

"What does your waist measure?" I asked her.

"Twenty-two inches — without lacing," she replied.

"I think having good firm muscles made it easier for me to get back in shape after the baby came. Ballet is a wonderful body conditioner. I recommend it for anyone who leads a sedentary life. Besides being wonderful exercise, it develops grace."

Moira gave me her favorite exercise for keeping her waistline trim when she isn't dancing. Here it is just as she demonstrated it for me.

Sit on the floor close enough to a wall so that you can rest the soles of your feet against it, making a 45 degree angle with legs straight. Now try to lie down, lowering your spine to the floor slowly — one vertebra at a time. The idea is to get your back flat against the floor without removing your feet from the wall. As you go down, stretch your arms above your head. This helps to release spinal tension.

Even Moira agreed that this is not an easy exercise and it will require working with before you can do it to a steady rhythm but its benefits are three-fold. It reduces the waist, flattens the stomach and helps you to relax.

Moira has traveled many times across our continent and observed Americans in every section of the country. She has a great admiration for the fashion sense of the American women and admits that we are much better dressed than the Europeans.

"Even the women on limited budgets manage to look very smart," Moira said, "but I find that in following fashion they seem to have sacrificed individuality. I'm constantly impressed how much alike the American women seem to look. Personally, I'm more concerned with being different than being in vogue."

"It's very easy to fall into a rut about clothes and let others dictate what you should wear but remember that the fashion designers may not be designing for your particular type of figure. Be objective and critical and choose your clothes with discrimination. It isn't always easy to be honest about yourself but if you are to achieve anything, whether it is success in your career or your personal relationships with people, you must have a true evaluation of yourself," Moira advised.

Moira has the most beautiful red hair I've ever seen.

"No one ever gives me credit for being a natural redhead," Moira complained.

"I do my hair myself once a week. I think the right shampoo makes such a difference, especially with hair as dry as mine," she added, suggesting that women try different brands.

Moira has a typical English complexion — clear and smooth and fresh looking.

"The climate in England makes for a good skin. It's cold over there and we are used to chilly rooms. It was difficult for me to get used to the awful central heating in the hotels here. I think the hot, dry air that you are used to in your homes is drying."

"With the highly heated rooms in winter and the summer sun, I don't wonder that your women complain about dry skin so much," was Moira's sage observation.

Moira also had some definite ideas about make-up.

"It has to look natural or it is wrong," she said. "Too many American women, I think, wear too much make-up. Some seem to think that unless you are overly made-up, you are not properly made-up. I can't agree with this."

NEED EXERCISE?
 Moira is right when she stresses the importance of regular exercise. Try her routine, if you like. And if you'd like to establish a routine of your own, leaflet M-5 will give you a lot of help — the leaflet is called "Exercises of the Stars." Here you'll learn how Hollywood stars reduce waist, hips, abdomen, legs and ankles. Tells how and when to exercise. Get your copy of this important leaflet by sending 5 cents AND a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lydia Lane, Big Spring, P. O. Box 1111, Los Angeles 53, Calif. Remember to ask for leaflet M-5.

Mrs. W. H. Dugan, a former resident of Big Spring, is in Harris Memorial Hospital in Fort Worth, where she underwent major surgery on Wednesday. Her condition is satisfactory.

Foreign Guests Visit Garden Club Meeting

Dr. Olga Mossani of Florence, Italy, in speaking to the convention of District One garden clubs, told her audience that she had often wondered how American women could get so many things accomplished. Since she has been in this country to observe the American way of life, she has learned that the magic word is "together," she said.

Dr. Mossani and Mrs. Georgette Barbizet of Paris, France, were guests of honor at the meeting, which was held in Berger Thursday and Friday. Attending from Big Spring were Mrs. Bruce Praxler, Mrs. Don Williams, Mrs. W. D. Caldwell and Mrs. D. S. Riley.

The district includes 79 federated garden clubs with about 2,246 members. The group from Odessa won the prize for having traveled the greatest distance to reach the meeting.

Installation of officers was conducted by Mrs. Ralph McCullough of Hereford, vice president elect of Texas Garden Clubs, Inc. Using the theme of the composition of a flower, she compared each officer to some part of the blossom or the stem. Mrs. Cliff Wiley of Big Spring was installed as fifth vice president of the district.

Dr. E. W. Zuckauskas Jr., instructor and Green House manager at Texas Tech, spoke to the group on "Planting For Evergreen Effect in the Garden Area." He stressed the need for selecting plants and shrubs according to how well-suited they are for the soil and climate in which they are to be placed.

Five elements to be considered in having a successful garden were named by the speaker as being water, protection, soil, a central plan and the use and purpose of the garden.

It was announced at the convention that there will be an experiment farm of one-half to one acre planted in chrysanthemums at Tech, and a committee will be appointed from the federated garden clubs to help select the kinds to be used.

Mrs. Don Paschal, assisted by Mrs. J. D. Dillard of Midland, state pilgrimage chairman, asked that any garden, public or private, that is open for visitors be reported to her. Amarillo clubs announced that the formal opening of their Garden Center will be held on April 2. They maintain a paid attendant and have issued patron memberships for $5.

The women voted to back attempts to have Highway 87 designated as the Blue Star Highway. Mrs. D. H. Buchanan of Temple will send a film on "Conservation of Natural Resources" to clubs for just the cost of the postage, members were told.

It was also announced that the Phillips Garden Club has slides of wild flowers made one year when they bloomed well. The slides may be shown for $5. About 138 women registered for the meeting, which was the ninth annual convention of District One.

Daughter Is Born To Donald Lesters

Mr. and Mrs. Donald B. Lester are announcing the birth of a daughter, Cynthia Ann, Saturday at Big Spring Hospital.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Clark of Sterling City and Mr. and Mrs. Noel Lester. Great-grandparents are S. P. Petty Sr. of Big Spring, Mrs. W. F. Griffin of Tulsa, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Clark of Jennings, La., and the late Frank Lester.

Easy On The China

If you'd like to keep your good dinnerware intact, never put a piece of it in the refrigerator. Also do not warm good china quickly over a flame. Warm it instead by slow degrees, and don't allow hot or other foodstuffs to burn on it.

Can You Fight Off Flu on the Job?

No, in fact, it is highly important to stay in bed from the time you catch influenza until you are completely recovered and the danger of complications is past. Most of the half million Americans who are believed to have died of influenza in the epidemic of 1918-1919 were actually killed by the complication of pneumonia.

Your doctor can provide you with effective help in preventing influenza and with lifesaving care during illness. We can fill any of your prescriptions promptly.

Our Religious Faiths

What Is A Presbyterian? (Part II Of Article IX)

What is another of a series of informative articles on present-day religions, written for the Herald by leading authorities of the various faiths and denominations. Other articles describe other faiths.

By DR. JOHN SUTHERLAND BONNELL
Minister of First Avenue Presbyterian Church
New York City

What is the Presbyterian attitude to divorce?

Divorce is permitted to the innocent party on Scriptural grounds (adultery) and the innocent party may remarry. The earliest Presbyterian regulations are explicit on this point. No Presbyterian minister may marry persons who have been divorced less than 12 months.

