Residence Street Paving Bids Asked

Commissioners Delay Action County-Wide Road Bonds

BOND ISSUE DELAY

Errors in Big Issue Pointed out by Court

Complying with the request of citizens who signed the petition for the county-wide bond issue that their attorneys be allowed to draw up the order for the election, the county commissioners postponed action until today (Thursday), at Monday's session of the commissioners court.

An analysis of the petition led the commissioners to believe that there are defects in the description of the roads for which the issue would provide paving. The McLean-Pampa road would not connect with the present paving, and according to Commissioner Newman, several miles of Highway 66 would not be included in the issue.

The commissioners did not wish to call an election, it is claimed, until they learned whether these defects were placed in the petition intentionally or by mistake. They said that the attorney who drew the petition would probably correct or explain what are apparently errors.

DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE MAKES UP BALLOTS

The Democratic committee of Gray county drew names for the first primary ballots at its annual session at Pampa Monday, with chairman Siler Faulkner presiding. Names of the various candidates were placed in a box and drawn, to be placed on the ballots in the order drawn.

GOLF TOURNAMENT SUNDAY

Members of the Shamrock Golf Club will play against members of the local club on the McLean course next Sunday. The event is a good will affair and a return engagement, the McLean team playing at Shamrock a few Sundays ago.

MISS FLORENCE REED OF FOSS, OKLA., IS VISITOR

Miss Florence Reed of Foss, Okla., is a visitor in the A. A. Callahan home.

MR. AND MRS. GAYLORD HODGES OF BETHANY, OKLA., VISITED

Bentley Elected Director Highway 66 Association

M. D. Bentley was elected to the board of directors of the Texas 66 Highway Association formed at Shamrock Wednesday. J. W. Knorrp of Groom was elected president, W. W. Chilton of Amarillo secretary, E. F. Elms, Alanreed director, Paul Reeves Jericho, John Frazer Boydston, C. L. Ledwig Groom, Judge W. F. Palmer Amarillo, with others from each town on the route.

The purpose of the organization is to see that the highway is paved through Texas as soon as possible, staying exactly within the rules of the State highway department, and recommending that the commissioners courts furnish full 100 feet right-of-way.

The organization will be subsidiary to the National Highway 66 organization, and an appropriation of $500 was made to the national body, McLean and Alanreed's quota being set at $50 each, of which Alanreed's part is already paid in.

Guy Hill acted as temporary president at the meeting. The next meeting will be held Friday, June 27, at the Amarillo Hotel, at which time the president and secretary will present draft of constitution and by-laws.

LUNCH SERVED AT SHAMROCK, COMPLIMENTARY TO VISITORS

Bonus Raised for Oil Supply House at McLean

A paper was circulated this week pledging business men for a bonus to locate an oil supply house in McLean.

The bonus is expected to approximate $1,000, and the money is not to be used unless a house is located here.

It is understood that oil operators in the McLean field are anxious for a supply house here, and as the bridges north of town make the roads passable at all times, it should not be difficult to secure attention from oil supply firms.

CARY FOR COUNTY JUDGE

The News is authorized to carry the name of C. E. Cary as a candidate for county judge, subject to the action of the Democratic primary in July.

Judge Cary has been a citizen of Gray county for the past 25 years, and is now Justice of the Peace of Precinct No. 2 at Pampa. He says if favored with election he will devote his entire time to the study and needs of the office. He says: "Sovereignty reposes in the people, and not in those in public office. A public official is a public servant, and should at all times be subservient to the will of the people."

"If elected to the office of county judge, I shall strenuously endeavor to acquaint myself with the will of the people of Gray county, and exercise the duties imposed upon me accordingly."

"In office or out of office: 'I stand pledged for a good and efficient system of public education. I believe the people of Gray county heartily approve of a wise program of education for the youth of our country, realizing that progress is made throughout the land by and through education."

"I stand pledged for reducing taxes to the lowest possible figure compatible with the progress of this—one of the best counties of the State of Texas."

"I stand pledged for the most careful consideration in expending the funds of our county. Every move involving the expenditure of public money should be thoroughly considered before final adoption. Those charged with such expenditure should seek the counsel and advice of the best and most experienced talent."

"I stand pledged for the heartiest co-operation of all those having to do with the affairs of the public. I believe that good will, harmony and co-operation are necessary elements of a constructive program of progress. Useless friction, promulgated by selfish motives, works destruction, and robs the public of the benefit of the best efforts of its servants."

"I stand pledged for harmony, good will and progress, and a sound, far-sighted business administration."

