

Idle Island

BY SYDNEY HUNSTON

THE STORY

CHAPTER I—On the verge of nervous collapse, she is overworked. Gay Delane, successful New York artist, returns from his island.

CHAPTER II—Gay spends the college in the city. He meets the artist, who comes to move to another home, the "Apple Tree." Awakening from sleep, Gay imagines the face of a Chinaman peering in the window, but on reflection ascribes the vision to imagination. She settles down in her new home, anticipating months of well-earned rest and recuperation.

CHAPTER III—On an exploration of the island, Gay, standing on the beach, discovers the body of a drowned man, which she serves herself to bring to the shore. A note would in the package shows the man to have been murdered. Gay opens the dead face with a lantern, and makes her way to the "Apple Tree" with the story. Reporting with him to the shore, they find the body of a man, and a story of the incident is set down to an attack of "nerves."

CHAPTER IV—Gay, unable to convince her neighbors of the truth, shows a picture of the dead man to the artist, who agrees to send it to the artist's studio. He meets a stranger, who tells the story and shows the picture. He asks her to let him take it, but she refuses. Next day, after a night spent with "Auntalmiry," Gay finds the picture has been taken from the collection. "Head" Wallace, wanderer and connoisseur of something of a "black sheep," by the islanders, appearing to find "Auntalmiry" surprises Gay at household tasks. She likes him at once.

CHAPTER V—Gay's acquaintance with Hand ripens into affection. She comes to the island again and the time is spent in the imagination. Hand leaves the island on a business. Gay determines to stay for the winter.

CHAPTER VI—The stranger whom Gay had met the day of her discovery of the body introduces himself as Ronald Ingram, who has been living on the island. "Auntalmiry" tells Gay of her son, "Buddy," who has been missing for years. On Rand's return, Gay tells him of the Chinaman. He is impressed, suspicious of Ronald Ingram, and apprehensive of some evil in a house known as the "Little Club," apparently occupied.

CHAPTER VII—Rand and Gay realize their mutual love, but the artist is not ready to give up her freedom and marry him. "Auntalmiry" is planning her Christmas party, her annual festivity. It is arranged to have it at the "Lone Pine." Rand becomes certain all is not right concerning Ingram and the "Little Club" house, and investigation convinces him his suspicions are justified.

CHAPTER VIII—Rand, continuing his investigations, sees a party of twenty-five Chinamen leave the "Little Club" house and make their way to the ferry and the mainland. Ingram is with them, seemingly in charge of operations. He gains admission to the clubhouse and finds evidence of what he had suspected, the smuggling of Chinamen and narcotics.

CHAPTER IX—Winter settles on the island without further incident. "Auntalmiry" continues her preparations for the Christmas party, and Gay and Rand carry on their innocent romances.

CHAPTER X—Thanksgiving day Gay is snowed up at the "Lone Pine," but Rand breaks through, bringing her Thanksgiving dinner. With Gay and Rand alone in the island of December, Rand tells Gay he is going to Boston to continue his work of investigation, but will be back in time for the party. Returning home after a brief absence, Gay sees a man in an apparently business-like manner of intoxication making his way into her house. She sees him enter the door in an upstairs room.

At three o'clock Gay took Auntalmiry by the hand and led her down to the Apple Tree, where she put her head to bed, tucking the blankets about her and begging her to take a badly needed rest.

So it could have been but very little after three when she softly closed the door of the Apple Tree behind her and set her feet in the path through the snow to the top of the hill. And glancing up, ahead of her in the path, saw a man walking toward the cottage. Gay almost called out to him, expecting Rand, because she wanted Rand. But before sound left her lips she silenced the call, for she saw that it was a stranger, one who seemed to make his way unsteadily in the face of the brisk wind from the sea, staggering a little.

When he reached the piazza of the Lone Pine, he did not wait to knock, but opened the door slowly and went in, closing it after him. Gay was but a little way behind, and she ran in breathlessly, but stopped short in surprise when she did not find him in the living room nor the kitchen.

"Hello," she called. "Hello! Anybody up there?" But received no answer.

Frightened by the unnatural silence, and mindful of Rand's words of warning, she went to the desk, slipped her pistol deftly into the pocket of her heavy coat, and then she climbed the stairs, watchful and alert.

And there indeed she found him lying face downward on the soft rug of her bedroom floor.

"What are you doing?" she demanded suddenly. "What do you want?"

He neither moved nor answered. He lay as if he were dead, and her eyes saw him that she might see his face. His nose was closed, his lips were set. She tried to raise him, but his head fell limply from her hands. She shrank away from him, shuddering with fear.

