North-South Highway Delegation Here Wednesday

Delegations from Clarendon and Hedley came over Wednesday to go over the proposed highway leading from McLean to Hedley. After the visitors had dinner at the Hindman Hotel as guests of the Chamber of Commerce, a survey of the country over which the highway will traverse was made by the visitors and a large delegation of business men and farmers from McLean.

Eleven cars of road boosters made the trip over the proposed route from McLean to the river. The road is rough and needs work, as it is now, but there is excellent road material all the way to the river, and grading will make a good road out of it without a great deal of expense.

Among the visitors from Clarendon were County Judge J. R. ... and the four commissioners of Donley: Erwin Bailey, precinct No. 1; J. H. Hurn, precinct No. 2; N. Messer, precinct No. 3; and F. B. Thomas, precinct No. 4. These were favorably impressed with the prospect and expressed willingness to co-operate with us in putting it over. Judge Porter said, however, that it would be impossible for Donley county to build a bridge this year, but a petition to open up the road would receive prompt attention from the court.

F. B. Thomas, commissioner in the precinct affected by the proposed road, stated that he would not be in favor of undertaking to put the road through just now if the county would have to buy the right-of-way, but if the land owners would donate the land he thought the road could be made right away. O. G. Stokely, who has spent much time on this particular road project, said he believed there would be no trouble in getting the property owners to give the land for the road. Several of the men affected by the road made a statement that they would not only give the land, but would build lane fences as well.

The main issue now seems to be just what route will be the best from McLean to the river. A committee was appointed to go over the route more thoroughly and decide on the best way to make the road, get the necessary data for the petition, etc. F. B. Thomas, R. S. Thompson, M. D. Bentley and O. G. Stokely were asked to serve on this committee. Among the Hedley delegation were the following men: J. W. Noel, T. R. Morman, J. R. McFarland, P. W. Dishman and Roy Swafford. These men were favorably impressed with the territory north of the river. They stated that the road from the river south to Hedley was very sandy but they are ready to do their best to put it in good condition if the highway project can be put over.

J. L. Hess, Evan Sitter and R. S. Thompson, ranchmen who would be affected by the new road, should it be put through, were among the number who made the trip over the road Wednesday, and are highly in favor of it.

It seemed to be the consensus of opinion that state aid could not be obtained until the road is put in fair condition; therefore, the thing for the citizens of the territory affected is to get busy and build a good road from the river north to McLean and from the river south to Hedley, and get a bridge as soon as possible, a temporary crossing being used meanwhile.

THOMPSON BOYS WIN IN MUSIC CONTEST

Clay Edward and Noel Edgar Thompson, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Clay Thompson, won in their respective classes in the piano contests staged at the Music Festival held at Amarillo this week.

The Thompson boys are studying music under the direction of Mrs. Willie Boyett and their winning does both themselves and teacher credit.

Several local girls entered the contest and did exceptionally well, but the competition was very keen, in some classes as many as 25 or 30 contestants entered.

There was only one contestant for each grade from any one town.

HOLMES WILL DRILL ANOTHER WELL IF LEASES CAN BE HAD

Mr. Holmes of the Holmes-Morse oil well has proposed to drill another test, if proper acreage can be secured.

The Holmes-Morse No. 2 has been shut down for the past few days as Dr. Pierce is at the bedside of his father who is seriously ill in Pennsylvania.

This well has oil standing in the hole and preparations had been made to shoot it when a cave-in hindered operations. Just as soon as the driller is back on the job, operations will start preparatory to getting the well in shape to shoot, when it is confidently expected that a paying producer will be brought in.

LIGHT VOTE CAST IN SHAMROCK ELECTIONS

Very little interest was shown by Shamrock people in either the school election held last Saturday or the city election held Tuesday, and exceptionally light votes were cast in both.

Jim Forbis, H. B. Hill and W. B. Wofford were elected members of the school board in Saturday's election. Only sixteen ballots were cast.

Royce C. Lewis and J. H. Caperton were the successful candidates in the city election, the former receiving 56 votes and the latter 51. Wheeler County Texan.

SMITH NEW GAME WARDEN

It seems that first reports that District Game Deputy B. D. Garmon of Panhandle was reappointed were erroneous; T. W. Smith of Clarendon having been appointed to the new state game commissioner to that place.

Mr. Smith is a pioneer plainsman, having lived in Panhandle City and later at Clarendon, for many years.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

Every week an appeal is sent out from the Near East Relief Society asking and urging funds to feed the starving people across the waters. To say the least of it, this is a worthy cause. But should America continue sending ship loads of food and clothing each week? Haven't we done just about our part for a while? Another thing, too, it is hard to guess whether the sufferers of the East really get value received for the help that we send them.—Paducah Post.

W. B. Iwin, who for the past two years has been superintendent of the Pampa schools, has been elected superintendent of the Perryton school district, to take up his duties about the first of June.

BOUNTY PLACED ON JACK RABBITS BY CO. COMMISSIONERS

At the regular monthly meeting of the county commissioners at Lefors Monday, a bounty of five cents each was placed on all jack rabbits killed in Gray county.

Rabbit ears must be shown to the county clerk and proof made that they were killed in Gray county.

NEW BAPTIST CHURCH STARTED AT SHAMROCK

Rev. and Mrs. W. C. Garrett were Monday morning visitors in Shamrock, where Bro. Garrett was the main speaker of the hour at a service on the occasion of breaking dirt for the erection of a new $26,000 Baptist church building.

