Poultry Show Pleases Large Crowd

Chamber of Commerce to Meet Next Monday Night

MONDAY REGULAR MEETING

Chamber of Commerce Meeting to Be Open to Everyone

The regular monthly meeting of the Chamber of Commerce will be held in the secretary's office Monday evening, beginning at 8 o'clock, and closing promptly at 9.

It is planned to hold open meetings on the first Monday night of each month all during the year, and the meetings will hold only one hour, any business at any time will be taken care of in a called meeting. It was decided that one hour is long enough for the sessions.

Not only members, but everyone, regardless of whether they live in town or in the country, are invited and expected to attend and take part in the open meetings.

Members should mark their calendars for the year and plan to be present, the late hour being for their benefit.

Monday will be the first meeting of the new year under the direction of the new officers, and it is hoped a large crowd will be present.

Merchants' Booths Add Attractiveness to Poultry Show

Booths were sold in the poultry show building to merchants in order to secure money for prizes, and the nicely decorated booths added much to the attractiveness of the show, and are appreciated by every visitor.

Not only were the displays attractive, but in most of the booths actual merchandise was displayed that was an educational nature and drew much favorable comment.

Childwell Bakery had samples of products used, as well as finished goods, on display. The City Drug store had medicinal feeds on display. Southwestern Public Service Co. had the Sitter Furniture Co. had advertising booths filled with high class merchandise, including a radio for entertainment of visitors. The National and Citizens State store furnished desks and chairs. The stationery and supplies for visitors, that were in use most all the time. The McLean Hardware Co. had displays of quality merchandise, as did the Hamilton-Doolen Hardware & Lumber Co. Cheney and Colebank of food displays that provoked much comment. Cobb's Variety Store had to place calendars for each visitor. A nicely decorated booth. C. H. Harbison of Heald had charge of an educational exhibit in Pickett's Grocery booth. The Famous had one of the prettiest booths in the show, and City Wigly had a coffee display all attracted much attention. The McLean News was also represented here, by the mother of J. A. and A. W. Haynes, and besides a number of relatives, leaves a host of friends to mourn her passing.

FUNERAL RITES FOR MRS. HAYNES SATURDAY

Funeral services were held at the Heald Methodist church last Saturday for Mrs. Lou A. Haynes, aged 50 years, 5 months, 14 days, who died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Paul Ladd, Jan. 23, 1930.

Services were conducted by Rev. A. J. Jones, assisted by Rev. B. W. Wilkins, pastor of the First Methodist church of McLean. One grandson and five grandsons-in-law acted as pallbearers: W. L. Haynes, Roy Campbell Kester Rippey, Frank Bailey, Arthur Chapman and Roy Powell.

Interment was made in Hillcrest cemetery. McLean, arrangements in charge of C. S. Rice, mortician.

The deceased was an old resident here, being the mother of J. A. and A. W. Haynes, and besides a number of relatives, leaves a host of friends to mourn her passing.

SHERMAN WHITE FOR ATTORNEY

Sherman White authorizes The News to carry his name in our announcement column as a candidate for county attorney, subject to the action of the Democratic primary in July.

Mr. White has been engaged in law practice in McLean for the past six years and is in every way qualified for the office he seeks.

Mr. White says that if elected he will make every effort to serve the people in an acceptable manner, and will assist in every way in seeing that the laws are enforced in Gray county. He also says he will try to see every voter in the county between now and the primary.

The News is glad to present Mr. White's name to the voters, and he speaks careful consideration of his claims at the primary.

Bogan Made New Member Lions Club

W. E. Bogan visited the Lions Club at their regular luncheon at the Meador Cafe Monday and was unanimously elected to membership in the club before he was allowed to speak. Mr. Bogan responded by writing a check for his initiation fee and said that he was favorably impressed with the outlook for the coming year, and with the present pleasant relations between the city council, Chamber of Commerce and Lions Club, there should be wonderful progress here this year.

C. H. Harbison of Heald was presented as a visitor, and responded with a short talk in which he said that close co-operation is needed between farmers and business men. Mr. Harbison said he was anxious to help in every way for community betterment.

J. E. Biggs reported a meeting of business men with a hotel promoter, and T. A. Landers mentioned the need of urging poll tax payments. M. D. Bentley offered to furnish transportation on Friday of this week to anyone wanting to go to Pampa to pay poll taxes.

T. W. Gilstrap reported for the committee on spelling bee, and recommended that flags be presented school houses and that a community chest organization be perfected.

It was ordered that this committee be combined with the flag committee appointed last fall and that they work out plans toward buying school flags and street flags for merchants.

M. D. Bentley reported charity cases being taken care of by a C. of C. committee without funds, a deficit of over $60 now being on the books. President Boyd Meador appointed T. W. Gilstrap, W. A. Erwin and T. A. Landers a "no drop" committee to interview members who absent themselves from luncheons, and to not drop members until recommended by the committee.

Those present were: Ed Wehba, Dr. Coleman, E. L. Sitter, J. E. Biggs, B. W. Wilkins, T. W. Gilstrap, W. A. Erwin, S. M. Hodges, T. A. Landers, A. A. Tampke, Reep Landers, M. D. Bentley, Boyd Meador, W. E. Bogan, C. H. Harbison.

Those present were: Ed Wehba, Dr. Coleman, E. L. Sitter, J. E. Biggs, B. W. Wilkins, T. W. Gilstrap, W. A. Erwin, S. M. Hodges, T. A. Landers, A. A. Tampke, Reep Landers, M. D. Bentley, Boyd Meador, W. E. Bogan, C. H. Harbison.

Gas Explosion at Grade School Monday Afternoon

An explosion created quite a bit of excitement at the grade school Monday afternoon, caused, it is thought, by the pilot light going out under the boiler and letting gas accumulate. Mr. H. Corum, janitor, noticed one of the furnace doors slightly open and kicked it shut, probably causing a spark, as the furnace doors were blown off and Mr. Corum blown against the opposite wall by the force of the explosion. Windows were broken in the basement as well as on the floor directly above. Children left the building by the fire escapes, and no one was hurt, with the exception of Mr. Corum, who was burned and shaken up considerably.

The furnace was repaired the same afternoon, but no school was held Tuesday, awaiting the inspection of a representative of the boiler company from Amarillo, who pronounced everything OK, school being resumed Wednesday morning.

Joseph Leopold to Speak Here February 25th

Joseph Leopold of the United States Chamber of Commerce will speak in McLean February 25, 1930, at the Panhandle Chamber of Commerce secretaries' convention scheduled to take place here at that time.

Mr. Leopold was the principal speaker at the convention and annual banquet at Clarendon Tuesday evening, which was attended by Sec. J. E. Biggs and T. W. Gilstrap of McLean. The McLean visitors made short talks at the meeting.

Secretary Boswell of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce will also appear on the program here Feb. 25.

