36 PER CENT UNDER YEAR AGO IS PLAN

Budget Suggestions Based On Lower Revenues, Less Expenditures

Cuts totaling $29,586 in general fund appropriations were recommended to the city commission Tuesday night in a budget submitted by City Manager E. V. Spence for the fiscal year ending next March 31.

The suggested budget will be considered at another meeting of the commission in a few days and a date advertised for a public meeting for its consideration, to which citizens will be especially invited.

The general fund budget appropriations suggested for this fiscal year are, therefore, approximately $60,000 lower than the items adopted at the beginning of the last fiscal year, a total budget reduction of 36 per cent and $29,587.99 under the amount actually expended during the past year.

Home Talk by Betty

While reductions in expenditures of municipalities are very necessary nowadays, another phase of municipal finances is often overlooked.

And because they overlooked this phase, many towns are in a very bad way—some of them bound for bankruptcy.

It is easy to set items to be expended. It is easy to make them fit the expected revenues—provided you expect enough revenues.

'Over expectancy' is the chief mistake most cities have made.

Take Amarillo, where an able man, with many private business affairs to care for, is mayor and takes direct charge of city affairs.

Amarillo's total property valuations were $61,000,000 a year ago.

When the city budget was adopted it was based on 100 per cent collection of taxes—in other words they expected $61,000,000 to be collected.

Now, what has happened? Thirty-five per cent of those taxes were not paid. The result is that the city today is borrowing money, having issued $110,000 warrants recently.

There you have a great city borrowing money six months before time for new taxes to begin coming in. Under the budget as adopted for the entire year average monthly cost of operating the Amarillo city government is $36,000. So the folks up there are wondering where the $300,000 will come from to operate the remainder of the fiscal year.

Amarillo is by no means alone in this.

The people of Big Spring should be glad that their city officials have looked far enough ahead not to allow the city to be caught in any such critical situation.

Our city government has been operated on less money, and when the budget was fixed and revised for the past fiscal year the city manager did not presume that all taxes would be paid. If he had Big Spring would be borrowing money now, too.

As it is, with the budget based on collection of only 65 to 70 per cent of the taxes—and with expenditures forced within that anticipated income—we are on a cash basis.

Therefore, in our opinion, the best thing about the budget suggested Tuesday night by the city manager for the coming year was not only the reductions in expenditures but equally as important, the fact that those items of expenditures were based on even further reductions in portion of taxes to be collected.

If the city will stick to a policy of that kind we'll come through all right.

LEGION POST ISSUES STATEMENT 'CLARIFYING' POSITION ON CASH PAYMENT OF 'SO-CALLED BONUS'

Many People Under Wrong Impressions With Reference To Attitude, Post Commander Declares In Letter

C. L. Bryant, post commander of William Frank Martin Post No. 183, American Legion, Wednesday issued a statement "clarifying the situation and to alleviate the criticism directed at the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars because of their attitude toward payment of the so-called bonus" at this time.

These certificates are referred to erroneously by those who are attempting to confuse the public mind as "bonus certificates." They are not represent a bonus, subsidy, or gratuity. They represent an honest debt that has been publicly confessed by the Congress of the United States to the veterans for service rendered.

