Thanksgiving Program Attracts Good Sized Crowd

Crow Honored at Stock Show

Thanksgiving Program at School this Morning

A good sized crowd attended the Thanksgiving services at school auditorium this morning.

Rev. John H. Crow, pastor of the Baptist Church, preached the sermon, enumerating the things that we have to be thankful for as a nation; among them mentioning the universal progress of prohibition, freedom, and the spread of the gospel.

"The nation that gives a thankful place is the only one that will stand," said Rev. Crow, "and we must be thankful for the things that God has done for us. Those people who respect God's laws in their community, state and nation, are the ones who are blessed."

Rev. Crow closed his sermon with a prayer for every citizen to recognize the goodness of God, the community and the nation.

Rev. A. Erwin, pastor of the Methodist Church, acted as emcee, and read the lesson from the 107th psalm. Cecil G. Goff, pastor of the Baptist Church, offered the prayer and the benediction. Mrs. Cecil G. Goff sang "Only Are Thy Dwellings" and the congregational singing, "Wayland Floyd at the

MERCHANT INJURED IN GAME

Cohen, of The Famous, suffered a serious injury to his right leg in a game in Amarillo Sunday. The ankle being sprained, the knee knocked out of place. The accident happened near the end of the game that was being played by the Amarillo Warriors against the Dumas Ding-Dong-Daddies. The benefit of the Amarillo Community fund, Mr. Cohen played for the Amarillo team.

NELSON THANKS NEWS

Amarillo, Texas, Nov. 22, 1930.

Mr. and Mrs. Friend: I received your issue of The McLean News containing the account of the Thanksgiving Day observance. I am very grateful for sending me the paper and for your very generous report of my talk before the club. I enjoyed being with you and only regret that the cold weather prevented my being there in time for the program at the school house. I found the way much better on my return than the way of Pampa. With best wishes, I am yours sincerely,

E. C. NELSON, JR.

WOMEN-FACULTY PLAY

The women-faculty play, "Mary Made Malade," will be given at the school auditorium Friday evening, Dec. 5th.

The play is under the direction of Mrs. Harding, and rehearsals will be held most every evening.

THE FAMOUS SALE

The famous organization sale of the famous C. O. will be held at the school auditorium this issue of the news. The sale will be held at the school auditorium this issue of the news.

Dr. Tampke Honored at Stock Show

Dr. A. A. Tampke, vocational agricultural instructor of the McLean high school, was honored at the American Royal Livestock Show at Kansas City by being appointed ringmaster for the horse judging contest. He was also group captain in the meat judging contest and assisted in the grading of a good share of the judging papers.

Dr. Tampke accompanied Racy Morse, Arthur Ivey, Clark Stockton and L. D. Shaw, Jr., the McLean team who won a free trip to the show on their excellent work in state contests this year. According to Dr. Tampke, the boys report a trip full of thrills, and one of the most worth while ones ever taken.

In addition to the stock judging and the horse show, the boys visited automobile factories where they saw how a finished car is assembled from its individual parts in about five minutes' time. They saw the delicate equipment and machinery of the Bell Telephone Co., which occupies 11 stories of a 23 story building. They visited a corn products factory, where 2,000 bushels of corn is converted into syrup, sugar, oil and gluten feeds daily, and they witnessed the making of syrup in which 250 cans per minute were filled. The entire operation of preparing the syrup for shipment was done by machinery.

They also saw how hogs, sheep and cattle are converted into marketable products in large numbers.

All state trips were free to the boys, as was street car transportation and admittance at will to the livestock show. Three banquets were also tendered them free.

An interesting feature of the show was the parade of 2,000 future farmers in the arena before 10,000 spectators. Each state's delegates marched in groups headed by their state banner, 16 members accompanying the Lone Star banner of Texas.

PAMPA FAIR READY

By Ralph R. Thomas, Co. Agent

The city hall at Pampa is being made ready for the Gray county fair and the third annual poultry show to be held December 4 to 6. The contractor is working over time to get the building in shape.

The basement will be used for the agricultural exhibits and poultry show. Home demonstration exhibits and other women's and girl's departments will occupy the first floor. The program given by the McLean band on the night of Dec. 4th and the Pampa band the night of Dec. 5th will be in the auditorium of the city hall on the second floor.

The number of birds at the poultry show is expected to reach the 500 mark.

CITY TO INSTALL LIGHTS AT SCHOOL

At a meeting of the city council Monday evening it was ordered that two street lights be placed at the high school building, one on the southeast corner of the block, and one on the southwest corner.

Col. O. E. Thompson, of the firm of Thompson and Calhoun, Amarillo, city attorney, was present at a meeting of the city council Monday evening.

TURKEY SHIPPING PROFITABLE

According to Dr. A. A. Tampke, many farmers have dressed and shipped their own turkeys to the Chicago market and made a profit of from $1.50 to $2.50 per fowl over the present low market prices.

Dr. Tampke states that he is anxious to assist anyone desiring aid in preparing turkeys for shipment, free of charge.

THANKSGIVING DAY (An editorial)

On other days of the year we take our blessings more or less as a matter of course, but on Thanksgiving Day it is well to take time enough to enumerate our blessings and thank the Giver of All Good Gifts for the many things that are ours to enjoy. This year there are prayers of thankfulness for peace and safety, life and health and home; for things that are, and things that are not; for those things that bless in a material way, and those that belong to the spiritual realm. Thinking on these things should make us face the future with a better spirit, trusting in Him Who Doeth All Things Well, to keep our lives safely to the end.

Red Cross Roll Call Extended Few More Days

By M. D. Bentley, Local Chairman

The Red Cross roll call was supposed to close last night, formally, but on account of the residence district failing to respond to the membership drive, I feel it best to hold it open for a few more days before making final report to headquarters.