Hotel Interests Investigate McLean for Site

Mr. Campbell of the Southwest Hotels chain met with a number of Chamber of Commerce officials Saturday morning in the interest of a three or four story hotel here.

Mr. Campbell outlined his plan and made an appointment for one day next week, when he will return and make a preliminary survey as to the size hotel needed here, provided the business men adopt his plan.

The Southwest Hotels want a hotel between Elk City, Okla., and Amarillo on Highway 66, and McLean is the logical location, other things being equal.

THOMPSON FOR DIST. CLERK

The News is authorized to carry the name of R. B. (Rufe) Thompson in the political announcement column as a candidate for district clerk, subject to the action of the Democratic primary in July.

Mr. Thompson served as county and district clerk for two terms, making his home at the county site and devoting his entire time to the office. He ran for district clerk last term, winning over his opponent by a large majority, but the offices were not separated at that time. However, the new census is expected to cause a division of the offices, and Mr. Thompson promises to devote his entire time to the office, if favored with election.

Mr. Thompson says he will endeavor to see all the voters before the primary, and we are glad to present his claims to the citizens of Gray county.

SHOE SHOP MOVES

Reep Landers has moved his Up-to-Date Shoe Shop from the News building across the street to the Rice-Cousins building, formerly occupied by Mrs. W. T. Wilson.

C. of C. Directors Hold Joint Meet Friday Afternoon

Both the old and new members of the Chamber of Commerce executive board met last Friday afternoon at the call of President T. A. Landers.

The banquet committee reported all bills paid, with $1.25 balance. The report was received and the committee accorded a vote of thanks.

It was ordered that all chairs and other property of the organization now in the hands of others be returned to the chamber of commerce hall, W. E. Bogan, M. D. Bentley and Sherman White being appointed to see if all such property can be secured at once.

Vice President T. W. Gilstrap was made chairman of the membership committee with power to select the other members of the committee. Authority was also given the committee to spend $25 in whatever way they think will be advantageous to the chamber.

It was agreed that the directors will meet on the 2nd and 4th Friday afternoons of each month at from 4 to 5 p. m., and general meetings of the body will be held the first Monday evening of each month from 8 to 9 o'clock.

It was also voted that all bills must be passed upon by the board of directors hereafter before being paid.

Good Program Poultry Show Friday Night

The program sponsored by the poultry show at the high school auditorium last Friday evening was enjoyed by all present.

Prof. Frank R. Phillips of the West Texas State Teachers College at Canyon, and superintendent of the McLean poultry show, was the speaker of the evening, and entertained his hearers with a comparison of educational methods of Europe and America.

Prof. Phillips gave interesting first-hand accounts of incidents in Denmark, Germany and other countries, contrasting the two to eight acres of Denmark lands costing from $1,000 to $3,000 per acre, to the larger farms on cheaper land in America.

Farmers' education is not conducted by classes in Denmark, but by committees, and children do not have examinations, being promoted as they become a year older.

Only the leaders are educated in Europe, and it is up to them to see that other get along some way.

"Whatever the cost of education, we cannot afford to do without it," said the speaker, in closing his remarks.

The high school band, under the direction of Prof. Robt. C. Davidson, furnished several selections before Phillips' address, and Jesse J. Cobb, Wayland Floyd, W. K. Wharton and Reep Landers gave a couple of vocal numbers.

Wayland Floyd, as chairman of the program committee, presented the speaker of the evening.

G. H. PARISH FOR SHERIFF

G. H. Parish, constable of precinct No. 2, has announced his candidacy for sheriff of Gray county, subject to the action of the Democratic primary.

Constable Parish promises that if elected he will give a square deal to everybody. He says his record as a constable is open to the scrutiny and investigation of every citizen. He bases his qualifications for the office on his record as a constable during the last year, and on his tenure of office as city policeman. Mr. Parish was a peace officer at Chickasha, Okla., in 1916.

He came to Pampa in 1918 and was associated with the Joyce Land and Cattle company near Pampa for four years. He has lived in Gray county for the last 12 years.

Wilson Boyd is in Pampa this week.

Bull Circle and Canning Factory Luncheon Talks

Dr. Geo. P. Grout, vocational teacher and C. of C. secretary, of Panhandle, addressed the Chamber of Commerce directors at a luncheon served at the Meador Cafe last Saturday noon.

Dr. Grout was presented by Prof. Frank R. Phillips of Canyon, superintendent of the McLean poultry show, as a man who has a national reputation for picking dairy winners, having sold one cow and her offspring for $37,000 and revolutionized the dairy industry in his home county.

Dr. Grout spoke in favor of the bull circle idea, giving many advantages over individual ownership. He also gave interesting statistics of the growth of the dairy industry in other places, stating that dairying means better farm crops as well as sure profits in itself. "Registry is not enough," said the speaker. "You must start with breed sires, and there is no better way than the bull circle plan."

Dr. Grout has made several trips to the Jersey and Guernsey Islands in his study of dairy cows, and he expressed the opinion that Guernsey cattle will enjoy a wide popularity here in the near future.

Following Dr. Grout's address, Prof. A. C. Hammonds, vocational teacher of Dalhart, spoke in favor of a local canning factory, saying that the McLean community has the appearance of being the best place for vegetables and small fruits of any place in this section.

Prof. Hammonds said that 66 sections of land had been sold at Dalhart in one month the past year to foreigners, which made a problem in that community to educate them away from the one-crop idea.

Prof. W. D. McElroy, vocational teacher of White Deer, and Prof. W. M. Gourley, vocational teacher of Silverton, also made a few remarks, as did Dr. A. A. Tampke, vocational teacher of McLean.

Those present besides the speakers above named, were: J. E. Biggs, T. A. Landers, W. E. Bogan, T. W. Gilstrap, E. L. Sitter, W. S. White.

Noted Speaker Will Be Here Wednesday

Dr. Theodore Hansen of Denver, Colo., who is speaking under the auspices of the "Ten Million Club of America," will address the people of McLean at the First Methodist church next Wednesday night on the subject, "The Moral Crisis of Our National Life."

The address will deal with the prohibition question, and everyone is invited to be present. There will be no admission charge, but it will be free to the general public.

PAY YOUR POLL TAX

By M. D. Bentley
Friday (tomorrow) will be the last day of grace for paying poll tax for the year 1929, without which you cannot vote on any question, state, county or city, during the year 1930.

All poll tax applications signed and left at either bank or with myself as late as 11 o'clock Friday will be delivered to Pampa Friday evening.

So be sure to sign application and leave $1.75 at one of the above mentioned places by that time if you wish to participate in the affairs of your state and county, as every citizen should do.

SCHOOL PLAY TUESDAY

The commercial class of the high school will present a play, "Miss Topsy Turvy," next Tuesday evening. Full announcement of which appears in our advertising columns.

Mrs. Dorothy Watt of Pampa visited home folks here last week end.