There were several short talks by heads of organizations in the church and by the mayor, the Methodist pastor, J. J. Baird, O. L. Oldham, the superintendent of city schools, and Rev. Freeman, an evangelist, who was holding a meeting in Shamrock. The service lasted from 9 to 10 a. m., at which hour the two charter members of the church who still live in Shamrock took plow and team and broke the first dirt.

During the entire time of the service, which was held on the spot of ground to be occupied by the new building, there was a sitting in the midst of the crowd, into which people continuously dropped money. At the close of the service more than $600 was in the tub.

Two young ladies then took the tub between them and carried it up and down the streets and money was put into it as they passed, so that by noon the amount in the tub had increased to more than $700.

WATKINS FUNERAL SUNDAY

Funeral services were held at the Presbyterian church by Pastor J. L. Joyner, Sunday, for Mabel Alice, five year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Watkins of Alhambra, who died at Amarillo Saturday.

HOME MEN BUY BAKERY

Herman Lee and J. A. Meador are the new proprietors of the McLean Bakery, with Mr. Lee as active manager. A competent baker has been employed, and a full line of cakes and pastry added to their baking, as well as bread and buns.

Last Saturday was the opening day under the new management and more bread was sold that day than any previous day since the bakery has been established.

All bread and pastry is baked fresh each day and can be bought at the bakery, or bread made in McLean can be had in any grocery store in town.

NEW CITY COUNCIL ORDERS BILLS PAID BY 10TH OF MONTH

At the first meeting of the new city council held last Friday with all members present, among other matters, we are informed that the water and light superintendent was ordered to see that all water and light customers pay their bills by the 10th of each month, and promptly on the 15th of the month to cut off the service from all delinquent customers and collect the $1.00 cutting-in charge when further service is wanted.

POT LUCK DINNER AT S. W. RICE HOME

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Methodist church and their friends enjoyed a pot luck dinner at the home of Mrs. S. W. Rice Tuesday.

After the sumptuous dinner, the society rendered their program, and the remainder of the afternoon was spent in social games and a general good time.

Fares of 5c per mile were collected from those present, which amounted to about $12.

The following were among those present: Mesdames G. W. Street, A. A. Callahan, T. W. Henry, Sam Hodges, Carl Hefner, L. W. Wilson, W. L. Campbell, N. E. Savage, T. A. Landers, Ethel Hodges, T. J. ALANREED ORGANIZES BASEBALL TEAM

Alanreed has organized a baseball team, and the first game of the season was played in that town Saturday. The newly organized team played the Alanreed high school team, the final score being in favor of the town team.

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Landers attended the sessions of the Panhandle Press Convention at Amarillo last week. The News man was appointed to a place on the auditing committee.

NEW BRICK BUSINESS BUILDINGS

The News is informed that contracts were let yesterday for four new brick business buildings on Main street, work to commence as soon as possible.

The new buildings will be erected by D. N. Massay, John Mertel, Mrs. D. B. Veatch and A. A. Callahan, owners of the lots.

The location of the lots is among the best in the city and we understand that occupants are ready to take charge as soon as the buildings are ready.

Other business building projects are in prospect that may be erected some time this summer.

GRASSHOPPER POISON WILL BE FURNISHED FARMERS AT COST

The McLean Chamber of Commerce, on the advice of County Agent P. E. McMeans, has undertaken to wage a fight to exterminate the grasshopper in this county, and quick action is necessary to avoid crop failure from the grasshopper pest.

Ingredients for the preparation of poison bran mash have been purchased by the Chamber of Commerce and will be sold to farmers at actual cost. The poison will be ready for sale in about a week's time.

Owing to the quantities in which the hoppers are being found, the county agent feels like it is very imperative that some immediate action be taken, as the hoppers are hatching daily and for the first two or three weeks do not move far from where hatched.

Do not wait for rain—the rain will come, but the pest may destroy your crop.

Mr. McMeans suggests clipping the following formula from paper and keeping for reference.

(Experience last year indicated that amyl acetate used in place of lemons gave better results, and it is advised this year if it can be obtained. The formula recommended is:

Wheat bran (avoid shorts)—25 lbs.
White arsenic (or Paris green) 1 lb
Amyl acetate—1 ounce.
Cane molasses (avoid cane syrup) 2 quarts
Water in quantity as suggested below.

Thoroughly mix the poison and bran dry. Dilute the molasses and amyl acetate with about two gallons of water and thoroughly mix with the bran. Add more water and mix, until a thoroughly wet mash has been obtained, yet not sloppy. It should fall apart easily when sowing, so that it breaks up into particles not larger than the small finger nail at the largest. A good test is to squeeze a handful tightly; if of proper consistency, the water will ooze out between the fingers, but should not run out in streams.

It is important to thoroughly mix after each addition of water, to secure an even distribution of all the materials. After one or two batches have been mixed, the farmer will learn how much water to use so that no further additions need be made.

P. E. McMEANS, County Agent.

ROAD COMMISSIONERS BUSY

Chamber of Commerce workers were busy the past week working on the road propositions. On Saturday, O. G. Stokely, M. D. Bentley, L. O. Floyd and M. M. Newman met State Highway Engineer Cox at Amarillo, together with representatives from Hedley and Miami, while on Monday O. G. Stokely, G. W. Sitter, R. S. Thompson, W. B. Upham, C. Weaver, H. Billingslea and C. Bible, with some 14 men from Hedley, met the Donley county commissioners at Clarendon. W. L. Haynes, Perry Everett, W. T. Wilson and T. A. Landers met Messrs. Ayers and McFarland of Hedley at Lefors Monday with the Gray county commissioners.

