The "Optional County Road Law" to be put before Howard county voters on a separate ballot on November 2 would put a great deal of administrative work in the hands of a county road engineer.

This engineer would be appointed by the commissioners court. would have to be a licensed professional engineer experienced in road construction and maintenance and would have to meet the qualifications required by the State Highway Department for its sounty engineers.

His salary would be fixed by the commissioners court, would be paid out of the road and bridge fund and could not exceed $7200 per year. It should be noted that such a maximum was fixed by the legislature because of the larger, richer counties of the state and that most observers believe that an engineer for Howard county could be employed for a sum considerably less than the ceiling. The engineer can be removed by a majority vote of the commissioners court but would be entitled to a public hearing before dismissal if such a hearing were requested in

The engineer would be responsible to the court for the efficient and economical construction and maintenance of all county roads. He would hire and fire road department workers subject to approval of the court, and the commissioners court would deal with the road department's personnel through the engineer.

The engineer would attend meetings of the court devoted to road matters, would see that the court's policies are carried out, would supervise administration of the counroad department, would prepare detailed annual budget estimates for road building and upkeep and for operation of equipment.

He would prepare estimates and specifications for all equipment, material and supplies; serve as custodian of these items; prepare estimates and specifications for all road projects; maintain cost ac counting records on all road department expenditures and keep a perpetual inventory of all equipment, materials and supplies.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25. (2). The nation's military planners -Guided by two wartime uses and six peacetime tests - have degided about where the atomic bomb fits in the rack of weapons for fighting a possible future war.

Six-Nation Resolution Called Unfair

PARIS, Oct. 25 P-Russia vetoed tonight the small power proposal for a compromise ending of the Berlin deadlock.

PARIS Oct. 25. (AP).— Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky told the security council today he is prepared to veto a small power compromise resolution on the Berlin crisis if it is brought to a vote.

With both arms flailing the air, Vishinsky denounced a six-nation resolution aimed at settling the crisis arising from the Soviet blockade of Berlin. He said it was fair grounds at the airport area unfair to Russia.

'SAVAGE WEST' PUTS ON RODEO AND RIOT TO ENTERTAIN SWISS

GENEVA, Switzerland, Oct. 25. P- A rodeo company "from the savage west" put on a combination rodeo and riot last night at the Palais Des Expositions. The event left policemen and performers bruised and ruffled and 27 of the cast of 40 under arrest.

The trouble started when a hardy Genevan took up the rodeo company's ofer of 1000 Swiss francs (about $250) to anyone who stayed on the back of a bronco named "Income Tax" for ten seconds.

The Swiss horseman, whose name was lost in the scuffle, declared he rode "Income Tax" for ten seconds.

The cowboys - who billed themselves as coming from Texas said he was up only four seconds and not on any bronco named "Income Tax." The argument roared into a free-for-all. Somewhere in the melee a cowgirl was bashed on the head with a club.

Then, says the newspaper La Suisse, the cowboys demanded "a pistol duel between the attacker and the husband of the victim - all according to every-day custom in Texas apparently." The duel didn't come off.

Police, after losing various parts of their uniforms and suffering some punches, finally won control. They put the 27 performers in jail for questioning and cancelled the final performance of the show, scheduled for tonight.

The rodeo performers took the view that it was all the fault of the police for letting the fight get started. "They don't understand us over here at all," a cowgirl said.

Reds' Korean Evacuation May Be Germany Rehearsal

Copywrighted by New York Herald Tell-

The announcement from Moscow that Soviet troops have started to evacuate North Korea, leaving behind a Communist-controlled "people's republic" and a conscript militia, may well afford a preview of things to come in Germany. The latest intelligence from Berlin supports this idea with reports of a police force, of purges, and of a forthcoming draft constitution in the Russian sone to prepare the ground for a proposal to withdraw the armies of occupation.

Mr. Drew Middleton of "The New York Times" goes on to say that in the opinion of American officials in Berlin "a Russian withdrawal, announced by the Russians at an international conclave. would be an important Russian weapon in the battle for Germany. For the freeing of Germany from the occupation armies is a dream entertained by almost all German politicians. Most of them view it as a prerequisite of true German unity and a rebirth of the German state."

There is little doubt that if the Russians actually begin to withdraw their army, as in North Korea, or if they come forward with a proposal that all the armies withdraw, Mr. Marshall and Mr. Bevin could be caught off balance and seriously embarrassed.

The question, perhaps the weightiest in immediate difficulties and its long consequences, is whether Mr. Marshall and Mr. Bevin are prepared to deal with a Russian initiative of this kind.

