A Novel from the Play

Mary Roberts Rinehart and Avery Hopwood

copyright, 1920, by Mary Roberts WNU Service THE STORY

CHAPTER 1—Delying all efforts to capture him, after a long series of nurders and robberies, a super-crook known to the police only as "The Bat' has brought about a veritable reign of terror. At his wits end, and at the man's own request, the chief of police assigns his best operative, Anderson, to get on the trail of the Bat.

CHAPTER II—With her niece, Dale Ogden, Miss Cornelia Van Gorder ts living in the country home of the late Courtleigh Fleming, who until his recent death had been president of the Union bank, wrecked because of the theft of a large sum in currency. The cook and housemaid deserted the Van Gorder household, leaving only the Japanese butler, Billy, Miss Van Gorder receives a note warning her to vacate the place at once on pain of death. She feels the warning is from the dreaded Bat, but determines to ignore it. Dale returns from the city, where she had been to hire a gardener.

CHAPTER III—Miss Cornella tells Lizzle Allen, her faithful Irish maid, who is decidedly nervous, that a detective is coming that night. The gardener arrives, glying his name as Brooks. Miss Van Gorder leads him into a trap and he admits he is not a gardener but needs work. She allows him to stay. Dale comes from the Country club with a friend, Doctor Wells Miss Cornella tells them of the threatening note. They are interrupted by the smashing of a window in the house.

CHAPTER IV—They find a stone has been thrown through a glass door, weighting another missive warning them to leave Doctor Wells urges Miss Van Gorder to obey, but she firmly refuses. The detective Anderson arrives, is told of the situation, and announces he will stay on watch that night.

CHAPTER V-Miss Van Gorder telis Anderson she has an Idea Courtleigh Floming robbed his own bank and concealed the money in the house, but the detective believes the bank's cashier, Balley, who is missing, is the guilty one. Brooks (who is really Bailey, the sought-for cashier, and Dale's flance) tells the girl he knows there is a hidden room in the house and believes Courtleigh Fleming, before his death in Colorado, concealed the bank's mency there. Dale telephones Richard Fleming, Courtleigh's nephew, asking him to come over.

CHAPTER VI-Dule tells Richard CHAPTER VI Date tells Richard leming of her knowledge of the hid-en room. He gets rid of her while e seeks and finds bipeprints of the ouse. Pale, returning finds he has he secret in a scrap of blueprint, but e refuses to give it to her, declaring e means to have the money if it is here. Knowing the finding of the noney means everything to Bulley.

CHAPTER VII—Reggle Bereaford, friend of Fleming, appears. Duetor Wells gets the scrap of bluepriat from Fleming's body, but Anderson takes it from him. Dale hides her piece is a bread roll, which the butler removes. Some one seeks entry into the house and all but Dale and Wells go to inventigate. Dale tells Wells of the piece of paper in the roll. He goes to get it.

CHAPTER VIII-Miss Van Gorder informs Dale and Balley of her knowledge that "Erooks" is Eatley. She siso says she has reason to doubt Wells' honesty. Wells tells Dale he did not fird the place of blueprint in the roll. She rightly guesses he is lying, but does not realize the extent of his dubilicity.

CHAPTER IX—Bereaford recognizes Bailey and the latter admits his identity. He is put under guard Anderson sends everyone away and is alone with the doctor. Wells tries to burn the scrap of blueprint he had found in the roll but Anderson seizes it. Taking the Jetective unswares. Wells stuns him and conceals him in an adjoining room. A knocking at the front door collects the household. A stranger, obviously badly hurt and in a daze, is admitted. He can give no explanation for his presence, and, worvied over Anderson's absence, the party disperses to search the house.

CHAPTER X—In the attic Miss van Gorder and Railey discover the hidden room, with an empty safe in it Linzie declares she has seen the Bat Miss Cornella and Balley go to investigate, leaving Dale in the attic. The Bat steals in, and the girl in rerror creens into the hidden room and faints Doctor Wells, entering by the window, is surprised by Anderson (who has recovered his senses, and escaped), Miss Cornells, and Balley. They, find Dale in the hidden room unconscious. Revived, she can only say she saw the Bat. Anderson arrests the doctor, taking him away. Billy, the butler, bursts into the room.

CHAPTER XI—Billy says the stranger is acting in a mysterious way They send him to bring the man. He does so. Anderson returning, valuely questions him and finally orders everyhody away, leaving him with the stranger. They go, but by a ruse Miss Corneltagets rid of all but Lizzle, Dale, and the stranger. Batley returns, and opening the door of the hidden room finds the body of Courtleigh Fleming, evidently only a short time dead Despite the shock. Miss Van Gorder continues her search for the money, and finds it. The garage is burning, and on attempting to leave the room the party is held back by the stranger, with a revolver. CHAPTER XI-Billy says the strana high closet by the other wall. "This one is locked-and the key's gone," she announced. A new flicker of interest grew in the eyes of the Unknown. Lizzie glanced away from him, terrified.