Presbyterian churches are seeking to curb the widespread evil of divorce by a more careful examining of persons presenting themselves for marriage and by organizing groups of young people in "Preparation for Marriage" classes.

Does the Presbyterian Church forbid birth control?

The Presbyterian Church does not legislate for its people on personal moral issues. Nothing in the Church's teaching, however, can be construed as forbidding an intelligent, conservative and unselfish employment of birth control.

The commandment of God to our first parents, "Be fruitful and multiply," was given at a time when the world was underpopulated. Presbyterians do not believe this precept is relevant today when overpopulation in many areas produces hunger and famine.

Do Presbyterians employ the confessional?

Not in the same sense as Roman Catholics or High Church Episcopalians. Believing in "the priesthood of all believers," Presbyterians make their confession directly to God—without a human intermediary.

The great increase of spiritual counseling has taught Presbyterians that confession is sometimes more searching and thoroughgoing when it is made to God in the presence of a pastor. Such confession is voluntary, never compulsory. And the confession is made to God, not the pastor.

What do Presbyterians believe about salvation?

They believe that salvation is not earned by good works but is the gift of God. Good works are the fruits of salvation, evidence that we are growing in grace and in the knowledge of Christ.

Presbyterians believe that salvation is found only through a complete commitment and surrender to God as He is revealed in Christ. God pardons our sins and accepts us—not for any merit of our own, but because of our faith in the perfect obedience of Christ and His sacrificial death.

Forgiveness, grace and salvation are obtained, through a direct personal relationship to God—without the mediation of ministers or priests. Presbyterians accept the New Testament witness: "For there is one God, and one mediator between God and men, the man Christ Jesus."

Do Presbyterians believe in predestination?

Presbyterians believe that God alone determines man's salvation. Salvation is not a human achievement. The wording of the Westminster Confession leads some to believe that predestination deprived man of all freedom of choice—that his fate was "sealed" at birth. But the Declaratory Statement, adopted by the Presbyterian Church in the United States in 1803, states: "Men are fully responsible for their treatment of God's gracious offer (of salvation) and... no man is hindered from accepting it and... no man is condemned except on the ground of his sin."

Do Presbyterians believe in the Resurrection?

With a few exceptions, Presbyterians do not interpret the phrase in the Apostles' Creed, "the resurrection of the body," as meaning the physical body.

St Paul writes: "Flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God; neither doth corruption inherit incorruption." They understand "the resurrection of the body," as a reference to the spiritual body, which is a medium of growth and self-expression appropriate to a spiritual world.

Who was the founder of Presbyterianism?

John Calvin, who broke with the Church of Rome at the age of 34, did more than any man to set forth the principles upon which modern Presbyterianism is built. But it is questionable whether the term "founder" is appropriate.

Calvin summoned Christians to return to a form of government which was prevalent in the first century A.D. John Knox, during his exile from Britain, lived in Geneva, where he studied Calvin's teaching. Knox was the most powerful single force in establishing Presbyterianism in Scotland, where it is the dominant creed.

How is the Presbyterian Church governed?

The Presbyterian system of church government is itself a representative democracy. The people govern the Church through elected representatives. The layman has a prominent role in the Presbyterian Church. All property is vested in laymen—not in ministers or bishops. In the larger courts of the Church, the vote of every minister is balanced by the vote of a layman. Laymen are eligible for the highest office (moderator) in each court.

What role did Presbyterians play in the establishment of American democracy?

So great was the participation of Presbyterians in the Revolutionary War that it was described in the British House of Commons as this "Presbyterian rebellion." A historian writing in the Encyclopedia Britannica says: "The Presbyterians exerted a great influence in the construction of the Constitution of the United States, and the government of the Church was assimilated in no slight degree to the civil government of the country."

Presbyterians are proud of the fact that the Rev. John Witherspoon was the only clergyman who signed the Declaration of Independence. At least 13 other signers of this historic document can be identified as Presbyterians.

Having suffered greatly from persecution in the Old World, Presbyterians had an immense fear of political and religious oppression in the New. The words of John Knox to Mary, Queen of Scots, the Roman Catholic sovereign of Scotland, were frequently quoted during the war in America: "If principles exceed their bounds, Madam, they may be resisted and even deposed."

Four-Year Term
FORT WORTH (AP)—Mrs. Sylvia Redman was given four years yesterday after conviction of murder without malice. Mrs. Redman, 37, was charged in the abortion death of Mrs. Betty Ledel, 27, Oct. 19.

Shot To Death
HOUSTON (AP)—Mrs. Robert Gibson, 32, was found shot to death in the garage of her La Porte home yesterday. A shotgun was beside the body.

Upside-Down City
CAPE MAY, N.J. (AP)—Residents stared across Delaware Bay yesterday at Lewes, Del., 13 miles away. It was upside down. The strange sight, which lasted 15 minutes, was attributed to a mirage caused by atmospheric conditions.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

From Penny Keith, who is about 12 years of age, I have a letter containing these words:

"I would like to know more about Flying Saucers. Would you put something about them in your column?"

In past years I have spoken about this subject, and I have only a little to add to what I have said before.

While I was in Europe the past autumn, there were many reports of flying saucers, chiefly from France. Not all of the objects were said to be round; some were reported as being cigar-shaped.

In the course of time I expect that a true and well rounded answer will be found for the flying saucer puzzle. It has been suggested that weather balloons may explain them, also natural figures in the sky, such as "mock suns."

It is likely that many reports of flying saucers have been based on nothing more than the objects mentioned, but I consider that mystery remains.

Another letter, from Michael Sallant, has this paragraph:

"I believe in flying saucers because I reason that if life is possible on earth it may be possible on another planet. If people of other planets have mastered space travel, they must have intelligence beyond imagination."

Paul Booth writes on the same subject saying:

"The recent advance in atomic energy makes it feasible to believe that some government like Soviet Russia or Great Britain (that has a vast territory to work with) may be in the experimenting stage with flying saucers."

Those letters, and others, lead me to ask readers, in general, about their opinion in regard to flying saucers. If anyone has seen a flying saucer (or something which looked like one) I should like to have a report.

Whatever the facts about the machines, the stories about "little men only three feet tall" sound like fairy tales to me.

If people from another planet could come here, it surely would be interesting to see them and talk with them!

Alan Ladd, Gunfighter

Alan Ladd and Jean Arthur star in "Shane," the offering today at the State. The Technicolor film received an "Oscar" in 1953 for the "Best Cinematography."

'Country Girl'

William Holden stands aside for Grace Kelly and Bing Crosby in this scene from "The Country Girl," beginning today and playing through Wednesday at the Ritz. The film has received seven nominations for Academy Awards.

