NEW SCHOOL COMPLETED AT PLEASANT HILL.

A new school building has been completed and a teacher employed in the Pleasant Hill community, about seven miles southeast of town. The building is of modern construction and is a credit to the progressive citizenship of the community.

Miss Daisy Knowles of Lelia Lake is teaching the school this term.

WILLIAMS MAKES RECORD

Curg Williams, owner of the Williams Motor Co., has returned from a visit at the Ford plant at Oklahoma City. Mr. Williams has made an enviable record in Ford sales since coming to McLean a few months ago, having sold more cars than the towns of Shamrock, Wellington, Clarendon, Miami, Pampa, and Hollis and Hobart, Okla.

Mr. Williams' success may be attributed to the heavy advertising space carried in The News in November and December.

A. Ashby, member of the board, spoke in favor of the building, and stated that at least additional class rooms should be in order that the child could be taken out of the basement and the basement rooms for athletics and other purposes.

Miss Ruby Cook stated that she was a member of the first graduating class in the present building and had taught in most every room in the building, and that we are now economizing in the eyes and health of the children. "It is easier to pay in cash than in the child's health and education," said Miss Cook.

E. A. C. Huff said that economy is a bad proposition when we lose while practicing it.

N. E. Savage, member of the board, thought that a little "horse sense" is needed as we go into the proposition. The present building is not an old one, and a plan should be worked out to use it; an addition would only be good judgment as there would be too much waste to tear it down.

M. D. Bentley was in favor of an addition, as the plan looked feasible, for economy must be considered. We cannot build a $50,000 building, but something must be done.

Rev. J. L. Joyner, Presbyterian pastor, said our necessity is the question, not a matter of economy. The district cannot afford to sacrifice the children for a few paltry dollars.

The editor of The News was called upon for a closing speech, and Rev. J. L. Joyner dismissed the meeting with prayer.

STICK TO YOUR BUSH

One day when I was a lad, a party of boys and girls were going to a distant pasture to pick whortleberries. I wanted to go with them, but was fearful that my father would not let me. When I told him what was going on, he at once gave me permission to go with them. I could hardly contain myself for joy, and rushed into the litchen and got a big basket and asked mother for a luncheon. I had the basket on my arm and was just going out of the gate when my father called me back. He took hold of my hand and said, in a very gentle voice: "Joseph, what are you going for—to pick berries, or go play?" "To pick berries," I replied. "Then, Joseph, I want to tell you one thing. It is this: When you find a pretty good bush, do not leave it to find a better one. The other boys and girls will run about, picking a little here and a little there, wasting a great deal of time, and not getting many berries. If you do as they do you will come home with an empty basket. If you want berries, stick to your bush."

I went with the party, and we had a capital time. But it was just as my father said. No sooner had one found a good bush than he called all the rest, and they left their several places and ran off to the new found treasure. Not content more than a minute or two in one place, they rambled over the whole pasture, got very tired, and at night had a very few berries. My father's words kept ringing in my ears and I "stuck to my bush." When I had done with one I found another and finished that; then I took another. When night came I had a large basketful of nice berries, more than all the others put together, and was not half as tired as they were.

I went home happy, but when I entered, I found that my father had taken ill. He looked at my basketful of ripe berries and said: "Well done, Joseph. Was it just as I told you? Always stick to your bush."

He died a few days after, and I had to make my own way in the world as best I could.

But my father's words stuck deep into my mind, and I never forgot the experience of the whortleberry party; I stuck to my bush.

When I had a fair place and was going tolerably well, I did not leave it and spend weeks and months in finding one a little better. When the other men said: "Come with us and we will make a fortune in a few weeks," I shook my head and "stuck to my bush." Presently my employers offered to take me into business with them. I stayed with the old house until the principals died, and then I took their place. The habit of sticking to my business led people to trust me and gave me a character. I owe all I have and am to this motto: "Stick to your bush."

A SENSE OF HUMOR

The man who has a sense of humor, and with it can contaminate his fellows, is a priceless jewel. We hand the fur-lined shaving mug to the editor of the Bremond Press. He gave us our best Christmas laugh, with the following "News That's Never Printed."

