Red Cross Nurse Assumes Duties in McLean Schools

Nurse Will Teach Home Hygiene, Also

Miss Ahleschier Meets with Red Cross Chapter

Antoinette Ahleschier, Red Cross school nurse, arrived in McLean Monday and is now in charge of the school health situation, taking the work where it was left off last year.

The nurse was present at the executive meeting of the local Red Cross chapter called by Chairman Reuben Cook Monday afternoon, and a characteristic humorous address by Mr. Cook, Miss Ahleschier discussed the work of the next two years in this community.

The need of a class of mothers in instruction in home hygiene and of each child was mentioned. This will be free to mothers, if they are interested, and a certificate may be obtained at the end of the course.

It is expected that a complete community service may be put on next year, ending in June with the summer round-up.

E. L. Sitter was appointed president chairman, Mrs. T. A. Massingale organization chairman, Mrs. R. C. Appling volunteer workers chairman and Mrs. L. Sligar chairman to the doctors.

Present at the meeting, besides Mr. Cook and the nurse, were: Mrs. Boswell, C. O. Greene, D. N. Boyd Meador, T. A. Landers, L. Sligar, Mrs. R. L. Appling and Miss Frances Noel.

LET'S ANNOUNCE CHANGE IN POLICY

Let's Grocery announces a change in policy, in a half-page advertisement in this issue of The News.

The store will be on a strictly cash basis beginning Saturday. The store and a gang of carpenters are working all week remodeling and decorating the interior of the store and expect to have everything ready for their customers Saturday morning.

Mr. Dingler, who has been with the store for several years, will be in charge. Mr. Dingler says the change to a cash basis will mean lower prices and better service than possible under the credit plan. A comparison of the savings possible can be seen by turning to the advertisement and reading the special offers for Saturday.

Let's has enjoyed a good patronage since coming to McLean and the change to a cash system with lower prices will mean much to their customers.

Mr. Smith was in Pampa Monday.

SAVING MONEY

Our readers have a better chance to save money on their purchases this week than ever before, as there are more advertisements carrying special prices in different lines than has been the case in some time.

Our subscribers tell us that they have many times the price of their purchases in keeping informed of the bargains offered, and this is the issue where the cost of the subscription can be saved in one issue if the bargains are taken advantage of.

You appreciate a chance to get bargain prices, mention to the merchant that you saw his advertisement in The News, and you expect to see more lines each week.

Senator Small Will Address McLean Grads.

State Senator Clinton C. Small of Amarillo will deliver the address at the graduation exercises of the McLean high school, May 29, 1932.

The exercises will be held in the high school auditorium and will begin at 8 p. m.

The following members of the class placed orders for invitations: M. H. Kinard, Jr., Nora Lee Morgan, Ellen Moore, Addie B. Mantooth, Bobbe Appling, Margarite Mertel, Clara Quarles, Lucille O'Neal, Cleone West, Lola Ruth Stanfield, Duard M. "Crazy Quilt" Enjoyed by Large Crowd

A large crowd enjoyed the program, "Crazy Quilt," sponsored by the local Parent-Teacher Association, Friday evening.

The opening number was the wedding of Miss Aggie Culture and Mr. Homer Economics, that was a pleasing burlesque. This was followed by a kindergarten scene full of human interest.

A colorful tableau "poppy play," was given next, followed by the jolly bakers. Then came a minuet danced by ladies in colonial costume.

A burlesque, "burial of Old Man Dirt Road" closed the evening's entertainment.

Music was furnished by the high school orchestra, directed by Prof. Robt. C. Davidson. A negro sketch with guitar music and a negro sermon added to the entertainment.

FLOUR FOR MCLEAN NEEDY IS SECURED

According to Chairman Reuben R. Cook of the McLean chapter the American Red Cross, some 15,000 pounds of free flour has been secured for needy families at McLean. The flour will be distributed through the community chest, and application can be made to Mr. Cook, or to Johnnie R. Back, president of the chest.

