Amarillo School Superintendent Banquet Speaker Here

McIntosh Is Speaker at Banquet

Gray County School Association Met Here

W. A. McIntosh, superintendent of Amarillo city schools, was the speaker at the regular meeting of the Gray county superintendent and principals association, at high school here, Wednesday.

McIntosh spoke from the subject, "The Teacher, Teaching Citizenship and Loyalty to the Nation." "The mere possession of knowledge does not mean that the child has the right moral ideals," said the speaker, "while the different subjects in class may not of themselves teach honesty, loyalty or citizenship, the teacher can use the lessons for teaching all these values, if lessons are properly planned." McIntosh spoke of the danger of the emphasis of extra-curriculum activities, saying that such activities are limited; that students must fit themselves to enter college and that teachers must insist on their conduct, for the respect of the school to maintain a high standard. "Gambling games permitted on carnival grounds but try to put on such games in school building and see how public opinion is aroused." McIntosh is of no avail unless the example is set, no matter how small," said Mr. McIntosh. "The speaker paid high tribute to the band work in the public schools, saying that the study of music is the highest type of citizenship."

The address was closed by Mr. McIntosh, who stated that the problem of the school is not the work of the teacher alone, but there must be cooperation from the home and the community with some kind of activities, like boy and girl work, for the right employment of the child's time.

Fisher, superintendent of the schools and president of the association, presented Mr. McIntosh at the business meeting of the association.

C. Boswell of McLean, vice president of the association, was toastmaster for the occasion and the following invited guests were called upon for short addresses: W. A. Erwin, Mr. and Mrs. E. Bogan, Mr. and Mrs. T. S. C. Jones, Joe Looper and Mr. Hesse.

Superintendent John B. Fisher stated that all schools make it a point to have every patron visit during Education Week. He stated that 5,262 pupils in Gray county had Mr. Hesse, "and while the idea seems to have the idea of private institutions, such as they belong to the type of work being done."

The banquet was opened with singing by Mrs. Fisher of Pampa. The program was given by Rev. John Harding, instrumental music, and reading by pupils of the school. Roll call was announced. "What I am most thankful for is the Thanksgiving spirit out in the table decorated and service by the home department, under the direction of Mrs. Fisher." The meeting will be held at 7:30 p. m. on Jan. 13, 1932. Those present: Messrs. W. A. Erwin, T. A. Boswell, John B. Fisher, J. L. Lester; Misses Rose, Josephine Thomas, and Mrs. W. A. Erwin.

Boswell Main Speaker at Lions Club

Supt. G. C. Boswell of the McLean schools addressed the Lions Club at the regular weekly luncheon held at the First Baptist Church basement Tuesday noon, on the White House Child's Health Protection Conference. Mr. Boswell said that the Health Conference is composed of 3,500 members, and praised President Hoover for his efforts in child welfare work, saying that he has gone further in his efforts than any previous president.

In speaking of school report cards, Mr. Boswell said that the reports are only the teacher's estimate of the child, and that it is hoped that the time will come when such cards are not used. "We must stop trying to fit the child to school," said the speaker, "and endeavor to fit the school to the child's needs."

The teacher is to blame for many student failures, is the opinion of Mr. Boswell. "It is not right for the taxpayers, child, parents or community for the child to fail in any school year."

Mr. Boswell deplored the present lack of teaching for citizenship, insisting that the school is not a reformatory and not a place for nagging teachers.

In speaking of home influence, it was stated that every child has a right to the right kind of home; not of necessity a wealthy home, but one where the child's needs are considered and where the right kind of training is given. Misunderstanding in the home should be adjusted without the child's presence. Failure in the home is reflected in the school and church life of the child.

In speaking of school athletics, Mr. Boswell said that no child had any business taking part in any school play that is not able to lose gracefully. "The child needs to be taught the value of fair play."

Mr. Boswell gave a wealth of interesting statistics and paid his respects to the evil of the Texas cotton patch in interfering with the child's education.

The Home Demonstration Club met at the home of Mrs. D. A. Davis last Friday, with an all day meeting and pot luck dinner. The club quilt was quilted.

Many New Departments for Readers

New Features Added; Year's Contract Signed

This week's copy of the home paper has seven entirely new departments for readers. The publisher has signed a year's contract with one of the largest feature syndicates in the country for copyrighted cartoons and articles.

It is the policy of the publisher to give just a little more than could rightfully be expected of a newspaper in a town the size of McLean, and the new features, with the regular colored comic section, should leave nothing to be desired in the way of features for the coming year.

The News has subscribed regularly for a picture service for advertisers which is offered free to all its patrons.

The present depression, which it is believed is now about to end, has caused many people to lose money and their proper station in life, and that makes the new serial story beginning in this issue especially timely, as it deals with a young girl who was society's pet, and losing her fortune fought her way to happiness against overwhelming odds. "The Parade," by Evelyn Campbell, is one of the season's best books and will be published in generous installments each week until completed.

The "Odd-but True" cartoon should prove of interest to those who like to read of the unusual, and the front page cartoon will deal with timely subjects.

"The Family Next Door" will prove as interesting a comic strip as any paper carries, and while there will be nothing of the slap-stick variety, it will be full of chuckles and very human.

Hints for the Household will be by Betty Webster, a nationally known authority, and will be helpful to home makers. Clipping these articles each week will mean a mighty good cook book by the end of the year.

Dr. Scholes will give us a health article each week, and his advice can be taken authoritatively and safely followed.

We expect "Smilin' Charlie" to be a "regular pal" to our readers. His pert sayings can well be used in conversation, and his homely philosophy remembered for a long time.

The News will be glad to have expressions from readers on the new features, or anything else that they would like to see carried. Features are the highest priced part of a newspaper and represent efforts on the part of the publisher to please his subscribers.

A good word to a neighbor who may not be taking the paper would help, and will be appreciated.

WORLD DISARMAMENT WEEK

Next week is World Disarmament Week, under the National Council for the Prevention of War, and Mrs. A. B. Christian, social relations chairman of the First Methodist Church, informs us that some form of observance will be held here.

It is expected that a local committee will be formed and literature distributed before the next meeting of the World Disarmament Conference.

LIONS ATTEND 100 PER CENT

Last Tuesday McLean Lions registered 100% in attendance, and the secretary reported that three meetings in last month saw every member present.

W. W. Chilton of Amarillo and Mr. Harges of Denver were guests of the club Tuesday. The club voted to sponsor a school-town spelling contest.

The following program has been arranged by the Legion committee, consisting of Josh Turner, Raymond Glass and A. A. Tampke:

Benediction by Rev. Jno. H. Crow.
Everyone in the community has an urgent invitation to attend the program.

A majority of the stores have signed an agreement to close at 10 a. m. and remain closed for the remainder of Armistice Day.