It could be the decisive event in the socalled cold war for political influence upon the destiny of Europe. For the side

The main consideration which has prevented us from seizing the initiative, from making ourselves the champions of the liberation of Europe from the Russian armies, is the knowledge that if and when the Russian armies go, they will leave behind them, as in Korea, a Communist puppet government with the apparatus of secret police and native Communist military forces.

This is in truth the problem to which an answer must be found. In considering it we must, however, remember than an answer will have to be found if Moscow proposes the withdrawal. We cannot count much longer, as we have for over a year, on avoiding this difficult problem of not making the proposal ourselves. If we proposed withdrawal, we should, of course, need to have the answer. But if the Russians propose it, we shall also need to have the answer. Therefore, the difficulty of answering it is not a sufficient reason, is indeed no reason at all, for renouncing the initiative, and all the moral and political advantages that will go to the side which first proposes the end of military occupation, and of the dreadful danger of war rising from the fact that non-European armies confront each other in

There is a crucial difference between Korea and Germany which, I venture to suggest, may at least show as where to look for the answer to the question: What happens in western Germany if all the occupation forces retire, leaving eastern Germany under Communist control with German Communist military forces? Korea has never in this century had an army. If northern Korea has an army now, it had to be trained by the Russians. If sourthern Korea has no army, it is because we have not trained an army.

the heart of Europe.

But the situation in Germany is radically different. Virtually the whole adult male population of Germany has had military training. Millions of the Germans are veterans, and there is no dearth of German officers. Therefore, it there are German military forces in the Russian zone, it is not because the Russians have, as in northern Korea, organized them. It because they have authorized them. In the western zones, unlike southern Korea, the Germans are demilitarized be"WONDER HOW MANY FAMILIAR FACES WE'LL SEE INSIDE"

Pat Hurley Must Have Memories Of Capital's Gold Tinsel Past

(Copyright by Bell Syndicate, 1948) (ED. NOTE-The brass ring, good for one free ride on The Washington Merry-Go-Round, today goes to Patrick J. Hurley, Secretary of War in the Hoover Cabinet

ALBUQUERQUE. - Whitemaned and bushy-eyebrowed, Patrick J. Hurley, one of the last political relics of the Hoover administration, has been romping and stomping through New Mexico in his campaign for senator as if he were fresh out of Rantist Indian College where he went to school. It has been nearly 20 years since the death of Secretary of War Jim Good catapulted Pat. then young and boisterous, into a coveted spot in the Hoover cabinet. But Pat has not changed much since then. He is just as good at ranting, back-slapping, yelling at congressional committees, twisting the lion's tail and making the eagle scream.

Pat Hurley's aspirations to come back to Washington bring nostalgic memories of a now almost forgotten past. When he first arrived as a junior member of the Hoover administration, dining out was one of the capital's major businesses, and cabinet members studied the question of who would sit where at dinner with the same care we now give to Russian diplomatic

Pat and his beautiful wife, Ruth, were great assets to this era. In front of full-length mirrors, they rehearsed their bows and their entrances before going out to dinner. They were the handsomest couple in the cabinet. Perhaps not realizing that Washington has changed, Pat has been hankering to get back to the tinsel and gold braid ever

That was why the unquenchable Hurley went out to New Mexico and tried to defeat Dennis Chavez for the senate in 1946. One of the things that hurt him in the race was that although he claimed New Mexican residence since 1935, he forgot to pay taxes not only then but for several years thereafter. The voters of New Mexico considered payment of taxes an important obligation of good citizenship and they did not send Pat to the senate.

UPHILL BATTLE Now the indefatigable Hurley is back again, this time running against popular Clinton Anderson, longtime resident of New Mexico, formerly its lone congressman and later Secretary of Agriculture.

It's an uphill battle. However, there is one thing you can say for Hurley. In the long years between his exit from the Hoover administration to his current senatorial campaign, Pat has never lacked the knack of keeping his name in the headlines. Sometimes the headlines haven't been so kind, as when he ordered his Cadillac car flown over the Himalaya Mountains from India to China in an Army

OIL COMPANY FEE Langer also demanded an explanation of the fact that Hurley while serving as U. S. ambassador, received $108,000 from the Sinelair Oil Company. No satisfactory answer to this question partment or by Hurley himself. It is highly unusual for an American ambassador to receive a fee from an American Corpora-were collected. One incident Hurley doesn't brag about, for instance, is his exit from Darwin, Australia, in 1942. Roosevelt, who wanted to curry Republican support, had given Hurley a roving mission in the South Pacific, and Pat flew into Darwin just one day ahead of the Japs.