Mr. Cook also states that Congressman Marvin Jones has been appointed and accepted the position as McLean representative at the meeting of the National Red Cross at Washington.

Park Question of Hour at Lions Luncheon Tuesday

Improvement of the city park held the right of way in the discussions at the Lions Club luncheon Tuesday.

T. A. Landers, chairman of the park committee, reported a meeting with the city council, in which it was pledged that the club would furnish material for a wading pool.

C. O. Greene, Boyd Meador, Ralph Caldwell and T. A. Landers were appointed to confer with a similar committee from the American Legion to raise money for park projects.

City Secretary W. E. Bogan reported that the Study Club was also interested in park improvement and would be interested in helping defray the expenses of some of the projects. Mr. Bogan said the city had laid water mains through the park and hydrants would be placed every 100 feet each way.

Lions Greene and Meador reported the district meeting at Lubbock last week. Lion Meador was appointed to the major activities committee, three projects being recommended: State parks, crippled children's fund, and wading pools in local parks.

Lion Greene said that it was noticeable at the convention that Lions held their membership in the club in the same esteem that they do their church and lodges.

Group Chairman Boyd Meador announced a zone meeting at Claude Thursday and urged a large attendance group from McLean.

Lion Reuben R. R. Cook reported the securing of a Red Cross school nurse.

Lion Boswell, as chairman of the "pop-off" division of the club, refrained from smoking until the hour was up, in accordance with a motion made and tabled at the last meeting.

Those present were: Lions Williams, Greene, Davis, Cooper, Goff, Cook, Meador, Bogan, Cobb, Caldwell, Rice, Erwin and Landers. Mr. Boston, of the Piggy Wiggly grocery, was presented as a visitor.

There will be 50 minutes of black-face minstrel with male quartettes, duets, solos, clog dances, etc., with 10 minutes intermission with vaudeville skits, followed by 40 minutes of musical comedy.

The Pampa Lions are donating their services to the McLean club and all proceeds will be used for the local park wading pool fund.

Mr. Lamb was standing in the door but was not injured by the bolt.

City Buys Shade Trees from Bruce

Wading Pool Will Be Built by Lions Club

Seventy-four shade trees, consisting of thornless honey locust, American elm and soft maple, will be set at the city park this week by Paul M. Bruce, owner of Bruce Nursery.

The city council bought the trees from Mr. Bruce at a very low price, and a committee from the council and the Lions Club made a trip to the nursery Friday and personally selected the trees from the nursery plat.

The trees were brought for $150, one-half cash and one-half January 1, 1933, and were guaranteed to be leafed out in June, 1933, just a year's more guarantee than is given by any nursery in the United States, but Mr. Bruce takes an interest in park work, and the council requested that he oversee the trees at intervals and make any needed suggestions for their care.

The old topped black locusts were removed and good trees set in their place. All four street lines are to be set in trees on the two blocks of the park slated for improvement. The street bisecting this half of the park was ordered closed, as there were no streets provided for in the deed to the park. However, it is not contemplated closing Main street through the park for the present.

Mr. Bruce submitted plans for other improvements, but it was thought that the city was not able to do more than set shade trees at this time. However, Messrs. D. N. Massay, T. A. Landers, E. L. Sitter, C. O. Greene, E. J. Lander and M. T. Wilkerson agreed to donate four $5.00 evergreens for one plot on Mr. Bruce's plans, and it is thought that others may donate evergreens and shrubbery.

Mr. Bruce's bid was the lowest submitted for the class of trees offered at the meeting.

E. L. Sitter and W. T. Wilson represented the council, and C. O. Greene and T. A. Landers the Lions Club in selecting the trees.

T. A. Landers, C. O. Greene and Jesse J. Cobb represented the Lions Club at the council meeting and pledged the club to furnish material for a wading pool, and excavation work has already been done on the pool, the city agreeing to furnish whatever labor was required.

A tennis court is also included in the plans, and four corner entrance ways with evergreens and shrubbery borders.