The News is glad to present Judge Cary's claims to the voters and bespeak careful consideration at the polls.

METHODIST-PRESBYTERIAN REVIVAL IN PROGRESS

The Methodist-Presbyterian revival is now in its second week, holding services at the big tent in the city park to large and appreciative audiences each night.

Rev. "Jimmie" Smith takes a firm stand in what he believes to be right and delivers his messages in a convincing and entertaining manner. He holds seven college diplomas and has a large and varied vocabulary that is a delight to his hearers. He has had many years experience in this line of work and decries the modern "trend toward so-called 'churbanity' as against old-time Bible religion."

Prof. and Mrs. R. G. Fraser have charge of the music, and their special numbers have been well received. They also have charge of the young people's work.

According to present plans, the meeting will continue all next week, closing Sunday night, June 29. Everyone is extended a welcome to attend all services, regardless of church affiliation.

CANADIAN BOOSTERS HERE TOMORROW

Some 15 or 20 cars, accompanied by the Canadian concert band, will visit McLean at 1 o'clock p. m. Friday in a good will tour of this section.

The trip is sponsored by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, and a large number of Canadian business firms will be represented with novelties to distribute advertising their business and the 8th annual Anvil Park rodeo to be held July 4 and 5.

WAKEMAN FOR COUNTY JUDGE

To the voters of Gray county: I have no apology to make in running for the office of county judge of Gray county. No gang, clique, group, sect, denomination or organization has requested or urged me to run for this office.

I am not under any kind of promise or obligation to a person in the world except my own conscience. I am not obligated in any way to give out special favors, and if elected, I shall not do so.

I have entered this campaign in the belief that every citizen has a right to aspire to public office and I offer myself to you as a candidate free from an entangling alliance or pre-election promises. I will be fair and honest in the discharge of the duties of the office, and I guarantee the same fair and equal treatment to every person in every matter.

I am 48 years of age, licensed to practice before the United States courts and all of the courts of the State of Texas. I have practiced law continuously for 24 years. I have my office at Room 10 Duncan Building, Pampa. My wife, daughter, son and I live at No. 211 North Ward street, Pampa.

It seems needless for me to make a lot of long campaign statements and promises. Every conceivable question that could arise concerning a county judge can be covered by two words—FAIRNESS and HONESTY. These two things I promise you and no one can give you more.

If elected to this office, I pledge myself to be true to my country, my state, my community and to my OATH OF OFFICE. I feel that a fair and honest man can promise and deliver no more, and that a public official should do no less.

I submit myself to your fair consideration.

Respectfully,
DON L. WAKEMAN.

Postmaster and Mrs. John B. Vanvoey left Saturday for a visit with relatives at Throckmorton.

Mrs. L. W. Wilson and daughters and niece, Miss Doris Ruff, have returned from a visit in California.

Lions Elect New Officers Tuesday Lunch

The McLean Lions Club elected officers for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1930, at the regular weekly luncheon held at the Bingham Cafe Tuesday.

In some cases several ballots were taken before any one candidate received a majority for the office sought.

Following is the result of the election: President, Boyd Meador; first vice president, Dr. H. M. Coleman; second vice president, I. S. Cohen; secretary-treasurer, Reep Landers; Lion tamer, Sherman White; tall twister, T. W. Gilstrap; directors, S. M. Hodges, W. E. Bogan. Hold over directors are T. A. Landers and Boyd Meador.

SMALL CLUB OPENS OFFICE AT CITY HALL

The Small for Governor Club has opened an office at the city hall, where Miss Dorothy Cantrell has been employed as stenographer and assistant to the secretary, and will be in the office each afternoon where friends of Senator Small may have letters written and mailed to friends over the state without cost.

T. J. Coffey, secretary of the club, states that a full complement of campaign supplies will be kept on hand and friends should feel free to call at any time.

WEDGEWORTH FOR SHERIFF

Chas. Wedgeworth of Pampa authorizes us to carry his announcement as a candidate for sheriff of Gray county subject to the action of the Democratic primary in July.

Mr. Wedgeworth has been in Gray county some five or six years and has had two years experience as a peace officer, as well as three years service in the U. S. Army. He is a member of the Law and Order League of Gray county, and promises if favored with election to give the people of this county a clean administration. He states that he is a life-long prohibitionist, that he favors the enforcement of all laws, and will do all in his power to see that every law in the statute books is enforced during his term of office.

Mr. Wedgeworth is a member of several lodges, is manager of the Jitney Jungle Market at Pampa, and says his record as a citizen is open to anyone who wishes to inform themselves as to his qualifications.

