LEY MAKES FINE SCORE AT COUNTRY CLUB

Bentley, charter member of the McLean Country Club, but a golfer only for the past three or four weeks, shot the first three holes of a course one under par last week while he blew up at the hole, he succeeded in making a score of 43 on the 36 par course. This is not the best score Mr. Bentley has made, as he made a score of 42 some time since, and shoots consistently low score when his experience is considered. Bentley is a prominent member of the club, F. H. Bourland and Roy are the only local members who have parred the course. However, there are many good players in the club who crowd par in their

Pampa Citizens Stop Action on Road Bond Issues

At a mass meeting held at the court house in Pampa last Thursday night, it was decided that the county is not ripe for another bond election within the next thirty days and that the election be postponed until opposition can be overcome and a general satisfaction and co-operation of the people effected.
L. Noel said that in his opinion the county needs only two paved roads, one northeast from Pampa to Roberts county and one from Pampa to Lefors.
Henry Lovett said that precinct 3 should be left out of the next election from the way they voted in the last one, and that there should only be a two-precinct election to take care of the needs of Nos. 1 and 2.
Lewis Cox, president of the highway commission, said that if McLean would have come in on the $200,000 issue, the taxes in precinct 4 would have been reduced from 85c to 70c on the $100 valuation; whereas, by staying out of the election they now have to raise the rate to 90c to cover the sinking fund. "With the 15c tax Pampa now has, from the $400,000 bonds we will have a surplus of $30,000 by next year," said Mr. Cox.

COACH ADVISES PLAYERS

Prospective Players Asked to Come Out for Team

By Garrison Rush, Coach
There are three things that go to make up the winning football team. These three things are morale, material, and coaching. When all three of these are present, a team is hard to stop. Morale, perhaps, is the greatest of these three. Morale begins first among the players. Any football player that desires personal praise and works toward that end has failed to grasp the real meaning of football and will never be a real asset to a team. Not only must the players work as a unit, but they must have the co-operation of the student body as a whole. The student body, alone, however, is not enough. It takes the co-operation of the town, plus the student body, to back a team. With the co-operation of the student body and the town plus the proper attitude of the players, a spirit will be created that will result in a successful season.
To all you boys who are interested in football, I ask that you come out for the team this year, regardless of whether you have played any or not. We all had to put our suit on for the first time. You may have a great future ahead of you in athletics, and there is no better way of having some fun than practicing and playing football. It is our greatest game and a good builder of character and sportsmanship.
Our first game is with Clarendon on September 12. In order to be ready for that game, we must start working out on Tuesday, August 26. It is very necessary that all aspirants for the team be out on the opening day, for we have no time to lose, and three weeks is a rather short time to get in condition. We will have a get-together meeting Tuesday morning, August 26, at 9 o'clock in the superintendent's office. All of you boys who are interested in football be there so that we can talk things over and find out what I will expect of you. Not hoping to win, but planning to win is our motto.

HISTORY'S MYSTERIES

Unsolved Mysteries That Still Puzzle Authorities Here and Abroad

The Fate of Marshal Ney

ACCORDING to the undoubted records of his time and the pages of every history which contents itself with adhering to the strict letter of proven evidence, Michel Ney, marshal of France, duke of Echingen, prince of Moskva and bosom friend of Napoleon Bonaparte, met his death at the hands of a firing squad on December 5, 1815—his crime being loyalty to his old commander when Bonaparte had escaped from Elba.

But this is one of the many instances when a strict interpretation of history is at variance with the experience of individuals, when a reading of the records in the case must be tempered by the experience of individuals. Marshal Ney is reported to have been executed on December 5, 1815, but

On the day following the funeral of the marshal of France, Phillip Petrie, a former soldier in the marshal's army who had turned sailor at the close of the Napoleonic wars, was scouring the decks of a vessel which was to clear Bordeaux that night for Charleston, S. C. While at his work Petrie glanced up as a hooded figure, wrapped in a long cloak, came aboard from a small boat. In an instant the former soldier was on his feet, his heels clicked together and his hand snapped up in the precise salute of the Napoleonic veterans. Standing thus he waited for the cloaked figure to pass him. But the passenger halted and, in a muffled voice, inquired: "Who do you think I am?"

"You are my old commander, sir, Marshal Ney," replied the other, "I would know you in ten thousand."

"Marshal Ney," stated the voice which proceeded from the hood, "was executed for treason in Paris, two days since."