 Learn the principles of community life which, through co-operative effort, insure to every citizen the protection of life and health, thus contributing to the upbuilding and maintenance of public health.
 The home hygiene courses are given as a phase of health education and for the purpose of aiding in the health problems of the home and in the care of ill members of the family.
 This course is free—no fee—only purchase of the book. We will organize the class at the high school at Monday, April 25, at 2 p. m. Only 20 are allowed in the class. Apply early, avoid the rush.
 This course is for any woman residing in or near McLean.

EMBROIDERY CLUB

Mrs. Donald Beall and Mrs. Allen Johnson entertained the members of the Embroidery Club and their husbands with a 42 party last Friday evening.
 At a late hour refreshments were served to the following: Messrs. and Madames John Butler, D. C. Carter, S. D. Shelburne, Ercy Cubine, R. Glass, H. C. Rippey, Wilson Boyd, E. E. Cooke, D. M. Davis, J. E. Byrd, Allen Wilson, Donald Beall, T. Wilson; Mrs. Byrd Guill, Misses Mel Shaw and Lois Kirby, and E. Rush.

It is amusing to Fred Howard of Clay Center (Neb.) Sun to read the daily papers or popular magazines about "big business" trying to load the boat on an even keel. Poor puzzle! Big business is responsible for every little business in the country—big business and destructive political practices. Fundamentally the country is in pretty good shape, always is in fact, the superstructure is rotten because of bad bankers, corrupted courts, dishonest business promotion and legislative inefficiency. Until we have cleaned house in a big way we should not expect surcease from our distress.

The Wamego (Kan.) Times furnish this definition as to what is a newspaper: It is something to read. A place to look for bargains. A way to advertise stuff you want to get rid of. A weather forecaster. Personal news of friends to read. A record of the birth, weddings and deaths of the community. A medium for all the community interests. This is the word of the week.

When the Parkville (Mo.) board of firemen adopted an ordinance giving the fire department truck the absolute right-of-way on the streets on answering a fire alarm, the Independence Examiner commented: "In Independence we don't stop to inquire whether there is such a thing as a right-of-way; when we see the red wagon we scurry for a side street or corner."

The other day when "Dynamite" threw the Rich Hill (Mo.) Republican started over to get a ham sandwich, and a party stopped him and told him that they had heard he had a lot of money stored away, he switched to a nice T-bone steak. He always tries to live up to his reputation.

The Collinsville (Okla.) News hasn't much patience with the papers that insist on "shooting it into" the ones who borrow the paper from their neighbors to read, insisting that "if you want to borrow from a neighbor you can buy for himself for three cents, that is his business."

When horses, dogs, cows and chickens get all they want to eat and are cared for, they find times are hard, which is surprising to the Jew (Kan.) Republican, since under circumstances, men think times are hard.

Everybody knows better than an editor that truth is stranger than fiction. The West Plains (Mo.) Quill says: "The strangest thing about it is that the poor editor also knows that fiction usually is a lot the safest to print."

By making their place attractive with trees, shrubs and flowers in an outstanding way, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey A. Higgins of East Aurora, New York, won the coveted "Award of Merit" conferred annually by the Yard and Garden Contest Association of America for notable accomplishment in the home grounds beautification field. The national distinction was awarded Mr. and Mrs. Higgins following their local triumph in carrying off the highest honors in the Yard and Garden Contest sponsored by the East Aurora Advertiser.

The "Award of Merit" will be conferred again this year by the national association on home gardeners whose accomplishments are considered as particularly noteworthy. Entrants in

MORE TAXES
 Since the man who is saving his money today and denying himself many luxuries and pleasures he might enjoy, will be taxed a few years hence to take care of the fellow who is spending today as he goes, the Tonkawa (Okla.) News is of the opinion that "the proper tax would be a tax on idleness and shiftlessness—a tax on the loafer instead of the worker, and a tax on the waster instead of the thrifty one. Such a tax is, of course, impractical, but it would be more just. As it is we tax the worker. If he saves his money and buys a home, we tax him more. If he improves the home and puts in a furnace, we raise his taxes. If he adds a new porch, we raise his taxes again. Across the street from him may live a man whose home is a disgrace to the block in which it is located. He escapes with a minimum tax. It is all clearly unfair, but it appears to be the only practical way of handling a difficult situation."