All of this work was in the interest of a road from Hedley to Miami via McLean.

M. D. Bentley and T. J. Coffey attended a meeting of the executive board of the Postal Highway Association in Amarillo Monday in the interest of extending this highway through New Mexico.

GOOD ROADS IS DISCUSSION MONDAY NIGHT

Good roads was the main subject at the called meeting of the McLean Chamber of Commerce Monday night.

The matter of the road from Hedley to Miami via McLean was taken up and the president asked to prepare a petition to the commissioners' court of Gray county for an endorsement of a county road for the few miles necessary through this county. M. D. Bentley and J. M. Carpenter were appointed to circulate the petition, and O. G. Stokely appointed chairman of a committee to see that the petition is properly presented at the next meeting of the commissioners.

Mr. Bentley made a report of the Postal Highway meeting at Amarillo, stating that they found a more encouraging attitude upon the part of Amarillo toward assisting the Postal officials in securing state recognition and in extending the highway on through New Mexico.

The Postal Highway is the pet highway of the Oklahoma State Department and plans are already underway to make a national highway of it. It was learned that the Texas State Highway Commission are in a watchful attitude as regards the designation of the road between Jericho and Amarillo and as soon as some recommended changes are made, we may expect the department to take charge of this part of the road.

The meeting went on record as endorsing the Boy Scout movement, and Rev. J. G. Thomas, Earle Shell, Scott Johnston, T. A. Landers and L. F. Coffey were appointed to attend the next regional meeting of Panhandle scout officials, which will be held at Shamrock.

The matter of our next fall fair was discussed at some length, but owing to the lateness of the hour, action was deferred until the next meeting.

KENNEDY FUNERAL AT ALANREED SUNDAY

Funeral services were held Sunday at the Alanreed Baptist church, conducted by Rev. H. R. Whatley of Pampa, for R. L. Kennedy, who died at his home in Pampa Friday evening, at the age of 58 years, 10 months and 6 days.

The deceased was an old settler of Alanreed, having moved there some twenty years ago, but has been living at Pampa the past few years.

A wife, 5 children and a host of friends are left to mourn his passing.

Interment was made in Alanreed cemetery by the Masonic fraternity.

CLUB BOYS OFFERED FREE TRIP TO CHICAGO

The Santa Fe railway offers a free trip to the fourth National Boys and Girls Club Congress in Chicago this fall to the boy making the best record in crop or livestock projects. The work done by the boys must be under the supervision of a full time agricultural agent.

Gray county will only be awarded one trip, and there should be keen competition on the part of the club boys for the honor of making the trip.

NEEDLECRAFT CLUB

Reported. The Needlecraft Club was entertained at the home of Mrs. Searcy Douglas on Wednesday, April 15. An enjoyable afternoon was spent by everyone present. Dainty refreshments were served to seven guests.

ROCK ISLAND CROP REPORT

Chicago, April 3.—Texas Panhandle.—Soil is in only fair condition, due to lack of moisture, there having been no rains of consequence since November last year. Winter wheat is in good condition; younger wheat is reported damaged 20% to 25% on account of the drought. It is expected that cotton acreage in this section will be considerably greater than last season. Many new farmers have recently purchased land in this section and will do planting this season, so that increased acreage all crops may be expected.

$38.41 MORE PER ACRE BY PLANTING BETTER SEED

John Anderson, the wide-awake county agent of Wake county, N. C., checked the yields of cotton made by 28 farmers who planted improved cotton seed on a part of their farms, and the seed they had formerly used for comparison with the improved seed. The improved seed produced an average of 568 pounds of lint per acre, while the seed they had been planting produced an average of 401 pounds per acre, an average difference of 167 pounds per acre. At 23c per pound, the present price of cotton, the improved seed gave an increase in yield worth $38.41 per acre. This does not include the value of the seed, which are being held to plant this year.—The Progressive Farmer.

LEARN TO SAVE

Our farmers must learn to save as well as make, before prosperity decides to abide in our beloved Dixie. Eight years ago one of our neighbors bought a new one-horse wagon. One year later we bought one. Both wagons fared about alike except that the neighbor's wagon was kept under a shed when not in use. His wagon is good as new, while ours is junk.—C. L. C., in The Progressive Farmer.

Buy your boy or girl a Remington Portable for use in their school work. It has all the advantages of the large machines, standard keyboard, no shifting for figures. The price is small and you can buy them on monthly payments. Come to the News office and let us demonstrate.

WHO ARE THE FARMER'S FRIENDS?

The Palo Pinto County Star, under the caption, "Who Are the Farmer's Friends?" takes the farmer to task for patronizing the mail order concerns. Says this paper:

"There are a lot of farmers who habitually 'order' what they need in the way of supplies from foreign supply houses at retail prices, miles away, and pay freight on the same. 'Now we are going to put it squarely up to those folks. We will admit that there are some things which are not habitually carried in stock in Palo Pinto, and which, if in a hurry, must be bought elsewhere. But—

"When crops fail, who will give credit for supplies to make this year's crops? Will the mail order houses?"

"Did you have any idea these mail order concerns would loan you money to carry you over? You know they wouldn't."

"Who buys your fruit, eggs, butter, vegetables, crops and other stuff? The mail order houses or the local merchant?"

"Come clean now; don't you feel sneaky, selling your stuff to Palo Pinto merchants and then mailing a money order to some mail order house?"