Mr. Wedgeworth will speak to the McLean voters in some auditorium at an early date, full announcement of which will be made later. He says that the questions he will discuss are of interest to the mothers and fathers and every citizen of the county.

PIANO RECITAL SUNDAY

Mrs. Willie Boyett will present her piano class in recital next Sunday afternoon at the high school auditorium. Solos and ensemble numbers will be given by different members of the class.

The program will begin at 4 p. m. and probably last until 5:30. Mrs. Boyett states that if there are those who cannot stay for the entire program, they are welcome to come for a part of it.

The program is free to the public and everyone is invited to attend.

CITY TO PAVE RES. STREETS

Four Types Paving Asked in Call for Bids

Acting upon a petition presented by a majority of the property owners affected, the city council has asked for bids on four different types of street paving, one of which will be used on North Main street, beginning at the present pavement, extending north one block and then west on Third street to the top of the hill in front of the J. S. Morse residence.

The notice for bids, published on another page, calls for bids on grading, draining, curbing, guttering, paving and other improvements on the streets affected.

The four types of paving are asked for in order that the council and property owners may decide just what is best suited to the work at the price asked. It is understood that a type of paving will be used that will be considerably cheaper than the present paving in the business district.

COTTON PRICES DIP TO NEW LOW LEVELS

Courtesy J. E. Lynch
Weak textile, falling off of domestic consumption, no improvement in export movement and favorable weather throughout the cotton belt seem to have brought about new low prices since this date last week.

New York October futures closed Wednesday at 1280 as compared with 1370 last Wednesday, with a net loss of 95 points. Comparatively speaking, this would be around 12c for basis middling  $\frac{1}{8}$  cotton at McLean.

ONLY 27 UNEMPLOYED WORKERS IN MCLEAN

According to figures just released by the supervisor of census for this district, McLean reported only 27 unemployed workers, and the J. P. precinct outside the city only 19. Other parts of precinct 4, 20.

The total unemployed in Gray county is given as 695, with 410 at Pampa and 75 in the J. P. precinct outside Pampa. Lefors reported 144.

These figures represent persons usually working at a gainful occupation who were reported out of a job, able to work and looking for a job, and will be supplemented later by those who had a job but were sick or temporarily laid off when the census was taken.

CITY ADOPTS FIRE ORDINANCE

The city council of McLean has adopted the standard fire ordinance recommended by the State Fire Insurance Commission for the restricted district, full text of which appears on another page.

The former ordinance in effect was deemed faulty in some respects, and the new ordinance was adopted to correct all defects.

MASONS ELECT OFFICERS

At the annual election of officers held last week by the McLean Lodge A. F. and A. M., the following were named for the ensuing fiscal year: Roy McCracken W. M., F. H. Bourland S. W., G. A. Nicholson J. W., N. A. Greer treasurer, J. W. Burrows secretary, J. E. Kirby tyler.

Miss Louise Miller of Pampa, candidate for district clerk, visited McLean voters this week.

Mrs. Jack Gray and little daughter of Dalhart visited relatives last week end.

PRESERVING EGGS FOR WINTER

By Home Demonstration Agent

In this section of Texas eggs may be preserved for home use by the water glass method. Fifteen cent eggs may be preserved now for fall and winter use.

Only infertile eggs that are fresh, sound of shell, and clean, should be used. Use one quart of water glass (sodium silicate) to nine quarts of water that has been boiled and cooled. Place mixture in a five gallon stone jar and place eggs in solution, being careful to allow at least two inches of solution to cover the eggs. Place the crock in a cool dry place and cover the top with wax paper, tightly tied on, to prevent evaporation. If marketed, such eggs should be sold as "water glass eggs."

WHEELER CO. DRESS CONTEST

By Club Reporter

Women still sew in Wheeler county. For several years the home demonstration club women and girls of Wheeler county have had a clothing contest.

Saturday morning there were over 120 dresses in Miss Viola Jones, county home demonstration agent's office, neatly pressed and labeled, ready to be judged. Ninety-seven of the dresses were made by women and the remainder by 4-H club girls.

Miss Jones has sixteen women's clubs, and all entered dresses. Heald entered fourteen dresses. Their club membership is eighteen. They were awarded a club theatre party by a Shamrock theatre for the largest entry based on membership.

In the afternoon the women and girls donned the frocks to parade before the large audience that packed the Wheeler county district court room, and the judges made their final score on the appearance of the dresses on contestants.