Radio has been discredited the past week and daily papers have proved their reliability. More than one radio report stated that the Lindbergh baby had been returned or was to be returned at a certain time proved unfounded. The daily newspapers verify every rumor, if possible, and publish only facts, while the radio has in this case reduced its reliability on a par with street gossip. It has served to show the exacting policy of newspaper work and the daily papers still lead in reliable world news. The radio gives some news quicker than the papers, but of what value is the radio news if it is erroneous?—Rotan Advance.

Un-named Column

Folks, this is the first of a series of columns to appear in this good paper. There's no doubt in my mind that after it goes down in history it will still be going. The column may bring a good joke each week, an idea, or one of many, many things. What's the big job now, though, is to name this worth while and worthless column. The renounced, yet unknown columnist is offering a dollar bill (just imagine! a Hoover flag!) for a good name for this space to be here every week. If others who would like to join those who are donating evergreens for the park would see Mr. Bruce, of the Bruce Nursery, they could be included in this year's planting and get a year's start on the final plantings.

At last President Hoover has become consistent in his economy program and offers to cut his salary to $1.00 per year. Beginning at home is the way to economize, and the quickest way for the government to get out of debt is to spend less. Raising the taxes will not offset reckless spending, for many people cannot pay their taxes, regardless of the amount.

The head men of the American Cotton Cooperative Association and the National Grain Corporation receive $75,000 and $50,000 per year for their services. The editor of the Breeders' Gazette very properly says that no man in these positions is worth to the farmers more than $1,000 per month. There is money in farming, it seems, but not for the farmer.

Statistics show that $125,000,000 was spent on fortune tellers in the United States last year. As long as such a condition exists we cannot boast so very much of the benefits of civilization. Old superstitions die hard, but it would seem that one would not have any faith in fortune tellers, for if they could do what they claim, they would not have to engage in such a business.

A lady remarked the other day that she hoped a tennis court would be put in the city park this spring so that she would know that her child would have a chance for recreation. It is pleasant to learn just how enthusiastic everyone is on the question of improving the park, and we may expect to have a real recreational center in a few years, when all improvements are added.

Last week's issue of The McLean News carried more advertising than for a long time and last Friday and Saturday saw more people in town and more money spent than for a long while. This week's News has special bargains in many lines and we may expect a good business for the whole town this week. It is just a matter of cause and effect, and non-advertisers profit to some extent from the crowds attracted by the advertisers.

There was a time in the history of McLean when city officials protected the merchants from peddlers auctioning goods on the streets, under a stiff license ordinance. We understand that the auctioneer's license is still collected, but the license to sell goods, which was $50 for the first month, has not been collected of late. Merchants and buyers alike need the protection from such sales, and if the old ordinance has been repealed, a new one should be adopted.

A tree peddler was in McLean not long ago offering to guarantee a certain variety of tree to stand cold to 40 degrees below zero. This in face of the fact that every tree of this variety was killed here last winter, and those put out last spring, with about two exceptions, were killed this winter; in fact, they were killed with temperatures between 20 and 30 above zero. There are many trees and shrubs that grow farther north that will not stand a warm winter and cold spring as we have many times in the Panhandle, and selections should be made from the plants that are known to do well here. Money spent for trees and shrubs that are liable to winter kill is more than wasted, for from one to several year's growth is lost. Many citizens of McLean have lost time and money trying to grow these kinds of trees.

A medical report shows that insanity is decreasing. This may be due to the fact that so many persons who were considered crazy several years ago are now able to smile and say, "I told you so."

"You are the sunshine of my life. Your smile falls like lightning into my soul. With you by my side, I would defy all the storms of life."
"Say, is this a proposal or a weather report?"

"Do you play golf?" he asked the simple gushing maiden.

