CARPENTER HELD SUCCESSFUL HEREFORD SALE WEDNESDAY

By Ruby Cook

One of the biggest and most successful sales of thoroughbred Herefords held in this part of the state took place here Wednesday afternoon at the livestock exhibit halls, when Charlie Carpenter of the Meadowbrook Hereford Farm sold at public auction 39 lots of thoroughbred Hereford cattle.

The big free barbecue was a great success, as well as a crowd-gatherer. Cattlemen and farmers from all over the country interested in registered stock were present.

Previous to the sale the bankers of the city offered to lend money to the purchasers of the cattle, which was probably an impetus to the lively bidding and good prices which followed.

The sales totaled $5405, making an average price for the 39 head, which mostly included young stock, $136.60.

The auctioneer was Col. Earl Gartin of Greensburg, Ind. He was assisted by I. S. Jamison of Pampa. The following cattle were sold:

Wynona Lassie 2nd, calf by side, sold to J. S. Morse, McLean, $200.

Miss Dandy 8th pasture bred, sold to W. T. Wilson, McLean, $85.

PROPOSES INTERNATIONAL FLOWER DAY FOR NOV. 11

To make Armistice Day, November 11th, an "International Flower Day" is an idea for which Mrs. Simeon Shaw, wife of the Canyon Methodist pastor, claims the honor of having originated.

Her plan is for every person in all of the nations that participated in the World War to wear a flower on this date to honor those who gave their lives for their country. This idea has already been presented to President Harding, and he heartily endorses it. Numbers of other prominent people have approved it.

Mrs. Shaw desires to go to Washington during the international disarmament conference and take her plan before that body. It may be years before there shall be in this country another conference at which representatives of so many foreign countries shall meet in America.

Mrs. Shaw cannot be present in Washington during this conference unless she shall have contributions from outside sources to defray expenses. All contributions must be in before November 1st. Those who desire to help in this may hand the money to Miss Ruby Cook, who will make proper disposition of it.

AT THE NAZARENE CHURCH

Mrs. Emma Erick of Pilot Point has just closed a one week revival. During that one week she preached as only a spirit filled preacher can preach. About thirty people prayed through at the altar, and many others were under conviction. The church was wonderfully blessed and built up. The general public seemed to enjoy her messages and showed their appreciation by responding freely to her support. Mrs. Erick and her husband are expected to be here for a meeting in the spring, but the date has not yet been announced.

The public is invited to our regular services Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; Sunday school at 10 a. m.; Young people's meeting at 6:30 p. m. S. R. JONES.

ARM EADLY BURNED IN GASOLINE BLAZE

Audra Boyd sustained some pretty bad burns on his right arm and hand last Saturday, while filling the tank of an engine in the garage at Alanreed, when a spark from the engine set fire to the measure of gas he was pouring from.

Boyd's presence of mind and quick work by others who were there averted a conflagration. His injuries are healing nicely, and he should recover completely in a short time.

BAPTISTS CALL PASTOR

At a called conference Wednesday evening the Baptist church voted on a man for pastor. Rev. W. J. Darnall of Dodsonville was chosen. It is not known as yet whether Rev. Darnall will accept the call, but the general belief is that he will. The church is much impressed with his ability as a preacher, and the membership may well count themselves fortunate if his services are secured.

ORGANIZE FAIR ASSOCIATION AT MEETING MONDAY NIGHT

On Monday evening a number of business men, members of the McLean Purebred Livestock Association and others met at the Legion theatre building for the purpose of organizing a fair association.

The following officers were elected:

C. L. Cooke—President.

W. L. Haynes—Vice President.

D. M. Graham—Secretary-Treasurer.

R. O. Dunkle, J. S. Howard and W. L. Haynes were appointed on a committee to perfect plans for next year's fair.

Several talks were made on the plans, purposes, etc., of the organization.

Frank Wilson, who has just returned from the State Fair and the annual meeting of the Watermelon Growers Association at Dallas, made a very interesting talk relative to the benefits of the Watermelon Growers Association and suggested plans for a local organization, which promises to be perfected in the near future.

The Fair Association will meet next Monday evening at the theatre building at 7:30. Everyone who is interested in the progress of his town and community is requested to be present at this meeting.

LARGE INCREASE IN B. Y. P. U. ATTENDANCE

Interest is growing rapidly in the Senior B. Y. P. U. meetings. Last Sunday evening there were 21 members present, with five new members and three visitors. This is the largest attendance the organization has reported in many months. Another encouraging feature of the meeting was that every member of the serving group was present and all had up their parts on program.

The contest between the two groups is going apace and we are wondering who is going to have to entertain during the second week in November.

Young man, young lady, do you attend a young people's meeting of any kind on Sunday evenings? If not we want you, we need you, and you need us. May we see you next Sunday at 6:30? You will be given a hearty welcome and we will endeavor to do you good.