'Country Girl,' Bidder For Oscars, Opening At Ritz

"Country Girl" begins today and plays through Wednesday at the Ritz, starring Bing Crosby, Grace Kelly, and William Holden. This film has received seven Academy Award nominations and threatens to win most of them. Crosby has a role unlike any he has played to date. He plays a has-been, guilt-ridden actor who has become an alcoholic. Grace Kelly plays his wife, who accepts all the blame for his failures, in order to bring him back up the ladder to stardom. William Holden is a director who offers to give Crosby his comeback chance. And Holden and Grace Kelly, each helping Crosby in their own way, find themselves attracted to each other. The development of these events help to make the picture real Academy Award material. Each of the stars has an excellent role which brings out latent talents not seen in previous films. "Country Girl" might make Grace Kelly one of the top actresses in Hollywood. Four new songs by Ira Gershwin and Harold Arlen are featured in the picture. "The Search is Through," "It's Mine, It's Yours,"

"The Land Around Us," and "Love and Learn," are all hit tunes. Crosby has also developed a young actress in this "Country Girl." Jacqueline Fontaine, a new Hollywood blonde bombshell, first met Crosby at his golf course. He was impressed with her singing ability and arranged for her to appear in this film. She joins him in a duet of "Love and Learn." This picture has resulted in seven Academy Award nominations. Crosby was nominated as 1954's "Best Actor," Grace Kelly as "Best Actress," George Seaton for the "Best Screenplay" and "Best Director," John F. Warren for the "Best Photography," and Roland Anderson and Hal Pereira for the "Best Art Direction." And, to add to that, "Country Girl" was nominated as the "Best Picture of 1954." But nominations for awards is not all this picture has received. Parent's Magazine named it the best film of 1954 and gave it a "Special Merit Medal." Three organizations selected Grace Kelly as the "Best Actress" and two of them selected Crosby as the "Best Actor" of the year. The New York Film Critics, the National Board of Review, and the General Federation of Women's Clubs all selected Miss Kelly as the best actress and the latter two named Bing Crosby as the best actor. Whether the film wins an Academy Award or not, it should be highly entertaining and memorable.

Debra Paget

Kirk Douglas Stars At Ritz

Kirk Douglas stars in the Technicolor film, "Man Without a Star" Thursday through Saturday at the Ritz. Based on the novel by Dee Linford, the picture co-stars Jeanne Crain and Clair Trevor. Jeanne Crain plays a determined ranch owner who oversees a ranch and her men, driving them to ruthless methods in taking over her neighbors' ranchlands. Claire Trevor is a saloon hostess who offers Kirk Douglas good advice when she tells him to stay away from Jeanne Crain's ranch. Douglas is intent on teaching his young sidekick, William Campbell, the fundamentals of being a real cowboy. The exciting stampedes and fights bring the younger cowhand into the field the hard way. Jeanne Crain is surprising in this hard-boiled role, as she normally plays the "sweet girl" characters. Though surprising, her acting is good and one of the finer features of the film. Douglas plays his usual good part.

Whether the film wins an Academy Award or not, it should be highly entertaining and memorable.

Jesse James Had Love Life

Everyone knows Jesse James was rough on banks and men, but perhaps it isn't so well known that he was a "wow" with the fairer sex. In "Jesse James' Women" the famous outlaw has no less than five of them after him and they greatly complicate his life as a bank robber. Don Barry plays Jesse James and he is hiding out in a Mississippi town preparing to leave ahead of the law when his woman troubles begin. His feminine interests are Peggy Castle, a saloon owner; Joyce Rhed, the banker's daughter; Betty Brueck, an old flame called "Cattle Kate"; Lita Baron, a gold-digger; and Laura Lee, the sheriff's daughter. Each one of them has a good chance to hook the outlaw but his choice is made for more practical reasons. Jack Beutel, (star of Howard Hughes' "Outlaw," plays Frank James in this movie, which is in Technicolor. The picture will play Friday and Saturday at the State.

ENTRIES FOR 'OSCAR RACE' MUST BE TURNED IN BY WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Wednesday, 8 p.m., March 30 is the last day to deposit your ballot at the Ritz Theatre in the Big Spring "Oscar" contest. The Big Spring who comes the closest to correctly naming the six major Academy Award winners will be given an expense-paid trip to the fabulous Western Hills Hotel at Fort Worth. This first prize includes transportation both ways, plane or train; room for three days and two nights; and 50 bucks extra, for two persons. The contest is easy. Just name the "best actor," "best actress," "best supporting actor," "best supporting actress," "best picture," and "best director" of 1954. The group has already been nominated, just select the right one and drop your ballot at the Ritz. Second prize is a free pass for a year at the Big Spring theatres, third prize is a pass for six months, and the fourth, fifth and sixth prizes are passes for three months. The contest is sponsored by the Big Spring theatres and The Herald. Winners will be announced Monday, April 4.

More Academy Award Films Play This Week At State

The parade of the Academy Award winners of past years continues through Tuesday at the State. "Shane" is the offering today, starring Alan Ladd. The film received the "Best Cinematography" award in 1953. Almost every actor in "Shane" has a starring role. Ladd plays an enigmatic ex-gunman who is welcomed into the typical home of Van Heflin and Jean Arthur. Their little boy, Brandon De Wilde, chooses Ladd as his own personal hero. When the farmers are threatened by the ranchers, Ladd steps in to help them. One of the more memorable actors in the movie is the hired killer played by Jack Palance who drinks nothing stronger than coffee. This film was his first and established him as a star in Hollywood. He has starred in many of his own films since "Shane" was produced.

The offering Monday is the unforgettable "African Queen," with Humphrey Bogart and Katherine Hepburn. Bogart won an Academy Award for "Best Actor" in 1951 for his performance in this picture. The setting is in Africa at the beginning of World War I. Bogart is a hard drinking riverboat skipper and Miss Hepburn is the sister of a missionary. When her brother dies, she coaxes Bogart to use his boat to ram a German war ship.

Much against his better judgment, he attempts her plan. Best shot of the picture: Kathrine dumping Bogart's last supply of gin into the river. Tuesday, the State brings back "Roman Holiday," the film that resulted in the "Best Actress" Award for Audrey Hepburn in 1953. The picture also received the "Best Motion Picture Story" and the "Best Costume Design" awards for that year.

Gregory Peck co-stars in the film as an American newspaper man who spends a delightful few hours with a princess who has run away from her boring duties. Tired of the official protocol, Peck shows the Princess the real Rome as other tourists see it. Eddie Albert also stars in the picture which is directed by William Wyler.

Heston, Scott Starred In 'Bad For Each Other'

"Bad for Each Other" is the Tuesday and Wednesday offering at the Terrace Drive-In. Starring Charlton Heston and Elizabeth Scott, the picture was taken from the best selling book, "Scalpel" by Horace McCoy. McCoy also joined talents with Irving Wallace to write the screenplay for the movie. Much of the book's realism is preserved in the picture. Heston plays a surgeon who is urged by his mother to practice his profession among his own mining people. But Elizabeth Scott coaxes him to practice in high society where he can make a lot of money. His nurse, played by British star Dianne Foster, quits him after he compromises his talent for money. A strange act of circumstance forces Heston to look at life in another light and the picture is resolved in an unusual manner.

As in most of McCoy's novels, the title is taken from some remark of one of the characters. In this instance, the title is taken from Heston's statement, "Bad for each other — but great entertainment for you."