Women's dresses featured various materials, with tailored lines. The girls' dresses were divided into three classes: girls under fourteen, and the 4-H appropriate dress contest for girls between the ages of fourteen and twenty.

The 4-H appropriate dress contest is a state-wide club feature for girls each year, being divided into two classes. The first is a school dress costume and the second class an afternoon or party dress. The winner of each class in the county will be sent to the state short course at A. & M. College July 28 to August 1.

to compete in the state contest. The girls who won are: Misses O'Neal of Lela, class 1, and Davidson of Ramsdell, class 2.

The club women making the best dress will also be given a trip to the state short course. Prizes were also given by business men.

The quantity of clothing in no way exceed the design and high quality workmanship.

Southwestern PUBLIC SERVICE Company
T. W. Gilstrap, Manager

A FORD owner in New York tells of a 13,000-mile trip across the United States and back in sixty days and says "the car was extremely economical to operate, comfortable and speedy." A grateful father tells how the Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield saved his wife and children from serious injury.

To test tires, a large company drove a new Ford day and night, for an average of 500 miles every twenty-four hours. It was still giving satisfactory service after 105,000 miles.

A Ford car that had fallen into Fernan Lake was submerged for twelve days before being raised. After a new battery and carburetor bowl were installed, it was driven back to Spokane under its own power.

Many police departments have written of the special advantages of the Ford in crowded traffic because of its alert speed, acceleration, and ease of control. An increasing number of fleet owners are also purchasing the Ford because their cost figures have given conclusive proof of its economy of operation and up-keep.

In addition to important triumphs in Germany, France and Italy, the Ford won six out of seven leading places in a contest in Finland, first and second in the Rafaela races in Argentina, first and second in the run from Copenhagen-to-Paris-to-Copenhagen, three gold medals in England, first ranking in the durability test over the tortuous Amancaes road in Peru, and first place in the 1930 reliability run conducted by the Royal Automobile Club of Sweden.

This contest was an exceptionally severe test of endurance and sturdy construction because it was held in the dead of winter and covered 600 miles of steady running over snow-covered country roads and mountainous hills.

 In the absence of the Sunbeam leader, no meeting was held.

ROAD INJUNCTION AT LATER DATE

Hearing on the temporary injunction to join the state highway commission from routing Highway 66 through the B. T. Watt property was postponed Saturday, pending the arrival of an attorney from the state attorney general's department; according to a statement of Judge Clifford Braley of the 114th district court at Pampa.

The court granted the postponement at the request of the county commissioners.
 Meanwhile, the order restraining the commission from building the road through Mr. Watt's property remains in effect.

WOLVES MUST BE KILLED

A new law that went into effect recently requires that all wolves captured must be killed. It is now a violation of law to catch a wolf and turn it loose, nor can the animal be transported unless it be by a person who is a county officer or licensed trainer of a circus or zoo. Then the wolf may be used for educational and scientific purposes only; otherwise it must be killed.
 The penalty for violation of the law carries a penitentiary sentence of from six months to five years.

The tourist guide was getting tired. He had to answer too many dumb questions. "And just where did you say this rock came from?" inquired another wahoo. The guide politely lied that a glacier brought it down. Then spoke up the inquisitive one again: "And where did the glacier go?"
 "Aw," said the guide, "it went back after another rock."

A city man crawled over a fence only to find himself in a pasture with a vicious looking bull.

TIME FOR AN ALIBI

The Justice of the Peace in a town in Ohio, in pursuance of his duties, had to hear and judge cases that were brought before him, and also perform occasional marriage ceremonies. He found it difficult to dissociate the various functions of his office. Everything had gone smoothly until he had asked one bride: "Do you take this man to be your husband?" The bride nodded emphatically. "And you," said the Justice, turning to the bridegroom, "what have you to say in your own defense?"—Chicago News.

A young banker, after eight years of absence, alighted at the station of his birth. There was no one on the platform whom he knew. No one. Discouraged, he sought out the baggage master, a friend since boyhood. To him at least he would be welcome, and he was about to extend a hearty greeting, when the other poked first.
 "Hello, George," he said. "Goin' away?"

Mistress—"I hope you realize, Mary, that matrimony is a serious matter."
 Maid (about to be married)—"Oh, yes, mum. I ain't one to marry reckless like. I've been to two fortune tellers and a clairvoyant, and looked in a sign book, and dreamed on a lock of his hair, and been to a palmist. And they all say it's all right."

Yewell—"So old Moneybag's daughter married a poet. Did the old man do anything for the couple?"
 Yingling—"He set the poet up in business."
 Yewell—"In business?"
 Yingling—"Yes. He bought him $1,000 worth of stamps."

