New Owners in Charge of Light Plant

On last Friday the McLean light and ice plants passed out of the possession of the city and Mr. H. S. Williams of Panhandle is now in charge of the plants for the Southwestern Public Service Company who bought the plants for $100,000.

The big check was delivered to the mayor Friday, with the understanding that the February accounts be paid to the city.

The light plant was built by a bond issue of $30,000 dated Sept. 15, 1922, and the ice plant by the issuance of $14,000 in warrants the next year, and while many citizens thought at that the town was too small for the plants, they have succeeded in making money, and it is easy to figure the profit made in the sale.

The new owners promise every consideration for the consumer, and the rates will be somewhat lower than under the city's management.

Mr. Carl S. MaKeig, district manager of the company, of Amarillo, was in McLean last week, and says that Mr. Williams is one of their best men and that McLean people will find him ready at all times to accommodate them to the best of his ability.

CLARENDON COLLEGE WILL BE MOVED TO AMARILLO

With a vote of 15 to 1, the locating commission of the Northwest Texas Methodist Conference decided to locate Clarendon College at Amarillo, in a session held in that city Monday.

Bishop John M. Moore immediately called a special meeting of the entire conference at Amarillo on March 29 to ratify the action of the commission.

A sub-committee will pick the site for the new location Monday as several offers of land have been made near the city of Amarillo.

Clarendon College has been in existence some 29 years, and has built up enviable traditions at Clarendon.

PROF. D. E. DEAN RE-ELECTED SUPT. WHITE DEER SCHOOLS

At a recent meeting of the board of education of the White Deer schools, Professor D. E. Dean was re-elected as superintendent of the White Deer schools for the 1827-28 school term.

Mr. Dean came to White Deer last year from McLean, and his services have been such that the board deemed it wise to keep him for another term and to re-employ him early while he could be secured and to let him know that his work has been appreciated.

The White Deer school enrollment has doubled within the past year and new pupils are being enrolled weekly. We are informed that seven new pupils have enrolled this week. With the continual growth of the different classes and the increased work of the faculty, the present term has been a difficult one, yet Prof. Dean has been able to cope with the situation and the untiring efforts of the entire faculty has given us our most successful school year.

Mr. Dean was given a nice increase in salary, which shows the appreciation of his good work.—White Deer Review.

NATIONAL HIGHWAY MEETING MAY 2ND

A National highway meeting has been arranged for May 2, at Springfield, Mo., when final plans will be made for the development of Highway No. 66, known as "The Main Street of America," this coming summer.

This highway is known locally as the Postal Highway, and is the shortest and most scenic route across the continent from Chicago to Los Angeles.

Two states traversed by the highway have made logs of the routes from actual surveys, and other states are preparing to have similar surveys made.

As soon as this road is hard surfaced, it is expected that the bulk of the east and west traffic will use this route.

Modern Hotel Discussed at Luncheon Mon.

The need of a new modern hotel for McLean had the right-of-way in the discussion by the officers and directors of the Chamber of Commerce at their regular weekly luncheon held at the McLean Cafe Monday.

Miss Ruby Cook was an invited guest of the body and stated that the only reason she had not begun operations for a new hotel was the lack of a suitable location at a reasonable price.

Sec.-Mgr. O. H. Foster reported that all large companies approached in regard to locating branch houses here referred to the need for a modern hotel.

James C. Trostle of Dallas, representing the Hockebury System, Inc., of Harrisburg, Penn., addressed the meeting, saying that the need of modern hotels has arisen only since the war. "There was no hotel problem some years ago," said Mr. Trostle, "but now the community that has no modern hotel must see their custom driven to the next town that does have such a hostelry.

"Many plans have been suggested toward financing a community hotel, however a stock selling plan has been perfected that has proven unobjectionable. Four things are needed to make a success of a modern hotel: the right method of financing, proper operation, design and location."

As to location, Mr. Trostle said that the building should be on the principal highway in the edge of the retail business district, near the best residential part of town and away from the noise of the railroad. However, it is not impracticable that one certain site must be secured.

Some 400 million dollars per year has been spent for modern hotels in the United States for the past three years, according to the speaker.

No action was taken in the matter other than to promise Miss Cook full support should she decide to go ahead with the undertaking.