'Outcast' To Play At Lyric Theatre

"The Outcast" begins Thursday and plays through Saturday at the Lyric. The Technicolor film stars John Derek and Joan Evans. John Derek arrives in Colton, Colorado, in the 1890's determined to reclaim his father's ranch which was stolen after his father died. To make sure he gets it, he hires nine armed gunmen to help him. But like many armed killers, these can be bribed and they are. Thus Derek is left helpless to get the land. But then, he gets unexpected help from a strange source. Joan Evans falls in love with Derek but does not like his methods of getting his rights. She prefers old fashioned law and order. The exciting Western picture also stars a newcomer to Hollywood in Jim Davis.

Prince Valiant IN THE DAYS OF KING ARTHUR by Harold R. Foster

Our Story: WHEN THE DRIFTING SHIP STRUCK SHORE ALETA AWOKE WITH A START AND LOOKED INTO THE WILD FACES OF THE PATZINAKS AS THEY STORMED OVER THE RAIL.

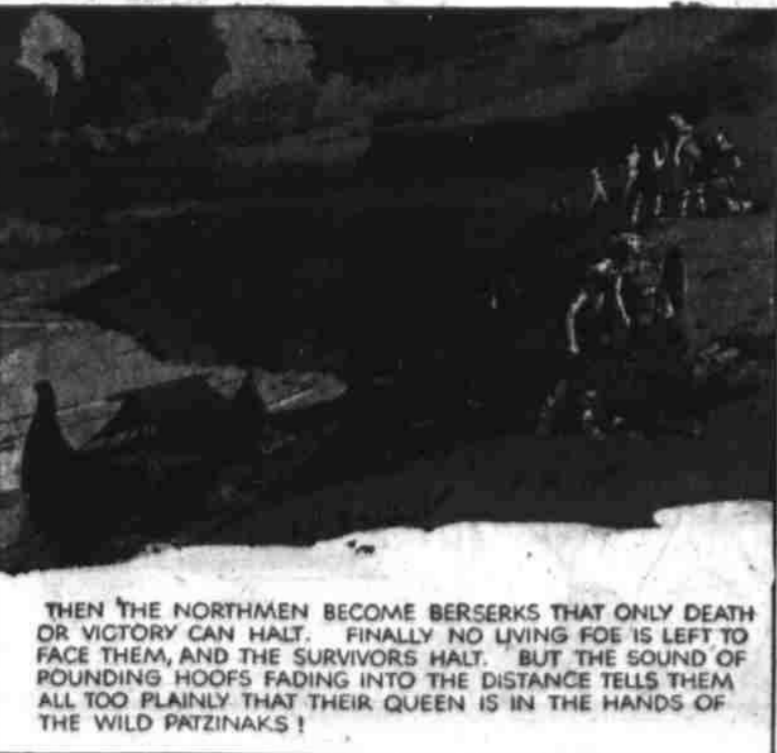

HER FIRST AND ONLY THOUGHT IS FOR HER BABIES. SHE CLAWS UP A FLOOR BOARD AND PUSHES THEM DOWN INTO THE LUGGAGE SPACE.

EVEN THEN SHE MIGHT HAVE ESCAPED, BUT INSTEAD DRAWS HER ONLY WEAPON, A TINY JEWELLED DAGGER, AND STANDS OVER HER CHILDREN.

HER WARRIORS ARE DRIVEN BACK BY THE FIRST VICIOUS SURGE OF THE PATZINAKS. BEFORE THEY CAN HEW THEIR WAY FORWARD AGAIN THEIR QUEEN IS GONE!

THEN THE NORTHMEN BECOME BERSERKS THAT ONLY DEATH OR VICTORY CAN HALT. FINALLY NO LIVING FOE IS LEFT TO FACE THEM, AND THE SURVIVORS HALT. BUT THE SOUND OF ROUNDDING HOOPS FADING INTO THE DISTANCE TELLS THEM ALL TOO PLAINLY THAT THEIR QUEEN IS IN THE HANDS OF THE WILD PATZINAKS!

IN THE EARLY DAWN WHEN THEY HAVE BURIED THEIR DEAD, THE WARRIORS SWEAR AN OATH UPON THEIR WEAPONS! THAT THEY WILL KNOW NO FEAST OR PASTIME, NO COMFORT OF HOUSE OR HOME, NO REST OR EASE UNTIL THEY HAVE FOUND THEIR QUEEN, OR DEATH.

AND THE DAWN ALSO BRINGS PRINCE VALIANT STRIDING DOWN THE PORTAGE, EAGER TO SEE ONCE AGAIN THE FAIR FACE OF ALETA. NEXT WEEK - The Long March.

In this issue: Meet the Real Perle Mesta

I was just thinking...

... I BOUGHT myself a present last night. A black bowl filled with stars, a valley of rhinestone lights, and a water tower like a cake topped with a single candle.

It was a wonderful gift. I had been invited out for the evening and I was in a hurry, but it took me 20 minutes to get from my house to my car in the driveway.

My present was the magic night. I could feel it the moment I closed the back door behind me, but I intended to give it merely a passing salute of the spirit.

Then I realized I had done no more than glance inside the wrappings. It was no ordinary gift, that night. It was crystal against crystal, like the sound of a bell to be sensed and never heard.

Beyond me in the hollow lay the everyday world covered with soft darkness and twinkling with a kind of electric elegance. Above me was the silken sky. It was a night that I might never have noticed, and suddenly I was so caught in the melody of it that it became a deep and precious pain.

But I had bought it, I bought it with nights I couldn't sleep. The midnights and the steel dawns when my bed was clammy with lumps of fatigue and my mind was caught in the net of insomnia.

I paid for my magic night with the fears of the times when all the world slept but me and when I held in my tired hands all the petty problems and the proud anguish of the daylight and they became monsters of the black hours and the loud clock and the lonely truck tires on the highway.

So it seemed to me last night that I had earned the moment of possession and all the ribbons of rapture which bound it. I was deeply grateful for a certain insomnia of the heart which let my eyes fill with a perception of perfection.

And let the stars trickle down my cheeks.

As You Were Saying...

"MY MOTHER-IN-LAW'S MY BEST FRIEND"

Every day we read and hear about "in-law" friction, but after nearly five years of marriage, my husband's mother is my best and most intimate friend. From the most important problems to the little everyday annoyances, she is my counselor, my instructor, and someone I love very much. She listens to all I tell her with an open, unbiased mind. I have known her six years, and I've never heard her discuss people unfairly. I can depend on her not to repeat the things I tell her, but to keep them close to her heart as a true friend should.

During a class once, my instructor said, "Have many acquaintances but few intimate friends." I have never forgotten those words of advice. Now when I consider the number of intimate friends I have, I can think of only one—my mother-in-law.—Rena, Greenville, Miss.

He's Handy to Have Around

I'm fed up with all the stories and programs portraying the average husband as a helpless, do-nothing creature about the house.

My own husband is not only a whiz with a skillet, but he can turn out delectable pies, breads, and salads. He takes over all the heavy housework when I'm unable to do it. When our babies were small, his big strong hands were adept at changing diapers and soothing tired, fretful little bodies. And washing diapers wasn't beneath his dignity, either!