The man with money to burn usually has a hot time.

Summer is the picnic time of the year, and there are profits in sunshine that are not always thought of when planning an outing in the open. Sunshine and the open air mean health and attractiveness, thereby adding to one's efficiency and usefulness. There are countless benefits for all who are fortunate enough to mingle with the all-outdoors.

The city of Shamrock published their regular balance sheet in the Shamrock Texan last week, which should be interesting reading to the citizens of Shamrock. Listed among their assets is an item of $167.50 for park shade trees. This is one thing that should not show any depreciation from year to year, but rather increase in value.

The News has been careful to refrain from expressing an opinion as to what is desired by the voters of this precinct in the matter of a county-wide bond issue, for the reason that we have had no meeting of any kind in which any considerable number of people could have expressed their opinion. The News has reported the opinion of several individuals who have expressed themselves in meetings called by outside people, and has not injected any editorial comment, as is our custom—reserving all editorial comment for this column. While The News is, perhaps, in better position to know what is wanted here than any individual, it is still too early in the game to express an opinion as to what the people on this side of the county want. There are plenty of individuals who have an opinion, and one is as good as another until the matter is in a more crystallized state than at present.

"Why don't you carve it, dear?" asked his wife. "You know exactly how to do it."

"Of course I do, my love," the man answered, "but I can't find any of the dotted lines."

THE THINGS UNSEEN

At the end of their first week in business the owners of a little shop lowered the curtains of their windows and went home.

On each succeeding Saturday night the curtains were pulled down and kept down until Monday morning.

As the little shop grew, the suggestion came from many sources that the curtains should stay up. "The windows are beautiful," people said. "Let us walk by and look."

The owners had an old-fashioned background. They had been taught in childhood that six days are enough for the things that are seen. The first day of the week, they said, is for the things unseen—rest and worship, and family life, and freedom from thoughts of business.

Seventy-five years have passed. The store has grown until its windows are said to be more valuable than any windows in the world. But the example of the founders remains, and all day Sunday the shades are drawn.

Is this old-fashioned custom good, in days when so many old-fashioned customs are being crowded out? We like to think so. We like the idea that on the first day of the week the church and the home should come first.

Strong churches and strong homes build strong cities. All the great words of business—service and courtesy and kindness and truth—have their inspiration in religion. And prosperity is only permanent where there is reverence, and mutual trust, and faith.—Statement of Marshall Field and Company, of Chicago.

Irate Dad—"All right. I'll now attend to the thrashing."

PLANTING BY THE MOON

Sowing, reaping, breeding, butchering, shearing and other farm activities are regulated by many according to the "light" or "dark" of the moon. Such practices are foolish, and only relics of the Dark Ages, according to the Department of Agriculture.

Farming according to the moon has no support from any scientific point of view, as the moon has no influence on animals, the weather or the soil, though many old sayings have led people into superstitious beliefs regarding it. In France, before the Revolution, there was a law forbidding the cutting of trees between the new moon and the full moon.

Like many other fallacies which have gained wide currency among various people, these fanciful ideas are giving way before the investigations of science, but ages must yet elapse, perhaps, before superstition shall be entirely eradicated from the minds of men.—Wellington Leader.

ZONING NEEDED

Driving through many of the better towns of the State, one inevitably sees unsightly buildings in residential sections, oftentimes finding negro barber shops, cafes and restaurants in streets which, while not exactly the choicest parts of the business portion of the town, still are too favorably located to be placed in the discard, and should not be cluttered with such shacks as negro business houses usually are. After such a condition is had, it is usually a difficult matter to remedy things. There is one thing which the leaders of all town building should look after and that is zoning before a town gets off. Having certain districts for certain kinds of enterprises, and passing ordinances enforcing such restriction will keep things in systematic order. There are in every town people who are able to build a certain class of residence who would like to have that kind of homes built exclusively where they invest their money. That is right, and proper, unless the zoning system has been inaugurated there is nothing to keep the fellow with but little money and little pride from erecting a two-story shack next to a mansion. This kind of landscape ruination can result in but one thing, and that is to detract from the general attractiveness of the city or town in which such practice prevails. There are many in Texas, where, in the early days, proprietors of perfectly legitimate businesses, but businesses which do not rightfully belong in a residential section, have purchased lots in areas later developed into the most desirable residential section of the town, and they operate these enterprises regardless of what they do to the civic part of the town. The law of cause and effect is inexorable; hence the way of remedying defects in best done by preventing these defects to be put into effect in the first place. There is no way known to the builders of beautiful towns, custom—both business and residential—than the zoning system. It seems to be the one and only way of pleasing everyone along this line.—Feddah Post.

