JESUS AND THE MAN BORN BLIND Golden Text John 8:12 Lesson Text John 9:1-11, 30-38

By Rev. Cecil G. Goff

v 1. In John 8:59 we found that the Jews had determined to stone Jesus to death. He passed out from among them, and went to another part of Jerusalem to do His work. In the south end of Jerusalem He found a blind beggar. The scripture says that He saw him as He passed by. Jesus always sees. He misses nothing. We often think He does, but we are mistaken. The beggar had been born blind and Jesus knew it.

v 2. The disciples evidently believed that all misfortunes came as a direct result of sin. That was not questioned, but who had sinned, the man or his parents?

v 3. Jesus is not saying that either the man or his parents were sinless, nor that sin had nothing to do with the man's pitful plight. We are taught by God's Word that no man is sinless, and that all of man's trials are a result of the sins of the race. However, it was neither the immediate sin of the blind man nor of his parents that had caused the blindness. Had it not been for Adam's sin, however, no man could have been born blind. Thus this instance was made possible by the sin of the race and was there before Jesus that the power of God might be made manifest. The healing of the blindness would bring much glory to God.

v 4. The pronoun "we" as used in the American Standard version is correct. Not only Christ, but those who follow and proclaim His name, must accomplish the work of God while they are able, before the time is past. Jesus had the cross before Him and there was much work to be done before He took it up. He knew and shead—even what the remainder of physical healing, for a greater soul the day will bring forth. v 5. It is impossible for those of us earth—"Lord, I believe." with precious eye-sight to realize the light brought to the poor man born blind, by Jesus. We cannot realize And we faill all the more to realize that the spiriual light brought by the blood of Jesus in cleansing a lost soul through regeneration far surcasses any physical light that might be brought. That spiritual light is so great that some Christians have formed the habit of going around with their eyes half closed for fear that the sight of the spiritual light of facus would force them out and away from their petty sins of card playing, dancing, pool playing, theatre goog. losfing, trashy reading, hatred, envy, malice, Sunday athletics and joy riding. The light of Jesus does not lead His followers into such activities. but rather in seeing and helping those in need as we go our way.

v 6. Jesus spat on the ground and made clay which He placed on the eves of the man. Jesus had His reason for such peculiar action.

y 7. Jesus had the power to heal, but He demanded faith as He always does. The clay would have dried and come off within a very short time. One debater Friday stated that the prohibition amendment is a failure. The youth of the speaker might excuse her for such a statement, but we wonder what she would think if she could move history back about twenty years and live in a saloon town and actually see the conditions that obtained then. One of the arugments advanced by whiskey sympathizers today is that there is more drinking now than ever before, but you don't see it. The debater could certainly have seen the effects of drinking during prohibition days. Teachers should be careful in allowing misinformation to be used by students in public speeches. # "I NEVER READ THE ADVERTISEMENTS"

You know this person. He thinks he is telling the truth. But quiz him and he will recite the make of his motor car, his hat, his shirt, his suit, his shoes, his tooth paste, his towels, ad infinitum . . . with the accent on the "ad." In other words, they are all advertised products.

Why, he could no more escape the presence and the power of the printed word than he could evade eating or sleeping. The advertisements are a definite part of contemporary American life. Their message is vital to daily existence. They have a definite association with the pocketbook, than which there is nothing more intimate and personal.

The important thing is not merely to "read the advertisements," but to read ALL of them. The one advertisement you "didn't see" may contain information you would have given a great deal to possess. Certainly, it is as important to you to know that Smith is having a sale of sheets or shirts, as to read that Congress will hold a special session!

"Friend, Guide and Counselor"—the advertisements in this paper.

Then the music caught them and she was moving away in Brian's arms, for the last time, she thought dreamily, threading through the crowd of unhappy, bored, unexcited couples who made their way joyously about the perfect floor to the rhythm of a perfect orchestra.

Brian's arm held her like steel. She had remembered it so well; she longed for it again! "What have I done?" he asked.

But she withdrew herself ever so slightly.

He stopped abruptly. They were near a palm-lined ante room and he drew her inside with an unexpected determination that controlled her studied defiance.

This was a new Brian. She waited in silence wondering how she could do what she had to do. "Is it necessary to be rude?"