No, I'm not married to a paragon. My husband is an average American guy who loves his wife, his children, and his home. I'm sure there are many, many other wives who can say the same thing.—M. M. G., Rome, Ga.

A Better Wardrobe for Less Money

The "Sweet Sixteens" of our town are a group of young married women who have hit upon a novel plan of enlarging our wardrobes. "Sixteen" doesn't refer to our ages; it refers to our dress size. Since we are raising families and buying homes, we can't splurge on clothes as we once did. So we decided to swap dresses. We meet once a month and do just that. As a result, each of us has a larger, more versatile wardrobe. The idea has become so popular that the club has grown rapidly. We are now buying more expensive dresses (because we have fewer to buy), and we are all very smartly dressed on a fraction of the money we once spent on clothes.—Mrs. Renee Gee, West Palm Beach, Fla.

The Bell-Ringing Cat

One bitter cold evening as I was hurrying along, I saw a little kitten crying at the door of its home. The owners had the shades drawn and the radio blaring so that they couldn't see or hear the pathetic little thing. I longed to go to the door and tell them that their pet was cold and anxious to get inside.

My own cat has been trained so she never has to stay outside in bad weather. I hung a little bell near the bottom of the door and taught her how to ring it with her paw. I wouldn't let her in the house until she rang the bell, so she learned quickly, and it's now an accepted part of her routine. Perhaps this simple trick could be used by others who are considerate of their pets' comfort.—A. N., Racine, Wis.

Formula for a Full Life

So many of the good things around us are free that you don't have to be rich to enjoy an interesting life. Try walking around your town and visiting places of interest. (Don't say your town hasn't any. That's part of the game; you must find them.)

Museums, art galleries, libraries, the zoo, and cemetery headstones are my forte. After them I visit the courthouse, where I can sit in and listen to trials.

When you find your places of interest, start cultivating your powers of observation. You'll be surprised at how much you'll learn, and you'll never be lonely!—S. M., Sacramento, Calif.

An Idea for Sunday Morning

It's sometimes hard to get up in time for Sunday morning church services, but we've discovered a wonderful way to make sure that we always get there.

It's simple. We take several other people with us—persons who otherwise would not be able to go. Not only does this make us get to church more regularly, but it also makes us get there on time! Try it sometime.

The rewards are great. We are benefiting by the habit of regular church attendance; we enjoy the feeling of being able to help others; and best of all, we now have the feeling that we are beginning to assume a little Christian responsibility.—C. H. S., Champaign, Ill.

Classroom in the Air

At the University of Illinois, students register for flying courses just as they would for algebra or English.

by Ed Borman

ONE OF THE "classrooms" on the University of Illinois campus is a 762-acre airport with 29 miles of paved runway—larger than Chicago's Midway Airport.

In just seven years, this $3,500,000 aeronautical facility—officially known as the Institute of Aviation—has won a place in the everyday life of the campus. It is a full-fledged division of the university, and more than 2,500 students have enrolled in it for flying lessons just as they register for a course in algebra or English.

Shuttle buses take them from the main campus to the airport six miles away so that flying can be fitted into their class schedules. Training ranges from elementary classes that lead to a private pilot's license to courses for commercial pilots and instructors.

In addition to the training facilities, the university operates a fleet of 37 planes as a transportation pool for professors with out-of-town speaking engagements or teaching assignments. The fleet has flown more than three million passenger miles without a casualty.

Other members of the faculty use the airport for research connected with aeronautics. The psychology department, for example, did research on the extent to which earth-bound students can be taught to fly with Link training devices that simulate flying. The findings cut the time students spend in the air with instructors before they solo.

Aeronautical engineers are pushing jet-engine research, and electrical engineers are working with radio antennae. Traffic-control problems at Chicago's Midway Airport have been studied in another project. There have been experiments with the use of television for blind landings in bad weather, and a new project deals with stalling characteristics of planes. A large percentage of flying accidents are due to aircraft spinning or spiraling when they lose flying speed and stall. With a private aviation association footing the bill, the university is seeking ways of teaching pilots to avoid stalls.

The program won national recognition when President Eisenhower presented the Frank G. Brewer trophy, highest U.S. award in the field of aviation education, to Prof. Leslie A. Bryan, head of the Institute of Aviation. Bryan, a colonel in the Air Force Reserve who joined the university staff in 1946, holds a pilot's certificate with ratings for multi-engine aircraft, seaplanes, and helicopters.

When his selection for the Brewer award was announced, he said: "This is recognition of the work in aviation which the University of Illinois is doing. It has achieved and maintained a position in aviation that is unequalled among universities of the world."

This is the University of Illinois airport, one of the country's biggest and best-equipped facilities for aviation education. The 762-acre airport contains 29 miles of paved runways.

Instructor Elizabeth Seely (left) teaches Marion McMillen how instruments operate. Students take flying lessons just like other college courses.

Three pilot-instructors on the University staff chart a cross-country trip. In addition to offering flight instruction, the school conducts an extensive aviation-research program.

For his fine record as head of the U. of I. Institute of Aviation, Dr. Leslie Bryan (left) was named winner of highest U. S. trophy in aviation education. It was presented to him by President Eisenhower.

Although she's best known for her fabulous parties, the former U.S. Minister to Luxembourg is also an astute business woman and a shrewd politician.

Meet the Real Perle Mesta

EVERYBODY knows Perle Mesta as the bubbling hostess who—at the drop of a napkin—will toss a champagne-and-caviar soiree for the cream of international society. What few realize is that the former U.S. Minister to Luxembourg is a woman with a record of real accomplishment in domestic politics, foreign diplomacy, and big business.

The conversation at her parties may be as frothy as the wine. But more than once they've brought together opposing statesmen who went home wondering if perhaps there wasn't something to the other fellow's viewpoint after all. And who's to say that, in the final analysis, the refreshment table doesn't make for better feelings than does the conference table?

Mrs. Mesta was born not with the legendary silver spoon, but with the whole silver service. Her father was Texas oilman W. B. Skirvin, who brought in the second well in the fabulous Spindletop field near Beaumont. But instead of playing the idle role of the pampered daughter, young Perle soon demonstrated that she had ideas of her own.

She left the family home in Oklahoma City to study music in Chicago and at 18, chaperoned by an aunt, went to Paris to study voice. Perle continued her voice lessons in New York until she landed a job as soloist with the John Philip Sousa Band. Then she gave up her career in the face of family disapproval.

Not long afterward, Perle met and fell in love with George Mesta, head of the Mesta Machine Co. in Pittsburgh. Their 12 years of marriage were "the happiest years of my life," Mrs. Mesta recalls.

The couple traveled a good deal, shuttling between Europe, their home in Pittsburgh, and an apartment in Washington; and wherever they traveled they entertained extensively. In Washington the Mesta apartment was in the same hotel where Calvin Coolidge lived. Mr. Coolidge at that time was Vice-President of the United States.