GETTING ALONG WITH FOLKS

If each of us could go away off and live by himself, if we could be entirely independent of everyone else in the world—in short, if people didn't have to live together—life would be a much simpler thing. Because the old world doesn't wag that way, and everybody is tied up with and dependent upon everybody else, this thing of living with folks is a highly complex business requiring considerable tact and finesse. In the struggle for existence and pursuit of happiness in which all of us are engaged, a great deal depends on our relations with our fellow men. We can't succeed who cannot work smoothly with other men. So it follows that of all the useful arts men may set themselves to master, none is more important than the gentle art of getting along with folks and winning friends. "If I were asked to advise young fellows who want to get ahead in business," remarked a successful old man the other day, to a group of young business men in a club, "I would simply say, 'Make friends.' 'Keep skid chains on your tongue; always say less than you think. Cultivate a low persuasive voice. How you say it often counts for more than what you say.'"—Staley Journal.

BUSINESS MEN BACKING ANTI-PARKING ORDINANCES

Time was when business houses were sensitive to further parking restrictions, fearing they might injure trade. But modern business men have discovered that traffic congestion resultant from weak parking restrictions is very much worse and in many cities the influence back of tighter restrictions comes from owners of stores, hotels and other business places. The experience of many towns and cities has proved that permitting automobile owners to park all day on busy thoroughfares is a real source of reduced patronage.

IN MEMORIAM

Bonita Peters was born in Muskogee, Okla., Nov. 29, 1914. She was adopted by J. E. Peters when just an infant, and remained with him under his kind and loving protection until her death, which occurred June 12, 1930.

Untimely illness called Bonita from the walks of life. Tho she fought bravely, and friends, nurses and doctors worked earnestly and parents labored for her recovery, it all seemed in vain.

While Bonita's life was short in point of years, something more than fifteen, yet full were these years. She was a dreamer, a poet and an artist. Naturally she inherited from her ancestors of Choctaw Indian blood some dispositions not common to everyone. She had more than the ordinary appreciation of the birds with their many colors, of the winds with their many messages, and of the many kinds of beautiful sunsets.

And even more noticeable was her appreciation of many of the fundamental truths of life. After going to the sanitarium, she spent much of her time in writing and in gathering together pictures and such clippings as would portray her thoughts and feelings.

Her chief desire was to be well. Confinement was against her nature. But this desire to be well was not altogether selfish. She regretted to have anyone worry about her. Consequently she was always cheerful and hopeful. She had a concern for those about her, and while in the hospital always wished for the best for everyone whom she knew.

Some of her poems, "My Desire," "Life," and "Grandmother," speak greater truths about herself than this writer can point out, for in them may be seen her deeper feelings.

Bonita died triumphantly, a believer in Christ. Her friends and loved ones will ever cherish the memory of such a child.

THE MAN WHO COUNTS

It is not the critic who counts; not the man who points out how the strong man stumbled, or where the door of deeds could have done better. The credit belongs to the man who is actually in the arena; whose face is marred by dust and sweat and blood; who strives valiantly; who errs and comes short again and again because there is no effort without error and shortcoming; who does actually strive to do the deeds; who knows the great enthusiasms, the great devotions, spends himself in a worthy cause; who at the best knows in the end the triumph of high achievement; and who at the worst, if he fails, at least fails while daring greatly, so that his place shall never be with those cold and timid souls who knew neither victory nor defeat.—Theodore Roosevelt.

"For Better Values"

Easy Pickings for the Burglar

By NELLIE R. GATES

THE Livingston-Smiths' living room was their pride and joy, being the only perfect example of modernism in the Radnor Park apartments. It had been done by a decorator and the space composition was such that if one moved a single thing one inch to right or left the whose scheme was ruined.

The Livingston-Smiths were spending this evening at the country club and the apartment was in darkness. Suddenly a scraping noise bit into the silence and a long ray of light swept the room as a typical "movie" burglar swung in through the window. The flashlight picked out each article of furniture, the raspberry and jade green velvet davenport and chairs, the strange ornaments of glass and metal perched here and there on the weird shaped cabinets and tables and finally on a chaotic block print in every color of the rainbow hanging over the mantle.

"Hully gee!" gasped the burglar. "What kind of a joint have I gotten into?" But before he had time to find out, a key rattled and the door burst open. He had hardly time to lower himself behind the davenport in the corner before a flood of brilliant light burst from the geometrically shaped side lights.