But, during the remainder of the voyage, as Petrie afterwards declared to a number of reputable witnesses, the cloaked passenger did not appear on deck—and, what was still more remarkable, Petrie did not know, at the time of his recognition of his old commander, that Marshal Ney had been executed!

The next chapter in the case of report vs. history was written at Charleston, S. C., some weeks later when a trio of French immigrants chanced upon a familiar figure in one of the side-streets of the American city and exclaimed: "It is Marechal Ney himself," whereupon the figure vanished into a nearby house.

About this time a mysterious person who gave the name of Peter Ney appeared in Cheraw, S. C., and obtained a position as French teacher in a school at Brownsville, nearby. One morning he was found in bed, his throat raw and bleeding from wounds which he himself had inflicted and, clutched in his left hand was a newspaper giving an account of the recent death at St. Helena of Napoleon Bonaparte, former emperor of the French. On the hearth was a pile of burned documents, while several jeweled decorations adorned the table—relics which were carefully put away until Peter Ney had fully recovered from his attempt at suicide.

It was not until 1846 that the schoolmaster died and, on his deathbed, was pressed by his physician to clear up the mystery which surrounded his prior life. With an effort "Peter Ney" sat bolt upright, held his head erect and declared, in a voice which held more than an echo of its former clearness: "I am Michel Ney, marshal of France," and fell back dead.

After the funeral, Mrs. Mary C. Dalton, of Iredell county, North Carolina, gave out what she said was the true account of Marshal Ney's escape, as told to her by "Peter Ney" under seal of secrecy. When sentence of death had been passed upon him, according to this account, the marshal had been notified that the firing squad had been made up of his own men who were to fire over his head. At the report of their guns he was to press his hand to his heart, releasing a quantity of ox blood contained in a bladder, and to fall forward as if dead. At the hospital he would be replaced by the corpse of a common soldier, executed that morning and dressed in the uniform of the marshal, while his escape to America would be facilitated by way of Bordeaux.

So it would therefore appear that all the individual evidence in the mystery of Marshal Ney points in one direction, toward the fact that history is mistaken when it declares that Michel Ney was executed on December 5, 1815, and that he really died in South Carolina, thirty-one years later.

But, even granting this, there is still one more question which remains unanswered: Why, if Peter Ney and Michel Ney were one and the same, did not the former marshal of France return to his native country when full and complete amnesty was granted to all political exiles?

Reticence

Experts Show How to Apply Makeup, Giving the Secret That Can Make or Mar Your Face

Exquisite Mary Nolan with makeup complete, beautiful, but not "painted."

By Ruth Corby

There's life in the old face yet! Never give up the rouge pot, girls, and keep your powder dry! Be one ever so lacking in facial scenery, there are always a few arid spots that can be reclaimed. Be one as fair as the lily, a bit of painting will make one blush like the rose.

Women who know the importance of looking alive and excited about anything the boy-friend says know the importance, too, of cosmetics. Usually they like them, as well, but oh!—how they use them! Large cerise lips, magenta cheeks, white nose, tan neck and black, blue or green eyes! That is not a makeup; it's a mask!

Cosmetics are accents—not the first and last syllable of beauty. They ought to be gingerly applied to defects and lavished on the more perfect points of the face. But they ought never to shout of their existence. The eyes are perhaps the most sinned against feature, when cosmetics are applied. Mascara is lavished on them top and bottom, green grease paint is rubbed over the upper lids, and black lines are drawn heavily beneath them. All that is really needed is the mascara and the eyebrow pencil. Use "shatow" if you want to—but be it upon your own hands! The mascara has a tendency to dry the lashes and break them off, so apply vaseline before it is used.

The eyebrow pencil should vary in shade according to the hair: brown for blondes and black for brunettes. Sometimes the brunettes do not need it, although it is always useful for keeping the hair in place. Blondes are usually benefited by a slight darkening of the eyebrows, and nearly every woman should lengthen her brows the fraction of an inch to make the eyes appear larger. No pencil under the eyes, please, and just a touch, if you must, at the outer cream, or use an astringent afterwards. But give the hands and neck a break.

Last, but not least, we come to that powder. Some experts tell us that we ought to blend it ourselves, others say that this is simply an advertising stunt, and that it takes an expert to blend powder properly. However it is, women usually shop around until they find one that seems to suit, more or less. Usually less, because they keep putting it on over and over again during the day. Fewer moments of "touching up" mean a much smoother makeup. Let wet enough alone. Include the neck in the powdering process, too. It should be exactly the same shade as the face, or all is lost.