Those present at the luncheon were: Miss Ruby Cook, Mrs. L. G. McMillen, Messrs. L. G. McMillen, C. C. Jones, O. H. Foster, C. C. Logan, T. A. Landers, Claud McGowen and Jas. C. Trostle.

Creek Bridge Discussed at C. of C. Tuesday

The matter of a bridge on McClellan Creek was up again for discussion by the C. of C. Tuesday night.

Some 23 members of the organization were present, and the subject was spoken to by L. G. McMillen, M. D. Bentley, Claud McGowen, Geo. Tummins, C. H. White, D. C. Jones, C. S. Rice, T. J. Coffey, Geo. Colebank, E. J. Lander, L. V. Lonsdale, T. A. Landers, J. M. Noel, F. H. Bourland, O. H. Foster, A. T. Young, L. F. Coffey, J. S. Huckabee, B. W. Wilkins, Curg Williams and others.

The final decision was made to ask that every member of the C. of C. and all farmers and others interested meet the Commissioners Court in a body on Friday of this week and request that such a bridge be built. It was the consensus of opinion that a bridge must be built across McClellan Creek in the near future.

SNOW THIS WEEK

Snow has been on the ground all this week, beginning with a cold spell Sunday, with a few fair days during the first of the week and snow again Wednesday night making the longest cold spell yet experienced this winter.

The added moisture is appreciated by the farmers, and nothing other than a little extra convenience has been caused by the cold so far.

The Humble Pipe Line Company has bought 30 acres of land for a tank farm and pump station, of M. H. Kinard, located in the southeast corner of southeast 1/4 of section 41, Gray county, 8 miles northeast of McLean.

It is understood that this company will put in a station something similar to the Prairie Pipe Line station just east of town.

GO-TO-CHURCH DAY SUCCESS, DESPITE INCLEMENT WEATHER

Last Sunday was advertised by the different churches of the town as Go-to-Church Day, and despite the inclement weather prevailing, all churches report their usual "Fair-day" crowds.

This is the first time a concerted effort has been made in McLean to secure full church attendance, and taking the weather into consideration, the results were very encouraging.

ALANREED GIRLS GLEE CLUB TO PLAY HERE FRIDAY

The Girls Glee Club of the Alanreed high school will give a play at the McLean school auditorium Friday night of this week, beginning at 8 o'clock.

The proceeds of the play will be divided between McLean and Alanreed schools, arrangements having been made whereby the two schools may give plays at each school on an equitable basis.

Those who have seen the play are loud in praise of the performers, and a good time is promised all who attend Friday night.

FAIR STORE SALE BEGINS FRIDAY

The Fair Store will hold a 15 day sale, beginning Friday morning. W. W. Shadid, manager of the store, gave The News the biggest order for double page sale bills ever placed by a McLean firm, and says he has had bills scattered in all communities within a radius of 50 miles of McLean.

The sale contains many real bargains, and it is expected that several hundred people will be on hand the opening day.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

D. H. Brynoff, Pastor Announcements for Sunday, March 6.

Sunday school at 10 a. m. Preaching at 11 a. m.

The Lord willing, and if weather conditions permit, we will start a week's revival meeting Sunday. Let us pray and work to the end that souls shall be saved, God's people built up and our God glorified. Let us plan now to come every night at 7 o'clock. The first half hour will be given to prayer; singing and preaching to begin at 7:30.

Remember the north zone Association B. Y. P. U. meeting at Wheeler Sunday afternoon at 2:30 to 4.

The regular meeting of the B. Y. P. U.'s just before preaching.

Mrs. W. L. Haynes and daughters, Misses Johnnie Villa and Gorda Lou, were Clarendon visitors Saturday.

Leon Waldrop and little son of Pleasant Mound visited in McLean Sunday.

Quite a little excitement was caused Saturday when the Morse Nabob No. 1 oil well was cleaned out and the flow amounted to something like 100 barrels per hour until it was pinched down to some 200 barrels per day.

This well is easily a 300 barrel producer, but the flow is being retarded as much as possible due to lack of transportation facilities. The six storage tanks are full, over 8000 barrels of oil now being in storage at the well with very little storage left.

The well has never been put on the pump, but has flowed naturally from swabbing, and when a pipe line is laid and production allowed at its maximum, it should be one of the best wells in the field.

The Empire Webb No. 1 has struck 5 million feet of gas and oil men are watching this well with interest; most any day should bring interesting developments.

It is understood that the Upham Gas Co. has made another location four miles north of town and will begin drilling at once.