While it is true that farmers patronize mail order houses liberally, it is a rather general complaint among farmers that merchants, as a rule, give their orders for farm produce to distant wholesale houses rather than to farmers close at hand, who would deliver fresh produce at the door. As one of our subscribers wrote:

"Just the other day a merchant was kicking the farmer for ordering his goods from wholesale houses rather than buying from home merchants and keeping their money at home; yet that very merchant refused my splendid homegrown apples, Irish potatoes and cabbage, and instead, bought them from wholesale houses, paying for a heavy crate, freight and a barrel of shipped apples, many of them bruised, all because the farmer wanted what the merchant paid the salesman. Yet the merchant wanted the farmer to trade with him and pay cash. If the farmer couldn't, he would charge him extra for having to wait until his money crop came in."

Under the circumstances, wouldn't it be well to ask the Palo Pinto County Star, "Who Are the Merchant's Friends?" Who is it that spreads the butter on the merchant's bread?

As a matter of fact, we are inclined to the opinion that neither merchant nor farmer boycotts the other for pure, unadulterated spite.

The merchant very often quite properly prefers to purchase standardized goods from wholesale houses, rather than to purchase produce direct from the farm, upgraded and in unattractive containers. And on the other hand, farmers buy from mail order houses, first, because many merchants fail to keep well stocked, and, second, because even after paying transportation charges, they can often purchase the same goods from the mail order house at less cost. To remedy this situation, farmers must learn to market produce more satisfactorily and merchants must learn to be better merchants.—The Progressive Farmer.

SUCCESSFUL MARRIAGES DEPEND ON COOKING

The raising of culinary activity to the level of an art will go a long way toward making marriages happy and solving health problems, says Dr. J. A. Patton, medical director of the Prudential Insurance Company of America.

Men are unhappy because the cooking at home is not good, and suffer digestive complaints, the cause of many ills, because they eat improperly at other places, was the way he expressed it.

"What we need is greater attention to the home dietary," he said. "Men will eat more at home if wives have been taught to regard cooking as an accomplishment as worthy as music. If they eat more good food at home there will be more happy marriages."

BOBBED HAIR

Fashion has sounded the death knell of bobbed hair for women, says Miss Grace Davies, associate editor of Harper Bazar. Actresses on the New York stage are leading the fight back to more and longer hair for women, she explained. Just think of it. Just at the time when the sensible and conservative women of America become reconciled to bobbing their hair and just as they become accustomed to its convenience, fashion decrees that women shall wear long hair.

It's too bad. Too bad for the barbers and beauty parlor shops, too bad for the advertising man who makes their business prosper, too bad that the home women should follow women of the New York stage in their hirsute adornments.

But the home women may not follow the lead of their more notorious sisters. They may decide to keep on bobbing their hair. Even if they finally do decide to let their hair grow long, they will take their time about it. It was many years after actresses started bobbing their hair, that other women took up the practice. It will take them several years to change from the bob, if ever.—Wellington Leader.

"THE TIMID SOUL" AND "LIFE'S DARKEST MOMENT"

Here are two cartoons.

One is called "The Timid Soul" and is by H. T. Webster. It shows four men puffing hard on cigarettes in front of a no smoking sign, while "the timid soul" is dropping his in the cuspidor.

The other cartoon shows a young man in an evening suit with a cigarette stuck in the middle of a face having the general appearance of a catfish. A young lady by his side is also sucking a cigarette and offering her case to another girl who is overcome with confusion because she has not learned the wonderful accomplishment of smoking.

As for the first cartoon, why picture a man who plays the game according to rules as "The Timid Soul"? Not one person in one million in America believes in the prohibition of tobacco or catalogs it as a vice, but a good many more than that wish that a great many tobacco smokers were a little more careful of the courtesies of life. Smoking where there are "no smoking" signs, carrying of lighted cigars, pipes or cigarettes into street cars, smoking in restaurants where it is not the custom, all of these things seriously annoy many people, especially women. About half of the women in the country would just about as soon be in close company with a good healthy pole cat as a lighted cigarette or cigar. They don't like to smell them for the same reason that they may not like to eat carrots. It has nothing to do with any belief that the smoker is going to some place where he will smoke all over all the time. It's just a question of smell, that's all.

As for the second cartoon, any woman who thinks she is doing something smart when she smokes a cigarette is, to use the language of the day, "a female sap," and any woman who is confused because she hasn't learned to smoke is another one, and anyone who has this general smart aleck attitude toward life should be given a competent nurse.—Methodist Clipper.

Two women figure in this story of thrills, beautiful scenes and swift action. Both are amazingly fair to the eye. One is of the stuff of heroes, but the other—well, no fiend could be worse. This latter, Cattle Kate she is called, is the imperious head of a big outfit numbering many cowboys and other employees. She prefers them to be of the reckless criminal type. Cattle Kate covets the other woman's small valley farm. It becomes a fight of woman against woman, a bitter struggle into which many men are drawn. A story of passion, thrilling episodes and big moments.

T. A. TAGGART RE-ELECTED SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT

Midlothian, April 16.—At a meeting of the school board Thursday of last week, Superintendent T. A. Taggart was re-elected for the 1925-1926 term.

Mr. Taggart has made a host of friends since coming to Midlothian and the news of his re-election will be gladly received by the patrons throughout the district. It is generally conceded that he is the best school man that Midlothian has had in many years. His success is no doubt due in a large measure to the splendid co-operation given him on account of his affability which some superintendents do not possess.—Midlothian Argus.