CONWAY AWARDED TROPHY

Conway Boys' Judging Team Awarded Loving Cup

Despite the cold weather and other hindrances, McLean's first annual poultry show passed into history as an unqualified success last Friday and Saturday, with Prof. Frank R. Phillips of Canyon acting as superintendent of the show.

Poultry judging teams, with their instructors, were here from four different schools, and the silver loving cup given by the Chamber of Commerce was won by the Conway team with a score of 2227. White Deer was second with 2160 points; Panhandle made a score of 2066 for third place, and Dalhart fourth with 2051.

The same teams competed in several other contests, resulting in: Panhandle 1st in egg judging, Dalhart 2nd, White Deer 3rd and Conway 4th; examinations, White Deer 1st, Conway 2nd, Dalhart 3rd, Panhandle 4th; production class, Conway 1st, Panhandle 2nd, White Deer 3rd, Dalhart 4th; exhibition class, White Deer 1st, Conway 2nd, Dalhart 3rd, Panhandle 4th.

Suitable ribbons were given for each of the places won, compliments of The McLean News; and pocket knives were given in two places, compliments of Cheney and Colebank. The presentation of the cup and other prizes was made by T. A. Landers, president of the Chamber of Commerce.

Individual high scores were won by the following: John Ingram, Conway, 1st; J. R. Bertrand, White Deer, 2nd; Joe Thomas, Conway, 3rd; Edwin Dutton, Panhandle, 4th; Marvin Callahan, Conway, 4th.

The McLean poultry judging team was not allowed to compete, but was present, taking notes, etc., for future use.

HESSEY FOR COUNTY SUPT.

John B. Hessey, first county superintendent of Gray county, is announcing his candidacy in the Democratic primary for a second term.

He is a veteran school man of this county, having moved to Alanreed in 1907 and having taught seven of his 12 years of school experience in Gray county communities. During his tenure as county superintendent, five new modern brick school buildings have been erected. A year ago Gray county did not have a recognized standard rural school; now there are fourteen, and the two other schools will be standardized within a short time.

Mr. Hessey personally prepared the transcripts for three bond elections, saving each school district more than $200. His goal is to have a nine month term for every rural child, to have well prepared, healthy teachers, and to provide for the country children the desirable advantages that city pupils enjoy.

Although his office pays comparatively little, he traveled 22,000 miles visiting rural schools in 1929 without an expense account for the purpose. His work has drawn the commendation of state inspectors and State Superintendent S. M. N. Marrs.

Prof. Hessey is well known in McLean, having many friends and old acquaintances here.

LOTS OF NEWS THIS WEEK

There is lots of new in the paper this week, and those who have a habit of scanning the headlines on the first page will miss something if they do not read the news on every page.

Mrs. D. C. Carpenter and Miss Verna Rice were Shamrock visitors Tuesday.

SCHOOL NEWS

SHINING LIGHTS OF M. G. S.

Due to the indecision of the students, the clubs have not been reorganized. The clubs are to reorganize this week after which the regular meetings will be held on Tuesdays and Thursdays of each week.

The Busy Bees are truly busy. This week someone brought a "Believe It or Not" statement that "Busy Bees are not busy—they are just busy a part of the time." Now, the Busy Bees are going to show everybody that they are really busy. Watch the Busy Bees buzz their way to fame. Their song is:

"Fight for the Busy Bees;
Busy Bees must win.
Fight to be busy;
Never give in.
You do your best, class,
We'll do the rest, class;
Fight, fight, fight for Busy Bees."

Their yell is:
"Booma lacka! Booma lacka!
Buzz—buzz—buzz.
Chicka lacka! Chicka lacka!
Z—Z—Z.
Who are we?
Well, can't you guess?
We're the Busy Bees of M. G. S."

RED HOT PEPPERS ENTERTAIN

Friday night the former sponsor of the Red Hot Peppers, Miss Hayes; and the snappy members of this R. H. P. organization entertained the present low seventh members with a "tacky party." Miss Coleman was the guest of honor, because this was really a welcome party for her. Wilburn Lynch, the former president of the R. H. P., made the welcome speech in which he told Miss Coleman that the Red Hot Peppers were willing to make the R. H. P. class the best in M. G. S. "We are with you, by you for you, Miss Coleman, in all that is right!" were the closing words of this speech.

The refreshments were served in a novel manner. Each person brought a box filled with good things to eat and a "keepsake" for the one who received his box. Everyone had a jolly time, and instead of "Long live the king," all thought "Long live the Red Hot Peppers."

CELEBRATE CLEANEST ROOM CAMPAIGN

The former low sixth, or R. H. P., and the high sixth made a hundred per cent on their rooms for three weeks, so they merited a picnic for such diligence. The picnic will be held Tuesday. Every student participates a good time.

RED HOT PEPPERS REORGANIZE

The high sixth met to reorganize the class and to continue the history of the R. H. P. The following officers were elected:
Juanita Brooks, president.
Alton Howard, vice president.
Elizabeth Kniveton, secretary and treasurer.
Sarah Virginia McGowen, class reporter.
Lewis Tolliver, librarian.
The social committee is composed of Clara Faye Carpenter, Rosa Belle Reed and Lillie Lester.

The other classes are progressing wonderfully well. Some of the Interscholastic League work has been started.

Mrs. Back has made the assignments for declamation. Miss Coleman has met with her music memory contestants. Great interest is being shown.

Spelling books have been secured and each class is using these in spelling. The standard of the pupil is being raised in spelling. Effective methods are used to make the child reach the hundred per cent mark.

The M. G. S. news will be better as soon as club organization is well under way. We do not promise circumstances render it necessary to break promises, but we hope to have a more interesting report next time. Do not criticize, but encourage us!

Law and Order Club Formed at Pampa Monday

A Law and Order Club was formed at Pampa Monday night and plans outlined to perfect a county-wide organization. J. L. Noel was made chairman of the executive committee consisting of J. N. Duncan, Roy McMillen, E. G. Barrett, C. L. Thompson and Don L. Wakeman, who will select eight other members from Pampa and other communities over the county. Chairmen of clubs to be formed at McLean, Lefors and Alanreed will also be members of the executive committee. A number of Pampa committeemen were in McLean Wednesday, and a meeting has been announced for next Wednesday night at the Methodist church, when a speaker will be present to explain the purpose of the club. It is the intention of the club to sponsor candidates who have the prohibition cause at heart. The need of "drys" to pay their oil taxes is being stressed by all workers.