CHAPTER XI

The crisp voice of Alice Andover had never sounded so sweet to Gay's ears as at that moment.

"Gay Delane! Where are you? I saw you take that foolish creature home, so I came to see if I could—What is the matter?"

Gay beckoned to her sternly from the top of the stairs. "Come up," she said, and her voice was hollow. "Come up."

Alice Andover was never one to hesitate in a crisis. She came at once, breathing hard. Gay pointed dramatically to the bedroom.

Alice Andover gave one wide-eyed glance and saw the prostrate form.

"Good heavens, oh, good heavens! Where did he come from—where did you get him—I mean—"

"He came up the hill just ahead of me. Walked right in. Came upstairs, and evidently fell down there. Or lay down. There he is."

Alice Andover crossed the room and stood above him, touching the inert body tentatively with the toe of her shoe.

"Drunk," she said disgustedly. "Dead drunk."

Gay breathed more freely, in some relief. "Oh, is that it? I—was afraid of—oh, terrible things!"

At that moment, spasmodically he moved, and his face rolled back into the light.

"Oh, oh!" Alice Andover's explanation was a startled gasp. "Oh, my God, I believe— Oh, poor Almiry. I believe it is Buddy Bridges. Come home to his poor trusting mother—dead drunk. Oh, it is all my fault. Oh, what in the world have I done? Buddy Bridges—poor Almiry. All my fault."

"Buddy Bridges? Oh, really? Oh, Auntalmiry—how happy—" Then came sickening realization of the pain it would be to the little old woman to have him come home to her like this, dead drunk. Better a thousand times for her to live on in her trusting ignorance, fondly believing him an unknown hero, pure and fine. "Oh, poor Auntalmiry! See here, Mrs. Andover, this drunken creature shall not spoil the poor dear's Christmas party. The way she has slaved, and saved, and starved herself— He shan't! Let her have one happy night—it may be her last, since Buddy came home like this. He shan't spoil it. Not if I can help it."

Alice Andover, trained to efficiency by years of hard administering, suddenly became practical and decided. Being in charge of things always aroused her latent cleverness.

"We'll just roll him over in the corner out of the way," she said briskly, and cover him up with the rug, and let him sleep it off. We'll lock the door, and keep him here till it is over."

"Will he stay drunk all night?" Gay asked. "Shouldn't we give him something—"

"Whisky! I wish we had some whisky. If we had time—maybe we could keep him drunk for a week. I don't know just how long it does last, but I know the party lasts all night. He may sleep it off."

"I have a little cognac. Bought it in myself—from Paris—in the top of my dancing slipper. Real stuff," Gay said proudly. "I was keeping it for a wedding, but he can have that."

"Good! We'll give him a little swig—of it." She brought out the nautical term with a nautical swagger, both doubtless inherited from the long line of seafaring ancestors.

"We'll keep him as-tight as a lord—until the party's over."

Carefully but sternly they rolled him over half out of sight beneath the window-seat, and covered him.

So Gay brought the precious smuggled bottle of cognac, never yet unsealed, and they gave him a generous swallow, forcing the bottle between his teeth not without much difficulty. He choked over it and coughed painfully, while the conspirators held their breath in a panic above him. But presently he relapsed into troubled breathing again.

"That'll hold him for a while," said Alice Andover grimly.

They locked the door upon him and went downstairs. But when Alice Andover moved as if to go to her own home, Gay refused to be left alone in the house with the drunken creature upstairs, and Alice Andover was obliged to remain, fixing herself up for the party as well as she could with Gay's face powder and electric curlers. They had tea to strengthen their shattered nerves, and at five o'clock tiptoed up to the bedroom to give him another potent draught of the cognac. He swallowed this time with less difficulty, and as he drank, to their horror, his eyes opened, eyes large and dark. Gay noticed even in that horrible moment, eyes now visionless, not seeing. When the muffled heavy breathing recommenced, they tiptoed from the room.

Alice Andover, because the opening of his eyes had frightened her, was freshly furious. She shook her fist at the door when it was safely locked behind her.

"Oh, you monster—the poor dear trusting heart," she muttered, all in the same breath.

Auntalmiry, flushed and radiant with excitement, was the first to arrive for the party. She was joyously pleased at the unusual tenderness of Alice Andover's greeting, and took her all about the room to point out to her, with shy pride, how cleverly she had managed things, explaining all the little economies she had used, the ruses to which she had resorted in her desire to make least money go farthest. Alice was sympathetic, so licentious, warmly approving, but kept always one sharp and terrified eye upon Gay, both of them in a panic of fear lest the creature upstairs regain his sober senses and spoil the party for which Auntalmiry had worked so hard.