HALLOWEEN QUIET AFFAIR

Halloween was a quiet affair here, compared with many previous years. Some little damage was done, but nothing to speak of, only one boy getting in the toils of the law.

Young people seem to be slowly learning that property rights should be respected, regardless of the time of year.

Supt. G. C. Boswell and W. E. Bogan attended a banquet given by the Panhandle superintendents association in Amarillo Monday night.

A. R. McHanev, John Hardins, R. B. Fisher, R. B. Selby, W. A. McIntosh, S. C. Jones, Joe Looper, B. F. Bullis, L. Gray and H. B. Oriffith.

EMBROIDERY CLUB

Mrs. Donald Beall and Mrs. C. S. Doolen jointly entertained the members of the Embroidery Club and their husbands last Thursday evening.

Both the Doolen and Beall homes were attractively decorated in orange and black crepe paper, cut flowers, tinted autumn leaves and Halloween decorations.

Mrs. Bob Black, dressed as a witch, delighted the guests very much. An attractive witch wish pot was arranged at the Doolen home.

A pot luck supper was served at the Beall home, after which "42" was played until a late hour.

Those present were: Messrs. and Mesdames Alva Alexander, John Butler, G. C. Boswell, H. W. Brooks, D. C. Carpenter, J. R. Glass, H. C. Ripley, Allen Wilson, D. C. Carpenter, S. D. Shelburne, Evan L. Dishman; Miss Ruby Seal, and the following children: Mary Catherine Brooks, Shirley Ray and Jack Glass, Donald Butler, Jr., Claude Gene Doolen and Bobby Beall.

Dr. H. W. Finley, Claude Williams and A. A. Ledbetter made a trip to Oklahoma City Sunday.

The band will have 36 clarinets, four drums and other instruments in correct proportion.

SORE THROAT

By Dr. William J. Scholes
 "If it isn't better tomorrow, we shall call the doctor." It would be much better to call him today—the first day of that sore throat. By tomorrow, there may be no question about the sore throat being diphtheria. A day will have been lost. And, the loss of each day is serious in a case of diphtheria.

From 12,000 to 15,000 people die annually in the United States from diphtheria. Statistics show that almost all of the cases which are treated with adequate amounts of antitoxin on the first day of the disease, recover. The death rate increases with each day's delay in the administration of antitoxin. So the necessity of an early recognition of this disease, in order that effective treatment may be promptly instituted, is apparent.

Recognizing Diphtheria
 The sore throat of diphtheria may easily be confused with less serious sore throats. Diphtheria is recognized by the general symptoms, the formation of a false membrane in the throat, and the examination of throat cultures. In some cases no membrane can be seen, but there is a sore throat and the germs of diphtheria are present. One form of croup is diphtheria. Spots or patches may form in the throat as a result of other infections.

Children Greatest Sufferers
 It is among children that diphtheria takes a heavy toll. Between the ages of two and twelve is the period of greatest susceptibility. But it is possible for diphtheria to occur earlier than this, and older children and adults are often affected.

The severity of the symptoms are not always in proportion to the seriousness of the disease. On the first day of the disease, diphtheria patients usually do not appear to be in any more danger than those who have tonsillitis. What appears to be a trivial sore throat in the beginning may prove to be a dangerous case of diphtheria if neglected.

The nature of every sore throat should be determined without delay, particularly in the case of children! (Copyright, 1931, by The Bonnet-Brown Corporation, Chicago).

Housecleaning
 Housecleaning is not what is used to be. It is not a thing one has to run from or dread. With our new electrical improvements and the vogue of eliminating non-essentials, has come the period of almost constant cleanliness. Of course, to be really clean our homes must "have a bath," so that it will not be necessary to trail through them with dirt from other rooms.

It is well to rearrange some. Add a few of the latest touches in drapes, furniture or bric-a-brac. Put away or give away useless things, so when through the rooms will breathe of hominess, cleanliness and good looks.

1. Begin with closets and drawers. This includes pantries.
2. How to clean closets:
  - (a) Hang heavy clothes and furs outdoors.
  - (b) Send soiled clothes to cleaners.
  - (c) Give away to needy anything you will not be able to use and which will always be in the way. Better some good than no good.
  - (d) Wash woodwork, floors and drawers.
  - (e) Paint woodwork, drawers and cracks in floors with turpentine. Use a regular paint brush for this. This leaves the closet absolutely clean and free from any insects.
3. Plan ahead for cleaning, and have plenty of rags, polishes and soaps on hand.
4. Do one or two rooms at a time where possible, to avoid overtiredness and making the whole family uncomfortable.
5. Try and avoid a cluttered appearance. Too much bric-a-brac means endless dusting, and needless homely furniture detracts. Do not save to the point of having your things a burden to you.

With the Churches

LABOR AMONG THE PEOPLE OF McLEAN

By Rev. W. Hickman

In October, 1926, we were appointed the district assembly to take the corporate of the Church of the Brethren at this place, which we missed, by the help of the Lord. Realizing that the church had without a pastor quite a length of time we were sure that the work of organizing would be difficult, so the thing we attempted to do was to dig a hole through the sky and get something from heaven on the matter. So, after praying with all the earnestness of my soul and all the power I could command, God woke me one night about 2 o'clock and gave me the promise which He gave to Abraham when He called him to lead the children of Israel out of Egypt. "I will be with thee, and I will bless thee." I looked up to heaven, my heart glowing with joy, and I said, "Lord, if that promise is true, take Moses through the Red Sea and feed him for forty years in the wilderness, on manna and quail, and the children of Israel in a land that flowed with milk and honey, promise enough to take me to heaven." And I want to testify just to the fact that God has made good to me and has been better to me than I fancied He ever would be. Glory to His holy name! My supreme joy and delight, standing here, we found only the original membership, who had stood by us and help up the work again. With this background, backed up by the Lord from heaven, we began and led our first sermon to 11 people the last Sunday in October, January, 1927, we organized a church school with an enrollment of 26, and God began to bless our efforts. In May of that year Mary Lee Cagle held a revival which resulted in the salvation of about 30 souls, 22 of them with the church. And again we thank the Lord for His promise to go with us. I am so sure that God's promises to his people never fail, and if my labors in this people have not measured up to God's plan, it is a failure on my part and not His. The work has continued to grow each year God has been saving precious souls, and some have added to the church until at present we have 47 members on the roll and a nice Sunday school with an average attendance of 53 for the year. We also have a good live society of young people who are much to the church and its work. We have the cleanest and most loyal band of young people I ever been associated with, and they have heaven's richest blessings and meditations upon them, and God's abounding grace hedge them from worldly pleasures and temptations and from everything that would draw their souls from being washed in the blood of Christ can wash them. We also have in the church a missionary society which has done much to the success of the work. May God mightily bless and make their lives rich in grace. We thank every officer and every member of the church for their work and labors of love, and especially the leading of the church in the work of the church by its brightest and sweetest son your efforts in the future. We stand with you as a church and individuals to stand loyally by the pastor and love and pray that God may make the mighty power for good. We know just what the future is, but unless we are given work at the assembly, we gain in McLean for the time being. Sunday will possibly be our family to preach to the people and we would be glad to have who can attend the service. Subject for the morning is "Heaven," and for the afternoon "The Way of Holiness." 35.8. and bring your friends. to the citizenship and bustle of town we would say that the souls of our soul we thank the fellowship we have engaged you and the many favors shown us. We are sure never know, until the conclusion of all things, just how appreciate your kindness also take this privilege of our thanks to Bro. T. A. Editor of this paper, for free to the manager for his kindness in allowing the columns of his work of God's kingdom this good name continue in announcing the council of as well as the current day. The printed page is never. accomplished anything in this city which may have been a blessing to anyone, it is because God has been with us, and to Him be all the glory. I have learned to love the people of McLean and its surroundings, and pray that God may rain righteousness upon you all until all shall come to know Him, whom to know aright is life eternal; and that you may be able to comprehend with all saints what is the breadth and length and depth and height; and to know the love of Christ, which passeth knowledge, that ye might be filled with all the fulness of God. Now unto Him that is able to do exceedingly abundantly above all that we ask or think, according to the power that worketh in us, unto Him be glory in the church by Christ Jesus throughout all ages, world without end. Amen.