A BRIDAL SHOWER

A miscellaneous shower was given by Misses Cora Greer and Alice Carpenter at the J. M. Carpenter home Monday, honoring Mrs. E. B. Ozier. Each guest was presented with sheets of paper of uniform size, on which they wrote their favorite recipes. These were later formed into a cook book and presented to the bride. Refreshments were served. Those honoring Mrs. Ozier with beautiful and useful gifts were: Mesdames Dr. W. L. Campbell, N. A. Greer, Chas. Cooke, O. G. Stokely, Buck Miller, W. C. Bushfield, F. H. Bourland, Harold Clement, Jot Montgomery, W. E. Bogan, J. S. Morse, John C. Haynes, Loyse Caldwell, C. P. Hamilton Jr., Sammie Cubine, Roy Campbell, C. P. Overton, Etta Mann, C. A. Gatlin, D. E. Upham, Luther McCombs, Vernon Rice; Misses Jewel Shaw, Dorothy Cantrell, LaEuna Holloway, Anna, May and Pauline Wehba, Clara Pearl Gatlin, Trilby McCracken, Sallie Campbell and Bonnie Miller.

RECITAL FRIDAY NIGHT

Mrs. Willie T. Boyett's piano pupils will give a public recital tomorrow (Friday) night at 7:30 at the high school auditorium. Admission free to the public.

Mr. and Mrs. Harris King and little daughters returned Monday from a three week's visit at Glen Rose.

Misses Verna Rice, Robbie Howard and Fern Upham were in Shamrock Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Castleberry of Amarillo were McLean visitors Monday.

Mrs. Marvin Marshall of Groom visited her mother, Mrs. R. L. Grigsby Sunday.

Lenard Howard left Tuesday for Tennessee to enter law school.

J. L. Crawford of San Antonio was in McLean Tuesday.

Hershel Miller returned Monday from a trip to Mangum, Okla.

J. J. Simmons was in Erick, Okla., Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton of Buffalo, N. Y., were in McLean Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Buck Campbell of Pampa were McLean visitors Sunday.

Miss Marie Watt was a visitor in Pampa Friday.

H. G. Hardendorf was in Pampa Saturday.

Frederick Vaughn and Johnnie Prescott are in Pampa this week.

J. B. Wright of Memphis was in McLean Tuesday.

J. W. Woodford of Amarillo was in McLean Tuesday.

John A. Roberts of Mangum, Okla., is in McLean this week.

John Sullivan of Shamrock visited relatives here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Winn visited in Elk City, Okla., last week end.

GRAY COUNTY SCHOOLS NOT TO SUFFER

According to County Superintendent John B. Hessey, schools in this county will not be affected by the injunction granted at San Antonio, the effect of which is to tie up $5,000,000 rural aid fund for an indefinite time.

Eldridge, Grandview and McClellan are the only schools in Gray county that applied for rural aid, and their apportionment is only a little more than $1,000.

This is fortunate, compared with several other counties in the state, as there are some 3,600 schools affected, many of them facing a shut-down and also many high school pupils will be forced to pay tuition or withdraw.

Mrs. Frank Howard returned Sunday from a visit with relatives at Mangum, Okla.

R. R. Porter of Elk City, Okla., was in McLean Monday.

J. M. Whittier of Amarillo was in McLean Monday.

CHESTER SAVAGE GIVEN HONORS AT PLAINVIEW

Chester Savage, who is attending Wayland Baptist College at Plainview, has been licensed to preach by the North Ward Baptist church of that city, and has been given full charge of the B. Y. P. U. and Sunday school work of the church.

N. E. Savage, who has bought a farm two miles of Amherst, was in Plainview last Sunday and heard his son, Chester, preach at the North Ward church.

MRS. VANNOY LIKES STORY

Mrs. John B. Vannoy likes our new serial, "The Crippled Lady of Peribonka," being kind enough to say that it is one of the most interesting stories she has read lately.

This story is just beginning, and if for any reason you did not begin with the first chapter read the synopsis on page seven and begin this week. The story will only run a few weeks, and is of absorbing interest.

Miss Mary King has entered Abilene Christian College.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Meier and baby of Amarillo visited in the Stratton home Saturday night and Sunday.

Misses Texola and Lucile Harlan and Robbie Howard were in Shamrock Wednesday.

Some people can't write their names so anyone can read them but they don't want the newspaper to misspell them.

Only one more day in which to pay your poll tax and be in position to have a voice in local government; otherwise there will be nothing left but a meaningless growl when things go wrong.

The editor of every paper wants to carry news items of every nature that is interesting to the public, but he is in no case a mind reader, and if details are not furnished it is impossible to have the news in the paper.

The News has been working for several years to get the idea of a community chest across, and it now seems that such a movement will be successfully launched. The need of a central organization is too great at this time to be ignored.

The flag committee of the Lions Club should have the hearty co-operation of each business firm. The need of some sort of uniform street decoration for holidays is felt many times during the year, and there is no better way than by the use of street flags.

The editor of the Claude News urges his readers to invite the editor to all social functions in town or country, regardless of whether he is expected to attend, in order that the paper may have a line-up on the news of the affair. It is true that every social function should be reported to the home paper, as a courtesy to the guests present.

Dr. Tampke deserves most of the credit for the successful poultry show put on in McLean last week, yet there is glory enough to go around, as everything went off smoothly. Those who took advantage of the opportunity to show fine birds will be repaid as the hatching season approaches and they offer eggs and stock for sale. There is no need to go outside the McLean community to find fine stock in any of the standard varieties, and a show brings that fact to light.

That a commission form of city government is needed, no one denies, but it seems difficult to get machinery in motion to make the change. However, the time may come when the citizens will get tired of high taxes and take matters in their own hands. The need of a more modern form of government is no reflection on city officials, as there cannot be the efficiency under old forms of government as can be had under a commission form, as has been proven in many other towns.

Mrs. Nida Green of Heald was in town Saturday.

M. T. Powell of Ramsdell was in McLean Saturday.

Bill Glass of Alanreed was in McLean Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Cubine were in from the ranch Saturday.

The Checker Game
A. J. Doolap

When winter winds began to roar
And snowdrifts deepened at the door
We gathered at the General Store,
And there in neighborly accord
The while the old stove snapped and roared
We placed the checkers on the board.
Then as the blizzard raged without
We moved the rival hosts about
In bold attack or hopeless rout.
O friendly, cozy Home Town Store
I would that I could hear once more
The blizzard raging at your door.
The old stove's cheerful crackling flame,
The old crowd's laughter and acclaim
As someone lost or won a game

BUILDING BY BONUSES

That "bonuses, free taxes, free land or stock certificates" have had little effect on the migration of industrial plants is the interesting conclusion of a survey made by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. In this survey, which covered 2,084 communities, on the location of industries, it was shown that MARKETS ranked first in the list. Labor stood second in importance, and transportation was third.

Just recently the local Chamber of Commerce has received two propositions—a wholesale grocery and hotel—to consider. In each instance, the promoters were not satisfied that the community could support their enterprise, or else they over-estimated our zeal for new industries.

It is the opinion of everyone that Wellington could support a wholesale grocery, and our citizens are expecting one in the near future.