Real oil activity is not expected to develop until late in next month due to the unsettled condition of the weather at this time of the year.

Piano solo. A short play, "Sauce for the Gossings," by High School English classes.

FIRST METRODIST CHURCH

B. W. Wilkins, Pastor

Tho' Sunday, last, was somewhat disappointing, it was by no means a failure, and the time and energy spent in advertising it as a "Go-to-Church" day was by no means a loss. It will be safe to say that church attendance during the day was at least 25% above what it would have been had no special effort been put forth.

Subscriptions for missions were begun with us Sunday. There was a very fine response. The committee having this in charge proposes to make this an every-member campaign. If you were not present Sunday you may be expecting a visitor this week or next Sunday, at which time this "special for missions" will close.

We have arranged for our meeting which will begin April 24 and continue two weeks. Further announcements later.

THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES

In Addressing the American Association of Advertising Agencies in Washington, Oct. 27, 1926, Said:

You have seen innumerable instances where concerns have failed through lack of advertising and innumerable others where they have made a success through the right kind and amount of publicity.

PAULINE MALLINGATE has been strangely absent from her home in London for 18 months. Her mother and sister, Lorna, have been forced to communicate with her through a forwarding address in Paris.

HENRY EMERSON, stepfather of the two girls, has now absented himself in a mysterious manner from a summer resort where he had been staying with Mrs. Emerson and Lorna.

DR. JULIAN EMERSON, who claims to be a relative of Henry Emerson, has told Lorna that Henry Emerson is missing because he had no right to marry her mother. Lorna in turn has explained to her mother that her husband was rushed to London because of sudden illness. Dr. Emerson, however, breaks faith with the two women by taking them to a strange country house, where they are kept virtually prisoners.

GERALD CRAVEN, Lorna's lover has exhausted every possible means to find his sweetheart, but without avail. He finally relates the whole story to Mrs. Bertha Northwood, a mutual friend. They pick up a possible clue when Mrs. Northwood recognizes Pauline in the restaurant of her hotel. Investigation brings out the fact that Pauline, known as Mrs. Creswold, is living at 'The Moat,' in Yorkshire, not far from Mrs. Northwood's country home.

Mrs. Northwood's inquiries in the village have brought out the fact that Ellen Storey has taken a situation at "The Moat." She urges the girl to come and tell her about the new work. The next day Mrs. Northwood has just returned from the station with Craven when she is told that Ellen has come to see her. The girl tells Mrs. Northwood that she intends to leave her new situation because of the strange happenings there the night before. She tells of hearing terrible moans and cries of a woman, but being too frightened to get up to investigate, she remained in bed and finally went to sleep.

Now Go on with the Story

"And then what happened, Ellen?" asked Mrs. Northwood.

"Well, ma'am, this morning I went into the dining room, and there I got another fright—for I came upon a man lying asleep in one of the big armchairs with his legs propped up on another. Well, I suppose I must have woke him up, for when he saw me he sat up and he swore at me viciously like, and he told me to shut the windows sharp. But I didn't obey; I just turned and ran away, ma'am."

"Just what I should have done," Mrs. Northwood declared.

Ellen Storey gave her a grateful look.

"I ran into the kitchen, and I put the kettle on, for I thought I would make a cup of tea," she said. "The man what cooks wasn't down, and the place was that dirty! So after I had had some tea, I got a bucket of water and I scrubbed the tables, and I was down on my knees scrubbing the floor when the cook came in."

She paused there, and Mrs. Northwood waited for her to go on.

"When I had finished the work," Ellen said, "the cook had prepared the breakfast, and he handed me a tray and told me to take it upstairs. So I went up, and I knocked at the door of Mrs. Creswold's room, and I heard her voice and I went in. She'd got the windows open, but the blinds were half down, and she was lying on a sofa all crouched up and one could see as she'd been crying hard. When I came forward, she spoke kindly to me. She has got good manners and no mistake! and she said, 'Ellen, I hope you are not going to run away like all the others. I have took a fancy to you.' Well, ma'am, I didn't say anything just then. I just tidied up her room a bit and then I asked her what she wanted done in the house, and she threw her hands out hopeless like," said Ellen Storey, "and then she said, 'Oh, the usual duties that you generally do.' And once again—I think she was a bit dotty—but I could not bring myself to say anything about me being alone as a servant. I thought I'd give it a day's trial and see how I got on."