"Dear me, no," she bashfully replied. "I don't believe I should ever know how to hold a caddy."

STOPPING A BANK RUN

While some banks are friendly to the newspapers of their town, a few of them are not. Some spend every dollar they possibly can out of town with big printing concerns, despite the fact that the local newspapers are forever boosting them through thick and thin. This condition has been proven over and over. But the latest case that has come to notice was out in California where a newspaper stopped a serious run on a bank. They sent their photographer over to the bank with instructions to take the picture of every man and woman that withdrew deposits, to be run in next day's edition. The run stopped short.—Terry County Herald.

Hints for the Household

By Betty Webster

Question: "What is added to whipped cream to make it stay firm like butter when added to top of cake?"

Answer: There are two additions which can be added to whipped cream to make it firm. A—white of egg—gelatin.

Method A: Beat white of egg very stiff. Add gradually to cream which has been whipped very stiff until consistency is reached.

Method B: Cover a little gelatin with cold water. Add scant cup of boiling water. Stir well. When this mixture has thickened, mix with whipped cream. This is what some bakers use in their cream filling for cream cakes.

SOUR STOMACH

JUST a tasteless dose of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in water. That is an alkali, effective, yet harmless. It has been the standard antacid for 50 years. One spoonful will neutralize at once many times its volume in acid. It is the right way to kill the excess acid. The stomach becomes sweet, the pain departs. You are happy again in five minutes.

But don't depend on crude methods. Try the best way yet evolved in all the years of searching. That is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia, the kind that the physicians prescribe.

CORPORATIONS CANNOT PAY TAXES!

In spite of all the political bunk to the contrary, the giant corporations do not, in the exact sense, pay taxes. They cannot.

This is unfortunate, but it is true. The people pay the taxes—whether they be millionaires or day laborers, and there are a good many more day laborers than millionaires, even in boom times. They pay taxes when they write a check for the meat, electric or grocery bill, when they purchase a house and lot or a package of playing cards, when they eat a meal or go to a movie, when they smoke a cigarette or take a spin in the car.

Our gigantic corporations have no magical means of producing money from the air. They can get it only from the people to whom they sell their commodities or services. All costs necessary to the running of a business, whether they be taxes, labor or purchases of supplies, must be passed along to the customer. And the customer, in the aggregate, is all of us.

Consequently, next time you hear political demands for taxing the rich to help the poor, dismiss them for what they are usually worth—nothing. It would be pleasant if it were possible, but the inexorable laws of barter rule otherwise—and they are laws that politics can't repeal.—The Manufacturer.

GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP

... like a haunting dream, the idea persists that government ownership and control affords the solution of every economic ill. Somehow nonchalantly overlooked is the broad field that would be opened up for political intrigue and inevitable corruption. Overlooked is the stifling effect of such a system on individual initiative. Overlooked is the universal yearning of the human heart for individual liberty. Initiative is fostered by the appeal of a reward commensurate with the effort expended. Paternalistic security, were that attainable in a socialistic state, would mean the negation of progress. The instruments of production, the volume and low price of products, of which we are all beneficiaries, have been made possible by private business ingenuity developed through keen competition. The road of future advancement lies along the course of individual liberty, sustained initiative and equality of opportunity. The government's functions are executive, legislative, judicial. Its part in private business should be that of the watchful, impartial, inexorable referee.—Chilton (Wis.) Times.

AND WHAT PRICE PEACE?

Here are some figures relative to the cost of war and warlike preparations which may profitably be compared with the $450,000 proposed to be spent in the interests of peace: The estimated Army and Navy budget for the United States in 1932 is $664,650,000. The estimated amount to be appropriated for veterans of other wars, $926,000,000. The sinking fund requirements for 1932 on the public debt incurred by reason of the last wars, $426,489,600. The interest on the public debt of the last war will be $640,000,000 this year.

It does not require a mathematical mind to balance the account.—Bellville (Ill.) Advocate.