Since Mr. Mesta was a Republican and a friend of Coolidge, his wife's career as a friend of Chief Executives got off to a strictly G.O.P. beginning. But Mrs. Mesta has since leaned toward the Democrats, although she did support Wendell Willkie for President in 1940.

The Mesta Machine Co. manufactured steel-making equipment, and Mrs. Mesta pitched right in and learned the business. For years she served as the only woman on the firm's board of directors.

When Mrs. Mesta's husband died in 1926, she took over the reins of the company, and so well had she learned the business that she was able to operate it successfully.

The following year Mrs. Mesta reentered the political arena by joining the National Woman's Party and becoming its Congressional chairman. Although she had purchased a home in Newport, R. I., the nation's capital became her second home as she set about learning the hard facts of political life.

New fame as a hostess

The election of Franklin D. Roosevelt ushered in the Democratic heyday, the period during which Mrs. Mesta became famous as a hostess, Democratic fund-raiser, and political savant. On her guest list in those days was Harry S. Truman, then Senator from Missouri, who remained a good friend after he became Vice-President and finally President of the United States.

For one period during World War II, Mrs. Mesta became a business woman again, raising cattle in Arizona to improve the nation's meat supply. Here again she proved her talent—the venture was a success.

But then it was back to Washington as the United States turned to rebuilding the war-torn areas of the world. One of those areas was the little Duchy of Luxembourg, whose 999 square miles of territory were badly battered by the Nazis in the Battle of the Bulge.

For years the U.S. ambassador to Belgium had also handled affairs with Luxembourg. But for all its tiny size, Luxembourg was important. It ranked No. 4 among the steel producers of Western Europe, No. 7 in the world. But there was some anti-American sentiment.

Something needed to be done to secure Luxembourg's position among the free nations. In 1949 President Truman decided to nominate Perle Mesta to be the first U.S. Minister to the Grand Duchy. "It was a fillip to Luxembourg's pride that America decided the quiet little country merited a minister at all, and an added compliment to receive a close friend of President Truman."

"Madame Minister" bought a burgundy afternoon gown in Paris for her presentation to Luxembourg's Grand Duchess Charlotte and headed for her new assignment. She found the little land to be a charming country of storybook castles and lovely, wooded valleys.

Mrs. Mesta, like the new mistress of any house, decided to redecorate. Her legation residence was done over in striped upholstery and flowered drapes.

She was at her desk by 9 every morning. And when she visited Luxembourg's iron mines and steel mills, she soon proved to the workers that she knew what they were talking about and understood their problems. By the time Minister Mesta got around to giving her first party, one of the guests declared, "Your President couldn't have sent us a nicer present."

Mrs. Mesta once told a friend: "I get the same stimulation out of parties that you do out of whisky." But despite her reputation as a lavish hostess, she is a Christian Scientist who neither drinks nor smokes. But she loves a snappy game of poker or canasta.

Mrs. Mesta says that being a female diplomat proved no handicap. She had both the business and social experience to put her at confident ease in her new post, and she has the wonderful knack of making others feel comfortable, too.

Friend of the men in service

Besides giving fancy receptions for public officials and leading citizens, she began holding monthly "G.I. parties" for all servicemen who happened to be in town. Mrs. Mesta served them reminders of home—baked beans, apple pie, Cokes—and she sent letters to the boys' mothers. One of her treasures is a box of more than 1,000 thank-you notes she received in reply.

As the months passed, Luxembourg made real progress. With U.S. help, the restoration of her farms and factories was completed. And the little country now makes some six million tons of steel and pig iron a year, about 50 percent more than before the war, and ten times as much steel per capita as the United States produces!

It is a time-honored political tradition for the incoming party to make a clean sweep of diplomatic posts abroad, filling them with its own favorite sons and daughters. Therefore, it's regarded as a tribute to the job Mrs. Mesta did that she was one of the last Democratic incumbents to be removed by the Republican administration.

Inside the Soviet Union

To the echo of the final 13-gun salute to the "Madame Minister," Mrs. Mesta left Luxembourg in 1953. Soon afterward she became the first American to take advantage of slightly easier travel regulations in the Soviet Union, embarking on a two-month tour that carried her 12,000 miles.

The Reds wanted to impress Mrs. Mesta, of course, with the blessings of life under Communism. But she saw through all their deceptions and came back to say that she'd been "shocked" by conditions in the Soviet Union and that "the free world is the only place to live."

Back in the United States, Mrs. Mesta's tour provided ammunition for a number of lectures whose fees went to help foreign students who wished to study here. And today the former minister continues to fill lecture engagements, telling of her many experiences abroad.

She also continues to give splashy shindigs at her Washington home, the Sheraton-Park Hotel. At one of the biggest parties recently, 750 guests raised toasts to members of the press.

Since the hotel is also the residence of many members of Congress and the Eisenhower administration, Mrs. Mesta can keep in close touch with political developments. She isn't making any predictions on 1956, but in general she's "very optimistic."

"I think President Eisenhower has the sympathies of the people," she declares. Then she adds with a twinkle: "And now that he's being advised by the Democratic leadership in both houses of Congress, we have every right to expect great things of his administration."

New North Star in the Hollywood Sky

by Peer J. Oppenheimer

HOLLYWOOD will do it every time!

Petite Taina Elg of Helsinki, Finland, was discovered in London by producer Edwin Knopf and signed by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer as the year's most exciting dancing discovery. Rushed to Hollywood for the second female lead in "The Prodigal," Taina (pronounced "ty-nah") found the part called for all her talents except the one for which she was chosen—dancing!

But Taina doesn't mind. "I want to become a good dramatic actress," she says in perfect English. And once she makes up her mind, nothing can stop her.

Just look at her career so far:

On her sixth birthday, when her parents took her to the ballet, Taina decided to become a ballet dancer. Her mother and father considered this a childish whim, but Taina's persistence convinced them she was serious. In 1940, during the Russo-Finnish War, the Reds confiscated the Elg estate and the family moved to Helsinki. A week later, Taina tried on her first ballet shoes.

Her progress was so rapid that before long she went on tour, and in 1947 won a scholarship to study with the Sadler's Wells ballet in London. But on graduation Taina was refused a permit to dance professionally in England, so she decided to audition the top Marquis de Cueva Ballet in Monte Carlo. She didn't have the money to get there, so she borrowed just enough for a one-way ticket and a three-day stay. When she got to Monte Carlo she had no trouble arranging for an audition, but her appointment was set for a week later. While waiting she ate one meal a day and promised the "pension" proprietor that she'd pay her rent when she got the job. It never occurred to her that she might not qualify.

On the eighth day, Taina passed the audition, signed a contract, and received an advance large enough to enable her to pay her debts.

She traveled with the troupe for four years until she tore a ligament in her foot, temporarily forcing her to give up her career in favor of modeling jobs. That was when she met Edwin Knopf.

Her trip to the U. S. was not her first—three years ago she performed in New York with the ballet. Today she frankly admits that she prefers New York to Southern California, because "it is more cosmopolitan, and it offers four seasons a year instead of just one."