Thinking them to be mushrooms, Mrs. Caroline Bamberg and her children picked and ate a quantity of fungi in Forest Park yesterday afternoon. They were mushrooms. James MacReady, ninety-four years old, who for years had lived upon two bananas a day in a squalid little room, died last evening without leaving a tin box filled with government bonds.

Bobby Rocello, four years old, fell asleep yesterday morning on the rear fire escape of the flat on Siegel street. He awoke after two hours, much refreshed.

A small gray kitten, chased by a dog, scrambled to the top of a tall tree on Main street today and got down again without difficulty. No crowd collected.

Rak a dozen boys, playing scout in a clump of woods near East Hickory, did not find the slightest evidence of a murder.

Seven years ago this month, Bill Buie, a young man of the poor-but-honest type, helped a tottering old man to cross the crowded street. This morning Buie received a letter from Tarts & Trammel, attorneys, and on opening it, discovered that it was a handsomely engraved notice of the firm's removal to a new set of offices.—Southwestern Machinery.

PATRONIZE THE ADVERTISERS

FIFTY-NINE YEARS AGO

Folks boiled coffee and settled it with an egg. Ladies rode on side saddles. Little Johnnie wore brass-toe boots and daddy wore brogans. When the preacher told the truth people said amen. Left-over noon victuals were finished at supper time. Neighbors asked about your family and meant it. Merry-go-rounds were called flying jennies. It took twenty minutes to shine shoes with Mason's blacking. Ladies' dresses reached from their neck to their heels. People served pot licker instead of canned soup. Only crooks on record were lightning rod agents. Indignation was called plain belly-ache. The neighbors got fresh meat at hog killing time. Cotton seed was considered good fertilizer. And men made the same wife do a life time.—Exchange.

WORRYING ABOUT IT

The hardest work you ever do Is worrying about it; What makes one hour resemble two Is worrying about it; The time goes mighty slowly when You sit and sigh and sigh again, And think of work ahead, and then Keep worrying about it.

Just buckle up and buckle in— Quit worrying about it. By work, not worry, you will win— Quit worrying about it. A task is easy once begun, It has its labor and its fun; So grab a hold and do it, son— Quit worrying about it.

BALD HEAD TATTOOED

Tattooing in red and blue entirely covered the bald head of a man who appeared in a London police court recently.

TRANSPORT

For hours they had been together on her front porch. The moon cast its tender gleam down on the young and handsome couple who sat strangely far apart. He sighed. She sighed. Finally: "I wish I had money, dear," he said. "I'd travel." Impulsively she slipped her hand into his, then, rising swiftly, she sped into the house. Aghast, he looked at his hand. In his palm lay a nickel.

T. A. LANDERS Editor and Owner

Entered as second class mail matter, May 8, 1905, at the post office at McLean, Texas, under act of Congress.

It should not be necessary to remind the voters that their poll tax should be paid before the first of February, but there are always some who forget until too late. There are a number of elections that every citizen should exercise his franchise on this year. Pay your poll tax today!

Supt. Dean, in his remarks Monday night, stated that the present school auditorium is a fire trap and that fire broke out there only a few days ago. When children's eyesight, general health and even lives are in daily danger, it does seem that it is high time to remedy these distressing conditions.

Certain promises were made by our Chamber of Commerce in regard to early printing of this year's fair catalog, that seem to have been forgotten. January first was the time suggested by the exhibitors' committee, and something should be done about this matter at once, if we are to expect the co-operation that may be ours.

Merchants sometimes complain that they cannot lay their copy of The News on the counter without it disappearing, and this week we found a man who admitted he reads The News by picking up stray copies in the stores. The cost of a year's subscription is very small and the feeling of belonging to the big bunch of live people who take the home paper should influence most anyone but the most prejudiced to subscribe for themselves. Everybody likes to read the home paper, and everyone should subscribe for it.

That the old idea of guaranteeing a certain sum for chautauqs and lyceums is all wrong, is proven by the increasing difficulty in putting over such programs each year. It is freely admitted that it seldom pays out, and the solicitor always tries to have some local institution sponsor the programs in order to appeal to the patriotism of patrons, in addition to a list of guarantors. Good, clean entertainment never goes begging in the smaller towns, and anything worth the money may expect success without a guarantee.