The people of Collingsworth county consume annually over one million dollars of food-stuff, and it is not likely that this needed industry will be overlooked by our jobbing friends. Also, many here believe that money invested in a modern fire-proof hotel will pay ample dividends and are ready to invest in any reliable proposition. Wellington has a number of retail enterprises. These industries were located here because, in the first place, the owner foresaw that a market for his products was assured. They considered, also, the accessibility of the town as a trade center, as well as looking to the future growth and development of the trade territory. These men came of their own accord. No bonuses were requested and none were granted. There is a need for many industries which we do not have, but there is a growing feeling that the town which is forced to "bait" new industries is not ready for new industries. Communities that can support industries seldom have trouble in securing them.—Wellington C. of C. Bulletin.

With the Churches

CHURCH OF THE NAZARENE

W. Hickman, Pastor
 In spite of the fact that the weather has been cold, our services last Sunday were all well attended and the rest and spirit of each service was high. The Sunday school lesson in adult Bible class was so interesting that we failed to get through the discussion of the lesson before the hour had passed. During the morning preaching hour the month of February we will pass the various phases of Christ's Stewardship. Our subject for next day will be "The Stewardships of Text, Luke 16:2: 'Give an account of thy stewardship.' We believe God has given us a message that stir your heart and be a blessing to you. Come help us in the battle this month." Sunday school 10 a. m. Teaching 11 a. m. and 7 p. m. Prayer meeting each Wednesday, 7 p. m.

ST. PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

W. A. Erwin, Minister
 Sunday school 10 a. m., F. H. Bourne, Supt. Morning worship 11 a. m. The communion of the Lord's Supper will be observed. Evening service 7 p. m. The first minutes will be given to a song service. Sunday was a good day. Eleven received into the church, eight baptisms.

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH

B. W. Wilkins, Pastor
 Our services were good, and well attended last Sunday. Services at the usual hours this Sunday. You are invited to worship with us at this time, or any time when you would like to. Morning services at 10 and 11 a. m. Evening worship at 7 p. m.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

D. H. Brynoff, Pastor
 We had very good interest in all our church services last Sunday. We expect to have all the regular church services next Sunday. Our study course was put off until the 16th of February. Let us secure our books and be preparing for this work.

METHODIST W. M. S.

Methodist W. M. S. met at the church Tuesday afternoon in Voice room. The following program was rendered: Devotional—Mrs. Alvah Christian. Scripture lesson, Beatitudes, Matt. 5:1-12. Prayer—Mother Sitter. Offering, Our Finances—Mrs. W. L. Haynes, Mrs. E. E. Dishman and Mrs. Campbell. Missionary News—Mrs. J. H. Wade. Business session led by President Mrs. Alvah Christian. Closing prayer—Mrs. W. L. Haynes. The next meeting will be held at the church, beginning our Bible study. Book, "Roads to the City of God." by Mrs. A. B. Blake. All members are urged to be present for the first lesson. Come, let's make it interesting. J. W. Graham of Pampa, candidate for tax collector, was here Wednesday. Mrs. B. W. Crisp of Alanreed was in town Saturday.

BAPTIST W. M. S.

The east and west side circles met at the church Monday afternoon for quilting, with 20 ladies present, as follows: Mesdames Colebank, Savage, Lochridge, J. W. Burrows, Boyd, Andrews, Appling, Scott, Billingslea, Finley Young, McCarty, Holloway, Wilson, Brynoff, Carpenter, Hugh Kunkel, J. C. Dan and George Abbott. Mrs. Savage led the devotional meeting on the subject of prayer. Mrs. Colebank expressed the society's regrets at losing Mrs. Savage, who will be leaving McLean in a short while. Mrs. Brynoff was presented with a quilt from the society and Mrs. Fowler, the latter giving the top. The next meeting will be held at the church at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon for Bible study and business.

SENIOR B. Y. P. U. ENTERTAINED

Miss Elizabeth Wilkerson was hostess to the members and friends of the Senior B. Y. P. U. at her home last Friday evening. A delightful time was spent in playing games, and refreshments were served to about 25 guests.

CARD OF THANKS

We want to thank our friends and neighbors for their words of sympathy and deeds of kindness during the illness and death of our mother and grandmother, Mrs. L. A. Haynes. We especially want to thank you for the beautiful floral offerings. Words fail to express the depth of our appreciation for the many kindnesses shown us. May God's richest blessings rest on each of you.

MRS. L. A. HAYNES & LADD FAMILIES

HOW TO SUCCEED IN FAILING

In order to make it easy for those who have the habit of failure to succeed quickly in failing, the following recipe is offered and may be applied in unlimited quantities: Believe you will fail; be discourteous to callers; pay no attention to costs; neglect your personal appearance; worry over everything; knock your competitors; never admit you are wrong; be erratic rather than systematic; arrive late and leave early; be unfair to everybody; always be out to salesmen; be ill tempered to all; take two or three hours for lunch; be easily discouraged; be a confirmed pessimist; never work overtime; be self-satisfied; ignore successful men; always be suspicious of everybody; don't advertise; complicate things with red tape; give anybody trade discounts never let your business interfere with pleasure; ask every caller to hurry up; regard promises lightly; believe the public must come to you; complain about everybody and everything. If any little thing has been overlooked in the above prescription it was unintentional. Sometimes erroneous conditions are corrected by the rule of inversion and it is certainly to be hoped that may eventuate after reading the above list of things which assure speedy destruction.—Wisconsin Press Howler.

News from Heald

We are still snowed under out here, after four weeks of cold, snowy weather.

The Missionary Society met at the church Monday afternoon, with 10 present. The Voice program was very interesting.

Mrs. T. C. Landers fell last week and was somewhat hurt. Mr. Landers has been on the sick list the past week.

W. J. Chilton and U. G. Lane were in Wheeler Monday registering cars and paying taxes.

T. F. Phillips was in Shamrock Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ladd spent Monday in the Geo. R. Reneau home.

W. L. Litchfield moved back to his farm Saturday.

A. L. Parks, who has been living on the Litchfield farm, has moved to the Pagan community.

Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Phillips spent Sunday afternoon visiting in the home of Rev. and Mrs. A. J. Jones at Hamrock.

Prof. Wesley Foster and a few other young folk visited a while Saturday in the W. J. Chilton home.

C. H. Harbison and son, Mack, were in McLean Tuesday.

Bill Bailey was in Wheeler Monday on July 20.

Mrs. T. H. Pickett and father, Mr. Redding, visited Mrs. O. L. Derrick in the Gracey community Monday.

This community was saddened last Thursday night when Grandmother Haynes passed away. Louisa Hammock was born in Lincoln county, Missouri, moved to Texas at the age of 13, connected faith in Christ and joined the Missionary Baptist church. At the age of 13 she was married to R. L. Haynes, and joined the Methodist church with him at the age of 19.