DRIIFTING

Among the millions of Americans there are thousands who are unconsciously wasting their lives.

Never in the course of the ages has the world afforded more opportunities for you to serve your country, to serve your fellow men, to serve yourself, and to make life worth while.

Opportunities are open only to those who plod persistently and laboriously.

How may we expect to achieve greatness? It is not by waiting for something to turn up, not by hoping that you have plenty of time to start, not by waiting for someone else to help you. Most certainly no one drifts into success.

Success belongs to those who are willing to work. Some seize and develop their opportunities; others fold their hands and drift—drifting to the bottom and do not know it.

Temptations are abundant, to take life easy and to let the auspicious days of golden opportunity go by.

But remember that the other fellow is working while you wait. Start now. Do not wait, and dream and drift. Start now. Start yourself.

Success is not complicated. Success is not mere genius. Success is the result of obedience, painstaking care, attention to small details, and constant repetition. The average man, he who but works, will acquire astounding success.

Refuse now to drift, keep at work; later you may rest and look back to your youth with pleasure.

How often is heard the remark: "I am waiting for the inspiration, then I will go ahead and do it." You are only a tool. The wise man has learned to do things, come what may. His inspiration is in the knowledge that things ought to be done. Inspiration is what comes out of a man, not what comes to a man.

That which reveals the greatness of a man more clearly than anything else is the fact that he knows how to gather details, put them exactly where they belong, and then proceed with the main task.—The Prairie.

HOME DEMONSTRATION BRINGS HIGHER CIVILIZATION

There is no way in which we can fully estimate the value of demonstration work. It is like sowing seeds of kindness and of thrift that produce in kind and spread throughout the neighborhood, community and county.

In Collin county, Texas, the woman's home demonstration club, co-operating with the home agent, Mrs. Viola McGee, has accomplished remarkable results in food preservation and other projects involving community co-operation and community building.

Mrs. McGee has been very successful in impressing club members with the value of home demonstration work and in creating community consciousness and pride. This, in turn, has led to a desire for co-operation and to the keeping of accurate records. Mrs. McGee was able to carry her work to such a successful conclusion largely through her ability to choose effective local leaders.

At the county fair, twenty-seven home demonstration clubs had booths, each club exhibiting con-tainners of meats, vegetables, fruits and other products. A total of 400,836 containers were recorded for the clubs of the one county. This alone seems a very big piece of work for one home agent to do. But this was only one project.

Another project resulted in the erection of fifteen new community houses, each costing, on an average $2,583.78. These houses were built and paid for by club members and then were supplied with equipment costing $3,149.85. The Bloomdale club of Collin county had a community Christmas tree and sent the state orphans' home 100 jars of

These are but a small part of the accomplishments of this good home demonstration agent working with co-operating people. They are the accomplishments of the spirit of citizenship. NAMELESS RIVER

BY VINGIE E. ROE

YOU have read great romances of the exploring, of railroad building, of gold seeking and of cattle raising in the West, but did you ever read one that set forth in adequate degree the trials and adventures of the small farmers—a true romance of the determined breed who fought the cattle barons for a place on range or in valley that the land beyond the Missouri might be a settled region? In "Nameless River," Vingie E. Roe, author of several other unusual western stories, has repaired some of the neglect of novelists. From among the lowly homesteaders she has drawn as fine a type of heroine as ever came out of the West and has filled her book with a series of incidents as stirring as that country ever produced.

Dr. Nunn of the Amarillo News gave the Press Association his motto for a contented life: "Something to do, someone to love and something to hope for." As three seemed to be a magic number during the convention, this motto could hardly be improved upon.

The Amarillo Board of City Development offers to send speakers to any town in the Panhandle and assist in organizing, or otherwise assisting local chambers of commerce in their work. This is an offer that should be gratefully accepted by the various towns as occasion warrants.

One of the speakers at the Press Convention stated that the country should be developed first, and the towns would take care of themselves. This is good reasoning, for no town can grow very far ahead of the surrounding community.

Bob Underwood's address at the Press Convention was a masterpiece and his intimate knowledge of the Bible was a surprise to the newspaper men present when he quoted that familiar passage from the scriptures, "All Gual divided into three parts and the greatest of these is charity."

Strangers praise our street lighting system, but the man who gets the greatest thrill out of the lights is the McLean citizen who returns home late at night from a trip to distant points. There is nothing that looks better than our well lighted town. Then we have had no cases of stores being broken into by petty thieves since the street lights were installed.

F. P. Reid, chairman of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, promised the McLean committee who appeared before the commissioners' court this week full co-operation in securing a north and south road in the eastern part of the county. There is no reason why such a road should not be laid out, as there is no road across the county east of Lefors.

We note in a writup in the Pampa News of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce meeting last week in which it is said that a McLean citizen stated that our town is not a town so much known for doing things as for keeping them from being done. While this remark was probably made in a spirit of fun, referring to the recent court house election, yet such remarks could easily be misunderstood. The fact is that McLean has done more in the last three years along progressive lines than any other town we know of anywhere near its size.

Amarillo may have some differences among its citizens, but no one can complain of the treatment accorded visitors. The Press Convention was the largest in point of attendance of any preceding one, and every Amarillo citizen seemed to be doing his best to make the visiting editors feel welcome. The Board of City Development Information Desk was presided over by Mrs. W. C. Foster, a former McLean resident, who very graciously saw that no one lacked anything in the way of information that it was in the power of the Board of City Development to furnish.