With this issue my connection with the News terminates. The past three years spent in the newspaper business in McLean have been pleasant in the main. Of course there has been the irate subscriber to try the patience of a busy editor, and the chronic groucher who always finds something to kick about, no matter how hard you may try to please him. This class of customers, however, have been few, compared to the many I have had the privilege of meeting in a business way, who really appreciate the efforts The News has made for the betterment of the community. It is not any small job to publish a newspaper. It takes lots of work and money and the co-operation of everyone in the territory it serves, to make it a success. Your part in making The News what it has been during the time I have been connected with it is greatly appreciated. I trust you will continue to give The News your support under the new management.

My plans for the future are indefinite. As soon as the weather permits, I will go to Colorado and spend a few weeks improving some property I have there. If a suitable location can be found, I will probably continue in the newspaper business. FRED LANDERS.

THE SUCCESSOR TO INK

Scrip is a clean, clear-writing fluid, made and recommended only for fountain pen use. The majority of repairs on fountain pens are the result of clogging from the use of interior inks. Scrip flows evenly without flooding, and will not deposit a bronze scale on the point of the pen.

Scrip does not dry on the fountain pen as readily as acid or tannin inks, yet it is of a quality that it penetrates the fibres of the paper more readily and requires less blotting.

We have plenty of Scrip on hand.

SYNOPSIS

Act. I.—The gay little tea room makes its bow to no other. A desirable hired man appears, a charming woman detained by a mysterious puncture, and, all of a sudden, comes the thrilling message, "Teas has the smallpox!" Act. II.—Quarantine brings complications. There are ghostly raps from the locked history. There is the mysterious appearance of the fan and scarf belonging to "the lady in the purple" and Gloria's clever little scheme hurries matters to a climax. Act. III.—The gaiety of a fancy dress ball brings defeat to Gloria, a real social service to Ann, and a fire. The secret passage leads to safety, the misunderstandings resolve themselves into happy endings, and the quarantine is lifted at the news, "Teas has the chicken pox!"

THE LITTLE THINGS
It takes pennies to make dollars; minutes to make hours; words to make books. The giant skyscraper is built one brick at a time—and the absence of one brick might cause the building to fall.
In all the avenues of life it's the little things that count. The man who discounts the importance of little things will never enjoy the blessings of the big ones.
In a great cotton mill the writer saw the little threads drawn off spools onto a great drum, preparatory to the weaving process. It seemed that literally hundreds of spools were feeding their contents onto the big drum. "Break one of those threads," said the escort. A hand was reached forth and a thread snapped—oh, so easily!
Presto, the machine stopped!
The breaking of one little thread stopped a big machine. And, when considered in connection with the hundreds of other threads, it seemed so unimportant, so insignificant.
Yet, that little thread was an important part of the whole process, and its breaking stilled the machine.
It's drops of water that make the ocean; and grains of sand that make the land.
Everet Hubbard has said the man who commands thousands once commanded tens, and before that he learned to command himself.
Everything is like that—first the unit, then the multiple, and finally the mass. The man who begins at the top works down; the man who wants to get to the top must begin at the bottom—by learning the importance of little things.
Self-importance is self-destruction.
Humility is the price of greatness.
Simplicity is the soul of character.
In the words of Daniel Defoe, "Abused prosperity is oftentimes made the very means of our greatest adversity."
Big things may encompass us, but only through neglect to little things may we fall. It has ever been thus. Study the pages of history, and heed its warnings; profit by its lessons.
Watch out for the little things.