The business men responded to the call in the same generous way as they always do when the call is worthy, only a few failing. I wish to take this opportunity of thanking each and every one that did contribute in any way to the call. Especially thanks are due the fine enthusiastic group of workers, namely, Rev. Goff, as roll call director; Boyd Meador, E. L. Sitter, John Cooper, Reep Landers, and a number of the high school girls, as committees.

I wish to call attention to the fact that 107 annual memberships out of a possible 2,000 people is far too small for a community like McLean. Won't the residence district deeply consider the wonderful benefits to be derived from this roll call locally, as well as the Christian service to humanity through the National Red Cross, which is only supported by annual memberships of one dollar each.

Milk Drinking Program Shows Further Gains

By Mrs. L. Sligar

Grade school children weighed again last Friday, and further gains were recorded among those children who were seriously under weight at the beginning of the term.

In one first grade room, having an enrollment of 27, there are now nine children who weigh exactly what they should. Other children in the room are slightly over weight, which is to be commended. In this room there are at present only two children who are more than three pounds under weight, and neither of these children are taking the mid-morning lunch. This room alone has 14 children who drink milk at 10 o'clock. The other first grade room has four children who are seriously under weight. Two of these are following the plan.

In the second grade there are six children who are four to 10 pounds under weight. Half of these children have been taking the lunch and show corresponding gains.

Three third grade children have attained standard weight since Oct. 1. However, there are still about 10 children in the third grade who are under weight more than three pounds. The results of the milk drinking plan are highly satisfactory to date. We believe our children are doing better school work because of it, and that they will show greater resistance to disease.

A move is being launched to provide for those under weight children whose parents are unable to furnish this mid-morning lunch for them. A committee has been appointed to get the names of all such children and to see that the lunch is provided.

Dr. Geo. W. McCall, who held a revival meeting at the First Baptist Church here a few years ago, is holding a revival for the Central Baptist Church at Pampa.

Rev. John H. Crow Presented as New Member Lions Club

Rev. John H. Crow, new Methodist pastor, was presented as a new member of the McLean Lions Club at their regular weekly luncheon held at the Baptist pastorium Tuesday noon.

Rev. Crow stated that he has been a Lion for a number of years and like the work of the club. "The most miserable man on earth is the man who fails to fit in with community projects," said Rev. Crow.

Lion G. C. Boswell presented Lion Crow at the request of President Boyd Meador. Lion A. A. Tampke reported his trip to the American Livestock Exposition at Kansas City, giving an interesting account of places visited with his agricultural boys class.

The Thanksgiving program was mentioned and the Lions-faculty play discussed. All members present bought and paid for a ticket to the play.

The secretary was instructed to write a letter of appreciation of Lion B. W. Wilkins to the Claude Club, and also to express in a letter to Dr. J. A. Hill of Canyon the Club's appreciation of his address last week.

The tail twister was especially active, fining all members at least once and having a 25c fine voted upon himself.

T. A. Landers was appointed secretary pro tem in the absence of the secretary.

Road Bond Issue Hearing Set for December 11th

The commissioners set the date for the proposed three precinct road bond issue hearing for December 11th, at a special session held at Pampa Monday morning.

Commissioners M. M. Newman and John R. White voted against the motion setting the hearing; Lewis O. Cox and Thos. R. Kirby voting for the motion, and Judge Ivy E. Duncan voting off the tie.

It is now claimed that a part of Highway 66 may be included in the issue, possibly from the end of the pavement in Carson county to the intersection of Highway 88, which is to be paved through Gray county, as is Highway 33 and 33-A.

The state highway commission has assured aid on the highways mentioned.

PTA VOTES $25 TO RED CROSS FUND

At a meeting of the PTA held Monday evening at the home of Mrs. R. L. Appling, it was decided to contribute $25 to the Red Cross nurse fund.

Children's reading and diet were discussed by the members present, and it was planned to send seven delegates to help organize a county council at Lefors on December 6, where Mrs. Crane, district president, will be the principal speaker.

Executives attending the business session were: Mesdames D. C. Carpenter, A. R. McHaney, R. L. Appling, L. Sligar, Jim Back; Misses Hayes and Seal; Messrs. Boswell, Harding and McHaney.

BUSINESS DISTRICT RESPONDS TO ROLL CALL

A good response was had in the business district to the annual Red Cross roll call, some $265.25 being reported by workers up to Wednesday noon. However, this amount is short of the goal needed to have a school nurse for three months, and it is hoped that the residence district will see that the needed money is raised within the next few days.

Arnold Atterbury of Amarillo was in McLean Tuesday.

Judging Contests Will Also Take Place at Show

At a meeting of the McLean C. of C. directors this week, final plans were made for this year's poultry show, which will be held Friday and Saturday, Dec. 12 and 13, with Dr. A. A. Tampke, high school vocational instructor, in charge, assisted by County Agent Ralph R. Thomas.

A feature of this year's show will be the addition of judging contests open to 4-H club boys of the Panhandle.

Poultry judging was held last year and the Conway team won the silver loving cup offered by the C. of C. This contest will be held this year, as a team must win the cup for three consecutive years before it becomes the permanent property of the club.

New contests this year will be: Farm Shop, with a silver loving cup offered by the McLean Gas Co., and Dairy and Livestock, with a silver loving cup offered by Geo. W. Sitter of the Bar Lo ranch.

The show will follow similar rules of last year, with a nominal entrance fee charged, and cash prizes offered in all divisions.

There will be no restrictions on exhibitors, birds will be accepted from any exhibitor, whether in the McLean trade territory or not.

On account of the prizes offered in the vocational club contests, Dr. Tampke estimates that contestants will be in attendance with their instructors from a radius of 200 miles.

It is also contemplated that the booth plan of financing the show will be used. However, booth space will be sold to merchants at a lower price than was charged last year.