TERRACES INCREASE YIELDS

Colorado.—Drouth and lack of feed were limiting factors in terracing in Mitchell county in 1931, but in spite of them, 8,012 acres on 81 farms were terraced or contoured, according to the annual report of W. S. Foster, county farm agent. Of this amount lines were run by the farm agent on 2,025 acres on 41 farms.

That it is expensive not to terrace was the conclusion arrived at by J. D. Fuller of Cutberth when he found that 35 unterraced acres of his farm produced only six bales of cotton while his 60 terraced acres adjoining made 16 bales.

Of all the birds the eagle alone has seemed to wise men the type of royalty—not beautiful, not musical, not fit for food, but carnivorous, greedy, hateful to all, the curse of all, and with its great powers of doing harm, surpassing them in its desire of doing it.—From Erasmus, (quoted in Tawney's "Religion and the Rise of Capitalism").

Why should anybody boast of his honesty? No man deserves credit for being honest, though he does merit discredit for being dishonest. When I hear a man prate of his honesty, I am less inclined to trust him.—Heavy Stuff.

The Osborn (Mo.) Enterprise asks the question: "While everyone appears to be lined up for the lowering of taxes, why not lower the number of those who spend these taxes after they are collected?"

Probably no family in the United States achieved beautiful home surroundings in the face of as great physical handicaps as did the L. E. Laurances at Spokane, Wash. Their attractively gardened place was created on solid rock. Earth for the plant roots was carried in by hand as rocks were taken out.

There was so much rock on their premises that it was necessary to even wheel it away from the rock garden. Whenever depressions and crevasses existed they were turned into soil pockets, and trees, shrubs and perennials in variety planted. The resulting effect is most unique. The lawn, for instance, is not one continuous carpet of green but rather a number of soft velvet rugs spread among the stony outcrops. The perennial borders, too, are broken at intervals by the intervening ledges.

The young lady in the picture, Miss Gertrude Laurance, a senior in Lewis & Clark College, was one of the creators of this garden. Gardening is her favorite sport. A big municipal celebration is being arranged at Spokane when the National Yard and Garden Contest trophy won by the Laurances will be formally presented. The Spokane garden was sponsored in the national competition by The Spokesman-Review, in the semi-annual class.

The professor had just finished a lecture on the history of germs and as there were still a few minutes left before the close of the class, he called upon one of the students for a brief description of the origin of germs.

The student thought hard for a moment, wrinkled his brow, then, with a grin that reflected a ray of light upon a dark subject, he answered: "Adam had 'em."

"Quality products, well advertised," certainly is a knock on "Ole Man Depression." A 100% increase in the sales on our "Delicious" Cakes since January 1st is proof enough for us. In that time we have striven to tell the housewives that our cakes are made from "Home Recipes," and made of the same ingredients that they use.

We feel sure that The News will continue to carry our schedule right along in the future.

AM'S GENEROSITY TO LOT

By Rev. Cecil G. Goff
Gen. text, Rom. 12:10. Lesson Gen. 13:5-15.

Abram and his company arrived in Canaan, he built altars at Bethel and Bethel. Then he moved to Ai and Bethel. As he journeyed a famine was upon the land, and he went into Egypt. There, for fear, he told that Sarai was his sister. When he learned of the deception he told her, and she told him. Abram and all of his company fled from Egypt. It was at that time Abram was in Egypt that he had forgotten God, for he had arrived again at the former between Bethel and Ai, he had upon God (Gen. 13:3, 4).

By this time Abram was wealthy, and so was Lot. Each had large flocks and herds. The land was arid and there was not much grass for all of the cattle belonging to both men. Consequently the households fought over the best land. Each naturally desired the best grass land. It is noted that the Canaanites and Perizzites were in the land. Naturally they desired the intrusion of a foreigner. There was probably a thousand people in Abram's group. If the men were always fighting among themselves it would denote weakness and inspire attacks from those dwelling in the land.

