

THE TIGER POST

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

It came to pass in the fulness of time that the class of 1928 did gather upon the 15th day of September for a trip through the McLean high school, much famed for its dissemination of knowledge. They had collected a goodly amount of necessary baggage, in the way of bits of geography, sections of arithmetic, bunches of dates, fresh from the tree of history; packages of civics, and a supply of grammar. Each, moreover, had the required ticket—a certificate of promotion from the last station, the seventh grade.

And it came to pass that promptly upon the stroke of 9 they did answer the conductor's cry of "All aboard," and started out on the upgrade in the train of knowledge. They were given places in the Freshman section and they found the train equipped with a fine dining car whose capable chefs supplied them with much food for their mental growth and development. They did choose, as president of their group, Fern Landers, who should see that they gained sufficient class pep, loyalty, and school spirit, while Conductor Tummins saw to it that they properly digested the meals served them by the faculty chefs and porters.

At the end of the first year, having successfully met the requirements of freshmen passengers, they were transferred to the sophomore car, and with a membership of 50 bravely endured the jolting of the rougher travel. Lois Kirby was chosen president of the trip for this year, and the journey was livened by stops for a number of parties and occasions of gaiety. Pranks were frequently indulged in when the conductor, head brakeman and porters were looking after other sections of the train.

With the passing of time they were again shifted, being placed in the junior coach with 48 jolly members, of whom M. H. Kinard was elected president. Several passengers dropped off at the side stations and did not resume the trip, but others became passengers. Much enjoyed stops for pleasure resorts included the junior-senior banquet and the junior picnic. Side trips were indulged in, to the athletic fields, where numerous passengers became proficient in football, basketball and other games. The mental food contained many morsels hard to chew and digest, but with the faculty chefs and porters declaring that "It must be accomplished or we'll throw you off the train," the junior passengers nobly did their duty.

Then came the happy day when the group was transferred to the senior coach with increased privileges and responsibilities, with M. H. as class president. The grade became steeper, the journey rougher, but, ah, the glorious view as the class of 1932 looked out on commencement station looming in the near distance. These senior passengers who had been companions during the long journey became even more closely united in school spirit and class bonds. They came to appreciate more fully the supervision given by Conductor Elizabeth Kennedy, Head Brakeman Garrison Rush, and the capable faculty chefs and porters. They enjoyed the stops made for the junior-senior banquet and senior day picnic. They grew quite puffed up over the records of certain members in the side trips to athletic field, the oratorical stage and the gleeful pavilion. They successfully passed the close inspection of the examiners who checked up on their baggage of knowledge, and they now stood ready for a final transfer. At commencement station, on the mount of learning, they left the senior coach to become passengers on various roads leading through the valley of opportunity in the land of the great beyond, to the cities of success, fame and worthy achievement.

The Road to Better Health
THE IDEAL BABY FOOD

By Dr. William J. Scholes
A great deal of attention has been devoted to the modification of cow's milk to make it meet the food requirements of the baby at different ages. Improved sanitation of dairies and methods of handling milk have decreased the danger of milk conveying disease. The result is that the artificial feeding of infants is probably more satisfactory than it was a generation or two ago. It is certainly much safer.

Mother's Milk Best
But—it is a mistaken idea that cow's milk or any of its modifications are just as good for the baby as human breast milk. There are cases in which it is either impossible or inadvisable for the mother to nurse her baby at the breast. A suitable and healthy wet-nurse cannot always be had. In this country at least, some modification of cow's milk is generally the most practical substitute for the mother's breast milk. The fact that artificial feeding is sometimes necessary justifies all of the efforts aimed at its perfection. But no baby should be deprived of human breast milk during the early months of its life except in cases of absolute necessity.

Death Rate Less
The death rate amongst artificially fed babies still continues to be higher than among the breast fed. The artificially fed are more liable to digestive disturbances and to most diseases. They have more disturbances due to faulty nutrition. Taking it all around, they fail to get as good a start in life as the breast fed. The proper food for the baby during the first few months of its life has been provided by nature. It is always fresh. There is but little chance that it will contain germs. It contains all of the elements required for the nourishment of the baby. It gives the baby a better chance for life, health and normal development than does any substitute. There is no known mixture that can fully take its place.
Human breast milk is still the ideal baby food!

RELATION OF BOYS TO BANKING

By Reuben R. R. Cook
An address to the boys in camp... is only a few steps from boyhood manhood.

Do not act rashly, or hastily. Be slow to make up your mind on important questions.

The primary functions, or first workings, of a bank are to afford a safe place for the deposit and keeping of people's money.

Boys cannot borrow money from a bank until they are 21 years old, or become of age.

It is a splendid thing for anyone to start a bank account and keep it up, and thus get acquainted with your banker and banking practice.

It should be a recommendation and a cause for recognition for a person to have a bank account.