Anita Page always makes sure that the back of her neck is properly powdered before she starts out.

NATIONAL STUDENTS IMPROVE SCHOOL GROUND

Following article, written by Dr. Tampke, will appear in the Outlook and state farm papers on the same subject:

The McLean school board recently adopted a plan to improve the school grounds. A suggestion was made that the national agriculture instructor would be willing to supervise the building of walks, curbs and curbing and have some of his students do the work, and thereby earn a money.

The board consulted the instructor and he gave them an estimate of the cost of the work, and he would pay them to have the work done this way or have it done by contractors. After discussing the proposition it was agreed to let the instructor select his boys, supervise the work and the school board pay all expenses.

It was agreed that the job at the school be built first and if the school could also build the walks, and steps at the new high school. Therefore, Mr. Tampke proposed to get bids from local dealers for forms, cement and lumber for the form lumber from the lumber company for 1c per board foot for the time it was used, and two of the lumber companies bid the cement at a 5% discount. The mixer was rented for 50c per hour for the time the mixer was running.

The walks at the grade school in front of the teacherage were four feet wide and four inches high and totalled 1853 square feet. Regular contractors' price of 20c per square foot, it would have cost $370.60, whereas the boys did the job for $238, which was a saving of $132.60. After they had showed such good and did such satisfactory work the school board decided to let them proceed with the job at the high school. As there was considerable curbing and steps to build, the work was not quite so much at the school, but the saving was quite considerable.

The following itemized summary in full detail all expenses connected with the entire project, and shows the amount it would have cost under regular contract, and shows the school actually saved $222.10 in doing these vocational agriculture jobs do the work. The boys were paid $3.00 per day and Mr. Tampke had his services.

 Edwin Howard, Andrew Wilson,
 Cobbs and M. H. Kinard Jr.,
 had formerly done very creditable work in the classes in vocational agriculture in McLean high school, under Mr. Tampke's direction. He had that there were many applicants wanting to work, but due to material and equipment, it was not possible to employ more than four at the time.

The boys did practically all the work with little or no direct or personal instruction during the progress of the work. They operated the engine, mixer, and did the apportioning of the mixture very skillfully. They did all the forms, including the corner turns of the curbs. All curbing, troweling, edging and leveling was done by the boys, which was any contractor's work. Essential skill was required in building the forms for the steps. This they did, using some of the principles they were taught in their shop in previous years in vocational agriculture classes.

The mixture used in building was a course with a sand finish. A gravel was used for the bottom of the walks were a seven mixture with the top covering made of one part sand and two parts of sand. The mixture was made of a one to five mixture the bottom and a one part to two part sand as a top covering. They were well reinforced with half inch rods. Galvanized iron was used to make the curves of the curbs, which resulted in a very fine job.

 "Many have remarked that it was a very good piece of work, and the proportioning of the ingredients was much richer and more durable than ordinary contractors usually make. Besides, the boys have actually developed skill in concrete by doing this work that they perhaps would not have derived any other way."

CHURCH OF THE NAZARENE

W. Hickman, Pastor
 Last Sunday was an exceptionally successful day at all of our services. The attendance at all of the services was the largest in many weeks.

Our revival started Tuesday evening with a fine crowd and good music, and the outlook is good for a great revival of old-time religion. We are praying and believing for a revival when sinners will be saved in the old-time way and believers sanctified by the mighty baptism with the Holy Ghost and Fire. Glory to God! I am glad that Elijah's God still lives today and is the same yesterday, today and forever, praise His name forever more! We believe in a heart-felt religion that will bring joy to the hearts of men and women when they really repent of their sins.

Rev. Lum Jones will be here this evening to take charge of the services. The pastor has been preaching in his absence. Bro. Jones is a mighty man of God and his messages will stir our soul. Three of his children are here with their musical instruments and are playing in the orchestra. Come and help us in the fight against sin. Everybody is invited to attend these services. Song service starts at 8 o'clock.

LIFE

Life is just what you make it. It is no mystery save to the aimless; no rout save to the faint-hearted; no hardship save to the indolent; no suffering save to the sinful. The weak-knees, sleepy-heads, self-seekers and gratifiers alone shout "Luck." OBNOXIOUS NUISANCES

Two nuisances which are becoming very obnoxious in the city of Clovis today are the motorcycles which tear through the city streets at a dangerous speed, cutouts open and making a deafening noise, and trucks and automobiles which are raced with open cutouts.