THE SCRUB MUST GO

The value of an animal depends upon its ancestors.

Why so much talk about purebred stock? What is the advantage—or is there any advantage—in purebred stock?

What is a purebred animal? A purebred animal is—or should be—one whose ancestors for many generations have all been of one type and have all been selected for the same purpose. The more generations of ancestors that have been thus selected and the more careful the selection the purer bred is the animal.

First: Suppose we have a herd of Jersey cows all purebred and all registered. Suppose we have a purebred and registered bull to mate with them.

Second: Suppose we pick a herd of common ordinary cows of any old breeding. They may be a mixture of everything of the cow kind. We may call them grades, scrubs or anything we chose; still they may be pretty good cows to give milk. Some of them may give about as much milk as the purebred. Suppose we have a bull which, like the cows, is of any old breeding. He may look like a Jersey; his sire may have had a streak of Jersey in him; his mother may have had a dash of Holstein in her; she may have been part brindle or common muley. In brief, the bull is just ordinary scrub. We mate him with our scrub cows.

Now, when the two lots of calves arrive which lot would you rather have?

We had all rather have the Jerseys. Why? Because we know, we are sure, that those calves are all Jerseys, their mothers, grandmothers, great-grandmothers and so on for many generations back were all Jerseys. Their sire, grandsires, great-grandfathers and on back for many generations were all Jerseys, too. Those calves can't help being Jerseys. We know what to do with them—they are purebred.

Purebred livestock helps to take the uncertainty out of the livestock business. The true value of pure breeding is that it helps to take the uncertainty out of the livestock business. Take the uncertainty out of any business and it becomes a good business.

But what of the other calves—the ones from the mixed cows? In their mothers and sires we have all kinds of ancestors. With those calves there is nothing much to bank on except that they will be just calves. It's pretty much all uncertainty. We don't know what they are going to look like. Even after we see them we will not know how they are going to act. They are uncertain. Ten to one they will be money losers. We can't afford them—they are scrubs. Can you afford to gamble with a scrub? A scrub animal is a product of bad breeding and had feeding—a combination of both.

I am here to serve you; call on me.

DISCARDS TIRE AFTER RUNNING EIGHT YEARS

Thursday morning Jno. W. Kibler discarded a 34x4 Goodyear casing which he had used on his Buick car eight years. The tire looked to be in pretty bad shape, unfit for further service, but Mr. Kibler seemed to be in fairly good humor about the service he had gotten out of it.

He says he intends to send it in to the manufacturers and see if he can't get some sort of adjustment on it, as a blow-out prevented him from wearing it completely through to the tube. A tire of the same size and make, bought at the same time this one was purchased, only lasted Mr. Kibler five years and seven months, and he was allowed a credit of $8 on a new one.

He does not state how many cars he has worn out while running on these two tires.

A REPORT TO McLEAN WATERMELON GROWERS

By Frank P. Wilson

In response to a letter from the Texas Farm Bureau Federation to meet in Dallas on Oct. 12th for the purpose of organizing a watermelon growers' exchange for the whole state of Texas, I went to Dallas last week and represented the growers of McLean in an unofficial capacity. I think I should make a report of what happened at this meeting, and urge the growers of this section to get lined up with this movement.

Representatives were there from every watermelon district of Texas, who thoroughly discussed the details of marketing conditions all over Texas and Georgia. It was decided that Texas had never produced enough melons to supply the demand in Texas, and that an almost unlimited market for watermelons could be developed by a scientific system of marketing. Mr. Peete of the Texas Farm Bureau Federation is the author of the statement that watermelons would in a measure take the place of beer, basing his proof upon the fact that the breweries had always lessened their forces during the watermelon season.

A smile was provoked in the meeting by my statement that McLean produced the sweetest and best watermelons in the whole state of Texas. The representatives were all claiming the same for their respective districts. The Weatherford representative, however, told me privately that the McLean melons sliced out on the melon stands better than any others. This is encouraging, coming from the Weatherford man.

I was on the committee which drafted a plan for the organization of a watermelon growers exchange for the state of Texas, and am ready to make a report to the watermelon growers of McLean as soon as they can conveniently get together. A date for a meeting will be set later.

I had a very pleasant trip, getting information on the best hogs, best Rhode Island Reds, and the best Jerseys.

I should like to digress from the subject to say that from all reports I expected to see men, and women, too, drunk on every corner from the effects of bootleg and home brew. The fact is that during almost a week's stay in Dallas I did not see a person who looked like he had ever seen anything intoxicating. Maybe you could have found them if you had been there. Drunks at the fair used to be as common as pig tracks in the old adys.

AT THE METHODIST CHURCH

A fine crowd greeted the new preacher at both services last Sunday.