So, boys, my parting advice is to be honest and truthful, play fair, always do the best you know.

There have always been a few merchants who claim that it "does not pay to advertise," but they usually prove themselves wrong, if given time enough.

It is interesting to know that over $100,000 worth of cactus plants were exported from Texas last year, with indications that this year's demand will be as great.

Senator Metcalfe of Rhode Island says that every sixth person in the United States is carrying a seventh on his back.

Government interference with business is a funny thing. The high priced farm board loaned money lavishly to produce cotton and then advised farmers to plow up every third row.

It is claimed that our federal government is paying a lot of men double salaries, and one specific case is mentioned where a retired army officer draws a pension of $6,000 a year.

Government statistics show that on 20% of the farms in this country there is neither a chicken or a milk cow.

Where cotton is made the main crop, rural children are the victims. It robs them of education, health, and many times their lives.

It lowers the standard of living until the ambition of the boys and girls is to leave the farm at the earliest opportunity.

of the soil and tends to destroy community life, as the schools and churches degenerate under the all-cotton and renter system.

The only safe plan of farming is diversification, which has been proven so many times that it is now accepted as a truism.

The board of equalization of the city of Kingsville, county of Kleberg county, and the Kingsville Independent school district has reduced the present city valuations 23 1-3% from last year and the school 50 to 60% from 1931.

The Kleberg county commissioners have reduced county renditions 20%. This is one way to lower taxes and should be practiced here, for there is no question of the values being lower.

During the 18 months we were in the world war, 50,510 American soldiers were fatally injured. During the 18 months ending January 1st, this year, 53,650 American people were fatally injured by automobile accidents.

The human sorrow and economic loss is just as great for each man killed in an automobile accident as it was for the man killed at the front, and if we had to pay pensions and hospital fees as is done for those injured in war, we would have a great burden imposed on the people each year.

Statistics show that most of the accidents are in the rural districts, and we should be interested in a uniform drivers' license law that would tend to prevent accidents.

TELL YOUR MERCHANTS THIS

How long will people fall for the graft that poses as advertising? Just the other day two smooth-talking strangers breezed into town, lined up with an unsuspecting pastor, and carried off at least $53.00 for three hours' polite pickpocketing.

The next time one of these gentry calls, let your local newspaper man know and he will give you the truth about them. It is his business to be in a position to advise his fellow townsmen on their advertising problems and he will do so gladly.

With all the agitation regarding tax reduction developing, the Savannah (Mo.) Reporter advances the sound argument that "there never was a time when buying at home meant so much as right now.

The Maysville (Mo.) Record-Journal tells of a colored man who, after doing some hauling, was requested to submit an itemized statement, which for conciseness and detail cannot be questioned: "3 comes and 3 goes, at four bits a went—total $3."

The Nowata (Okla.) Star compares the business man who fails to advertise with the student who claims to know his lesson but can't recite it.

JUST SOME OLD MAN

Who is dead? Did you ever ask that question when you heard the tolling of the church bell?

And if you did, did you receive the answer: "Oh, it's some old man"? Yes, just some old man.

Even his face is no longer remembered. His face may or may not have been familiar upon the streets of the town he inhabited.

He was just an old man. Ah, the irony of fate!

It is not long since the old man you bury today was young, ambitious, and just as handsome as you are.

He, too, then replying, "Oh, some old man."

The same old query and the same old answer.

Generation after generation it is "just some old man."

Some day you, too, will be "some old man."

Just some old man. It doesn't seem possible, does it?

It certainly can't be that you, the handsome, well dressed, perfectly groomed, smart, clever, cunning cock-of-the-walk will be "just some old man."

Well, we'll admit that it does not seem probable, and that Providence should make an exception in your case.

But the exception won't be made. Nature is as exact as the multiplication table.

And Providence has pretty much gone out of the exception business. So you better make up your mind that some day you will be "just some old man."

"Oh, it's so disagreeable."

Yes, we know, but we can't change it.

So when you hear the church bell tolling and you ask: "Who is it?" and the answer comes back: "Some old man," just say to yourself: "There's my funeral if I live a few years more."

Yes, there it goes. See how they hurry!

They want to get the old man stored away as quickly as possible, that they may go back to their business and their pleasure.

The minister says "Dust to dust." It's all over and the crowd scrambles home again.

"Whom were they burying today?" you ask, as you see the empty hearse return.

"Oh, some old man."

When you hear that, just say to yourself, "some day I'll be that 'some old man'."

Yes, in spite of all the fuss and feathers, you will be just some old man—Gunnar Bjornson in Minnesota Mascot.

The McPherson (Kan.) Republican is of the opinion that one nice thing about dictating a letter is that you can use a lot of words you don't know how to spell.