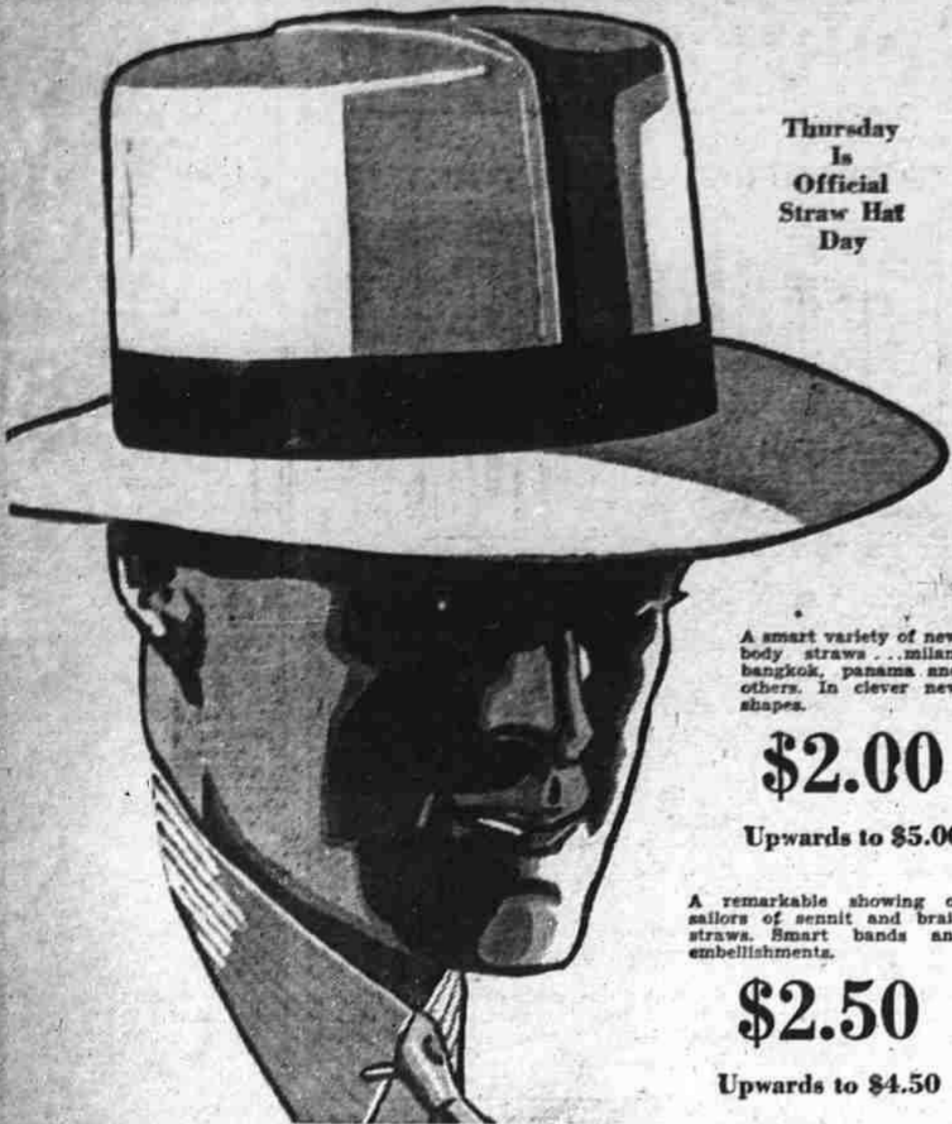

Others Faid. "No one has ever referred to the adjustments made by the railroads, the war contractors, civil employees of the government, and others, which were made immediately following the close of the war and which were paid immediately in cash, as a bonus to these people. The adjusted service certificate was given to each veteran who applied for same and is an acknowledgment by the government of the fact that the veteran was due on the world war in Texas hold ad

Public Library Will Purchase Used Books For Children's Shelf

The Big Spring Public Library wants to buy some good children's books. By good, Mrs. E. E. Cardwell, librarian, means good bindings and good literature. She asks that those with children's books to sell bring them to the library Thursday, Friday and Saturday afternoons. These will be the only days she will be down there for the purpose of buying. After this time she will not be in the market and she insists that those with books to sell do not wait until next week, if they are really desirous of doing business.

Three new books have been added to the shelves, "Old Wine and New," by Warwick Deeping; "A Modern Hero," by Louis Bromfield; "The Asking Price," by Helen Hall. Mrs. Cardwell announces that she is ordering many novels by popular authors for the two-week shelves for summer reading. They are books by such authors as Kathleen Norris, Temple Bailey, Warwick Deeping, Margaret Pedlar and Gene Stratton-Porter.

Townsend And Grief Gain Final Round In Sand Belt Matches

E. P. Driver, an alternate on the high school team this year, furnished the junior division of the Sand Belt net tournament its first upset by defeating Bill Savage, seeded No. 2, in three hard-fought sets 6-3, 6-4, 6-4. The victory placed Driver in the semi-finals, where he will play the winner of Fred Townsend-Joe Davis match.

Jordan and John Stripling play Bill Savage and Joe Davis in today's feature.

In the boys' division doubles play reached the finals. Preston Sligh and Charles Powell defeated Mack Austin and Jimmy Ford 12-10, 6-2, and were joined in the last round by Paul Coburn and Jimmy Jones, who defeated George O'Neal and Good Graves 3-6, 6-3, 6-4.

In the singles Sligh defeated O'Neal in the first round 6-2, 5-1 and will meet Graves, who won over Coburn in straight sets 6-2, 6-4 in a mid upset. Jones defeated Jimmy Ford 6-2, 6-0 and will play the winner of Jimmy Myers versus Mack Austin in the other semi-final.

Holding the spotlight on today's program, if the weatherman acts square about it, is the doubles final between the two Big Spring teams of H. B. Dunagan and Bill McCarty and Kent Bishop and George Dabney. The two combinations won their way through preliminary play Sunday afternoon, the former pair defeating Dan Steakley and Henry Whitten of Sweetwater 6-2, 6-2, while Bishop and Dabney, defending champions, eliminated E. P. Thompson and Weldon Reichert of Miles 6-4, 7-5.