About two years ago, Taina was married to importer Carl Gustav Bjorkenheim, whom she had known as a child but had not seen as an adult until a week before she accepted his proposal. In marriage, as in her career, she knew exactly what she wanted!

RECIPES FOR FAVORITE DESSERTS

Have you ever wished you could see, assembled in one distinguished company, the dessert masterpieces of other nations? The assemblage is made! Allow us to introduce you. Here are representatives of the superb skill of Continental experts—the great chefs and their creative counterparts, the anonymous homemakers of village and farm. We invite you to improve the acquaintance; you'll enjoy it.

Cannoli

It is said that in many Italian homes a thin broomstick is quickly converted to Cannoli "tubes" by cutting the broomstick into 6-in. lengths and scrubbing until the sticks are clean and smooth.

Set out 18 6-in. aluminum tubes (about 3/4 in. in diameter).

For Filling—Combine and beat until smooth (about 10 min. with an electric mixer on medium-high speed)

3 cups (about 1 1/2 lbs.) Ricotta cheese

1 1/4 cups sugar

2 teaspoons vanilla extract

Stir in, mixing thoroughly

1/2 cup (about 3 oz.) finely chopped candied citron

1/4 cup semi-sweet chocolate pieces

Place mixture in refrigerator to chill.

For Shells—Sift together into a bowl

3 cups sifted flour

1/4 cup sugar

1 teaspoon cinnamon

1/4 teaspoon salt

Cut in with pastry blender until pieces are the size of small peas

3 tablespoons shortening

Stir in

2 eggs, well beaten (until thick and piled softly)

Blend in, a tablespoon at a time, a mixture of

2 tablespoons white vinegar

2 tablespoons cold water

Turn dough onto a lightly floured surface. Knead dough by folding opposite side over toward you. Using heels of hands, gently push dough away. Give it a quarter turn. Repeat kneading process rhythmically until dough is smooth and elastic (5 to 8 min.), using as little additional flour as possible. Always turn dough in same direction. Wrap in waxed paper and chill in refrigerator for 30 min.

Are you frankly looking for a dessert that will impress and beguile? The Italians have a word for one—it's cannoli.

For deep-frying, about 20 min. before frying fill a deep saucepan one-half to two-thirds full with

Hydrogenated vegetable shortening, all-purpose shortening, lard, or cooking oil for deep-frying

Heat slowly to 360°F, or until a 1-in. cube of bread browns in 60 seconds. When using an automatic deep-fryer, follow manufacturer's directions for amount of fat and timing.

Cut a 6 x 4 1/2-in. oval pattern from waxed paper.

Blanch, finely chop, and set aside

1/4 to 1/2 cup (2 oz.) pistachio nuts

Using a small amount at a time, roll chilled dough 1/8 in. thick on floured surface. With the waxed paper pattern and a pastry cutter, cut ovals from dough. Wrap dough loosely around tubes just overlapping opposite edges. Seal edges by brushing with

Egg white, slightly beaten

Press edges together to seal.

Deep-fry shells in heated fat. Fry only as many shells at one time as will float uncrowded one layer deep in the fat. Fry about 8 min., or until golden brown. Turn occasionally with a fork during frying time (do not pierce). Using tongs or a slotted spoon, drain shells over fat for a few seconds before removing to absorbent paper. Cool slightly and remove tubes. Cool completely.

When ready to serve, fill with the Ricotta filling. Sprinkle ends of Cannoli with chopped nuts and dust shells with Sifted confectioners' sugar

"HAND-KNIT" LOOK FOR

by Allyn Rice

THE KNIT dress has won a place in the American woman's basic wardrobe, and for good reason. It wears well, stays fresh always, and travels beautifully. It has the happy faculty of being correct for almost every event. These qualities endeared continental hand-knits to the wealthy back in the days when they sold for a king's ransom, but now American machine-knit dresses with a handmade look are created for every pocketbook. Formerly knits were wool and that was that, but today orlon, nylon, cotton, and linen blend with wool or are used alone in smart new lightweight knits for the warmer weather of Spring and early Summer. They're handsome proof that good taste needn't be costly.

DO IT YOURSELF

How to Install a Three-Way Switch

by Charles Ballenger

ELECTRICALLY speaking, there are few things nicer than three-way switches which control a light fixture from two different locations. If your home lacks this convenience, the remedy is simple. A third wire is the only difference between wiring a three-way and a single-pole switch. The installation of the BX or other cable is the same. In new construction, the cable is run through holes drilled in the exposed studs. In old construction, the cable must be fished through space between walls or the baseboard taken off and the cable run behind it.

▲ Three-way switches will fit a standard electrical box but cable between the two switches must be three-wire. The three wires usually are black, white, and red. Brass-colored terminals (A & B) of one switch are connected to the same terminals of second switch (A1 & B1). The dark terminal of switch No. 2 (C) is connected to the dark (hot) wire from the power source, while the companion terminal on switch No. 1 is connected to dark wire leading to light. The white wire continues through the circuit connected to itself.

◀ The top black and red wires lead to the other switch while the bottom wire is the power source. White wires are joined with a connector which eliminates soldered joints and taping, but protects against short circuits. To connect terminals, bend wire in a half-loop and attach, pointing in a clockwise direction.

◀ In installing new outlet boxes, use a cardboard template to mark the outline. Drill 1/2" holes in areas darkened in illustration, and saw through plaster and lathing. Place switches 48" to 54" above floor. Use the deepest possible box to allow room for wires which must be pushed back of switch.

◀ Install boxes in a finished wall by using any metal box supports. As pictured, the supports slip in the wall beside the box. The flanges fit behind the wall and the projecting arms are bent over the sides of the box to hold it in place. Cover plate will fit neatly if outside edge of box is flush with finished wall surface.

Dear Miss Barrows:

Our little kitty, named Tony, got into our plumber's truck one day to sleep. He found her when he got ready to go home and put her out.

My sister called and hunted Tony to feed her supper, but she never came. Next morning the plumber and the carpenter drove up with kitty sitting on the back seat of the car. They were so embarrassed at her hitch-hiking a ride. He lived in another town several miles away and was almost home when she crawled into his lap and mewed to him. She is so cuddly and soft, my little sister can put her any place in any position and she will stay there.

Your friend,

Dear Rover:

I have a confession to make. I got lost. I will report to the office of the Dogs Union and pay the fine of twelve bones as soon as I can. First I'll tell you how I got lost.

Near us is a butcher shop and I go to it every day to get bones. Well, yesterday when I went to get my bones the shop wasn't there. The dog that lives next door told me the owner had moved to the other side of town to start a new shop. So I started to go to the new shop. I found a shop and went inside but the man shouted at me to get out. So I did. When I went outside it began to rain and I realized I was lost. But I kept on walking. Pretty soon here came my master, Jimmy, on his bicycle. I barked and Jimmy looked at me, got down from his bike, and into the basket I went. Boy, was I glad to get home. I will fill in a report on this when I pay the fine.

Sincerely,
Tippy (No. 24414)

What Animal Is It?

Ruth Dixon

This land animal is a fine fisherman and an expert swimmer and diver. His coat is thick and valuable, though his cousin at sea has a coat worth $1,000.