"She is quite young, isn't she?" queried Mrs. Northwood.

"Oh, yes, ma'am, quite young, somewhats about twenty-five or twenty-six, maybe a little bit older—and she must have been awfully pretty, and now she's so ill. Oh! isn't she thin!"

"Well, she came downstairs, and was she nice to you?" asked Mrs. Northwood.

Ellen Storey nodded her head.

"That's the part that 'urts. I look to her—I'm sorry for her. She's got the nicest ways with her, ma'am, though she can be hard and stiff, too. I saw that sharp enough when the dining room door opened and that man came out. She changed sudden like and drew herself up, and her face went cold and proud,

And then she went after him and she caught him by the arm, and I have never seen a woman in such a rage! She told him he shouldn't go.

and her voice wasn't a bit like the voice she had when she spoke to me. She asked him what he was doing there? and if you believe me, ma'am, he answered her most insolent like. What do you think he said?"

"I don't know," said Mrs. Northwood.

"He said, 'I'm minding my own business; suppose you mind yours.' 'Well, I said to myself, 'that's a queer sort of way to speak to a lady.' But Mrs. Creswold she made 'im no answer—she only turned a bit whiter like till she saw him making for the stairs. Then she whinged round sudden, and she called to him, 'Where are you going?' she said, and he answered her in the same rude way, ma'am. 'Haven't I just told you I'm minding my own business?' And then she went after him and she caught him by the arm, and I have never seen a woman in such a rage! She told him he shouldn't go, and when he answered he would, she said, 'No!' just like that, ma'am. 'No, no, no, you don't go upstairs. I'm mistress here, and I give you your orders. Pack your bag and take yourself off!"

"What did he do?" queried Mrs. Northwood, and she felt her own heart beating.

"Well, he just stood and looked at her a bit, and then he took his arm away and he sneered at her. Orders? Well, see here; I don't take no orders from you, Pauline."

"And what did the man do?" queried Mrs. Northwood; she was almost agitated herself.

"Well, he was getting himself up to go for her, when all at once that old cook, that Frenchman or Italian, I don't know what he is, he came out into the hall and he stood there, and he put himself in front of Mrs. Creswold and he said, 'You 'ear—you go!' And then he money and without my bag,' he said savage like. And then Mrs. Creswold spoke to me, and oh, ma'am, I was so sorry for her."

Tears came into Ellen's eyes as she spoke, and Mrs. Northwood put her gently back in the chair.

"Go quietly—all you are telling me is very interesting and very important—go quietly, my dear."

"Well, ma'am, Mrs. Creswold said to me, 'Ellen, please go upstairs, and on my dressing table you'll find a black handbag, and I want you to bring it to me, then if you will go on to the floor where you sleep, you will find a suit case. If it isn't packed,' she said, 'just put in all the things you find.' Well, ma'am, I ran upstairs and packed the bag; it didn't take me long, for he hadn't got much with him, only shaving things and a pair of pajamas—no clean shirts or collars, nothing but what I have told you, and a pair of slippers. And then I picked up the handbag from her dressing table and I brought them downstairs."

SCHOOL NEWS

The Parent-Teacher Association celebrated the thirtieth anniversary of the founding of the Congress of Mothers with a pageant, "Lighting the Birthday Candles," in which nearly fifty pupils, teachers and citizens participated. The pageant was a true story of the accomplishments of this great organization which has grown to over half a million members since 1897.

The congress' part in organizing the juvenile court, its fight against child labor, and the forming of boys' and girls' clubs were beautifully portrayed. All parents were urged to study legislation more and warned against allowing their children to see the wrong kind of moving picture shows. A mother's need for study of psychology and training in child care was forcefully brought out. Kindness to dumb animals was stressed by a young boy who carefully bound up his dog's wounded foot before the audience.

Reading of good literature, right standards of dress, recreation and companionship were shown to be the basis of a true life.

This pageant was not prepared by Mrs. Back and Miss Patching. Mrs. Back in her accompaniment style aided the reading.

Mrs. Kendrick, district vice president of the P. T. A., was present and gave a very practical talk on P. T. A. work.

The Washington's Birthday program given Friday afternoon by the first and second grades was very much appreciated. The little tots in George and Martha Washington costumes were very charming. A short business session was held following the program. The vice president, Mrs. John Harris, presided in the absence of Mrs. Claud McGowan, the president.