The preacher and his wife have been shown many courtesies since they arrived, for which we are truly grateful. We find ourselves in the midst of a fine, big-hearted people and trust we may have a great year together.

The theme for next Sunday at 11 a. m. will be "The Polity of the Methodist Church." At 7 p. m., "An Invoice of the Old Life."

While in Amarillo Saturday it was Newsman's privilege to attend a luncheon given by the Rotary, Kiwanis and Ad Clubs of that city, and to hear an address by Judge William F. Ramsey, governor of the Dallas Federal Reserve Bank. Judge Ramsey is a wonderful old man, and his speech on current business conditions and things that must be done before better times can be with us was authoritative and worthy to be studied and heeded by the wisest of us. The daily papers carried long stories about Mr. Ramsey's speech, which, we presume, were supposed to be complete summaries of the address, but, in at least one particular, were not. One point that the speaker stressed, but which received inadequate mention was that the people need to return to a better appreciation and more general practice of old-time Christianity and its attendant virtues. There can be no denial that as a people we have fallen into a neglect of these things, and such a warning from a man of affairs so prominent as Judge Ramsey is indeed significant. We have all of us heard frequently from the pulpit statements of the value of religion and sound morality as a factor in prosperity, but it is not often that there comes any sort of amen from big men in business.

Who can estimate the value of a newspaper to the community in which it is published? As a rule it works so subtly and quietly that its accomplishments are seldom credited to it. To tell a man that he has The McLean News to thank for a substantial per cent of the present value of his farm or town property would seem absurd to many, but it is true nevertheless. In spite of the business depression, property values in McLean have fallen very little, if any. The reason for this is that last year we had one of the best schools in the entire Panhandle, size of town considered, and we have every promise of a still better one this year. Superintendent Cain ought to be competent to estimate such things, and he gives The News credit for 30 per cent of last year's school success. Mark that, will you. If it had not been for the publicity given the school in this paper, and for which no charge was made, it could have been only seventy per cent as good as it was. Now, Mr. Property Owner, just figure the difference between the present value of what you have invested in McLean and what it would be worth with a mediocre school instead of a top-notch. Calculate it fairly, then figure thirty per cent of that difference as what you owe The McLean News—and don't get nervous; we have no desire to try to collect it, but merely want you to see what this paper has been worth to you and to the community, for every other property owner has been benefited in like measure. Two McLean churches in years past have had several failures at maintaining young people's organizations, and at last made successes. There are doubtless several things that have contributed to present achievements in this line, but one factor that was previously neglected is the liberal use of the free publicity offered by The News. Many will give little value to this, while others will place a proper estimate on it and say that the service rendered is of great worth, difficult to estimate. These young people's societies are training young men and women into Christian character and capacity for service such as few of us have ever attained nor few of us will, and the value of it will be proven years hence in the religious, social and commercial progress of our community, and in the latter respect no less than the former. If the truth could be known, and if we should devote the space to mentioning them, this editor does not doubt in the least but that scores of instances could be cited wherein The McLean News has been worth much to McLean, and that ample argument could be brought out to show that no business enterprise in the town has rendered more valuable service to the community nor has been more poorly paid.

If the information we have been able to gather is correct, the prices charged for job printing by The News have been the object of censure recently, and local users of printing have been writing to out-of-town concerns for prices. If The News prices on standard commercial stationery will be compared with those of some city printers, it will likely be found that we are the more reasonable. We do no doubt, however, but that printers can be found in other towns who will print for less. The cut-rate printer is to be found in every large city, and often in the smaller places, and it seems that no amount of education, propaganda or bitter experience will ever teach him better. No fair-minded man will deny that The News is entitled to a fair profit on every piece of printing turned out, and our bank balance (we are not certain that it isn't an overdraft) should be ample proof that we have not been guilty of profiteering. We propose to charge prices that will yield the profit we are entitled to, and if we can't get the work at the proper figure, then we prefer not to bother with it. The News contends that we have sufficient reason to charge as high prices as any printer in the Panhandle, regardless of who or where. We take the other fellow's word for it, and are inclined to believe it is true, that no better workmanship is done in any printing office in this part of the state. The better skilled artisan is entitled to better pay, and if we based our charges on standard prices plus McLean News quality, they would be higher still. News printing prices have lowered with the paper market, and the result is shown in the reductions from peak prices on a thousand Hammermill Bond letter heads, which now sell for $7.75 and for which we have charged as much as $9.50. Similar reductions may be noted on other items, while others are not cut so much perhaps. Another reason why we believe we are entitled to good prices for job printing is that we have been printing a newspaper of great value to the town, and at a loss, notwithstanding complaints about the "high" cost of advertising space. Yes, sir; The McLean News has been run at a loss just because we have been selling good advertising too cheap. And this money-losing newspaper has helped the school and the churches, boosted the home merchants, and helped in whatever way it could in promoting various public enterprises to the extent that the whole community has profited in no small degree. And in maintaining remunerative prices on just one of the things we have to sell, the cry "profiteer" has gone up, and those who have profited most would withdraw their patronage in this line and send it away to some out-of-town concern that has never benefited them a nickel's worth, has never boosted their town nor supported their churches nor helped any local enterprise to succeed. Now, the money you have to spend for printing is yours to spend wherever you please, but we maintain that there is adequate reason why you should spend it with The News, regardless of any advantage you might gain in price by shopping about.