His front door is usually under water, though sometimes his nest may be found in a cave or a hollow tree.

He is two and one-half feet long, not counting his tail. His hind feet are webbed so that he can swim better.

These animals love to slide down hills and then splash into the water. In wintertime they even coast down snowbanks!

Their scientific name is LUTRA CANADENSIS. You guess their everyday name!

Rules for

WHAT ANIMAL IS IT? Contest

Guess the animal's name and color the picture neatly in its true colors. Send within one week to Ruth Dixon, Junior Treasure Chest, Family Weekly, 153 North Michigan Avenue, Chicago 1, Ill. Be sure to send your name, age, and address with your page. Prizes will be awarded to two boys and two girls for the best entries. Try your luck! It's fun!

Help Yourself to MORE SPACE

by Ruth W. Lee, Home-Furnishings Consultant

CREATING a background for gracious living in none-too-spacious quarters is no problem for decorator Ethel Samuels. By using her ingenuity and imagination, she transformed a tight little apartment into a comfortable home for a young couple and their school-age son. And her ideas for making the most of limited space can be adapted in the do-it-yourself fashion to rooms of your own. An "eyesore" radiator in the dining room was camouflaged with a new mesh grill and a provincial-style fruitwood frame. Now it offers a convenient counter for dishes and coffee cups. Jutting out from the window ledge in the boy's room is a braced shelf that serves as a desk. In the master bedroom, twin studio beds are backed up at right angles to a corner storage cabinet that doubles as a lamp table. Two more ideas worth imitating are the velveteen-framed mirror and shuttered-in fireplace. They show what wonders you can work in your own home—yourself.

In a small master bedroom, twin studio beds back up to a corner bedding chest that does double duty as a lamp table.

Under the window in the boy's room is a shelf-desk. New England scenes of café curtains match those in the wallpaper.

Wide green cotton-velvet frame gives a smart look to an old-fashioned mirror. Mounted on it are Dresden fruit plates.

When you fail to give Tampax a trial, you're the one who misses out on its advantages

Trying Tampax doesn't commit you for life. It's no enormous step to be thought about on a sleepless pillow. Millions of women have used billions of this internal sanitary protection, and every one of them had to try it first! They stay with it because they like its comfort and convenience... like the fact that it's completely invisible when in place... like the way it eliminates odor and chafing and disposal problems. Tampax definitely seems more fastidious. It's small and convenient (month's supply goes into purse). Wearer's hands needn't even touch the Tampax. Why not try Tampax for yourself? "Yes, Christ Gave Us The CATHOLIC MASS"

Perhaps you don't think so, or perhaps you never gave it a thought. And possibly you regard this age-old Catholic worship as mere pomp and ceremony.

But if Our Lord did institute the Mass, is it not vitally important to you to find out? If He did intend it to be a continuing sacrifice... expressing Christian adoration, praise, contrition and petition... is it not too great a truth to be ignored?

"Bosh!" some will say. "Christ offered Himself on the cross once and for all. Nothing more is necessary." But wait! Jesus clearly indicated at the Last Supper that more is necessary. For after separately changing bread and wine into His Own body and blood... signifying the coming surrender of His life on the cross... Christ commanded the Apostles: "Do this in remembrance of me."

He was, obviously, instituting a continuing sacrifice in which Christians of every generation might join with Him in the most pleasing act of worship that can be offered to God. In this, as in other ways, the Apostles were to act as Christ's earthly ministers... as priests in the external offering of the sacrifice. And when they followed Christ's instructions, Our Lord would offer Himself in sacrifice—the victim would be present as He promised.

This is the heart and core of the Mass, which has been the central act of worship in every Catholic Church on the face of the earth since the time of the Apos-des. As successors to the Apostles, the bishops and priests at the Mass recite the very words Christ used at the Last Supper. And when this is done, Christ is present on the altar—offering Himself as He had promised, "for the remission of sins." If this were not true, "Do this in remembrance of me" would be empty and meaningless words, which is inconceivable.

If you would like to know more about the Mass... why it attracts thousands upon thousands of people into Catholic churches everywhere on earth, every day... write today for an interesting, easy-to-understand pamphlet. We will gladly send it free and without obligation... in a plain wrapper. And nobody will call on you. Write today... ask for Pamphlet No. FM-6.

Beau Brummell and the Bard

Many of Shakespeare's choicest phrases on life and love have blossomed into today's favorite clichés. But woven into the short-short story below are some of his lesser-known quotations about clothes. They're all taken from the Bard's plays, so see how many you can identify. Look in column 1 to see if you need a refresher course on Shakespeare.

Once there was a man who was "a monster, a very monster in apparel," (1) who dressed himself "in poor and mean attire." (2)

"These clothes are good enough," he used to say, "and so be these boots, too," (3) not realizing that "our raiment would bewray (reveal) what life we have led." (4)

But one day he finally took the advice of friends who long had urged him to become "caparisoned (dressed) like a man," (5) and went to a haberdasher.

"Deck my body in gay ornaments," (6) he cried, calling for "gay new coats," (7) and even admitting: "I have no more stockings than legs." (8) The haberdasher sold him garments that were "rich, not gaudy, for the apparel oft proclaims the man." (9)

And as the man left the store, he asked, "Is my apparel sumptuous to behold?" (10) The answer was "so clear, so shining and so evident that it will glimmer through a blind man's eye." (11)

And to this very day "the soul of this man is his clothes." (12)

"Never mind your pet theories, Jameson, hand me a saw!"

when you join the Literary Guild and agree to take as few as 3 more selections during the coming year

If you enjoy reading the best of the new books and would like to save up to 50% of the price of the publishers' editions, why not join the Literary Guild Book Club now? During three months just past, Guild selections became the No. 1, 2 and 3 best-selling novels nationwide!

Once you join our club, we are sure you will want to continue membership. That is why we can offer you any three of the books shown here for only $2.00. And the books you choose will be sent to you on approval! If you are pleased with them, pay only $2.00 for all three and become a Guild member on a trial basis; if not, simply return the books and owe nothing.

How the Literary Guild Operates

As a Guild member, every month you will receive a copy of "Wings", the club's illustrated book-review magazine. In it you will read a review of the forthcoming selection. Then it is up to you to decide whether you want the book described, an alternate selection, or none at all. You need not accept a book every month—only four a year from the 50 or more offered.

The Latest Top Best-Sellers—At Wonderful Savings!

Guild selections cost only $2.00 each (plus shipping) even though the same books are being sold for $3.50 to $4.00 in the publishers' editions. Occasionally an extra value selection is offered at not more than $2.50—usually a book that is priced as high as $5.00 in the publisher's edition. You pay no money in advance, you pay nothing when the books arrive; your bill is due only after you examine the books, and you may cancel membership at any time after accepting four books. In addition, you will receive a valuable Bonus Book FREE with each four books you purchase.

Send No Money—Just Mail Coupon

Why not join now while you can have any three of the fine books shown on this page (a value up to $25.40 in the publishers' editions) for only $2.00? Send no money now—just the coupon.