This is a busy week in school, being examination week.

The members of the Interscholastic League committee from different parts of the county met at the McLean high school building last Saturday to perfect plans for the meet. The meet will be held here on the first Friday and Saturday of April—1st and 2nd. The literary events will be on Friday and the track meet on Saturday. A full program will be published later.

The members of the high school English classes entertained in chapel Tuesday morning with a play entitled "Sauce for the Gossings," which was very much enjoyed.

It was given as a good English program demonstrating the misuses of English and the fad of modern slang.

This week concludes the sixth week of school.

The flag for best representation of mothers at P. T. A. was won by the first grade.

Mrs. L. G. McMillan visited chapel Tuesday.

If girls were as fussy about selecting their husbands as they are about selecting their clothes the marriage license book would be opened only about once a month. Tactacari (N. M.) News.

LYCEUM FAILS TO SECURE CONTRACT AT HIGGINS

According to the Higgins News, an advance agent of a Lyceum bureau failed to secure a contract at that place a few weeks ago. The News says that Higgins merchants have been stung too often to be made the goat in a guarantee for some firm in Kansas City, Fatagonia or Timbuctoo; that high ideals and empty promises, unrealized expectations, "high class," "elevating," "for the benefit of the school," etc., are things of the past in Higgins. The editor of The News says that there are few people who will not here at all times anything that is for the benefit of the school, but donating to strangers has become a different matter.

This is the reception that has been given the guarantee plan in practically all of the Panhandle towns the past few years.

KEEP YOUR FOOT ON THE CLUTCH

Keep your foot on the clutch, despite what experts tell you to the contrary. If the traffic is great, keep your foot on the clutch. Don't take unnecessary chances on the highway or in the street; glide over the bumps, thus saving your machinery; and don't forget your brake. Caution is the first law of good sense, when it has to do with left-brain-power. Approaching an intersection, remember clutch and brake.

Youths make daring drivers. They go rapidly and easily, with fearless abandon and nonchalance. But they have an undue share of accidents, because they don't think enough of clutch and brake. Oh, yes! there are disasters through confusion, and through timidity; but they are not the disasters of the young driver. Nine-tenths of the wrecks come from going too fast.

A good driver will keep control of his machine at all times. He can stop quickly but without a shock. He can go slow, as he must when others might be endangered by his fast driving, but can step on the gas and leap ahead when there is opportunity. The person who controls his power all the time is the one who has the opportunities which in the heavy traffic of life are fleeting and momentary. The man who has learned is the one who knows, and the one who knows is the one who has opportunities. When one is in no position to take advantage, it is not an opportunity for him. Therefore the disciplining of the mental powers is the putting of hand and foot on the various controls of life.

Many lives are wrecked by even a momentary loss of control. It is quite the custom to blame some other driver. It is possible for an automobile to be wrecked by the carelessness of some other man, than the one driving it, and for a life to be ruined by the fault of another, but it is exceedingly rare. When such a calamity occurs it is to the one who has lost control of his machine, it but for a moment. Keep your foot on the clutch!

Texas is second only to New York in the annual value of exports. Philadelphia ranks third. Texas produces about $9,000,000 worth of cement a year.

The Feminine Billy Sunday

These three pictures of Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson, the famous Los Angeles evangelist, who now is touring the United States reveal the dramatic power by which she sways audiences. Mrs. McPherson has been having varied experiences on her tour. In some cities her lectures have made a profit; in others few have turned out to hear her. In Indianapolis she sustained a $2000 deficit.

HONESTY AT LAST

Tourist—"Listen, officer; I'm on the right side of the white line—I was going less than 4 miles an hour—and still you say I was to blame for the accident. How come?"

Local Cop—"Because this other driver's father is mayor, his brother is chief of police, and I'm keeping company with his sister."

It was 399 years ago that the first white man entered what is now Texas. Cabeza de Baca and other Spaniards were shipwrecked on the coast between Galveston and Matagorda Bays.

If moving Clarendon College is not an Irish trick to play on Clarendon citizens, we have never heard of one. Maybe Amarillo can make both an industrial city and a school town, but it is seldom done successfully.

There has been little said about the coming road bond election. The News solicits articles from its readers on either side of the question, provided they are signed and couched in the proper language. There should be no question of misinformation this time.