As an ambassador he carried with him the State Department's secret code, used for radioing secret messages back to the U. S. A. This code is guarded so carefully that diplomats when traveling sometimes chain it to their wrist when they go to bed

However, Ambassador Hurley left the code in his airplane at the Darwin airport while he spent the night in town. That night Jap airplanes attacked. What became of the code no one knows. The state Department hoped that it was burned in the bombing of

Affairs Of The World — DeWitt MacKenzie

Discontented Russians Pose A Serious Problem

By RELMAN MORIN

For DeWitt MacKenzie TWO WEEKS AGO TODAY, A RUSsian airplane crash-landed at an American airfield in Linz, Austria, and three men stepped out of it. Two were Russian officers; the third was a flight-sergeant.

The officers said they were deserters. Even when confronted with the Russian commander in Austria, they persisted in saying they were through with the Soviet Union, and wanted to go to the United States. That, I submit, required a very high degree of moral courage-plus a powerful inner compulsion.

Put yourself in their place. Imagine yourself, still in uniform, facing up to the "big brass," and stating that you had deserted and were placing yourself under the protection of a nation which is, in fact, ranged against your own.

Yesterday, having made good their desertion, the two Russians answered questions at a news conference. Their statestartling, to wit:

1. They estimated that 70 per cent of the Russian people are opposed to the Communist Party, but are afraid to do anything about it.

2. The Communists have failed to provide the "better life" for the people, that ideal on which the Bolshevik revolution originally was sold, and in the name of which millions of Russians have died, liquidated by their own rulers, or killed during the war.

3. Opposition of the farmers to the Communist program of collectivizing the farms -a struggle that brought death to an estimated 2,000,000 Russians during the 'thirties-still continues and is one of the great causes of unrest in the Soviet Union.

NONE OF THIS IS VERY NEW, WITH the possible exception of the first point, and this is, necessarily, a guess on the part of the two officers. Nobody can know the feelings of 70 per cent of the Russian

They also said that life in the Russian army is "not bad," but that it is maintained "at the expense of the common peoformation indicates that the Soviet Union has 3,300,000 men under arms at this moment. What's the cost? The United States is the richest country in the world, with the highest standard of living, meaning that the individual American earns more and can buy more with what he earns.

Yet, this country is feeling the burden of the cost of re-arming, and of maintaining its armed forces.

Granted that the Soviet Union may not have the expense of rearming, because it has never demobilized or disarmed very far. Nevertheless, to keep such an enormous number of men in uniform, feeding, clothing and housing them, must be a crushing burden for the Russian workman. The Soviet defense budget, unlike ours. probably has no considerable item for naval construction, and much less to main-

But if all reports are true, the proportionate cost to the two countries for building ments were interesting, but not entirely and research in aviation is at least the

> AND FINALLY, ALTHOUGH RUSSIA may not yet have the atom bomb, it is certain that she is spending enormous sums of money in looking for the ways and means of manufacturing it. Probably, the Soviets are spending as much or more than the United States on the project, since research often can be more costly than the actual making of an article.

> Hence, when the Russian officers used the words, "at the expense of the common people," they were speaking with dreadful clarity. The average Russian who is a friendly, open-hearted, and intensely human being-will never live to see the "better life" the Bolsheviks promised him, as long as his government continues to waste his substance on an army and a staggering military budget.

> Doubtless, the Soviet press and radio justify this by playing on the fears of the people. . . fear of American "aggression," fear of the atom bomb, fear of another invasion and another campaign of frightfulness as in 1941.

> But as time goes on, as the months pass and there is no attack, it will be increasingly difficult for the Soviet government to explain the tremendous expense as a necessary "defense measure."

12-Year-Old In The Irons

W. A. Merrick's "Red Joe" begrayed a fatal weakness at the Sheriff's Posse racing grounds Sun-Lay afternoon and lost a race.

"Red Joe" broke the barrier on the outside in his quarter mile sprint with "Red Bird," Roy Foreman's classy speedster from Lamesa. Had he stayed there, he might have fared better. As it was, he headed straight for the rail.

"Red Bird" refused to yield however, and the challenger had to drop back, finally losing by three lengths.

The winner was ridden by Jimmy Vance, a 12-year old 68-pound jockey from Childress. Tommy Atwood was up on "Red Joe." The race was over 440 yards.