If there is not already a prohibition ordinance, it would perhaps meet with popular favor for the city commissioners to pass one. There may be times when more power is generated by the motor if the exhaust is not confined, but that time never comes when the vehicle is rolling over practically level, paved city streets.

There never was much of an excuse for a motorcycle, anyhow, and when they are permitted to race at a reckless speed through the busy business districts, with their exhausts putting over a battle front barrage, it is more than suffering humanity should be compelled to suffer.—Clovis (N. M.) News-Journal.

A NEWSPAPER'S INFLUENCE

Because they can go right into the homes of so many people on regular visits and talk to so many people in whatever terms they will, local newspapers are the leading directors in the town and community affairs. It is hard to measure their influence for good or bad. A discouraged newspaper soon creates a discouraged citizenry; a helpful, alert paper with a vision is an irresistible power in building up a like sentiment. The moral is: keep your newspaper encouraged, keep it going at high speed, don't let it lag for lack of support either financial or moral. If your editor gets out a good paper, tell him so—not once, but frequently. If there is an editorial, an article or a feature that you like, let him know it. He needs backing, even some praise, and too often he fails to get either. The writer knows from long experience.—Uvalde Leader-News.

MAIL ORDER CLOTHES

I bought me a suit of the Sears-buck brand, they said it was tailored and sewed by hand; they said it was woven of finest wool, and couldn't be torn by an angry bull; they said it was fine, and would surely last 'till Gabriel tooteth the final blast. It was ten cents cheaper than suits I'd bought from local dealers, who seemed quite hot, and shed a bucket of briny tears when I bought my clothes of the Sawbuck Rears. I wore that suit when the day was damp, and it shrank to the size of a postage stamp; the coat split up and the vest split down and I scared the horses all over town, for the buttons popped and the seams they tore, and the stitches gave, with a sullen roar. And I gave that suit to a maiden small, who found it handy to dress her doll.—Walt Mason.

It is said that deaf mutes feel music. So do we, but we couldn't print just how we feel about some of the latest jazz hits.

Mighty few of us but what will deny that we came from monkeys, but a great many of us will admit we are going to the dogs.

"It always rains when we have to have it" has been stated over and over by the old timers here during the recent drought, and it was proven last week. Most of the crops will now come out and make abundantly, leaving little to remind us of the long dry spell.

A gentleman in California writes that he is considering going into business in Texas, and asks if McLean needs a moving picture house, a restaurant, tea-room or Tom Thumb golf course. We told our inquirer that this town is adequately supplied in these lines. It is much better that a town have a few good businesses than a large number that are hard put to make a living.

Dick Andrus, who bought the Wheeler News-Review from the Bones brothers the first of the year, has sold the paper back to Ted Bones, and in his "Swan Song" last week, says that Wheeler is the first town he has found in his experience in 30 states that he could not make a living in. He takes a fall out of the business men of Wheeler and makes some damaging comparisons with merchants in another town. The issue in which the editorial appeared had eight pages packed with advertising and was a credit to a town the size of Wheeler.

The effect of easily accessible electric power has done much toward the decentralization of industry. Instead of shipping goods to the people, factories are now being moved to the people, with the result that better living conditions are provided employees and much of the expense of operating in a large city is escaped. Certain sorts of small plants, like tailoring, printing and high grade furniture, whose output cannot be standardized, are more economical than large plants. All this gives new life to the smaller cities at the expense of the larger ones.

The News, in common with all papers, does not print unsigned communications; however, that does not keep people from relieving their minds with a "please print" letter. We received what purports to be a copy of a letter to "Old Tack" of the Amarillo Daily News, with the request to print. It would not receive this much attention, except that writer makes the statement that there are more preachers in hell than anything else. Any man who would make a statement like that could not expect to have his opinion on anything considered seriously by anyone.

American people worship money and men with money. Be this as it may, the fact that a man has money should not be held against him. If he made it honestly it may be taken in his favor, for we all acclaim a successful man. One thing sure the man who has made a success of his own business is more likely to make a success of public business; and this fact should be kept in mind when voting for candidates for office. Mr. Sterling has money, but as far as can be learned, he made it honestly and would be more likely to make a success of the governor's office than a discredited proxy representative. The man who has made a success of his private business can give advice that can safely be heeded. The man who has made a failure of his own business cannot be safely followed by anyone.