Eight children were born to this union, six of whom survive: J. A. Haynes and Mrs. Paul Ladd of this community, A. W. and Fred Haynes of McLean, D. J. Haynes of Granite, Okla., and Mrs. Amie Jay of Stamford. All attended the funeral except A. W. and J. A. Haynes, who were both sick. There are 26 grandchildren, 47 great grandchildren and 3 great great grandchildren. Those from out of town who attended the funeral, other than those above mentioned, were: Arthur Chapman of Stamford, Roy Powell of White Deer, Mrs. C. C. Sloan of Pampa, Mrs. D. J. Haynes and children of Granite, Okla., Will Haynes of Waynoka, Okla., Mr. and Mrs. Kester Rippey of Electra, Rev. A. J. Jones of Shamrock and Rev. B. W. Wilkins of McLean conducted the funeral at the Heald church. Pallbearers were grandsons of the deceased.

ECONOMY OF ADVERTISING

Both from the practical and the theoretical viewpoint, advertising has a staunch defender in William Butterworth, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, as well as the head of one of the country's large manufacturing concerns. "One still hears," he said in a recent address, "the occasional voice of a dissenter charging advertising with wastefulness. That complaint, which, by the way, is similar to those one hears directed against every other line of human endeavor, rarely, if ever, comes from those in business who understand and work with advertising. The charge of wastefulness is true in regard to only a part—a very small part—of modern advertising."

"A business man who thinks advertising is a magic formula is likely to waste his money. But I am convinced that most of the advertising of today is a sincere, informative service which, upon the whole, has the appreciation and confidence of the buying public. It is mass selling in tune with the mass production of today."—Farm Implement News.

REPUBLICANS TO HOLD PRIMARY THIS YEAR

Gray county Republicans are planning to hold their first primary this year, according to V. E. Brunow of Pampa, county chairman.

Nominations will be made at a convention held this spring, and the primary will be held on the same date in July as the Democratic primary.

The law requires that when any party polls 100,000 votes in the state it must nominate a ticket and hold a primary in order to participate in the general election.

The Political Secret

By LILLIAN MOSSELLER

BILL CASSIDY put the cover on his typewriter and closed his desk. Tomorrow the whole world would be let in on what had been a political secret and his paper would be the first to divulge the news because he—Bill Cassidy—had been quick witted and on the job.

Only Bill knew the secret. Only Bill? Well—not quite. He had told his girl in the strictest confidence. She would never tell. Wouldn't she? Sampson had trusted Delilah. Well, this girl was not that sort. She was not a vamp—she was not tricky. She was just a simple, sweet, beautiful—but he was beginning to feel a little uneasy.

Well, he had told her, and that was that. She had not invited his confidence except by her habit of reticence—yet the words of his secret had poured into her ears. She had beauty without vanity—charm without guile—could she keep a secret? Tomorrow the world would know, but today no one must know. A political secret divulged to a woman! A scoop for the press—his scoop! What inherent weakness in him had made him respond to that impulse to tell? He had always been so absolutely sure of his strength where women were concerned.

Yet Sampson had been sure of his strength until Delilah cut off his hair! Was Margaret—lovely Margaret—his Delilah? No. She had not wanted his secret. She was not to blame—she had protested that she did not like secrets—they were a burden to her. Perhaps that was a trick to get it out of him—women—even the best of them—were full of tricks they were born that way! Well, she had gotten it out of him—shame to her! He would go to her. His secret must not be divulged this night! When morning came the news would be broadcast, but he must somehow, some way, keep her from seeing anyone tonight. She had had time—even now to let a word slip—just a few words and he would be ruined. His imagination traveled dark highways.

He had wanted to marry her. He had planned to ask her when the Big News—his political scoop was flashed over the world. Then he would get a raise—then they could marry. But she was a reporter, too. She was on an evening paper—perhaps she had used his—no, he couldn't think that of her—she might let it slip in a feminine, stupid way—but she wouldn't use it to advance herself—wouldn't she? Sampson had trusted Delilah!

He hurried to Washington place where he must walk up six flights of stairs before he could reach her apartment. He stood panting and out of breath as he rang the bell. She did not answer. The bell must have been out of order. He tried the knob. The latch had not caught and the door opened. He stepped into the corridor and paused.

Margaret was in the next room, talking. Only some heavy portieres separated them. He had not intended to stand there and listen but her words electrified him—suddenly there was murder in his heart!

"He told me a secret," he heard her say quite distinctly and she laughed delightedly "He told me a secret." There was a pause. "Tomorrow the whole world will know," her voice was so low he could scarcely hear—"and tonight, only you and I know—except—"

So she had divulged it! Perhaps, why name is Women!

"Darling," she continued in a warm resonant voice. "It is you, I love—you only!" There was a sound of a long kiss. He clinched his fists.

"A wordless thing of beauty, that comes to fill the soul of me. In love, Love that is brought to me by you, dear. Love came not to me until you came. For only you could bring me love."

Bill groaned audibly. She had said the same thing to him with her eyes—that very day.

"Who is there!" she cried in terror.

He flung aside the curtains. She was seated upon the rug in front of the fireplace with the firelight shining on her hair. She was alone. Bill glanced around the room quickly. Had the devil escaped? He looked at the girl who was as still as though she had been turned to stone. She was clasping something to her breast and looking at him in consternation. He stooped and snatched it from her. Then he wilted. His anger left him. He was filled with shame. He knelt beside her. She had been holding his photograph—she had been talking to him.

"Oh, Bill, you heard?" She hid her face on his shoulder. He raised it to his. Her beautiful mouth was soft and responsive and her hair was a golden halo about her head.

"Bill, dear," she told him, when she was able to speak. "I discovered I really loved you when you told me the secret. Most men think women are capable of nothing—but seduction and guile. Bill, it thrilled me through and through to learn that you really trusted me!"

"Oh, Margaret!" Bill looked at her with adoration in his eyes. "Oh, Margaret!"

A CANKEROUS SPOT

It is not the custom of this newspaper to speak in derogatory terms of any Turkey institution. On the other hand, it has been and will be the policy of the Enterprise to boost and push what we have that the world may know of our advantages.

In the matter of public utilities, Turkey has been fortunate. In the West Texas Utilities Company, the Southwestern Sewer Company, and the West Texas Gas Company, Turkey has some fine citizens. They pay their proportionate part toward the development of Turkey and its surrounding territory. They manifest their interest in Turkey in a substantial and appropriate way.

Sad to relate, however, there is one utilities company far in arrears in their share for the betterment of Turkey. In the matter of a telephone company, Turkey has been unfortunate. They hold the minimum membership in the Chamber of Commerce ($1 a month). The State Telephone Company pays not one cent toward the upkeep of a night watchman. They pay out not one penny for advertising in your home town paper as do the other utilities. The only money spent by this corporation is for operators and taxes. On the other hand they draw an income from the subscribers to the service, which at times has bordered on the rotten. It has been the custom of this corporation to print a four page leaflet called a directory on which advertising space is sold for about treble its worth. Then, even this is carried out of town to be printed. Regardless of the bid of the local printer, this leaflet would be printed elsewhere.