"Hurry, hurry, Tom, please," and Charlotte Livingston-Smith threw off her hat and reaching up over the mantle tore down the block print that the burglar had just been looking at. "It certainly is fortunate for us that Bridget phoned that message. Aunt Jane would never forgive us if she got here and found we had never hung up her wedding present. Get it, quick."

Tom went into the next room, returning at once with an oil painting in a deep gold frame. "Here's the old dame, big as life and twice as natural."

"You would joke! Aunt Jane will be here any minute. Get a hammer."

"Hammer? Hammer, did you say? Since when did this establishment boast a hammer?"

"Well, run down to Willets' and get one. And for goodness sake don't stand talking golf with Ed Willet! I am about frantic now."

"Gosh, girl! They'll think we are crazy, this time of night."

"Oh, never mind what they think. Just hurry."

As the door slammed behind Tom, Charlotte found herself looking straight into a short black gun in the hands of the man behind the davenport. "It's all right, lady, don't get excited. I am just going," has teasing towards the window.

Charlotte sank into one of the crushed raspberry chairs. "Who are you? What do you want?"

"I am the prince of Wales. Just dropped in for a cup o' tea, but as you are engaged I'll come some other time," and he swung up onto the sill, putting the automatic into his coat pocket. Charlotte's fear vanished with the gun.

"Wait a second, prince. I hate to see you going without some loot. That's what you call it?"

"Loot's right, lady, but honest to God, I ain't seen a thing here I'd bother to carry down the 'scape."

Charlotte picked up the wedding picture and thrust it into his arms. "Just a souvenir of your visit, prince. We don't often entertain royalty."

As the astonished man disappeared over the sill, the phone rang sharply. Charlotte tipped over a table and a chair before she took the receiver from the hook. "Yes, Ella," she answered. "It's my aunt. I am expecting her; send her right up."

When Aunt Jane came into the room her young niece threw herself into her arms. "Oh, Aunt Jane, I am so glad you've come. We've just been robbed. And the mean old burglar took the picture you gave us for a wedding present." Just here Tommy burst into the room, hammer in one hand and a length of wire in the other. "A burglar, Tommy," Charlotte explained before he could get his mouth open. "And he took Aunt Jane's picture."

Tom rose to the situation magnificently. Charlotte was proud of him. "Not that lovely thing over the mantle!" looking at the faded spot on the wall where the print had hung.

"I am not surprised," said Aunt Jane, taking off her bonnet. "He probably knew all about it."

"All about it?" This from Charlotte.

"Crooks always keep tabs on such things. You'd better notify the police, although I can't see a New York policeman getting excited over a genuine Milbrant."

"A genuine Milbrant?"

"A genuine Milbrant!" Tom echoed her words. "Gracious goodness, did you think it was a copy? It was the most valuable thing I owned. Came to me from your Uncle Tom's family in England." She patted first Charlotte's shoulder, then Tom's. "Now, don't worry; the authorities will be able to trace it, I know."

Charlotte sat down abruptly on her cherished davenport. "Tom," she said. "Will you please take Aunt Jane's bags to her room; I feel weak—weak from shock."

course, showed no surprise, his face, always cheerful and bright, betrayed nothing. "I know Courthope's—by reputation," he remarked...

"Then you yourself can't tell me very much about Mazaroff?"

"I can tell you what I know," replied our informant...

"Missing temporarily, we hope," said Crole...

"Next to nothing," answered the manager...

"A man might have reasons, when a man he knows is murdered under his very nose..."

"I'll tell you what I think," Maythorne said...

"There's no doubt whatever that he was Mazon," said Crole...

Maythorne, however, found some papers—in a letter case that lay in a drawer...

"There's no doubt whatever that he was Mazon," said Crole...

We left the hotel. Maythorne immediately hurried off to the nearest telegraph office...

"This is a queer business, Holt," said Crole as we settled down in a comfortable and quiet corner...

"What sort is he?" he asked. "You'd have thought that he'd have come forward and said that he'd had business dealings with Mazaroff..."

"He looks the sort of man who would probably reply to that that Mazaroff's death was no concern of his," I suggested...

"Aye, well," remarked Crole, "we shall just have to find out a few things—leave it to Maythorne."

I left Crole after lunch and went home to my rooms in Jernyn street. I spent a quiet afternoon there...

"Had a cable late last night from Cape Town," he announced. "Mr. Herman Kloop is in London—at the First Avenue hotel..."

"Next to nothing," answered the manager. "He called here, just once, some time after his arrival in London..."