The show coming just after the Pampa fair, will enable exhibitors at the fair to keep their birds in prime condition for exhibiting here.

Both Dr. Tampke and Mr. Thomas are at the disposal of any and all prospective exhibitors in preparing exhibits, explaining rules, etc.

Every exhibitor in last year's show won a cash prize, and much interest has been manifested in this year's event.

HOME DEMONSTRATION CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS

The McLean Home Demonstration Club met at the Methodist church last Friday at 2 p. m. and elected the following officers for the ensuing year: President—Mrs. Norman Johnston. Vice president—Mrs. Loyse Caldwell. Secretary-treasurer—Mrs. W. W. Wilson.

Assistant secretary and reporter—Mrs. D. A. Davis.

Miss Peggie Morris, representing the Farm and Ranch, published at Dallas, was a visitor. She accompanied Miss Miller and several of the club members to Heald to visit Mrs. Reneau's 4-H pantry demonstration. The club will meet the 5th of December with Mrs. Evan Sitter. Miss Miller will demonstrate the making of Christmas fruit cakes and puddings. All members are urged to make a special effort to be present.

CHILDREN NEED A HOT SCHOOL LUNCH

By Zella Wigent
School children are at an age when the most important work of body building is being done. Every child deserves a chance to have the right food. That is the primary reason for providing a good school lunch.

A secondary reason for having a school lunch is that it gives the teacher a chance to help the child establish right food habits.

Too often at home, through mistaken kindness, a child is not discouraged when he decides he doesn't like some food which may be the very thing he especially needs.

A school lunch offers the opportunity to teach children how to select foods wisely. Girls get this instruction in a home economics course, but many girls do not take home economics, and the boys need this kind of instruction just as much as the girls. Through the medium of the school lunch this instruction can be given at an age when it will do the most good.

The children will like to make food posters and slogans such as "Balanced Meals Make Balanced Bodies," "We Need Three Kinds of Food Each Day," "Milk Helps Build Good Teeth." The securing of good illustrations for their posters and slogans is both interesting and educational. All this time, there is being built up a sentiment for good food habits which exerts a quiet but effective pressure on the child whose home training has been neglected.

The third reason for the hot lunch is the opportunity it gives for social training. It does away with the "biscuit-and-lasses swallow-while-you-run" type of lunch. There must be order; the children sit at a table or at their desks, and eat quietly. There is a splendid chance for training in table manners.

On most farms it is customary to serve the hearty meal at noon, so during the school months the children miss the principal noon meal. A hasty breakfast, a cold lunch, and a light supper from "left overs" is not the best food program for a growing child.

Hot school lunches are especially needed during the cold months of the year. If they cannot be served throughout the school year, a special attempt should be made to serve them at least during the three winter months.

At least one hot dish should be served each day. This dish should be varied from day to day, but special stress should be laid on milk and vegetable dishes as this insures each child's getting his share of the protective foods.

Co-operation between parents and the teacher will be necessary in order to work out the hot lunch problem. Too often a teacher excuses herself from the responsibility by saying, "My patrons won't stand for it." Or a mother says, "We'd like the hot lunch at our school, but our teachers don't do it." All that is needed is somebody to start it; half the anticipated difficulties will probably never arise and the others can be worked out satisfactorily. A task often looks hard until we buckle down to it.

THINKS FOOTBALL OVERDONE

A recent press dispatch quotes Bill Roper, Princeton football coach, as saying that intercollegiate football should return to the status of a "boy's game played by boys in a boy's way."

"Overemphasis will kill the game in a few years," Roper said in an address to sports writers of New York and Philadelphia. Three ways in which the Tiger mentor believes football is being overemphasized are spring practices, night games, and publicity for individual stars, he went on to explain.

Roper pointed out that the decline in the interest in college baseball in recent years may be traced to spring football practice.

"Football should be a virile game played in the fall and not an all-year round business," he said.

"Night football is brutal and outrageous and is likely to result in serious permanent injuries to the players," Roper went on. "It puts them under serious eye-strain and revolutionizes their whole college program. It necessitates practice at night, and this interferes with the players' meals and with their sleep at night."

The Princeton coach criticized the amount of publicity which is given to individual stars, saying it was greater than that accorded to Mussolini or to United States senators.

"The result is to give the players a dwarfed perspective which handicaps them all through life," he said.

Faddy Customer—"I don't like the looks of that haddock."

Fishmonger—"Well, madam, if it's looks you are after, why don't you buy a goldfish?"—Tit-Bits.

KEEP WORTHLESS POULTRY FROM MARKETS

By Zella Wigent
The farther worthless poultry makes way into market channels before it is detected, the greater the loss to the poultry industry, and this loss is reflected in a reduced price to producers.

Badly emaciated poultry is worthless, no matter what may be the cause of the emaciation.

Emaciation may be caused by a number of different diseases, by improper nutrition, or by infection with intestinal parasites.

Off-condition birds are a menace in market channels. Birds with colds or any sort of bronchial infection often cause disease outbreaks in live poultry cars or in feeding stations.

It is to the producer's interest to keep poultry moving through market channels steadily and without loss.

A good poultry flock manager always has an eye open to detect off-condition birds and remove them from the flock, hence avoiding the danger of spreading infection. Every time the birds are handled individually, as when treating for lice, or selecting the pullets for the laying house, or culling the non-producers from the laying flock, the person who handles the birds should check on the physical condition.

The producer should reject for market any off-condition or worthless bird. There may be only a few such birds in each flock, yet when all the worthless birds of an entire farming section are concentrated, the number is not small.

Not all inedible birds can be detected by the producer because some conditions are not evident until the bird is drawn. However, a large proportion of the worthless poultry will be removed from market if the producer follows this simple rule in selecting market birds: "Market the sort of chicken you'd like to eat."