A close battle is predicted for the doubles trophies, with Dunagan and McCarty holding a slight edge advantage. They are the present ranking No. 1 team on the local ladder, boasting several victories over the 1931 Sand Belt champions this year.

BY MABEL McELLIOTT
DRAFT BY ABA SERVICE INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
SUSAN CAREY, an orphan, lives with her AUNT JESSIE on Chicago's west side, and works in the office of ENREST HEATH, architect. BEN LAMPMAN, a moody young admirer, takes Susan to a studio party, where she meets ARNOLD and SONIA STRINSKY and DENISE ACKROYD, a society girl. Later, lunching with BOB DUNBAR, young millionaire whom she met at business school, Susan sees Denise again. JACK WARING, Heath's assistant, tries to flirt and is rebuffed. Lonely when her aunt is away, Susan goes driving with Waring and he kisses her. Ben asks her to marry him and she temporizes. Her employer's wife snubs her. Susan hears Bob Dunbar is to be married and is heart-broken. Denise Ackroyd asks her to come to a week end party at her country home.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXII
Rose said, "You can take my white lace. It was only $18.50, marked down, but you can hardly tell it from the original model."
"I hate to take it," Susan demurred. "It's brand-new. Terry hasn't even seen you in it yet, has he?"
"That doesn't matter in the least," Rose assured her. "Terry will have plenty of time to get used to it—the rest of the winter." Rose's pretty, rather florid face was aglow with enthusiasm.
"You'll have to buy slippers, of course," she rambled on. "I think you ought to get bright blue ones, or maybe green. They're all wearing them this season." When Rose said "they" in that firm voice Susan bowed to her superior knowledge. Rose, an assistant buyer now, knew exactly what "they" were going to wear before "they" knew it themselves.
For the fifth time that evening Susan said, "I can't go."
"Nonsense!" Rose was very brisk. "It's the chance of a lifetime. Wouldn't I jump at it, though? And it isn't as if they were all strangers. After all, Ben's an old friend and these Strinskys or whatever their name is—they sound all right."
"Oh, they're terrible," Susan announced with simple earnestness. "If you ever saw them—!"
Rose gave this comment scant attention.
"Well, you're not responsible for them anyhow," she said with calm. "Just go along and look your prettiest and have a good time. I'll come over tomorrow night and bring the bag. Wasn't it lucky the girls gave it to me last Christmas?" She stood up. Susan hugged her rel in those days?" she demanded indignantly. "Didn't the lake come right up into our front yard and the Ackroyds living in some hole or corner out south?"

"Well," Rose supplied brightly, "they've come along since those days. They've got scads of money now and that's what counts."
This decidedly was not the right answer. Aunt Jessie gazed at her. "Manners were manners when I was a girl," she stated. "If a person wanted you to come to visit, they at least had the decency to sit down and write you. But now, oh no, they can't be bothered!"
Rose laughed. "Come on, you know you're pleased that Susan has this chance."
"Indeed I'm not. It will be putting a lot of nonsense in her head and no good will come of it."
Susan tried not to listen. They had been all over this before during the past few days.
"Rose leaned over and took the white lace frock from Susan. 'Here let me fold that.' With capable fingers she arranged the dress. 'There, that's right. It won't need pressing, or a thing but be sure to shake it out as soon as you get there.'"
"I will."
The two girls kissed. "Lots of luck," Rose whispered in Susan's ear. "And be sure to tell me what everybody wears."
After she had gone Susan ticked off the various items on her fingers. The sheer underthings, the stockings. Rose had lent her all of these. Dear, good Rose! Kind Rose! She would make it up to her some day. Aunt Jessie had been bitter over the purchase of the slippers but Susan, usually so docile, had held to her determination to get them. She must be properly dressed. She laid reverent fingers on the white lace, dreaming.
Aunt Jessie's voice recalled her. "High time you were in bed," she was saying. Susan looked up with the dream still in her eyes. She was seeing not a middle-aged woman in a worn black dress but a smooth and polished dance floor on which a white-froaked girl floated in the arms of a tall young man.
"I declare, you don't seem to hear a word I say," Aunt Jessie complained, not without reason.
Susan threw her arms around the older woman eagerly. "Say, you're glad I'm going. Say you're glad I'm having some fun at last!" she demanded.
Aunt Jessie attempted to disengage herself but the strong arm held her fast. The rosy young cheek was pressed to her faded one. "You're wild as a young colt these days and that's the truth," Aunt Jessie cried. "There's no doing a thing with you."
Susan released her, laughing in a sudden excess of high spirits. She prattled around the sitting room. As the older woman watched, in some subtle way her expression altered. "I declare, she looks for all the world like father this moment," Aunt Jessie's voice recalled her. Susan made it up to her some day and no two ways about it. She sighed. What could she give a young, high-spirited creature like this? A home, and a bride for her irrepressible enthusiasms? Was it enough?
She shook herself free of this momentary weakness. "Susan Carey," she scolded quite in her usual form. "You pack yourself off this instant to bed."
Susan went. Aunt Jessie felt suddenly old and tired.
"I'd be glad if she married that young Lammman and settled down," she murmured as she wound the clock. "Then I wouldn't have to worry about her any more."