Our readers will find seven brand new departments in this issue of their favorite paper. We have bought a year's franchise to an "All Star" feature service that we hope will prove of interest to everyone.

Wagons on the roads at night without lights are violating the state law and running a serious risk of being run into by automobiles. The law requires vehicles of all kinds to carry head and tail lights.

While commending the bankers' plan of assisting the farmer to hold his cotton, Commissioner of Agriculture J. E. McDonald points out that the plan does not consume a single bale of cotton, but only retards the sale. Acreage must be drastically cut next year in order to do any lasting good.

Governor Murray of Oklahoma was right when he said in a speech at Dallas before the thirty-sixth reunion, in referring to the American Legion's proposal for a modification of the prohibition laws: "Give us bread and butter, beans and bacon, rather than give us beer." This is no time to propose legislation that will add to an already overburdened people.

The Canyon chamber of commerce, in a signed letter in the Canyon News of last week, thanked the home paper for its ever willing and progressive spirit in donating space to C. of C. activities. That a home paper would demonstrate this spirit is no matter to write about, but the expression of thanks from the C. of C. is. It is seldom that the home paper is thanked for its efforts in behalf of community interests.

Brisbane, said to be the highest paid columnist in the United States, and whose ideas on religion, prohibition and some other things cannot be safely followed, now hints that opponents of government ownership should consider the post office as a success. We wonder if it has ever occurred to the gentleman that the postoffice department is just the kind of success that the government usually makes—the deficit is always made up from the taxpayers' pockets.

Rev. W. A. Erwin said in a talk before the Lions Club Tuesday, that the neighbors get just as much pleasure out of a pretty yard as the man who owns it. He might have just as truly said that a well kept home adds value to the neighbor's property as well as to the one who owns it. Rev. Erwin made a plea for a well kept city park, with a caretaker, and shrubbery and trees added. He also mentioned the need of respect for other people's property, and that children and others should use the walks and keep off of private property.

Bishop Hay of the West Texas Conference of the Methodist Church is liable to make himself unpopular with some people on his edict that preachers should not play golf. "If you want exercise," said the bishop,

"get out and walk around and visit your congregation, or chop some wood. Don't spend your time dilly-dallying around doing useless things. A preacher who tends to his flock and obeys the dictates of the church will find plenty to do without spending his afternoons on the golf course." We wonder what the good bishop would do if, in trying to visit his flock, he found most of them on the golf course every afternoon, and sometimes on Sunday.

PAUL IN EPHEBUS
Acts 19:8-20

By Rev. Cecil G. Goff
Paul remained in Corinth more than eighteen months. He had many difficulties while there, but according to God's promise he was able to carry on his ministry without any physical harm. The governor, Gallio, even took his part against the Jews when they took Paul to gain civil judgment for him in order to stop his work. Paul remained in Corinth for some time after this incident, but finally went to Ephesus with Priscilla and Acquilla. He preached some there and continued his journey and went by boat to Caesarea, and then to Antioch of Syria, his headquarters.

Paul did not tarry long in Antioch but again began his journey—the third missionary tour. He visited the churches which he had established in Galatia and Phrygia, and from thence he went back to Ephesus. In the meantime Apollos appeared in Ephesus preaching the gospel of John, and Priscilla and Acquilla gave him instruction concerning Christ. Apollos later became one of Christendom's greatest preachers.

Paul on this return remained two years in Ephesus teaching and preaching. For three months he taught in the synagogue. Then, as usual, he was forced to find some other place to teach. This he found in the school of Tryannus. He and his followers probably rented a room or hall where the gospel continued. This seems to be the first instance recorded concerning a church building. Churches had been meeting in homes but here in Ephesus a regular meeting place outside of a home was established.

During this period Paul had the privilege of preaching to untold numbers. The city was large and wicked. There was much work to be done. Also, it was a trading center and much of the traffic east and west passed through it. Paul never missed an opportunity to bring the gospel to local citizens or distant travelers. Paul's work in Ephesus consisted not only of preaching but also of marvelous healing, which was probably the loudest of his preaching. The sick were even healed by the touching of an article of clothing which had been on Paul. Ephesus was a wicked, sinful, idolatrous and superstitious city. There were many sorcerers and men of similar nature who claimed to perform the same fetes as Paul was performing. Seven brothers tried it in the name of Jesus—they commanded a devil to leave a man. They were informed that they recognized Jesus, knew Paul, but not those commanding. Immediately the man whom they possessed accosted the seven and they were forced to run for their lives. This brought much attention to Paul and his work.

The entire work of Paul was guided by the great unseen hand of the Father. When trials and difficulties came, He gave a helping hand, and when adversities reared their heads He often turned them to good account, as in this case. The world had better not tamper with those things which are God's. Satan knows God, His power and His servants, and he knows, also, when an impostor who is really his possession is trying to play the role of a Christian or a servant of God. The world may not be able to see beyond the appearance, but God, and even Satan, knows. However, He does not often treat one as He did these seven.