City officials the coming year will have greater responsibilities than ever before, despite the fact that the light and ice plants are under new management. The mayor will have to hold court more often to make an oil field, and council meetings will have to be held more often. Interested citizens should see that those members of the council who consent to serve are men fully qualified to carry on the work.

The sale of the light and ice plants marks another era for McLean. When the plants were put in only a few years ago, almost half of the people of the town felt that the time was not ripe for such improvements, but a few men who had caught a vision of a greater McLean kept working on the matter until a majority vote said put in the improvements. These few years have proven the wisdom of the undertaking. The same objection was made when a small sidewalk proposition was put in by the city council, but now property in McLean is worth far above what it was when there were no improvements—not only worth more, but can be sold any day for much more than many thought would ever be possible. There is no standing still in community building, and there are many improvements needed today that time will prove the value of.

Alanreed School Progress

It is hard for outsiders to judge the work in a school, because they do not come in contact with the real work. Therefore, it is well to publish at intervals the progress of the work. The Alanreed teachers were really surprised at the progress made in the last two months by the pupils who had to be out of school last fall in the cotton fields. A number of those who did not have to miss any school this fall have been permitted to go on with their subjects and have almost completed the required amount of work for the year. Some of these pupils have no grades on their card lower than A. An examination of the records shows that these A pupils have been present all the time.

The parents should examine their children's reports and note the grades made. It is hardly probable that a pupil who is not passing in his grades at this time of year will be passing at the end of school. So it seems necessary at present to warn both pupils and parents in regard to this condition. Very often a little pressure exerted at home brings a pupil's grades up, and relieves a hard task for the teacher.

The following pupils made the highest averages in their respective grades for the 6th month of school: Pat Slavin, Ben Gonzales, Fred Hall, Kenley Lee, Montia Gibson, Els. Gibson, Willie Dee Hall and Virgil Elms, Clyde Slavin Jr., Georgia Wilson, Mary Snyder.

The following made second highest: Euline Sherrard, Asa Greenwood, Kathen Hugg, Glen Prock, Frank Hall and Joe Gonzales, Burnese Blakney and Juanita Ball, Virgil Martin, Doyle Prock, Lois Harris, Ruby Reeves.

NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING

By J. W. Craig
Advertising lowers the cost of merchandise for the reason that it increases turnover of merchandise. A merchant must turn over his goods several times a year to enjoy a profitable business. Goods on the shelf mean nothing until sold, for they become snuff worn and out of date. These unsold goods often represent huge losses. The time to sell merchandise is when it is seasonable and new. The proper advertising which constantly calls attention to new goods, new styles, etc., creates a demand and sells merchandise. Turnover of goods supplies new capital with which to restock.

Newspaper advertising is the merchant's greatest friend, a huge magnet which attracts people to his store. And unless used regularly, it is sure to lose much of its pulling power.

Nearly every merchant of the present day believes in advertising, but many do not have the courage or their convictions to advertise consistently. They do not come to the point where an appropriation is set aside for regular use. Some people believe they have saved money by not using newspaper space. Show us a merchant who is a consistent buyer of newspaper space who is not a successful business man. Statistics show that 85% of the business failures of 1925 were non-advertisers. It is not impossible to do business without advertising, but it is impossible to reach the goal that should have been theirs. Frequently you will see merchants who are doing a successful business with no advertising. But what might their business have been if they had used it year after year? Perhaps instead of a small store, a large department store might have grown in its place or on the other hand, the merchant might have been retired for the rest of his life instead of worrying over business today.

Wrigley did not make millions on a five-cent article by keeping his commodity a secret. He spent his last dollar on his first advertisement—it pulled and he continued to increase it until today his product is known all over the world. And it is just a five-cent article. Doesn't a merchant with hundreds of different articles have a greater opportunity than Wrigley?

HERE'S AN OLD FAVORITE

It is told of Mark Twain that when in his early days he was the editor of a Missouri paper, a superstitious subscriber wrote to him saying that he had found a spider in his paper and asking whether that was a sign of good luck or bad. The humorist wrote him this, and he printed it:

'Old Subscriber: Finding a spider in your paper was neither good luck or bad for you. The spider was merely looking over our paper to see which merchant is not advertising, so he can go to that store, spin his web over the door, and lead a life of undisturbed peace ever afterward.'—Kansas City Star.