At Gay's direction, Auntalmiry took up her position by the window, with Alice Andover and Gay on either side, and pressed the electric button which set the solitary pine sparkle with colored lights from top to bottom, flashing a brilliant holiday greeting all over that end of the island.

"It is the last invitation," she cried, and her little voice quavered with excitement. "Come to my party, come to my Christmas party! Every body can see it. It will guide them up the hill. How the children will laugh! It is very nice, Gay."

The island trooped to the party in a body, a long stream pouring up the hill through the snow, so that all in a moment it seemed the Lone Pine was a surge and a throb with it. There was much laughter, much shrill squealing, the piercing staccato of children's voices, the high nervous laughter of young girls, and deeper older voices, calling loud and cheery greeting.

"If this babel doesn't wake him up he might as well be dead," whispered Alice Andover.

"I'll go and have a look," said Gay. "It is enough to bring the trees to life."

Gay listened outside the bedroom door a moment, hoping to hear the muffled heavy breathing that presaged the sleep of their unwelcome guest. But with the din from below she could hear nothing, so she opened the door quickly and stepped in. The room was wrapped in silence, utter and heavy, and in the darkness she could not distinguish the shadow by the window-seat that was Buddy Bridges. She pressed the button that flooded the room with light and showed in a flash its emptiness. The rug lay in a tangled heap upon the floor, but Buddy Bridges was not there.

The window was open. Gay ran to it, and looking out, she saw the shadow of a man in the bushes of the garden, and the house she could distinguish nothing. Her eyes swam dizzily.

"Such—a Christmas," she stammered. Already with that vividly creative mind of hers she could see him lying on the rocks, a bleeding mangled shape. Auntalmiry's son. Suddenly she was afraid to be alone, and ran downstairs. Alice Andover awaited her coming at the foot of the steps.

She read fear in Gay's eyes.

"What now, good heavens, what now?"

"He is gone. He is not there."

"Gone! Gone where? Gone how?" (Continued next week)

WHY I SOLVED MY HARDEST PROBLEM

By Helen

Well, that was all fixed; there was nothing else to be done except start and the children all about it, and though they did not understand a word of it, they were perfectly satisfied. Daily the day to leave dawned; I must confess that it was with nervous hands and quaking heart that I made preparations for the journey. When at last the third baby was born and sweet in his little new ones, and sitting beside the others in a row—I could but laugh. I stood back to admire them, their resemblance to "Helen's" so primly sweet did they come up at me. But unlike the mother of that doll family, my own must have been akin to those of the old woman who lived in a

The hearty response to the clean-up proposition shows how nicely a thing can go over when everyone cooperates in the right spirit.

Advertising is not a cure-all, nor will it sell goods that do not have the backing of quality and right price; but it is a fact that no merchant has ever had great success without newspaper advertising.

The city council can issue warrants for the proposed water improvements, and interested voters might well inform themselves of the advantages derived by the bond issue route and vote accordingly.

J. D. Reavis, former editor of the Alanreed Herald, has bought the Texas Tribune and his first issue carried several good trade-at-home articles, as well as a full page advertisement donated by the Tribune along this line.

The more families who are attracted to town, whose bread winners work out of the school district, mean just that much more burden on the school district. Not that we do not want everyone here who will come, but that this fact be remembered when we are inclined to criticize anyone for crowded conditions of the schools, coupled with low tax renditions.

The informed voter is the one who can cast an intelligent ballot, and we are assured by members of the school board that they are willing and anxious to see the school district raise for a bond issue at this time to anyone interested. This is also true of the city council, and every voter owes it to the community to inform himself of the needs of the school and city.

ORDER AND NOTICE OF ELECTION

THE STATE OF TEXAS,
COUNTY OF GRAY,
CITY OF McLEAN.

On this the 16th day of April, 1929, the City Council of the City of McLean in Gray county, Texas, convened in special session at its regular meeting place, all members thereof, to-wit, Jot Montgomery, mayor; E. L. Sitter, Wood Hindman, E. J. Lander, M. T. Wilkerson, F. H. Bourland, aldermen; W. E. Bogan, city secretary; being present, and in attendance, and among other proceedings had by the City Council was the following:

It was moved by Alderman M. T. Wilkerson and seconded by Alderman Wood Hindman, that there be submitted to the qualified voters of the city, who are property taxpayers voters therein the proposition for the issuance of the bonds of the said city in the sum of FIFTY THOUSAND DOLLARS ($50,000.00) for the purpose of water works improvements in and for said city.