Then, to cap the climax, the State Telephone Company houses their exchange in a shack on Main street that is an eyesore to the town. It is a fire trap and a nuisance. They don't care enough for Turkey to build a substantial, decent looking building that would be a credit to them and to the town. Under the Statutes of the State of Texas, the city commissioners could be petitioned to condemn this building and have the police remove it from the fire limits of the city. Officials of the company promised some 12 months ago that some action about a building would be made. What are their promises worth? Unless the State Telephone Company shows some disposition to temper their attitude toward Turkey and its development, it is the opinion of the Enterprise that some action should be taken by the city, and that very shortly.—Turkey Enterprise.

This is the same company as that operating in Clarendon, where we pay a first class price for fourth class service, due to an antiquated equipment that is worn out. Our first-class operators are more than willing, but the company seems disposed to carry on here just as they are in Turkey.—Donley County Leader.

MRS. MILLER FILES SUIT

Pampa, Jan. 27.—Asking for $15,000 damages, Mrs. Lizzie Miller of McLean has filed suit here against Harold English, Amarillo aviator, who was piloting a plane that crashed at McLean Jan. 26, 1928, killing her son, William Miller.

Mrs. Miller, styled as plaintiff in the case, alleges that the "defendant came to the town of McLean in an airplane which was owned, operated and controlled by him, and on said occasion took plaintiff's minor son, William Miller, and a boy by the name of Donal Moring, into the plane for a flying trip, charging the minors for the trip."

Mrs. Miller also alleges that one of the wings of the airplane was split and torn "so as to make it dangerous and hazardous to one riding therein;" that English "stunted, by which is meant that defendant would fly the plane on its side, make sharp turns, do a tail spin, and performed such capers at a low altitude at between 200 and 400 feet, which was exceeding dangerous, and such acts and conduct on the part of the defendant was negligence."

The petition further states that the plaintiff's son was killed instantly when the plane fell, and that he was thrown up against the machinery, engine and equipment.

Mrs. Miller alleges that her son was only 16 years of age and he got into the plane at the request of English, without her knowledge, permission or consent, and that if the defendant had sought her permission she would have denied it. She stated that her son was earning $50 per month at the time of his death and that this sum was being paid to her.

The suit was filed by the law firm of Cook, Smith and Teed.—Pampa Daily News.

The Crippled Lady of Peribonka

By James Oliver Curwood

WNE Service
125 Broadway
Doran & Co., Inc.

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER I—Introducing some of the people of the pretty little French village of Peribonka, northern Louisiana, and heroine of an untold story.

CHAPTER II—How the romance of Frank, sister of the great inventor, Joseph Grant, and Sir William Johnson, in pre-revolutionary times came down to today with the death of a son, Paul, to Molly Kierke, a powerful New York financier.

CHAPTER III—Paul's wife is in a "horrible woods" in the mountains of Europe, with her daughter, the Crippled Lady, and her work of educating the village children.

A few minutes later the mother welcomed him from her half near window, from which she could see Carla's school. Carla had taken her hat and coat. A new spirit had entered the house with her. She was smiling, kissed her mother, chirped a few notes to a bird in a cage as she went for a moment into the kitchen. What a magnificent sight! The cottage was filled with birds and flowers. Out where Carla had set a canny warbling vireo on a cushion of Mrs. Haldan's feet. In a small grate a fire was burning. Contentment and happiness had not the shadow of death, seemed triumphant about him.

Mrs. Haldan was the son of this age. Twenty-five years in America had taken from her the ruggedness of her native mountains but had left the spirit of their beauty. She looked at Paul with the same eyes that Carla had. Her hair was heavy like Carla's and almost white. Paul had a vision of her back in her mountains, a quarter of a century before. How much she must have looked like Carla then. What beauty grew in those out of the way places, like flowers lost in rugged rock crevices, with ages of history and the struggle of life behind it to give it character. A beauty with indelible memories along with other things. Memory of love, most of all. He knew that Carla's father had died twenty years before, but one could always see him clearly in the eyes of Carla's mother, and when she talked about him it was as though he had gone away on a little visit only yesterday.

Carla would be like that. One love and one, forever.

There was no pretense in her mother's gladness that he had come. They visited for an hour, and Carla made tea and served little cakes.

How had Paul seen Carla so beautiful during this wonderful hour he spent with her mother. When he was about to leave, and stood with her alone for a few moments, it seemed to him he could feel the throbbing of her body near him. Her fingers pressed his hand, a little convulsively when he said good-by.

"You have made me happier than I have been in a long time," she said. The words repeated themselves in his mind after he had gone. No woman had ever told him that he had made her happy, except his mother, Carla, and his mother. He took a long walk in the rain—up through the jack pines into the heavier evergreen timber, where the drizzle penetrates only in a mist—and the two women waited at his side. Then his wife joined them. Three wonderful women, his mother, Carla, his wife—with a fourth waiting for death back in her country. The world must forever be glad to be beautiful with such women in it. It was Claire, his wife, who turned him about and took him back to her own home. He talked about her that evening. But he said nothing about the other three. They were locked in his heart, and it seemed impossible to open the door upon them.

CHAPTER IV

The next day was Saturday and Paul started for Peribonka early in the morning with Carla. Bad weather never way at last to glorious sunshine and warmth. He had the rain-soaked sand and mud on a horse and buggy new. Carla was different had grown overnight. Her beauty which had been into her face when he was a child, her mother had not disappeared. It was so tender and serene. She seemed nearer to him, in some more dependent than yesterday. He thought if there could be such a thing as that emotion left in her life.

They crossed the great blueberry "burns," with miles and miles of flat wild country about them, reaching toward the lake on one side and the timbered wilderness on the other. Only at wide intervals was there a habitant's home, and they met no one on the sticky road. Even this barrenness Paul loved. He talked to Carla about the country. All nature, no matter how desolate it might appear to others, was beautiful to him, he said. Nature could not make a desolation that was not beautiful, and never was there a harsh note in his handiwork. Because most humans could not see the beauty and pathos of a fireblackened stub or the enchanting mystery of a dormant pine was not proof that Nature had made an error. It was merely evidence that most human eyes were blind.

In a sandy place he got out and cut bushes weighted heavily with blueberries, and they plucked the luscious fruit from the same stems and ate it as they rode along. It was almost happiness. Only the grim thing shadowing them kept it from being that, and even this shadow seemed to fold its wings for flashing moments. It grew warm, and with the habit of her mother's people, Carla bared her head to let the air sit in her hair. Paul looked at it with the restless desire in him growing stronger. It was always so smooth and soft with its silky coils so gracefully flitting her head that it seemed a lock of something precious not to touch its beauty. He thought of what Emily Belle had told her husband of the love story in Carla's life. Some man had loved it. Some man had put his hand upon it. As their road came into green timber and he listened to Carla's voice telling him that in her own heart was a love for Nature so true that she would never live in a city again he wondered what it was that had spoiled her romance so that she would never care for any other man or marry.