A JUST JUDGE

In Omaha a judge sentenced a reckless driver to five days in jail, and then to keep him from losing his job and his means of supporting his family agreed that the time might be served out in five consecutive Sundays—served in installments, as it were.

There is a good precedent. The arrangement was not only advantageous to the offender, but to people in general who drive on Sundays. Sunday is the one day in the week when the common run of people have a chance to take a drive, and if all the reckless speedsters could be jailed

THE NEW CHEVROLET SIX HAS MANY IMPROVEMENTS

The introduction of the new Chevrolet Six marks the most impressive forward step in Chevrolet's twenty-year record of constant progress and improvement.

For this Bigger and Better Six offers new beauty of line and color, new luxury, new completeness and new quality—yet it sells at lower prices!

In every curve and sweep of Chevrolet's modern lines—in every detail of its smart new Fisher bodies, you will see the fine hand of the master designer and the skillful craftsman. And the more closely you inspect it, the more deeply impressed you will be.

The improvements in the new Chevrolet Six begin at the smart new chrome-plated headlamps and extend throughout the entire car. The radiator is deeper and unusually efficient. Due to the increased wheelbase, the lines are longer and lower, giving an air of exceptional fleetness and grace. And the new Fisher bodies combine with this more attractive exterior appearance, a new degree of interior luxury.

The upholstery is of fine quality mohair or broadcloth, carefully tailored and fitted. The number of individual springs in the rear seat cushions has been increased by 25%. The windshield and windows have been redesigned to provide wider vision. And all interior fittings have been made more pleasing to the eye.

The chassis of the new Chevrolet Six has also been refined and advanced in a number of different ways. The frame is heavier, deeper and stronger than before. There is a smoother operating, long lived clutch; a sturdier front axle; an entirely new steering mechanism of the worm and sector type; an easier shifting transmission. In fact, every vital feature of the new car has been made better and more satisfactory to the owner.

Obviously, these many improvements are responsible for a higher standard of quality than before. And they become doubly significant when you consider that they are offered in a car which provides the smooth, quiet, flexible performance of a 50-horsepower, six-cylinder motor—the comfort of four long semi-elliptic springs and four hydraulic shock absorbers—the safety of a gasoline tank at the rear of the car—and an economy of operation not surpassed by any automobile.

» AT NEW LOW PRICES «

Fine as it is, the new Chevrolet Six now sells at lower prices—making the economy and satisfaction of Chevrolet ownership even more outstanding. We urge you to come in and see the Bigger and Better Chevrolet. Its modern design reflects the spirit of the times—and it represents a value which will command the interest of every buyer in the low-price field.

FRESHMEN

Freshmen are happy over the fact that they defeated the Sophomores in the contest for football queen. Miss Doris Ruff of the senior class was the candidate receiving the highest number of votes. Lee Howard was second. The freshmen managed to place a better third. They not only defeated the Sophomores, but more than made up for the loss of the Freshmen made good ticket sellers at the various games. The class appreciates the fact that those who helped to win the contest were the Sophomores.

ECONOMICS LUNCHEON

Friday the class in Foods 1 had a luncheon with the teachers. Lucille Scott acted as hostess. The luncheon prepared by the class under the supervision of Miss Seal, was served to the guests. Supt. Boswell, Misses Mitchell, McCarty, Mrs. Lillian Carpenter, Mrs. Laverne Pettit, Audie Myatt, Martlene Riddle, Scott, Lucie Morse and Donald consisted of creamed potato loaf, pear salad, hot cocoa, pineapple bavarian topped with green cherries, and toasted nuts. It was a very pleasant occasion. The faculty members greatly appreciated the opportunity to enjoy the luncheon. The food served was prepared and daintily served, all of which are evidences of the splendor of the class has received the past three months.

SOPHOMORES

The Sophomores are sorry that our candidate, Appling, did not take first place for football queen, but we are glad that the senior's did. We congratulate Miss Doris Ruff for being as football queen of McLean for this year.

WHEELER WINS FROM TIGERS

On November 21 a wild and raging game was played between the TIGERS and the WHEELERS. The TIGERS, as it drove deep into Wheeler territory to be turned back time and time again just short of a touchdown. At the final whistle it was found that the visitors had won by a score of 6 to 2. The TIGERS teams unleashed their aerial attack to no avail, and the TIGERS were divided edge on running plays. It was found that the slashes of the TIGERS ends with Heasley, Grogan and Christian carrying the mail netting a total of 185 yards to 64 for the visitors. Tigers completed one play for 25 yards; Wheeler completed for four yards. The Tiger football queen, Miss Ruff, kicked the ball off to the Wheeler team just before the actual game began.

S. S. GRID RESULTS FOR 1930

The Tigers were not a failure this year, or a complete success, either. Here are the scores:
McLean 6—Clarendon 25.
McLean 25—Quitaque 0.
McLean 0—Shamrock 25.
McLean 33—Lefors 0.
McLean 9—Turkey 7.