Well, dad blast it, if Small could not beat Ross Sterling, how in the devil and Tom Walker could he beat Ma? No, folks, Texas has not lost her head; Ma is going to be beat; she is going to be eliminated and put over in the scrap heap of oblivion. Yes, grand old Texas is going to rally at the polls, and my wh- majority we will roll up for good government. O, but they say it can't be done, but be it said that the word Can't is not in the vocabulary of Democracy.

"No, the Fergusons are going to take a back seat. Ma is not going to sit on a political throne, with Jim as attorney for the convicts. That's in their platform. Jim says that they will pardon two thousand convicts right off the bat. During their last administration they turned loose something over two thousand in the two years of their misrule. No, no, Democracy has not lost her cunning—she has not lost her good judgment. No, Democracy mass will rise up on the twenty-third day of August and Ma and Jim—they also ran. Something like 800,000 votes in this state. Ma got a little over one-fourth of them—that leaves something like six thousand votes. EXIT THE EXPERT

Very few men in this age of hustle are willing to admit that they are experts, yet the term "expert" is a good word, tracing its ancestry back to Latin. But the expert was too much for our American sense of humor and we sent him to the show-ers.

Recently we heard a speaker who by experience and achievements had as good a right as the next one to be called an expert, deny the allegations of the man who introduced him that he was such. "I used to own up to being an expert," he said, "but I read in a book recently that an expert is somebody a long ways from home. Since I live here, I must reserve that appellation until I travel further."

Recently Henry Ford declared: "None of our men are experts. We have most unfortunately found it necessary to get rid of a man as soon as he thinks himself an expert—because no one ever considers himself an expert if he really knows his job. A man who knows his job sees much more to be done than he has done, that he is always pressing forward and never gives up an instant of thought to how good and how efficient he is."

The more a man learns about his line, the more he realizes how little he knows about all there is to be learned . . . he travels . . . without suffering the fate of . . . arriving . . . as Theodor . . . velt once said, "Genius is . . . perspiration."—Southwestern

Every merchant in business pays for advertising whether he uses it or not. When a competitor's advertising takes business away from him, the profit he would have made on the lost sales is what his competitor's advertising cost him—thus the fellow who is not advertising is paying a part of his competitor's advertising expense. Thereby making it a fact that it is not the advertiser or the consumer that pays for advertising—but the non-advertiser—who pays the advertising bill in loss of sales and loss of profits.—Hemphill County News.

OF A FAMOUS CHEF

The proper use of seasoning, according to Mr. Guillot, is one of the most important secrets of the culinary art. Here Mr. Guillot illustrates the French use of sugar, not as a sweetener, but as a seasoner to accentuate and bind flavors.

Chicken Mexicaine

Cut up a frying chicken, sprinkle with salt and pepper, and fry in bacon fat, along with the giblets and one sliced onion. You are hereby commanded to sum- mon Fred Sprague by making publi- cation of this citation once in each week for four consecutive weeks pre- vious to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, if there be a newspaper published therein, but if not, then in the nearest county where a newspaper is publish- ed, to appear at the next regular term of the 31st District Court of Gray county, to be holden at the Court House there of, in Pampa, Texas, on the 4th Monday in September, A. D. 1930, the same being the 22nd day of September, A. D. 1930, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 18th day of July, A. D. 1930, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said Court No. 2501, wherein May Primus Sprague is Plaintiff, and Fred Sprague is Defendant, and a brief statement of plaintiff's cause of action, being as follows:

That plaintiff and defendant were lawfully married on August 12th, 1927 and that they separated on February 26th, 1928, and that they have not lived together since. Plaintiff alleges that during their marriage she was kind and affectionate towards the defen- dant and discharged her marital du- ties, but defendant, unmindful of his marital duties, was guilty of excessive and cruel treatment towards this plaintiff he often cursed an abused plaintiff and applied to her the vilest and most opprobrious epithets without any cause or provocation on the part of plaintiff, doing such in the presence of third parties; that defendant aban- doned this plaintiff without cause and insisted on living and co-habiting with another woman; and that by reason of such actions their future living to- gether is insupportable. The plaintiff seeks a divorce and dissolution of her marriage relations with the defendant and the restoration of her maiden name.

Herein fail not but have before said Court, at its next regular term, this writ with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

One afternoon a stranger debarked from a train at a hustling town in the West and headed up the street. Finally he met a man who looked like a native.