Saturday, October 22, McLean takes her third victory in football, Miami being the victim. "Poor Miami." How can the McLean boys be so cruel? They don't even give the other fellows a chance. But why should they? The M. H. S. boys are going to make that score about 60 to 0—always in McLean's favor of course.

The boys have been doing some hard practice this week—how could the outcome be otherwise than victorious for them?

As "rooting" helps to win games, there are many of the H. S. boys and girls going along to see the work well done. If a truck can be had, for any amount, Miami may think our football team is made up of girls. If rooting is a help to winning the game, there is no doubt but what McLean will be winner.

Sometimes we wonder if Miami realizes what she is doing when she wants to play the notorious football boys of McLean. It may not be well with her in the end. For the way our boys are going through their lives will be quite remarkable—and they are going through. "On to Miami, folks! Over the top, boys! Victory for ours!"

Edward, coming home from school, said to his mother: "Mother, Miss Hill said today that I had adenoids in my head, and that they should be removed."

His mother—"Well, you tell Miss Hill she doesn't know what she is talking about. I have combed your head every Saturday for a week and there's nothing there that I can see."

Such Is Life!

God made man to suit himself,
But if I'd had a say
I'd made him of strings, of hinges and things
So a part could be taken away.

For what is more uncomfortable
In winter, during quiet repose,
Than to have to take your handkerchief and
Wipe the water off your nose?

My nose cannot agree,
It simply won't be nice.
It runs like a spray, and I must Wipe it away or it forms large chunks of ice.

While sitting in the school room,
With everyone looking at you,
You rake and pull till your handkerchief's full;
Then what are you going to do?

While proudly you stand before your girl,
Your nose runs a terrible pace:
You'd be in luck if you could reach up and pluck
Your nose from off your face.

While I stand before society,
Trying to be stately and elegant,
I think with horror of the awful sorrow
That must befall an elephant.

My Ambition

The following composition is by Ruth Dickens of the fifth grade, and is an excellent piece of written work. Errors in spelling and punctuation have been corrected:

I have planned many things which I thought I would like to do; but the height of my ambition is to be a trained nurse.

Of course I will have to stand trial for many things, but I mean to stay with it. I know there are a great many hardships in the life of a nurse, but I am prepared to meet them. Nothing appeals to me more than doing good to humanity. I do not wish my life to be one of selfishness and pleasure. We should not live for ourselves but for others; for in this way we will reap great happiness for ourselves.

My idea, of the location of this life work, is in one of the wonderful sanitariums in the far West, where those terrible tubercular people go to try to gain a little strength.

I am choosing this line of work because I like to do good to others, and, for this reason, I think I will make good.

What Is a Good Citizen?

Fifty years ago the man who kept money at home or on hand to lend his neighbor was a good citizen.

The man who merely hoarded money was never a good citizen at any age; but today, in an age of banking, it is certainly one of the first requisites of good citizenship for every man, woman and child to put every dollar they have in some bank.

If you haven't a bank account, come in—make the start today.

Ford Makes Another Cut

This last cut is on Storage Batteries. The Storage Battery has for a long time been rather a grievance, for two reasons: First, the cost was so much, together with the short life of the battery, that it made the storage battery a source of constant worry. So like all other reforms, there had to be a starting place. And Mr. Ford said that they should be in reach of the man of moderate means, so he bought a battery factory and now makes a battery second to none, stamps his own name on it, guarantees it to be as good as any $40 battery on the market, and sells it to the consumer for the small sum of $25. This Ford battery is backed by Mr. Ford through his local dealers, just as anything else sold with his name on it, and you know what that means. So if you need a 6-volt storage battery for your car, no matter what make of car, this is your opportunity. Received shipment of batteries last week.

One day this week Hon. Geo. W. Sitter called at The News office and presented ye editor with a nice lot of sweet taters, which we found to make mighty good eatin'. This reminds us that Robt. H. Corum of north of town tried to make us an anonymous gift of some whoppin' big ones, and we caught him in the act and were able to thank him personally. It is great to live in a country where such toothsome tubers grow, but still greater to abide where the people are so generous.