"I only arrived in London last night," he said, as we settled ourselves. "I read about Mazaroff in the paper..."

"We found these letters of yours in Mazaroff's rooms at the Hotel Cecil," replied Maythorne...

"All that there is in these papers," replied Kloop. "I see the police suspect some local man—a villager of no very good reputation..."

"There's no doubt whatever that he was Mazon," said Crole...

We found Mr. Kloop at half past ten, leisurely finishing a late breakfast, a little dapper, Hebraic looking gentleman.

He appeared to take unusual interest in me as we revealed our separate identities, and I remembered, then that the details of Mazaroff's will had come out in Postlethwaite's evidence at the inquest...

SOCIAL EXPERIMENTS

Professor A. B. Barry, sociologist at the University of Wisconsin, is quoted as saying that America seeks her social Utopia through legal enactments more than any other country on earth, and has made her statute books the vehicle of social experiments.

Some laws are social experiments, but the state of affair may not be quite as bad as pictured. The great bulk of the population does respect law. The exceptions are heard about, while the great mass of the population goes about its business holding law and order as the basis of freedom.

It is unfortunate, however, that legislatures do not repeal obsolete laws. They neglect sometimes to erase from the books laws inconsistent with later enactments and they are too inattentive to the need of recondification. To clear up such glaring inconsistencies would be another noble experiment.

MORE PARTICULAR

An Irishman who could not boast of having a hair on his head was seated in a train. Directly opposite him sat a Scotsman with one of the finest heads of hair anyone could wish to have, which also happened to be red. The Scotsman was very proud of his hair, and, noticing the Irishman's head, he thought he would have a joke at the Irishman's expense, so he exclaimed: "was there no hair on your head when you were born, sir?"

The Irishman looked at his opposite partner, and with a smile, said: "Oh, aye, there was, but it was red and I wouldn't have it!"

It seems that professors are still absent-minded, despite all that has been done in the matter. An interpreter of philosophy at Columbia, meeting a group of his students on the street, stopped to chat. When the conversation ended, he asked: "Which way was I walking when I met you?"

"Why, north, professor," was the answer.

"Ah!" he replied. "Then I've had lunch."—The New Yorker.

Mrs. R. N. Ashby has our thanks for a subscription renewal for her son, Carl, at Austin.

AN IMPERSONAL INSPECTION

An old Tennessee mountaineer who had never seen a mirror, found one that some tourist had dropped. Looking at it, he said, "Well, gosh dern it, if it ain't my pappy! I never knowed he had his pitcher took."

The old fellow was so pleased with the mirror that he took it home, stole up to the attic and put it in an old box where he kept his treasures. But his wife was watching him, and that night she slipped out of bed, crept up to the attic and opened the box.

"Huh," she said, looking at the mirror, "so that's the old hag he's been chasin' after!"

THEY WERE BIG BEARS

A visitor to a Sunday school was asked to address a few remarks to the children. He took the familiar theme of the children who mocked Elisha on his journey to Bethel, how the young ones taunted the prophet, and how they were punished when two bears came out of the woods and ate forty-two of them.

"And now, my children," said he, "what does this story show?"

"Please sir," came from a little girl in the front row, "it shows how many children two bears can hold."

Mr. and Mrs. Pete Fulbright and children, Mr. and Mrs. Wood Hindman are visiting in Colorado this week.

FAIR TRADE

An illusionist, performing in a Northern town, put a woman into a box from which there was no apparent outlet, and shut the lid. When he opened it again there was nothing inside but a couple of rabbits.

After the performance a Scotsman went to the illusionist and asked him if he could perform the same trick if his (the Scotsman's wife) were to get into the box.

"Why, yes," answered the illusionist, "But are you anxious to get rid of your wife?"

"Well," answered the Scot, "it's no sae much that, but wee Wullie got me tae promise him twa rabbits for his birthday."

One of the crew of a big liner chanced to pick up a first-cabin menu card, and, seeing at the top "Table d'hote," turned to his pal and inquired:

"What does this 'ere mean, Joe?"

"Well, said Joe, "it's like this 'ere. Them swells in the saloon have some soup, a bit of fish, a bit of this, a bit of that, and a bit of summat else, and call it 'table dottie. We have 'table dottie,' only we mixes it all together and calls it stew."—London Answers.

Two colored men were standing on the corner discussing family trees.

"Naw, man, trace 'em—get me?"

"Well, they ain't but two kinds of things dat live in trees—birds and monkeys—and you sho' ain't got no feathers on you."