There is one characteristic point noted in the first three months work of Paul in Ephesus. Those who did not believe him and the gospel were hardened. So it is always. The gospel, when rejected, has a hardening effect upon one. The word used here by Luke is a medical term—used concerning the hardening of the blood system. The longer a man rejects the gospel the harder his heart grows. That greatest of all sins, the rejection of the gospel of Christ, daily renders a man farther from the gospel and less able to accept it. It is not a matter of God's Spirit leaving a man or a lessening of the power of the gospel, but a matter of a man's leaving God and His Spirit and being weakened by sin, less able to accept God's grace. When a man was about Paul he had either to accept or reject the gospel of Christ, for Paul was determined to place it before him.

Pray for the day to come when all Christians will have the zeal of Paul

WRITING UP A WEDDING

Most newspaper men shrink from the task of writing up a wedding, and prefer to pass that responsible duty on to the female society editor.

Yet there are exceptions. Occasionally an editor is found who can paint a word picture of nuptial events that any lady reporter might envy. We just discovered one like that who appears to be hiding his great talents in an obscure Kansas town, while he ought to be holding down a great city job. Here is a sample of his literary ability, which proves our point:

"It was a wonderful wedding. The girl was as sweet as any girl who ever lived, but modern. As she walked up the aisle on her father's arm, her lips tilted at the corners with a happy smile, she was a picture of modest beauty. Her filmy wedding gown and gossamer veil floated around her fair blond head like a halo. She was as nearly an angel as girls get to be in this world. At the altar she passed from her father, the man she always loved, to the other man to whom she would devote the rest of her life, her dainty slipper touched a potted lily resting on the floor, and turned it over. Smiling again, she turned to the dear old pastor waiting at the chancel, and said: 'That was a hell of a place to put a lily.'—Wellington Leader.

CLOSING SCHOOLS IS POOR BUSINESS

The order of the school board, in closing the Muleshoe schools for two weeks, at its session last Monday, is neither expediency, good business, wise legislation, nor in keeping with the desire of the majority of patrons and pupils interested in the school.

Such action virtually wipes out all benefits the pupils have obtained during the first six weeks the school has been running. It seems that the cost of running the schools during these past six weeks has been largely wasted, and it is doubted if there will be more than 15% of the pupils who are turned out of school that will be used in cotton picking. Even if 90% of them went to the cotton fields, at the price cotton now is, in consideration of the time lost in education, the wear and tear on clothing and body, the disrupting of regular plans and disappointment of other parents and pupils, the dismissal of school is impractical and of decidedly community damage.—Muleshoe Journal.

JUST a tasteless dose of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in water. That is all, effective, yet harmless. It is the standard antacid for 50 years. Spoonful will neutralize at once any excess of acid. It is the way, the quick, pleasant and safe way to kill the excess acid. The stomach becomes sweet, the pain departs, and you are happy again in five minutes.

But don't depend on crude medicine the best way yet evolved in 50 years of searching. That is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia, the kind that physicians prescribe.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been U. S. Registered Trade Mark of Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co. and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1881.

"The Good Old Days"

Many people like to talk about the "good old days" when living was a much simpler matter than it is today. "Things were cheaper," they say; but we were able to prove to one person the other day that they were in the days when Grandma and Grandpa bought their first housekeeping outfit—and not only is this a fact at our store, but you can actually buy better and more comfortable furniture than was ever thought of in those days.

We can prove this to you, if you will come in and let us price some of the modern pieces on our display floor.

Then, too, you can turn in your out-of-date furniture at a very liberal figure.

TIGERS TIE GAME WITH LEFORS

On last Friday afternoon the McLean Tigers tied the Lefors Pirates in a hard fought battle on the Le- fers grid. The teams were evenly matched and both were extremely anxious to carry away the spoils. The Tigers had not been defeated this year, and one of their goal lines had been crossed. The Tigers were evenly crossed both goal lines. The game was embued with the school spirit and enthusiasm that made them up a good fight. When the Pipers came here on Nov. 25 the Tigers went to "wallop" them good. The line-up last Friday was: Pickett RE, Back RT, Lynch RG, (captain) C. Switzer LG, Cash Heasley LE, Kinard FB, Tolliver L. Christian RH, C. Christian Substitutes were: West for L. Christian in third quarter, and L. Christian for West in fourth quarter. Nov. 11, at 2:30, the Tigers will play the Pampa Gorillas on the field. Be there and support

SENIOR PARTY

Seniors feel that Mrs. J. E. is a room mother indeed, and why. Last Friday evening she entertained the senior class and some of her friends and teachers with a de- licious Halloween party in her at- home in east McLean. The party was beautifully decorated in red and black with skeletons and lanterns conspicuously placed in the rooms. "Bunco" was played in the late hour. The tally cards were out on pumpkins. A hilarious time was enjoyed by all. Late in the evening a knock was heard and when the door was opened the "spookiest" thing that had ever been entered into the room. She told various people that she did not have to have the palms crossed with silver. In the late hour a very delicious re- cept plate was passed to each of the sandwiches, pie and coffee "mightily good" as several ex- pressed it. On each place was a card with the fate of the person written on his. Be- fore departure, these were read and much merriment. Mrs. Lynch, and she is our room mother, and she led the year with this most party, we are indeed going her all the more.

DEANS OF GIRLS IN HIGH SCHOOL

Each year the association of Deans of Wo- men in Texas is the objective of the Texas Outlook. So the Texas Outlook has one of the superintendents of high schools that have al- ready employed deans of girls have themselves as favoring the idea. Our state superintendent of instruction, Mr. S. M. N. "I wish to give my un- derstanding to the employ- ment of deans of girls in any high school which has a sufficiently large enrollment to justify the expense. In the schools the work of dean should be assigned to one of the members of the high school fac- ulty. The conditions demand that the influence of members of the high school faculty should be felt by the girls attending high school."

Superintendents of Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston, Galveston and San Antonio expressed themselves as heartily in favor of a dean of girls. Mr. Fisher of Pampa said: "I believe that every high school should have a dean of girls. We have a young woman as physical education di- rector and dean of high school. We have found her to be an unusually helpful and helpful standpoint."

These things accomplished by the girls in this school, Mr. Fisher as the most outstand- ing maintenance of splendid con- ditions in the community; 2. Assis- tance of curriculum recom- mendation of extra-cur- ricular activities; 3. Assis- tance of their plan of study; 4. Assis- tance of their moral; 5. Pro- vision of physical education; 6. Pro- vision of physical education; 7. The dean of girls is the school girl's best friend. The girl is the important factor in the standing of the school, her character de- termined by her home life, her associates, and her directed through channels for a hap- pier life." (Review from article in Texas Outlook).

 Supt. Boswell has appointed Miss McCarty for the dean of girls in our high school. Miss McCarty is well qualified for the duties of dean and is sure to do her best in carrying out the things that she undertakes. We are hoping that this high school benefits greatly from this new office.