SENIOR ROLL CALL

Audra Anderson—I never saw anyone answer to primping like you do.
Ford Bell—"If silence were golden you should be a millionaire."
Grace Bidwell—She is something of a book worm, and has a burning desire to become a pedagogue.
Laurence Bourland—Whatever he does, he does with much ease.
But he won't do that if he doesn't please.
Earl Breeding—When teachers tell him to be quiet he isn't mum;
But when they call on him to do some hard old sum
They find him dumb.
James Burrows—Some say that in the years to come you'll make a learned preacher,
But oh, I have a sombre thought
You'll end a country teacher.
Irene Caldwell—
"I've struggled with problems so vast
I'm dizzy with turns, twists and crooks;
My reason is failing me fast—
I'll be glad when I've done with all books."
Lillian Carpenter—I'd rather have habits than clothes, for that's where my intellect shows.
Charlie Mae Carpenter—"I was sayin' even if you are a sorter repeatin' riddle when it comes to answerin' back, you are a good nice girl."
Geneva Corbin—
"As long as Geneva has eyes and lips,
I'm sure her tongue is not in eclipse."
Charles D'Spain—
"It's easy to smile when life flows like a song,
But the fellow worth while
Is the one who can smile
When everything goes dead wrong."
Fred Durham—"Nothing is so hard but search will find it out."
Marvin Gardner—"I dare do all that may become a man."
Clara Pearl Gatlin—"She is none too angelic to get a good healthy spell of the pouts once in a while, but if she is handled kindly and tenderly, why she'll come through without having to humble herself with apologies."
Sybil Graham—"Calm and immovable, viewing disdainfully the world beneath."
Guy Hibler—
"He's as quaint and sweet as a maid,
'tis true,
The daintiest little fellow that we all ever knew."
Edwin Howard—"It seldom croaks, but when it does it croaks in dead earnest."
Reed Grogan—

"He is so dignified,
Is Mr. Reed G.
That whenever desecrated
His looks pester me."
Reo Heasley—Reo's favorites both begin with an A—athletics and Audra.
Fred Hunt—
"For beauty I am no star,
There are others prettier by far;
My face I don't mind it,
For I am behind it;
'Tis people in front that I jar."
Irene Johnson—"A lady fair, with golden hair."
Odessa Kunkel—
In English she is excellent,
Must dig late at night;
But she harasses us continually with "Excuse me, that's not right."
Fahoma Ladd—
"Nay, it were churlish to review
And specify by marked attention
The traits of her's worthy of mention."
Fern Landers—
"When Gabriel's horn is blown abroad
And echoes back from cloud to cloud
To call us to the last exam,
This senior girl will try to cram."
Madge Landers—
"Talked of noble aims and high,
Hinted of a future state
Founded on an ideal plan—
Where you leave out every man."
Don McCombs—
"Now here's to young Don,
Who gives us his fun,
And bothers us all—
The pesky young sinner."
Irene McCoy—
"Though you are a bit arduous
And your hair and eyes are bright,
Though you're saucy and flirtatious,
You're all right."
Racy Morse—
"That he's smart is beyond a doubt;
But would that his Prof's could find it out."
Ida Bell Newman—
"This lady is both bright and fair
And has the gift to know it,
But the thing that's always puzzling
Her
Is some new way to show it."
I. D. Shaw—

English is hard—it's no bluff,
But in agriculture, I'm the stuff.
Georgia Stratton—
"Georgia's sweet as she can be,
Georgia studies chemistry;
Georgia cannot take a joke
"Cept you give it time to soak."
Doris Ruff—
"Join me in the royal toast;
This is the girl we all love most."
Edna Wilson—"Just natural and hearty and sweet."
Frances Boyle—
She's as plum
And jolly a lump
Of dancing fun
As ever scurried about
With a laugh and a shout
Under the sun.
Miss McCarty—
A girl of soft speech and gracious smile.
For one geometric problem she'd walk a mile.
Mr. Rush—"It looks like I got a happy feelin' in me most all the time."

Thanksgiving Day officially ushers in the Christmas season and stores and shops will now blossom forth in decorations featuring the Season of Universal Good Will.

It is claimed that the only people who will listen to advice are those who do not need it, and as free advice is usually worth just what it costs, there is probably no harm done in any case.

A retail credit association has been needed in McLean for a long time, not only to protect the merchant, but as a protection to the man who is good for his accounts. "Hot check artists" and "deadbeats" do not have easy sailing where a good credit association is functioning.

A sale bill carries only the prestige of the single store and is forced upon the customers' attention, while an advertisement in the home paper carries the prestige of the entire town. Not only the prestige of the local store, but of every advertiser in the paper, plus the prestige of the paper itself; and at the same time it is a medium that is read at leisure and preserved for a week. Our postmaster says there has never been a copy of the home paper left in the wastebasket at the postoffice, but a glance at the wastebasket most any day will show wasted sale bills.

A needed tax reform that is attracting some attention over the state is restricting voters in bond elections to freeholders. Real property is fixed and practically indestructible, while personal property is here today and gone tomorrow. It is only fair that owners of property that will be levied upon for the life of the bonds should be the ones to determine whether or not a bond issue is necessary. Those who do not own real property can at best only have a transient and inconsequential responsibility in bond issues. Our laws do not allow any but freeholders to sit on juries, and surely a bond voter should be as well qualified.

THE TRUTH

Wife—"Where were you all last night?"
Husband—"I was sitting up with a sick friend. And—if you want to know the whole truth, I was as sick as he was."—Judge.

"In some respects moderate drinking is more serious to the health than immoderate drinking. If a man gets thoroughly drunk, a time comes when he can't drink any more. The dangerous driver of an automobile is not the man who is dead drunk, but the one who has had one or two drinks and then thinks he is as good or a little better than he was before."—Prof. Dr. Richard C. OLD DOCTOR'S IDEA IS BIG HELP TO ELDERLY PEOPLE

In 1885, Dr. Caldwell made a discovery for which elderly people the world over praise him today!

Years of practice convinced him that many people were endangering their health by a careless choice of laxatives. So he began a search for a harmless prescription which would be thoroughly effective, yet would neither gripe nor form any habit. At last he found it.

Over and over he wrote it, when he found people bilious, headachy, out of sorts, weak or feverish; with coated tongue, bad breath, no appetite or energy. It relieved the most obstinate cases, and yet was gentle with women, children and elderly people.

Today, this same famous, effective prescription, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is the world's most popular laxative. It may be obtained from any drugstore.