THE KNOCKER
We have a very poor opinion of a man who will live in a town, county or state and knock it. We heard a man knocking his town the other day; he was riding around in a nice, new auto, has a nice home to live in, and several years ago when he landed here, to our certain knowledge, he was flat broke; now he is in good circumstances—has a nice substantial business. And yet we heard him say that a man was a fool, and he was a fool, for stopping here. Well, we could not help from handing him one in this wise: Why in the devil don't you move? Why do you stay here and knock the town that has given you a good living, permitting you to accumulate a competence to live on? Now we let our mind run along back down the years, and in doing so, we get a line-up on this fellow, and to our certain knowledge, we have never seen this man at a public meeting, never saw him in a mass meeting which was called for the advancement of the town and county, never saw his name on a subscription list for any civic enterprise whatever; and yet he lives here, makes a living here, and stands around and cusses the town. Now, ere we pass, we want to say that we have a perfect contempt for that sort of a citizen. Furthermore, we don't believe in a boycott, as it is a sign of cowardice and weakness to boycott any man or faction, but suffice it to say if the other fellow has what we want, we mean the fellow that boasts for his town, we look him up.—Albany News.

HE DIDN'T ADVERTISE
There was a sluggish little firm that did a sluggish little trade, And had no trouble counting up the profits which it made.
The boss became quite peevish as the days went by, and sore, As the crowds went flocking past to his competitor's, next door.
He couldn't blame his wares, which he was sure were fine,
And wondered why the buyers didn't come to see his line;
"There won't any better," he would mutter, "than his goods," And yet his shop was lonesome as a cabin in the woods.
One day he had a caller, this discouraged business man, Who tacked upon the door a sign which all might read who ran, Which said that—Thursday, rain or shine, or snow or sleet or hail,
The goods would be disposed of at a sheriff's auction sale.
The next door neighbor bought the stock and sold it in a week To eager crowds that daily in the paper bargains seek,
Which caused the former boss to say, which showed that he was wise,
He made his fatal error when he failed to ADVERTISE!
CHANGE OF BUSINESS
"I understand young Briefless is about to marry the daughter of old Bonds, the millionaire."
"Yes, so I am told."
"Will he give up the law business?"
"Yes, he will give up the law business and go into the son-in-law business."
Advertising doesn't jerk, it pulls.

HE NEEDS THE MONEY
There are several candidates in prospect. Gentlemen, if you are going to run, it is better to get in early. It does not cost any more and the newspaper does not make any more out of it, but the sooner you are in the ring the sooner your friends will line up for you and sometimes you avoid running against someone else, as if they knew you were coming out they might not, but once in the race a fellow can hardly pull out.
Throw your hat in the ring. We ought to have at least 79 for County Judge, and 76 for Sheriff, and 75 or 80 for Superintendent of Public Instruction, and on down the line. 82 might run for Treasurer and 60 or 20 for Assessor, and there is the Clerk's office that no one seems to want, and on down the line. Get in the ring, doggone it, we need the money.—

MY LADY NICOTINE
One of the most dreaded poisons, may be aroused into activity by excessive smoking; ulcers of the stomach is aggravated if caused by excessive chewing; blood pressure, paralysis, foreal diseases of the heart, and nerve—even insanity—are attributed to the wiles of lady Nicotine.
Smoking tobacco drains the saliv-ary glands, causes "acid indigestion" and invites ulceration of stomach. If you have sour stomach, quit chewing. The saliva valuable corrective of acidity should not be wasted. Smoking irritates the olfactory nerves. Nicotine is a subtle drug and will poison the system from any point of contact. A wet tobacco leaf on the surface of the body has profound effects upon the system beneath. Some of our useful instruments contain oil of tobacco and their use should be practiced with great caution.
The death in our young people is frequent, and mentality is affected very perceptibly in youthful cigarette smokers. The man who does not use tobacco in any form is easier to relieve of his addiction than the addict; his system is cleaner, his nervous system is healthy, and he responds to treatment more promptly. Any drug addiction cannot be strongly condemned—for "moderate indulgence" in any seductive habit is so impossible.—Collingsworth Standard.

NOBLE NORDIC DARROW

Mr. Clarence Darrow recently in Detroit pleaded the case of a negro client by making fervent pleas against race prejudice. In doing so Darrow exhibited a surprising amount of race prejudice himself, but against the whites. The blacks were all white to him, the whites all black. Not a white witness escaped Darrow's charge of perjury. Here is an oratorical gem of characteristic ray concerning the fifty or more white witnesses in the case:

"Every state witness perjured himself over and over again to send these defendants to prison. . . . Men, women and children alike have come into this court to lie. . . . They perjured themselves in favor of their noble Nordic race. . . . Everyone of them lied, right down to little children."