SUPERINTENDENTS AND PRINCIPALS' CLUB

The Superintendents and Principals' Club of Gray county met with the McLean high school at 7 o'clock Wed- nesday, Nov. 4, with Messrs. Boswell, Harding and McHaney as hosts. The girls of the home economics depart- ment, under the direction of Miss Seal, served one of the most elab- orate banquets of the year. The en- tire meeting was carried out in the Thanksgiving motif. The invitations, place cards, menu, program, decora- tions, etc., all bore the sign of tur- key, pumpkins, and the like. The long banquet table was set down the center of the main corri- dor of the first floor. The table was lavishly decorated in the colors of yellow and green. Yellow chrysanthem- ums and dahlias, yellow and green candles made a pleasing appearance. Place cards and programs in the form of a cut-out turkey stood at each place.

W. A. McIntosh of the Ama- rillo schools, was the principal speaker of the evening. He had as his sub- ject "The Teacher Teaching Citi- zenship and Loyalty from the First to the Eleventh Grades." The program was as follows:
 Song—America.
 Invocation—Prin. R. B. Selby of Pampa.
 Roll call—"What I Am Most Thank- ful for."
 Reading—Lefors high school.
 Music—Prin. John Harding of Mc- Lean.
 Reading—Pampa high school.
 Address—Supt. W. A. McIntosh of Amarillo.
 Business—President, Supt. R. B. Fisher of Pampa.

The three course dinner was made up of fruit cocktail, baked chicken, dressing, giblet gravy, English peas, candied sweet potatoes, carrot salad, hot rolls, orange relish, pumpkin pie, whipped cream coffee, nuts and mints. Restless CHILDREN

CHILDREN will fret, often for no apparent reason. But there's always Castoria! As harmless as the recipe on the wrapper, mild and bland as it tastes. But its gentle action soothes a youngster more surely than a more powerful medicine.
 That's the beauty of this special children's remedy! It may be given the tiniest infant—as often as there is need. In cases of colic, diarrhea or similar disturbance, it is invaluable. A coated tongue calls for just a few drops to ward off constipation, so does any suggestion of bad breath. Whenever children don't eat well, don't rest well, or have any little upset—this pure vegetable preparation is usually all that's needed.

HOME ECONOMICS NEWS

The following officers were elected at a meeting of the home economics girls Thursday afternoon: President, Margaret Hess; vice president, Ava- lee Back; secretary-treasurer, Juanita Brooks; reporter, Lucille Morse; parla- mentarian, Mary Reneau.

The regular meeting of the club will be held the last period of the second and fourth Thursday of each month. We invite girls who do not take home economics to join our club.

Following is a poem that is well worth the time to read:
 It isn't the cut of the clothes you wear,
 Nor the stuff out of which they are made:
 Tho' selected with taste and fastid- ious care;
 And it isn't the price that you paid,
 It isn't the size of the pile in your bank,
 Nor the number of acres you own;
 It isn't the question of prestige or rank,
 Nor a question of fame or renown.
 It isn't the servants who come at your call,
 And it isn't the things you possess—
 Whether many, or little, or nothing at all;
 It is Service that measures success.

AGRICULTURAL REPORT

The vocational agriculture instruc- tor and the state representatives for the national meat judging contest are working at every available oppor- tunity to be in good shape to make a creditable showing at Kansas City Royal this month. The group is working out at the local meat mark- ets twice a week, and also in the markets of other towns. They went to Pampa for a workout last Satur- day.

The members of the team are: M. H. Kinard, Jr., Ford Bell, Gordon Robinson and Edwin Howard.
 The judging will be held about the 17th of this month.
 The following poem was written in eighth grade English by Orel Kuykendall. It is an original poem taken from the story of "Tam O' Shanter," by Robert Burns.
 Tam O'Shanter was drunk all time

On whiskey, beer or good old wine;
 Every time he and a neighbor met
 Tam wouldn't stay sober on a ten dollar bet.

Tam's wife would stay up all night,
 And when he got home, they would fight.
 But Tam got worse and worse still,
 Till one night he drank enough a horse to kill.

As he was going home on this dark night,
 He happened to see such an awful sight
 That a sober man would have died of fright,
 But Tam was so drunk, he couldn't see right.

The sight that Tam had chanced to see,
 'Twas a bunch of old witches out on a spree.
 But one of them was young and fair;
 'Course, she was a witch, but Tam didn't care.

Tam cried, "Well done," and hark,
 The lights went out and it grew dark.
 "I'll cut out his heart," one old witch said.
 Said another, "I'd rather have his head."

For Tam and Meg had left in high;
 Tam and Meg made the river in no- thing but.
 But an old witch grabbed Meg's tail and almost broke her back.

Now the next time you want to drink any beer,
 Just think of Tam's old gray mare,
 Who, with the loss of her tail, she saved his life,
 And carried him home to his loving wife.

BEAVER MERCHANTS STUNG

Not so many weeks ago another smooth tongued salesman, with a pleasing personality, was in Beaver soliciting the merchants for advertising in a so-called Beaver County Directory. This young man represented a publishing house which carried his own name as president. He gave his address as Elkhart, Kans.

This young man evidently found the "sicking pretty good here in Beaver, judging from the yell sent up by a number of the local merchants. Many inquiries are now being made as to the young man's whereabouts.

It seems, as the story goes, that he received the copy for a number of ads, collected the cash for them and promised that the directory would be ready and delivered in two weeks. Up to this time no directory has been delivered and the merchants who fell for the scheme are minus from two to twenty dollars each, depending on the size of the bait they swallowed.

These kind of schemes have been cussed and discussed time and time again in the chamber of commerce meetings and in the columns of this newspaper, warning the business men not to fall for such poor medium.

The Herald-Democrat does not want every penny that the local merchant spends on his advertising, but if we could receive only one-half of the money that is absolutely wasted on such as the above schemes, we would not only be giving the merchant his money's worth, but the money would be kept in Beaver, where it rightly deserves to be kept.

Give this matter a lot of thought and the next time one of these fly-by-night artists comes around, think of your local newspaper, and profit by the mistakes some have made in the past.—Beaver Herald-Democrat.

MADE TO SELL

Of course it is none of our business, but we have a great hankering to know why Amos did not try "Reprobent" antiseptic mouth wash when he had throat inflammation recently, and if he did, why didn't it prevent. They claim it will kill all kinds of disease bugs, even if mixed with a lot of creek water, before you can say Jack Robinson. But, maybe, like a lot of other remedies, it is made to sell and not to use.—Brownfield Herald.

The Springfield Press tells this one on the cub reporter who has been instructed never to overlook the value of names in a local news story, and who, a few days later, placed the following on the city desk: "John Brown was painfully injured Friday morning when he was trampled by three cows, purchased from Bill Smith, but formerly owned by Zeb White, when the animals became frightened at a Ford car driven by Miss Zephia Stephens. Mr. Brown was knocked down by the cows, whose names are Jenny, Patsy and Bertha."