Miss Cornelia pondered.

"It may be locked from the inside-I'll soon find out." She took a wire hairpin from her hair and pushed it through the keyhole. But there was no key on the other side; the hairpin went through without obstruction. Repeated efforts to jark the door open talled. And finally Miss Cornella bethought herself of a key from the other closet doors.

Dale and Lizzle on one side-Balley on the other-collected the keys of the other closets from their locks while Miss Cornella stared at the one whose doors were closed as if she would force its secret from it with her eyes. The Unknown had been so quiet during the last few minutes, that, unconsciously, the others had ceased to pay much attention to him, except the casual attention one de votes to a piece of furniture. Even Lizzie's eyes were now fixed on the locked closet. And the Unknown himself was the first to notice this.

At once his expression altered to one of cunning-cautiously, with infinite patience, he began to inch his chair over toward the wicker clothes

At last, be was within reach of the revolver. His hand shot out in one ewift sinuous thrust-clutched the weapon-withdrew. He then concealed the revolver among his tattered garments as best he could and, cautiously as before, inched his chair sack again to its original position.

"There-that unlocked It!" cried Miss Cornella, triumphantly, at last, as the key to one of the other closet doors stid smoothly into the lock and she heard the click that meant vic-

She was about to throw open the doset door. But Bailey motioned her back.

"I'd keep back a little," he cautioned. "You don't know what may be inside.

"Mercy sakes, who wants to know?" shivered Lizzie. Date and Miss Cornella, too, stepped aside involuntarily as Bailey took the candle and prepared, with a good deal of caution, to open the closet door.

The door swung open at last. He could look in. He did so-and stared appalled at what he saw, while gooseflesh crawled on his spine and the hairs of his bead stood up.

After a moment he closed the door of the closet again, and turned back, white-faced, to the others.

"What is it?" said Dule, aghast. "What did you see?"

Bailey found himself unable to answer for a moment. Then he pulled useif together. He turned to Miss Van Gorder.

"Miss Cornella, I think we have found the glost the Jap butler saw," he said slowly. "How are your nerves?"

Miss Cornella extended a hand that did not tremble. "Give me the candle."

He did so. She went to the closet and opened the door.

Huddled on the floor of the closet was the body of a man. So crudely had he been crammed into this blding place that he lay twisted and bent.

Miss Corpelia's voice sounded strange to her own ears when finally she spoke. "But who is it?"

"It is-or was-Courtieigh Fieming," said Bailey dully.

"But how can it be? Mr. Fleming died two weeks ago. I-

"He died in this house, sometime tonight. The body is still warm." "Hut who killed him? The Bat?"

"Isn't it likely that the doctor did it? The man who has been his accomplice all along? Who probably bought a cadaver out West and buried it with honors here not long ago?" But Miss Cornella's face was still thoughtful, and he went on:

"Isn't it clear, Miss Van Gorder?" he queried, with a smile. "The doctor and old Mr. Fleming formed a conspiracy-both needed money-lots of it. Fleming was to rob the bank and hide the money here. Wells' part was to issue a faise death certificate in the West, and bury a substitute body. secured God knows how. It was easy -it kept the name of the president of the Union bank free from suspicion and it put the bianse on me."

He paused, thinking it out. "Only they slipped up in one place Dick Fleming leased the house to you and they couldn't get it back."

"Then you are sure," said Miss Cor nella quickly, "that tonight Courtleigh Fleming broke in, with the doctor's as sistance-and that he killed Dick, his wn nephew, from the staircase?"

"Aren't you?" asked Bailey, sur prised. The more be thought of it, the less clearly could be visualize it any other way.

Miss Cornella shook her head decidedly. "No."

"Wells tried to get out of the house tonight with that blue-print. Why Because be knew the moment we got it, we'd come up here and Flemin

"Perfectly true," nodded Miss Cor nelia. "And then?" "Old Fleming killed Dick and Wel' killed Fleming," said Balley succinct iy, "You can't get away from it!" But Miss Cornelia utili shook he.

"No," she said. "No. The doctor isn't a murderer. He's as pussled as we are about some things. Its and Courtleigh Fleming were working together-but remember this Doctor the stairs all evening-and failed every

He cause he thought Courtleigh Fleming was hiding there!" Now the missing pieces of her puzzle were falling late. their places with a vengeance. "But at this moment," she continued, "the doctor believes that Fleming has made his escape! No-we haven't solved the mystery yet-there's another element -an unknown element," her eyes rest

"And that element is-the Bat " She paused, impressively. The oth ers stared at her-no longer able to deny the sinister plausibility of her theory. But this new tangling of the mystery, just when the black threads, seemed raveled out at last, was at most too much for Dale.

Beggars have been plentiful in McLean this week and judging from the lists shown have found easy pickings. If folks would refer them to the Red Cross, it would eleminate the professionals, for they do not want to be investigated and try anolner town, when they fail to get

The City Council is still working on a milk ordinance, we are told. it is the intention to protect the health of the citizens without working a hardship upon anyone. Tubercusosis is too dangerous to take any unces, and as it does not cost much to hae the dairy herd tested, no one should object to a strong milk ordinance.

