CHAPTER L—Jim Stanley, wealthy oung New York business man, unable o concentrate in his dictation to his sak audiphone, has the machine taken his home, intending to finish his work nere. CHAPTER III.—Doris admits to beather her interest in both Stanley and Vaterman, and is sure they are both a love with her, but she is unable to take up her mind which to marry.

CHAPTER IV .- Nine goes to Dori with her story, securing a promise that boris will not reveal the source of er information. She convinces Doris f Stanley's duplicity, and leaves her roken hearted, and realizing that it is tanley she really has loved

CHAPTER V.—Waterman that evening askes Doris to marry him, and she, believing Stanley unworthy, accepts him. According to the arrangement. Stanley appears, to learn his rival has won. He accepts the situation, and as a wedding present gives his share of the business to Waterman. Next day he arranges with his secretary, Frank Wilson, to take charge of his other business interests. He is going to India.

CHAPTER VI.—Doris, unable to put tanley completely out of her mind, ells Waterman part of Nina's story. It is promised to "try" to find the girl, o that full corroboration can be made. Vaterman is deeply in debt to a gamiler. Bromfield, and the latter presses or payment. Waterman quiets him by the news of his engagement to the realthy Doris Colby.

CHAPTER VII .- Waterman makes a financial arrangement with Nina which will insure her silence.

CHAPTER VIII

It should have become fairly obvious by now that Jim Stanley's conception of Rollin Waterman ex simple, direct. Ingenuous sportsman, had many points not consonant with the truth. Water man's fife, in fact, had for so long been filled with twistings and furdings of various sorts that for him the shortest distance between two points had become the devious route of . No sooner had Jim Stanley sailed from San Francisco than Waterman informed Doris that Nina Morgan had left the office, removed from her forer address, and that the private detectives whom he called in had been unable to trace her.

The Waterman-Colby wedding was what is called a Society event. That is to say, it took place in St. Rartholomew's church under the auspices of the histor of the diocese and the rector of the parish, harmonized by the boy choir, beautified by the ritual of church, and witnessed by an assembly of persons whose names were prominent in the social and business life of the city.

It was witnessed also by Nina Morgin. She insisted on having a card of admittance, and though her presence was not noted by any other of the hundreds who were in the church, she was to the bridegroom the most conspicuous person there. Despite all with Doris at his side, he felt like a man who rather expects to be shot

Recreation

To draw on nerve energy continuously without an occasional stop for rest and refreshment is to invite physical bankruptcy. But to invest a few days in the world's greatest bank, Nature, is to earn the dividends paid by her oceans and mountains, her woods and streams, in the recreation of mind and body, the toring up of a new energy reserve.

Your bank account can be overworked too. Unless the deposits are consitently ahead of the withdrawals, the value of the account is reduced to a minimum, both for immediate needs and as a reserve fund for future opportunities.