"Pardon me," said the stranger, "are you a resident of this town?"

"Yes, sir," was the rejoinder of the other. "I have been here some- thing like fifty years. What can I do for you?"

"I am looking for a criminal law- yer," responded the stranger. "Have you one here?"

"Well," said the native reflectively, "we think we have, but can't prove it on him."—Washington Herald.

NEWSPAPERS ONLY

For a newspaper to praise newspaper advertising results in little conviction in the minds of advertisers—the motive of self-interest is evident and discounts the opinion expressed, notwithstanding the fact that such boosters are usually sincere, just as other business men genuinely believe in the superior quality of the particular product they sell. When a non-journalist praises newspaper advertising, the opinion receives a different interpretation.

The Fox Theatre Corporation operates a large chain of movies and is interested in attracting millions of patrons each day. Now, after a careful survey, G. S. Yorke, Fox director of advertising, has instructed the managers of various houses to drop all other forms of advertising and spend all the money for newspaper space. He said some of their leading theatres had never used any other advertising medium.

Six reasons were given, some applying particularly to movie advertising, but others to all forms, as follows, by Mr. Yorke: "Flexibility. Frequently the theatres of this corporation must make quick changes in programs. These can always be advertised in newspaper columns. The newspaper columns also permit the best use of decorative advertising which is so essential to the advertising of our theatres. Increased space is always available to us in newspaper columns. In using other mediums we have not always found additional space readily accessible on limited notice. Newspaper advertisements can be changed or corrected with greater dispatch, minimum cost and greatest convenience. Except in rare cases, theatrical advertisements in the newspapers do not have to compete with non-theatrical copy. Newspaper advertisements can be digested at the convenience of the reader."—Shamrock Texan.

KINDLY ADVICE TO HOUSEWIVES

When vegetables cannot be served raw, they should be cooked as quickly and with as little water as possible.

Cooking has a tendency to destroy some of the necessary vitamins and if the vegetable is cooked in water some of the valuable mineral salts are left in the liquid. Baking and boiling are the best methods to use in cooking vegetables if these elements are to be saved, but, since boiling is most popular, care should be taken that the loss is not great.

When a vegetable is to be boiled have the water boiling when the vegetable is put in and then bring it to the boiling point again as quickly as possible. This tends to retain the food value as well as the natural color and flavor.

In cooking green vegetables, leave the vessel uncovered to retain the natural color.

Ten to fifteen minutes is long enough to cook most leafy vegetables and the cooking should never exceed thirty minutes. Overcooking causes a great loss in food value and makes the vegetables tasteless and mushy.

The size of the vegetable also has much to do with its food value. To get the greatest benefit, vegetables of medium size should be used. The larger ones are woody, strong in flavor and are not so rich in vitamins. Then, too, they require longer cooking which destroys their food value.

Two vegetables a day, in addition to potatoes, should be served every day, and one of these should be the leafy kind. If possible, one should also be served raw.

EFFECT OF A YAWN

One day doctors will be able to tell why yawning is so infectious. The other morning a woman sitting opposite me in the bus gave vent to a prodigious yawn, writes a well-known practitioner. Within a few moments both her neighbors were yawning also, and shortly afterward I began to yawn myself, although I felt quite fresh and wideawake. I made a deliberate attempt to check myself, but could not succeed, and it was only when my mind had been occupied by some other matter that I forgot to yawn. Probably by now you are yawning yourself. The very word "yawn" seems as infectious as the habit.—Exchange.

CAR OVERTURNED ON HIGHWAY LAST NIGHT

A car driven by Lauren Warford of Alanreed, accompanied by Lawrence Miniard, Misses Opal and Montie Gibson, was overturned last night and all occupants badly bruised and shaken up. Lights from an approaching car blinded the driver and crowded the Warford car over a small soft ridge of dirt left by the grader, causing the car to hit the ditch, and in trying to get back on the highway was overturned, practically wrecking the car.

The driver was cut over the left eye, Miss Opal Gibson had one hand and arm cut, and the others suffered similar injuries.

The young people were on their way to McLean when the accident occurred about five miles east of Alanreed.

COTTON PRICES WEAK

TO REMOVE STAINS

The following methods of removing stains are suggested by home economics specialists of the Extension Service of South Dakota State College.

Grease Stains: Lard can be used for removing wagon grease. After using lard, wash in warm water. Many grease spots can be removed by placing right side of garment on blotting paper and pressing on wrong side.