The Marquette (Kan.) Tribune gives as one reason why some concerns are "in the red" the fact that not enough black in the way of printers' ink was used in their advertising.

A survey of the average clothesline gives the McPherson (Kan.) Republican a fairly good idea as to what is wrong with the cotton industry.

THE FIRST NEWSPAPER AD

The Moderate, an English newspaper, published about 1649, is quoted as having printed the first advertisement, which read as follows:

"Reader, thou art entreated to inquire after a blackish and kind of piebald nag, very poor, his feet and flank white, and a little white tip on his tail. He was stolen from grass from John Rotheram of Barnet, in Hertfordshire. Whosoever will inquire, find him out and bring or send tidings of him shall have what content they will for their pains."

A general and a colonel were walking down the street. They met many privates and each time the colonel would salute he would murmur, "The same to you."

The general's curiosity got the better of him and he asked: "Why do you always say that?"

The colonel answered: "I was once a private and I know what they are thinking."

Teacher—"Willie, what is an adult?" Willie—"An adult is one that has stopped growing except in the middle."

In an interview, the Portis (Kan.) Independent reporter was told that nowadays it is about as hard to borrow money as it is to pay it back.

KNEADING NEWS

We got in some of the best cherries this week we have ever seen. Our cherry pies are only 25c.

Women are accused of buying foods today on nutritional values, calories and vitamins. We don't want you to take our word for any of these things unless you verify them with a competent person such as a doctor, nurse or food teacher. Therefore we say this, and can prove it—this is a wholesome, nutritious food, contains vitamins A, B, C, and scarce vitamins C and G that are present in milk.

Milk, minerals, calcium and phosphorus are needed for building bones and teeth. Milk proteins build muscles and milk sugars give energy. Pardon us, if you have been misled by this, but as a member of a high school alumni, the writer has been requested to pass this on to our patrons, that they might know about one of man's oldest and most essential foods. Next week we present a good recipe in this column.

We will have a variety of 50c cakes on SPECIAL SATURDAY for 39c.

JUDAH THE TRUE BROTHER

By Rev. Cecil G. Goff
Golden text, Psalm 133:1. Lesson
Gen. 44:18-34.

Last week we saw Joseph made the chief ruler of the land of Egypt. He began his work wisely and stored supplies to last through the years of famine. As the famine continued, not only the peoples of Egypt began to suffer, but those of all nations.

Jacob learned there was plenty in Egypt, and accordingly sent his ten sons to buy grain in Egypt. Benjamin, his youngest son, he kept with him. When the men appeared before Joseph he recognized them and questioned them closely. They were accused of being spies. They were imprisoned for three days. Then Joseph was bound and kept as a prisoner while the others were sent home with the grain the sought, their money being placed in their bags. When they returned, they were to bring with them Benjamin, that Joseph might be freed.

When the grain was gone the sons refused to return to Egypt unless Benjamin returned with them. Finally, after Reuben had offered that his two sons might be killed if he did not return Benjamin, and Judah stood as security for his return; the boy was sent to Egypt. Double money was also taken to pay for the first grain.

Joseph made a feast and all twelve of the brothers ate together. Then Joseph sent the eleven on their way and had the servant put his golden cup in Benjamin's bag. He sent servants after them. Judah made a strong plea for Benjamin. Joseph was so overcome that he made himself known to his brethren and sent for his father.

v. 18. The sons of Jacob had returned to Joseph. The ruler's silver cup had been in Benjamin's sack of grain. They all had leave to go, save the one guilty of taking the cup—Benjamin. But Judah had stood good to his father for Benjamin's return. Judah could not return without Benjamin. Judah was the one who had proposed selling his brother, Joseph.

Judah addressed Joseph as "lord" and designated his humility by "thy servant." Judah knew the whole matter was a frame-up, but he did not say so—it was his business to get out of a difficult frame-up.

v. 19. Judah is reminding Joseph that Benjamin's existence would not have been known, save for his inquisitiveness. They had not brought the lad because of their own desire.

v. 20. Benjamin was about thirty three or four, but the youngest and Rachel's second and last-born. The first was dead. Judah did not know he was speaking to that "dead" brother. Thus the old father had bestowed all of his aged affection on the second of Rachel's sons.

v. 21. Joseph had asked that this youth be brought to Egypt that "I may set my eyes upon him"—or, as it signifies, "look after him as his protector."

v. 22, 23. Joseph had been told of the father's affection for the lad, and the impossibility of separating the two. But without regard to the plea, or the appeal to respect the fatherly affection, Joseph had said that unless Benjamin came the next time, they would not see him. Beside, he kept one of the brothers as a source of security.

v. 24-26. Jacob paid no attention to the Egyptian ruler's demand. When the grain was low, he commanded that again grain be bought. But Judah knew that the ruler meant what he said, and made ready to take Benjamin on the second journey.