Abraham knew that they had separate flocks for their herds. Lot was Lot's uncle. Lot was of the same family as Abram, he was of Haran, Abram's brother, and he was in Ur (Gen. 11:27, 28). In the Testament close kin, though as we see it, was often referred to as "brother" or "son." God had brought Abram to the land and he proceeds to remain. The land was very little land which was by anyone or tribe. The ones in a land, or rather roaming in the land pasturing their flocks, possessed it while there, unless a stranger tribe chose to drive out. Thus far Abram had encountered no difficulties. He does the thing—Lot is to make the choice, to abide by it.

Abram had remained in the land. So as Lot looked down upon the Jordan valley, he saw well watered lands, green, while the hills were brown in many places. There were cities and many opportunities for financial gain. It was before Gomorrah were destroyed. The whole thing looked as the garden of Eden, or Eden. This is probably a figure of speech inspired by the reality, or used to express the feelings of Lot in the matter. Surely the Garden of Eden was destroyed so that Lot had seen it. It is compared also to the land which Lot had seen.

Lot chose the plain, sloping down to the Jordan. He did not offer to go north or south, taking part plain to the hill country so that Abram have some of the advantages of well watered Jordan lands, a greedy man, chose all of the well watered land and left the hill country to Abram. But the land was according to Abram's offer he began going westward toward the east. Lot did not return to the wicked city of Sodom.

This verse is short, yet it is a background for the following concerning Abram. Lot had chosen, not only the land of Sodom was situated, but he had pitched his tent to the city until he arrived there. The city was exceedingly rich. Its inhabitants especially the gods of evil and wickedness had been blessed and cared for the power of Jehovah, and he the sin of turning from Jehovah. Therefore, we might excuse him had remained at Sodom long enough to find how great the richness was. But instead he went home there.

v. 14. When the two were separated, God spoke to Abram and commanded him to look every way. That even included the land which Lot had chosen. This—all of it—God promised to Abram and his seed. God had promised to make of Abram a great nation, before he left Haran. Now God was designating the land which that nation should occupy. Abram had made a wise choice, and Lot a foolish one. We see in the following chapters the outcome. Abram had followed God and received God's blessings. Lot had chosen against God's desire and paid the price of disobedience.

SLIGHT WOUNDS AND INFECTIONS

By Dr. William J. Scholes
Wounds of any considerable size and severity are generally regarded as serious. They usually come under the care of the doctor. But this is not always the case with small wounds. So many small scratches and abrasions receive no care and heal up without any bad results, that we are inclined to regard them as practically free from all danger.

Germs Enter Thru Wounds
But it is well to remember that germs can gain entrance to the tissues through any break in the skin. If the germs do not happen to be virulent, if they are few in number, or if the blood and tissues destroy them, no ill-effects result. It sometimes happens, however, that virulent germs get into the wound, survive and multiply. And even though the original wound seemed insignificant, extremely serious infections may follow.

Among the germs that often enter the tissues through breaks in the skin is the streptococcus. This virulent germ is a common cause of dangerous "blood poisoning." Another possible result of wounds incurred under certain conditions is lockjaw. And there are others almost equally serious.

Care Determines Results
The point is that the size of a wound is not always an index to its seriousness. The presence or absence of infection, and the kind of infection largely decide this. And whether or not infection develops at the site of a wound is largely determined by how the wound is cared for.

Trivial wounds should be painted with iodine or mercurochrome. This should be done without washing the wound. Attempts at washing are likely to introduce germs if these are not already present. Then the wound should be covered with sterile gauze, care being taken not to touch the surface of the gauze that comes in contact with the wound. For it is possible to introduce germs into a wound even after it is received.

Wounds that are dirty, or deep, that bleed very freely, or are ragged, should be cared for by a doctor. And even slight wounds that show signs of soreness should receive medical attention.

Proper care of slight wounds would prevent many serious infections.

HIDDEN HAPPINESS

Happiness is rarely visible to the multitude, says a shrewd observer. It lies hidden in the odd corners and quiet places.

Happiness is a shy thing. Grief is blatant and advertising. If a boy cuts his finger he howls, proclaiming his woe. If he is eating pie, he sits still and says nothing.