Coffee and Tea Stains: An easy way to remove these stains is to dip in a solution of washing soda (1-4 pound soda to a quart of water) and rinse very carefully to remove all the soda.

Fruit Stains: If the stain is on white or a fast color material, stretch it over a bowl and pour boiling water through it from a height of about three feet.

Grass Stains: If the stain is fresh, cold water will be sufficient. Alcohol is very effective also ammonia and warm water followed by washing in warm soap solution and a careful rinsing.

Rust stains: Wet the stain and apply a few drops of oxalic acid or cream of tartar, or lemon juice and salt. Place in sunlight, then wash carefully.

Blood Stains: Cold water will remove most of stain then wash in soap and warm water.

Ink Stains: Wash at once in cold water. Sometimes several rinsings in sweet milk or soaking several hours in sour milk will remove the spot. Wash carefully with warm water and soap. On white goods, a paste of lemon juice, starch, and salt, will remove it.

Perhaps that custom will solve a problem which has been worrying the Vernon police department. With such a practice in vogue, the jelly-beans who have been cluttering up the street corners much to the displeasure of Chief Key et al, no doubt would go in for family visiting in a big way.—Vernon Record.

NEWSPAPER IS DIFFERENT

A mistaken idea with some people is that the newspaper is an individual proposition. If they don't like the editor, they feel they must knock the paper and stand in the way of its success whenever possible. They do not realize that the local paper is just as much a part of the community as the schools, churches or anything else. The newspaper is different from any other business—it is a community affair. It is for service to the people and not for any individual.

You may not like the editor, and the editor may not like you any too well—but the paper he is responsible for does just as much for you as the service rendered others. There is nothing personal with it, it is here for a purpose and that purpose is to do what good it can in every way it can and the greater the support of those it undertakes to serve, the better service it can render. It takes the people to make a good newspaper and without the help of the people no one can run a successful paper. It requires money to operate any kind of business—even the churches and the papers are no exceptions, and for this reason they must have the financial support of the business interest as well as the good will.

Few newspaper publishers make more than a comfortable living and scarcely one is reported wealthy from money made in the newspaper business. They deserve to be trusted and to be understood by the people—it is the editor and not the plant that makes a newspaper useful in a community, though a liberal patronage is necessary if the paper is to be a credit to the town.—Westfield (N. J.) Standard.

WATERMELON ETIQUETTE

Does one eat watermelon or drink it? Someone helpfully suggests that it is inhaled with a "slur-r-p," which probably accounts for the fact that many a kid has been strangled on it while watching both ends of the lane.—Donley County Leader.

RUNNING A NEWSPAPER

The thing that makes it hard for a man to run a newspaper is his friends. When a friend thinks something ought to be kept out of the paper he doesn't hesitate to ask it as a personal favor. An enemy doesn't ask any favors. But a friend thinks the conduct of a newspaper is the personal matter of the editor, when as a matter of fact, he is largely in the position of a man serving a public trust.

A philosophical old fellow once said to the writer, "a newspaper that doesn't make you mad once in a while isn't worth the subscription price."

To make people mad isn't the chief province of a newspaper, but if it is going to be one worthy the name, it must print the news without fear or favor. The Register has been threatened with, and indeed has suffered business reprisals, not once but frequently. These things must necessarily be borne in silence. The great reading public which a newspaper serves is not interested in the personal difficulties of the editor or publisher.

though we have known instances where a full airing of threats and subsequent reprisals would have made absorbing reading.

But such things must be regarded as part of the game—to be suffered perhaps because of sins committed in other directions. And then, too, it must be remembered that all things, both human and divine, are subject to criticism. Even the Bible does not escape.—Raleigh (N. C.) Register.

SOUND REASONING

Norman Angell, English economist, is annoyed that the mass of people are more interested in baseball and in juvenile movie stars than in scientists, statesmen and leaders. There is plenty of reasoning behind Angell's remark. He thinks that means that we are devised to increase people's intelligence to elevate them to a sense of responsibility. He points out that most of us have a deep sense of what is proper etiquette. We do not like to be lifting food to our mouths with a knife, or drinking coffee from a saucer. We disparage a man who is a club for conduct unbecoming a gentleman. But toward the end of our lives we are indulgent as saints. We permit right stupidity, unreasonable and rank numskullism to prevail.—Tyler Journal.