WHEN A MAN IS MORE CURIOUS THAN A WOMAN

Curiosity is the spice of life, and a very strong spice it is. Curiosity may make life like a jolly good game, or curiosity may wreck a life. Macbeth was happy and contented in the service of his king until he allowed his curiosity to overwhelm his better judgment. Then his life became one horrible nightmare after another.

It is an established fact (among men) that a woman is the most curious creature in existence. Hamlet said, "frailty, thy name is woman." The men of today often change this speech—only slightly, however—to "curiosity, thy name is woman." I suppose men think women are curious because they sometimes ask a few questions. A man goes to his club and learns all the news and day's events and of course a woman wants to know also. That is not curiosity; it is merely seeking after superior knowledge.

Now when a man comes home with a white spot on his coat or a shining tendril of hair across his shoulder, his wife might view him askance, the while a vivid mental picture of the too perfect John holding in his arms a petite—well, we will say stenographer—presents itself. She can almost see in reality the pretty putting mouth within easy distance of John's lips. The lovely white cheek lying against John's manly bosom accounts for the white spot on John's coat. The fluffy head pressed firmly against John's shoulder accounts for the shining tendril across it. Careless John! It might be wise to not overlook these things next time. Friend wife becomes curious to know what has transpired at the office today. John becomes exasperated in making explanations, and alas! there is where the trouble begins.

But—when a man is more curious than a woman; a man has a pretty fair curiosity. He is always curious to know where all his wife's money goes. He becomes curious to know what is in the numerous small packages and the numerous large packages the delivery boy is forever bringing his wife. He never sees the contents. His curiosity flows like the Solway when the packages arrive, but it also "ebbs like its tide"—when the collector comes around.

I think men are more curious than any woman who ever lived. Let the sweetheart of a jealous lover shower one-fifteenth of her attentions upon a rival, and he becomes curious to know what she can find about him that is so attractive. I know a man whose pet curiosity is to know "why women wear such outlandish clothes." Some men are curious to know why a woman "bobs" her hair. As Iago says, "it is something—nothing"—only it serves as food for an ideal curiosity. Men become curious about such small insignificant things, in comparison to a woman's curiosity. A man may more seldom show his curiosity, but when he does—let a man undertake to satisfy it—Canadian Record.

PAYING THE FIDDLER

The writer of this column returned a few days ago from an automobile trip that covered some 3,100 miles. Always interested in highways, the trip gave him an opportunity to drive over good, bad and indifferent roads, and to study highway conditions in several states. In the state of Arkansas he traveled over more miles of good roads than in any other state, and notwithstanding the difficulties of roadbuilding in some sections of that state, he found that a connected system is under construction that will soon checkerboard that entire commonwealth. The roadbuilding and swamp draining program will ere long work a transformation in that much derided state that will cause the people of more favored sections otherwise to sit up and take notice. Mark the prediction.

An inquiry was made as to how they did it. The answer came back: "A 4-cent gasoline tax." This reminds us that the Texas legislature recently defeated an increase in the gasoline tax for roadbuilding purposes. Bad business. The gasoline tax puts the burden where it belongs—on those who use and enjoy the roads, whether they live in this state or just pass through on pleasure or business. The automobile tax should be reduced and a gasoline tax increased. Those who dance should pay for the fiddling.—Dallas Texan.

Nameless River

This writer who gained fame with "Heart of Night Wind," "Primal Lure" and other fine stories of the West, knows her locality. She was born in Kansas, married in South Dakota and now lives in California. She has seen the cattle ranges change to small farms and has been part of the adventurous life which accompanied the transition. She is unique in her ability to present the atmosphere of the country, true pictures of the people and of natural beauties and depict thrilling situations. No one has more effectively captured the romance of the West along with its reality. One of her greatest stories is "Nameless River."

WHY NOT?

Anyone you meet on the streets of Meridian can give you a sure cure for what ails you, and yet the doctors go right on living.—Meridian Tribune.

Oh, the doctors are called in when the first-aid is found insufficient. We make a good deal of money out of doctors and their ways while we are well, but when we realize that the prescriptions of our friends are unavailing and that we can't conjure our pains away, we send for the doctor. Usually we send for what is called the family doctor. He undertakes to treat all ordinary ailments, including fits, and after he has been trusted by many winters of experience, his presence in the sick room is a good tonic in itself. But the family doctor is a disappearing type, more's the pity. He is losing confidence, in some cases. If his son becomes a doctor, the young man almost invariably chooses to be a specialist. And the old gentleman is proud of the young gentleman's ability to collect big fees. Big fees are luring many medical graduates into the specialist lines. They feel justified, because the people pay. But there are many instances in which the fee charged is indecently large. It is often declared that the doctors do so much charity practice they have to charge exorbitantly those who can pay. It is poor reasoning. In the first place, there isn't a great deal of charity practice done by busy specialists. In the next place, a man who happens to have more money than another is not justly due to be charged for the other man's doctor bill. The druggist doesn't charge one five dollars for a prescription and another man fifty cents. A clothier doesn't charge one man a hundred dollars for a suit and another man thirty. Nor would the specialist expect to pay forty dollars for a hotel room when the man next door was paying four dollars. Why shouldn't medical fees be standardized and advertised?—State Press in Dallas News.

NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING BEST

Chas. E. Blackwell, the most successful merchant in the entire state of Washington, has no faith in calendar advertising. He says: "There are many lines of publicity that country stores can use to advantage, but the one they can use best is the home town paper. I venture to say that if the money spent each year for fancy calendars and other knick-knack giveaways were invested—I say invested, not spent or donated—in carefully planned newspaper advertising the actual net returns of the advertising to the advertiser would be ten times as great, to say nothing of the advantage the small town newspaper would derive from the additional and much needed revenue. And we know as a business builder, it is without an equal in any town.—Exchange.

THE MOST INTERESTING FAMILY I EVER KNEW

The most interesting family I know is not the most intellectual, the most pious, nor the richest. They are just human. That word describes them better than any other I can find.

The family consists of husband and wife and two small children. They live on a farm without any near neighbors in a small, comfortable bungalow. They have one luxury, or that is what some of the neighbors call it, a furnace. Their living room is indeed a living room and not kept solely for company.

There is nothing pretentious about these people, their home nor their furniture. But there is something remarkable about their contentedness. It shows in their faces.

Farm papers and up-to-date magazines are in abundance. An especially good book sometimes keeps them up half the night. Some of the neighbors think this also is very foolish. They are not spend-thrift, neither are they too economical to go to town occasionally to see a good show.

They are musically inclined and oftentimes spend their evenings singing and playing. They take a great interest in the social life of the community and the latch string is always hanging outside their door.

They never seem to have a dull evening. Their music, their reading, their discussion of current events and their work fill their days with a peace that can only come from contented minds.—The Progressive Farmer.

HOW TO FEED

GROWING CHICKS

In feeding young chicks, do not overfeed. Feed frequently, but in small amounts.

First Forty-eight Hours—Give baby chicks under 48 hours nothing to drink, no mash, no grain, and nothing else.

Third Day—Give sour or buttermilk, and three times daily feed fresh rolled oats crumbled fine. Have fine grit accessible at all times.

Fourth to Seventh Day—Give sour or buttermilk, but no water. Continue feeding fresh rolled oats three times daily, gradually changing to grain. For grain feed finely cracked corn and pin head oats—equal parts by weight, or commercial chick feed. Give fine grit and charcoal. Add finely cut litter on fourth day. Compel chicks to scratch for all grain.

Seven to 21 Days—Give milk. Keep in the mash hopper at all times one part corn meal, one part wheat shorts, one part ground oats, with the hulls sifted out. Three times daily feed cracked corn, cracked wheat, steel clipped oats or pin head oats mixed in equal parts. Continue grit and charcoal and feed plenty of green feed. Keep mash hoppers and milk troughs sanitary. Get chicks out on ground on warm days.

Twenty-one Days to Ten Weeks—Give milk and water. Use the same mash given above and use coarser cracked grain for scratch feed. Add 10% meat scrap and 2% bone meal to the mash. Supply green feed, charcoal and grit. Separate cockerels from pullets.

Ten Weeks to Maturity—Continue the above feeding schedule. Get the chicks out on range. Leghorn pullets should be brought into laying at about five to six months of age, the larger breeds six to seven months. Pullets hatched too early and too early in maturing may go into a fall molt. Prevent this. Keep them on the growing ration until the latter part of September, then start them to paying. Continue to feed green feed.

Supply the chicks with plenty of grit and charcoal. Keep houses clean and free from mites. Keep birds free from lice.—Alabama Extension Service, in The Progressive Farmer.

CO-OPERATIVE EGG PRODUCTION NEEDED

We have heard much in late years about co-operative marketing. What we need in addition is co-operative production of many of our farm products, and this is particularly true of eggs. When producers of eggs, milk, cotton, wheat, or pigs co-operate in the production of these commodities, they can then go to the markets and say, "We can deliver a given quantity and a given quality of grade or size," and in this way secure the top of the market. The co-operative production of one variety of cotton around Corpus Christi has enabled the farmers of that section to deliver in large quantities one variety and one grade of cotton which resulted in the very highest price. Within the past two years, farmers at Electra have co-operated in the production of good quality milk. A creamery was established and this little community has found a market for its products in large markets where other brands of butter had long been established. Any community which will co-operate in the production of quality eggs will have no difficulty in finding a profitable summer market.—M. B. Oates, in The Progressive Farmer.

JUGGLING WITH LIFE & DEATH

A man with an uncanny mania for juggling with figures produced paper and pencil and said to a friend: "Put down the number of your living brothers. Multiply it by two and add three. Multiply the result by five. Add the number of living sisters. Multiply the result by ten. Add the number of dead brothers and sisters. Subtract 150 from the result." The friend did it. The right hand figure is the number of deaths. The middle figure the number of living sisters, and the left hand figure the number of living brothers.

This week finds the school under the influence of that malady of the human race known as spring fever. The days are growing warmer. The sun is rising earlier, and the boys and girls who wish to get out of doing any work at home are beginning to come to school so early that Mr. Dean has adopted the policy of locking the school house doors until the first bell rings.

The recent warm weather has caused the students to feel slightly indolent, but the fact that school will be out in six more weeks urges everyone to do his best in the time that remains. The senior class, especially, is working hard. Those on the very brink of the dark chaos of failure are working as they never worked before, and those who have been doing exceptional work are about to complete a four years' struggle for the distinction of graduating with highest honors.

The faculty met with the senior class Tuesday afternoon and averaged up the grades made during the past four years. The result showed that Thelma Gatlin had made the best record. She is therefore valedictorian, while Ima Anderson is salutatorian. Both these students did very commendable work, but there were several others whose work was so close to the two highest that we are glad to print their names. The seven highest students were as follows: Thelma Gatlin, Ima Anderson, Verna Rice, Vernon Rice, Milton Carpenter, Lee Wilson and Barbara Windom.