Keep Your Money At Home

Invest It Wisely, And Make Possible Paying Of Our Teachers!

The $25,000 Big Spring school district warrants issue is designed to:

- 1. Make possible paying teachers' salaries for March, April and May IN CASH.
2. Prevent necessity of issuing script, with attendant discount losses to teachers and others.
3. "Level out" the school district's indebtedness over three years rather than have it hang over the schools as a lump sum past due.

Proceeds from sales of warrants will be used for PAYING TEACHERS ONLY!

The warrants are in $100 denomination, bear 8 per cent interest per annum, mature in three years from April 1, 1932. They are secured by three-fourths of the $55,000 taxes payable to the school district on rolls from 1925 through 1931.

Scholastic enrollment of the Big Spring Independent School District is as great today as it was last year, or any year, the 1932 scholastic population reports show. However, the payment of taxes for the past year has been far below preceding years.

DIG UP THAT $100 OR $1,000 YOU'VE BEEN STORING AWAY THROUGH FEAR OF THE TIMES AND MAKE IT SERVE A TRIPLE PURPOSE:

- IT WILL BRING YOU 8 PER CENT INTEREST.
-IT WILL PAY THE TEACHERS OF OUR CHILDREN.
-IT WILL VERY GREATLY BENEFIT THE FINANCIAL CONDITION OF THE SCHOOL DISTRICT.

Recent Bride Honored By Original Surprise Shower Given By Two Hostesses

Party Held At Home Of Mrs. P. V. Davis, With Miss Naomi Lee Assisting, Complimenting Mrs. Archie Lucas

Mrs. J. V. Davis and Miss Naomi Lee were co-hostesses at a very original and delightful miscellaneous shower Monday evening honoring Mrs. Archie Lucas, formerly Miss Alma Reuckart, one of the season's popular brides. The shower was held at the home of Mrs. Davis.

The rooms were charmingly and profusely decorated with roses and honeysuckle and other summer flowers.

When the guests first came they registered in a dainty registration book over which Mrs. Chas. Koberg presided.

Two contests were held, Mrs. Guy Tamsett and Mrs. C. M. Cunningham winning the prizes. Mrs. Davis next read a fortune written for the bride by the clever pen of Miss Verbena Barnes, in which she outlined the bride's prospective life of the next ten years.

This led the presentation of the gifts which was made in an original manner devised by the hostesses to fit in with the fortune, and which came as a complete surprise to the honoree and the guests.

First the guests, who had been given numbers, were instructed to find recipes hidden in the room which corresponded to the numbers. The honor guest was seated at a table and given an attractive recipe book in which she pasted the recipes as they were given to her.

Mrs. Davis then instructed her in the making of sweet-milk cornbread. She found all the ingredients but the cornmeal. When she went to the sleeping porch to bring in the meal, she found there a heavy sack, on which was written the word meal. It contained the gifts. It was heavier than one person could carry so Mrs. Mims helped her bring it in. The remainder of the time was devoted to opening the gifts and exhibiting them.

When the sack was empty, the hostesses served dainty ice cream and cake, with the assistance of Misses Mildred Broughton and Charis Mossley.

Those who sent gifts but could not attend were Misses Raymond Duggan, Robert W. Parks, Lee Weather, Ivy Newton Dugman, and Miss Eva Jane Grimes.

Those attending were Misses Martha Broughton, J. O. Tamsett, E. J. Smith, C. W. Cunningham, T. R. Curtis, C. E. Read, Roy V. Tucker, W. W. Crenshaw, W. G. Mims, Harry Weeg, Chas. Koberg, Victor Mellinger, Fontaine Hair and Misses Verbena Barnes, Mattie Hetley, Marian McDonald, Stella and Pauline Schubert, Jessie Morgan Edith Hatchett, Andree Walker, Louisa Weeg.