The white man who was murdered, the white neighbors, the police, the state's attorneys—everybody was a blackleg to Darrow. In fact, no negro in the case could have felt more race prejudice against the whites: this writer is willing to say that few negroes ever have felt, or even want to feel, a race prejudice as intense and unreasonable as that of Darrow.

However, we confidently leave Darrow to the negroes, where he wants to be, for we believe that the more intelligent American negroes are beginning to realize the falsity of such friendship. There is in this country a deliberate and organized effort to Bolshevize the colored man. Every visitor to the recent scientific gathering at Moscow testified to the feverish activity of Bolshevik chiefs in their new crusade to arouse the yellow and black peoples of the earth in a war against the white governments. There are in Moscow now American negroes being trained as Communist agents for work among their people in America. American negroes know this and are arousing themselves to meet the situation. Let us hope they will handle it effectively. The destiny of the white race and the black race in this continent is to live together in the same economic system, and together they will resist all attempts to destroy the white man's civilization which is the black man's best security.

Mr. Darrow proceeded from Detroit to New York, where he again spoke to negroes. He again made sport of the "Nordic race." This famous representative of the religious negro cautioned the negro against piety. "There's another thing—you're too pious," he said. He counseled the negro to form of himself a voting bloc "to keep the white politicians guessing." In short, he exhibited in numerous ways that most degenerate form of race prejudice—prejudice against the race that bore him. Negroes don't respect white men who fawn upon negroes.—Dearborn Independent.

THE LETTER X GIRL

Formerly the poets used to spout mushy verses about woman's slender waist. An old minstrel ditty will be recalled by some, addressed to some mythical "nut brown maiden" in very amorous terms.

"Thou hast a slender waist," sang the writer of this love lorn ditty to his flame, and the thought seemed to stir his heart with stormy emotion.

That nut brown maiden has vanished. Probably she is taking reducing exercises now. If she has any of her old gowns tucked away in the attic, the nut brown maidens of 1926 would have to be put into a mechanical compressor in order to get them on.

Just why it was a beautiful thing for a woman's figure to be shaped like a letter X was never quite explained by connoisseurs in that branch of aesthetics. Just now they apparently want her modeled on a letter I made with one straight and narrow line, but that may pass also. Anyway, the letter X girl was never a golf or tennis player, and she would have burst a number of laces had she tried to do the Charleston.—Spearman Reporter.

IF WINTER COMES

Little Ada—"Mother, shall I run out and post this letter?"

Mother—"No, child, certainly not. It's pouring in torrents, and not fit to turn a dog out of doors. Let your father go."

A half truth will soon grow into a whole lie.

IT'S DIFFERENT NOW

It looks like Amarillo is going to be a different town in 1926, altogether. First, Cole and Vernon resign their jobs with the board of city development—strangers like-anger and secretary-manager respectively; then Col. Thompson sells an interest in the Amarillo Hotel to Ross Rodgers; and now comes the Amarillo News with the announcement that the Nuns have sold it and the Post to Gene Howe of the Amarillo Globe. We used to have fine loafing places when we went to Amarillo. We would drop in at the board of city development offices and chat a while with Cole and Vernon, then drop over to the Mission, shake Ross Rodgers' hand and see a good show, getting out just in time to ease over to the place "Famous for Food" for a good meal and a pow-wow with Ernest Thompson, never forgetting to drop down to hold a confab with Lindsay Nunn on the high cost of print paper and how to meet the payroll every Saturday night. Now it's going to be all different. As yet we don't know who'll hold forth at the board of city development—strangers like-ly. Just don't know the chap that runs the Mission, and it is said that Gene Howe hasn't very much time for the boys from the forks of the creek—hearsay, however. The compensation is this, though—we can see Ross and Ernest and get the good feed all under the same roof, and maybe make Cole or Vernon pay for it—if they happen to be around at the right time. Just to keep Lindsay from feeling bad, he can arrange for the tickets to the show. With these little changes we'll still love Amarillo about like we always did.—Clarendon News