Supt. Boswell Writes Letter to Teachers

By Supt. G. C. Boswell
Nov. 24.—Dear Fellow-Workers: We have just finished the third month of the school year and I feel that we have done a great work. You have shown your interest in many ways. It is a pleasure to work with teachers that are always ready to aid in any worthwhile work of the schools. It seems that you are working with each other in such a fine spirit. It has been said by a great person that it does not require an educated person to be a destructive critic. Did you ever offer some plan to some one and that some one had a better plan to do the thing than you offered? Did you ever see a person that everything that was done by that person was always correct and right, while if some one else had done a work, there were many faults with it? Check up and see just which person does the better work.

Fuel
My attention has been called to the large amount of fuel that we are using. I want you to keep your rooms well ventilated, but you can over-do that as much as you can under-do it. So keep your rooms "just right" and in so doing we can save a great many dollars, and we need all we can save.

Waste
I wish to call to your attention the great amount of waste that we have in the schools. This waste comes in many forms. The paper, the lunch, the ink, the pencil, in fact it seems that everything that the child comes in contact with it has not been taught the importance of saving. Just take an inventory of the number of children that we have in school, and if each spends a dime each week for supplies, the amount that is spent for these items, you will see that in a whole year it would be a great big thing.

Red Cross
We must express our appreciation of the way the people of the town and surrounding community have responded to the Red Cross roll call. We are happy over the results and know that you are happy to have had part in this great work.

Thanksgiving
Please take off from two to five minutes each class that you meet this week and explain to the class the meaning of Thanksgiving. We must not forget to do this, as many of the children will know nothing about Thanksgiving if we as teachers fail to make mention of it. Remember the services for Thanksgiving that we will have at the high school auditorium Thursday morning. Come and tell others.

Appreciation
I wish to thank you very kindly for your co-operation, for I think you are working for the interest and good of the schools. I wish to call your attention to the football banquet that is to be held soon. We shall appreciate your coming. There will be a good time for all.

METHODIST W. M. S.

The Methodist W. M. S. met at the church Tuesday afternoon for the regular meeting, when the Voice program was given under the leadership of Mrs. A. B. Christian. Spiritual Cultivation followed under supervision of Mrs. Geo. W. Sitter. A business meeting followed, during which the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

- President—Mrs. W. W. Wilson.
- Vice president—Mrs. Leamon Andrews.
- Treasurer—Mrs. S. A. Cousins.
- Corresponding secretary—Mrs. Roy Campbell.
- Recording secretary—Mrs. W. L. Campbell.
- Local treasurer—Mrs. Callie Haynes.
- Superintendent of children's work—Mrs. John H. Crow.
- Superintendent of study—Mrs. W. B. Upham.
- Superintendent of literature and publicity—Mrs. Homer Wilson.
- Superintendent of social service—Mrs. A. B. Christian.
- Superintendent of supplies—Mrs. E. E. Dishman.
- Superintendent of local work—Mrs. D. C. Carpenter.
- Superintendent of local Gibson work—Mrs. C. C. Cook.

TAMPKE TO ASSIST FAIR EXHIBITORS

Dr. A. A. Tampke, agricultural instructor in the McLean high school, states that he is at the disposal of any prospective exhibitor at the Pampa fair, in assisting in selecting and preparing exhibits from this community.

Dr. Tampke is especially anxious that McLean shall make a good showing at the fair, and his services are available for both agricultural and poultry exhibits.

VIRTUE OF REASONABLE MEN BECOMES VICE IN EXTREMISTS

By Robert Quillen in Dallas News
Our fathers and our fathers' fathers fought for liberty and won.

Having been strong enough to win it, they were strong enough to control it. In their hands it was not a menace.

Liberty, however, is for those who earn it. The strong cannot bequeath it to the weak.

Those who inherit liberty accept it as a natural right and seldom are aware of the obligations it imposes. They dance without thought of paying the piper. They turn liberties into license, and soon they are enslaved by their own follies. They have no freedom until they earn it in their own right.

Thus history repeats itself and each new generation must fight for a new freedom from new tyrants or submit to chains.

When modern men first began to thirst for freedom, the law and the courts were cruel and unjust. Men were hanged for petty thefts. Criminals were quartered, disembowled and burned. The poor and the unknown were "railroaded" to jail on the perjured testimony of any bigwig they had offended. Men rotted in jail for want of money to pay their debts. The accused was guilty until he could prove himself innocent.

When decent men could no longer endure such tyranny, they revolted. The freedom they fought for was freedom from cruel and unjust laws and brutal courts.

It was no easy victory; and the conflict was so bitter and the hatreds it engendered were so lasting that generations three times removed still nursed a prejudice against the forces of law and gave their sympathy to whomsoever the law pursued.

The modern secretly sides with the criminal because his own great-grandfather was whipped for his impudence to a Crown official. Freedom, to him, means freedom from all authority.

And much enjoyment of unearned freedom without a sense of responsibility to hold it within respectable limits, has at last resulted in almost complete destruction of the machinery of justice.

The accused is innocent in theory until proved guilty.

Actually, nine in ten of those indicted are guilty as charged. The corpse is there or the loss is there to establish their guilt, and witnesses worthy of trust confirm it.

Yet criminal after criminal goes free or escapes with a trivial punishment because juries, lawyers and judges are no longer trustworthy servants of society.

Again the people are enslaved—this time by the tyranny of crime and their own weakness and indifference and folly, and they shall not again be free until they develop the courage and character to fight and overthrow their masters as their fathers did before them.