Senior-Junior Reception

The Junior class of '25 entertained the Senior class and faculty Friday night, April 10, with the annual Senior-Junior reception. The affair was staged in the lower hall of the high school building, that was pleasingly decorated with the Senior colors, pink and white, which was the color scheme of the evening. As the guests entered the hall they were presented with cards which referred them to the table, couple, number and university to which they belonged.

The welcome address was made by Lorena Ashby, president of the Junior class, and Vernon Rice, president of the Senior class, gave the response.

As most of the Seniors are planning to attend college, the university style was carried out. Five universities were represented: Hardnox, E. Z. U., Skin Thru, Hicksville and Flunkout. Each university chose a representative for the game which followed.

Much cheering took place as the representatives of each university began a hard fought football game, which was played with eggs. LeRoy Landers from Skin Thru won the blue ribbon.

After the football game, the students of each university, armed with paper and pencil, chased Shakespeare down the pages of history in an effort to solve the Shakespeare love story. Skin Thru again took the lead, and won as a prize an intelligent looking duck.

The cracker eating contest proved very disastrous to some of the representatives, as they were unable to talk or whistle for at least five minutes after it occurred. But in spite of the stickability of the crackers, John Haynes of E. Z. U. and Marie Copeland of Hicksville succeeded in producing a slight sound, which won them the prize, as it was taken for a whistle.

The melancholy story of why the rabbit has long ears and a short tail was told by LeRoy Landers, after which the rabbit was brought to further grief when the sympathetic representatives attempted to pin a long bushy tail upon him. Tom Clark was successful in his calculations, and was awarded the prize of a basket full of nice Easter eggs.

The crokinole game which followed was very disconcerting to the entertainers, who were forced to retire to another room while the crooms were flying around in mid-air and being rescued by the players.

Piano solos, quartettes and readings were successful stimulants for the brick ice cream, cakes and nuts which followed. This was proven by the rapid disappearance of the refreshments.

classes were present.

Club Boys Organize

Mr. McMeans, county agent for Gray county, called a meeting Wednesday morning for all the boys interested in club work and stock judging. He made an interesting talk on his work and his plans for the coming year.

Among the things Mr. McMeans discussed was the trips that could be won in the work under his direction. The contest in which he wishes to enlist a great many boys at present is the stock judging contest at Amarillo two weeks from now. Gray county can furnish a team for this contest and Pampa has already selected its team. After the best judges have been picked from Pampa, Hopkins and Kingsmill, our boys will compete against them. The winners of this contest will then go to Amarillo and compete against all the other teams in this part of the country. The winning team gets a free trip to College Station.

Mr. McMeans asked the boys who entered the contests previous to this year to tell their experiences. Oran Robinson volunteered to tell all he knew, and consequently, we were entertained by him for about ten minutes. Oran has proven his ability to judge livestock several times, and has won quite a few honors.

Many boys agreed to take out cards and sign them up. Everything seems to indicate that the new county agent will prove successful in his work in McLean this year.

Seventh Grade Picnic

The seventh grade spent a very enjoyable afternoon last Friday at Skillet Creek. Upon arriving, they spent a short time climbing the hills and playing games.

After supper, the boys and girls spent their time laughing and talking and roasting marshmallows. Everyone had a good time, despite the fact that Miss Astracm spent most of the afternoon in scolding the mischievous boys.

Mr. Dean—"All men descended from monkeys. Am I right, Lee?"
 Lee Jack-on—"Yeah, I guess so, but who kicked the ladder out from under you?"

Mr. Rogers—"Why haven't you your lesson?"

 Student—"I couldn't study—the lights went out."
 Mr. Rogers—"Why didn't you turn them on and send him home?"

Tom Clark—"Say, let's have one of those new Corn Belts that I've been hearing so much about."

Lena—"Say, you know these world fliers were lost in the Arctic for about a week?"

Martha—"No! How did they keep from freezing to death?"

Lena—"Well, you see, they landed on a mountain range."

"Never give up!" cried the man who was sitting in the street car. And the women stood up for their rights.

Martin—"Are you the man who cut my hair last time?"

Barber—"I couldn't be, sir, I've only been here a year."

Harold Senter—"Mother, may I have a nickel for the old man who is outside crying?"

Mrs. Senter—"Yes, dear, but what is the old man crying about?"

Harold—"He's cryin', peanuts, five cents a bag."

"Have you anything to say before leaving the stand?" asked the judge after pronouncing the death sentence upon a negro murderer.

"Yes, suh, jedge," replied the prisoner, "I wants to say right here that dis is gonna be a lesson to me."

Pete—"Say, Doc, do you know a cure for insomnia?"

Doc—"Did you ever try sitting before your text books a while?"

NAMELESS RIVER

BY VINGIE E. ROE

YOU have read great romances of the exploring, of railroad building, of gold seeking and of cattle raising in the West, but did you ever read one that set forth in adequate degree the trials and adventures of the small farmers—a true romance of the determined breed who fought the cattle barons for a place on range or in valley that the land beyond the Missouri might be a settled region? In "Nameless River," Vingie E. Roe, author of several other unusual western stories, has repaired some of the neglect of novelists. From among the lowly homesteaders she has drawn as fine a type of heroine as ever came out of the West and has filled her book with a series of incidents as stirring as that country ever produced.