It appearing that the City of McLean is in need of the water works improvements, the City Council of the said city deems it advisable to issue the bonds of said city for the purpose and in the amount hereinafter set out.

The motion was carried by the following vote:

Ayes: Aldermen Sitter, Hindman, Lander, Wilkerson, Bourland, Montgomery.

Noes: None.
The following resolution was accordingly adopted:

THEREFORE, BE IT ORDERED BY THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF McLEAN, TEXAS:

1. That an election be held on the 20th day of May, 1929, at which election the following proposition shall be submitted to the resident qualified property taxpayers voters of the said city for their action thereon:

PROPOSITION: "Shall the City Council of the City of McLean, Texas be authorized to issue the bonds of the City of McLean, Texas, in the amount of $50,000.00, maturing serially or otherwise within thirty years from their date, bearing interest at a rate not to exceed five and one-half per cent (5½%) per annum, and to levy a tax sufficient to pay the interest on said bonds, and provide a sinking fund with which to pay the AGRICULTURE TEAMS RETURN FROM A. & M.

Agriculture teams that have returned from the state contest have reported. However, all reports have not been received. Dairy team was 3rd highest of about 94 teams competing in egg, judging and 4th in hens. A shop team won 3rd out of 45 teams competing. They were 1st in soldering, 3rd in construction hardware and 3rd in equipment that won first beat the seven points. The second team something like two boys won first and Floyd.

Contest was 5th in contest and an in state in soldering, he received three pounds. Ward Ault was 3rd high in contest. Approximately 91 livestock teams won 5th. They won of cattle. On the trip to the National McLean beat this team at Lubbock. Dairies in dairy have not been

EVENT AT MARKET DALE

Thine Turner (Sophomore) in Market Dale had come conclusion that not all girls is and it even pays to be times. It is an unusually large, two-house, entirely surrounded by trees and bushes, in this of Market Dale. Not a word, especially interested along the street that led massive structure. Nobody, the wise old Mrs. Prim, herself credit for knowing could remember when she there and not seen that old man peering down the attic window. SCOTCH JOKES

There was the Scotchman who used shorthand so that he wouldn't have to spend so much for ink.

One Scotchman—"Did you have a good time last evening?"
Another One—"Perfectly priceless!"

Doctor—"You have an enlarged heart."
Scotchman—"What! I'm a disgrace to the whole race!"

BAPTISTS PRESENT PLAY FRIDAY

The Momemakers Sunday school class of the Baptist church presented "A Little Clodhopper" last Friday evening in the high school auditorium. Norvin Ashby was the only one from the school who took part in the play. Various specialties were given between acts of the play. The characters have received many compliments on their presentation of this play. The high school orchestra furnished music for the occasion.

BAND STAND TO BE ERECTED IN CITY PARK

The McLean high school band played in town Saturday afternoon, at five o'clock.

This will probably be the last time they will play on the streets, as a band stand is to be erected in the city park within the next few weeks.

Many concerts will be given during the summer in the band stand, and several trips are already being planned by the band for the summer.

SCHOOL DISMISSES FOR FUNERAL

The McLean high school was dismissed Thursday at one o'clock for the funeral of L. B. Muncie. It was resumed Friday at the regular hour.

JOKES

"Is that a genuine bloodhound?"
"Sure. Oscar, come over here and bleed for the lady."

"Smithers is as good a fish liar as anybody I know. I told him an awful whopper the other day but he matched it right away."
"How?"
"He said he believed me."

"My wife's a fine shot. She can a dollar every time."
"That's nothing. My wife goes through my pockets and never misses a dime."

"Well, I'm smoking for my own sake now."

Owner—"Don't you see that sign?"
It says no fishing allowed on these grounds."
Angler—"I'm not fishing on the grounds; I'm fishing in the water."

"Our wedding takes place Friday."
"That's unlucky."
"Do you think it's unlucky to be married on Friday?"
"Yes, I do. Why should Friday be an exception?"

"THE BEST FOR LESS"

Your MODEL T FORD is still a good car

THE Model T Ford led the motor industry for twenty years because of its sturdy worth, reliability and economy. Those same reasons continue to make it a good car.

As a matter of fact, nearly one-fourth of all the automobiles in use today are Model T Fords. Millions of them can be driven two, three and even five more years with reasonable care and proper replacements. Figures show that the average life is seven years.

Don't sacrifice your Model T, therefore, but take it to the Ford dealer and have him estimate on the cost of putting it in A1 shape. A very small expenditure may be the means of giving you thousands of miles of additional service.