THE STORY

TER I—Returning to London, after an uneventful business trip to South America, George Sandison takes dinner at a restaurant. He is a widower with a young daughter, Aggie. He has not seen her since she was a child. He is a little left of center, but he is a very successful man. He is a little left of center, but he is a very successful man. ridiculous ideas of what his daughter should and should not do. To Jack Navarro, with a cosmopolitan upbringing and a sophisticated outlook on women and life, Roberta was a rather troublesome child. But he had orders to keep her amused and interested and he was doing this, with an ease that bored him. They had reached and finished the dessert stage, and Jack had produced, with a flourish, the expected and inevitable silver flask. Roberta, though her pulses quickened at this sign that she was regarded as an experienced woman, shook her head.

"No," she declared. "No use asking me, Jack. In the first place I don't like it, and in the second place I've given my father my solemn promise I won't touch it until I am twenty-one." Jack shrugged his shoulders, helped himself and slid his flask back into his pocket. Drinking was not countenanced at Indian Lodge, and one had to be careful how one did it, if one wanted to come again. It was a convenient place to meet this girl and Jack knew there was need of caution until he got what he wanted. Sometimes he doubted if he would succeed with her. She was to him so essentially stupid, so unused to, or slow to grasp meanings of looks or words in the game they were playing. These North American girls were so often educated in everything else but sex.

Still he had been told that to intrigue this girl was his share of the business on hand, so he lifted his eyes and gave her a long look and a slow smile. "Any hurry?" he asked. The girl looked at him doubtfully. "Well, I don't feel exactly comfortable leaving father alone so long. I should have gone back when I saw those servants going to the island. He can't move, you know, without help." Jack's eyes were cinders. "Is that so? Permanent?" Roberta shook her head. "Oh, no. The doctor says he will be all right in a little while. It's just that his rheumatism is rather severe, just now." Navarro looked at her narrowly. "How soon will you be able to meet me again? Tomorrow night?" Roberta shook her head. "I don't believe so. It isn't easy to get away at night. Day after tomorrow, I might, but tomorrow I'll be busy with the new servants. I won't have time for anything else."

She took a cigarette from him and, as he lighted it for her, looked at him a little curiously. "Funny, isn't it?" "What is funny?" He asked it quickly, and with the foreigners' sensitivity to the American's strange idea of what is "funny." "That we should see so much of each other in this way. When Hal Brice introduced us at the Princeton football game, I never expected to see you again." "Why?" "Oh, because you're so much older, and Hal said you were frightfully sophisticated."

Navarro smiled, relieved. He had forced Brice to give him that introduction at a price and whether he liked it or not. One never knew what an American like Brice might say. They knew at once so much and so little. But Brice had fortunately held his tongue. "He is a nice boy, that Hal Brice, and he plays a good game, but he is too young—just a boy—to play my game."

"What is your game?" Roberta asked it with something of her father's directness. "Just now it's making you like me more than a little, Roberta," he said softly, and put his hand gently over hers.

Roberta looked at him now flushing, a little puzzled. It was part of this man's fascination that he spoke so privately and was lavish with his caresses—in private. It confused the girl, made it hard for her to judge in coolly, as she did the boys of her own set and age. She did not even know whether she liked it or not, whether she really liked Jack, but she could not run away, and she came back again, and again, still undecided. "I do like you, Jack, only—"

"Only what?" "Well—I like other people, too." "As well?" "Better," answered the honest Roberta, with a smile that robbed her speech of all brusqueness. "You see I've known them longer."

"The first time I saw you," Jack said it so softly and with such apparent calmness that Roberta wondered

BAD SIDEWALKS MENACE TO PUBLIC SAFETY

By John F. Ryan

Sidewalks, in a sense, are much like the "one-hoss" shay. We never think much about them until the darn things break down. During the past few days, many a property owner has had the matter called to his attention by means of the usual municipal notice to repair his walks. These precisely worded instruments of local authority usually inform one that his walks have gone to pot and that, if the things aren't fixed up in short order, the city will bring on its own crew and charge the cost against the property.

Many factors cause a walk to fall into disrepair. A vagrant tree root, for instance, may press against the underside and eventually make the adjacent section of walk look like so-much disturbed pie crust. Whatever the cause of failure, a bad walk can be a menace to safety and an eyesore. Hence, walks in disrepair should be repaired or replaced as soon as possible.

During recent years the vogue for color in walks has aroused considerable interest in many localities. New Orleans, as one example, has departed somewhat abruptly from the familiar gray slab. In several of the business sections, tinted walks have been used in various shades of green and red. For private walks, especially the idea has good possibilities. The home walks could easily be tinted to harmonize with the surroundings or the color of the house itself. Some interesting colored flagstone effects could also be achieved under the guidance of an adept sidewalk builder.

A sidewalk is such a familiar object that the average person is quite apt to forget about it entirely until he stubs his toe on an upheaved slab or wrenches his ankle in a hole. Its

"Behind the swiftly broadening trail of the internal combustion engine has galloped a matchless parade of progress," states Wheeler McMillen, a prominent agricultural writer. "The motor industry with its huge aggregate of subsidiary and accessory industries and services, has replaced a historic market for animal fuel with an enormously greater and more profitable market for human food. It has absorbed into its wage rolls thousands of men who otherwise would be still competing in agriculture."

Evidences begin to appear that high-grade youth is finding the land more attractive, now that in farming it can enjoy the thrill of driving these steel monsters, and being able to look back at the day's end to see big results. As the economic advantages of steel clad agriculture become more apparent, more than ever will able young men be lured to stay on the land, and so will the girls who are far from blind to the economic advantage of a prosperous husband. It would be a pleasure very commonplace indicates the wide dependence which is put upon the average sidewalk, and the importance which must be placed on keeping it in condition.

did time permit, to discuss at length the happy changes in farm life from the woman's viewpoint that have followed modern field, barn and home equipment.

"The implements and machines that distinguish the modern farm would justify their existence if they accomplished nothing more than to free farm workers from the back-breaking muscular toil of other years that made men old at forty. More is involved here than mere physical relief from drudgery. When the human body is relieved from daily weariness, the mind is released and stimulated to keener consideration of daily problems."