If you ask a man how he is, he searches himself to find a pain to report. If he has nothing but happiness he hates to mention it, and says, "Oh, not half bad."

We conceal happiness as a vice. We are rather suspicious of it, and if we feel particularly well, or have exceptional good luck, we knock on wood.

The fact is that happiness does not come from the big events of life, but is made up of innumerable little things.

Ordinary everyday happiness is composed of shoes that fit, stomach that digests, purse that does not flatten, a little appreciation, and a bit of this, that and the other, too trifling to mention.

The big things, such as someone giving you a thousand dollars, are not only rare, but they do not satisfy when you have neuritis.

For if you seek to analyze contentment you go at it negatively. To feel well means you do not have headache, toothache, nor toeache; you have no dyspepsia, catarrh, hives, appendicitis, nor any other ills. And to determine your joy you must reckon by checking off and eliminating the factors of possible pain. Answer happy, if no pain is discoverable. So elusive is joy!

Some day try reversing this process. Note all the pleasurable things. For instance, a good sleep, a bath, the invigorating caress of cold water, a good breakfast, with somebody you love visible across the coffee cups, a half-hour's diversion with the newspaper, the flash of nature's loveliness outdoor as you go to work, interesting faces on the street car, the pleasures of your business, pleasant relations with your fellow workers, meeting old friends and new faces, the good story someone tells you, and so on you'll find your notebook—and you can get your disappointments and grievances into three lines.

Happiness, they say, is scant in this wicked world, and hard to find.—Dr. Frank Crane.

HIGH ADVERTISING RATE

It is reported that the highest advertising rate of any periodical in the country is charged by the Ladies' Home Journal, which is $9,500 for a full page. The Woman's Home Companion rate is $9,400; Delineator, $9,200; Pictorial Review and McCall's Magazine, $8,800 each; Saturday Evening Post, which has largest circulation, $8,000; Collier's, $5,500; True Story, $4,500; and Liberty, $4,250.

We can see it no other way than that owners of copyrights are ashamed of the discordant and hideous productions their copyrights cover which are heard nightly on the radio, else there would be no necessity for the broadcasting companies to announce that kind permission had been given to scatter their vile rot out through the ether for poor suffering humanity to worry and swear about.—Pointers.

THE BLOOD HARVEST

... As a rule, nations do not crave war. Why, then, are governments so fickle and unreliable regarding their peace contracts? It is not, as I said, because they want war, but because of the presence of a powerful influence, and this sinister and ever-present influence is exerted by the so-called war profiteers, i. e., the munition makers, big naval contractors, food purveyors and certain financial interests to all of whom war means a golden harvest. These interests, too, are the real and only war party, and not our professional soldiers, as many people erroneously believe. They stimulate the greed of the people, incite nation against nation and stir up trouble in every possible way, all by means of the yellow press. They even go to the length of torpedoing disarmament conferences, as the Shearer case has demonstrated, and when a Legion post, or the good ladies of the D. A. R. denounce pacifists we can be certain that the profiteer is not far away. —Hon. Richard Bartholdt, former representative from Missouri, in the Hearings before the War Policies Commission, Part 3, page 493.

PROTECTING NEWSPAPER FILES

Transcriptions of deeds, mortgages and other important public documents are kept in fireproof vaults. Collectors of books, manuscripts, bibelots and antiques of various sorts, next to possessing them, are most concerned about securing a safe place in which to keep them. The protection of valuables is necessary before one can obtain insurance as a recompense for their possible loss.

In spite of the great value of newspaper files, as records, there is less attention paid to protecting them than to records of other sorts. It is exceptional, rather than the custom, to keep the files under lock and key, and more exceptional to find them in fireproof vaults. Where the publisher is not in a position to provide this protection, it should be the concern of the community to do so.

Should the files be destroyed, it would take a lot of digging to supply the local history which they contain. Now and then an old resident keeps a complete file, but in many cases the only one extant is the one kept in the newspaper office.—Publisher's Auxiliary.