v. 27-31. Here Judah portrays to Joseph the sorrow and anguish of the old man's heart. He was all the old man had to which his heart was strongly attached. Joseph had gone out and had been killed, and now they were about to take Benjamin. If anything should happen to Benjamin, as the old man was sure it would, he would be brought low to his grave—or to Sheol. Possibly he did not mean that he should die immediately, but his soul should be brought to the extremity of agony equal or worse than death.

v. 32. Judah had pledged himself to his father that he would take all responsibility for the return of Benjamin.

v. 33. Thus Judah offers to remain himself and become the servant or slave of the ruler of Egypt, if only he will permit Benjamin to return to Jacob, his father.

v. 34. Judah had lived a rough life, but his word was out. He loved his father, and now the manhood in him arose to the need of the situation. Possibly he had changed since he proposed to sell Joseph, or it had so weighed upon him that he was not willing to have two such stains on his hands. He offered earnestly and sincerely to make the supreme sacrifice—he offered to sell his future for his father's pleasure and to keep his own word.

Hints for the Household

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

To Remove Mud
When you get mud on your silk skirt—do not brush. Let mud dry. Wrap piece of velvet or velveteen around your finger and rub off dried mud. If mud has left a stain, carefully rub it with a cloth dipped in ammonia and water.

Make Use of Sunny Kitchen Window
Build a shelf and place a window box in it. Fill it with rich earth. Plant in it mustard, chives, parsley and cress. This way you will have a pretty window box, enjoy the greens and have the fun of raising them.

One Way to Store Blankets
Blankets not in use during summer months should be thoroughly washed or dry cleaned. Then before putting away sprinkle plentifully with dry yellow soap flakes between the folds. This will keep the moths out.

COOKING HINTS
General Rules for Making Ice Cream
Use 3 times as much ice as salt for freezing. Use 4 times as much ice as salt for packing. In freezing ice cream, turn crank slowly and steadily. In freezing sherbet turn crank fast and steadily. When mix-

USE MORE ICE
Why? Because it is the oldest and best-known method of proper refrigeration. "Doing away with the ice man" is not economy—in the long run. Food "keeps" perfectly, its sweetness and flavor are retained in the ice box. This is proved by the fact that large dealers in food-stuffs have ice refrigeration.

BUY PRINTING IN McLEAN

ADVERTISING MAY BE REFUSED

According to Herman Roe, field director of the National Editorial Association, a newspaper may refuse tendered advertising without fear of being involved in a lawsuit.

The post office department has repeatedly held that a newspaper is not a common carrier and is under no obligation to accept advertising matter, says Mr. Roe. "I have before me a letter as recent as October 27, signed by Horace Donnelly, solicitor of the post office department, in which this statement appears: 'There is no postal law which compels a publisher to accept advertising which he does not endorse or desire to insert in his paper.'"

Hitherto it has been the general understanding that advertising matter could not be refused. This bubble is now punctured.

SHORT-SIGHTED BUSINESS MEN

A few Canyon business men do not believe in doing business in Canyon. They buy everything that they use in their business outside Canyon, thinking they are saving a little money. Suppose all citizens of Canyon followed the example of these business men and buy everything they use out of town. Just how long would it take Canyon to revert to the cow pasture that it was 40 years ago? Think it over.—Canyon News.

Just to prove the necessity of the printer to all lines of industry, the Porter (Okla.) News advances the argument that when a man goes into business the first thing he does is to take space in the newspaper and let it be known he is there; leaving off advertising in later years, often the newspaper man is called upon to record the fact that the man has failed and to come and get bargains; if the business should be put back on its feet, then the newspaper is again called upon to let the world know the fact.

UP TO SNUFF

Him—"You look like a sensible girl. Let's get married."

Her—"Nothing doing. I'm just as sensible as I look."

The Russell (Kan.) Record recalls that it was once the installment plan; then the deferred plan, but now it's called the budget system. But whatever it's called, you have to pay so much a month any way.

The Alma (Kan.) Enterprise wonders what the retail merchant will have for a scare in 1940, since he has survived the department store scare in 1900, mail order houses in 1910, house-to-house selling in 1920, and chain stores in 1930.

Bill—"And now, dad, that I've told you I'm going to marry Ann, there's one more thing I'd like to get off my chest."

Dad—"What's that?"

Bill—"A tattooed heart with Peggy's name on it."

"I'll be frank with you," said the young man when the embrace was over. "You're not the first girl I ever kissed."

"I'll be equally frank with you," she answered. "You've got a lot to learn."

A high brow is one who says: "Please possess your soul in patience." A medium brow is one who says: "Hold your horses." A low brow is one who says: "Keep your shirt on."

The Natoma (Kan.) Independent has noticed that the fellow who is always knocking his home town never owns any of the tall buildings there.