Eleven terrace tops planted to red top cane yielded Joe Cross 800 bales of bright hay, and not a terrace broke. He is an Archer county farmer who terraced his farm last year in co-operation with the county agent, at 78c per acre, using county engine and grader.

OH! TACK, WHO'D A THOT IT?

And now Old Tack, notable figure of Amarillo News-Globe connection and the man that has raised the News higher up in its field than ever before, has spoken a few words in defense of Herbert Hoover. Who'd a thot it? Tack is now saying that the people should join hands with any party that can give the country relief. He is just as right as he can be. The people of the United States are now to the point that they don't give much of a darn just what party they vote with. They want economical relief and they don't even care whether it comes through a party or not. There are just about the same percentage of Republicans and Democrats in our country as there ever were—such as they are. Such as they are is right. That is what is hard to determine—just what kind are they?

In the South and the Middle-West you are going to find plenty of people that will vote in the coming election and they are plumb wild to vote wild if necessary. They are just now red hot to vote the Democrat ticket, not because they are all such red-hot Democrats, but because they crave a change. Whether or not President Hoover is or is not to blame they feel that a change can't hurt whether it helps or not.

I want a change for both reasons however, and so do millions of others. I am a Democrat, always have been and suppose I always will be. I want to see a Democrat in the white house. Then, too, I just want a change.

But someone may ask, what if the Democrats nominate an anti-prohibitionist? My prediction is that you will vote for an anti-prohibitionist or one under the dominating influence of the liquor interest, regardless of who you vote for. I hope that I am mistaken in my prediction, and I may be, but just wait. All candidates may be politically wet or politically dry, but in reality there'll not be much difference—I fear. Let us hope that there will be a last minute rally and that a demand for the return of Woodrow Wilson policies in the person of his son-in-law, Bill McAdoo. He is dry. His chances are remote.

But as for Tack, he is excusable. He's the wonder of the pen-pushing tribe. He can do and say more things two or three different ways and there come out right-side-up than any sucker that has yet hit Texas. The he is a Kansan, he is good at heart. He likes and loves humanity in his most unique way. Tack is not always right, but he is always a good sport and a fellow has just got to be a full blood if he is always a good sport of the right grade. Besides all of this, he is a good dog catcher. I would say a dog catcher with a literary taste.—Dave Shanks' Vanguard

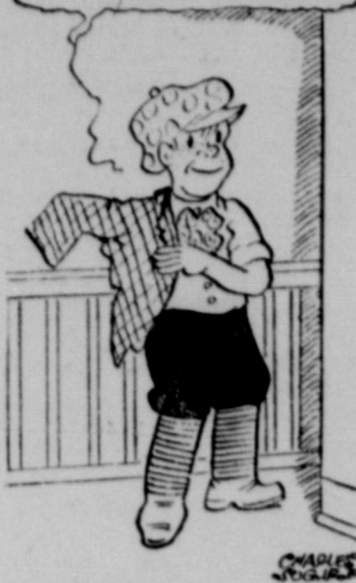

Gallatin, the capital of Davies county, according to the North Missourian, believes in being right up to the minute. Listen to this: "Our town moved up or down in Chicago's class this week with its first bombing. A jilted suitor decided his gal-fren needed shaking up a bit. He tossed a stick of dynamite up close to her house, and zoom went the neighborhood. Knowing that he was mad, the gal immediately suspected the right guy and he was placed under arrest. Now he's taking the rest cure in our county bastle and the gal is going on about her business, which isn't any of his business."

JOY KILLER HAPPENS ALONG

"Colby, Kansas, is a taxless town insofar as city taxes are concerned," observes the Jefferson City Daily Capital News. "Colby owns its public utilities and they make the town so much money that city taxes have been abolished as being unnecessary. Every town can be a Colby if it starts right at the beginning of its corporate history. The trouble with most towns and cities is they let public utilities get a strangle hold on them before they wake up to the advantages of municipal ownership." Fine—but read on—

The Lyons (Kans.) News is perplexed when "just as Colby has bragged herself hoarse about being a taxless town, and a thousand Kansas communities were starting to investigate the system responsible for her proud estate, the Colby paper comes out with a page and a half of delinquent tax notices set in six point solid."

THE REASON WHY

"The Reason Why" is the title of the following philosophy written and published by the Switzer Printing Company of Webb City, Missouri: "A good doctor will come to see you when he is called. A good lawyer will advise you when you call upon him. A good dentist will not call upon you every few days and try to pull your teeth. A good printer will come gladly to see you when you desire to confer with him—but a poor printer will pester you every few days and try to pull your leg. The reason he does is because he is a poor printer."

The Talmage (Neb.) Tribune has noticed a great quantity of mail-order catalogs going out to the much-sought buying prospect, on the farms, in its trade territory. Neither grasshoppers, drouth, over or under supply of farm products and money scarcity can check the obnoxious mail-order advertiser. He knows that "it pays to advertise," and you can never make him believe otherwise.

Chas. Eudy was in Pampa Monday.

OH! YES!

And now comes the report of Fort Snelling, Minn., that a company of drunks ran into a squad of States soldiers while marching the highway, and killed three of soldiers outright and wounded or injured others. Just what difference does it make whether or not the devils were drunk on legalized leg liquor bought at a drug store from an honest to goodness bootlegger? The infernal stuff made fools drunk and they got into automobile and killed three soldiers. It's results that count.—Dave Shanks' Vanguard.

Should America ever become hard up as she thinks she is, will be fewer automobiles, less picture seeking, smaller picture crowds, and not nearly so many fed people, is the way Editor of the Cameron Sun sums up the situation.

old saying that one-half of the lives. Until recently it has been applied to the poor—the so-called submerged section—there was little mystery or in regard to the livelihood of the rich, or those regarded as the prosperous class. But all of a sudden, and the security of the not so great as it once was, the tendency to add more to the swift pace of modern change, in a day's time, foundation of a fortune.

It was a warm day with the uneasy sultriness of September. Linda's long white arms had drawn the day-dress close to the window, and her father lay there gasping for the elusive air, lapped in the staid magnificence of the borrowed house and longing through his unruly spirit to be out and away from it all, even while his flesh clung to the girl beside him. He was the spectacular ruin of what had been a charming person, too fine for what had befallen him, but not big enough to evade it. Even now he wore a purple silk dressing gown, and his linen was so pure that even the intense humidity could not degrade it. He was as carefully dressed as he had ever dressed for Linda Was Just Then Seventeen. With the Promise of the Great Beauty Soon to Be Hers.