Beware of the "Just as good"

WHEN you want Conoco Motor Oil for motor lubrication be sure that you get it. Beware of the unnamed, unbranded "just-as-good" which is a good profit-maker for the seller but which is apt to prove most costly to the unsuspecting motorist who buys it.

Let a reliable Conoco dealer or Conoco service station attendant drain your crankcase. Then you will be sure of getting genuine Conoco—the tested motor oil.

CAKES WIN RENOWN FOR KENTUCKY WOMAN

WHEN Mrs. J. T. Lail of Paris, Ky., inherited recipes for nut and fruit cakes from her mother back in Ohio many years ago, she didn't know she was going to make cakes which were to tickle the palate of Mary Pickford.

Mary Pickford and Mrs. J. T. Lail.

But that's what happened. And today folk down in Paris are quite proud of Mrs. Lail because movie stars are ordering cakes from her.

It has been more than 15 years since Mrs. Lail's cakes started to win recognition at fairs. Once they burst into the limelight, they became famous in a hurry; and now she is doing business on a large scale. But every order is filled by cakes made with her own hands.

While she is an expert in all lines of cake-making, Mrs. Lail specializes in black fruit and pecan nut cakes because they can be shipped long distances. She receives many orders consistently from Hollywood, New York, Detroit, Cleveland and other cities. And between times she makes cakes for folk in Paris and thereabouts.

The Windsor hotel is her "laboratory." The hotel is 118 years old and is situated on the Zanesville, O.-Florence, Ala., road, which was built when Andrew Jackson was president.

CHAUTAQUA DEAD ISSUE

Several years ago The Clarendon News, in company with several men of this city, began a campaign against the present system of guaranteeing a certain sum for chautauques, contending that if chautauques presented really high grade entertainment there could be no danger of financial loss, and that as no other business in this republic was guaranteed, it was only fair and American for the chautauques to conduct their business on the same basis—deliver the goods or fail. This attitude was propagated through the channels of the then Panhandle Chain Chamber of Commerce and gained great favor over the Panhandle; in fact so great was the adherence to the demand for chautauques to come in their own liability, win or lose, that today there is scarcely a town or village in this entire section where chautauques can secure a guaranteed contract. Another great reason for this condition in the Panhandle is that almost every town has talent that is equal or superior to the usual run of talent presented on the chautauqua platforms. The Panhandle people are a discriminating people, they know ability when they come in contact with it, and refuse to pay for the mediocre type. Further, they are the fairest people in the world, and are a unit when it comes to demanding fairness from others. The chautauqua has passed from among us.—Clarendon News.

DEFENDS WOMEN'S DRESS

In the opinion of Dr. Valeria H. Parker, of New York, national director of social activities of the W. C. T. U. and president of the National Council of Women's Clubs, modern women do not seek to stimulate the interest of men through new dress creations. "It is harder, she says, 'to arouse a man's interest now in an exposed area than it was 20 years ago in the flash of an ankle beneath the billowy folds of a crinoline dress. The whole situation is more healthful, more frank. The principle of most girls' dress is simplicity, not sex."

FATS AND LEANS

A great many people are dissatisfied with their averdupoise. One woman wants to be thin, slim and tall. Another wants to be more plump. So we read advertisements; one explaining how to 'round out your form, put on more flesh and become attractive.' Still another advises us to 'reduce, grow thin, and make attractive by the use of our excellent remedy.' Personally, the News man does not believe either remedy is worth a dime to anyone. With few exceptions, most women are built just right, and will look their best as people eating, exercise, rest, recreation and sleep. Too many women worry when they should not. Worry kills, not works. There are two things a woman should not worry about: one is the things you cannot help and the other the things you can help. If you can help matters, do that and don't worry; if you cannot help matters, there is no use to worry. With proper dieting, rest, recreation, sleep (and orders when possible) and sun baths, a woman will be at her very best. Try this and not some remedy, and if you are not helped a great deal, The News will pay for being.—Claude News.

FAKE ADVERTISING

Speaking of advertising, the desire is growing among Memphis people to establish a committee whose duty would be to pass on all transient fake advertising schemes. They would interview all solicitors before advertising to taking orders for stuff not worth the money, and if worthy grant them an approval. Then, when they come around soliciting, the people of Memphis could ask for the approval. If they do not have it, then the people could refuse to do business with them. This method has been put into practice in many places and saves the cities thousands of dollars.—Memphis Democrat.