Due, perhaps to the sandstorm, or maybe indicference, there was not near the number present at the band concert last Thursday evening as should have been. It is hard for some people to realize that we have a real musical organization in our town,but Prof. Davidson is an indefatigable worker and he has accomplished results with the high school band that should engender a feeling of pride in every citizen. We have paid high prices for tickets concerts that did not compare with the McLean band in quality of music offered. Our band is one of the most valuable organizations in Mc-Lean and should be liberally supported by the citizenship.

Straight and True As An Arrow

Every time anyone spends a dollar in this community, for any purpose whatever, that dollar goes, straight and true as an arrow, toward helping to make this a better place in which to live.

It helps to build new homes, better roads, new schools, more churches. It makes possible the construction, the maintenance and the enjoyment of added comforts and conveniences for all of us.

We all want the better things of life. We want this community of ours to grow and prosper. We are taking a big step towards the realization of our desires if we remember and practice this simple plan.

BEGGAR IN DAYTIME, BUTTERFLY BY NIGHT

Accident Reveals Mendicant's Dual Life.

Florence, Italy.-An automobile acing an extraordinary case of double life, led by a woman. For some time a woman beggar had been a familiar and most pitiable object, in the streets of Florence. She was clad in the funeral here Saturday of his rags. Over one presumably blind eye was a much-solled bandage. One foot dragged, as if crippled or paralyzed. And in broken, whining accents, she solicited alms, which were freely bestowed upon her.

Then one day she was knocked down by an automobile and slightly hurt, so as to be taken to a hospital. There it was found that her bandaged eye was perfectly sound, and that both 21. feet were not only sound, but particutarly well formed. In brief, there was physically nothing the matter with her, Thereupon, Investigation was made, and it was found that after begging all day, at nightfall she exchanged her rags for costly attire, and spent the evenings at fashionable resaurants, balls and other entertainments, leading a veritable butterfly existence on the thousands of dollars

Bromsgrove, England.-Green sheep In the pastures of W. E. Dodd have L. O. Floyd. 22-3c been attracting much attention, Automobilists and others who had fleeting glimpses of the animals assumed new colored sheep dip.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Holloway and Investigation, however, revealed

For months the sheep at Dodd's several stacks of last season's hay.

I is and Lettie Bell of Alanreed ar a sheep, in feeding around the haytacks, had shaken down large num hers of seeds which took root in their wool. Aided by the rains and the body heat of the sheep, the seeds germinated rapidly and began their natural growth.

The grass had not reached maturity by any means, however, as it was nibbled off each sheep's back by the other sheep as fast as it reached a length where it could be nibbled.

15 Shipwrecked Sailors Battle Sharks Two Hours

New York .-- A battle in which 15 shipwrecked sailors in a storm-tossed lifeboat fought off a school of sharks of Amerillo, spent Saturday night with only their oars and knives as weapons was told by three of the erew of the British freighter Yungvay, which was dashed to pieces recently on a reef off the Bahama Islands. The men, who arrived on the Munson liner Munargo, are Frank Koslow,

Frank Monahan and Vilins Klavins. As the row for shore was started school of sharks appeared in the wake of the boat and a two-hour fight etarted. Leaping and snapping at the oars the sharks followed the boat to visittd at Frank Bell's, the beach, where for four days the men were cared for by natives. Later the sailors went to Nassau, where three took a boat for New York and their twelve companions returned to Kingston, their home port.

The Yungvay, an 800-ton freighter carried a cargo of gasoline and kerosene from New York.

Must Support 2 Dogs as Well as His Wife

Los Angeles,-Two dogs profit to the extent of $45 a month for their support in a court order awarding alimony to Irene Cummings, film actress. from her husband, Roy Cummings, vaudeville and film player. Cummings appeared in the Superior court on an allmony proceeding brought by Mrs. Cummings in her suit for a divorce. A question involved was the support of two great Danes. Mrs. Cummings declared it cost her $1.40 a day to feed the dogs, valued at $2,000 each. Cummings agreed to pay the dogs' board bill. The wife was granted $230 a month for her own support.

If you are looking for mileage, the name is co MOST gasolines look alike; but there is a vast difference in their actions.

Right now you are probably most interested in the gasoline which will deliver maximum mileage . . . and it's easy to get it. Just look for the pumps that display the familiar Continental Soldier trademark. These pumps are the extra miles dispensers. They are the power houses for motorists who want to reduce motoring

If you want extra miles, you want Conoco.

It Take Courage

Yes, sir- it takes courage and determination to save money, but it's worth every ounce of the effort. Who ever heard of getting anything worth while without some effort?

One good thing about saving money is that it soon becomes a habit, and it's easier to save the longer you stick to it. Then. too, the longer you save the more you accumulate.