CHAPTER 1

Linda's father, Haverhill, the idea so firmly in her mind that she took the root of all and flourished there. She was the child, and the hardest of dying was the thought that, yet, she had to live and he honestly believed he was telling her the together in the big third bedroom that looked upon Sounds came dimly there, breaking through the air of the streets, they a band playing. It was September, and that year a Monday.

was not their house. It was the distant cousin of Linda's, and was smothered by a square of soft linen delicately perfumed.
When this was over Linda sat with her perfect chin cupped in her hand gazing into the almost empty street—white hot, breathless.
"I wish, father, I wish—" "What, my dearest?" "I wish we didn't have to pretend."
"By October it will be over," he said with another cough threatening, not even dreaming of the pathetic truth he uttered. "You will forget all this—" He sent a contemptuous glance around the handsome room as if in his eyes its comfort was squalor. "It has merely been a little resting up for us both. Once I set my health again it will be so easy. With my connection—" Jim Haverhill had been a financier; that is, he sold his good name, his impeccable appearance, and a few other things for stock in various enterprises that might or might not have been selling gold bricks or their equivalent. Nobody but himself knew how varying his success had been, but when the string snapped it caught him with empty pockets and a vast and poignant regret. He was sorry he had ever had a child.

"I could get hold of enough to see you through—until you are married," he said, looking piteously at Linda. She wanted to hide her tears. "Look, father," she cried gaily, leaning over to peep into the street beneath the haughty brown and ochre awnings. "Look! There's a band—the first one, and dozens coming. What a funny drum major. Aren't they queer—so far down—like lead soldiers."

Linda was young enough to be thrilled. It was really a magnificent sight and costly enough to command respect. The city had lent every public spectacle it possessed. The cheering became prolonged. Linda parted the geraniums until a little tunnel gave them unobstructed view. "O, dear, the nice, shiny ones have all gone by," she said, as if she had been speaking of pebbles.

The procession changed its character. The horses, the glitter and the dancing drum major vanished and other men were coming now, walking abreast in eights; marching men in ordinary drab clothing; red faces, pale faces, awkward hands. Some of them shambled; some lifted their feet gingerly as if they hardly knew how to use them. Like a long, grey turgid stream they merged into the dimness of the street, that was presently lost in the cavernous distance. These outnumbered their gay leaders a hundred, ten hundred to one yet they were content to follow dumbly, trying with a sort of pitiful eagerness to keep step to the music.

"What are they?" cried little Linda with a child's eagerness. Then she drew a vivid picture with a couple of words. "They remind me of a grub and a butterfly. Those men—" Jim Haverhill looked long and steadily at the never-ending procession. "The first Monday in September," he said slowly. "Labor day. The one day in the year when the workers of the world come out to show themselves and see what they have done."

Linda lost interest. "O, they are just working men," she said. "How many there are! Where do they live? What do they find to do?" Haverhill gave her a strange look. It may have been that in that moment he glimpsed her profound ignorance and glimpsed his own iniquity in leaving her so. But it was too late. He uttered his short, hacking laugh, the most mirthless sound imaginable. "Do? They do everything. Live? They live everywhere." He sent his long, white hand, fine as a woman's, in a gesture that indicated all that vast sweep of the city apart from their own environment. "They have spread around you, child, all of your life, only, of course, you never saw them, you never would—you never will. They built the houses you live in—they built the streets. They spun the cloth you wear, the food you eat is handled by them in a hundred ways—all this passes through their hands, yet you have never knowingly seen them!" He stared, struck with this stupendous thought.

Linda looked puzzled and faintly distressed. She felt as if she had been caught mocking at something which after all was not amusing or ridiculous. She was more thoughtful than girls of her age usually are, and there was novelty in this viewpoint that caught her attention. But before she could reply, the procession, changing every minute, yet always the same, had claimed her wonder again.

The music came fainter and fainter from its distance. The best and showiest of the bands had gone by, and the leftovers of drums and fifes. There was not a splendid automobile to be seen—and no bowing. The tall silk hats had become extinct. Patrolmen appeared on corners. They shouldered the crowd, and women and old men began to garner their flocks of startled avry children. Before long it was impossible to tell where the marchers and the crowd were divided, for the street was a maelstrom of pushing, worrying bodies, striving against one another for the right of way to nowhere. Authority lost patience.

Behind the brown awnings, safe and sound from all this flurry, in Cousin Amy's fine house on the avenue, Jim Haverhill talked to his daughter and used the sight they had just witnessed to point his lesson and send it home.

"Look down in the street and you will see life. I could not show you a flitter picture if we walked through all the galleries of the earth. Those poor fools—grubs you called them! Would the crowd come out to watch them march? Who cared or watched after the band and the cars and the uniforms went by? It's their one day of the year when we—our kind—are out of the city and they can play at calling it their own. Yet even then they've got to resort to fine feathers to make their own little show worth while. Poor, grubs! Smart butterflies! Let 'em dig and sweat and struggle until doomsday and they'll never be half as important to the world as a red coat with a dancing stick. That's life, Linda." "It doesn't seem fair," she remarked.

"Fair!" he sneered, "of course, it isn't fair. Nothing is fair. And it is humanity itself that encourages—breeds—unfairness. As long as men have eyes, they will be caught with color. As long as they have ears they would rather hear music than groans. It's the parade that counts, Linda, my love. And they've learned it—the people who want to get things done. You can put yourself over with a brass band and a bow when you might crawl on your knees to the edge of the Red Sea and never be heard from."

Linda, who, at sixteen, owned sables that were much too fine to be worn until she was twenty-five, had already brushed close enough to the swamp of poverty to know its chill breath. They lived in Cousin Amy's house that summer; slept in grand mahogany beds; but they used the servants' sheets, and there was only a grouchy caretaker in the basement living rooms. Often she carried secret packages from the corner grocery—bits of food that did not require experience cooking. She did not like this. There was something fearful and frightening about it—much too near the grewsome procession that walked. After that day she listened attentively to all her father had to say. He tried to crowd all the dubious wisdom of his past into the few days that remained, and she reached for it avidly.

The difference between death and taxes, as explained by the Ottawa County Democrat, is that death does not get worse every time the legislature meets.

SUNNY CORNER

THE LUCKY MAN

By Edgar A. Guest

Luck had a favor to bestow, And wondered where to let it go. "No lazy man on earth," said she, "Shall get this happy gift from me. "I will not pass it to the man Who will not do the best he can. "I will not make this splendid gift To one who has not practiced thrift. "It shall not benefit deceit, Nor help the man who's played the cheat. "He that has failed to fight with pluck Shall never know the Goddess Luck. "I'll look around a bit to see What man has earned some help from me."