For a labor charge of $20 to $25 you can have your motor and transmission completely overhauled. This price includes new bearings, reboring cylinders and any other work necessary. Parts are extra.

Valves can be ground and carbon removed for $3 to $4. The cost of tightening all main bearings is only $6. The labor charge for overhauling the front axle is $4.50 to $5—rear axle assembly, $5.75 to $7.

New universal joint will be installed for a labor charge of $3. Brake shoes relined for $1.50. Rear spring and perches rebushed for $1.75. The cost of overhauling the starting motor is $3. A labor charge of approximately $2.50 covers the overhauling of the generator.

It will pay you, therefore, to see your Ford dealer and have him put your Model T in good running order. By doing so you will protect and maintain the investment you have in your car and get months and years of reliable transportation at a very low cost per mile.

DONATIONS GIVEN BEGGARS OFTEN WASTED, REPORT

Pampa, May 1.—A report of the activities of the Pampa Welfare Association was made by Mrs. M. P. Downs, nurse, at a meeting of the board yesterday afternoon in the Board of City Development rooms.

Mrs. Downs reported that local citizens were too lax in giving to those begging. She stated that three boys had come to her for relief for an invalid grandmother. She succeeded in getting them work, but instead of reporting to work they visited merchants and citizens, who gave them considerable money, and then left town.

"If Pampa citizens wish to do good turns they can be assured that their money will go to the right place if given to the Welfare Association rather than to everyone who puts up a hard-luck story," Mrs. Downs said.

Another Record!

500,000
New Six Cylinder
CHEVROLETS
since Jan. 1st

Sweeping constantly ahead to greater and greater heights of popularity... making and breaking new records of success with impressive regularity... the new Chevrolet Six has established one of the most remarkable records in automotive history—more than 500,000 on the road since January 1st!

Not only does this brilliant accomplishment surpass the greatest record that Chevrolet has ever achieved in the past—but it brings to Chevrolet the significant honor of having built in only four months a greater number of six-cylinder cars than any other manufacturer has ever produced in an entire year!

Even with such a record to focus attention upon the outstanding value of the Chevrolet Six—many people still do not appreciate what "a Six in the price range of the four" actually means!

To such persons, consideration of the features responsible for this tremendous popularity will prove a revelation. So read the adjoining column carefully—and then come in and ask for a ride in this sensational six-cylinder car.

The Sport CABRIOLET.....$695		1½ TON CHASSIS WITH CAB.....$650

COMPARE the delivered price as well as the list price in considering automobile values. Chevrolet's delivered prices include only reasonable charges for delivery and financing.

Outstanding Features of the New Chevrolet Six that have created this Tremendous Popularity—

6-Cylinder Smoothness

Due to the finer inherent balance of its six-cylinder motor—the new Chevrolet Six provides that smooth, quiet, flexible performance which is characteristic of the truly fine automobile. At every speed, the power is delivered easily, freely and without annoying vibration.

6-Cylinder Getaway

In sheer brilliance of performance, as well as in smoothness and quietness of operation, the new Chevrolet Six is a revelation. Acceleration is remarkably fast. And a new non-detonating cylinder head eliminates every trace of "lugging."

6-Cylinder Speed

The new Chevrolet Six has speed in abundance—but even more important than its speed is the smooth, quiet, restful comfort you experience at every point on the speedometer. You can open the throttle wide with a feeling of complete security.

Better Than 20 Miles Per Gallon

The marvelous performance of the Chevrolet Six would be exceptional in any car. But in the new Chevrolet Six it is actually sensational—for here it is combined with an economy of better than 20 miles to the gallon of gasoline!

Exceptional Riding Comfort

Another vital factor that has influenced over a half-million people in their selection of the new Chevrolet Six is its marvelous riding comfort. It travels smoothly over rough roads—and its balance on turns and corners is exceptional.

Beautiful Fisher Bodies

Longer, lower and roomier—finished in attractive, long-lasting colors—and upholstered in rich, deep-tufted fabrics—the new Fisher bodies on the Chevrolet Six introduce into the low-price field an entirely new measure of style and distinction.

Proved Dependability

Tested for more than a million miles on the roads of the General Motors Proving Ground—the new Chevrolet Six went into the hands of its owners thoroughly proved in every detail. And now reports of its performance on the highways of the nation pay glowing tribute to its endurance and dependability.

Amazing Low Prices

An achievement that surpasses even the brilliant performance qualities of this sensational six-cylinder car are the prices at which it is offered. Study these prices, and compare them with any other car and you will recognize the remarkable value represented in this Six in the price range of the four!