"You know her to speak to?" "Oh, no, dear! Only to talk about!"

HISTORY'S MYSTERIES

Unsolved Riddles That Still Puzzle Authorities Here and Abroad

The Javanese Dancer

HER true name appears to have been Marguerite Gertrude Zelle, though the one by which she was much better-known was Mata-Hari...

The child of a Javanese mother and a wealthy Dutch planter, Marguerite Zelle appears to have been given exceptional opportunities for education and training...

But the world stretched forth its first tentacle in the shape of a young and personable army officer who attended one of the Buddhist festivals and with whom Mata-Hari fell in love...

Society, ever watching for something novel, enthused over this new sensation and her fame spread rapidly to other parts of the continent...

However, no suspicion attached itself to the beautiful Javanese until some time after the outbreak of the war. She came and went, unhindered by any thought of treachery...

Finally, the combination of her friendship with a young officer of the British tank corps and the fact that the Germans had been receiving an almost constant flow of information about this most important branch of the service led the English authorities to place Mata-Hari under a more strict surveillance...

Just what secrets Mata-Hari had discovered, how she managed to get them past the watchful eyes of the British and French censors, how she received the money which enabled her to live in almost regal splendor...

Small Boy Disillusioned To Stanley, aged four, Doctor L., as he drove about in his motor car, making his professional calls and curing aches and pains of little boys...

"Practice," exclaimed Stanley, with amazement, disappointment and a shade of contempt registered in his voice. "Is he only practicing, mother? I thought he was a real doctor!"

WHY THEY BOUGHT

A leading publisher enclosed a postcard in each book sent out, asking the buyer, "Why did you become a purchaser of this book?"

A total of 9,265 replies came in. Those buying because of what some reviewer had said about the book numbered 3,454.

Those buying because of what had been said about the book in advertisements numbered 2,490.

Those buying because of what some friend had said about the book numbered 1,219.

Nearly 80% of those replying bought the book because of what had been written or spoken about it.

That factor won't influence the buying of farm equipment to the same extent that it governs the buying of a book.

But it is a powerful factor—one of the most powerful—as many a good dealer has learned in years of persistent, well-planned advertising.—John Deere Hustling for Business.

When BABIES are Upset

BABY ills and ailments seem twice as serious at night. A sudden cry may mean colic. Or a sudden attack of diarrhea. How would you meet this emergency—tonight? Have you a bottle of Castoria ready?

For the protection of your wee-ones for your own peace of mind—keep this old, reliable preparation always on hand. But don't keep it just for emergencies; let it be an everyday aid. It's gentle influence will ease and soothe the infant who cannot sleep. It's rapid regulation will help an older child whose tongue is coated because of sluggish bowels. All druggists have Castoria.

News from Liberty

Liberty school observed National Book Week with programs each morning.

Monday morning patriotic books, poems and songs were studied and discussed.

Tuesday the teacher led a discussion on care and respect to books. The pupils entered this discussion, giving interesting points on care of the books they have to use.

Wednesday a story "Do You Need a School Library?" was ably given and a plan for increasing the books in the library was discussed.

Thursday the children brought the names of books they would like to read. The lists were found to be exceptionally good.

Friday the classes entered a discussion of what certain books are about and why others in the class should like them.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Petty attended the Baptist Workers Conference at Wheeler last Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Matthews spent several days in Mobeetie last week visiting relatives.

Supt. O. B. Miller and Mr. Wheeler, secretary of the chamber of commerce at Wheeler, visited the Liberty school last week.

Lupther Petty is attending court in Pampa this week.

When you have made every allowance for the honest wet, it is still true that behind the drive against prohibition is the desire for better, cheaper and more accessible liquor. Take the thirst out of the wet movement and there would be no wet movement worthy of the name. That's not our opinion alone. It's supported by the unpublished opinions of candid wets.

When, therefore, you read the plausible and highly cultured arguments of the propagandists against the prohibition amendment, just remember that now, as in times past, liquor pulls the strings.—Exchange.

TASK-MASTERS

Getting out a good newspaper is a fascinating task, but it is also a difficult one. No other job that comes to mind is quite so taxing, so hurried or demands greater pains. From the moment a newspaper is started, be it either daily or weekly, the work is carried on under pressure, a race against time. Put yourself in an editor's position—could you do it?

Could you, for example, spell correctly, offhand, the names of a large percentage of the residents of the town? If you could do that, could you write their initials correctly without resorting to the telephone directory or other authority? Could you write down, offhand, the names of your town officials, getting all the names, initials, and offices correct? Could you gather the threads of a story from a half dozen people and weave them into an intelligent, readable account the first writing? Could you write seven columns of material of 1,200 to 1,400 words each, in two or three days, week after week, year after year, and when you had finished those seven, pound two or three columns more before press time? In writing a headline, could you call to mind in a moment enough synonyms so that you would not repeat the main thought in the same words? Could you judge in a minute of time what size headlines and what position in the paper should be given to each of the 775, 100, or more stories that might go into your paper? Could you decide in a moment, or exercise "snap" judgment on the dozens of questions a newspaper man must face daily, and get a majority of them correct? We won't time you—but if you could do these few simple things and a thousand and one more difficult ones, you should be a newspaper editor.

The point we wish to make is, that one can produce a good newspaper only after continual, diligent study and years of practical experience. You have heard dozens of persons remark that they could turn out a newspaper, and a good one, too, a bit better, in fact, than the one they are getting. That is not true unless they have gone through the years and study that a good newspaper demands of its makers.

Were it not for the peculiar fascination associated with newspaper work, there would be no newspapers, for there is no greater task-master and money alone would be far too scant compensation.—Baldwinsville, N. Y., Messenger.