She found a man whose hands were soiled Because from day to day he's toiled. He'd dreamed by night and worked by day To make life's contest go his way. He'd kept his past and daily slaved, And something of his wage he'd saved. He'd clutched at every circumstance Which might have been his golden chance. The goddess smiled, and then, ker-slap! She dropped her favor in his lap.

Last week Nadine Tedder wrote an interesting theme, "My Mother's Childhood," which was enjoyed by all the readers, but through an oversight the name of the writer was left off.

ASSEMBLY PROGRAMS

Monday—3 p. m. Wednesday—8 a. m. Friday—3 p. m. Every week there will be three assembly programs. On Monday and Friday the different rooms will give programs, while on every Wednesday morning a pastor of one of the churches will speak to us. Wednesday Chapel Songs, Chickadee Talk, Onward Christian Soldiers. Prayer—Rev. Crow. A beautiful message was brought to us based on a part of the 104th Psalm—"The lips of a fool will swallow himself" was explained so well that every child seemed to understand its meaning. This message brought by Bro. Crow will never be forgotten. Monday, Nov. 2, Program by 6B Scripture reading—6B. Prayer—Mr. McHaney. The Farm Yard Song, led by Frankie Mae Bell. Trio—James E. Cook, Averill Christen and J. D. Back. The Chickadee Talk, led by Mavis Brewer. Katrina song, led by Rose Margaret Tolliver.

6B REMEMBERS BELOVED FRIEND

Leo Meador, who was a classmate of the present members of 6B when they were in the fourth grade, was remembered Friday in a beautiful way. A bouquet of roses was sent to the mother Friday morning. In the afternoon at 3 o'clock each student in the class took a bouquet to the cemetery, where they were met by Mrs. Meador and her mother, Mrs. Miller. The flowers were laid on the grave as a tribute to a dearly beloved friend. Mrs. Meador expressed her heart-felt appreciation to the students and to Mr. McHaney for the beautiful tribute.

HISTORY DEPARTMENT

The boys of 6A are having more fun really building the Alamo! You know Rome was not built in a day; so it is with this masterpiece. It is surely a wonderful piece of workmanship. The boys who are to be praised are: Marvin Snow, James Lee Rice, Milburn Henry, Joe Ricketts and Kelton Ware. The girls are going to dress some little soldiers for the Alamo.

Some interesting research work has been done in all the history classes. The Dallas News sent a questionnaire to the Texas history students that created quite a bit of enthusiasm and (ahem!) some very extensive searching.

Some very interesting Civil War themes in 6B classes were written. Some of these will be published at a later date.

BOYS AT THE CIRCUS

By Carl Browning, 5A Class Jack and Joe have come to the circus. They have been here about an hour. They have come to see the elephants. Jack is giving them some peanuts. Joe is trying to give them some chewing tobacco. Just imagine, an elephant will not chew tobacco, yet men will!

When I grow to be a man I shall not chew things that are too dirty for an elephant to put in his mouth.

THE RUNAWAY HORSE

By Wilma Sue West One snowy day in January a little girl and boy whose names were Kate and Ned wanted to go outside and make a snowman.

Ned saw a crowd of children who were making a snow hill. They called Ned and Kate and said, "Come, we will have a snowball fight." Soon the children had to go home.

Ned and Kate made a snow horse, put a little rug on it, fixed a bridle, then put a broom for the tail. Soon it was ready to ride. They had never got to ride much so they both wanted. Their mother called them to dinner. They ate very fast. Their mother did not like this.

They went back and this is what had happened: The sun had come out and melted the snow horse. The children were disappointed. They thought it had run away, and they wanted their father to go hunt it.

THE SCHOOL IN THE SUN

By Spencer Sitter Away across the sea in the town of Leysin, Switzerland, is probably the most unusual school in the world. All of the pupils are children in the first stages of tuberculosis. Dr. Koller, founder of the school, learned that exposure of the body to the sun's rays is the best treatment for tuberculosis.

Early in the morning the students dress in a loin cloth. They strap on their desks across their back, and make their way up the mountain side to the cleared space. Here they spend the day in the open air studying and reciting. In this way they are able to rid themselves of the dreaded disease without any interruption of their school work.

(The above story was written from a magazine article which the pupil found interesting.)

Over the hill trailed a man behind a mule drawing a plow. Says the man to the mule:

"Bill, you are a mule, the son of a jackass, and I am a man made in the image of God. Yet, here we work, hitched together, year in and year out. I often wonder if you work for me or I for you. Sometimes I think this is a partnership between a mule and a fool. For surely I work as hard as you, if not harder. Plowing here we cover the same distance, but you do it on four legs and I on two. So, mathematically speaking, I do twice as much work per leg as you do.

"Soon we'll be preparing for a corn crop. When the crop is harvested, I give one-third to the landlord for being kind enough to let me use this corner of God's universe. The other third goes to you, and what is left is mine. But while you consume all your third, with the exception of a few cobs, I divide my third among seven children, six hens, two ducks and a banker. Bill, you are getting the best of me. It ain't fair for a mule, the son of a jackass, to rob a man—the lord of creation—of his substance. And, come to think of it, you only help to cultivate the ground. After that I cut, shock and husk the corn, while you look over the pasture fence and 'he-haw' at me.

"All fall and part of the winter the whole family, from Granny down to the baby, picks cotton to help raise money to buy a set of harness and pay interest on the mortgage on you. And by the way, what do you care about the mortgage? It doesn't worry you any, not a darn bit. You leave that to me, you ungrateful, onery cuss.

"About the only time I am your better is on election day, for I can vote and you can't. But if I ever get any more out of politics than you do, I fail to see where it is." Exchange.

Mrs. J. W. Kolb returned to her home at Lubbock last week after a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. Floyd.

THE MAIN IDEA

Play your game and do your stuff. Life's too brief for any more; There's no time to throw a bluff In the shadow of a score; I'll admit there's little sweet In the dust and mire and muck. Yet the short road to defeat Is to sit and curse your luck. Give them all you have—and then If by failure you are met By tomorrow, start again; Fate has whipped no fighter yet! —Grantland Rice.

DON'T SWEAR

Who is to blame when a small boy uses oaths that are too vile for young lips—or any other kind of lips? Something is very much wrong when a child swears. Some older person is to blame, and that somebody should take heed to the fact that boys do pretty much as their elders do and older folks may be the ruin of boys. Don't swear before a child. Don't use smutty language before boys. Smut is not an indication of a gentleman. Put a curb on your lips when in the presence of children.—Higgins News.

Self feeders built at a cost of $7 are being used by five farmers in Caldwell county who are feeding 80 hogs, using shelled corn and various protein supplements. "The use of self feeders saves time and eliminates the possibility of feed being wasted," they claim.

Everything in nature goes by its own way. Sow corn and you can't harvest wheat. Likewise, habits produce their own results.