They came to Peribonka, and Maria Chapdelaine set them a luncheon in the old-fashioned little dining room overlooking her garden, with its luxuriant array of vegetables and flowers. She admired Carla, and brought in a little girl she had adopted to show her what loveliness one might come to possess if one lived right. Carla was a bit embarrassed, and Paul delighted by such ardent and frankly spoken approval. Samuel Chapdelaine, tall thin and the main prop of Peribonka's church choir, joined them at the table for a visit, and after a time Paul took him aside and explained his mission. They went up the street together, and when they returned the business was over. The small square of ground with its wild honeysuckle vines belonged to Carla.

He took her to see it after they said good-by to the Chapdelaines, and when they stood over it, looking down at the river, he saw tears in Carla's eyes for the first time since he had known her. She made no attempt to hide them or wipe them away when she smiled her gratitude at him. He held out his hand, and she gave him her own. He held it for a few moments and neither broke the silence which fell between them as they walked down the foot-worn path and through the pocket gate.

An impulse which neither attempted to voice held them for a time in Peribonka. They went down to the river's edge and stood where they could see the birds splashing water over themselves on the sandbars. They saw the dumpy little twice-a-week boat from across the lake in loading goods for the villagers and habitants at its dilapidated wharf on the opposite shore, close to the wharfside was a shelter. They could see the cross from where they stood with the sun shining on it.

When they were ready to go Paul felt as if he were leaving something in Peribonka just as the warmth of Carla's hand had left something in his heart. Carla Peribonka, the little plot of ground—they would be an unforgettable as Mrs. Haldan's memories. He thought of this as they rode back through the afternoon. He thought of it later when he stood in his office again and looked down upon the smash and grind of machinery in the pit. It troubled him and made him restless and uneasy. This day burned deeply into his life, seemed unreal now that it was over. It was as if an experience had turned into a dream, a thing of a few minutes in a great of hours.

The friendly, faintly smiling gaze of his wife followed him about the room. He answered her letter that evening, and in his pages to her his freshly roused emotions found their voice. He told about the tragedy in Carla's life, of their journey to Peribonka, and of the little plot of ground in the cemetery. Writing in his office with his wife's face looking at him it was not difficult for him to let his floods pour out, just as he had in peached them once or twice before. It was his six years of married life with her. He was a man, wanting a woman. He wanted his wife. He did not want her in Europe or Egypt or waiting for him in a palace at home. He wanted her with him. He told her this tenderly as a man could write to a woman. It was a letter of love, a man's hope of visions—to his wife, Carla was the inspiration of it. He sealed and addressed the letter, and put it in the company's mail. What a glory life would be if his wife would come at last! He had painted a picture for her in the letter, his golden beauty, a part of the blue open sky, a thing near and wonderful for him to have. But when he went out into the night and looked at the row of lighted cottages on the hill he thought of Carla, and a yearning to be near her possessed him again.

This impulse bewildered him. He went to his bachelor quarters and tried to read. One by one the houses grew dark. Still he endeavored to make his books and magazines interest him. Never had his nerves been more sleeplessly alert, and their obduracy persisted after he had undressed and gone to bed. Something kept him awake—an incessant stream of things passing through his mind detached, illogical, unreasonable and always bringing him back in one way or another to Carla and her mother.

He got up and dressed. It was as yet midnight. Over the pit hung an illumination which reached up into the sky like the glow from a volcano. He turned down the electric path and was soon among the men. No one was on the job who did not know him even in the night shifts. Many of them spoke to him tonight, but their friendliness failed to wipe away the disquiet of mind which had compelled him to get out of bed. He looked at his watch and found it was midnight when he reached the far end of the workings. A gravel-made road led to the forest trail higher up, and he took this road out of the pit.

After a little he came to the row of cottages. There was a light in the Haldan home, and he found himself wondering what Carla did with the long nights in which she waited for the coming of death. Was it possible for her to sleep? Or did she sit alone through dragging hours watching her mother praying for the day? He stopped at the gate to the pocket fence which enclosed her flower garden, and his ears caught a sound which did not come from the pit. It was like a cry. He opened the gate quietly and went in. A window was open somewhere, and he could hear clearly a voice that was sobbing. It was Carla! No one else in the cottage could be crying like that—surely not Carla's mother. His heart thumped against his ribs. His breath came a little short. He went to the door and knocked against it gently. Then more boldly. Some one came, and the door opened. He entered and stood beside

It Was Carla! No One Else in the Cottage Could Be Crying Like That.

Carla. She had not been in bed, had not undressed. She was as he had left her hours before except that her face and eyes were stricken with a grief that terrified him. Then in the dim light, a miracle happened. She smiled at him through tears. "I was hoping for you," she said. "I was passing—board von crying—" (Continued next week)

50 horsepower six cylinder engine

Not until you drive the new Chevrolet Six can you appreciate what a wonderful improvement has been made in its famous six-cylinder valve-in-head engine. With its capacity increased to 50 horsepower, it has great reserve energy for sweeping up the steepest hills—for swift acceleration—and for sustained high speeds. Its power flows evenly and smoothly. And it is extremely flexible in traffic. In fact—it does everything you could possibly want a motor to do. Yet it is remarkably economical in its use of gasoline and oil. Come in today for a demonstration.

Trainloads of FARMALLS Going Everywhere

This is the Most Useful!
Most Popular Tractor!

Besides the Farmall we also have the popular McCormick-Deering 15-30 and 10-20 (3-Plow and 2-Plow)

NO wonder this tractor is popular—the McCormick-Deering Farmall for the first time gives the farmer a real purpose tractor. It is ideal power for all crops, fields, all jobs, and all the time. There is no other season for the Farmall.

The Farmall is the ideal tractor for every power machine in its power range—whether it runs by drawbar, belt, or power take-off. Its short turn wide tread, extra-high row clearance, and the special features of design fit it perfectly for planting and cultivating of corn and cotton and other row crops.

FARM WITH A FARMALL! The Farmall and its equipment will show you a better, handier, more economical, and more profitable way to farm. Ask us to demonstrate it for you on a piece of ground 20 by 40 feet, and working with a mower or cultivator. Climb on the seat yourself and drive the Farmall. You will see why it is popular.

We will be glad to give a free demonstration on your own farm if you are interested.

One man with a Farmall can intensively farm up to 200 acres. It replaces 6 to 10 horses and 2 to 3 men. It plows two perfect furrows and it can't be beat at the belt. Its capacity for work is astonishing—plowing 7 to 9 acres a day, double-disking 18 to 25 acres, drilling up to 45 acres, planting 50 acres, cultivating 30 to 50 acres, mowing 50 to 60 acres, and doing other work in proportion. And it is the easiest tractor to handle on the market.
